PREAMBLE

This work unfortunately does not contain the summe and partition of the Holy bible or the arguments of each book and chapter, or the apologetic annotations included in the original three-volume edition, as it will be added into another volume as to not burden the reader. This work was converted into an accurate text format by someone only known as 'O Letter Printer'.

PREFACE

To the well-beloved English reader: Grace and glory in Jesus Christ everlasting. At last through God's goodness (most dearly beloved) we lend you here the greater part of the Old Testament, as long since you received the New, faithfully translated into English. The residue is in hand to be finished: and your desire thereof shall not now, God prospering our intention, be frustrated. As for the impediments which hitherto have hindered this work, they all proceeded (as many do know) of one general cause, that was, the banishment of our poor estate. Wherein expecting better means, greater difficulties rather ensued. Nevertheless you will hereby the more perceive our fervent good will ever to serve you, in that we have brought forth this tome in the hardest times, of above forty years, since this College most happily begun. Wherefore we do not doubt that you our dearest, for whom we have dedicated our lives, will both pardon the long delay, which we could not prevent, and accept now this fruit of our labors, with like good affection, as we acknowledge them due, and offer the same unto you. If it is asked why is it now allowed to have the Holy Scriptures in vulgar tongues, which generally is not permitted outside the three sacred tongues (Hebrew, Greek, and Latin), for further declaration of this and other like points we remit you to the Preface before the New Testament, for only here, as by an epitome, we shall repeat the summary of all that is there more largely discussed.

To this first question therefore we answer that both just reason and the highest authority of the Church judge it not absolutely necessary nor always convenient that holy Scriptures should be in vulgar tongues. For being as they are hard to be understood, even by the learned, reason dictates to reasonable men that they [the Scriptures] were not written nor ordained to be read indifferently of all men. Experience also teaches that through ignorance, joined often with pride and presumption, many reading Scriptures have erred grossly by misunderstanding God's word. Which though most pure in itself, the same being adulterated is as perilous (says Tertul.) as the style corrupted. Saint Ambrose observes that where the text is true, the Arian's interpretation has errors. Augustine also teaches that heresies and perverse doctrines that entangle souls, throwing them down headlong into the depth, do not otherwise spring up but when good (or true) Scriptures are not well (and truly) understood, and ,when that which in them are not well understood is also rashly and boldly avoided. For the same cause Saint Jerome utterly disallowed that all sorts of men and women old and young, presumed to read and talk of the Scriptures: whereas no artisan or tradesman dare presume to teach any faculty which he had not first learned. Seeing therefore that dangers and hurts happen in many, the careful chief pastors of God's Church have always moderated the reading of Holy Scriptures according to persons and times and other circumstances; prohibiting some and permitting some to have and read them in their mother tongue. So Saint Chrysostom translated the Psalms and some other parts of Holy Scriptures for the Armenians, when he was banished. The Slavonians (Croats) and Goths say they have the Bible in their languages. It was translated into Italian by the Archbishop of Genoa and into French in the time of King Charles The Fifth, especially because the Waldensian heretics had corruptly translated it to maintain their errors. We had some parts in English translated by Venerable Bede, as Malmesbury witnesses, and Thomas Arundel, the Archbishop of Canterbury, in a council held at Oxford, strictly ordained that no heretical translation set forth by Wycliffe and his accomplices nor any other vulgar edition should be suffered until it were approved by the Ordinary of the Diocese, alleging Saint Jerome's judgment of the difficulty and danger in translating holy Scriptures out of one tongue into another. And therefore it is much more dangerous when ignorant people also read corrupted translations. Now since Luther and his followers have pretended that the Roman Catholic faith and doctrine is contrary to God's written word and that the Scriptures were not suffered in vulgar tongues lest the people should see the truth, and with all their new Masters corruptly turning the Scriptures into diverse tongues to best serve their own opinions; against this false suggestion and practice Catholic pastors have, as one special remedy, set forth true and sincere Translations in most languages of the Latin Church; provided that the people read them with the

Such also of the laity, and of the meaner learned clergy, although permitted to read holy Scriptures, they did not presume to interpret hard places, nor high Mysteries, much less to dispute and contend, but leaving the discussion thereof to the more learned, searched rather and noted the godly and inimitable examples of good life, and so learned more humility, obedience, hatred of sin, fear of God, zeal of Religion, and other virtues. And thus holy Scriptures may be rightly used in any tongue, to teach, to argue, to correct, to instruct in justice, and (as Saint Paul added) instruct in every good work, when man labors rather to be doers of God's will and word rather than as readers or hearers only, deceiving themselves. But here another question may be proposed: Why do we translate the Latin text, rather than the Hebrew or Greek; which Protestants prefer, as the fountain tongues, wherein holy Scriptures were first written? To this we answer that if indeed those first pure Editions were now extant, or if such as to be extant were purer then the Latin, we would also prefer such fountains before the rivers in whatsoever they should be found to disagree. But the ancient best learned Fathers and Doctors of the Church do complain and testify to us that both the Hebrew and Greek Editions are foully corrupted by Jews, and Heretics, since the Latin was truly translated out of them, while they were more pure, and that the same Latin has been far better conserved from corruptions. So that the old Vulgate Latin Edition hath been preferred and used as most authentic above a thousand and three hundred years. For by this very term Saint Jerome calls that Version the vulgate of common, which he conferred with the Hebrew of the old Testament and with the Greek of the New; which he also purged from faults committed by writers, amending rather than translating it: though in regard of this amending Saint Gregory calls it the new version of Saint Jerome; who nevertheless in another place calls the selfsame, the old Latin Edition, judging it most worthy to be followed. Saint Augustine calls it the Italian while Saint Isidore witnesses that Saint Jerome's version was received and approved by all Christian Churches. Sophronius, also a most learned man, seeing Saint Jerome's Edition so much esteemed not only by the Latins, but also of the Greeks, returned the Psalter and Prophets out of the same Latin into Greek. Of latter times what shall we need to recite other most learned men, Saint Bede, Saint Anselm, Saint Bernard, Saint Thomas, Saint Bonaventure, and the rest, who all uniformly allege this text as authentic? In so much that all other Latin Editions, which Saint Jerome says were in his time almost innumerable, as it fell out of the Divine's hands, and outgrew credit and use. If moreover we consider Saint Jerome's learning, piety, diligence, and sincerity, together with the commodities he had of best copies in all languages that were then extant, and of other learned men with whom he conferred, if we so compare the same with the best means that has been since, finely no man of indifferent judgment will match any other Edition with Saint Jerome's: but would rather easily acknowledge with the whole Church God's particular providence in this great Doctor, for expounding most especially the true text and Edition of Holy Scriptures.

Neither do we fly unto this old Latin text for more advantage: For, besides that it is free from partiality, as being most ancient of all Latin copies, and long before the particular controversies of these days began, the Hebrew also and the Greek (when they are truly translated), and Erasmus's Latin, in many places prove more plainly the Roman Catholic doctrine than this which we rely upon. T. Beza and his followers also take exception against the Greek text when Catholics use it against them. Yes, the same Beza prefers the old Latin Version before all others, and freely testifies that the old Interpreter translated religiously. What then do our countrymen do, that refuse this Latin and deprive themselves of the best and yet all this while, have set forth none that is accepted by all Protestants as good or sufficient? How well this is done the learned may judge, when by mature conference they shall have made trial thereof. And if anything be mistaken, we will (as we still promise) gladly correct it. Those that translated it about thirty years since were well known to the world to have been excellent in the tongues, sincere men, and great Divines. Only one thing we have done concerning the text, whereof we are especially to give notice: That whereas heretofore in the best Latin Editions there remained many places differing in words, some also in sense, for in the -long process of time the writers erred in their copies: now; lately, by the care and diligence of the Church, those diverse readings were maturely and judiciously examined and conferred with several of the best written and printed books and so resolved upon that all which before were left in the margin are either restored into the text or else omitted, so that now nothing remains in the margin. For which cause we have again conferred this English translation and conformed it to the perfect Latin Edition, where, by the way, we must let the vulgar reader understand, that very few or none of the former varieties touched Controversies of this time, so this recognition is no way suspicious of partiality, but is merely done for the secure conservation of the true text and more ease and satisfaction of such, as otherwise should have remained doubtful. Now for the strictness observed in translating some words, or rather the refusal to translate some, which is in more danger of being disliked, we do not doubt that the discretion of the learned reader deeply weighing and considering the importance of sacred words: and how easily the translator may miss the sense of the Holy Ghost; will hold that what is done here is reasonable and necessary. We have also the example of the Latin and Greek, where some words are not translated, but are left in Hebrew, as they were first spoken and written, for some felt that they could not be, or were not convenient to be, translated into Latin or Greek: how much less could they turn them into English? Saint Augustine yields a reason, exemplifying in the Words amen and alleluia for the more sacred authority thereof, which without doubt is the reason why some names of solemn feasts, sacrifices, and other holy things are referred to in the sacred tongues: Hebrew, Greek, or Latin. Again for necessity, if there is no name or sufficient term in English, we will either keep the word as we find it or add it to the English terminology, because it would otherwise require many words in English to signify one word of another tongue. In which cases, we commonly put the explication in the margin.

Briefly, our Apology is easy against English Protestants because they also reserve some words in the original tongues not translated into English, such as Sabbath, ephod, Pentecost, proselyte, and some others. The sense whereof is gained as soon as it is learned, as if they were turned so near, as is possible, to English. And why then may we not say prepuce, Phase or Pasch, Azimes, Breads of Proposition, Holocaust, and the like, rather than as Protestants translate them: foreskin, Passover, The feast of sweet breads, Burnt offering, et cetera? These terms, whether they are truly translated into English or not, we will pass over. Surely it is inconvenient that an English man is still to seek what they mean, as if they remained in Hebrew or Greek. It is more important that nothing is wittingly and falsely translated for the advantage of doctrine in matters of faith. Wherein as we dare boldly announce the sincerity of this Translation, and that nothing here is either untruly or obscurely done of purpose in favor of the Roman Catholic Religion, so we cannot but complain and challenge English Protestants for corrupting the text, contrary to the Hebrew and Greek which they profess to translate, in order to show and maintain their peculiar opinions against Catholics; as is proved in the Discourse of manifold corruptions. For example we shall put the reader in memory of one or two examples: Gen. 4:7. whereas (God speaking to Cain) the Hebrew words in grammatical construction may be translated either thus: Unto thee also pertaineth the lust thereof, and thou shalt have dominion over it; or thus: Also unto thee his desire shall be subject, and thou shalt rule over him; though the coherence of the text requires the former, and in the Bibles printed 1552. and 1577, Protestants did so translate it: yet in the year 1579 and 1603 they translate it the other way, rather saying, that Abel was subject to Cain, and that Cain by God's ordinance had dominion over his brother Abel, then that concupiscence or lust of sin is subject to man's will, or that man hath power of free will to resist (by God's grace) temptation of sin. But as we hear, in a new Edition (which we have not yet seen) they translate it almost as in the first. In like sort Gen. 14:18, the Hebrew particle ה (vav), which Saint Jerome and all Antiquity translate enim (for), Protestants will by no means admit it, because (besides other arguments) we prove thereby Melchizedek's Sacrifice. And yet they themselves translate the same, as Saint Jerome does, Gen. 20:3. Saying: For she is a man's wife, etc. Again, in Gen. 31:19, the English Bibles of 1552 and 1577 translate theraphim as images, which the Edition of 1603, corrects the translation as Idols, and the marginal Annotation well proves that it ought to be so translated.

With this then we will conclude most dear: (we speak to you all that understand our tongue, whether you be of contrary opinions in faith, or of mundane fear participate with another congregation, or profess with us the same Catholic Religion) to you all we present this work: daily beseeching God Almighty, the Divine Wisdom & Eternal Goodness, to create, illuminate, and replenish your spirits, with his Grace, that you may attain eternal Glory, everyone in his measure, in those many mansions prepared and promised by our Savior in his Father's house, not only to those which first received and followed his Divine doctrine, but to all that should afterwards believe in Him and keep the same precepts. For there is one God, and also one Mediator of God and Man, Christ Jesus, who gave himself a Redemption for all: whereby appears his will; that all should be saved.

Why then are not all saved? The Apostle adds that they must first come to the knowledge of the truth, because without faith it is impossible to please God. The groundwork therefore of our creation in Christ is by true faith which Saint Paul labored most seriously by word and writing to establish in the hearts of all men. In this he confirmed the Romans by his Epistle, commanding their faith, as already received and renowned in the whole world. He preached the same faith to many Nations amongst others to the learned Athenians. Where it seemed to some as absurd, strange, insomuch that they scornfully called him a word-sower and preacher of new gods: But Saint Augustine allows the term for good which was reproachfully spoken of the ignorant. And so distinguishing between Reapers and Sowers in God's Church he teaches that whereas the other Apostles reaped in the Jews that which their Patriarchs and Prophets had sown; Saint Paul sowed the seed of Christian Religion in the Gentiles. And so, in respect of the Israelites to whom they were first sent, he calls the other Apostles Measurers and Reapers, and Saint Paul, being specially sent to the Gentiles, seminatorem, a sower or seminary apostle: which two sorts of God's workmen are still in the Church, with distinct offices of Pastors (cures) and Apostolic missionaries, one for the perpetual government of Catholic countries and the other for the conversion of such, as the countries have either not received Christian religion or have relapsed. As at this time in our country, for the diverse sorts of pretended religions, these diverse Spiritual works are necessary to teach and feed all British people, because some in error of opinions preach another Gospel, whereas in verity there is no other Gospel and they preach indeed new doctrines, which cannot save. Others follow them, believing falsehood, but when the blind lead the blind, not only one, but both fall into the ditch. Others conform themselves in external shows, fearing them that can punish and kill the body. But our Lord will bring such who decline into (unjust) obligations with them that work iniquity. The relics and small flocks of Catholics in our country have great sadness and sorrow of heart, not so much for our own affliction, for that is comfortable, but for you our brethren and kinsmen in flesh and blood; wishing with our own temporal damage whatsoever, your salvation. Now is the acceptable time: now are the days of salvation; the time of Grace by Christ, whose days many Kings and Prophets desired to see: they saw them in spirit and rejoiced. But we are made partakers of Christ and his Mysteries so that we ourselves do not neglect his heavenly riches, for if we receive and keep the beginning of his substance, firm unto the end; that is, the true Catholic faith; we build thereon good works by his graces without which we cannot think a good thought and by which we can do all things necessary to salvation. But if we do not hold steadfast this ground, all the building fails. Or if confessing to know God in words, we deny him in deeds, committing works of darkness, or omitting works of mercy when we may do them to our distressed neighbors; briefly, if we have not charity, the form and perfection of all virtues, all is lost and worth nothing. But if we build upon firm ground, gold, silver, and precious stones, such building shall abide and make our vocation sure by good works, as Saint Peter says. These, says Saint Paul, are the heirs of God and co-heirs of Christ. Neither is the number of Christ's blessed children counted like the Jews, twelve thousand signed among a hundred forty four thousand of every tribe of Israel, but a most great multitude of Catholic Christians which no man can number, of all nations, tribes, peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne of the lamb, clothed in white robes and palms of triumph in their hands: having overcome temptations in the virtuous race of good life. Much more those which also endure persecution for the truth's sake shall receive most copious great rewards in heaven. For albeit the passions of this time (in themselves) are not condign to the glory to come, that shall be revealed in us: yet, our tribulation, which presently is momentary and light, works through grace above to measure an exceedingly eternal weight of glory. What shall we therefore meditate about the special prerogative of English Catholics at this time? For to you it is given for Christ, not only that you believe in him, but also that you suffer for Him. Know, if you must be made pensive in diverse temptations, that the probation of your faith, much more precious than gold, which is proved by the fire, may be found unto praise, and glory, and honor, in the revelation of Jesus Christ.

Many of you have sustained the spoil of your goods with joy, knowing that you have a better and a permanent substance. Others have been deprived of your children, fathers, mothers, brothers, lifters, and nearest friends, in ready resolution also, some with sentences of death, to lose your own lives. Others have had trials of reproach, mockeries, and strife, others, of bonds, prisons, and banishments. The innumerable renowned late English Martyrs, and Confessors, whose souls are happy for confessing true faith before men, are now most glorious in Heaven; we pass here with silence, because their due praise, requiring longer discourse, of rather Angelic than English tongues, far surpasses the reach of our conceits. And so we leave it to your devout meditation. They now secure for themselves, and solicit for us, their dearest clients, incessantly, (we are well assured) intercession before Christ's Divine Majesty for our happy consummation and the conversion of our whole country. To you therefore (dearest friends mortal) we direct this speech: admonishing ourselves and you in the Apostles words, that for so much as we have not yet resisted temptations to the last blood and death itself, patience is still necessary for us, that doing the will of God, we may receive the promise: So we repine not in tribulation, but ever love them that hate us, pitying their case, and rejoicing in our own. For neither can we see during this life how much good they do us, nor know how many of them shall be (as we heartily desire they all may be) saved: our Lord and Savior having paid the same price by his death for them and for us. Love all therefore, pray for all. Do not lose your confidence, which has a great remuneration. For yet a little, and a very little while, he that is to come, will come, and he will not slack. Now the just live by faith, believing with heart to justice, and confessing with mouth to salvation, but he that withdraws himself shall not please Christ's soul. Attend to your salvation, dearest countrymen. You that are far off, draw near, put on Christ. And you that are within Christ's fold, keep your standing, and persevere in him to the end. May His grace dwell and remain in you, that glorious crowns may be given unto you. Amen. From the English College in Douay, the Octaves of all Saints. 1609.

THE BOOK OF GENESIS

God created heaven and earth, and all things therein; distinguishing and beautifying the same. Last of all, the sixth day he createth man; to whom he subjecteth all corporal things of this inferiour world.

{1} IN the beginning God created heaven and earth. {2} And the earth was void and vacant, and darkness was upon the face of the depth: and the Spirit of God moved over the waters. {3} And God said: Be light made. And light was made. {4} And God saw the light that it was good: and he divided the light from the darkness. {5} And he called the light, Day, and the darkness, Night: and there was evening & morning, that made one day. {6} God also said: Be a firmament made amidst the waters: and let it divide between waters and waters. {7} And God made a firmament, and divided the waters that were under the firmament, from those that were above the firmament. And it was so done. {8} And God called the firmament, Heaven: and there was evening & morning, that made the second day. {9} God also said: let the waters that are under heaven be gathered together into one place: and let the dry land appear. And it was so done. {10} And God called the dry land, Earth, and the gathering of waters together, he called Seas. And God saw that it was good. {11} And said: Let the earth shoot forth green herbs, and such as may seed, & fruit-trees yielding fruit after his kind, such as may have seed in itself upon the earth. And it was so done. {12} And the earth brought forth green herb, such as seedeth according to his kind, and tree that beareth fruit, having seed each one according to his kind. And God saw that it was good. {13} And there was evening and morning, that made the third day. {14} Again God said: Be there lights made in the firmament of heaven, to divide the day and the night, and let them be for signs & seasons, and days and years; {15} to shine in the firmament of heaven, and to give light upon the earth. And it was so done. {16} And God made two great lights; a greater light to govern the day, and a lesser light to govern the night; and stars. {17} And he set them in the firmament of heaven, to shine upon the earth, {18} and to govern the day & the night, and to divide the light and the darkness. And God saw that it was good. {19} And there was evening and morning, that made the fourth day. {20} God also said: Let the waters bring forth creeping creature having life, and flying fowl, over the earth under the firmament of heaven. {21} And God created huge whales, and all living and moving creature, that the waters brought forth according to each sort, and all fowl according to their kind. And God saw that it was good. {22} And he blessed them saying: Increase and multiply, and replenish the waters of the sea: and let the birds be multiplied upon the earth. {23} And there was evening and morning, that made the fifth day. {24} God said moreover: Let the earth bring forth living creature in his kind, cattle, and such as creep, and beasts of the earth according to their kinds: and it was so done. {25} And God made the beasts of the earth according to their kinds, and cattle, and all that creepeth on the earth in his kind. And God saw that it was good, {26} and he Said Let us make Man to our image & likeness: and let him have dominion over the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the air, and the beasts, and the whole earth, and all creeping creature that moveth upon the earth. {27} And God created man to his own image: to the image of God he created him, male and female he created them. {28} And God blessed them, and saith: Increase and multitude, and replenish the earth, and subdue it, and rule over the fishes and the sea, and fowls of the air & all living creatures that move upon the earth. {29} And God said: Behold I have given you all manner of herb that seedeth upon the earth, and all trees that have in themselves seed of their own kind, to be your meat: {30} and to all beasts of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to all that move upon the earth, and wherein there is life, that they may have to feed upon. And it was so done. {31} And God saw all things that he had made, and they were very good. And there was evening and morning, that made the sixth day.

The work of six days being finished, God rested the seventh day, & blessed it. 8. Then placing man in Paradise (planted with beautiful & sweet trees, & watered with four rivers) 16. commandeth him not to eat of the tree of knowledge of good & evil. 18. And formed a woman of a rib of Adam.

{1} THE heavens therefore & the earth were fully finished, and all the furniture of them. {2} And the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and rested the seventh day, from all work that he had done. {3} And he blessed the seventh day & sanctified it: because in it he had ceased from all his work which God created to make. {4} These are the generations of heaven & earth, when they were created in the day, when our Lord God made the heaven, and the earth, {5} and every plant of the field, before it shot up in the earth, and every herb of the ground before it sprang. For our Lord God had not rained upon the earth; and man was not, to till the earth: {6} But a spring rose out of the earth, watering all the overmost part of the earth. {7} Our Lord God therefore formed man of the slime of the earth: and breathed into his face the breath of life, & man became a living soul. {8} And our Lord God had planted Paradise of pleasure from the beginning: wherein he placed man whom he had formed. {9} And our Lord God brought forth of the ground all manner of trees, fair to behold, and pleasant to eat of: the tree of life also in the middle of Paradise: and the tree of knowledge of good and evil. {10} And a river issued out of the place of pleasure to water Paradise, which from thence is divided into four heads. {11} The name of one is Phison: that is it which compasseth all the land of Hevilath, where gold groweth. {12} And the gold of that land is very good: there is found bdellium, and the stone onyx. {13} And the name of the second river is Gehon: that is it which compasseth all the land of Ethiopia. {14} And the name of the third river is Tygris: that same passeth along by the Assyrians. And the fourth river, the same is Euphrates. {15} Our Lord God therefore took man, & put him in the Paradise of pleasure, to work, & keep it. {16} And he commanded him saying: Of every tree of Paradise eat thou: {17} But of the tree of knowledge of good & evil eat thou not. For in what day soever thou shalt eat of it, thou shalt die the death. {18} Our Lord God also said: It is not good for man to be alone: let us make him a help like unto himself. {19} Our Lord God therefore having formed of clay all beasts of the earth, and fowls of the air; brought them to Adam, that he might see what to call them: for all that Adam called any living creature, the same is his name. {20} And Adam called all beasts by their names, and all fowls of the air, and all cattle of the field: but unto Adam there was not found an helper like himself. {21} Our Lord God therefore cast a deep sleep upon Adam: and when he was fast asleep, he took one of his ribs, & filled up flesh for it. {22} And our Lord God built the rib which he took of Adam into a woman, & brought her to Adam. {23} And Adam said: This now is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man. {24} Wherefore man shall leave his father & mother, & shall cleave to his wife, & they shall be two in one flesh. {25} And they were both naked, to wit Adam and his wife; and were not ashamed.

By the craft of the Devil speaking in a serpent, our first parents transgressed God's commandment. 7. Who being ashamed would hide themselves: 9. but are reproved by God. 14. And besides other particular punishments (yet with promise of a Redeemer) are cast out of Paradise.

{1} BUT the serpent also was more subtile than all the beasts of the earth, which our Lord God had made. Which said to the woman: Why hath God commanded you, that you should not eat of every tree of Paradise? {2} To whom the woman answered: Of the fruit of the trees that are in Paradise we do eat: {3} but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of Paradise, God hath commanded us that we should not eat: and that we should not touch it, lest perhaps we die. {4} And the serpent said to the woman: No, you shall not die the death. {5} For God doth know that in what day soever you shall eat thereof, your eyes shall be opened: and you shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. {6} The woman therefore saw that the tree was good to eat, and fair to the eyes, and delectable to behold: and she took of the fruit thereof, & did eat, & gave to her husband, who did eat. {7} And the eyes of them both were opened: and when they perceived themselves to be naked, they sowed together leaves of a fig tree, and made themselves aprons. {8} And hearing the voice of our Lord God walking in Paradise at the afternoon air, Adam hid himself, and so did his wife from the face of our Lord God, amidst the trees of Paradise. {9} And our Lord God called Adam, and said to him: Where art thou? {10} Who said: I heard thy voice in Paradise: and I feared, because I was naked, and I hid me. {11} To whom he said: And who hath told thee that thou wast naked, but that thou hast eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat? {12} And Adam said: The woman which thou gavest me to be my fellow-companion, gave me of the tree, & I did eat. {13} And our Lord God said to the woman: Why hast thou done this? Who answered: The serpent deceived me, and I did eat. {14} And our Lord God said to the serpent: Because thou hast done this thing, accursed art thou among all cattle, and beasts of the earth: upon thy breast shalt thou go, & earth shalt thou eat all the days of thy life. {15} I will put enmity between thee & the woman, & thy seed and the seed of her: she shall bruise thy head in pieces, and thou shalt lie in wait of her heel. {16} To the woman also he said: I will multiply thy travails and thy child-bearings: in travail shalt thou bring forth children, and thou shalt be under thy husband's power, and he shall have dominion over thee. {17} And to Adam he said: Because thou hast heard the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree wherefore I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat, cursed is the earth in thy work: with much toiling shalt thou eat thereof all the days of thy life. {18} Thorns and thistles shall it bring forth to thee, and thou shalt eat the herbs of the earth. {19} In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return to earth, of which thou wast taken: because dust thou art, and into dust thou shalt return. {20} And Adam called the name of his wife, Eve: for because she was mother of all the living. {21} Our Lord God also made for Adam and his wife garments of skins, and clothed them: {22} And said: Lo Adam is become as it were one of us, knowing good & evil: now therefore lest perhaps he reach forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever. {23} And our Lord God sent him out of the Paradise of pleasure, to work the earth of which he was taken. {24} And he cast out Adam, and placed before the Paradise of pleasure Cherubins, and a flaming and a turning sword, for to keep the way of the tree of life.

Wicked Cain killeth holy Abel: 9. whose blood crieth for revenge. 11. Cain a cursed vagabond, 17. hath much issue. 25. Adam also hath Seth, and Seth Enos.

{1} AND Adam knew Eve his wife, who conceived and brought forth Cain, saying: I have gotten a man through God. {2} And again she brought forth his brother Abel. And Abel was a shepherd, & Cain a husbandman. {3} And it befell after many days that Cain offered of the fruits of the earth gifts to our Lord. {4} Abel also offered of the first-begotten of his flock, and of their fat: and our Lord had respect of Abel, & to his gifts. {5} But to Cain, and to his gifts he had not respect: And Cain was exceeding angry, and his countenance abated. {6} And our Lord said to him: Why art thou angry? and why is thy countenance fallen? {7} If thou do well, shall thou not receive again: but if thou dost ill, shall not thy sin forthwith be present at the door? But the lust thereof shall be under thee, and thou shalt have dominion over it. {8} And Cain said to Abel his brother: Let us go forth abroad. And when they were in the field, Cain rose up against his brother Abel, and slew him. {9} And our Lord said to Cain: Where is Abel thy brother? Who answered: I know not, am I my brother's keeper? {10} And he said to him: what hast thou done? The voice of thy brother's blood crieth to me out of the earth. {11} Now therefore cursed shalt thou be upon the earth, which hath opened her mouth, & received the blood of thy brother at thy hand. {12} When thou shalt till it, it shall not yield to thee her fruit: a rogue and vagabond shalt thou be upon the earth. {13} And Cain said to our Lord: Mine iniquity is greater than that I may deserve pardon. {14} Lo thou dost cast me out this day from the face of the earth, and from thy face shall I be hid, and I shall be a vagabond and fugitive on the earth: every one therefore that findeth me shall kill me. {15} And our Lord said to him: No, it shall not so be: but whosoever shall kill Cain, shall be punished seven-fold. And our Lord put a mark on Cain, that whosoever found him should not kill him. {16} And Cain went forth from the face of our Lord, and dwelt as a fugitive on the earth at the east side of Eden. {17} And Cain knew his wife, who conceived and brought forth Enoch: And he built a city, and called the name thereof by the name of his son, Enoch. {18} Moreover Enoch begat Irad, and Irad begat Mavael, and Mavael begat Mathusael, and Mathusael begat Lamech. {19} Who took two wives, the name of the one was Ada, and the name of the other Sella. {20} And Ada brought forth Jabel, who was the father of them that dwell in tents, and of herdsmen. {21} And his brother's name was Jubal: he was the father of them that sing on harp & organs. {22} Sella also brought forth Tubalcain, who was a hammerer and worker in all work of brass and iron. And the sister of Tubalcain was Noema. {23} And Lamech said to his wives Ada and Sella: Hear my voice ye wives of Lamech, harken to my talk: for I have slain a man to the wounding of my self, and a stripling to mine own dry blow bruising. {24} Seven-fold vengeance shall be taken of Cain: but of Lamech seventy times seven-fold. {25} Adam also knew his wife again: and she brought forth a son, & called his name Seth, saying: God hath given me other seed for Abel, whom Cain slew. {26} But to Seth also was born a son, whom he called Enos, this man began to invocate the name of our Lord.

The progeny of Adam, & number of their years (with the death of the rest, & translation of Enoch in the line of Seth, to Noe and his three sons.

{1} THIS is the book of the generation of Adam. In the day, when God created man, to the likeness of God made he him. {2} Male and female created he them; and blessed them: and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created. {3} And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years; & begat to his own image and likeness, and called his name Seth. {4} And the days of Adam, after he begat Seth, came to eight hundred years: and he begat sons and daughters. {5} And all the time that Adam lived, came to nine hundred & thirty years, and he died. {6} Set also lived an hundred five years, and begat Enos. {7} And Seth lived after he begat Enos, eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters. {8} And all the days of Seth came to nine hundred & twelve years, and he died. {9} And Enos lived ninety years, and begat Cainan. {10} After whose birth he lived eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters. {11} And all the days of Enos came to nine hundred and five years, and he died. {12} Cainan also lived seventy years, & begat Malaleel. {13} And Cainan lived after he begat Malaleel, eight hundred & forty years, and begat sons and daughters. {14} And all the days of Cainan came to nine hundred and ten years, and he died. {15} And Malaleel lived sixty five years and begat Jared. {16} And Malaleel lived after he begat Jared, eight hundred & thirty years, and begat sons and daughters. {17} And all the days of Malaleel came to eight hundred ninety five years, an he died. {18} And Jared lived an hundred sixty two years, and begat Enoch. {19} And Jared lived after he begat Enoch eight hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. {20} And all the days of Jared came to nine hundred sixty two years, and he died. {21} Moreover Enoch lived sixty five years, and begat Mathusala. {22} And Enoch walked with God: and lived after he begat Mathusala, three hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. {23} And all the days of Enoch came to three hundred sixty five years. {24} And he walked with God, and was seen no more: because God took him. {25} Mathusala also lived an hundred eighty seven years, and begat Lamech. {26} And Mathusala lived, after he begat Lamech, seven hundred eighty two years, and begat sons and daughters. {27} And all the days of Mathusala came to nine hundred sixty nine years, and he died. {28} And Lamech lived an hundred eighty two years, & begat a son: {29} and he called his name Noe, saying: This son shall comfort us from the works & labours of our hands on the earth, which our Lord cursed. {30} And Lamech lived, after he begat Noe, five hundred ninety five years, and begat sons and daughters. {31} And all the days of Lamech came to seven hundred seventy seven years, and he died. And Noe when he was five hundred years old, begat Sem, Cham, and Japheth.

Man's sins cause of the deluge. 4. Giants were then upon the earth. 8. Noe being just was commanded to build the Ark, 18. wherein he with seven persons more, and the seed of other living things were saved.

{1} AND after that men began to be multiplied upon the earth, and had procreation of daughters, {2} the sons of God seeing the daughters of men that they were fair, took to themselves wives out of all which they had chosen. {3} And God said: My spirit shall not remain in man for ever, because he is flesh: and his days shall be an hundred and twenty years. {4} And Giants were upon the earth in those days. For after the sons of God did company with the daughters of men, & they brought forth children, these be the mighty of the old world, famous men. {5} And God seeing the malice of men was much on the earth, & that all the cogitation of their heart was bent to evil at all times, {6} it repented him that he had made man on the earth. And touched inwardly with sorrow of heart, {7} I will, saith he, clean take away man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth, from man even to beasts, from that which creepeth even unto the fowls of the air. For it repenteth me that I have made them. {8} But Noe found grace before our Lord. {9} These are the generations of Noe: Noe was a just and perfect man in his generations, he did walk with God. {10} And he begat three sons, Sem, Cham, and Japheth. {11} And the earth was corrupted before God, & was replenished with iniquity. {12} And when God had perceived that the earth was corrupted (for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth) {13} He said to Noe: The end of all flesh is come before me, the earth is replenished with iniquity from the face of them, and I will destroy them with the earth. {14} Make thee an ark of timber plank: cabinets shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with bitume. {15} And thus shalt thou make it. The length of the Ark shall be three hundred cubits: fifty cubits the breadth, and thirty cubits the height of it. {16} Thou shalt make a window in the ark, & in a cubit finish the top of it: & the door of the ark thou shalt set at the side below, middle chambers & third lofts shalt thou make in it. {17} Behold I will bring the waters of a great flood upon the earth, that I may destroy all flesh wherein there is breath of life under heaven. All things that are in the earth shall be consumed. {18} And I will establish my covenant with thee: and thou shalt enter into the ark, thou and thy sons, and thy wife, and the wives of thy sons with thee. {19} And of all living creatures of all flesh, thou shalt bring pairs into the ark, that they may live with thee: of the male sex and the female. {20} Of fowls according to their kind, and beasts in their kind, and of all that creepeth on the earth, according to their kind: pairs of all sorts shall enter in with thee, that they may live. {21} Thou shalt take therefore with thee of all meats, that may be eaten, and thou shalt lay them up with thee: & they shall be meat for thee and them. {22} Noe therefore did all things which God commanded him.

Noe with his family, and pairs of all kinds of beasts and fowls, being entered into the ark, 12. it raineth forty nights. 21. All men and other living creatures on the earth, without the ark, are destroyed.

{1} AND our Lord said to him: Get thee in, thou and all thy house into the ark; for I have seen thee just in my sight in this generation. {2} Of all beasts that are clean, thou shalt take seven and seven, male and female: {3} but of the beasts that are unclean two and two, male and female. Yea and of the fowls also of the air seven and seven, male and female: that seed may be saved upon the face of the whole earth. {4} For yet a while, and after seven days I will rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights: and I will clean destroy all substance that I have made, from the face of the earth. {5} Noe therefore did all things which our Lord had commanded him. {6} And he was six hundred years old, when the waters of the flood flowed over the earth. {7} And Noe entered and his sons, his wife and the wives of his sons with him into the ark, because of the waters of the flood. {8} Of beasts also the clean and the unclean, and of fowls, and of all that moveth upon the earth. {9} two and two went to Noe into the ark, male and female, as our Lord had commanded Noe. {10} And after the seven days were passed, the waters of the flood flowed over the earth. {11} In the six hundred year of the life of Noe, in the second month, in the seventeenth day of the month, all the fountains of the great depth were broken up, and the flood-gates of heaven were opened: {12} and the rain fell upon the earth forty days and forty nights. {13} In the very point of that day entered Noe, and Sem, and Cham, and Japheth his sons; and his wife, and the three wives of his sons with them into the ark. {14} they and every beast according to their kind, and all cattle in their kind, and all that moveth upon the earth according to their kind, and all fowl according to their kind, all birds, and all that fly. {15} went to Noe into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein there was breath of life. {16} And such as entered in, male and female of all flesh did enter in, as God had commanded him: and our Lord shut him in on the out side. {17} And the flood grew forty days upon the earth: and the waters increased, and lifted up the ark on high from the earth. {18} For they overflowed exceedingly; and filled all on the face of the earth: moreover the ark floated upon the waters. {19} And the waters prevailed out of measure upon the earth; and all the high mountains under the whole heaven were covered. {20} Fifteen cubits higher was the water above the mountains, which it covered. {21} And all flesh was consumed that moved upon the earth, of fowl, of cattle, of beasts, and of all creepers, that creep upon the earth: all men, {22} and all things, wherein there is breath of life on the earth, died. {23} And he clean destroyed all substance that was upon the earth, from man even to beast, as well it that creepeth, as the fowls of the air: and they were destroyed from off the earth: but only Noe remained, and they that were with him in the ark. {24} And the waters held on above the earth an hundred fifty days.

The waters diminishing by little & little, 5. Noe sendeth forth a crow, 8. after him a dove, thrice: 18. lastly goeth forth with all that were with him in the ark, 20. erecteth an Altar, and offereth Sacrifice.

{1} AND God remembered Noe, and all the beasts, and all the cattle which were with him in the ark, and brought a wind upon the earth, and the waters decreased. {2} And the fountains of the depth and the flood-gates of heaven were shut up: and the rain from heaven was stayed. {3} And the waters returned from the earth going & coming: and they began to decrease after an hundred fifty days. {4} And the ark rested the seventh month, the seven and twentieth day of the month, upon the mountains of Armenia. {5} But the waters for all that, were going and decreasing until the tenth month: for in the tenth month, the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains appeared. {6} And after that forty days were passed, Noe opening the window of the ark, which he had made, let forth a crow: {7} which went forth, and did not return, till the waters were dried upon the earth. {8} He sent forth also a dove after him, to see if the waters were ceased yet upon the face of the earth. {9} Which finding not where her foot might rest, returned to him into the ark: for the waters were upon the whole earth: and he stretched forth his hand and caught her, and brought her into the ark. {10} And having expected yet seven more days again he let forth a dove out of the ark. {11} But she came to him at eventide, carrying a bough of an olive tree that had green leaves, in her mouth. Noe therefore understood that the waters were ceased upon the earth. {12} And he expected yet nevertheless other seven days: and he sent forth a dove, which returned not any more unto him. {13} Therefore in the sixth hundred and one year, the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were clean diminished upon the earth: & Noe opening the roof of the ark, looked, and saw that the face of the earth was dried. {14} In the second month, the seven and twentieth day of the month the earth was dried. {15} And God spake to Noe, saying: {16} Go forth of the ark, thou and thy wife, thy sons and the wives of thy sons with thee. {17} All cattle that are with thee, of all flesh, as well in fowls, as in beasts, and all creepers that creep upon the earth, bring out with thee, and go ye upon the earth: increase and multiply upon it. {18} Noe therefore went forth, and his sons: his wife, and the wives of his sons with him. {19} Yea and all cattle, beasts, & creepers that creep upon the earth, according to their kind, went forth out of the ark. {20} And Noe built an Altar to our Lord: and taking of all cattle and fowls that were clean, offered Holocausts upon the Altar. {21} And our Lord smelled a sweet savour, and said: I will no more curse the earth for men: for the sense and cogitation of man's heart are prone to evil from their youth: I will no more therefore strike every living soul as I have done. {22} All the days of the earth, seed-time and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, night and day shall not rest.

God reneweth the blessing of multiplication, 3. alloweth the eating of flesh, but not of blood. 8. promiseth never again to destroy the world by water. 22. Cham saw and reported his father's nakedness, which Sem and Japheth covered. 24. For which he is cursed, and they are blessed.

{1} AND God blessed Noe and his sons, And he said to them: Increase & multiply, and replenish the earth. {2} And your terror and dread be it upon all the beasts of the earth, and upon all the fowls of the air, with all that move upon the earth: all the fishes of the sea are delivered to your hand. {3} And all that moveth and liveth shall be yours for meat: even as the green herbs have I delivered all to you. {4} Saving that flesh with blood you shall not eat. {5} For I will require the blood of your souls at the hands of all beasts: and at the hand of man, at the hand of each man, and of his brother, will I require the soul of man. {6} Whosoever shall shed man's blood, his blood shall be shed: for to the image of God man was made. {7} But increase you and multiply, and go upon the earth, and fill it. {8} Thus also said God to Noe, and his sons with him: {9} Behold I will establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you: {10} and with every living soul that is with you, as well in all fowls as in cattle & beasts of the earth that are come forth out of the ark, and in all beasts of the earth. {11} I will establish my covenant with you, and all flesh shall be no more destroyed with the waters of a flood, neither shall there be from hence-forth a flood to waste the earth. {12} And God said: This is the sign of the covenant which I give between me and you, and between every living soul, that is with you, for perpetual generations: {13} my bow will I set in the clouds, and it shall be the sign of a covenant between me and between the earth. {14} And when I shall cover the element with clouds, my bow shall appear in the clouds: {15} and I shall remember my covenant with you, and with every living soul that beareth flesh: and there shall no more be waters of a flood, to destroy all flesh. {16} And my bow shall be in the clouds, and I shall see it, and I shall remember the everlasting covenant, that was made between God and every living soul of all flesh which is upon the earth. {17} And God said to Noe: This shall be the sign of the covenant, which I established between me & all flesh of the earth. {18} The sons therefore of Noe, that came out of the ark, were Sem, Cham, and Japheth: and Cham he is the father of Chanaan. {19} These three are the sons of Noe: and of these was all mankind spread over the whole earth. {20} And Noe a husbandman began to till the ground, and planted a vineyard. {21} And drinking of the wine was made drunk, and naked in his tabernacle. {22} Which when Cham the father of Chanaan had seen, to wit that his father's privities were bare, he told it to his two brethren abroad. {23} But indeed Sem and Japheth put a cloak upon their shoulders, and going backward, covered the privities of their father: and their faces were turned away, and they saw not their father's privities. {24} And Noe awaking from the wine, when he had learned what his younger son had done to him, {25} he said: Cursed be Chanaan, a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren. {26} And he saith: Blessed be the Lord God of Sem, Chanaan be his servant. {27} God enlarge Japheth, and dwell he in the tabernacles of Sem, and Chanaan be his servant. {28} And Noe lived after the flood three hundred fifty years. {29} And all his days were in the whole nine hundred fifty years: and he died.

The genealogy of Noe's children, by whom the world was increased again after th flood.

{1} THESE are the generations of the sons of Noe, Sem, Cham, and Japheth: and children were born to them after the flood. {2} The children of Japheth: Gomer, & Magog, & Madai, & Javan, & Tubal, and Mosoch, and Thiras. {3} Moreover the children of Gomer: Ascenez, and Riphath, and Thogorma. {4} And the sons of Javan: Elisa, and Tharsis, the Cetims and the Dodanims. {5} Of these were divided the Iles of Nations in their countries, each one according to his tong, & their families in their nations. {6} And the sons of Cham: Chus, & Mesraim, & Phut, and Chanaan. {7} And the sons of Chus: Saba, Hevila, and Sabatha, & Regma, & Sabathaca. The sons of Regma: Saba, and Dadan. {8} Moreover Chus begat Nemrod: he began to be mighty in the earth. {9} and he was a valiant hunter before our Lord. Thereof rose a proverb: As it were Nemrod the valiant hunter before our Lord. {10} And the beginning of his kingdom was Babylon, and Arach, and Achad, and Chalanne in the land of Sennaar. {11} Out of that land came forth Assur, & builded Ninive, & the streets of the city, and Chale.

{12} Resen also between Ninive, & Chale: this is the great city. {13} But Mesraim also begat the Ludims, & the Anamims, & the Laabims, the Nephthuims, {14} and the Petrusims, & the Casluims: of whom came forth the Philistims & the Caphtorims. {15} And Chanaan begat Sidon his first-begotten, Hethaeus, {16} and Jebuseus, and Amorrhæus, and Gergesæus. {17} Hevaeus and Aracaeus, Sinaeus, {18} and Aradius, Samaraeus, and Hamathaeus: and afterwards were spread the people of the Chananites. {19} And the limits of Chanaan were from Sidon as we come to Gerara even to Gaza, until thou enter to Sodoma and Gomorrah, and Adama, and Seboim, even to Lesa. {20} These are the children of Cham in their kindreds, and tongues, and generations, and lands, and nations. {21} Of Sem also father of all the children of Heber, the elder brother of Japheth, were born: {22} The children of Sem: Aelam and Assur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram. {23} The children of Aram: Us, and Hul, and Gether, and Mes. {24} And Arphaxad also begat Sale, of whom was born Heber. {25} And to Heber were born two sons: the name of the one was Phaleg, because that in his days was the earth divided: and his brother's name was Jectan. {26} The which Jectan begat Elmodad, and Saleph, and Asarmoth, Jare; {27} and Aduram, and Uzal, and Decla, {28} and Ebal, and Abimael, Saba, {29} and Ophir, and Hevila, and Jobab. All these were the children of Jectan. {30} And their dwelling was from Messa as we go on as far as Sephar a mountain in the east. {31} These are the children of Sem according to their kindred, and tongues, and countries in their nations. {32} These are the families of Noe, according to their peoples and nation. Of these were the nations divided on the earth after the flood.

God hindreth the vain purpose of building a high tower, 7. by confounding men's tongues: 9. whereof it is called Babel. 10. The genealogy of Sem to Abram.

{1} AND the earth was of one tongue, and all one speech. from the east, they found a plain in the {2} And when they removed land of Sennaar, and dwelt in it. {3} And each one said to his neighbour: Come, let us make brick, and bake them with fire. And they had brick instead of stone, and bitume instead of mortar: {4} and they said, Come, let us make us a city and a tower, the top whereof may reach to heaven: and let us renoun our name before we be dispersed into all lands. {5} And our Lord descended to see the city and the tower, which the children of Adam builded, {6} and he said: Behold, it is one people, and one tongue is to all: and they have begun to do this, neither will they leave off from their determinations, till they accomplish them indeed. {7} Come ye therefore, let us go down, and there confound their tongue, that none may hear his neighbour's voice. {8} And so our Lord dispersed them from that place into all lands, and they ceased to build the city. {9} And therefore the name thereof was called Babel, because there the tongue of the whole earth was confounded: and from thence our Lord dispersed them upon the face of all countries. {10} These are the generations of Sem: Sem was an hundred years old when he begat Arphaxad, two years after the flood. {11} And Sem lived after he begat Arphaxad, five hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. {12} Moreover Arphaxad lived thirty five years, and begat Sale. {13} And Arphaxad lived after he begat Sale, three hundred three years, and begat sons and daughters. {14} Sale also lived thirty years, and begat Heber. {15} And Sale lived after he begat Heber, four hundred three years, & begat sons & daughters. {16} And Heber lived thirty four years, and begat Phaleg. {17} And Heber lived after he begat Phaleg, four hundred thirty years, and begat sons and daughters. {18} Phaleg also lived thirty years, and begat Reu. {19} And Phaleg lived after he begat Reu, two hundred nine years, and begat sons and daughters. {20} And Reu lived thirty two years, and begat Sarug. {21} Reu lived also after he begat Sarug, two hundred seven years, and begat sons and daughters. {22} And Sarug lived thirty years, and begat Nachor. {23} And Sarug lived after he begat Nachor, two hundred years, and begat sons and daughters. {24} And Nachor lived nine and twenty years, and begat Thare. {25} And Nachor lived after he begat Thare, and hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters. {26} And Thare lived seventy years, and begat Abram, and Nachor, and Aran. {27} And these are the generations of Thare: Thare begat Abram, Nachor, and Aran. Moreover Aran begat Lot. {28} And Aran died before Thare his father, in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees. {29} And Abram and Nachor married wives: the name of Abram his wife was Sarai: and the name of Nachor his wife, Melcha, the daughter of Aran the father of Melcha, and the father of Jescha. {30} And Sarai was barren, neither had she children. {31} Thare therefore took Abram his son, and Lot the son of Aran, his son's son, and Sarai his daughter in law, the wife of Abram his son, and brought them out of Ur of the Chaldees, for to go into the land of Chanaan: and they came as far as Haran, and dwelled there. {32} And the days of Thare came to two hundred five years, and he died in Haran.

Abram commanded by God to leave his country, with promise to be blessed in his seed, 5. taking his wife Sarai, and his nephew Lot. 6. Wandereth in the land of Chanaan, 7. erecteth an Altar in Sichem, 8. another in Bethel. 10. Thence by occasion of famine passeth into Aegypt: 14. where his wife (called his sister) is taken into the King's house, 19. but untouched is restored to him.

{1} AND our Lord said to Abram: Go forth of thy country, and out of thy kindred, and out of thy father's house, and come into a land which I will shew thee. {2} And I will make thee into a great nation, and I will bless thee, and magnify thy name, and thou shalt be blessed. {3} I will bless them that bless thee, and curse them that curse thee, and IN THEE shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed. {4} Abram therefore went out as our Lord had commanded him, and with him went Lot: seventy five years old was Abraham when he went forth out of Haran. {5} And he took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all the substance which they had possessed, and the souls which they had gotten in Haran: and went forth to go into the land of Chanaan. And when they were come into it. {6} Abram passed through the country unto the place Sichem, as far as the noble vale: and the Chananeite was at that time in the country. {7} And our Lord appeared to Abram, and said to him: To thy seed will I give this land. Who builded there an altar to our Lord, that had appeared to him. {8} And marching on from thence to a mountain, that was on the east side of Bethel, there he pitched his tent, having Bethel on the west, and Hai on the east: he builded there also an altar to our Lord, and called upon his name. {9} And Abram went forward going, and proceeding on to the south. {10} And there came a famine in the country: and Abram descended into Aegypt, to be as a pilgrim there: for the famine was very sore in the land. {11} And when he was near to enter into Aegypt, he said to Sarai his wife: I know that thou art a fair woman, {12} and that when the Aegyptians shall see thee, they will say: She is his wife; and they will kill me, and reserve thee. {13} Say therefore, I pray thee, that thou art my sister: that I may be well used for thee, and that my soul may live for thy sake. {14} When Abram therefore was entered into Aegypt, the Aegyptians, saw the woman that she was passing beautiful. {15} And the Princes told Pharao, and praised her to him: and the woman was taken into the house of Pharao. {16} And they used Abram well for her sake. And he had sheep and oxen and he asses, and men servants, and maid servants, and she asses, and Camels. {17} And our Lord scourged Pharao with very sore plagues, and his house, for Sarai Abram's wife. {18} And Pharao called Abram, and said to him: What is this that thou hast done to me? Why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife? {19} For what cause didst thou say she was thy sister, that I might take her to my wife? Now therefore there is thy wife, take her, and go thy ways. {20} And Pharao gave certain men commandment in the behalf of Abram: and they conducted him, and his wife, and all that he had.

Abram and Lot return fro Aegypt into Chanaan, 6. and being rich separate themselves, {10} Lot choosing the country about Iordan, Abram dwelleth in Chanaan. 14. Where again God promiseth him that land, and multiplication of his seed. 18. And he erected another Altar to God.

{1} ABRAM therefore ascended out of Aegypt, he and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him to the south coast. {2} And he was very rich in possession of gold and silver. {3} And he returned by the way that he came, from the south unto Bethel, even to the place where before he had pitched a tabernacle between Bethel and Hai: {4} in the place of the altar which he had made before, and there he called upon the name of our Lord. {5} But Lot also that was with Abram had flocks of sheep, and herds of beasts, and tents. {6} Neither was the land able to receive them for to dwell together: for their substance was much, and they could not dwell together. {7} Whereupon also there arose strife amongst the herdsmen of Abram and of Lot. And that time the Chananite and the Pherisite dwelled in that country. {8} Abram therefore said to Lot: Let there be no brawl, I beseech thee, between me and thee, and between my herdsmen, and thy herdsmen: for we be brethren. {9} Behold the whole land is before thee: go apart from me, I pray thee: if thou wilt go to the left hand, I will take the right: if thou choose the right hand, I will pass to the left. {10} Lot therefore lifting up his eyes, saw all the country about Jordan, which was watered throughout before that our Lord subverted Sodome and Gomorre, as the Paradise of our Lord, and like as Aegypt as men come unto Segor. {11} And Lot chose unto him the country about Jordan, and he departed from the East: and they were separated either brother from the other. {12} Abram dwelt in the land of Chanaan: and Lot abode in the towns that were about Jordan, and dwelt in Sodome. {13} And the men of Sodome were very wicked, and sinners before the face of our Lord out of measure. {14} And our Lord said to Abram, after that Lot was separated from him: Lift up thine eyes, and look from the place wherein thou now art, to the north and south, to the east and west: {15} All the land which thou seest will I give to thee, and to thy seed for ever. {16} And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth: if any man be able to number the dust of the earth, thy seed also shall he be able to number. {17} Arise and walk through the land in the length, and in the breadth thereof: for I will give it to thee. {18} Abram therefore removing his tent, came, and dwelt beside the vale of Mambre, which is in Hebron: and he builded there an altar to our Lord.

The King of Sodom with other four Kings are overcome in battail by four others. 12. where Lot is taken. 14. But Abram with {318}. persons prosecuting and overcoming the victors. 16. rescued Lot, with all the captives and prey. 18. Melchisedech King and Priest blessed Abram. 20. Abram payed tithes to him, 21. and rendered the spoile to the King of Sodom.

{1} AND it came to pass in that time, that Amraphel the king of Sennaar, and Arioch the king of Pontus, and Chodorlahomor king of the Elamites, and Thadal the king of Nations. {2} made war against Barra the king of Sodome, and against Bersa the king of Gomorra, and against Sennaab the king of Adama, and against Semabar the king of Seboim, and against the king of Bala, the same is Segor. {3} All these came together into the wood-land vale, which now is the salt sea. {4} For they had served Chodorlahomor twelve years, & the thirteenth year they revolted from him. {5} Therefore in the fourteenth year came Chodorlahomor, and the kings that were with him, and they struck Raphaim in Astarothcarnaim, and Susim with them, and Emim in Savee of Carimathaim, {6} and the Correans in the mountains of Seir, even to the Champion country of Pharan, which is in the wilderness. {7} And they returned, and came as far as the fountain of Mispat, the same is Cades: and they struck all the country of the Amelechites, and of the Amorheans, that dwell in Asasonthamar. {8} And they went forth the king of Sodome, and the king of Gomorra, and the king of Adama, and the king of Seboim, moreover also the king of Bala, which is Segor: and they set themselves against them in battle array in the wood-land vale: {9} to wit against Chodorlahomor king of the Elamites, and Thadal king of Nations, and Amraphel king of Sennaar, and Arioch king of Pontus: four kings against five. {10} But the wood-land vale had many pits of bitume. Therefore the king of Sodome and of Gomorra turned their backs, and were overthrown there: and they that remained fled to the mountain. {11} And they took all the substance of the Sodomites and Gomorreans, and took all kind of victuals, and went their way: {12} and Lot also and his substance, the son of Abrams brother, who dwelled in Sodom. {13} And behold one that had escaped told Abram the Hebrew, that dwelt in the vale of Mambre, the Amorrean, brother of Eschol, and the brother of Aner: for these made a league with Abram. {14} Which when Abram had heard, to wit, that his brother Lot was taken, he numbered of the servants born in his house, well appointed, three hundred and eighteen: and pursued them unto Dan. {15} And dividing his company, he ran upon them in the night, and struck them, and pursued them unto Hoba, which is on the left hand of Damascus. {16} And he brought back all the substance, and Lot his brother with his substance, the women also and the people. {17} And the king of Sodom went forth to meet them, after he returned from the slaughter of Chodorlahomor, and of the kings that were with him in the vale Savee, which is the king's vale. {18} But Melchisedech the king of Salem, bringing forth bread and wine, for he was the Priest of God most High, {19} blessed him, and said: Blessed be Abram to God the Highest, which created heaven and earth: {20} and blessed be God the Highest, by whose protection the enemies are in thy hands. And he gave him the tithes of all. {21} And the king of Sodom said to Abram: Give me the souls, and the rest take to thee. {22} Who answered him: I lift up my hand to my Lord God most High, possessor of heaven and earth, {23} that from the very woof-thread unto the shoe latchet, I will not take of all that are thine, lest thou say, I have enriched Abram: {24} except such things as the young men have eaten, and the shares of the men that came with me, Aner, Eschol, and Mambre: these shall take their shares.

Abram doubting and lamenting that he should have no child, God promiseth him much issue, 6. who believing is justified. 9. offereth sacrifice prescribed by God. 13. & is forewarned that his seed shall be in a strange land {400}. years. 14. shall be delivered from servitude, 18. and possess Chanaan.

{1} WHEN these things therefore were done, the word of our Lord was made to Abram by a vision saying: fear not Abram, I am thy Protector, and thy reward exceeding great. {2} And Abram said: Lord God, what wilt thou give me? I shall go without children: and the son of the steward of my house is this Damascus Eliezer. {3} And Abram added: But to me thou hast not given seed: and Lo my servant born in my house shall be mine heir. {4} And immediately the word of our Lord came to him saying: He shall not be thine heir: but he that shall come out of thy womb him shalt thou have thine heir. {5} And he brought him forth abroad, and said to him: Look up to heaven, and number the stars, if thou canst. And he said to him: so shall thy seed be. {6} Abram believed God, and it was reputed to him unto justice. {7} And he said to him: I am the Lord that brought thee out from Ur of the Chaldees for to give thee this land, and that thou mightest possess it. {8} But he said: Lord God, how may I know that I shall possess it? {9} And our Lord answered, and said: Take me a cow of three years old, and a she goat of three years, and a ram of three years, a turtle also, and a pigeon. {10} Who taking all these, divided them by the midst, and laid each two pieces arow one against the other: but the birds he divided not. {11} And the fowls lighted upon the carcasses, and Abram drove them away. {12} And when the sun was setting, a deep sleep fell upon Abram, and a great and darksome horror invaded him. {13} And it was said unto him: Know and foreknow that a pilgrim shall thy seed be in a land not their own (and they shall bring them under bondage, and afflict them) four hundred years. {14} But the Nation, whom they shall serve, I will judge: and after this they shall go forth with great substance. {15} And thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace, buried in a good old age. {16} But in the fourth generation they shall return hither: for as yet the iniquities of the Amoriteans are not at the full until this present time. {17} Therefore when the sun was set, there arose a dark mist, and there appeared a furnace smoking, and a flake of fire passing between those divisions. {18} That day God made a covenant with Abram, saying: To thy seed will I give this land from the river of Aegypt even to the great river Euphrates. {19} The Cineans, and Cenezeites, the Cedmonites, {20} and the Hethits, and the Pherezites, the Raphaim also, {21} and the Amorreans and the Chananeites, and Gargasites, and the Jebusites.

Sarai giveth her hand-maid Agar as a wife to Abram: 4. who conceiving despiseth her mistress, is therefore afflicted, and flyeth away. 7. But is warned by an Angel to return and humble her self. 15. which she doth, and beareth Ismael

{1} SARAI therefore the wife of Abram had brought forth no children; but having an handmaid, an Aegyptian named Agar, {2} she said to her husband: Behold, our Lord hath closed me, that I might not bear; Go in unto my handmaid, if happily of her at the least I may have children. And when he agreed to her in this request, {3} she took Agar the Aegyptian her handmaid ten years after that they first dwelled in the land of Chanaan, and gave her unto her husband to wife. {4} Who did company with her, but she perceiving that she was with child, despised her mistress. {5} And Sarai said to Abram: Thou doest unjustly against me: I gave my handmaid into thy bosom, who perceiving her self to be with child, despiseth me. Our Lord judge between me and thee. {6} To whom Abram making answer: Behold, saith he, thy handmaid is in thine own hand, use her as it pleaseth thee. When Sarai therefore did afflict her, she ran away. {7} And an Angel of our Lord having found her beside a fountain of water in the wilderness, which is in the way to Sur in the desert, {8} he said to her: Agar, the handmaid of Sarai, whence comest thou? And whither goest thou? Who answered: From the face of Sarai my mistress do I fly. {9} And the Angel of our Lord said to her: Return to thy mistress, and humble thy self under her hand. {10} And again: Multiplying, saith he, will I multiply thy seed, and it shall not be numbered for the multitude thereof. {11} And again after that: Behold, saith he, thou art with child, and thou shalt bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name Ismael, because the Lord hath heard thine affliction. {12} He shall be a wild man: his hand shall be against all men, and all men's hands against him; and over against all his brethren shall he pitch his tents. {13} And she called the name of our Lord that spake unto her: Thou the God which hast seen me. For she said: verily here have I seen the back parts of him that hast seen me. {14} Therefore she called that well, the well of him that liveth and seeth me. The same is between Cadesse and Barad. {15} And Agar brought forth a son to Abram: Who called his name Ismael. {16} Eighty and six years old was Abram when Agar brought him forth Ismael.

God renewing his promises to Abram 5. changeth his name, 10. and commandeth Circumcision. 15. changeth also his wife's name, promiseth a son of her. 20. Likewise that Ismael shall prosper. 23. And the same day Abraham circumcised himself, and Ismael, and all the men of his house.

{1} AND after that he began to be ninety and nine years old, our Lord appeared unto him, and said unto him: I am the God almighty:

walk before me, and be perfect. {2} And I will make my covenant between me and thee: and I will multiply thee exceedingly. {3} Abram fell flat on his face. {4} And God said to him: I am, and my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many Nations. {5} Neither shall thy name be called any more Abram; but thou shalt be called Abraham: because a father of many Nations I have made thee. {6} And I will make thee increase exceedingly, and I will make thee into Nations, and kings shall come forth of thee. {7} And I will establish my covenant between me and thee, and between thy seed after thee in their generations by a perpetual covenant: to be thy God, and thy seeds after thee. {8} And I will give to thee, and to thy seed the land of thy peregrination, all the land of Chanaan for a perpetual possession, and I will be their God. {9} Again God said to Abraham: And thou therefore shalt keep my covenant, and thy seed after thee in their generations. {10} This is my covenant which you shall observe between me and you, and thy seed after thee: All the male kind of you shall be circumcised: {11} and you shall circumcise the flesh of your prepuce, that it may be for a sign of the covenant between me and you. {12} An infant of eight days shall be circumcised among you, all male-kind in your generations: as well the homebred shall be circumcised, as the bought servant of whosoever he is, not of your stock: {13} and my covenant shall be in your flesh for a perpetual covenant. {14} The male, whose flesh of his prepuce shall not be circumcised, that soul shall be destroyed out of his people: because he hath broken my covenant. {15} God said also to Abraham: Sarai thy wife thou shalt not call Sarai, but Sara. {16} And I will bless her, and of her I will give thee a son, whom I will bless, and he shall be into Nations, and kings of peoples shall spring of him. {17} Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed, saying in his heart: Shall trowest thou to him that is an hundred year old a son be born? And Sara that is ninety years old shall she bear? {18} And he said to God: I would that Ismael may live before thee. {19} And God said to Abraham: Sara thy wife shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name Isaac, and I will establish my covenant to him for a perpetual covenant, and to his seed after him. {20} Concerning Ismael also I have heard thee. Behold, I will bless him, and increase and multiply him exceedingly: twelve Dukes shall he beget, and I will make him into a great Nation. {21} But my covenant I will establish with Isaac, whom Sara shall bring forth to thee at this time an other year. {22} And when he had left off speaking with him, God ascended from Abraham. {23} And Abraham took Ismael his son, and all the homebred of his house: and all whom he had bought, all the males of all the men of his house: and he circumcised the flesh of their prepuce forthwith the very same day, as God had commanded him. {24} Abraham was ninety and nine years old, when he circumcised the flesh of his prepuce. {25} And Ismael his son was full thirteen years old at the time of his circumcision. {26} The self-same day was Abraham circumcised and Ismael his son. {27} And all the men of his house, as well the homebred as the bought servants and strangers were circumcised together.

Angels entertained as guests by Abraham 10. tell when Sarai shall bear a son, where at she laughing, they confirm that they had said. 16. They also foretell the destruction of Sodome, 22. for which Abraham prayed six times.

{1} AND God appeared to him in the vale of Mambre as he sat in the door of his tent, in the very heat of the day. {2} And when he had lifted up his eyes, there appeared to him three men standing near unto him: whom after he had seen, he ran to meet them from the door of his tent, and adored to the ground. {3} And He said, Lord, if I have found grace in thy sight, go not past thy servant: {4} but I will fetch a little water, and wash ye your feet, and rest ye under the tree. {5} And I will set a morsel of bread, and strengthen your heart, afterward you shall pass: for therefore are you come aside to your servant. Who said: Do as thou hast spoken. {6} Abraham made haste into the tent to Sara, and said to her: Make haste, temper together three measures of flour, and make hearth cakes. {7} But himself ran to the herd, and took from thence a calf very tender and very good, and gave it to a young man: who made haste and boiled it. {8} He took also butter and milk, and the calf which he had boiled, and set before them: but himself did stand beside them under the tree. {9} And when they had eaten, they said to him: Where is Sara thy wife? He answered: Lo She is in the tent. {10} To whom he said: Returning I will come to thee at this time, life accompanying, and Sara thy wife shall have a son. Which when Sara heard, she laughed behind the door of the tent. {11} And they were both aged, and far entered in years, and it ceased to be with Sara after the manner of women. {12} Who laughed secretly saying: After I am waxen old, and my Lord is an old one, shall I give my self to pleasure? {13} And our Lord said to Abraham: Why did Sara laugh, saying: Shall I an old woman bear a child in deed? {14} Is there any thing hard to God? According to appointment I will return to thee this very self-same time, life accompanying, & Sara shall have a son. {15} Sara denied, saying: I laughed not; being much afraid. But our Lord: It is not so, saith he, but thou didst laugh. {16} When the men therefore were risen up from thence, they turned their eyes against Sodome: and Abraham did go with them, bringing them on the way. {17} And our Lord said: Can I conceal from Abraham the things which I will do, {18} whereas he shall be into a Nation great, and very strong, and in him are TO BE BLESSED ALL THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH? {19} For I know that he will command his children, and his house after him that they keep the way of the Lord, & do judgement and justice: that for Abraham's sake the Lord may bring to effect all the things that he hath spoken unto him. Therefore said our Lord: {20} The cry of Sodome and Gomorre is multiplied, and their sin is aggravated exceedingly. {21} I will descend, and see whether they have in act accomplished the cry that is come to me: or whether it be not so, that I may know. {22} And they turned themselves from thence, and went their way to Sodome: but Abraham as yet stood before our Lord. {23} And approaching he said: What! Wilt thou destroy the just with the wicked? {24} If there shall be fifty just persons in the city, shall they perish withal? And wilt thou spare that place for fifty just, if they be therein? {25} Be it far from thee, that thou do this thing, and that thou kill the just with the wicked, and that the just be in like case as the wicked, this is not beseeming thee, which judgest all the earth: no, thou wilt not do this judgement. {26} And our Lord said to him: If I shall find in Sodome fifty just persons within the city, I will spare the whole place for their sake. {27} And Abraham answered, and said: Because I have once begun, I will speak to my Lord, whereas I am dust and ashes. {28} What if there shall be five less than fifty just persons? Wilt thou for forty five destroy the whole city? And he said: I will not destroy it, if I shall find five and forty. {29} And again he said unto him: But if forty shall be found there, what wilt thou do? He said: I will not strike it for forty's sake. {30} Lord, saith he be not angry I beseech thee, if I speak: What if thirty shall be found there? He answered: I will not do it, if I shall find thirty there. {31} Because, saith he, I have once begun, I will speak to my Lord: What if twenty shall be found there? He said: I will not destroy it for twenty's sake. {32} I beseech thee, saith he, be not angry Lord, if I speak yet once more: What if ten shall be found there? And he said: I will not destroy it for ten's sake. {33} And our Lord departed after that he ceased to speak unto Abraham: and Abraham returned into his place.

Lot receiving Angels in his house is abused by the Sodomites. 12. He with his wife (26. who for looking back is turned into a statua of salt) and his two daughters, are delivered. 24. Sodome and Gomorre are burned. 31. Lot lieth unwitting with both his daughters, & begat of them Moab and Ammon, of whom came the Moabites and Ammonites.

{1} AND the two Angels came to Sodome at even, and Lot sitting in the gates of the city. Who when he had seen them, rose up & went to meet them: and adored prostrate unto the ground. {2} and said: I beseech you, my Lords, turn into the house of your servant, and lodge there: Wash your feet, and in the morning you shall go forth on your way. Who said: No, but we will abide in the street. {3} He compelled them earnestly to turn in unto him: and when they were entered into his house, he made them a banquet, and baked unleavened bread, and they did eat. {4} And before they went to bed, the men of the city beset the house from young to old, all the people together. {5} And they called Lot, and said to him: Where are the men that came in to thee at night? Bring them forth hither that we may know them. {6} Lot going forth to them, and shutting the door after him, said: {7} Do not so, I beseech you, my brethren, do not commit this evil. {8} I have two daughters, which as yet have not known man: I will bring them forth to you, and abuse you them as it shall please you, so that you do no evil to these men, because they are entered under the shadow of my roof. {9} But they said: Get thee back thither. And again: Thou camest in, said they, as a stranger, what to be a Judge? Thy self therefore we will afflict more than these. And they did violence to Lot exceedingly: and it was even now at the point that they would break the doors. {10} And behold the men put forth their hand, and drew in Lot unto them, and shut the door: {11} and them that were without they struck with blindness from the least to the greatest, so that they could not find the door. {12} And they said to Lot: Hast thou here any of thine? Son in law, or sons, or daughters, all that are thine, bring them out of this city: {13} for we will destroy this place, for that their cry is waxen loud before our Lord, who hath sent us to destroy them. {14} Therefore Lot went forth, and spake to his sons in law that were to take his daughters, and said: Arise, get you forth out of this place, because our Lord will destroy this city. And he seemed unto them to speak as it were in jest. {15} And when it was morning, the Angels urged him, saying: Arise, take thy wife, and the two daughters which thou hast: lest thou also perish withal in the wickedness of the city. {16} He lingering, they took his hand, and the hand of his wife, and of his two daughters, because our Lord spared him. {17} And they led him forth, and set him without the city; and there they spake to him, saying: Save thy life; look not back, neither stay thou in all the country about: but save thy self in the mountain, lest thou also perish withal. {18} And Lot said to them: I beseech thee my Lord, {19} because thy servant hath found grace before thee, and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast wrought with me, in that thou wouldest save my life, and safe I can not be in the mountain, lest perhaps the evil catch me, and I die. {20} There is this city here-by at hand, whereunto I may fly, a little one, and I shall be safe in it: is it not a little one, and my life shall be saved? {21} And he said to him: Behold also in this point I have heard thy prayers, not to overthrow the city for which thou hast spoken. {22} Make haste, and be saved there: because I can not do any thing till thou enter in thither. Therefore the name of that city was called Segor. {23} The sun was risen upon the earth, and Lot entered into Segor. {24} Therefore our Lord rained upon Sodome and Gomorre brimstone & fire from our Lord out of heaven: {25} and he subverted these cities, and all the country about, all the inhabitants of the cities, and all things that spring of the earth. {26} And his wife looking behind her, was turned into a statua of salt. {27} And Abraham getting up early in the morning, there where before he had stood with our Lord, {28} beheld Sodome and Gomorre, and the whole land of that country: and he saw the cinders rise up from the earth as it were the smoke of a furnace. {29} For when God subverted the cities of that country, he remembering Abraham, delivered Lot out of the subversion of the cities wherein he had dwelt. {30} And Lot ascended out of Segor, and abode in the mountain, his two daughters also with him (for he was afraid to abide in Segor) and he abode in a cave himself, and his two daughters with him. {31}

And the elder said to the younger: Our father is old, and there is no man left on the earth, that may company with us after the manner of the whole earth. {32} Come, let us make him drunk with wine, and let us lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father. {33} They therefore made their father to drink wine that night: and the elder went in, and lay with her father: but he perceived not, neither when his daughter lay down, nor when she rose up. {34} The next day also the elder said to the younger: Behold I lay yesternight with my father, let us make him drink wine also this night, and thou shalt lie with him, that we may save seed of our father. {35} They made their father drink wine that night also, and the younger daughter went in, and lay with him: and neither then truly did he perceive when she lay down, or when she rose up. {36} The two daughters therefore of Lot were with child by their father. {37} And the elder bare a son and she called his name Moab: he is the father of the Moabites even to this present day. {38} The younger also bare a son, and she called his name Ammon, that is the son of my people: he is the father of the Ammonites even to this day.

Abraham sojourning in Gerar, his wife is taken into King Abimelech's house, but by God's commandment is restored untouched. 14. with great gifts. 17. and Abraham praying Abimelech's house is cured.

{1} ABRAHAM removed from thence into the south country and dwelt between Cades, and Sur: and he lived as a pilgrim in Gerara. {2} And he said of Sara his wife: She is my sister. Abimelech therefore, the king of Gerara, sent and took her. {3} And God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him: Lo thou shalt die for the woman that thou hast taken: for she hath a husband. {4} But Abimelech had not touched her, and he said: Lord wilt thou kill a Nation that is ignorant & just? {5} Did not he say to me: She is my sister? And she say, He is my brother? In simplicity of my heart and cleanness of my hands have I done this. {6} And God said to him: And I do know that thou didst it with a sincere heart: and therefore I kept thee that thou shouldest not sin against me, and I permitted not that thou shouldest touch her. {7} Now therefore restore the wife to her husband, because he is a Prophet: and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live. But if thou wilst not restore her, know thou that dying thou shalt die, thou and all things that are thine. {8} And Abimelech forthwith rising up in the night, called all his servants: and he spake all these words to their ears, and all the men were sore afraid. {9} And Abimelech called also for Abraham, & said to him: What hast thou done to us? {24} What have we offended against thee, that thou hast brought upon me and upon my kingdom a great sin? That which thou oughtest not to do, thou hast done to us. {10} And again expostulating, he said: What sawest thou, that thou didst this? {11} Abraham answered: I thought with my self, saying: Perhaps there is not the fear of God in this place, & they will kill me for my wife: {12} howbeit otherwise also in very deed she is my sister, the daughter of my father, & not the daughter of my mother, & I took her to wife. {13} And after that God brought me out of my father's house, I said to her: This mercy thou shalt do with me: In every place which we shall come unto, thou shalt say that I am thy brother. {14} Therefore Abimelech took sheep and oxen, and servants, and handmaids, and gave to Abraham: and restored to him Sara his wife, {15} and said: The land is before you, dwell wheresoever it shalt please thee. {16} And to Sara he said: Behold I have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver, this shall serve thee for a veil of thine eyes to all that are with thee, and whithersoever thou shalt go, remember also thou wast taken. {17} And Abraham praying, God healed Abimelech and his wife, and his handmaids, and they bare children: {18} for our Lord had closed up every matrice of the house of Abimelech for Sara Abraham's wife.

Isaac is born. 4. circumcised. 8. and weaned. 9. Agar and Ismael are put forth of Abraham's house. 15. but after desolation are nourished, and prosper in the desert. 22. King Abimelech and Abraham make a league confirming it with each.

{1} AND our Lord visited Sara, as he had promised: and fulfilled the things which he spake. {2} And she conceived & bare a son in her old age, at the time that God had foretold her. {3} And Abraham called the name of his son, which Sara bare him, Isaac: {4} and he circumcised him the eighth day, as God had commanded him, {5} when he was an hundred years old: for at this age of his father, was Isaac born. {6} And Sara said: Laughter God hath made to me: whosoever shall hear of it, will laugh with me. {7} And again she said: Who that shall hear of it would believe Abraham, that Sara gave suck to a son, which she bare him now being an old man? {8} The child therefore grew and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feast in the day of his weaning. {9} And when Sara had seen the son of Agar the Aegyptian playing with Isaac her son, she said to Abraham: {10} Cast out this handmaid, & her son: for the son of the handmaid shall not be heir with my son Isaac. {11} Abraham took this grievously for his son. {12} To whom God said: Let it not seem grievous to thee for the boy, and for thy handmaid: all things that Sara shall say to thee, hear her voice: because in Isaac shall seed be called to thee. {13} But the son also of the handmaid I will make into a great nation, because he is thy seed. {14} Abraham therefore rose up in the morning, and taking bread and a bottle of water, put it upon her shoulder, and delivered the boy, and dismissed her. Who went away, and wandered in the wilderness of Bersabee. {15} And when the water in the bottle was spent, she cast the boy under one of the trees that were there. {16} And she went her way, and sat over against a great way off as far as a bow can cast, for she said: I will not see the child dying. And sitting over against, she lifted up her voice and wept. {17} And God heard the voice of the boy: and an Angel of God called Agar from heaven, saying: What doest thou Agar? Fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the boy, from the place wherein he is. {18} Arise, take up the boy, & hold his hand; for into a great nation will I make him. {19} And God opened her eyes: who seeing a well of water, went, and filled the bottle, and gave the boy to drink. {20} And God was with him: who grew, and abode in the wilderness, and became a young man archer. {21} And he dwelt in the wilderness of Pharan, and his mother took a wife for him out of the land of Aegypt. {22} The same time said Abimelech, and Phicol the General of his army, to Abraham: God is with thee in all things which thou doest. {23} Swear therefore by God, not to hurt me, and my posterity, and my stock: but according to the mercy, that I have done thee, thou shalt do to me, and to the land wherein thou hast lived a stranger. {24} And Abraham said: I will swear. {25} And he rebuked Abimelech for the well of water, which his servants had taken away by force. {26} And Abimelech answered: I knew not who did this thing: yea and thy self didst not tell me, and I heard not of it but to day. {27} Abraham therefore took sheep and oxen, and gave to Abimelech: and both of them made a league. {28} And Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock apart. {29} To whom Abimelech said: What mean these seven ewe lambs, which thou hast made to stand apart? {30} But he said: Seven ewe lambs shalt thou take at my hand: that they may be a testimony for me, that I digged this well. {31} Therefore was that place called Bersabee: because there both did swear. {32} And they made a league for the well of oath. {33} And Abimelech arose, and Phicol the General of his army, and they returned to the land of the Palestines. But Abraham planted a grove in Bersabee, and called there upon the name of our Lord God eternal. {34} And he was a sojourner in the land of the Palestines many days.

The faith and obedience of Abraham is proved in his readiness to sacrifice his son Isaac. 11. He is stayed from the act by an Angel. 16. Former promises are renewed to him. 20. And his brother Nachor hath also much issue.

{1} WHICH things being done, God tempted Abraham, and said to him: Abraham, Abraham. But he answered: Here I am. {2} He said to him: Take thy only begotten son, whom thou lovest, Isaac, and go into the Land of vision: and there thou shalt offer him for an holocaust upon one of the mountains which I will shew thee. {3} Therefore Abraham rising up in the night, saddled his ass: taking with him two young men, and Isaac his son: and when he had cut wood for the holocaust, he went his way to the place which God had commanded him. {4} And the third day, lifting up his eyes, he saw the place a far off: {5} and he said to his young men: Tarry you here with the ass: I and the boy going with speed as far as yonder, after we have adored will return to you. {6} He took also the wood of the holocaust, and laid it upon Isaac his son: and himself carried in his hand fire and a sword. And as they went on together, {7} Isaac said to his father: My father. And he answered: What wilt thou son? Behold, saith he, fire & wood; where is the victim of the holocaust? {8} And Abraham said: God will provide unto himself the victim of the holocaust, my son. They went on therefore together: {9} and they came to the place which God had shewed him, wherein he buildest an altar, and laid the wood in order upon it: and when he had bound Isaac his son, he laid him on the altar upon the pile of wood. {10} And he stretched forth his hand, and caught the sword, for to sacrifice his son. {11} And behold an Angel of our Lord from heaven cried, saying: Abraham, Abraham. Who answered: Here I am. {12} And he said to him: Stretch not forth thy hand upon the boy, neither do thou any thing to him: now have I known that thou fearest God, and hast not spared thine only begotten son for my sake. {13} Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw behind his back a ram amongst the briars sticking fast by the horns, which he took & offered an holocaust instead of his son. {14} And he called the name of that place, Our Lord seeth. Whereupon even to this day it is said, In the mountain our Lord will see. {15} And the Angel of our Lord called Abraham the second time from heaven, saying: {16} By my own self have I sworn, saith the Lord: because thou hast done this thing, and hast not spared thine only begotten son for my sake; {17} I will bless thee, and I will multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that is by the sea shore: thy seed shall possess the gates of his enemies, {18} and IN THY SEED SHALL BE BLESSED ALL THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH, because thou hast obeyed my voice. {19} Abraham returned to his young men, and they went to Bersabee together, and he dwelt there. {20} These things so being done, it was told Abraham that Melca also had born children to Nachor his brother, {21} Hus the first-begotten, and Buz his brother, and Samuel the father of the Sirians, {22} and Cased, and Azau, Pheldas also and Jedlaph, {23} and Bathuel, of whom was born Rebecca: these eight did Melcha bear to Nachor Abraham's brother. {24} And his concubine, named Roma, bare Tabee, and Gaham, and Tahas, and Maacha.

Sara dying Abraham solemnizeth her funeral: 4. buyeth a field with a double cave of Ephron. 15. for four hundred sicles. 19. and there buryeth her.

{1} AND Sara lived an hundred twenty seven years. which is Hebron, in the land of Chanaan: {2} And she died in the city of Arbee And Abraham came to mourn and weep for her. {3} And after that he was risen up from the funeral obsequies, he spake to the children of Heth, saying: {4} I am a stranger and pilgrim among you: give me the right of a sepulchre with you, that I may bury my dead. {5} The children of Heth answered, saying: {6} My lord hear us, thou art a prince of God among us: in our principal sepulchres bury thou thy dead: and no man can let thee but that in his own monument thou mayest bury thy dead. {7} Abraham rose up and adored the people of the land, to wit the children of Heth; {8} and he said to them: If it please your soul that I bury my dead, hear me, and be intercessors for me to Ephron the son of Seor: {9} that he give me the double cave, which he hath in the uttermost part of his field: for money to the worth therefore let him deliver it to me before you for possession of a sepulchre. {10} And Ephron dwelt in the midst of the children of Heth. And Ephron made answer to Abraham in the hearing of all that went in at the gate of the city, saying: {11} No, it shall not be so, my lord, but thou rather hearken to that which I do say: The field I deliver to thee, and the cave that is therein, in the presence of the children of my people, bury thy dead. {12} Abraham adored before the people of the land. {13} And he spoke to Ephron, his people standing round about: I beseech thee to hear me: I will give money for the field: take it, and so I will bury my dead in it. {14} And Ephron answered: {15} My lord hear me. The ground which thou desirest is worth four hundred sicles of silver: this is the price between me and thee: but how much is this? Bury thy dead. {16} Which when Abraham had heard, he weighed the money that Ephron had asked, in the hearing of the children of Heth, four hundred sicles of silver of common current money. {17} And the field that before time was Ephron's, wherein was the double cave, looking towards Mambre, as well it, as the cave, and all the trees thereof in all the limits thereof round about, {18} was made sure to Abraham for a possession, in the sight of the children of Heth, and of all that went in at the gate of his city. {19} And so Abraham buried Sara his wife in the double cave of the field, that looked towards Mambre, this is Hebron in the land of Chanaan. {20} And the field was made sure to Abraham, and the cave that was in it, for a possession to bury in, of the Children of Heth.

Abraham's servant adjured and sent by him into Mesopotamia, to seek a wife for Isaac. 12. prayeth to God for a sign, findeth Rebecca, 34. and demanding her this purpose, 50. with her parents, 58. and her own consent, she goeth with him, 67. is married to Isaac: who thereby is comforted for the death of his mother.

{1} AND Abraham was old, and of many days, and our Lord had blessed him in all things. {2} And he said to the elder servant of his house, which was ruler over all that he had: Put thy hand under my thigh, {3} that I may adjure thee by our Lord God of heaven and earth, that thou take not a wife for my son of the daughters of the Chananites, among whom I dwell: {4} but that thou go unto mine own country and kindred, and thence take a wife for my son Isaac. {5} The servant answered: If the woman will not come with me into this land, whether must I bring thy son back again to the place, from whence thou didst come forth? {6} And Abraham said: Beware thou never bring my son back again thither. {7} Our Lord God of heaven, which took me out of my father's house, and out of my native country, which spake to me, and swore to me, saying: To thy seed will I give this land; he shall send his Angel before thee, and thou shall take from thence a wife for my son: {8} but if the woman will not follow thee, thou shalt not be bound by the oath: only bring not my son thither again. {9} The servant therefore put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his lord, and swore to him upon this word. {10} And he took ten camels of his lord's herd, and departed, of all his goods carrying something with him, and setting forward went on into Mesopotamia to the city of Nachor. {11} And when he had made the camels lie down without the town beside a well of water at even, at the time when women are wont to come forth to draw water, he said: {12} O Lord God of my lord Abraham, meet me to day, I beseech thee, and do mercifully with my master Abraham. {13} Behold I stand night to the fountain of water and the daughters of the inhabitants of this city will come forth to draw water. {14} Therefore the maid, to whom I shall say: Bow down thy tankard that I may drink; and she shall answer: Drink, yea to thy camels also will I give drink; she it is, whom thou hast provided for thy servant Isaac: and by this I shall understand, that thou hast dealt mercifully with my master. {15} Neither had he yet ended these words within himself, & behold Rebecca came forth, the daughter of Bathuel, the son of Melcha, wife to Nachor the brother of Abraham, having a tankard on her shoulder; {16} a passing comely maid, & most beautiful virgin, & not known to man: and she was gone down to the fountain, and had filled her tankard, and came back. {17} And the servant ran to meet her, and said: Give me a little water to drink of thy tankard. {18} Who answered: Drink my lord. And quickly she let down the tankard upon her arm, and gave him drink. {19} And when he had drunk, she added: but for thy camels also I will draw water, till all do drink. {20} And pouring out the tankard into the troughs, she ran back to the well to draw water: and being drawn gave it to all the camels. {21} But he musing beheld her with silence, desirous to know whether our Lord had made his journey prosperous or not. {22} And after that the camels had drunk, the man plucked forth golden earlets, weighing two sicles, and as many bracelets of ten sicles weight. {23} And he said to her: Whose daughter art thou? Shew me; is there any place in thy father's house to lodge? {24} Who answered: I am the daughter of Bathuel, the son of Melcha, whom she bare to Nachor. {25} And she added, saying: Of straw also and hay we have good store, and a large place to lodge in. {26} The man bowed himself, and adored our Lord, {27} saying: blessed be the Lord God of my lord Abraham, that hath not taken away his mercy & truth from my lord, and hath brought me the straight way into the house of my lord's brother. {28} The maid therefore ran, and reported into her mother's house all things that she had heard. {29} And Rebecca had a brother named Laban, who in all haste went forth to the man, where the fountain was. {30} And when he had seen the earlets and bracelets in his sister's hands, and hand heard all her words reporting: These words spake the man unto me; he came to the man which stood beside the camels, and nigh to the fountain of water: {31} and said to him: Come in, thou blessed of our Lord: Why standest thou without? I have prepared the house, and a place for the camels. {32} And he brought him into his lodging: and he unharnessed the camels, and gave straw and hay, and water to wash his feet, and of the men that were come with him. {33} And bread was set before him. Who said: I will not eat till I speak my message. He answered him: Speak. {34} And he said: I am the servant of Abraham: {35} And our Lord hath blessed my lord wonderfully, and he is magnified: and he hath given him sheep, & oxen, silver and gold, men servants & women servants, camels, and asses. {36} And Sara my lord's wife hath born my lord a son in her old age, and he hath given him all things that he had. {37} And my lord adjured me saying: Thou shalt not take a wife for my son of the Chananites, in whose land I dwell: {38} but thou shalt go to my father's house, and of mine own kindred shalt thou take a wife for my son: {39} but I answered my lord: What if the woman will not come with me? {40} Our Lord, saith he, in whose sight I walk, will send his Angel with thee, & will direct thy way: and thou shalt take a wife for my son of mine own kindred, and of my father's house. {41} Thou shalt be innocent from my curse, when thou shalt come to my kin, and they will not give her thee. {42} I came therefore to day to the well of water, and said: O Lord God of my lord Abraham, if thou hast directed my way, wherein I now walk, {43} behold I stand besides the well of water, and the virgin, that shall come forth to draw water, when she shall hear me say: Give me a little water to drink of thy tankard; {44} and she shall say to me: Drink both thou and for thy camels I will draw also; that is the woman, which our Lord hath prepared for my master's son. {45} And whilst I pondered these things secretly with my self, Rebecca appeared coming with a tankard, which she carried upon her shoulder: & she went down to the fountain, & drew water. {46} And I said to her: Give me a little to drink. Who speedily let down the tankard from her shoulder, and said to me: Drink Both thou, and to thy camels I will give drink. I drank, and she watered the camels. {47} And I asked her, and said: Whose daughter art thou? Who answered: I am the daughter of Bathuel, the son of Nachor, whom Melcha bare him. I hung therefore earlets to adorn her face, and I put bracelets upon her hands. {48} And prostrate I adored our Lord, blessing the Lord God of my lord Abraham, who hath brought me the straight way to take the daughter of my lord's brother for his son. {49} Wherefore if you do according to mercy and truth with my lord, shew me: but if it please you otherwise, that also tell me, that I may go to the right hand or to the left. {50} And Laban and Bathuel answered: From our Lord the word hath proceeded: we can not speak any other thing with thee besides his pleasure. {51} Behold Rebecca is before thee, take her and go thy ways, & let her be the wife of thy lord's son, as our Lord hath spoken {52} Which when Abraham's servant heard, falling down he adored our Lord to the ground. {53} And taking forth vessels of silver, and gold, and garments, gave them to Rebecca for a present. To her brothers also, and to her mother he offered gifts. {54} A banquet was made, and eating and drinking together they lodged there. And in the morning the servant arose, and said: Dismiss me, that I may go to my lord. {55} And her brother and mother answered: Let the maid tarry at the least ten days with us, & after she shall depart. {56} Stay me not, said he, because our Lord hath directed my way: dismiss me that I may go on to my lord. {57} And they said: Let us call the maid, and ask her will. {58} And being called, when she was come, they asked: Wilt thou go with this man? Who said: I will go. {59} They dismissed her therefore, and her nurse, and Abraham's servant, and his company, {60} wishing prosperity to their sister, and saying: Thou art our sister, increase thou into thousand thousands, and thy seed possess the gates of their enemies. {61} Therefore Rebecca and her maids being set upon camels, followed the man: who with speed returned unto his lord; and {62} the same time Isaac walked along the way, that leadeth to the well of the Living and the seeing, so called; for he dwelt in the south country: {63} and he was gone forth to meditate in the field, the day now being well spent: and when he head cast up his eyes, he saw camels coming a far off. {64} Rebecca also, when she saw Isaac, lighted off the camel, {65} and said to the servant: Who is that man which cometh towards us along the field? And he said to her: The same is my lord. But she quickly taking her cloak, covered her self. {66} And the servant told Isaac all things that he had done. {67} Who brought her into the tent of Sara his mother, & took her to wife: and he loved her so much, that it did moderate the sorrow which was chanced of his mother's death.

Abraham having many children by his wife Cetura, died at the age of {175} years: 12. Ismael also having twelve sons Dukes, died. 19. Isaac praying for his barren wife, she hath Esau and Jacob twins. 30. Esau selleth his first birth right to Jacob for a mess of potage.

{1} AND Abraham married another wife named Cetura: Jecsan, and Madan, and Madian, and {2} Which bare him Zamran, and Jesboc, and Sue. {3} Jecsan also begat Saba & Dadan. The Children of Dadan were Assurim, and Latusim, and Loomim. {4} But also of Madian was born Ephra, and Opher, and Henoch, and Abida, and Eldaa: all these were the children of Cetura. {5} And Abraham gave all his possessions to Isaac: {6} and to the children of his concubines he gave gifts, and separated them from Isaac his son, whilst himself yet lived, to the east country. {7} And the days of Abraham's life were an hundred seventy and five years. {8} And decaying died in a good old age, and having lived a great time, and being full of days and was gathered to his people. {9} And there buried him Isaac and Ismael his sons in the double cave, which was situated in the field of Ephron the son of Seor the Hethite, over-against Mamre, {10} which he had bought of the children of Heth: there was he buried, and Sara his wife. {11} And after his death God blessed Isaac his son, who dwelled beside the well of the Living & Seeing, so named. {12} These are the generations of Ismael the son of Abraham, whom Agar the Aegyptian bare him, Sara's servant: & {13} These are the names of his children according to their calling and generations. The first begotten of Ishmael Nabajoth, then Cedar, and Adbeel, and Mabsam, {14} Masma also, and Duma, and Massa, {15} Hadar, and Thema, and Jethur, and Naphis, and Cedma. {16} These are the sons of Ismael: and these are their names by their castles and towns, twelve Princes of their tribes. {17} And the years of Ismael's life came to an hundred thirty seven, and decaying died, and was put unto his people. {18} And he dwelt from Hevila even to Sur, which looketh towards Aegypt, as they enter to the Assyrians, before the face of all his brethren died he. {19} These also are the generations of Isaac the son of Abraham: Abraham begat Isaac: {20} Who when he was forty years old, took to wife Rebecca the daughter of Bathuel the Syrian of Mesopotamia, sister to Laban. {21} And Isaac besought our Lord for his wife, because she was barren: who heard him, and made Rebecca to conceive. {22} But the little ones struggled in her womb; who said: If it should be so with me, what need was there to conceive? And she went to consult our Lord. {23} Who answering said: Two nations are in thy womb, and two peoples shall be divided out of thy womb, and one people shall overcome the other, and the elder shall serve the younger. {24} Now her time was come to be delivered, and behold twins were found in her womb. {25} He that came forth first, was red, and all hairy in manner of a skin: and his name was called Esau. Immediately the other coming forth, held his brother's plant in his hand: and therefore he called him Jacob. {26} Threescore years old was Isaac, when the little ones were born unto him. {27} Who being grown up, Esau became a man cunning in hunting, & a husband man: but Jacob a plain man dwelled in tents: {28} Isaac loved Esau, because he did eat of his hunting: and Rebecca loved Jacob. {29} & Jacob boiled broth: to whom Esau being come faint out of the field, {30} said: Give me of this red broth, because I am exceeding faint. For which cause his name was called Edom. {31} To whom Jacob said: sell me thy first-birth-right. {32} He answered, Lo I die, what will the first-birth-right avail me? {33} Jacob said: Swear therefore to me. Esau sware to him, and sold his first-birth-right. {34} And so taking bread and the rice broth, did eat, and drink, {30} and went his way; little esteeming that he had sold his first-birth-right.

Isaac by reason of famine goeth into Gerara, 3. where God reneweth to him the promises made to Abraham. 9. King Abimelech blameth him for calling his wife his sister. 15. The people envying his wealth, quarreleth for his wells. 26. At last Abimelech maketh league with Isaac.

{1} AND when a famine was risen in the land, after that sterility that had chanced in the days of Abraham, Isaac went to Abimelech king of the Palestines into Gerara. {2} And our Lord appeared to him, and said: Go not down into Aegypt, but rest in the land which I shall tell thee. {3} And sojourn in it, and I will be with thee, and will bless thee: for to thee and to thy seed I will give all these countries, accomplishing the oath which I swear to Abraham thy father. {4} And I will multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven: and I will give to thy posterity all these countries: and in thy seed SHALL BE BLESSED ALL THE NATIONS OF THE EARTH, {5} for because Abraham obeyed my voice, & kept my precepts and commandments, and observed my ceremonies and laws. {6} Therefore Isaac abode in Gerara. {7} Who when he was asked by the men of that place concerning his wife, answered: She is my sister; for he was afraid to confess that she was married to him, thinking lest peradventure they would kill him because of her beauty. {8} And when very many days were passed, & he abode there, Abimelech the king of the Palestines looking forth through a window saw him sporting with Rebecca his wife. {9} And calling for him, he said: it is evident that she is thy wife: why didst thou feign her to be thy sister? He answered: I feared lest I should die for her. {10} And Abimelech said: Why hast thou deceived us? Some man of the people might have lien with thy wife, and thou hadst brought upon us a great sin. And he commanded all the people, saying: {11} He that shall touch this man's wife, dying shall die. {12} And Isaac sowed in that land, and he found that same year and hundred fold: and our Lord blessed him. {13} And the man was made rich, and he went prospering and increasing, till he was made exceeding great: {14} and he had also possessions of sheep and of herds, and a very great family. For this the Palestines envying him, {15} stopped at that time all the wells, that the servants of his father Abraham had digged, filling them up with earth: {16} in so much that Abimelech himself said to Isaac: Depart from us, because thou art become mightier than we a great deal. {17} And departing, to come to the Torrent of Gerara, and to dwell there, {18} again he digged other wells, which the servants of his father Abraham had digged, and which after his death the Philistines had stopped up of old: & he called them by the same names which his father before had called them. {19} And they digged in the Torrent, and found living water: {20} but there also the pastors of Gerara made a brawl against the pastors of Isaac, saying: it is our water. For which cause he called the name of the well, by occasion of that which had happened, Calumny. {21} And they digged also an other; and for that they brawled likewise, and he called the name of it, Enmity. {22} Going forward from thence he digged an other well, for which they contended not: therefore he called the name thereof, Latitude, saying: Now hath our Lord dilated us, and made us to increase upon the earth. {23} And he went up from that place unto Bersabee, {24} Where our Lord appeared to him that same night, saying: I am the God of Abraham thy father, do not fear, because I am with thee: I will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham's sake. {25} Therefore he builded there an altar: and having called upon the name of our Lord, he pitched his tent: & commanded his servants that they should dig a well. {26} To the which place when there were come from Gerara Abimelech, and Ocozath his friend, & Phicol chief Captain of his soldiers, {27} Isaac spake to them: Why are ye come to me a man whom you hated, and have thrust out from you? {28} Who answered: We saw that the Lord is with thee, and therefore we said: Let there be an oath between us, and let us make a league, {29} that thou do us no harm, as we also have touched nothing of thine, neither have we done that which might hurt thee: but with peace have we dismissed thee increased with the blessing of the Lord. {30} Therefore he made them a feast, and after they had eaten and drunken, {31} Arising in the morning, they sware one to an other: and Isaac dismissed them peaceably into their place. {32} And behold the same day came the servants of Isaac telling him of a well, which they had digged, and saying: We have found water. {33} Whereupon he called it Abundance: and the name of the city was given Bersabee, even unto this present day. {34} But Esau being forty years old married wives, Judith the daughter of Beeri the hethite, and Basemath the daughter of Elon of the same place: {35} Both which had offended the mind of Isaac and Rebecca.

Jacob by his mother's counsel getteth his father's blessing in place of Esau. 42. And by her is advised (for avoiding Esau's wrath, who threatened to kill him) to fly to his uncle Laban, in Haran of Mesopotamia.

{1} AND Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, and he could not see: and he called Esau his elder son, and said to him: My son? Who answered: Here I am. {2} To whom his father: Thou seest, quoth he, that I am old, and know not the day of my death. {3} Take thy instruments, thy quiver, and bow, and go abroad: and when thou hast taken any thing by hunting, {4} make me broth thereof, as thou knowest I like, and bring that I may eat, and my soul may bless thee before I die. {5} Which when Rebecca had heard, and he was gone into the field to fulfill his father's commandment, {6} she said to her son Jacob: I heard thy father talking with Esau thy brother, and saying to him: {7} Bring me of thy hunting, and make me meats that I may eat, and bless thee in the sight of our Lord before I die. {8} Now therefore, my son, assent to my counsel: {9} and go thy way to the flock, bring me two kids of the best, that I may make of them meat for thy father, such as he gladly eateth: {10} Which when thou hast brought in, and he hath eaten he may bless thee before he die. {11} To whom he answered: Thou knowest that Esau my brother is hairy man, and I am smooth: {12} if my father shall feel me, and perceive it, I fear lest he will think I would have deluded him, and I shall bring upon me a curse for a blessing. {13} To whom his mother said: This curse, my son, light upon me, only hear thou my voice, and go, fetch me the things which I have said. {14} He went, and brought, and gave them to his mother. She dressed meats, even as she knew his father liked. {15} And she did on him the garments of Esau very good, which she had at home with her: {16} and the little skins of the kids she put about his hands, and covered the bare of his neck. {17} And she gave him the broth, and delivered him bread that she had baked. {18} Which when he had carried in, he said: My father? But he answered: I hear. Who art thou my son? {19} And Jacob said: I am thy first begotten Esau: I have done as thou didst command me: arise, sit, and eat of my hunting, that thy soul may bless me. {20} And again Isaac to his son: How couldest thou, said he, find it so quickly, my son? Who answered: It was the will of God that that which I would, came quickly in my way. {21} And Isaac said: Come hither, that I may feel thee my son, and may prove whether thou be my son Esau, or not. {22} He came near to his father, and when he had felt him, Isaac said: The voice verily, is the voice of Jacob: but the hands are the hands of Esau. {23} And he knew him not, because his hairy hands had made him like unto the elder. Blessing him therefore, {24} he said: Art thou my son Esau? He answered: I am. {25} But he said: Bring me the meats of thy hunting, my son, that my soul may bless thee. Which when they were brought and he had eaten, he offered him wine also, which after he had drunk, {26} he said to him: Come near me, and give me a kiss, my son. {27} He came near, and kissed him. And immediately as he felt the fragrant savour of his garments, blessing him, he said: Behold the savour of my son is as the savour of a plentiful field, which our Lord hath blessed. {28} God give thee of the dew of heaven, & of the fatness of the earth abundance of corn and wine. {29} And let peoples serve thee, and tribes adore thee: be thou lord of thy brethren, and thy mother's children bow they before thee. He that shall curse thee, be he cursed: and he that shall bless thee, be he replenished with blessings. {30} Isaac had scarce ended his words, and Jacob now gone forth abroad, but Esau came, {31} and brought in to his father meats made of his hunting, saying: Arise my father, and eat of thy son's hunting; that thy soul may bless me. {32} And Isaac said to him: Why! Who art thou? Who answered: I am thy first begotten son Esau. {33} Isaac was amazed and astonished exceedingly, and marveling more than a man can believe, said: Who is he then that even now brought me venison that he had taken, and I did eat of all things before thou camest, and I have blessed him, and he shall be blessed. {34} Esau having heard his father's words, roared out with a great cry; and being dismayed, said: Bless me also, my father. {35} Who said: Thy brother came deceitfully and took thy blessing. {36} But he said again: Rightly is his name called Jacob; for he hath supplanted me lo the second time: my first-birth-right he took before, and now the second time he hath stolen my blessing. And again to his father he said: Hast thou not reserved me also a blessing? {37} Isaac answered: I have appointed him thy lord, and all his brethren I have made subject to his service: with corn and wine I have established him, and for thee, my son, what shall I do more after this? {38} To whom Esau said: Hast thou one only blessing, father? I beseech thee bless me also. And when he wept that he howled again, {39} Isaac being moved, said to him: In the fat of the earth, and in the dew of heaven from above, {40} shall thy blessing be. Thou shalt live by the sword, and shalt serve thy brother: and the time shall come, when thou shalt shake off and loose his yoke from thy neck. {41} Esau therefore always hated Jacob for the blessing wherewith his father had blessed him; and he said in his heart: The days will com of the mourning of my father, and I will kill Jacob my brother. {42} These things were told to Rebecca: who sending and calling Jacob her son, said to him: Behold Esau thy brother threatneth to kill thee. {43} Now therefore, my son, hear my voice, and get thee up and fly to Laban my brother into Haran: {44} and thou shalt dwell with him a few days, till the fury of thy brother be assuaged, {45} and his indignation cease, and he forget those things which thou hast done to him: afterward I will send, and bring thee from thence hither. Why shall I be deprived of both sons in one day? {46} And Rebecca said to Isaac: I am weary of my life for the daughters of Heth: if Jacob take a wife of the stock of this land, I list not live.

Jacob with his father's blessing, and admonition not to take a wife of Chanaan, but of the daughters of his uncle Laban, goeth into Mesopotamia. 6. Esau in the mean time marrieth a third wife, his uncle Ismael's daughter. 11. Jacob seeth in sleep a ladder reaching to heaven, Angels ascending and descending, and our Lord leaning thereon renewed the promises made to Abraham and Isaac. 16. And he awaking maketh a vow.

{1} ISAAC therefore called Jacob, and blessed him, and commanded him saying: Take not a wife of the stock of Chanaan; {2} but go and make a journey into Mesopotamia of Syria; to the house of Bathuel thy mother's father, and take thee a wife thence of the daughters of Laban thine uncle. {3} And God Almighty bless thee, and make thee increase, and multiply thee: that thou mayest be into multitudes of peoples. {4} And give he thee the blessings of Abraham, and to thy seed after thee: that thou mayest possess the land of thy peregrination, which he promised to thy grandfather. {5} And when Isaac had dismissed him, taking his journey he came to Mesopotamia of Syria to Laban, the son of Bathuel the Syrian, brother to Rebecca his mother. {6} And Esau seeing that his father had blessed Jacob, and had sent him into Mesopotamia of Syria, to marry a wife thence; and that after the blessing he had commanded him, saying: Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Chanaan; {7} and that Jacob obeying his parents was gone into Syria: {8} having trial also that his father did not willingly see the daughters of Chanaan, {9} he went to Ismael, and took to wife besides them which he had before, Maheleth the daughter of Ismael Abraham's son, sister to Nabajoth. {10} Therefore Jacob being departed from Bersabee, went on to Haran. {11} And when he was come to a certain place, and would rest in it after sun set, he took one of the stones that lay there, and putting in under his head, slept in the same place. {12} And he saw in his sleep a ladder standing upon the earth, & the top thereof touching heaven: the Angels also of God ascending & descending by it, {13} and our Lord leaning upon the ladder saying to him: I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, & the God of Isaac: the Land wherein thou sleepest, I will give to thee and to thy seed. {14} And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth: thou shalt be dilated to the West, and to the East, and to the North, and to the South: and IN THEE AND THY SEED ALL THE TRIBES OF THE EARTH SHALL BE BLESSED. {15} And I will be thy keeper whither soever thou goest, and will bring thee back into this land: neither will I leave thee, till I shall have accomplished all things which I have said. {16} And when Jacob was awaked out of sleep, he said: Indeed our Lord is in this place, and I wist not. {17} And trembling he said: How terrible is this place! This is none other but the house of God, and the gate of heaven. {18} And Jacob arising in the morning took the stone, which he had laid under his head, and erected it for a title, pouring oil upon the top. {19} And he called the name of the city Bethel, which before was called Luza. {20} And he vowed a vow, saying: If God shall be with me, and shall keep me in the way, by the which I walk, and shall give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on, {21} and I shall be returned prosperously to my father's house, the Lord shall be my God, {22} and this stone, which I have erected for a title, shall be called the House of God: and of all things that thou shalt give to me, I will offer tithes to thee.

Jacob entertained by Liban, 15. serveth him seven years for Rachel, 23. but first receiving Lia, 27. seven days after receiveth also Rachel, and serveth for her seven years more. 31. She remaining barren, Lia beareth four sons.

{1} JACOB therefore going on his journey, came into the East country, a well in the field, and three flocks of {2} And he saw sheep lying beside it: for of it the beasts were watered, and the mouth thereof was closed with a great stone. {3} And the manner was when all the sheep were gathered together they did roll off the stone, and after the sheep were refreshed they put it on the mouth of the well again. {4} And he said to the shepherds: Brethren, whence are you? Who answered: Of Haran. {5} And he asked them, saying: Know you Laban the son of Nachor? They said: We do know him. {6} Is he in health? Quoth he: He is in health, say they: And behold Rachel his daughter cometh with his flock. {7} And Jacob said: There is yet much day remaining, neither is it time to bring the flocks into the folds again: first give the sheep drink, and so bring them back to feed. {8} Who answered: we can not, till all the cattle be gathered together: and we remove the stone from the well's mouth, that we may water the flocks. {9} They were yet speaking, and behold Rachel came with her father's sheep: for she fed the flock. {10} Whom when Jacob had seen, & knew her to be his cousin-german, & that they were the sheep of Laban his uncle, he removed the stone, wherewith the well was closed. {11} And having watered the flock, he kissed her: and lifted up his voice wept, {12} and he told her that he was her father's brother, and the son of Rebecca: but she in haste went & told her father. {13} Who when he heard that Jacob his sister's son was come, he ran forth to meet him, & embracing him & heartily kissing him, brought him into his house. And when he had heard the causes of his journey, {14} he answered: Thou art my bone and my flesh. And after the days of one month were expired, {15} he said to him: because thou art my brother, shalt thou serve me gratis? Tell me, what wages wilt thou take? {16} He had indeed two daughters, the name of the elder was Lia; & the younger was called Rachel. {17} But Lia was blear-eyed, Rachel well favoured, & of a beautiful countenance. {18} Whom Jacob loving, said: I will serve thee for Rachel thy younger daughter seven years. {19} Laban answered: It is better that I give her to thee than to an other man, tarry with me. {20} Jacob therefore served for Rachel seven years: and they seemed a few days because of the greatness of his love. {21} And he said to Laban: give me my wife: because now the time is complete, that I may company with her. {22} Who having bid a great number of his friends to the feast, made the marriage. {23} And at night he brought in Lia his daughter to him, {24} giving his daughter a handmaid, named Zelpha. With whom when Jacob had companied after the manner, when morning was come he saw Lia: {25} and he said to his father in law: What is it that thou didst mean to do? Did not I serve thee for Rachel? Why hast thou deceived me? {26} Laban answered: It is not the custom in this place, that we bestow the younger in marriage first. {27} Make up the week of days of this match: and I will give thee this same also, for the work that thou shalt serve me other seven years. {28} He yielded to his pleasure; and after the week was past, he married Rachel to wife: {29} to whom her father had delivered Bala for to be her servant. {30} And having at length obtained the marriage that he wished, he preferred the love of the later before the former, serving with him other seven years. {31} And our Lord seeing that he despised Lia opened her womb, her sister remaining barren. {32} Who conceived and bare a son, and called his name Ruben, saying: Our Lord saw mine affliction: now my husband will love me. {33} And again she conceived and bare a son, and said: For because our Lord heard that I was contemned, he hath given this also to me: and she called his name Simeon. {34} And she conceived the third time, and bare another son: and said: Now also my husband will be joined to me, for because I have born him three sons: and therefore she called his name, Levi. {35} The fourth time she conceived and bare a son, and said: Now will I confess to our Lord. And for this she called him Juda: And she left bearing.

Rachel yet barren delivereth her handmaid to Jacob, who beareth two sons. 9. Lia ceasing to bear giveth her handmaid also, and sheareth two more. [17] Then Lia beareth other two sons, and one daughter. 22. Rachel beareth Joseph. 25. Jacob desirous to return home, is hired to stay for a certain part of the stock's increase. 43. Whereby he becometh exceeding rich.

{1} AND Rachel seeing she was unfruitful, envied her sister, and said to her husband: Give me children, otherwise I shall die. {2} With whom Jacob being angry answered: Am I as God, who hath deprived thee of the fruit of thy womb? {3} But she said: I have here my servant Bala: Company with her, that she may bear upon my knees, and I may have children of her. {4} And she gave him Bala unto marriage: who, {5} When her husband had companied with her, conceived and bare a son. {6} And Rachel said: Our Lord hath judged for me and hath heard my voice, giving me a son, and therefore she called his name, Dan. {7} And again Bala conceiving bare another, {8} for whom Rachel said: God hath compared me with my sister, and I have prevailed: and she called him Nephtali. {9} Lia perceiving that she had left bearing, delivered Zelpha her handmaid to her husband. {10} Who conceiving and bringing forth a son, {11} she said: Happily. And therefore called his name Gad. {12} Zelpha also bare an other. {13} And Lia said: This is for my blessedness: for women will call me blessed. Therefore she called him Aser. {14} And Ruben, going forth in the time of wheat harvest into the field, found mandragoras: which he brought to his mother Lia. And Rachel said: Give me part of thy son's mandragoras. {15} She answered: Dost thou think it a small matter that thou hast taken my husband from me, unless thou take also my son's mandragoras? Rachel said: For thy son's mandragoras let him sleep with thee this night. {16} And when Jacob returned at even from the field, Lia went out to meet him, and said: Company with me, because with wages I have hired thee for my son's mandragoras. And he slept with her that night. {17} And God heard her prayers: and she conceived and bare the fifth son, {18} And said: God hath given me a reward, because I gave my handmaid to my husband. And she called his name Issachar. {19} Again Lia conceiving, bare the sixth son, {20} & said: God hath endowed me with a good dowry: this turn also my husband will be with me, for because I have born him six sons, and therefore she called his name, Zabulon. {21} After whom she bare a daughter named Dina. {22} Our Lord also remembering Rachel heard her, and opened her womb. {23} Who conceived and bare a son, saying: God hath taken away my reproach. {24} And she called his name, Joseph, saying: Our Lord add to me an other son. {25} And when Joseph was born, Jacob said to his father in law: Dismiss me that I may return into my country, and to my land. {26} Give me my wives, and my children, for whom I have served thee, that I may depart: thou knowest the service that I have served thee. {27} Laban said to him: Let me find grace in thy sight: I have learned by experience that God hath blessed me for thy sake: {28} appoint thee wages which I shall give thee. {29} But he answered: Thou knowest how I have served thee, and how great thy possession hath been in my hands. {30} Thou hadst a small thing before I came to thee, and now thou art made rich: and our Lord hath blessed thee at my coming in. It is reason therefore that once I provide also for mine own house. {31} And Laban said: What shall I give thee? But he said: I will nothing: but if thou wilt do that which I demand, I will feed and keep thy sheep again. {32} Go round above all the flocks, and separate all the sheep of diverse colours, of speckled fleece: and what-soever shall be russet and spotted, and of diverse colours, as well in the sheep as in the goats, shall be my wages. {33} And my justice shall answer for me tomorrow before thee, when the time of the bargain shall com: and all that shall not be of diverse colours, and spotted, and russet, as well in the sheep as in the goats, shall accuse me of theft. {34} And Laban said: I like well that thou demandest. {35} And he separated the same day the she goats, and the sheep, and the he goats, and the rams of diverse colours, and spotted: and all the flock of one colour, that is of white and black fleece, he delivered in the hand of his sons. {36} And he put a space of three days' journey betwixt him and his son in law, who fed the rest of his flock. {37} Jacob therefore taking green rods of the poplar, and of the almond, and of the plane-trees, in part pilled them: and when the barks were taken off, in the parts that were pilled there appeared whiteness: but the parts that were whole remained green: and by this means the colour was made diverse. {38} And he put them in the troughs, where the water was poured out: that when the flocks should come to drink, thy might have the rods before their eyes, and in the sight of them conceive. {39} And it came to pass that in the very heat of the ramming, the sheep beheld the rods, and brought forth spotted, and of diverse colours, and speckled. {40} And Jacob divided the flock, and put the rods in the troughs before the eyes of the rams: and all the white and the black were Laban's, and the rest, Jacob's, when the flocks were separated one from the other. {41} Therefore when the ewes went to ram, in the prime time Jacob put the rods in the troughs of water before the eyes of the rams, and of the ewes, that in looking upon them they might conceive: {42} but when the later coming was, and the last conceiving, he did not put them. And those that were lateward became Laban's: and they of the prime time, Jacobs. {43} And the man was enriched beyond measure, and he had many flock, women servants and men servants, camels and asses.

Jacob by God's commandment parteth secretly with all he hath towards his father. 21. Laban pursueth him. 26. expostulating why he went in secret manner, 30. especially chargeth him with stealing his Gods. 31. Jacob excuseth himself, not knowing that Rachel had taken away the Idols. 34. And she deludeth his diligent searching for them. 36. Then Jacob expostulateth with Laban for this unkindness. 43. Finally, they make a league and depart each to his own country.

{1} AFTER he heard the words of Laban's sons saying: Jacob hath taken all that was our father's, and being enriched of his substance, is become great: {2} and perceiving also Laban's countenance, that it was not towards him as yesterday and the other day, {3} especially our Lord saying to him: Return in the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred, and I will be with thee; {4} he sent, and called Rachel and Lia into the field where he fed the flocks, {5} and said to them: I see your father's countenance that it is not towards me as yesterday and the other day: and the God of my father hath been with me. {6} And your selves know that I have served your father to the uttermost of my power. {7} Yea your father also hath circumvented me, and hath changed my wages ten times: and yet God hath not suffered him to hurt me. {8} If at any time he said: They of diverse colours shall be thy wages; all the sheep brought forth young of diverse colours. But when he said contrary: Thou shalt take all the white ones for thy wages; all the flocks brought forth white ones. {9} And God hath taken your father's substance, and given it to me. {10} For after the time came of the ewes conceiving, I lifted up mine eyes, and saw in my sleep the males ascending upon the females of diverse colours, and the spotted, and the speckled. {11} And the Angel of God said to me in sleep: Jacob? And I answered: Here I am. {12} Who said: Lift up thine eyes, and see all the males ascending upon the females, them of diverse colours, the spotted and the speckled. For I have seen all things that Laban hath done to thee. {13} I am the God of Bethel, where thou didst anoint the stone, and didst vow the vow unto me. Now therefore arise, and go out of this land, returning into the land of thy nativity. {14} And Rachel and Lia answered: Have we any thing left in the goods and heritage of our father's house? {15} Hath he not reputed us as strangers, and sold us, and eaten up the price of us? {16} But God hath taken our father's riches, and delivered them to us, and to our children: wherefore do all things that God hath commanded thee. {17} Jacob therefore rose up, and setting his children and wives upon camels, went his way. {18} And he took all his substance, and flocks, and whatsoever he had gotten in Mesopotamia, and went forward to Isaac his father into the land of Chanaan. {19} At that time Laban was gone to shear his sheep, and Rachel stole the idols of her father. {20} And Jacob would not confess to his father in law that he fled. {21} And when he was gone as well himself as all things that were his right, & having passed the river was marching on to the Mount Galaad, {22} it was told Laban the third day that Jacob fled. {23} Who, taking his brethren unto him, pursued him seven days: and he overtook him in the Mount Galaad. {24} And he saw in his sleep God saying unto him: Take heed thou speak not roughly any thing against Jacob. {25} And Jacob had now pitched his tent in the mountain: and when he with his brethren had overtaken him, he pitched his tent in the same Mount Galaad. {26} And he said to Jacob: Why didst thou so, that unwitting to me thou wouldest carry away my daughters as captives with the sword? {27} Why wouldest thou fly without my knowledge, and not tell me, that I might have brought thee on the way with joy, and songs, and timbrels, and citterns? {28} Thou hast not suffered me to kiss my sons and daughters: thou hast done foolishly: now also indeed, {29} my hand is able to requite thee evil: but the God of your father said unto me yesterday: Take heed thou speak not any thing against Jacob roughly. {30} Suppose thou didst desire to go to thy friends, and hadst a longing to thy father's house, why didst thou steal my gods? {31} Jacob answered: In that I departed unwitting to thee, I feared lest thou wouldest take away thy daughters by force. {32} But whereas thou chargest me with theft; with whom soever thou shalt find thy gods, let him be slain before our brethren: search whatsoever of thy things thou shalt find with me, and take away. Saying this, he knew not that Rachel had stolen the idols. {33} Laban therefore having gone into the tent of Jacob, and of Lia, and of both the handmaids, found them not. And when he was entered into Rachel's tent, {34} she in haste hid the idols under the camel's litter, and sat thereupon: and when he had sought all the tent, and found nothing, {35} she said: Let not my lord be angry that I can not rise up before thee, because according to the custom of women it is now chanced to me. So his carefulness in seeking was deluded. {36} And Jacob being angry said in chiding manner: For what fault of mine, and for what offence of my part hast thou so chased after me, {37} and searched all my household-stuff? What hast thou found of all the substance of thy house? Lay it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, and let them judge between me and thee. {38} Have I therefore been with thee twenty years? Thy ewes and goats were not barren, the wethers of thy flock I did not eat: {39} neither that which the beast had caught did I shew to thee, I made good all the damage: whatsoever perished by theft thou didst exact it of me: {40} day and night was I parched with heat, and with frost, & sleep did fly from mine eyes. {41} And in this sort have I served thee in thy house twenty years, fourteen for thy daughters, and six for thy flocks: thou hast changed also my wages ten times. {42} Unless the God of my father Abraham, and the fear of Isaac had holpen me, peradventure now thou hadst sent me away naked: God beheld my affliction and the labour of my hands, and rebuked thee yesterday. {43} Laban answered him: The daughters are mine and the children, and thy flocks, and all things that thou seest are mine: what can I do to my daughters, and nephews? {44} Come therefore, let us enter in league: that it may be for a testimony between me and thee. {45} Jacob therefore took a stone, and erected it for a title: {46} and he said to his brethren: Bring hither stones. Who gathering them together made a heap, and they did eat upon it: {47} Which Laban called the witness-heap: and Jacob called the hillock of testimony, either of men according to the property of his language. {48} And Laban said: This heap shall be a witness between me and thee this day, and therefore the name thereof was called Galaad, that is, The witness-heap. {49} Our Lord behold and judge us when we shall be departed one from the other, {50} if thou shalt afflict my daughters, and if thou bring in other wives over them; none is witness of our talk but God, who is present and beholdeth. {51} And he said again to Jacob: Behold this heap, and the stone which I have erected between me and thee, {52} shall be a witness: this heap, I say, and the stone, be they for a testimony, if either I shall pass beyond it going towards thee, or thou shalt pass beyond it, thinking harm to me. {53} The God of Abraham, and the God of Nachor judge between us, the God of their father, Jacob therefore sware by the fear of his father Isaac: {54} and after he had offered victims in the mountain, he called his brethren to eat bread. Who when they had eaten, lodged there. {55} but Laban arising in the night, kissed his sons, and daughters, and blessed them: and returned unto his place.

Angels meet Jacob by the way. 3. He sendeth messengers and gifts to pacify his brother Esau. 24. Wrestling with an Angel is not overcome, in fine the Angel benumbeth his thigh, blesseth him, and foretelleth that he shall be called Israel.

{1} JACOB also went on his journey that he had begun: and the Angels of God met him. {2} Whom when he had seen, he said: These are the Camps of God, and he called the name of that place Mahanaim, that is, Camps. {3} And he sent also messengers before him to Esau his brother into the land of Seir, into the country of Edom: {4} and he commanded them, saying: Thus speak ye unto my lord Esau: This saith thy brother Jacob: I have sojourned, and have been with Laban until this present day. {5} I have oxen, & asses, & sheep, & men servants: & women servants: & now I send a legacy to my lord, that I may find grace in thy sight. {6} And the messengers returned to Jacob, saying: We came to Esau thy brother, & behold he cometh with speed to meet thee with four hundred men. {7} Jacob feared exceedingly: and being sore afraid divided the people that was with him, the flocks also and the sheep, and the oxen, and the camels, into two troops, {8} saying: If Esau come to one troop, and strike it, the other troop that remaineth shall be saved. {9} And Jacob said: O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac; O Lord that didst say to me: Return into thy land, and into the place of thy nativity, and I will do thee good: {10} I am inferior to all thy mercies, and thy truth that thou hast fulfilled to thy servant. With my staff I passed over this Jordan: and now with two troops I do return. {11} Deliver me from the hand of my brother Esau, because I am sore afraid of him: lest perhaps he come, and strike the mother with the children. {12} Thou didst say that thou wouldest do good to me, and dilate my seed as the sand of the sea, which for multitude can not be numbered. {13} And when he had slept there that night, he separated of those things which he had, gifts to his brother Esau, {14} she goats two hundred, he goats twenty, ewes two hundred, and rams twenty, {15} thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine, and twenty bulls, twenty she asses, and their foals ten. {16} And he sent by the hands of his servants every flock by it-self, and he said to his servants: Go before me, and let there be a space between flock and flock. {17} And he commanded the former, saying: If thou meet my brother Esau, and he ask thee, whose art thou? Or whither goest thou? Or whose are these that thou doest follow? {18} Thou shalt answer: Jacob's thy servant, he hath sent them for gifts to my lord Esau: himself also cometh after us. {19} In like manner he gave commandments to the second, and the third, and to all that followed the flocks, saying: With the self-same words speak ye to Esau, when you shall find him. {20} And ye shall add: Jacob also thy servant himself followeth on after us; for he said: I will pacify him with the gifts that go before, and afterward I will see him, perhaps he will be gracious unto me. {21} The gifts therefore went before him, but himself lodged that night in the camp. {22} And when he was risen early, he took his two wives, and his handmaids as many, with his eleven sons, and passed over the ford Jaboc. {23} And when he had set over all things that appertained to him, {24} he tarried alone: and behold a man wrestled with him till morning. {25} Who when he saw that he could not overcome him, he touched the sinew of his thigh, and forthwith it shrank. {26} And he said to him: Let me go for it is break of day. He answered: I will not let thee go, unless thou bless me. {27} He therefore said: What is thy name? He answered: Jacob. {28} But he, no, thy name, quoth he, shall not be called Jacob. But Israel: for if thou hast been strong against God, how much more shalt thou prevail against men? {29} Jacob asked him: Tell me by what name art thou called? He answered: Why dost thou ask my name? and blessed him in the same place. {30} And Jacob called the name of the place Phanuel, saying: I have seen God face to face, and my soul was made safe. {31} And immediately the sun rose to him, after that he was past Phanuel; but he halted on his foot. {32} For which cause the children of Israel eat not the sinew, that shrank in Jacob's thigh, unto this present day: because he touched the sinew of his thigh, and it shrank.

Jacob seeing Esay come with a great troop of men, feareth harm, but is most courteously entertained by him. 10. He hardly persuaded Esau to take gifts, 13. and to return home. 17. So Jacob coming by Socoth to Salem, there buyeth a field, pitcheth his tents, and erecteth an Altar.

{1} AND Jacob lifting up his eyes, saw Esau coming, and with him four hundred men: and he divided the children of Lia, and of Rachel, and of the two handmaids: {2} and he put both the handmaids and their children foremost: and Lia and her children in the second place: and Rachel and Joseph last. {3} And himself going forward adored prostrate to the ground seven times, until his brother came near. {4} Esau therefore running to meet his brother, embraced him: and clasping him fast about the neck, and kissing him wept. {5} And casting up his eyes he saw the women and their little ones, and said: What mean these? And do they pertain to thee? He answered: They are the little ones which God hath given to me thy servant. {6} And the handmaids and their children coming near bowed themselves. {7} Lia also with her children came near: and when they had adored in like manner, last Joseph and Rachel adored. {8} And Esau said: What are the troops that I did meet? He answered: That I might find grace before my lord. {9} But he said: I have plenty, my brother, be thy things to thy self, {10} And Jacob said: Do not so, I beseech thee, but if I have found grace in thine eyes, take a little present at my hands: for so have I seen thy face as if I should have seen the countenance of God: be gracious to me, {11} and take the blessing which I have brought thee, and which God hath given me, who giveth all things. Scarce at his brother's great instance taking it, {12} he said: let us march on together, and I will accompany thee in thy journey. {13} And Jacob said: My lord thou knowest that I have with me little ones, and sheep, and kine with young: which if I cause to overlabour themselves in going, in one day all the flocks will die. {14} It may please my lord to go before his servant: and I will follow softly after him, as I shall see my little ones to be able, until I come to my lord in Seir. {15} Esau answered: I beseech thee, that of my people at the leastwise, which is with me, there may remain some to accompany thee in the way. It is not needful, said he, this only I have need of, that I may find grace (my lord) in thy sight. {16} Esau therefore returned that day the same way that he came, into Seir. {17} And Jacob cometh into Socoth: where having built a house, and pitched his tents, he called the name of that place Socoth, that is, Tabernacles. {18} and he passed into Salem a city of the Sichimites, which is in the land of Chanaan, after he returned from Mesopotamia of Siria: and he dwelt beside the town. {19} And he bought that part of the field, wherein he had pitched his tents, of the children of Hemor, the father of Sichem, for an hundred lambs. {20} And erecting an altar there, on it he called upon the most Mighty God of Israel.

For ravishing Dina the Sichimites (being first circumcised) are slain by Simeon & Levi her brothers. 27. The rest of Jacob's sons spoil the city. 30. Jacob blameth them, fearing harm may come by this fact.

{1} AND Dina the daughter of Lia went forth to see the women of that country. {2} Whom when Sichem had seen, the son of Hemor the Hevite, the Prince of that land, he was in love with her: and he took her away, and lay with her, by force ravishing the virgin. {3} And his soul was fast knit unto her, and whereas she was sad, he comforted her with sweet words. {4} And going to Hemor his father, he said: Take me this wench to be my wife. {5} Which when Jacob had heard, his sons being absent and occupied in feeding of the cattle, he held his peace till they returned. {6} And when Hemor, Sichem's father was come forth to speak unto Jacob, {7} behold his sons came out of the field; and hearing what had passed, they were passing wrath, because he had done a foul thing in Israel, and committed an unlawful fact in ravishing Jacob's daughter. {8} Hemor therefore spake to them: The soul of my son Sichem is fastened to your daughter: Give her unto him to wife: {9} and let us contract marriages one with another: give us your daughters, and take you our daughters. {10} And dwell with us: the land is at your commandment, till, occupy, and possess it. {11} Yea and Sichem also said to her father and to her brethren: Let me find grace in your sight: and what soever you shall appoint I will give: {12} raise the dowry, and require gifts, and I shall gladly give what you shall demand: only give me this wench to wife. {13} Jacob's sons answered Sichem & his father in guile, being wrath for the deflowering of their sister: {14} We can not do that which you demand, nor give our sister to an uncircumcised person; which with us is an unlawful & abominable thing. {15} But in this order we may be considerate, if you will be like to us, and all the man sex among you be circumcised: {16} then will we give and take mutually your daughters, and ours: and we will dwell with you, and will be one people: {17} but if you will not be circumcised, we will take our daughter, and depart. {18} The offer pleased Hemor and Sichem his son: {19} neither did the young man make delay, but forthwith fulfilled that which was demanded: for he loved the wench exceedingly, and he was the greatest man in all his father's house. {20} And going into the gate of the city, they spake to the people: {21} These men are men of peace, and are willing to dwell with us: let them occupy in the land, and till it, which being large and wide doth lack men to till it: their daughters we shall take to wife, and ours we will give to them. {22} One thing there is for the which so great a good is deferred: If we circumcise our man sex, following the rite of the nation. {23} And their substance, and cattle, and all things that they possess, shall be ours: only in this let us condescend, and dwelling together we shall make one people {24} And they all assented, and circumcised all the man sex. {25} And behold the third day, when the grief of the wounds is most painful: Jacob's two sons Simeon and Levi, the brothers of Dina, taking their swords, entered into the city boldly: and killing all the man sex, {26} murdered withal Hemor and Sichem, taking away Dina their sister out of Sichem's house. {27} When they were gone forth, the other sons of Jacob ran in upon them that were slain, and spoiled the city in revenge of the rape. {28} And wasting all things that were in their houses and fields, their sheep and herds, and asses, {29} their little ones also, and their wives they led away captive. {30} Which things when they had boldly achieved, Jacob said to Simeon and Levi: You have troubled me, and made me odious to the Chananites, and Pherezites, the inhabitants of this land. We are few: they being gathered together will strike me; and I and my house shall be destroyed. {31} They answered: What? Should they abuse our sister as a strumpet?

Jacob purging his whole family of idols, goeth by God's commandment into Bethel. 7. There buildeth an Altar. 8. Debora dieth. 9. God appearing again to Jacob blesseth him, and changeth his name into Israel 16. Rachel bearing Benjamin dieth, and is buried in Bethlehem, 22. Ruben lieth with Bala. 23. Israel's twelve sons are recited. 28. Isaac dieth at the age of [180]. years: and his sons Esau and Jacob bury him.

{1} IN the mean time God spake to Jacob: Arise, and go up to Bethel, and dwell there, and make an altar to God that appeared to thee when thou didst fly from Esau thy brother. {2} And Jacob having called together all his house, said: Cast away the strange gods that are among you, and be cleansed and change your garments. {3} Arise, and let us go up into Bethel, that we may make there an altar unto God: who herd me in the day of my tribulation, and accompanied me in my journey. {4} They gave to him therefore all the strange gods that they had, and the earlets which were in their ears: but he buried them under the terebinth that is behind the city of Sichem. {5} And when they were departed the terror of God invaded all the cities round about, and they durst not pursue them going away. {6} And Jacob came to Luza, which is in the land of Chanaan, surnamed Bethel: he and all the people that was with him. {7} And he builded there an altar, and called the name of that place, The house of God: for there God appeared to him when he fled from his brother. {8} The same time died Debora the nurse of Rebecca, and was buried at the foot of Bethel under an oak: and the name of that place was called The oak of weeping. {9} And God appeared again to Jacob after he returned from Mesopotamia of Siria, and he blessed him, {10} saying: Thou shalt not be called any more Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name. And he called him Israel, {11} and said to him: I am God Almighty, increase thou and multiply: Of thee shall be nations and peoples of nations, kings shall come forth of thy loins. {12} And the land which I gave to Abraham and Isaac, I will give to thee, and to thy seed after thee. {13} And he departed from him. {14} But he erected a title of stone in the place where God had spoken unto him: offering upon it liquid offerings, and pouring oil on it, {15} and calling the name of that place, Bethel. {16} And being gone forth from thence, he came in the spring time to the land which leadeth to Ephrata: wherein when Rachel was in travail, {17} because of difficulty in her travail, she began to be in danger, and the midwife said unto her: Fear not, for thou shalt have also this a son. {18} And her soul departing for pain, and death now at hand, she called the name of her son Benoni, that is the son of my pain: but his father called him Benjamin, that is the son of the right hand. {19} Rachel therefore died, and was buried in the high way that leadeth to Ephrata, this same is Bethlehem. {20} And Jacob erected a title over her sepulchre: This is the title of Rachel's monument, until this present day. {21} Departing thence, he pitched his tent beyond the Flock tower. {22} And when he dwelt in that country, Ruben went, and slept with Bala his father's concubine: which thing he was not ignorant of. And the sons of Jacob were twelve. {23} The sons of Lia: Ruben the first begotten, and Simeon, and Levi, and Judas, and Issachar, and Zabulon. {24} The sons of Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin. {25} The sons of Bala Rachel's handmaid: Dan and Nephthali. {26} The sons of Zelpha Lia's handmaid: Gad and Aser: these are the sons of Jacob, that were born to him in Mesopotamia of Siria. {27} He came also to Isaac his father in Mambre, the city of Arbee, this is Hebron:

wherein Abraham and Isaac sojourned. {28} And the days of Isaac were complete an hundred eighty years. {29} And spent with age he died, and was put to his people, being old and full of days, and Esau and Jacob his sons buried him.

Esau with his wives and children parteth from Jacob. 9. His genealogy is recited, with their habitations.

{1} AND these are the generations of Esau, the same is Edom. daughters of Chanaan: Ada the daughter {2} Esau took wives of the of Elon the Hethite, and Oolibama the daughter of Ana daughter of Sebeon the Hevite: {3} Basemath also the daughter of Ismael sister of Nabajoth. {4} And Ada bare Eliphaz: Basemath bare Rahuel: {5} Oolibama bare Jehus and Ihelon and Core, these are the sons of Esau, that were born to him in the land of Chanaan. {6} And Esau took his wives and sons and daughters, and every soul of his house, and his substance, and cattle, and all that he could have in the land of Chanaan: and he went into an other country, and departed from his brother Jacob. {7} For they were exceeding rich, and could not dwell together: neither was the land of their peregrination able to bear them, for the multitude of flocks. {8} And Esau dwelt in Mount Seir, he is Edom. {9} And these are the generations of Esau the father of Edom in mount Seir, {10} and these are the names of his sons: Eliphaz the son of Ada the wife of Esau: Rahuel also the son of Basemath his wife. {11} And Eliphas had sons: Theman, Omar, Sepho, and Gathan, and Cenes. {12} And Thamna was the concubine of Eliphas the son of Esau: which bare to him Amalech. These are the sons of Ada the wife of Esau. {13} And the sons of Rahuel were Nahath and Zara, Samma and Meza. These were the sons of Basemath the wife of Esau. {14} These also were the sons of Oolibama, the daughter of Ana, the daughter of Sebeon, the wife of Esau, which she bare to him, Jehus, and Ihelon, and Core. {15} These were Dukes of the sons of Esau: the sons of Eliphaz the first-begotten of Esau: Duke Theman, Duke Omar, Duke Sepho, Duke Cenes, {16} Duke Core, Duke Gatham, Duke Amalech, these are the sons of Eliphaz in the land of Edom, & these are the sons of Ada. {17} These also were the sons of Rahuel, the son of Esau: Duke Nahath, Duke Zara, Duke Samma, Duke Meza. And these be the Dukes of Rahuel, in the Land of Edom: these be the sons of Basemath the wife of Esau. {18} And these were the sons of Oolibama the wife of Esau: Duke Jehus, Duke Ihelon, Duke Core. These be the Dukes of Oolibama, the daughter of Ana, and wife of Esau. {19} These are the sons of Esau, and these are the Dukes of them: the same is Edom. {20} These are the sons of Seir the Horreite, the inhabitants of the land: Lotan, and Sobal, and Sebeon, and Ana, {21} and Dison, and Eser, and Disan. These are Dukes of the Horreite, the sons of Seir in the Land of Edom. {22} And Lotan had sons: Hori and Heman. And the sister of Lotan was Thamna. {23} And these were the sons of Sobal: Alvan and Manahat, and Ebal, and Sepho, and Onam. {24} And these were the sons of Sebeon: Aja and Ana. This is Ana that found the hot waters in the wilderness, when he fed the asses of Sebeon his father: {25} and he had a son Dison, and a daughter Oolibama. {26} And these were the sons of Dison: Hamdan, and Eseban, and Jethram, and Charan. {27} These also were the sons of Eser: Balaan, and Zavan, and Acan. {28} And Disan had sons: Hus, and Aram. {29} These were Dukes of the Horreites: Duke Lotan, Duke Sobal, Duke Sebeon, Duke Ana, {30} Duke Dison, Duke Eser, Duke Disan: these were Dukes of the Horreites that ruled in the Land Seir. {31} And the kings that ruled in the land of Edom, before that the children of Israel had a king, were these: {32} Bela the son of Beor, and the name of his city Denaba. {33} And Bela died, and Jobab the son of Zara of Bosra reigned in his stead. {34} And when Jobab was dead, Husam of the land of the Themans reigned in his stead. {35} He also being dead, there reigned in his stead Adad the son of Badad, that struck Madian in the country of Moab: and the name of his city was Avith. {36} And when Adad was dead, there reigned for him Semla of Masreca. {37} He also being dead, Saul of the river Rohoboth, reigned in his stead. {38} And when he also was dead, Balanan the son of Achobor succeeded into the Kingdom. {39} This men also being dead Adar reigned in his place, and the name of his city was Phau: and his wife was called Meetabel, the daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezaab. {40} These therefore be the names of the Dukes of Esau in their kindreds, and places, and callings: Duke Thamna, Duke Alva, Duke Jetheth, {41} Duke Oolibama, Duke Ela, Duke Phinon, {42} Duke Cenez, Duke Theman, Duke Mabsar, {43} Duke Magdiel, Duke Hiram: these are the Dukes of Edom dwelling in the land of their Empire, the same is Esau the father of Idumeans.

Joseph informing his father of his brethren's faults, 5. and telling his dreams, is by them more hated. 13. being sent to visit them, 18. they first think to kill him, 26. but by Judas' counsel sell him to the Ismaelites. 29. unwitting to Ruben. 33. His father lamenteth supposing him to be slain by some wild beast. 36. He is sold again to Putiphar in Aegypt.

{1} AND Jacob dwelt in the land of Chanaan, wherein his father sojourned. are his generations: Joseph when he was {2} And these sixteen years old, fed the flock with his brethren being yet a boy: and he was with the sons of Bala and Zelpha his father's wives: and he accused his brethren to his father of a most wicked crime. {3} And Israel loved Joseph above all his sons, because he had begotten him in his old age and he made him a coat of diverse colours. {4} And his brethren seeing that he was loved of his father more than all his sons, they hated him, neither could they speak any thing to him peaceably. {5} It chanced also that he reported to his brethren a dream that he had seen, which occasion was the seed of great hatred. {6} And he said to them: hear my dream which I have seen: {7} I thought we bound sheaves in the field: and my sheaf arose as it were, and stood, and your sheaves standing about did adore my sheaf. {8} His brethren answered: What? Shalt thou be our King? Or shall we be subject to thy dominion? This occasion of his dreams and words ministered nourishment to the envy and hatred. {9} He saw also another dream, which telling his brethren, he said: I saw in a dream, as it were the sun, and the moon, and eleven stars adore me. {10} Which when he had reported to his father and brethren, his father rebuked him, and said: What meaneth this dream that thou hast seen? Why, shall I and thy mother, and thy brethren adore thee upon the earth? {11} His brethren therefore envied him: but his father considered the thing with himself. {12} And when his brethren abode in Sichem feeding their father's flocks, {13} Israel said to him: Thy brethren feed sheep in Sichem: come, I will send thee to them. Who answering, {14} I am ready; he said to him: Go, and see if all things be well with thy brethren and the sheep, and bring me word again what they do. Being sent therefore from the Vale of Hebron, he came to Sichem: {15} and a man found him there wandering in the field, and asked what he sought. {16} But he answered: I seek my brethren, shew me where they feed the flocks. {17} And the man said to him: They are departed from this place: for I heard them say: Let us go into Dothain. Joseph therefore went forward after his brethren, and found them in Dothain. {18} Who when they had seen him a far off, before he came nigh them, they devised to kill him: {19} and spake among themselves: Behold the dreamer cometh, {20} come, let us kill him, and cast him into an old cistern: and we will say a naughty wild beast hath devoured him: and then it shall appear what his dreams do profit him. {21} And Ruben hearing this, endeavoured to deliver him out of their hands, and said: {22} Do not take away his life, neither shed ye blood: but cast him into this cistern that is in the wilderness, and keep your hands harmless: and he said this, desirous to deliver him out of their hands, and to restore him to his father. {23} As soon therefore as he came unto his brethren, forthwith they stripped him out of his side coat, and of diverse colours, {24} and cast him into the old cistern, that had not water. {25} And sitting to eat bread, they saw Ismaelites, wayfaring men coming from Galaad, and their camels carrying spices, and rosen, and myrrh into Aegypt. {26} Judas therefore said to his brethren: What availeth it us if we kill our brother, and conceal his blood? {27} It is better that he be sold to the Ismaelites, and that our hands be not polluted: for he is our brother and our flesh. His brethren assented to his words. {28} And when the Madianite merchants passed by, they drawing him out of the cistern, sold him to the Ismaelites, for twenty pieces of silver, who brought him into Aegypt. {29} An Ruben returning to the cistern, findeth not the boy: {30} and renting his garments went to his brethren, and said: The boy doth not appear, and whither shall I go? {31} And they took his coat, and dipped it in the blood of a kid which they had killed, {32} sending some that should carry it to their father, and should say: This we have found: see whether it be thy son's coat, or not. {33} Which when the father acknowledged, he said: It is my son's coat, a naughty wild beast hath eaten him, a beast hath devoured Joseph. {34} And tearing his garments, did on sackcloth, mourning his son a great time. {35} And all his children being gathered together to assuage their father's sorrow, he would not take comfort, but said: I will descend unto my son into hell, mourning. And whilst he persevered in weeping, {36} the Madianites sold Joseph in Aegypt to Putiphar an Eunuch of Pharaos, master of the soldiers.

Judas having three sons by a Chanane, 6. marrieth the first, and after his death, the second to Thamar, 10. who also dying, he delayeth to match the third with her. 15. But himself begetteth of her (taking her for a harlot) two sons twins, Phares and Zara:

{1} THE same time Judas going down from his brethren, turned in to a man an Odolamite, named Hiras. {2} And he saw there the daughter of a man of Chanaan, called Sue: and taking her to wife, he did company with her. {3} Who conceived, and bare a son, and called his name Her. {4} And conceiving a child again, she called her son after he was born, Onan. {5} She bare also the third, whom she called Sela: after whose birth, she ceased to bear any more. {6} And Judas gave a wife to Her his first-begotten, named Thamar. {7} Also Her the first-begotten of Judas, was wicked in the sight of our Lord, and was slain of him. {8} Judas therefore said to Onan his son: Company with thy brother's wife, and be joined to her, that thou mayest raise seed to thy brother. {9} He knowing that the children should not be born to himself, companying with his brother's wife, shed his seed upon the ground, lest children might be born in his brother's name. {10} And therefore our Lord struck him, because he did a detestable thing. {11} For the which cause Judas said to Thamar his daughter in law: Be a widow in thy father's house, till Sela my son grow up: for he feared lest he also might die, as his brethren. Who went her way and dwelt in her father's house. {12} And after many days were come and gone, the daughter of Sue the wife of Judas died. Who after his mourning having received consolation, went up to the shearers of his sheep, himself and Hiras his shepherd of his flock, the Odolamite, into Thammas. {13} And it was told Thamar that her father in law came up into Thammas to shear his sheep. {14} Who putting off the garments of her widowhood, took a veil: and changing her habit, sat in the cross way that leadeth to Thammas: because Sela was grown, and she had not taken him to her husband. {15} Whom when Judas had seen, he supposed her to be an harlot: for she had covered her face, lest she should be known. {16} And going unto her, he said: Suffer me to lie with thee: for he knew her not to be his daughter in law. Who answering: What wilt thou give me that thou mayest enjoy my company? {17} He said: I will send thee a kid out of the flocks. And when she said again: I will suffer that thou wilt, if thou give me a pledge, till thou send that which thou dost promise; {18} Judas said: What wilt thou to be given thee for a pledge? She answered: Thy ring, and bracelet, and staff which thou holdest in thy hand. The woman therefore by once companying conceived, {19} and rising she went her way: and putting off the apparel which she had taken, put on the garments of her widowhood. {20} And Judas sent a kid by his shepherd the Odolamite, that he might receive the pledge again, which he had given to the woman: who when he had not found her, {21} he asked the men of that place: Where is the woman that sat in the cross way? All making answer: There was no harlot in this place, {22} he returned to Judas, and said to him: I have not found her: yea the men also of that place said unto me, that there never sat harlot there. {23} Judas said: Let her take it to her, surely she can not charge us with a lie, I sent the kid which I promised: and thou didst not find her. {24} And behold after three months they told Judas, saying: Thamar thy daughter in law hath played the harlot, and her belly seemeth to swell. And Judas said: Bring her forth that she may be burnt. {25} Who when she was led to execution, she sent to her father in law, saying: By that man, whose these things are, have I conceived: look whose the ring is, and the bracelet, and the staff. {26} Who acknowledging the gifts, said: She is juster than I: because I did not give her to Sela my son. But he knew her no more. {27} And when she was ready to be brought to bed, there appeared twins in her belly: and in the very delivery of the infants, one put forth the hand, wherein the midwife tied a scarlet string, saying: {28} This shall come forth the former. {29} But he drawing back his hand, the other came forth: and the woman said: Why is the partition divided for thee? And for this cause called his name Phares. {30} Afterward his brother came forth, in whose hand was the scarlet string: whom she called Zara.

Joseph being in great credit with his Master, hath the whole charge of his house. 7. Contemning his Mistress' solicitation to incontinence, 13. is falsely accused by her to his Master, 20. and cast into prison. 21. Where again he getteth credit, and hath the charge of all the prisoners.

{1} THEREFORE Joseph was brought into Aegypt, and Putiphar an Eunuch of Pharaos, Prince of his army, a man of Aegypt bought him, at the hand of the Ismaelites, by whom he was brought. {2} And our Lord was with him, and he was a man that in all things did prosperously: and he dwelt in his master's house, {3} who knew very well that our Lord was with him, and that all things which he did were directed by him in his hand. {4} And Joseph found grace before his master, and ministered to him: by whom being made ruler over all his things, he governed the house committed to him, and all things that were delivered unto him: {5} and our Lord blessed the house of the Aegyptian for Joseph's sake, and multiplied as well in houses, as in lands all his substance. {6} Neither knew he any other thing, but the bread which he did eat. And Joseph was of beautiful countenance, and comely favoured to behold. {7} After many days therefore his Mistress cast her eyes on Joseph, and said: Sleep with me. {8} Who in no wise assenting to that wicked act, said to her: Behold, my master having delivered all things unto me, knoweth not what he hath in his own house: {9} Neither is there any thing which is not in my power, or that he hath not delivered to me, beside thee, that art his wife: how therefore can I do this wicked thing, and sin against my God? {10} With these kind of words day by day both the woman was importune upon the young man, and he refused the adultery. {11} And it chanced on a certain day, that Joseph went into the house, and did some business without any man with him: {12} and she catching the skirt of his garment, said: Sleep with me. Who leaving the cloak in her hand, fled, and went forth abroad. {13} And when the woman saw the garment in her hands, and her self to be contemned, {14} she called to her the men of her house, and said to them: See he hath brought in an Hebrew to delude us: he came upon me for to lie with me; and when I had cried out, {15} and he heard my voice, he left the cloak that I held, and fled forth. {16} For an argument therefore of her credit she reserved the cloak, & shewed it to her husband returning home, {17} and said: There came unto me the Hebrew servant, whom thou didst bring hither, for to delude me: {18} and when he heard me cry, he left the cloak which I held, and fled forth. {19} His master hearing these things, and giving over light credit to his wife's words, was very wrath: {20} and delivered Joseph into prison, where the king's prisoners were kept, and he was there shut up. {21} And our Lord was with Joseph, and having mercy upon him gave him grace in the sight of the chief of the prison. {22} Who delivered in his hand all the prisoners that were kept in custody: and whatsoever was done, was under him. {23} Neither did himself know anything, having committed all things to him: for our Lord was with him, and directed all his works.

Joseph interpreteth the dreams of two Eunuchs prisoners, 12. that the one should be restored to his office, 16. the other be hanged. 20. The third day the event declared the interpretations to be true, but Joseph is forgotten.

{1} THESE things being so done, it chanced that two Eunuchs, the cup-bearer of the King of Aegypt, and his baker, offended against their lord. {2} And Pharao being wrath against them (for the one was chief of the cup-bearers, the other chief baker) {3} he sent them into the prison of the captain of the soldiers, in which Joseph also was prisoner. {4} But the keeper of the prison delivered them to Joseph, who also ministered to them: some little time was passed, and they were kept in custody. {5} And they saw each of them both a dream in one night, according to an interpretation agreeing to themselves: {6} to whom when Joseph was entered in the morning, and saw them sad, {7} he asked them, saying: Why is your countenance sadder to day than it was wont? {8} Who answered: We have seen a dream, and there is no body to interpret it to us. And Joseph said to them: Why doth not interpretation belong to God? Tell me what you have seen. {9} The chief of the cup-bearers first told his dream: I saw before me a vine, {10} wherein were three branches, growing by little and little into buds, and after the blossoms, the grapes waxed ripe: {11} and the cup of Pharao in my hand: and I took the grapes, and wrung them into the cup which I held, and I gave the cup to Pharao. {12} Joseph answered: This is the interpretation of the dream: The three branches, are yet three days: {13} after the which Pharao will remember thy service, & will restore thee to thy old degree: & thou shalt give him the cup according to thine office, as before thou hadst wont to do. {14} Only remember me, when it shall be well with thee, and do me this mercy, to put Pharao in mind that he take me out of this prison: {15} because I was taken away by stealth, out of the land of the Hebrews, and here an innocent was I cast into the lake. {16} The master of the bakers seeing that he had wisely resolved the dream, he said: And I also saw a dream, that I had three baskets of meal upon my head: {17} and that in one basket that was the higher, I carried all meats that are made by the art of baking, and that the birds did eat out of it. {18} Joseph answered: This is the interpretation of the dream: The three baskets, are yet three days: {19} after the which Pharao will take thy head from thee, and hang thee on the cross, and the fowls shall tear thy flesh. {20} The third day after this was the birth-day of Pharao: who making a great feast to his servants, at the banquet he remembered the master of the cup-bearers, and the chief of the bakers. {21} And he restored the one into his place, to reach him the cup, {22} the other he hanged on a gibbet, that the truth of the interpreter might be approved. {23} And yet notwithstanding the chief of the cup-bearers, prosperous things succeeding, forgat his interpreter.

Pharao dreaming of fat & lean kine: 5. also of full and thin ears of corn, 8. no other being able to interpret, 9. Joseph is remembered. 25. Who interpreting the same, 38. is made ruler over all Aegypt, 50. marrieth, and hath two sons, Manasses and Ephraim.

{1} AFTER two years Pharao saw a dream. He thought he stood upon a river, the which came up seven kine, fair and fat {2} out of exceedingly: and they fed in marsh places. {3} Other seven also came up out of the river, foul, and carrion lean: and they fed on the very bank of the river, in green places: {4} and they devoured them that had the marvelous beauty and good state of bodies. Pharao after he waked, {5} slept again, and saw another dream: Seven ears of corn grew forth upon one stalk full and fair: {6} there sprang also other ears as many, thin and blasted with adustion, {7} devouring all the beauty of the former. Pharao awaking up after his rest, {8} and when morning was come being frightened with fear, he sent to all the interpreters of Aegypt, and to all the wise men: and they being called for, told them his dream, neither was there any that could interpret it. {9} Then at length the master of the cup-bearers remembering himself, said: I confess my sin: {10} The king being angry with his servants, commanded me and the chief of the bakers to be cast into the prison of the Captain of the soldiers: {11} where in one night both of us saw a dream portending things to come. {12} There was there a young man an Hebrew, servant to the same Captain of the soldiers, to whom telling our dreams, {13} we heard whatsoever afterward the event of the thing proved to be so. For I was restored to my office, and he was hanged upon a gibbet. {14} Forthwith at the King's commandment, Joseph being brought out of the prison they polled him: and changing his apparel, brought him unto him. {15} To whom he said: I have seen dreams, and there is not any that can expound them; which I have heard, thou dost most wisely interpret. {16} Joseph answered: Without me, God shall answer prosperous things to Pharao. {17} Pharao therefore told that he had see: Me thought I stood upon the bank of the river, {18} and seven kine came up out of the bank of the river, exceeding fair, and full of flesh: which grazed on green places in a marsh pasture. {19} And behold there followed these other seven kine, so passing ill favoured and lean, that I never saw the like in the land of Aegypt; {20} which having devoured and consumed the former, {21} gave no token of their fullness: but with the like leanness & deformity looked heavily. Awaking, and fallen again into a deep sleep, {22} I saw a dream: Seven ears of corn grew forth upon one stalk, full and very fair. {23} Other seven also thin and blasted with adustion, sprang of the stalk, {24} which devoured the beauty of the former: I told the dream to the conjecturers, and there is no man that can declare it. {25} Joseph answered: The king's dream is one: God hath shewed to Pharao the things that he will do. {26} The seven fair kine, and the seven full ears, be seven years of plentifullness and both contain the self-same meaning of the dream. {27} Also the seven lean and thin kine, that came up after them, and the seven thin ears, and blasted with the burning wind, are seven years of famine to come. {28} Which shall be fulfilled in this order. {29} Behold there shall come seven years of great fertility in the whole Land of Aegypt: {30} after which shall follow other seven years of so great sterility, that all the abundance before shall be forgotten: for the famine shall consume all the land, {31} and the greatness of the scarcity shall destroy the greatness of the plenty. {32} And in that thou didst see the second time a dream pertaining to the same thing, it is a token of the certainty for that the word of God shall come to pass, and be fulfilled speedily. {33} Now therefore let the King provide a wise man and industrious, & make him Ruler over the Land of Aegypt: {34} that he may appoint overseers overall countries: and gather into barns the fifth part of the fruits, during the seven years of the fertility, {35} that now presently shall ensue: and let all the corn be laid up under Pharao's hands, and let it be reserved in the cities. {36} And let it be in a readiness against the famine of seven years to come, which shall oppress Aegypt, and the land shall not be consumed with scarcity. {37} The counsel pleased Pharao, and all his servants: {38} and he spake to them: Can we find such an other man, that is full of the spirit of God? {39} He said therefore to Joseph: Because God hath shewed thee all things that thou hast spoken, can I find a wiser and one like unto thee? {40} Thou shalt be over my house, & at the commandment of thy mouth all the people shall obey: only in the throne of the Kingdom I will go before thee. {41} And again Pharao said to Joseph: Behold, I have appointed thee over the whole land of Aegypt. {42} And he took his ring from his own hand, and gave it into his hand: and he put upon him a silk robe, and put a chain of gold about his neck. {43} And he made him go up into his second chariot, the crier proclaiming that all should bow their knee before him, and that they should know he was made Governor over the whole Land of Aegypt. {44} And the King said to Joseph: I am Pharao: without thy commandment no man shall move hand or foot in all the land of Aegypt. {45} And he turned his name, & called him in the Aegyptian tongue the Saviour of the world. And he gave him to wife Aseneth the daughter of Putiphar Priest of Heliopolis. Joseph therefore went forth to the land of Aegypt {46} (and he was thirty years old when he stood in the sight of King Pharao) and did circuit all the countries of Aegypt. {47} And the fertility of the seven years came: and the corn being bound up into sheaves was gathered into the barns of Aegypt. {48} All the abundance also of grain was laid up in every city. {49} And there was so great abundance of wheat, that it became equal to the sand of the sea, and the plenty exceeded measure. {50} And there were born unto Joseph who sons before the famine came: whom Aseneth the daughter of Putiphar Priest of Heliopolis bare him. {51} And he called the name of the first-begotten Manasses, saying: God made me to forget all my labours, and my father's house. {52} The name also of the second he called Ephraim, saying: God hath made me to increase in the land of my poverty. {53} Therefore when the seven years of the plentifullness, that had been in Aegypt were passed: {54} the seven years of scarcity began to come, which Joseph foretold: and in the whole world the famine prevailed, but in all the land of Aegypt there was bread. {55} The which being in hunger, the people cried to Pharao, desiring food. To whom he answered: Go ye to Joseph: & whatsoever he shall say to you, that do ye. {56} And the famine daily increased in all the land: and Joseph opened all the barns, and sold to the Aegyptians: for them also the famine had oppressed. {57} And all Provinces came into Aegypt, to buy victuals, and to moderate the misery of the scarcity.

Jacob sendeth ten of his sons to buy corn in Aegypt. 7. where Joseph knowing them, they not knowing him, with hard speeched putteth them in prison. 18. At last Simeon remaining in custody, till Benjamin be brought, the rest are dismissed. 25. with their money, unknown to them, in their sacks.

{1} AND Jacob hearing that victuals were sold in Aegypt, he said to his sons: Why neglect ye? {2} I have heard that wheat is sold in Aegypt: Go ye down and buy us necessaries, that we may live and not be consumed with lack. {3} Therefore the ten brethren of Joseph going down to buy corn in Aegypt, {4} Benjamin being kept at home by Jacob, who said to his brethren: Lest perhaps he take any harm in the journey: {5} entered into the land of Aegypt with others that went to buy. For the famine was in the land of Chanaan. {6} And Joseph was Prince in the land of Aegypt, and at his pleasure corn was sold to the people. And when his brethren had adored him, {7} and he knew them, he spake as it were to strangers somewhat roughly, asking them: From whence came you? Who answered: From the Land of Chanaan, that we may buy necessaries to live. {8} And yet himself knowing his brethren, was not known of them. {9} And remembering the dreams, which sometimes he had seen, he said to them: You are spies: to view the weaker parts of the land you are come. {10} Who said: It is not so, my Lord, but thy servants are come to buy victuals. {11} We are all the sons of one man: we are come as men of peace, neither do thy servants go about any evil. {12} To whom he answered: It is otherwise: you came to consider the undefended parts of this land.

{13} But they: We thy servants, say they, are twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the Land of Chanaan: the youngest is with our father, the other is not living. {14} This is it, quoth he, that I said: You are spies. {15} Now presently I will take a trial of you: by the health of Pharao you shall not depart hence, until your youngest brother do come, {16} Send you one of you to bring him: and you shall be in prison till the things be proved which you have said, whether they be true or false: otherwise by the health of Pharao you are spies. {17} Therefore he put them in prison three days. {18} And the third day bringing them out of prison, he said: Do as I have said, and you shall live: for I fear God. {19} If you be men of peace, let one of your brethren be bound in prison: and go ye your ways, and carry the corn that you have bought unto your houses, {20} and bring your youngest brother to me, that I may prove your sayings to be true, and that you die not. They did as he had said, {21} and they talked one to an other: Worthily do we suffer these things, because we have sinned against our brother, seeing the distress of his soul whilst he besought us, and we heard not: therefore is this tribulation come upon us. {22} Among whom Ruben one of them, said: Why, did not I say to you: Sin not against the boy; and you heard me not? Lo his blood is required. {23} And they knew not that Joseph understood: because he spake to them by an interpreter. {24} And he turned away himself a little while, and wept: and returning he spake to them. {25} And taking Simeon, and binding him in their presence, he commanded his servants that they should fill up their sacks with wheat, and put every man's money again in their bags, giving them besides for to eat on the way: who did so. {26} But they carrying their corn upon their asses, took their journey. {27} And one of them opening his sack to give his beast provender in the Inn, beholding the money in the sack's mouth, {28} he said to his brethren: My money is given me again, behold it is in the sack. And being astonished and troubled amongst themselves, they said: What is this, that God hath done unto us? {29} And they came to Jacob their father into the land of Chanaan, & they told him all things that had chanced unto them, saying: {30} The Lord of the land spake to us roughly, & thought us to be spies of the province, {31} to whom we answered: We are men of peace, neither do we attempt any treachery. {32} We are twelve brethren born of one father: one is not living, the youngest is with our father in the Land of Chanaan. {33} Who said to us: Thus shall I try that you be men of peace: Leave one of your brethren with me, and take ye provision necessary for your houses, and go your ways, {34} and bring your youngest brother to me, that I may know you are not spies: and you may receive this fellow again, that is kept in prison: and afterwards may have license to buy what things you will. {35} This being said when they poured out their corn, every man found his money tied in the mouth of the sacks: and all being astonished together, {36} their father Jacob said: You have made me to be without children, Joseph is not living, Simeon is kept in bonds, and Benjamin you will take away: all these evils, are fallen upon me. {37} To whom Ruben answered: Kill my two sons, if I bring him not again to thee: deliver him into my hand, and I will restore him unto thee. {38} But he said: My son shall not go down with you: his brother is dead, and he alone is remaining: if any adversity shall chance to him in the land to the which you go, you shall bring down my hoar hairs with sorrow unto hell.

The famine pressing the land, Jacob willeth his sons to go again into Aegypt to buy more corn: 3. Who refusing to go without Benjamin, 11. he is sent with them, and presents and double money, lest the former were brought back by error. 16. Joseph seeing Benjamin, 23. delivereth Simeon, and entertaineth them all at dinner.

{1} IN the mean time the famine did oppress all the land very sore, being spent, which they had brought out {2} And the provision of Aegypt, Jacob said to his sons: Go again, and buy us a little victual. {3} Judas answered: That Same man denounced unto us under attestation of an oath, saying: You shall not see my face, unless you bring your youngest brother with you. {4} If therefore thou wilt send him with us, we will go forward together, and will buy necessaries for thee: {5} but if thou wilt not, we will not go: for the man, as we have often said, denounced unto us saying: You shall not see my face without your youngest brother. {6} Israel said to them: You have done this to my misery, in that you told him that you had an other brother also. {7} But they answered: The man asked us in order our progeny: if our father lived; if we had a brother: and we answered him consequently to that which he demanded: could we know that he would say: Bring hither your brother with you? {8} Judas also said to his father: Send the boy with me, that we may set forward, and may live: lest we and our little ones die. {9} I take upon me the boy: require him of my hand, unless I bring him again, and restore him to thee, I will be guilty of sin against thee for ever. {10} If delay had not been made, we had been come now the second time. {11} Therefore Israel their father said to them: If it must needs be so, do that you will: take of the best fruits of the land in your vessels, and carry to the man for presents, a courtesy of rosen, & of honey, & of incense, of myrrh, of terebinth, and of almonds. {12} Double money also carry with you: and recarry that you found in your sacks, lest perhaps it was done by an error: {13} but take also your brother, and go to the man. {14} And my God almighty make him favourable unto you; and send back with you your brother, whom he keepeth, and this Benjamin: as for me I shall be desolate without children. {15} The men therefore took the presents, & the double money, & Benjamin; & went down into Aegypt, & stood before Joseph. {16} Whom when he had seen & Benjamin withal, he commanded the steward of his house, saying: Bring in the men into the house, and kill victims, and prepare a feast; because they shall eat with me at noon. {17} He did that which was commanded him, and brought the men into the house. {18} And there being sore afraid, they said one to another: because of the money which we carried back the first time in our sacks, we are brought in: that he may turn upon us a false accusation, and forcibly bring both us and our asses into bondage. {19} Wherefore in the very door stepping to the steward of the house, {20} They spake: Sir, we desire thee to hear us. Now once before we came down to buy provision: {21} Which being bought, when we were come to the Inn, we opened our sacks, and found our money in the mouths of the sacks: which we have now brought again in the same weight. {22} But we have brought other money besides, to buy the things that are necessary for us: our conscience is not privy, who put it in our bags. {23} But he answered: Peace be with you, fear you not: your God, and the God of your father hath given you treasures in your sacks. For the money, which you gave me, I have for good. And he brought forth Simeon unto them. {24} And being brought into the house, he fetched water, and they washed their feet, and he gave provender to their asses. {25} But they made ready the presents, till Joseph should come in at noon: for they had heard that they should eat bread there. {26} Therefore Joseph came in to his house, and they offered him presents holding them in their hands, and they adored prostrate to the ground. {27} But he courteously resaluting them, asked them saying: Is the old man your father in health, of whom you told me? Is he yet living. {28} Who answered: Thy servant our father is in health, he is yet living. And bowing themselves they adored him. {29} And Joseph lifting up his eyes, saw Benjamin his brother of the same mother, and said: is this your young brother, of whom you told me? And again: God, saith he, be merciful unto thee my son. {30} And he made haste because his heart was moved upon his brother, and tears brake forth: and entering into his chamber he wept. {31} And when he had washed his face, coming forth again, he refrained himself, and said: Set bread on the table. {32} Which being set down, to Joseph apart, and to his brethren apart, to the Aegyptians also that did eat with him apart (for it is unlawful for the Aegyptians to eat with the Hebrews, and they think such a feast propane) {33} they sat before him, the first begotten according to his first-birth, and the youngest according to his age. And they marveled out of measure, {34} Taking the portions that they received of him: and the greater portion came to Benjamin, so that it exceeded by five parts. And they drank and were inebriated with him.

Joseph causeth their sacks to be filled with corn, and their money to be put again therein, and in Benjamin's sack also a silver cup, 4. and when they were parted, sending after them, chargeth them with theft. 12. And the cup being found in Benjamin's sack, they all much afflicted return to Joseph. 17. who threatening to keep Benjamin, 18. Judas entreateth, 32. & finally offereth himself to servitude for him.

{1} AND Joseph commanded the steward of his house, saying: Fill their sacks with corn, as much as they can hold: and put the money of every one in the top of his sack. {2} And in the sack's mouth of the younger put my silver cup, and the price which he gave for the wheat. And it was so done. {3} And when the morning rose, they were dismissed with their asses. {4} And they were now departed out of the city, and had gone forward a little way: then Joseph sending for the steward of his house, said: Arise, quote he, and pursue the men: and overtaking them say to them: Why have you rendered evil for good? {5} The cup which you have stolen is that wherein my Lord doth drink, and wherein he is wont to divine: you have done a very evil thing. {6} He did as he had commanded. And having overtaken them, he spake to them in the same order. {7} Who answered: Why doth our Lord speak so, as though thy servants had committed so heinous a fact? {8} The money that we found in the top of our sacks, we recarried to thee from the land of Chanaan: & how followeth it, that we have stolen out of thy Lord's house gold or silver? {9} With whom soever of thy servants that shall be found which thou seekest, let him die, and we will be the bondmen of our Lord. {10} Who said to them: Be it done according to your sentence: with whom soever it shall be found, be he my bondmen, and you shall be guiltless. {11} Therefore in haste taking down their sacks upon the ground, every man opened. {12} Which when he had searched, beginning from the elder even to the youngest, he found the cup in Benjamin's sack. {13} But they renting their garments, and loading their asses again, returned into the town. {14} And Judas foremost with his brethren entered in to Joseph (for he was not yet gone out of the place) and they fell together before him on the ground. {15} To whom he said: Why would you do so? Know you not that there is not the like to me in the science of divining. {16} To whom Judas said: What shall we answer, my Lord? Or what shall we speak, or be able justly to pretend? God hath found the iniquity of thy servants: lo we are all bondmen to my Lord, both we, & he with whom the cup was found. {17} Joseph answered: God forbid that I should so do: he that stole the cup, the same be my bondman: and go you free unto your father. {18} And Judas approaching nearer said boldly: I beseech thee my Lord, let thy servant speak a word in thine ears, and be not angry with thy servant: for after Pharao thou art, {19} my Lord. Thou didst ask thy servants the first time: Have you a father or a brother? {20} and we answered thee my Lord: We have a father an old man, and a little boy, that was born in his old age; whose brother by the mother is dead: and his mother hath him only, and his father loveth him tenderly. {21} And thou saidst to thy servants: Bring him hither to me, and I will set mine eyes on him. {22} We suggested to my Lord: The boy can not leave his father: for if he leave him, he will die. {23} And thou saidst to thy servants: Unless your youngest brother come with you, you shall no more see my face. {24} Therefore when we were gone up to thy servant our father, we told him all things that my Lord did speak. {25} And our father said: Go again, and buy us a little wheat. {26} To whom we said: We can not go: if our youngest brother shall go down with us, we will set forward together: otherwise he being absent, we dare not see the man's face. {27} Whereunto he answered: You know that my wife bare me two. {28} One went forth, and you said: A beast did devour him: and hitherto he appeareth not. {29} If you take this also, and ought befall him in the way, you shall bring down my hoar hairs with sorrow unto hell. {30} Therefore if I shall enter to thy servant our father, and the boy be wanting (whereas his life dependeth upon the life of him) {31} and he shall see that he is not with us, he will die, and thy servants shall bring down his hoar hairs with sorrow unto hell. {32} Let me be thy proper servant that did take him into my protection and promised, saying: Unless I bring him again I will be guilty of sin against my father for ever. {33} I therefore thy servant will tarry instead of the child in the service of my Lord, and let the child go up with his brethren. {34} For I can not return to my father, the child being absent; lest I stand by a witness of the calamity that shall oppress my father.

Joseph manifesteth himself to his brethren. Who being much terrified he comforteth them, and weeping embraceth every one. 16. The bruit whereof coming to Pharo, he congratulating commandeth Joseph to call his father with all his family into Aegypt. 21. So the eleven brothers are sent away with gifts & provision for Jacob's journey. 26. All which the father understanding is revived in spirit.

{1} JOSEPH could no longer refrain many standing by in presence: whereupon he commanded that all should go forth, and no stranger should be present at their acknowledging one of another. {2} And he lifted up his voice with weeping, which the Aegyptians heard, and all the house of Pharo. {3} And he said to his Brethren: I am Joseph: is my father yet living? His brethren could not answer him being terribly astonished out of measure. {4} To whom gently he said: Come hither to me. And when they were come near him, I am, quoth he, Joseph your brother, whom you sold into Aegypt. {5} Be not afraid, neither let it seem to you a hard case that you did sell me into these countries: for God sent me before you into Aegypt for your preservation. {6} For it is two years since the famine began to be upon the earth, and yet five years remain, wherein there can be neither earing nor reaping. {7} And God sent me before, that you may be preserved upon the earth, and may have victuals to live. {8} Not by your counsel, but by the will of God was I sent hither: who hath made me as it were a father to Pharo, and Lord of his whole house, and Prince in all the land of Aegypt. {9} Make haste and get ye up to my father, and you shall say to him: Thy son Joseph willeth thus: God hath made me Lord of the whole land of Aegypt: come down to me, tarry not. {10} And thou shalt dwell in the land of Gessen: and thou shalt be near me thou and thy sons, and thy son's children, thy sheep, and thy herds, and all things that thou dost possess. {11} And there I will feed thee (for yet there are five years of famine remaining) lest both thou perish and thy house, and all things that thou dost possess. {12} Behold, your eyes, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin do see, that it is my mouth that speaketh unto you. {13} Report to my father my whole glory & all things that you have seen in Aegypt: make haste, and bring him to me. {14} And falling upon the neck of his brother Benjamin, embracing him he wept: he also in like manner weeping upon his neck. {15} And Joseph kissed all his brethren, and wept upon every one: after which things they were bold to speak unto him. {16} And it was heard of, and very famously reported abroad in the king's court: The brethren of Joseph are come: and Pharo was glad, and all his family. {17} And he spake to Joseph that he should command his brethren, saying: Loading your beasts go into the Land of Chanaan, {18} and take thence your father and kin, and come to me: and I will give you all the good things of Aegypt, that you may eat the marrow of the land. {19} Give commandment also that they take wains out of the land of Aegypt, for the carriage of their little ones and wives: and say: Take up your father, and make haste to come with all speed. {20} Neither do you leave any thing of your household stuff: for all the riches of Aegypt shall be yours. {21}

And the sons of Israel did as it was commanded them. To whom Joseph gave wains according to Pharo's commandment, and victuals for the way. {22} He bade also to be brought up for every one two robes: but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver with five robes of the best: {23} sending to his father as much money & raiment, adding besides them he asses that should carry of all the riches of Aegypt, and as many she asses, carrying wheat for the journey and bread. {24} Therefore he dismissed his brethren, and when they were departing he said to them: Be not angry in the way. {25} Who going up out of Aegypt, came into the land of Chanaan to their father Jacob. {26} And they told him saying: Joseph thy son is living: and he ruleth in all the Land of Aegypt. Which when Jacob heard, awaking as it were out of a heavy sleep, notwithstanding did not believe them. {27} They on the contrary side reported the whole order of the thing. And when he saw the wains and all things that he had sent, his spirit revived, {28} and he said: It sufficeth me if Joseph my son be living yet: I will go, and see him before I die.

Israel warranted in a vision from God, goeth into Aegypt with all his family, 8. who are here recited. 28. Joseph meeting him in Gessen, adviseth him to tell Pharo that they are shepherds by their trade of life.

{1} AND Israel taking his journey with all things that he had and killing there victims to the God of his , came to the well of the oath, father Isaac, {2} he heard him by a vision of the night calling him, and saying unto him: Jacob, Jacob. To whom he answered: Lo here I am. {3} God said to him: I am the most mighty God of thy father: fear not, go down into Aegypt, for into a great nation will I make thee there. {4} I will go down with thee thither, and thence will I bring thee returning: Joseph also shall put his hands upon thine eyes. {5} And Jacob rose up from the well of the oath: and his sons took him up, with their little ones and wives in the wains, which Pharo had sent to carry the old man, {6} and all that he had possessed in the Land of Chanaan: and he came into Aegypt with all his seed, {7} His sons, and nephews, daughters, and all his progeny together. {8} And these are the names of the children of Israel, that entered into Aegypt, himself with his children. His first-begotten Ruben. {9} The sons of Ruben: Henoch and Phallu and Hesron and Charmi. {10} The sons of Simeon: Jamuel and Jamin and Ahod, and Jachin and Sohar, and Saul the Son of Chananites. {11} The sons of Levi: Gerson and Caath and Merari. {12} The sons of Juda: Her & Onan and Sela and Phares and Zara. And Her and Onan died in the land of Chanaan. And there were sons born to Phares: Hesron and Hamul. {13} The sons of Issachar: Thola and Phua and Job and Semron. {14} The sons of Zabulon: Sared and Elon and Jahelel. {15} These are the sons of Lia, which she bare in Mesopotamia of Syria with Dina his daughter. All the souls of his sons and daughters are thirty three. {16} The sons of Gad: Sephion and Haggi and Siuni & Esebon and Heri and Arodi and Areli. {17} The sons of Aser: Jamne and Jesua and Jessui and Beria, Sara also their sister. The sons of Beria: Heber and Melchiel, {18} these be the sons of Zelpha, whom Laban gave to Lia his daughter, and these she bare to Jacob sixteen souls. {19} The sons of Rachel Jacob's wife: Joseph and Benjamin. {20} And there were sons born to Joseph in the Land of Aegypt, which Aseneth the daughter of Putiphar Priest of Heliopolis bare to him: Manasses and Ephraim. {21} The sons of Benjamin: Bela and Bechor and Asbel and Gera and Naaman and Echi and Ros and Mophim and Ophim and Ared. {22} These be the sons of Rachel, which she bare to Jacob: all the souls, fourteen. {23} The sons of Dan: Husim. {24} The sons of Nephthali: Jaziel and Guni and Jeser and Sallem. {25} These be the sons of Bala, whom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter: and these she bare to Jacob; all the souls, seven. {26} All the souls, that entered with Jacob into Aegypt, and that came out of his thigh, besides his son's wives, sixty six. {27} And the sons of Joseph, that were born to him in the land of Aegypt, two souls, All the souls of the house of Jacob, that entered into Aegypt, were seventy. {28} And he sent Judas before him to Joseph, that he should tell him, and he should come into Gessen to meet him. {29} Wither when he was come, Joseph addressing his chariot went up to meet his father, unto the same place: and seeing him fell upon his neck, and as they embraced he wept. {30} And his father said to Joseph: Now will I die with joy, because I have seen thy face, and do leave thee alive. {31} But he spake to his brethren, and to all his father's house: I will go up, & will tell Pharao, and will say to him: My brethren, and my father's house that were in the Land of Chanaan, are come to me: {32} and the men are pastors of sheep, & their trade is to feed flocks: their cattle, & herds, and all that they could have, they have brought with them. {33} And when he shall call you & shall say: What is your trade? {34} You shall answer: We thy servants are pastors, from our infancy until this present, both we and our fathers. And this you shall say, that you may dwell in the Land of Gessen, because the Aegyptians detest all pastors of sheep.

Jacob with his sons being come into Gessen, Pharao granteth them the same place to dwell in. 13. The famine forceth the Aegyptians to sell all their goods, lands, and possessions to the King, 22. except the Priest's part, to whom the King alloweth necessary food, without paying for it. 27. After seventeen years Jacob adjureth Joseph to bury him amongst his Ancestors.

{1} JOSEPH therefore going in told Pharao, saying: My father and brethren, their sheep and herds, and all things that they possess, are come out of the Land of Chanaan; and behold they stay in the Land of Gessen. {2} The utmost also of his brethren five persons he presented before the King: {3} whom he asked: What trade have you? They answered: We thy servants are pastors of sheep, both we, and our fathers. {4} We are come to sojourn in the land, because there is no grass for thy servant's flocks, the famine being very sore in the land of Chanaan: and we desire thee to command that we thy servants may be in the Land of Gessen. {5} And the King therefore said to Joseph: Thy father and thy brethren are come to thee. {6} The Land of Aegypt is in thy sight: make them to dwell in the best place, & deliver them the Land of Gessen. And if so be thou know that there are industrious men among them, appoint them masters of my cattle. {7} After this Joseph brought in his father to the king, and set him before him: who blessed him, {8} and being asked of him: How many be the days of the years of thy life? {9} He answered: The days of the pilgrimage of my life are an hundred thirty years, few and evil, and they are not come to the days of my fathers, in which they were pilgrims. {10} And blessing the king, he went forth. {11} But Joseph gave possession to his father and his brethren in Aegypt, in the best place of the land, in Rhamesses, as Pharao had commanded. {12} And he nourished them, and all his father's house, allowing victuals to every one. {13} For in the whole world there wanted bread. & famine oppressed the land, especially of Aegypt and Chanaan. {14} Out of which he gathered together all the money for the selling of corn, & brought it in unto the king's treasure. {15} And when the buyers wanted money, all Aegypt came to Joseph, saying Give us bread: why die we before thee, our money failing? {16} To whom he answered: Bring your cattle, and for them I will give you victuals, if you have not to pay. {17} Which when they had brought, he gave them sustenance for horses, and sheep, and oxen, and asses: and he sustained them that year for the exchange of the cattle. {18} And they came the second year, and said to him: We will not conceal from our Lord, that our money failing, our cattle withal have failed: neither art thou ignorant, that we have nothing besides our bodies and land. {19} Why therefore shall we die in thy sight? Both we and our land will be thine: buy us to be the king's bondmen, & give us seed, lest for default of tillers the land be turned into a wilderness. {20} Joseph therefore bought all the Land of Aegypt, every man selling his possessions for the greatness of the famine. And he brought it under Pharao's hands, {21} and all the people thereof from the farthest ends of Aegypt, even to the uttermost coasts thereof, {22} saving the land of the Priests, which the king had delivered them: to whom also a certain allowance of victuals was given out of the common barns, and therefore they were not driven to sell their possessions. {23} Joseph therefore said to the people: Behold as you see, Pharao possesseth both you and your land: take seed, and sow the fields, {24} that you may have corn. The fifth part you shall give to the king: the other four I am content you shall have for seed, & for food to your families & your children. {25} Who answered our life is in thy hand: only let our Lord have a respect unto us, and we will gladly serve the King. {26} From that time until this present day in the whole land of Aegypt, the fifth part is payed to the kings, and it became as it were a law, saving the land of the Priests, which was free from this condition. {27} Israel therefore dwelt in Aegypt that is, in the Land of Gessen, and possessed it: and was increased, & multiplied exceedingly. {28} And he lived in it seventeen years: and all the days of his life came to an hundred forty seven years. {29} And when he saw that the day of his death approached, he called his son Joseph, and said to him: If I have found grace in thy sight, put thy hand under my thigh: and thou shalt do me this mercy and truth. Not to bury me in Aegypt: {30} but I will sleep with my fathers, and take me away out of this land, & bury me in the sepulchre of my ancestors. To whom Joseph answered: I will do that thou hast commanded. {31} And he said: Swear then to me. Who swearing, Israel adored God, turning to the bed's head.

Joseph visiteth his father being sick. 5. Who adopteth his two son Manasses and Ephraim, 13. And blesseth them, preferring the younger before the elder, contrary to Joseph's mind. 22. And giveth a portion of land to Joseph, above his brethren.

{1} THESE things being so done, it was told Joseph that his father was sick: who, taking his two sons Manasses and Ephraim, went forward. {2} And it was told the old man: Behold thy son Joseph cometh to thee. Who being strengthened sat on his bed. {3} And Joseph being entered in to him, he said: God Almighty appeared to me in Luza, which is in the Land of Chanaan: and he blessed me, {4} and said: I will increase, and multiply thee, and make thee into multitudes of peoples: and I will give thee this land, and to thy seed after thee for an everlasting possession. {5} Thy two sons therefore which were born to thee in the Land of Aegypt before I came hither to thee, shall be mine: Ephraim and Manasses, as Ruben and Simeon shall be reputed to me. {6} But the rest begotten of thee after them, shall be thine, and shall be called by the name of their brethren in their possessions. {7} For unto me, when I came out of Mesopotamia, Rachel died in the land of Chanaan in the very journey, and it was spring time: and I entered into Ephrata, and buried her by the way side to Ephrata, which by another name is called Bethleem. {8} And seeing his sons he said to him: Who are these? {9} He answered: They are my sons, whom God hath given me in this place. Bring them, quoth he, to me, that I may bless them. {10} For Israel's eyes were dim by reason of very great age, and he could not see clearly. And when they were set beside him, kissing and embracing them, {11} he said to his son: I am not defrauded of thy sight, moreover God hath shewed me thy seed. {12} And when Joseph had taken them from his father's lap, he adored prostrate unto the ground. {13} And he set Ephraim on his right hand, that is, on the left hand of Israel: but Manasses on his own left hand, to wit, on his father's right hand, and put them near to him. {14} Who stretching forth his right hand, put it upon the head of Ephraim the younger brother: and the left upon the head of Manasses, that was the elder, changing hands. {15} And Jacob blessed the sons of Joseph, and said: God, in whose sight my fathers Abraham & Isaac have walked, God that feedeth me from my youth until this present day: {16} The Angel that delivereth me from all evils, bless these children: and be my name called upon them, the names also of my fathers Abraham, and Isaac, and grow they into a multitude upon the earth. {17} And Joseph seeing that his father had put his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, took it heavily: and taking his father's hand he went about to lift it from Ephraim's head & to remove it upon the head of Manasses. {18} And he said to his father: It is not convenient father so to be: because this is the first-begotten put thy right hand upon his head. {19} Who refusing, said: I know my son, I know: and this same indeed shall be into peoples, and shall be multiplied: but his younger brother shall be greater than he: and his seed shall grow into nations. {20} And he blessed them at that time, saying: In thee shall Israel be blessed, and it shall be said: God do unto thee as unto Ephraim, & as unto Manasses. And he set Ephraim before Manasses. {21} And he said to Joseph his son: Behold I die, & God will be with you, and will bring you back into the land of your fathers. {22} I do give thee one portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorrhæan with my sword and bow.

Jacob replenished with the spirit of prophecy, a little before his death, foretelleth his sons many things that shall happen to their posterity. Chargeth some of them with faults past, blesseth every one. 29. Appointeth where to bury him, 32. and dieth.

{1} AND Jacob called his sons, and said to them: Come together, that I may shew you the things that shall come to you in the last days. {2} Come together, and hear you sons of Jacob, hear ye Israel your father. {3} Ruben my first-begotten, thou art my strength, & the beginning of my sorrow: former in gifts, greater in Empire. {4} Thou art poured out as water, increase thou not: because thou didst ascend thy father's bed, and didst defile his couch. {5} Simeon and Levi brethren: vessels of iniquity warring. {6} Into their counsel come not my soul, and in their congregation be not my glory: because in their fury they slew a man, and in their willfulness they undermined a wall. {7} Cursed be their fury, because it is stubborn; and their indignation, because it is hard: I will divide them in Jacob, and will disperse them in Israel. {8} Judas, thee thy brethren shall praise: thy hand shall be in the neck of thine enemies: thy father's children shall adore thee. {9} A lion's whelp Judas: to the prey my son thou didst ascend: taking thy rest thou didst lie as a lion, and as it were a lioness, who shall raise him up? {10} THE SCEPTER SHALL NOT BE TAKEN AWAY FROM JUDAS, AND A DUKE OUT OF HIS THIGH, TILL HE DO COME THAT IS TO BE SENT, AND THE SAME SHALL BE THE EXPECTATION OF THE GENTILES. {11} Tying to the vineyard his colt, and to the vine, o my son, his she ass. He shall wash his stole in wine, and in the blood of the grape his cloak. {12} His eyes are more beautiful than wine, and his teeth whiter than milk. {13} Zabulon shall dwell in the shore of the sea, and in the road of ships reaching as far as Sidon. {14} Issachar a strong ass lying at rest between the borders. {15} He saw rest that it was good; and the earth that it was very good: and he put under his shoulder to carry, and became serving under tributes. {16} Dan shall judge his own people, as also an other tribe in Israel. {17} Be Dan a snake in the way, a serpent in the path, biting the hoofs of the horse, that his rider may fall backward. {18} I will expect THY SALVATION o Lord. {19} Gad, the girded shall fight before him: and himself shall be girded backward. {20} Aser, his bread is fat, and he shall give dainties to kings. {21} Nephthali, a hart let forth, and giving speeches of beauty. {22} Joseph a child increasing, increasing and comely to behold: the daughters coursed to and fro upon the wall. {23} But the dart men did exasperate him, and brawled, and envied him. {24} His bow sat upon the strong, and the bands of his arms and his hands were dissolved, by the hands of the Mighty of Jacob: thence came forth a pastor, the son of Israel. {25} The God of thy father shall be thy helper, and the Almighty shall bless thee with the blessings of heaven from above, with the blessings of the depth that lieth beneath, with the blessings of the paps and of the womb. {26} The blessings of thy father were strengthened with the blessings of his fathers: until the desire of the eternal hills came: be they upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the Nazarite among his brethren. {27} Benjamin a ravening wolf, in the morning shall eat the prey, and in the evening shall divide the spoil. {28} All these in the tribes of Israel twelve: these things spake their father to them, and he blessed every one, with their proper blessings. {29} And he commanded them, saying: I am gathered unto my people: bury you me with my fathers in the double cave, which is in the field of Ephron the Hethite, {30} Against Mambre in the Land of Chanaan, which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hethite for a possession to bury in. {31} There they buried him, and Sara his wife: there was Isaac buried with Rebecca his wife: there also Lia doth lie buried. {32} And when he had finished the precepts wherewith he instructed his sons, he plucked up his feet upon the bed, and died; and he was put unto his people.

Joseph causeth his father's body to be embalmed; 3. the days of mourning being expired, 9. with Phara's leave, Joseph with the ancients of Aegypt, all his brethren, and older sort of Israelites, go and solemnly bury the body in Chanaan. 14. After their return, his brethren fearing lest Joseph well now revenge former injuries, he freely forgiveth all. 22. At the age of [110]. years, adjuring the posterity to carry his bones into Chanaan he dieth, and is put in a coffin.

{1} WHICH Joseph seeing fell upon his father's face weeping and kissing him, commanded his servants the physicians, {2} And he that they should embalm his father with spices. {3} Who fulfilling his commandments, there passed forty days; for this was the manner of corpses embalmed, and Aegypt mourned him seventy days. {4} And the mourning time being expired, Joseph spake to the family of Phara: If I have found grace in your sight, speak in the ears of Phara: {5} for so much as my father did adjure me, saying: Behold I die, in my sepulchre which I digged for my self in the land of Chanaan, thou shalt bury me. I will go up therefore, and bury my father, and return. {6} And Phara said to him: Go up and bury thy father as thou wast adjured. {7} Who going up, there went with him all the ancients of Phara's house, and all the elders of the Land of Aegypt: {8} the house of Joseph with his brethren, saving their little ones, and the flocks and herds, which they had left in the Land of Gessen. {9} He had also in his train chariots and horsemen: and it became no small multitude. {10} And they came to the floor of Atad, which is situate beyond Jordan: where celebrating the exequies with great and vehement mourning, they spent full seven days. {11} Which when the Inhabiters of the Land of Chanaan had seen, they said: This is a great mourning unto the Aegyptians. And therefore the name of that place was called, The mourning of Aegypt. {12} Therefore the sons of Jacob did as he commanded them: {13} and carrying him into the Land of Chanaan, they buried him in the double cave, which Abraham had bought with the field for a possession to bury in of Ephron the Hethite against Mambre. {14} And Joseph returned into Aegypt with his brethren, and with all the train, his father being buried. {15} After whose death his brethren fearing, & talking one with another: Lest perhaps he be mindful of the injury which he suffered, and requite us all the evil that we have done; {16} they advertised him saying: Thy father commanded us before he died, {17} that we should say thus much to thee in his words: I beseech that thou forget the wicked fact of thy brethren, and the sin and malice which they have exercised against thee: we also desire thee, that to the servants of the God of thy father thou remit this iniquity. Whom when Joseph had heard he wept. {18} And his brethren came to him; and adoring prostrate on the ground they said: We are thy servants. {19} To whom he answered: Fear not; can we resist the will of God? {20} You thought evil against me, but God turned that into good, that he might exalt me, as presently you see, and might save many peoples. {21} Fear not: I will feed you and your little ones, and he comforted them, and spake gently & mildly. {22} And he dwelt in Aegypt, with all his father's house: and lived an hundred and ten years. And he saw the children of Ephraim unto the third generation. Also the children of Machir the son of Manasses were born in Joseph's knee. {23} Which things being done he spake to his brethren: After my death God will visit you, and will make you go up out of this land, to the land which he sware to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. {24} And when he had adjured them and said. God will visit you carry my bones with you out of this place: {25} he died, being an hundred and ten years old. And being embalmed with spices, was put in a coffin in Aegypt.

THE BOOK OF EXODUS

The small number of Israelites much increasing in Aegypt, 6. especially after the death of Joseph & his brethren, 8. a new King, that knew not Joseph, in vain striveth to hinder their multiplication, 11. by imposing works upon them, 15. and by commanding to kill 22. and to drown all the male-children of them. God in the mean time rewardeth the midwives, that fearing him killed not the children.

{1} THESE be the names of the children of Israel, that entered into Aegypt with Jacob: they did enter in, every one with their houses, {2} Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Judas, {3} Issachar, Zabulon, & Benjamin, {4} Dan, and Nephthali, Gad, and Aser. {5} Therefore all the souls that came out of Jacob's thigh were seventy: and Joseph was in Aegypt. {6} Who being dead, and all his brethren, and all that generation, {7} the children of Israel increased, and as it were springing up did multiply, and growing strong exceedingly, filled the land. {8} In the mean time there arose a new king over Aegypt, that knew not Joseph: {9} and he said to his people: Behold the people of the children of Israel is much, and stronger than we. {10} Come, let us wisely oppress the same, lest perhaps it multiply: and if there shall be any war against us, it joined with our enemies, and we being overthrown, they depart out of the land. {11} Therefore he set over them masters of the works, to afflict them with burdens: and they built unto Pharao cities of tabernacles, Phithom, and Ramesses. {12} And the more they did oppress them, so much the more they multiplied and increased: {13} and the Aegyptians hated the children of Israel, and deriding afflicted them: {14} and they brought their life into bitterness with the hard works of clay and brick, & with all service, wherewith they were pressed in the works of the earth. {15} And the king of Aegypt said to the midwives of the Hebrews, of whom one was called Sephora, the other Phua, {16} commanding them: When you shall be midwives to the Hebrew women, and the time of delivery is come, if it be a man-child, kill it: if a woman, reserve her. {17} But the midwives feared God, and did not according to the commandment of the king of Aegypt, but preserved the men-children. {18} To whom being called unto him, the king said: What is this that you meant to do, that you would save the men-children? {19} Who answered: The Hebrew women are not as the Aegyptian women: for they have the knowledge to play the midwife themselves, and before we come to them, they are delivered. {20} God therefore did well to the midwives: and the people increased, and became strong exceedingly. {21} And because the midwives feared God, he built them houses. {22} Pharao therefore commanded all his people, saying: Whatsoever shall be born of the male-sex cast it into the river: whatsoever of the female, reserve it.

{1} A child of the Hebrews, and Tribe of Levi, being exposed to the water, 5. is taken from thence by Pharao's daughter, 8. who committeth him to be nursed, unwitting to his own mother, adopteth him, and calleth him Moyses. 11. He afterwards visiting his brethren, killeth an Aegyptian: 15. flieth into Midian: 21. marrieth a wife, and hath two sons.

{1} AFTER these things there came forth a man of the house of Levi, and he took a wife of his own stock. {2} Who conceived, and bare a son: & seeing him a goodly one, hid him three months. {3} And when now she could not conceal him, she took a basket made of bulrushes, and dawbed it with bitume and pitch: and put within it the little infant, and laid him in a sedgy place by the river's brink, {4} his sister standing a far off, and considering the event of the thing. {5} And behold the daughter of Pharao came down to be washed in the river, and her maids walked by the river's brink. Who when she saw the basket in the sedges, she sent one of her handmaids: and when it was brought, {6} opening it, and seeing with it an infant crying, having pity on it, said: This is one of the infants of the Hebrews. {7} To whom the child's sister said: Wilt thou that I go, and call to thee an Hebrew woman, that may nurse the little infant? {8} She answered: Go. The maid went and called her mother. {9} To whom Pharao's daughter speaking: Take, quoth she, this child, and nurse him for me: I will give thee thy hire. The woman took and nursed the child: and when he was grown, delivered him to Pharao's daughter. {10} Whom she adopted into the place of a son, and called him Moyses, saying: Because from the water I did take him. {11} In those days after that Moyses was grown, he went forth to his brethren: and he saw their affliction, and a man that was an Aegyptian striking one of the Hebrews his brethren. {12} And when he had looked about hither and thither, and saw no man present, he struck the Aegyptian, and hid him in the sand. {13} And going forth an other day, he saw two Hebrews brawling; and he said to him that did the wrong: Why strikest thou thy neighbour? {14} Who answered: Who hath appointed thee Prince and Judge over us? Wilt thou kill me, as yesterday thou didst the Aegyptian? Moyses feared, and said: How is this thing come abroad? {15} And Pharao heard of this talk, and sought to kill Moyses: who flying from his sight, abode in the Land of Midian, and sat beside a well. {16} And the Priest of Midian had seven daughters, which were come to draw water: and when the troughs were filled, they desired to water their father's flocks. {17} The shepherds came upon them, and drove them away: and Moyses arose, and defending the maids, watered their sheep. {18} Who being returned to Raguel their father, he said to them: Why are you come sooner than you were wont? {19} They answered: A certain man an Aegyptian delivered us from the hand of the shepherds: moreover also he drew water with us, and gave the sheep to drink. {20} But he said: Where is he? Why have you let the man go? Call him that he may eat bread. {21} Therefore Moyses swere that he would dwell with him. And he took Sephora his daughter to wife: {22} Who bare him a son, whom he called Gersam, saying: I have been a stranger in a foreign country. And she bare an other, whom he called Eliezer, saying: for the God of my father my helper hath delivered me out of the hand of Pharao. {23} But after much time the king of Aegypt died: and the children of Israel groaning, cried out because of the works: and their cry ascended unto God from the works. {24} And he heard their groaning, and remembered the covenant which he made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. {25} And our Lord looked upon the children of Israel and knew them.

God appeareth to Moyses in a bush burning but not consuming, 7. designeth him the Governor of the children of Israel, 10. with commission to tell them, that they shall be delivered from Aegypt: 21. and shall spoil the Aegyptians.

{1} AND Moyses fed the sheep of Jethro his father in law the Priest of Midian: and having driven the flock to the inner parts of the desert, he came to the mountain of God, Horeb. {2} And our Lord appeared to him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush: and he saw that the bush was on fire and was not burnt. {3} Moyses therefore said: I will go, and see this great vision, why the bush is not burnt. {4} And our Lord seeing that he went forward to see, he called him out of the midst of the bush, and said: Moyses, Moyses. Who answered: Here I am. {5} But he said: Approach not hither, loose off thy shoe from thy feet: for the place wherein thou standest is holy ground. {6} And he said: I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Moyses hid his face; for he durst not look against God. {7} To whom our Lord said: I have seen the affliction of my people in Aegypt, and I have heard their cry because of their rigour that oversee the works: {8} and knowing their sorrow, I am descended to deliver them out of the hands of the Aegyptians, and to bring them out of that land into a land good and large, into a land that floweth with milk and honey, to the place of the Chananeite, and Hethite, and Amorrheite, and Pherezeite, and Heveite, & Jebuseite. {9} Therefore the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have seen their affliction wherewith they are oppressed by the Aegyptians. {10} But come, and I will send thee to Pharao, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Aegypt. {11} And Moyses said to God: Who am I that I shall go to Pharao, and bring forth the children of Israel out of Aegypt? {12} Who said to him: I will be with thee; and this thou shalt have for a sign that I have sent thee: When thou shalt have brought my people out of Aegypt, thou shalt sacrifice to God upon this mountain. {13} Moyses said to God: Lo I shall go to the children of Israel, and say to them: The God of your fathers hath sent me to you. If they shall say to me: What is his name? What shall I say to them? {14} God said to Moyses: I AM WHICH AM. He said: Thus shalt thou say to the children of Israel: HE WHICH IS, hath sent me to you. {15} And God said again to Moyses: These things shalt thou say to the children of Israel: The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob hath sent me to you this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial into generation & to generation. {16} Go, and gather together the Ancients of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: The Lord God of your fathers hath appeared to me, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, saying: Visiting I have visited you: and I have seen all things that have chanced to you in Aegypt: {17} and I have said the word to bring you forth out of the affliction of Aegypt, into the land of the Chananeite, and Hethite, and Amorrheite, and Pherezeite, and Heveite, and Jebuseite, to a Land that floweth with milk and honey. {18} And they shall hear thy voice: and thou shalt enter in, thou and the ancients of Israel to the king of Aegypt, and thou shalt say to him: The Lord God of the Hebrews hath called us: We will go three days' journey into the wilderness to sacrifice unto the Lord our God. {19} But I know that the king of Aegypt will not dismiss you to go but by mighty hand. {20} For I will stretch forth my hand, and will strike Aegypt in all my marvels, which I will do in the midst of them: after these he will dismiss you. {21} And I will give grace to this people in the sight of the Aegyptians: and when you shall go forth, you shall not depart empty: {22} but each woman shall ask of her neighbour and of her that is in house with her, vessels of silver and of gold, and raiment: and you shall lay it upon your sons and daughters, and shall spoil Aegypt.

Moyses receiving power to work miracles in confirmation of his mission, 14. & his brother Aaron being designed to assist him, 20. goeth with wife and children towards Aegypt, 25. is in danger to be slain for not sooner circumcising his son, 27. Aaron meeteth him, 29. so they go together, and declare to the people, that God will deliver them.

{1} MOYSES answering said: They will not believe me, nor hear my voice, but they will say: Our Lord hath not appeared to thee. {2} Therefore he said to him: What is that thou holdest in thy hand? He answered: A rod. {3} And our Lord said: Cast it upon the ground.

He did cast it,{62} and it was turned into a serpent, so that Moyses fled. {4} And our Lord said: Stretch thy hand, & catch the tail thereof. He stretched it forth, & took hold of it, and it was turned into a rod. {5} That they may believe, quoth he, that the Lord God of their fathers hath appeared to thee, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, & the God of Jacob. {6} And our Lord said again: Put thy hand into thy bosom. Which when he had put into his bosom, he brought it forth full of leprosy like snow. {7} Draw back, quoth he, thy hand into thy bosom. He drew it back, and brought it forth again, & it was like the other flesh. {8} If they will not believe thee, quoth he, nor hear the word of the former sign, they will believe the word of the sign following. {9} And if so be they will believe neither of these two signs, nor hear thy voice, take water of the river, & pour it out upon the dry land, and whatsoever thou drawest of the river shall be turned into blood. {10} Moyses said: I beseech thee, Lord, I am not eloquent from yesterday and the day before: and since thou hast spoken to thy servant, I have more impediment & slowness of tongue. {11} Our Lord said to him: Who made the mouth of man; or who framed the dumb and deaf, the seeing and the blind? Did not I? {12} Go on therefore, and I will be in thy mouth; & will teach thee what thou shalt speak. {13} But he said: I beseech thee, Lord, send whom thou wilt send. {14} Our Lord being angry at Moyses, said: Aaron thy brother the Levite, I know that he is eloquent: behold he cometh forth to meet thee, & seeing thee shall be glad at the heart. {15} Speak to him, and put my words in his mouth; & I will be in thy mouth, and in his mouth, and will shew you what ye must do. {16} He shall speak in thy stead to the people, and shall be thy mouth: but thou shalt be to him in those things that pertain to God. {17} This rod also take in thy hand, wherewith thou shalt do the signs. {18} Moyses went his way, & returned to Jethro his father in law, and said to him: I will go and return to my brethren in Aegypt, that I may see if they be yet alive. To whom Jethro said: Go in peace: {19} Therefore our Lord said to Moyses in Madian: Go, and return into Aegypt: for they are all dead that sought thy life. {20} Moyses therefore took his wife, and his children, and set them upon an ass: and returned into Aegypt, carrying the rod of God in his hand. {21} And our Lord said to him returning into Aegypt: See that thou do all the wonders which I have put in thy hand, before Pharao: I will indurate his heart, and he will not dismiss the people. {22} And thou shalt say to him: This saith the Lord: My first-begotten son is Israel. {23} I said to thee: dismiss my son that he may serve me, and thou wouldest not dismiss him: behold I will kill thy first-begotten son. {24} And when he was in his journey, in the Inn, our Lord met him, and would have killed him. {25} Sephora by and by took a very sharp stone, and circumcised the prepuce of her son, and touched his feet, and said: A bloody spouse thou art to me. {26} And he let him go after she had said, A bloody spouse thou art to me, because of the circumcision. {27} And our Lord said to Aaron: Go to Moyses into the desert. Who went forth to meet him unto the Mountain of God, and kissed him. {28} And Moyses told Aaron all the words of our Lord, by which he had sent him, and the signs that he had commanded. {29} And they came together, and gathered together all the ancients of the children of Israel. {30} And Aaron spake all the words which our Lord had said to Moyses: and he wrought the signs before the people, {31} and the people believed. And they heard that our Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that he had looked upon their affliction; and they adored prostrate.

Moyses and Aaron require of Pharao in the behalf of God, to let his people the Hebrews go and sacrifice in the desert. Which he contemning 5. oppresseth them more, denying them straw, and yet exacting the accustomed number of bricks. 20. The people oppressed impute their misery to Moyses and Aaron. 22. But Moyses prayeth to God for them.

{1} AFTER these things Moyses and Aaron went in, and said to Pharao: This saith the Lord God of Israel: dismiss my people that they may sacrifice to me in the desert. {2} But he answered: Who is the Lord, that I should hear his voice, & dismiss Israel? I know not the Lord, and Israel I will not dismiss. {3} And they said: The God of the Hebrews hath called us to go three days' journey into the wilderness, & to sacrifice to the Lord our God: lest perhaps there chance to us pestilence or sword. {4} The king of Aegypt said to them: Why do you Moyses and Aaron solicit the people from their works? Go you to your burdens. {5} And Pharao said: The people of the land is much: you see that the multitude is secretly increased: how much more if you give them rest from their works? {6} Therefore he commanded in that day the overseers of the works and the exactors of the people, saying: {7} You shall no more give straw to the people for to make bricks, as before; but let themselves go and gather straw. {8} And the task of bricks, which they did before, you shall put upon them, neither shall you diminish any thing: for they are idle, and therefore they cry, saying: Let us go, and sacrifice to our God. {9} Let them be oppressed with works, and let them accomplish them: that they hearken not to lying words. {10} Therefore the overseers of the works and the exactors going forth said unto the people: Thus saith Pharao: I allow you no straw: {11} go, and gather if you can find any-where: neither shall any thing of your work be diminished. {12} And the people was dispersed through all the Land of Aegypt to gather straw. {13} And the overseers of the works were instant, saying: Finish your work every day, as before you were wont to when straw was given unto you. {14} And the overseers of the works of the children of Israel were scourged of Pharao's exactors, saying: Why do you not make up the task of bricks as before, neither yesterday, nor to day? {15} And the overseers of the children of Israel came, and cried out to Pharao, saying: Why dealest thou so against thy servants? {16} Straw is not given us, and bricks are commanded us in like sort: behold we thy servants are beaten with whips, and thy people is unjustly dealt withal. {17} Who said: You are idle, and therefore you say: Let us go and sacrifice to our Lord. {18} Go therefore, and work: straw shall not be given you, and you shall give up the accustomed number of bricks. {19} And the overseers of the children of Israel saw themselves in hard case, because it was said unto them: There shall not a whit be diminished of the bricks for every day. {20} And they met Moyses and Aaron, who stood over-against them, coming forth from Pharao. {21} and they said to them: Our Lord see and judge, because you have made our savour to stink before Pharao and his servants, and you have given him a sword for to kill us. {22} And Moyses returned to our Lord, and said: Lord Why hast thou afflicted this people? Wherefore hast thou sent me? {23} For since the time that I entered in to Pharao to speak in thy name, he hath afflicted thy people: and thou hast not delivered them.

God revealing himself more to Moyses than he had done to former Patriarchs, 6. commandeth him to tell the children of Israel, that he seeing their miseries will deliver them from Aegypt, and give them possession of Chanaan. 14. The genealogies of Ruben, Simeon, and especially of Levi are recited, 26. to shew the origin of Moyses and Aaron.

{1} AND our Lord said to Moyses. Now thou shalt see what things I will do to Pharao: for by a mighty hand shall he dismiss them, and in a strong hand shall he cast them out of his land. {2} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: I am the Lord, {3} that appeared to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, in God Almighty: and my name ADONAI I did not shew them. {4} And I made a covenant with them, to give them the Land of Chanaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers. {5} And I have heard the groaning of the children of Israel, wherewith the Aegyptians have oppressed them: & I have remembered my covenant. {6} Therefore say to the children of Israel: I, the Lord who will bring you forth out of the work-prison of the Aegyptians, and will deliver you from servitude: and redeem you in a high arm, and great judgments. {7} And I will take you to me for my people, and I will be your God: and you shall know that I am the Lord your God, that brought you forth out of the work-prison of the Aegyptians: {8} and brought you into the land, over which I lifted up my hand to give it to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and I will give it you to possess: I, the Lord. {9} Moyses then told all to the children of Israel: who did not hearken unto him, for anguish of spirit, and most painful work. {10} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {11} Go in, and speak to Pharao the king of Aegypt, that he dismiss the children of Israel out of his land. {12} And Moyses answered before our Lord: Behold the children of Israel hear me not: and how will Pharao hear, especially whereas I am of uncircumcised lips? {13} And our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, and he gave them commandment unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharao the king of Aegypt, that they should bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Aegypt. {14} These are Princes of their houses by their families. The sons of Ruben the first-begotten of Israel: Henoch and Phallu, Hesron and Charmi. {15} These are the kindreds of Ruben. The sons of Simeon: Jamuel and Jamin, and Ahod, and Jachin, and Soar, and Saul the sons of the Chananaite, these are the progenies of Simeon. {16} And these are the names of the sons of Levi by their kindreds: Gerson and Caath, and Merari. And the years of the life of Levi were an hundred thirty seven. {17} The sons of Gerson: Lobni and Semi, by their kindreds. {18} The sons of Caath: Amram, and Isaar, and Hebron and Oziel. The years also of Caath's life, were an hundred thirty three. {19} The sons of Merari: Moholi and Musi, these be the kindreds of Levi by their families. {20} And Amram took to wife Jocabed his aunt by the father's side: who bare him Aaron & Moyses. And the years of Amram's life were an hundred thirty seven. {21} The sons also of Isaar: Core, & Nepheg, & Zechri. {22} The sons also of Oziel: Mizael, & Elizaphan, & Sethri. {23} And Aaron took to wife Elizabeth the daughter of Aminadab, sister of Nahason, who bare him Nadab, & Abiu, & Eleazer, & Ithamar. {24} The sons also of Core: Aser, & Elcana, & Abiasaph, these be the kindreds of the Corites. {25} But Eleazar the son of Aaron took a wife of the daughters of Phutiel: who bare him Phinees. These are the heads of the Levitical families by their kindreds. {26} This is Aaron and Moyses, whom our Lord commanded that they should bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Aegypt by their troops. {27} These are they that spake to Pharao the king of Aegypt, that they might bring forth the children of Israel out of Aegypt: this is Moyses, & Aaron, {28} in the day when our Lord spake to Moyses in the land of Aegypt. {29} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: I, the Lord: speak to Pharao the king of Aegypt, all things which I speak to thee. {30} And Moyses said before our Lord: Lo I am of uncircumcised lips, how will Pharao hear me?

Moyses being constituted as God of Pharao, and Aaron as the Prophet of Moyses they declare God's commandment to Pharao; 10. turn the rod into a serpent; 17. and the water into blood, which is the first plague. 22. The Magicians do the like by enchantment, and Pharao's heart is indurate.

{1} AND our Lord said to Moyses: Behold I have appointed thee the God of Pharao: and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet. {2} Thou shalt speak to him all things that I command thee: and he shall speak to Pharao that he dismiss the children of Israel out of his land. {3} But I will indurate his heart, and will multiply my signs and wonders in the Land of Aegypt, {4} and he will not hear you: and I will put in my hand upon Aegypt, and will bring forth my army and people the children of Israel out of the Land of Aegypt, by very great judgments. {5} And the Aegyptians shall know that I am the Lord, which have stretched forth my hand upon Aegypt, and have brought forth the children of Israel out of the midst of them. {6} Therefore Moyses and Aaron did as our Lord had commanded: so did they. {7} And Moyses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty three, when they spake to Pharao. {8} And our Lord said to Moyses and Aaron: {9} When Pharao shall say unto you, Shew signs, thou shalt say to Aaron: Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharao, and it shall be turned into a serpent. {10} Therefore Moyses and Aaron going in unto Pharao, did as our Lord had commanded. And Aaron took the rod before Pharao and his servants, the which was turned into a serpent. {11} And Pharao called the wise men and the enchanters: and they also by Aegyptian enchantments and certain secrerics did in like manner. {12} And every one did cast forth their rods, the which were turned into dragons: but Aaron's rod devoured their rods. {13} And Pharao's heart was indurate, and he heard them not, as our Lord had commanded. {14} And our Lord said to Moyses: Pharoe's heart is aggravated, he will not dismiss the people. {15} Go to him in the morning, behold he will go forth to the waters: and thou shalt stand to meet him upon the bank of the river: and the rod that was turned into a dragon, thou shalt take in thy hand. {16} And thou shalt say to him: The Lord God of the Hebrews sent me to thee, saying: Dismiss my people to sacrifice unto me in the desert: and until this present thou wouldest not hear. {17} This therefore saith our Lord: In this thou shalt know that I am the Lord: behold I will strike with the rod that is in my hand, the water of the river, and it shall be turned into blood. {18} The fishes also, that are in the river, shall die, and the waters shall putify, and the Aegyptians shall be afflicted drinking the water of the river. {19} Our Lord also said to Moyses: Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and stretch forth thy hand upon the waters of Aegypt, and upon their floods, and rivers, and pools, and all the lakes of waters, that they may be turned into blood: and be there blood in all the Land of Aegypt, as well in the vessels of wood as of stone. {20} And Moyses and Aaron as our Lord had commanded: and lifting up the rod he struck the water of the river before Pharao and his servants: which was turned into blood. {21} And the fishes that were in the river died, and the river putrified, and the Aegyptians could not drink the water of the river, and there was blood in the whole land of Aegypt. {22} And the enchanters of the Aegyptians with their enchantments did in like manner and Pharao's heart was indurate, neither did he hear them, as our Lord had commanded. {23} And he turned away himself, and went into his house, neither did he yet set his heart to it this time also. {24} And all the Aegyptians digged round about the river for water to drink: for they could not drink of the water of the river. {25} And seven days were fully ended, after that our Lord struck the river.

The second plague is of frogs. 7. The enchanters make the like. 8. Pharao promiseth to let the Israelites go and sacrifice, so the frogs be taken away. 13. Which being done he breaketh promise. 16. The third plague is of sciniphs, 18. which the enchanters can not make. 21. The fourth is of flies. 29. Pharao again promiseth to dismiss the people of God, but doth it not.

{1} OUR Lord also said to Moyses: Go in to Pharao, and thou shalt say unto him: This saith the Lord: Dismiss my people for to sacrifice unto me. {2} but if thou wilt not dismiss them, behold I will strike all thy coasts with frogs. {3} And the river shall bubble with frogs, which shall come up, and enter into thy house, and thy bed-chamber, and upon thy bed, and into the houses of thy servants, and unto thy people, and into thy ovens, and into the remains of thy meats: {4} and unto thee, and to thy people, ant to all thy servants shall the frogs enter. {5} And our Lord said to Moyses: Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thy hand upon the floods, and upon the rivers and the pools,{66} and bring forth frogs upon the Land of Aegypt. {6} And Aaron stretched forth his hand upon the waters of Aegypt, and the frogs came up, and covered the Land of Aegypt. {7} And the enchanters also by their enchantments did in like manner, and they brought forth frogs upon the Land of Aegypt. {8} And Pharao called Moses and Aaron, and said to them: Pray ye to the Lord to take away the frogs from me & from my people and I will dismiss the people to sacrifice unto the Lord. {9} And Moyses said to Pharao Appoint me when I shall pray for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, that the frogs may be driven away from thee and from thy house, and from thy servants, and from thy people, and may remain only in the river. {10} Who answered: Tomorrow. But he said: According to thy word will I do; that thou mayst know that there is not the like to the Lord our God. {11} And the frogs shall depart from thee, and from thy house, and from thy servants, and from thy people: and shall remain only in the river. {12} And Moyses and Aaron went forth from Pharao: and Moyses cried to our Lord for the promise, concerning the frogs, which he had agreed to Pharao. {13} And our Lord did according to the word of Moyses: and the frogs died out of the houses, and out of the villages, and out of the fields: {14} and they gathered them together into huge heaps, and the earth did rot. {15} And Pharao seeing that rest was given he hardened his own heart; and heard them not, as our Lord had commanded. {16} And our Lord said to Moyses: Speak to Aaron: Stretch forth thy rod, and strike the dust of the earth: and be there sciniphs in the whole Land of Aegypt. {17} And they did so. And Aaron stretched forth his hand, holding the rod: and he struck the dust of the earth, and there were made sciniphs on men and on beasts: all the dust of the earth was turned into sciniphs through the whole Land of Aegypt. {18} And the enchanters with their enchantments practiced in like manner to bring forth sciniphs, and they could not: and there were sciniphs as well on men as on beasts. {19} And the enchanters said to Pharao: This is the finger of God. And Pharao's heart was indurate, and he heard them not as our Lord had commanded. {20} Our Lord also said to Moyses: Arise early, and stand before Pharao: for he will go forth to the waters: & thou shalt say to him: This saith our Lord: Dismiss my people to sacrifice unto me. {21} And if thou wilt not dismiss them, behold I will send in upon thee & upon thy servants, & upon thy people, and upon thy houses all kind of flies: and the houses of Aegypt shall be filled with flies of diverse kinds, and the whole land wherein they shall be. {22} And I will make the Land of Gessen marvelous in that day, wherein my people is, so that flies shall not be there: & thou shalt know that I am the Lord in the midst of the earth. {23} And I will put a division between my people & thy people: tomorrow shall this sign be. {24} And our Lord did so. And there came a very grievous fly into the houses of Pharao & of his servants, & into all the Land of Aegypt: & the Land was corrupted by such kind of flies. {25} And Pharao called Moyses & Aaron, and said to them. Go and sacrifice to your God in this land. {26} And Moyses said: It can not so be done: for if we shall offer the abominations of the Aegyptians to the Lord our God, and we kill those things which the Aegyptians do worship before them, they will beat us down with stones. {27} We will go forth three days' journey into the wilderness: and we will sacrifice unto the Lord our God, as he hath commanded us. {28} And Pharao said: I will dismiss you to sacrifice to the Lord your God in the desert: but go no farther: pray for me. {29} And Moyses said: Being gone forth from thee, I will pray to our Lord: and the fly shall depart from Pharao, and from his servants, and from his people tomorrow: but deceive no more so, that thou wilt not dismiss the people to sacrifice unto our Lord. {30} And Moyses being gone forth from Pharao prayed our Lord. {31} Who did according to his word: and he took away the flies from Pharao, and from his servants, and from his people: there was left not so much as one. {32} And Pharao's heart was hardened, so that neither this time would he dismiss the people.

The fifth plague is pestilence amongst the Aegyptian's cattle. 8. The sixth boyles in men and beasts 18. The seventh, hail. 27. Pharao confessing God to be just, and himself and his people impious, promiseth again to dismiss the people, 34. but faileth to do it.

{1} AND our Lord said to Moyses: Go into Pharao, and speak to him: This saith our Lord, the God of the Hebrews: dismiss my people to sacrifice unto me. {2} And if thou refuse, and holdest them, {3} behold my hand shall be upon thy fields: and upon thy horses, and asses, and camels, and oxen, and sheep, a very sore pestilence. {4} And our Lord will make a marvail between the possessions of Israel and the possessions of the Aegyptians, that nothing at all perish of those things that pertain to the children of Israel. {5} And our Lord hath appointed a time, saying: Tomorrow will our Lord do this thing in the land. {6} Our Lord therefore did this thing the next day: and all the beasts of the Aegyptians died, but of the beasts of the children of Israel nothing at all perished. {7} And Pharao sent to see: neither was there any thing dead of that which Israel possessed. And Pharao's heart was hardened, & he did not dismiss the people. {8} And our Lord said to Moyses and Aaron: Take your hands full of ashes out of the chimney, & let Moyses sprinkle it into the air before Pharao. {9} And be there dust upon all the Land of Aegypt: for there shall be in men, and beasts boyles, and swelling bladders in the whole land of Aegypt. {10} And they took ashes out of the chimney, and stood before Pharao, and Moyses sprinkled it into the air: and there were made boyles of swelling bladders in men and beasts. {11} Neither could the enchanters stand before Moyses for boyles that were upon them, and in all the Land of Aegypt. {12} And our Lord did indurate Pharao's heart, and he heard them not, as our Lord spake to Moyses. {13} And our Lord said to Moyses: In the morning arise, and stand before Pharao, and thou shalt say to him: This saith the Lord, the God of the Hebrews: Dismiss my people to sacrifice unto me. {14} Because this time I will send all my plagues upon thy heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people: that thou mayest know there is not the like to me in all the earth. {15} For now stretching forth my hand I will strike thee, and thy people with pestilence, and thou shalt perish from the earth. {16} And therefore have I set thee, that in thee I may shew my might, & my name may be told in all the earth. {17} Dost thou yet hold back my people, and wilt thou not dismiss them? {18} Behold I will rain tomorrow this very hour hail exceeding much: such as was not in Aegypt from the day that it was founded, until this present time. {19} Send therefore now presently, and gather together thy cattle, and all things that thou hast in the field: for men and beasts, and all things that shall be found abroad, and not gathered together out of the fields, and the hail fall upon them, shall die. {20} He that feared the word of our Lord of Pharao's servants, made his servants to fly, and his beasts into houses: {21} But he that neglected the word of our Lord, let alone his servants, and his beasts in the fields. {22} And our Lord said to Moyses: Stretch forth thy hand towards heaven, that there may be hail in the whole Land of Aegypt upon men, and upon beasts, and upon every herb of the field in the Land of Aegypt. {23} And Moyses stretched forth his rod toward heaven, and our Lord gave thunders, and hail, and running lightnings on the land: and our Lord rained hail upon the Land of Aegypt. {24} And the hail and fire mixed together did drive: and it was of so great bigness as never before appeared in the whole Land of Aegypt since that nation was made. {25} And the hail smote in all the Land of Aegypt all things that were in the fields, from man even unto beast: and every herb of the field did the hail strike, and every tree of the country it did break. {26} Only in the Land of Gessen, where the children of Israel were, the hail fell not. {27} And Pharao sent, and called Moyses and Aaron, {28} saying to them: I have sinned now also, the Lord is just: I and my people, impious. {29} Pray ye the Lord that the thunders may cease, and the hail: that I may dismiss you, and ye tarry not here any longer. {30} Moyses said: When I shall be gone forth out of the city, I will stretch forth my hands to our Lord, and the thunders shall cease, and the hail shall not be: that thou mayest know that the earth is our Lord's: {31} but I know that neither thou, nor thy servants do yet fear the Lord God. {32} The flax therefore, and the barley were hurt, because the barley came up green, & the flax now was bolled: {33} but the wheat, and other winter corn were not hurt, because they were lateward. {34} And Moyses going forth from Pharao out of the city, stretched forth his hands to our Lord: and the thunders and hail ceased, neither did there drop rain any more upon the earth. {34} And Pharao seeing that the rain and the hail and thunders were ceased, he increased his sin: {35} and his heart was aggravated, and the heart of his servants, & indurate exceedingly: neither did he dismiss the children of Israel, as our Lord had commanded by the hand of Moyses.

The eight plague, of locusts. 21. The ninth darkness. Pharao yieldeth that all men and children should go to the desert, but not the cattle. 28. At last commandeth Moyses to come not more in his sight, which Moyses foretelleth shall so be.

{1} AND our Lord said to Moyses: Go in to Pharao: for I have indurate his heart, and the heart of his servants: that I may work these my signs in him, {2} and thou mayst tell in the ears of thy son, and of thy nephews, how often I have broken the Aegyptians, & wrought my signs in them: and you may know that I am the Lord. {3} Moyses therefore and Aaron went in to Pharao, and said to him: Thus saith the Lord the God of the Hebrews: Till when wilt thou not be subject to me? Dismiss my people, to sacrifice unto me. {4} But if thou resist, and wilt not dismiss them: behold I will bring in tomorrow the locust into thy coasts: {5} which may cover the face of the earth, that nothing thereof appear, but that which the hail hath left may be eaten: for it shall gnaw all trees that spring in the fields. {6} And they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of thy servants, and of all the Aegyptians': such a number as thy fathers have not seen, nor grand-fathers, since they arose upon the earth, until this present day. And he turned himself away, and went forth from Pharao. {7} And Pharao's servants said to him: How long shall we endure this scandal? Dismiss the men to sacrifice to the Lord their God. Dost thou not see that Aegypt is undone? {8} And they called back Moyses & Aaron unto Pharao: who said to them: Go, sacrifice to the Lord your God: who are they that shall go? {9} Moyses said: With our young and old we will go, with our sons and daughters, with our sheep and herds: for it is the solemnity of the Lord our God. {10} And Pharao answered: So be the Lord with you, as I shall dismiss you, and your little ones: who doubteth but that you intend very wickedly? {11} It shall not so be: but go ye men only, and sacrifice to the Lord: for this your selves also desired. And immediately they were cast out from Pharao's sight. {12} And our Lord said to Moyses: Stretch forth thy hand upon the Land of Aegypt unto the locust, that it come upon it, and devour every herb that remained after the hail. {13} And Moyses stretched forth his rod upon the Land of Aegypt: and our Lord brought in a burning wind all that day & night: and when it was morning, the burning wind raised the locusts: {14} which came up over the whole Land of Aegypt: and sat in all the coasts of the Aegyptians innumerable, the like as had not been before that time, nor shall be afterward. {15} And they covered the whole face of the earth, wasting all things. Therefore the grass of the earth was devoured, and what fruits soever on the trees, which the hail had left: there was also nothing at all left that was green in the trees, and in the herbs of the earth, in all Aegypt. {16} For the which cause Pharao in haste called Moyses and Aaron, and said to them: I have sinned against the Lord your God, and against you. {17} But now forgive me my sin this time also, and pray to the Lord your God, that he take away from me this death. {18} And Moyses going forth from Pharao's sight, prayed to our Lord: {19} who made a very vehement wind to blow from the west, and taking the locusts it threw them into the Red sea: there remained not so much as one in all the coasts of Aegypt. {20} And our Lord did indurate Pharao's heart, neither did he dismiss the children of Israel. {21} And our Lord said to Moyses: Stretch forth thy hand toward heaven: and be there darkness upon the Land of Aegypt so thick, that it be palpable. {22} And Moyses stretched forth his hand toward heaven: and there was made horrible darkness in the whole Land of Aegypt three days. {23} No man saw his brother, nor moved himself out of the place where he was: but wheresoever the children of Israel dwelt, there was light. {24} And Pharao called Moyses and Aaron, and said to them: Go sacrifice to the Lord: let your sheep only and herds remain, let your little ones go with you. {25} Moyses said: Hosts also & holocausts thou shalt give to us, which we may offer to the Lord our God. {26} All the flocks shall go with us: there shall not a hoof remain of them; the which are necessary unto the service of the Lord our God: especially whereas we know not what must be offered till we come to the very place. {27} And our Lord did indurate Pharao's heart, and he would not dismiss them. {28} And Pharao said to Moyses: Get thee from me, and beware thou see not my face any more: in what day soever thou shalt come in my sight, thou shalt die. {29} Moyses answered: So shall it be as thou hast spoken, I will not see thy face any more.

God biddeth Moyses cause the people of Israel to borrow silver and gold vessels of the Aegyptians. 4. Foretelleth one other plague, the death of the first-born, 9. and that Pharao will still be obdurate.

{1} AND our Lord said to Moyses: yet with one plague more will I touch Pharao and Aegypt, and after this he shall dismiss you, and compel you to go forth. {2} Thou shalt say therefore to all the people, that every man ask of his friend & every woman of her neighbour vessels of silver and of gold. {3} And the Lord will give grace to his people in the sight of the Aegyptians. And Moyses was a very great man in the Land of Aegypt, in the sight of Pharao's servants, and of all the people. {4} And he said: This saith our Lord: At midnight I will enter into Aegypt: {5} and every first-begotten in the Land of the Aegyptians shall die, from the first-begotten of Pharao who sitteth in his throne, even to the first-begotten of the handmaid that is at the mill, and all the first-begotten of beasts. {6} And there shall be a great cry in the whole Land of Aegypt, such as neither hath been before, nor shall be afterwards. {7} But with all the children of Israel there shall not a dog mutter, from man even to beast: that you may know with how great a miracle our Lord doth divide the Aegyptians and Israel. {8} And all these thy servants shall come down to me, and shall adore me, saying: Go forth thou, and all the people that is under thee: after this we shall go forth. {9} And he departed from Pharao exceeding angry. And our Lord said to Moyses: Pharao will not hear you, that many signs may be done in the Land of Aegypt. {10} And Moyses and Aaron did all the wonders that are written, before Pharao. And our Lord hardened Pharao's heart, neither did he dismiss the children of Israel out of his Land.

The manner of preparing and eating the Paschal lamb, sprinkling the doorposts with blood thereof: 15. eating no leavened bread seven days together. 29. The first-born of men and beasts among the Aegyptians are slain. 35. The Israelites go away spoiling Aegypt. 43. Incircumcised men may not eat the phase.

{1} AND our Lord said to Moyses and Aaron in the Land of Aegypt: to you the beginning of months: it shall be {2} This month shall be the first in the months of the year. {3} Speak ye to the whole assembly of the children of Israel, and say to them: The tenth day of this month let every man take a lamb by their families and houses. {4} But if the number be less than may suffice to eat the lamb, he shall take unto him his neighbour that joineth to his house, according to the number of souls which may suffice to the eating of the lamb. {5} And it shall be a lamb without spot, a male, of a year old: according also to which rite you shall take a kid. {6} And you shall keep him until the fourteenth day of this month: and the whole multitude of the children of Israel shall sacrifice him at even. {7} And they shall take of the blood thereof, and put upon both the posts, and on the upper door-posts of the houses, wherein they shall eat him. {8} And they shall eat the flesh that night roasted at the fire, and unleavened bread with wild lettuce. {9} You shall not eat thereof any thing raw, nor boiled in water, but only roasted at the fire: the head with the feet and entrails thereof you shall devour. {10} Neither shall there remain any thing of him until morning. If there be any thing left, you shall burn it with fire. {11} And thus you shall eat him: You shall gird your reins, and you shall have shoes on your feet, holding staves in your hands, and you shall eat speedily: for it is the Phase (that is the Passage) of the Lord. {12} And I will pass through the Land of Aegypt that night, and will strike every first-begotten in the Land of Aegypt from man even unto beast: & in all the gods of Aegypt I will do judgments, I, the Lord. {13} And the blood shall be unto you for a sign in the houses where you shall be: & I shall see the blood, & shall pass over you: neither shall there be among you a destroying plague when I shall strike the Land of Aegypt. {14} And you shall have this day for a monument: & you shall celebrate it solemn to the Lord in your generations with an everlasting observation. {15} Seven days shall you eat azymes: in the first day there shall be no leaven in your houses: whosoever shall eat leaven, that soul shall perish out of Israel, from the first day until the seventh day. {16} The first day shall be holy and solemn, and the seventh day with the like festivity shall be venerable: no work shall you do in them, except those things that pertain to eating. {17} And you shall observe the azymes: for in the self-same day I will bring forth your army out of the Land of Aegypt, and you shall keep this day unto your generations with a perpetual rite. {18} The first month, the fourteenth day of the month at even you shall eat azymes until the one and twentieth day of the same month at even. {19} Seven days there shall not be found leavened in your houses: he that shall eat leavened, his soul shall perish out of the assembly of Israel, as well of strangers as of them that are born in the land. {20} Nothing leavened shall you eat: in all your habitations you shall eat azymes. {21} And Moyses called all the Ancients of the children of Israel and said to them: Go take a lamb by your families, and sacrifice the Phase. {22} And dip a bunch of hyssop in the blood that is at the door, and sprinkle the upper transom of the door therewith, and both the door cheeks: let none of you go out of the door of his house till morning. {23} For our Lord will pass striking the Aegyptians: and when he shall see the blood on the upper sill, and on both the posts, he will pass over the door of the house, & not suffer the striker to enter your houses and to hurt. {24} Keep this thing as a law to thee and thy children for ever. {25} And When you are entered into the Land which our Lord will give you as he hath promised, you shall observe these ceremonies. {26} And when your children shall say to you: What is this religion? {27} You shall say to them: It is the victim of our Lord's passage, when he passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Aegypt striking the Aegyptians, and delivering our houses. And the people bowing themselves adored. {28} And the children of Israel going forth did as our Lord had commanded Moyses & Aaron. {29} And it came to pass at midnight, our Lord struck every first-begotten in the Land of Aegypt, from the first-begotten of Pharao, who sat in his throne, unto the first-begotten of the captive woman that was in the prison, and every first-begotten of beasts. {30} And Pharao arose in the night, & all his servants, & all Aegypt: & there arose a great cry in Aegypt: for neither was there a house wherein there lay not a dead one. {31} And Pharao calling Moyses & Aaron in the nigh, said: Arise & go forth from my people, you and the children of Israel: go, sacrifice to the Lord as you say. {32} Your sheep & herds take you as you demanded, and departing bless me. {33} And the Aegyptians urged the people to go forth out of the land quickly, saying: WE shall all die. {34} The people therefore took dough before it was leavened: and tying it in their cloaks, put it upon their shoulders. {35} And the children of Israel did as Moyses had commanded: & they asked of the Aegyptians vessels of silver and gold, and very much raiment. {36} And our Lord gave grace to the people before the Aegyptians that they did lend them: & they spoiled the Aegyptians. {37} And the children of Israel set forward from Ramesse into Socoth, almost six hundred thousand of foot men, beside little ones. {38} But also the common people of all sorts innumerable went up with them, sheep and herds and beasts of diverse kinds exceeding many. {39} And they baked the meal, which a little before they had taken out of Aegypt tempered: and made hearth cakes unleavened: for it could not be leavened, the Aegyptians urging them to depart, & not suffering them to make any tarriance: neither did they think upon preparing any meat. {40} And the dwelling of the children of Israel that they abode in Aegypt, was four hundred thirty years. {41} The which being expired, the same day all the army of our Lord went forth out of the Land of Aegypt. {42} This is the observable night of our Lord, when he brought them forth out of the Land of Aegypt: this night all the children of Israel must observe in their generations. {43} And our Lord said to Moyses and Aaron: This is the religion of the Phase: No alien shall eat of it. {44} And every bought servant shall be circumcised, and so shall eat. {45} The stranger and the hireling shall not eat thereof. {46} In one house shall it be eaten, neither shall you carry forth of the flesh thereof out of the house, neither shall you break a bone thereof. {47} All the assembly of the children of Israel shall make it. {48} And if any of the sojourners be willing to dwell among you, and make the Phase of the Lord, first all the male that he hath shall be circumcised, and then shall he celebrate it according to the rite: & he shall be as he that is born in the land: but if there be any man uncircumcised, he shall not eat thereof. {49} All one law shall be to him that is born in the land and to the Proselyte that sojourneth with you. {50} And all the children of Israel did as our Lord had commanded Moyses and Aaron. {51} And the same day our Lord brought forth the children of Israel out of the Land of Aegypt by their troops.

God commandeth to remember their delivery from Aegypt by the solemnity of Pasch, 2. and by consecrating to him the first-born. 17. And so leadeth them through the desert towards the red sea (Moyses taking with him Joseph's bones) by a pillar of fire in the night, and a cloud in the day.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} openeth the matrice in the children of Sanctify unto me every first-born that Israel, as well of men as of beasts; for they are all mine. {3} And Moyses said to the people: Remember this day in the which you went forth out of Aegypt, & out of the house of servitude, because with a strong hand hath our Lord brought you forth out of this place; that you eat not leavened bread. {4} This day you go forth in the month of new corn. {5} And when our Lord shall have brought thee into the Land of Chananeite and Hetheite & Amorrheite & Heveite & Jebusite, which he sware to thy fathers that he would give thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey, thou shalt celebrate this manner of sacred rites in this month. {6} Seven days shalt thou eat azymes: and in the seventh day shall be the solemnity of our Lord. {7} Azymes shall you eat seven days: there shall not be seen any leavened thing with thee, nor in all thy coasts. {8} And thou shalt tell thy son in that day, saying: This is that which our Lord did to me when I came forth out of Aegypt. {9} And it shall be as a sign in thy hand, and as a monument before thine eyes: and that the law of our Lord be always in the mouth, for in a strong hand our Lord hath brought thee out of Aegypt. {10} Thou shalt keep this observation at the set time from days to days. {11} And when our Lord shall have brought thee into the Land of the Chananeite, as he sware to thee and thy fathers, and shall give it thee, {12} thou shalt separate all that openeth the matrice unto our Lord, and all that is brought forth in thy cattle: whatsoever thou shalt have of male sex thou shalt consecrate to our Lord. {13} The first-born of an ass thou shall change for a sheep: and if thou do not redeem it, thou shalt kill it. And every first-born of men among thy children, thou shalt redeem with a price. {14} And when thy son shall ask thee tomorrow saying: What is this? Thou shalt answer him: With a strong hand did our Lord bring us forth out of the land of Aegypt, out of the house of servitude. {15} For when Pharao's heart was indurate, and would not dismiss us, our Lord slew every first-born in the Land of Aegypt, from the first-born of man to the first-born of beasts: therefore I sacrifice to our Lord all that openeth the matrice of the male sex, and all the first-born of my sons I do redeem. {16} It shall be therefore as a sign in thy hand, and as a thing hanged before thine eyes, for a remembrance: because our Lord by a strong hand hath brought us forth out of Aegypt. {17} Therefore when Pharao had sent forth the people, our Lord led them not by the way of the Philisthiin's country which is near: thinking lest perhaps it would repent them, if they should see wars arise against them, and would return into Aegypt. {18} But he led them about by the way of the desert, which is besides the Red sea: and the children of Israel went up out of the Land of Aegypt armed. {19} Moyses also took Joseph's bones with him: because he had adjured the children of Israel, saying: God shall visit you, carry out my bones from hence with you. {20} And marching from Socoth they camped in Etham in the utmost coasts of the wilderness. {21} And our Lord went before them to shew the way by day in a pillar of a cloud, and by night in a pillar of fire: that he might be the guide of their journey both times. {22} There never failed the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, before the people.

Pharao persecuting the children of Israel with a great army 10. they murmur against Moyses, 13. but are encouraged by him, and pass through the red sea dry-foot. 23. Pharao and his host willfully following are drowned.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} them return and camp over against Speak to the children of Israel: Let Phihahiroth which is between Magdal and the sea against Beelsephon: in the sight thereof you shall camp upon the sea. {3} And Pharao will say concerning the children of Israel: They are straightened in the land, the desert hath shut them in. {4} And I will indurate his heart, and he will pursue you: and I will be glorified in Pharao, and in all his army: and the Aegyptians shall know that I am the Lord. And they did so. {5} And it was told the king of Aegyptians that the people was fled: and the heart of Pharao and of his servants was changed toward the people, & they said: What meant we to do, that we dismissed Israel from serving us? {6} Therefore he made ready his chariot, and took all his people with him. {7} And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots that were in Aegypt, and Captains of the whole army. {8} And our Lord hardened Pharao's heart the king of Aegypt, & he pursued the children of Israel: but they went forth in a mighty hand. {9} And when the Aegyptians pursued their steps going before, they found them encamped at the sea side: all Pharao's horse and chariots, & the whole army were in Phihahiroth against Beelsephon. {10} And when Pharao approached, the children of Israel lifting up their eyes, saw the Aegyptians behind them: and they feared exceedingly, and cried to our Lord. {11} and said to Moyses: Perhaps there were no graves in Aegypt, therefore thou hast taken us thence to die in the wilderness: why wouldst thou do this, in bringing us out of Aegypt? {12} Is not this the word that we spake to thee in Aegypt, saying: Depart from us, that we may serve the Aegyptians? For it was much better to serve them, than to die in the wilderness. {13} And Moyses said to the people: Fear not; stand, and see the great wonders of our Lord that he will do this day: for the Aegyptians, whom now you see, you shall no more see for ever. {14} Our Lord will fight for you and you shall hold your peace. {15} And our Lord said to Moyses: Why cryest thou to me? Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward. {16} But thou lift up thy rod, and stretch forth thy hand upon the sea, and divide it: that the children of Israel may go in the midst of the sea by dry ground. {17} And I will indurate the heart of the Aegyptians to pursue you: and I will be glorified in Pharao, and in all his host, and in his chariots, and in his horsemen. {18} And the Aegyptians shall know that I am the Lord when I shall be glorified in Pharao, and in his chariots and in his horsemen. {19} And the Angel of God that went before the camp of Israel, removing himself, went behind them: & together with him the pillar of the cloud, leaving the forward, {20} stood behind, between the Aegyptian's camp & the camp of Israel: & it was a dark cloud, & lightning the night, so that they could not come to each other the whole night time. {21} And when Moyses had stretched forth his hand upon the sea, our Lord took it away, a vehement and burning wind blowing all the nigh, and turned it into dry ground: and the water was divided. {22} And the children of Israel went through the midst of the dry sea: for the water was as it were a wall on their right hand and their left. {23} And the Aegyptians pursuing went in after them, and all Pharao's horses, his chariots and horsemen through the midst of the sea. {24} And now the morning watch was come, and behold our Lord looking upon the Aegyptian's camp through the pillar of fire and the cloud, slew their army: {25} and overthrew the wheels of the chariots, and they were borne into the depth. The Aegyptians therefore said: Let us fly from Israel: for the Lord fighteth for them against us. {26} And our Lord said to Moyses: Stretch forth thy hand upon the sea, that the waters may return to the Aegyptians upon their chariots and horsemen. {27} And when Moyses had stretched forth his hand against the sea, it returned in the first break of day to the former place: and the Aegyptians flying away, the waters came upon them, and our Lord enwrapt them in the midst of the waves. {28} And the waters returned, and overwhelmed the chariots & the horsemen of all Pharao's army, who following were entered into the sea, neither did there so much as one of them remain. {29} But the children of Israel marched through the midst of the dry sea, and the waters were unto them as instead of a wall on the right hand and on the left: {30} & our Lord delivered Israel in that day out of the hand of the Aegyptians. {31} And they saw the Aegyptians dead upon the sea shore, & the mighty hand that our Lord had exercised against them: & the people feared our Lord, and they believed our Lord, and Moyses his servant.

Moyses with the people sing a Canticle of thanks-giving for their delivery. 22. The people being three days in the desert without water, then finding that is bitter, do murmur. 25. It is made sweet. 27. Coming to Elim they find twelve fountains and seventy palm-trees.

{1} THEN sang Moyses and the children of Israel this song to our Lord, and said: Let us sing to our Lord: for he is gloriously magnified, the horse and the rider he hath thrown into the sea. {2} My strength, and my praise is our Lord, and he is made unto me a salvation: this is my God, and I will glorify him: the God of my father, and I will exalt him. {3} Our Lord is a man of war, Omnipotent is his name. {4} Pharao's chariots and his army he hath cast into the sea: his chosen Princes are drowned in the red sea. {5} The depths have overwhelmed them, they are sunk into the bottom like a stone. {6} Thy right hand, o Lord, is magnified in strength: thy right hand, o Lord, hath stricken the enemy. {7} And in the multitude of the glory thou hast put down thy adversaries: thou hast sent thy wrath, which hath devoured them like stubble. {8} And in the spirit of thy fury were the waters gathered together: the flowing water stood, the depths were gathered together in the midst of the sea. {9} The enemy said: I will pursue and overtake, I will divide the spoils, my soul shall have his fill: I will draw forth my sword, my hand shall kill them. {10} The spirit blew and the sea overwhelmed them: they sank as lead in the vehement waters. {11} Who is like to thee among the strong, o Lord? Who is like to thee, magnificil in sanctity, terrible and laudable, doing marvels? {12} Thou didst stretch forth thy hand, and the earth devoured them. {13} Thou hast in thy mercy been a guide to the people which thou hast redeemed: & in thy strength thou hast carried them unto thy holy habitation. {14} Nations rose up, and were angry: sorrows possessed the inhabitants of Philisthiim. {15} Then were the Princes of Edom troubled, trembling ceased on the sturdy of Moab: all the inhabitants of Chanaan were stark. {16} Let fear and dread fall upon them, in the greatness of thy arm: Let them become unmovable as a stone, until thy people, o Lord, shall pass, until thy people shall pass, this which thou hast possessed. {17} Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of thy inheritance, in thy most firm habitation, which thou hast wrought, o Lord: thy sanctuary Lord, which thy hands have confirmed. {18} Our Lord shall reign for ever and evermore. {19} For Pharao on horseback entered in with his chariots & horsemen into the sea: and our Lord brought back upon them the waters of the sea: but the children of Israel walked on dry ground in the midst thereof. {20} Mary therefore the Prophetess, Aaron's sister, took a timbrel in her hand: and all the women went forth after her with timbrels and dances, {21} to whom she began the song, saying: Let us sing to our Lord, for he is gloriously magnified, the horse and his rider he hath cast into the sea. {22} And Moyses removed Israel from the red sea, and they went forth into the desert Sur: and they walked three days through the wilderness, and found not water. {23} And they came into Mara, neither could they drink the waters of Mara, because they were bitter: whereupon he gave a name also agreeable to the place, calling it Mara, that is, bitterness. {24} And the people murmured against Moyses, saying: What shall we drink? {25} But he cried to our Lord. Who did shew him a piece of wood: which when he had cast into the waters, they were turned into sweetness. There he appointed him precepts, and judgments, and there he proved him, {26} saying: If thou wilt hear the voice of the Lord thy God, and do that is right before him, and obey his commandments, and keep all his precepts, none of the maladies, that I laid upon Aegypt, will I bring upon thee: for I am the Lord God thy curer. {27} And the children of Israel came into Elim, where there were twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm trees: and they camped beside the waters.

The people murmuring for meat, & that they had left the flesh-pots of Aegypt. 4. God giveth them quails and Manna. 16. Whereof they are commanded to gather for every day, 22, but the sixth day double for the Sabbath. 32. and to keep a measure of it in the tabernacle for a memory.

{1} AND they set forward from Elim, and all the multitude of the children of Israel came into the desert Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai: the fifteenth day of the second month, after they came forth out of the Land of Aegypt. {2} And all the assembly of the children of Israel murmured against Moyses & Aaron in the wilderness. {3} And the children of Israel said to them: Would to God we had died by the hand of our Lord in the Land of Aegypt, when we sat over the flesh pots, and did eat bread our fill: why have you brought us into this desert, that you might kill all the multitude with famine? {4} And our Lord said to Moyses: Behold I will rain you bread from heaven: let the people go forth, and gather that sufficeth for every day: that I may prove them whether they will walk in my law, or not. {5} But the sixth day let them provide for to bring in: and let it be double to that they were wont to gather every day. {6} And Moyses and Aaron said to all the children of Israel: At even you shall know that our Lord hath brought you forth out of the land of Aegypt: {7} and in the morning you shall see the glory of our Lord: for he hath heard your murmuring against our Lord. But as for us, what are we, that you mutter against us? {8} And Moyses said: At even our Lord will give you flesh to eat, and in the morning bread your fill: for he hath heard your murmurings, which you have murmured against him, for what are we? Neither is your murmuring against us, but against our Lord. {9} Moyses also said to Aaron: Say to the whole assembly of the children of Israel: Approach you before our Lord: for he hath heard your murmuring. {10} And when Aaron spake to all the assembly of the children of Israel, they looked toward the wilderness: and behold the glory of our Lord appeared in a cloud. {11} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {12} I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel, say to them: At even you shall eat flesh, and in the morning you shall have your fill of bread: and you shall know that I am the Lord your God. {13} Therefore it came to pass at even, & the quail rose, and covered the camp: in the morning also a dew lay round about the camp. {14} And when it had covered the face of the earth, it appeared in the wilderness small, and as it were beaten with a pestle like unto the hoar frost on the ground. {15} Which when the children of Israel had seen, they said one to other: Man-hu! Which signifieth: What is this! For they knew not what it was. To whom Moyses said: This is the bread, which our Lord hath given you to eat. {16} This is the word, that our Lord hath commanded: Let every one gather of it so much as sufficeth to eat: a gomor every man, according to the number of your souls that dwell in a tent so shall you take up. {17} And the children of Israel did so: and they gathered, one more, an other less. {18} And they measured by the measure of a gomor: neither he that gathered more, had above: nor he that provided less, found under: but every one gathered according to that which they were able to eat. {19} And Moyses said to them: Let no man leave thereof till the morning. {20} Who heard him not, but certain of them left until the morning, and it began to be full of worms, and it putrified. And Moyses was angry against them. {21} And every one of them gathered in the morning so much as might suffice to eat: and after the sun waxed hot, it melted. {22} But in the sixth day they gathered double portions, that is, two gomors every man: and all the Princes of the multitude came, and told Moyses. {23} Who said to them: This is it which our Lord hath spoken: The Sabbath's rest is sanctified unto our Lord tomorrow. Whatsoever is to be wrought, do it: and the meats that are to be made ready, make them ready: and whatsoever shall remain, lay it up until the morning. {24} And they did so as Moyses had commanded, and it putrified not, neither was there worm found in it. {25} And Moyses said: Eat it today, because it is the Sabbath of our Lord: to day it shall not be found in the field. {26} Gather it six days: but in the seventh day is the Sabbath of our Lord, therefore it shall not be found. {27} And the seventh day came: and some of the people going forth to gather, found not. {28} And our Lord said to Moyses: How long will you not keep my commandments, and my law? {29} See that our Lord hath given you a Sabbath, and for this cause on the sixth day he giveth you double portions: let each man tarry with himself, and let none go forth out of his place the seventh day. {30} And the people kept the Sabbath on the seventh day. {31} And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna: which was as it were coriander seed white, and the taste thereof like to flour with honey. {32} And Moyses said: This is the word, which our Lord hath commanded: Fill a gomor of it, and let it be kept unto the generations to come hereafter; that they may know the bread, wherewith I fed you in the wilderness, when you were brought forth out of the Land of Aegypt. {33} And Moyses said to Aaron: Take one vessel, and put Manna into it, so much as a gomor can hold: and lay it up before our Lord to keep unto your generations: {34} as our Lord commanded Moyses. And Aaron put it in the tabernacle to be reserved. {35} And the children of Israel did eat Manna forty years, till they came into the habitable land: with this meat were they fed, until they touched the borders of the land of Chanaan. {36} And a gomor is the tenth part an ephi.

The people murmuring again in Raphidim for want of drink, our Lord giveth them water out of a rock. 8. Amalech fighteth with them. And Moyses lifting up his hand in prayer, Israel overcometh, otherwise Amalech prevaleth.

{1} THEREFORE all the multitude of the children of Israel setting forward from the desert Sin, by their mansions, according to the word of our Lord, camped in Raphidim, where there was no water for the people to drink. {2} Who chiding against Moyses, said: Give us water, that we may drink. To whom Moyses answered: Why chide you against me? Wherefore do you tempt our Lord? {3} The people therefore was thirsty there for lack of water, & murmured against Moyses, saying: Why didst thou make us go forth out of Aegypt to kill us, and our children, & our beasts with thirst: {4} And Moyses cried to our Lord, saying: What shall I do to this people? Yet a little while, and they will stone me. {5} And our Lord said to Moyses: Go before the people, and take with thee of the ancients of Israel: and the rod wherewith thou didst strike the river, take in thy hand, and go. {6} Behold I will stand there before thee, upon the rock Horeb: and thou shalt strike the rock, & water shall go out thereof, that the people may drink. Moyses did so before the ancients of Israel: {7} and he called the name of that place, Temptation, because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and for that they tempted our Lord, saying: Is the Lord among us or not? {8} And Amalec came, and fought against Israel in Raphidim. {9} And Moyses said to Josue: Choose out men, and go forth & fight against Amalec: tomorrow I will stand in the top of the hill having the rod of God in my hand. {10} Josue did as Moyses had spoken, and he fought against Amalec: but Moyses and Aaron and Hur went up upon the top of the Hill. {11} And when Moyses lifted up his hands, Israel overcame: but if he did let them down a little, Amalec overcame. {12} And the hands of Moyses were heavy: therefore they took a stone, and put under him, whereupon he sat: and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands on both sides. And it came to pass that his hands were not weary until sunset. {13} And Josue put Amalec to flight, & his people by the edge of the sword. {14} And our Lord said to Moyses: Write this for a monument in a book, & deliver it to the ears of Josue: for I will destroy the memory of Amalec from under heaven. {15} And Moyses builded an Altar, and called the name thereof, Our Lord my exaltation, saying: {16} Because the hand of our Lord's throne, and the war of our Lord shall be against Amalec, from generation unto generation.

Jethro Moyses' father in law bringeth to him his wife and children. 8. And hearing the great works of God, 12. offereth Sacrifice: 13. and wisely advised Moyses to appoint subordinate officers to judge less causes, reserving the greater to himself.

{1} AND When Jethro the Priest of Madian, the allied of Moyses, had heard all the things, that God had done to Moyses, and to Israel his people, and that our Lord had brought forth Israel out of Aegypt; {2} he took Sephora the wife of Moyses whom he had sent back: {3} and her two sons, of which one was called Gersam, his father saying: I have been a stranger in a foreign country; {4} And the other Eliezer: for the God of my father, quoth he, is my helper, and hath delivered me from Pharao's sword. {5} Jethro therefore the allied of Moyses came and his sons, and his wife to Moyses into the desert, where he was camped beside the mountain of God. {6} And he sent word to Moyses, saying: I, Jethro thy allied come to thee, and thy wife, and thy two children with her. {7} Who going forth to meet his allied, adored, and kissed him: and they saluted one another with words of peace. And when he was entered into the tent, {8} Moyses told his allied all things that our Lord had done to Pharao, and the Aegyptians for Israel: and the whole travail which had chanced to them in the journey, and that our Lord had delivered them. {9} And Jethro rejoiced for all the good things, that our Lord had done to Israel, because he had delivered them out of the hands of the Aegyptians, {10} and he said: Blessed is the Lord, that hath delivered you out of the hand of the Aegyptians, and out of the hand of Pharao, that hath delivered his people out of the hand of Aegypt. {11} Now do I know, that the Lord is great above all gods: for because they dealt proudly against them. {12} Jethro therefore the allied of Moyses offered holocausts and hosts to God: and Aaron and all the ancients of Israel came, to eat bread with him before God. {13} And the next day Moyses sat to judge the people, who stood by Moyses from morning until night. {14} Which thing when his allied had seen, to wit, all things that he did in the people, he said: What is this that thou doest in the people? Why sittest thou alone, and all the people attendeth from morning until night? {15} To whom Moyses answered: The people cometh to me seeking the sentence of God. {16} And when any controversy chanceth among them, they come unto me to judge between them, and to shew the precepts of God, and his laws. {17} But he said: Thou doest not well: {18} Thou art tired with foolish labour, both thou, and this people that is with thee, the business is above thy strength, thou alone canst not sustain it. {19} But hear my words and counsels, and God shall be with thee. Be thou to the people in those things that pertain to God, to report their words unto him: {20} & to shew to the people the ceremonies & rite of worshipping, and the way wherein they ought to walk, and the work that they ought to do. {21} And provide out of all the people men that are wise, & do fear God, in whom there is truth, and that do hate avarice, and appoint of them tribunes, and centurions, and quinquagenarians, and deans, {22} which may judge the people at all times: and what great matter soever shall fall out, let them refer it to thee, & let them judge the less matters only: & so it may be lighter for thee, the burden being imparted unto others. {23} If thou doest this, thou shalt fulfill the commandment of God, & shalt be able to bear his precepts: all this people shall return to their places with peace. {24} Which things when Moyses heard, he did all things that he had suggested unto him. {25} And choosing substantial men out of all Israel, he appointed them Princes of the people, tribunes, and centurions, and quinquagenarians, and deans. {26} Who judged the people at all time: and whatsoever was of greater difficulty they referred to him, themselves judging the easier cases only. {27} And he dismissed his allied: who returning went into his country.

Near to mount Sinai, with commemoration of their delivery from Aegypt, the people are commanded to be sanctified: 16. and so our Lord coming in thunders and lightnings speaketh with Moyses.

{1} IN the third month of the departure of Israel out of the Land of Aegypt, this day they came into the wilderness of Sinai. {2} For departing out of Raphidim, and coming to the desert of Sinai, they camped in the same place, & there Israel pitched their tents over against the mountain. {3} And Moyses went up to God: and our Lord called him from the mountain, and said: This shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and shalt tell the children of Israel: {4} Yourselves have seen what I have done to the Aegyptians, how I have carried you upon the wings of eagles, and have taken you unto me. {5} If therefore you will hear my voice, and keep my covenant, you shall be my peculiar of all peoples: for all the earth is mine. {6} And you shall be unto me a Priestly Kingdom, and a holy nation: these are the words that thou shalt speak to the children of Israel. {7} Moyses came: and calling together the nations of the people, he declared all the words which our Lord had commanded him. {8} And all the people answered together. All things that our Lord hath spoken, we will do. And when Moyses had reported the people's words to our Lord, {9} our Lord said to him: Now presently will I come to thee in the darkness of a cloud, that the people may hear me speaking to thee, and may believe thee for ever. Moyses therefore told the people's words to our Lord. {10} Who said to him: Go to the people, and sanctify them today, and tomorrow, and let them wash their garments. {11} And let them be ready against the third day: for in the third day the Lord will descend in the sight of all the people upon the mount Sinai. {12} And thou shalt appoint certain limits to the people in circuit, and shalt say to them: Beware ye ascend not into the mount,

& that you touch not the ends thereof: every one that toucheth the mount, dying shall die. {13} Hand shall not touch him, but he shall be stoned to death, or shall be shot through with arrows: whether it be beast, or man, it shall not live. When the trumpet shall begin to sound, then let them ascend into the mount. {14} And Moyses came down from the mount to the people, and sanctified them. And when they had washed their garments, {15} he said to them: Be ready against the third day, and come not near your wives. {16} And now the third day was come, and the morning appeared: and behold thunders began to be heard, and lightnings to flash, and a very thick cloud to cover the mount, & the noise of the trumpet sounded exceedingly: and the people, that was in the camp, feared. {17} And when Moyses had brought them forth to meet with God from the place of the camp, they stood at the bottom of the mount. {18} And all the mount Sinai smoked: for because our Lord was descended upon it in fire, and the smoke arose from it as out of a furnace: and all the mount was terrible. {19} And the sound of the trumpet grew louder by little and little, and was drawn out a length: Moyses spake, and God answered him. {20} And our Lord descended upon the mount Sinai in the very top of the mount, and he called Moyses into the top thereof. Whither when he was ascended, {21} he said unto him: Go down, and charge the people, lest perhaps they will pass their limits to see the Lord, and a very great multitude of them perish. {22} The Priests also that come to the Lord, let them be sanctified, lest he strike them. {23} And Moyses said to our Lord: The common people can not ascend into the mount Sinai: for thou didst charge, and command, saying: Put limits about the mount, and sanctify it. {24} To whom our Lord said: Go, get thee down, and thou shalt come up, and Aaron with thee: but the Priests and the people let them not pass the limits nor ascend to the Lord, lest perhaps he kill them. {25} And Moyses went down to the people, and told them all.

Moyses receiveth the Decalogue or ten commandments of God, for all the people 23. with repetition that they shall not make false Gods, nor make Altars but of earth or unhewed stone, and without steps.

{1} AND our Lord spake all these words. the Lord thy God, which brought thee forth out of the Land of Aegypt, out of the {2} I am house of servitude. {3} Thou shalt not have strange gods before me. {4} Thou shalt not make to thee a graven thing, nor any similitude that is in heaven above, & that is in the earth beneath, neither of those things that are in the waters under the earth. {5} Thou shalt not adore them, nor serve them: I am the Lord thy God mighty, jealous, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, upon the third and fourth generation of them that hate me: {6} and doing mercy upon thousands to them that love me, and keep my precepts. {7} Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. For the Lord will not hold him innocent that shall take the name of the Lord his God vainly. {8} Remember that thou sanctify the Sabbath day. {9} Six days shalt thou work, and shalt do all thy works. {10} But on the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: thou shalt do no work in it, thou and thy son, and thy daughter, thy man servant, and thy woman servant, thy beast, and the stranger that is within thy gates. {11} For six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all things that are in them, and rested in the seventh day, therefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and sanctified it. {12} Honour thy father and thy mother, that thou mayst be long lived upon the earth, which the Lord thy God will give thee. {13} Thou shalt not murder. {14} Thou shalt not commit adultery. {15} Thou shalt not steal. {16} Thou shalt not speak against thy neighbour false testimony. {17} Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house: neither shalt thou desire his wife, nor servant, nor handmaid, nor ox, nor ass, nor any thing that is his. {18} And all the people saw the voices, and the flames, and the sound of the trumpet, and the mount smoking: and being frightened and stricken with fear they stood a far off, {19} saying to Moyses: Speak thou to us, and we will hear: let not our Lord Speak to us, lest perhaps we die. {20} And Moyses said to the people: Fear not: for God came to prove you, and that his terror might be in you, and you should not sin. {21} And the people stood a far off. But Moyses went unto the dark cloud wherein God was. {22} Our Lord said moreover to Moyses: This shalt thou say to the children of Israel: You have seen that from heaven I have spoken to you. {23} You shall not make gods of silver, nor gods of gold shall you make to you. {24} An altar of earth you shall make to me, and you shall offer upon it your holocausts and pacifics, your sheep and oxen in every place where the memory of my name shall be: I will come to thee, and will bless thee. {25} And if thou make an Altar of stone unto me, thou shalt not build it of hewed stones: for if thou lift up thy knife over it, it shall be polluted. {26} Thou shalt not go up by grises unto mine Altar, lest thy turpitude be discovered.

Judicial precepts concerning bondmen and bondwomen, 12. Manslaughter and striking: killing and cursing of parents. 23. The law of like pain for a hurt, 28. of an oxe striking with his horn.

{1} THESE are the judgments which thou shalt propose to them. servant, six years shall he serve thee: in {2} If thou buy an Hebrew the seventh he shall go out free gratis. {3} With the raiment he entered in, with the like let him go out: if having a wife, his wife also shall go out with him. {4} But if his Lord give him a wife, and she bear sons & daughters, the woman and her children shall be her Lord's; but himself shall go out with his raiment. {5} And if the servant say: I love my Lord and wife & children, I will not go out free: {6} his lord shall present him to the gods, and he shall be set to the door and the posts, and he shall bore his ear through with an awl: and he shall be his bond man for ever. {7} If any man sell his daughter to be a servant, she shall not go out, as bondwomen are wont to go out. {8} If she mislike the eyes of her master to whom she was delivered, he shall dismiss her: but he shall not have authority to sell her unto a strange people, if he despise her. {9} But if he despouse her to his son, he shall do to her after the manner of daughters. {10} And if he take an other wife for him, he shall provide her a marriage, and raiment, and the price of her chastity he shall not deny. {11} If he do not these three things, she shall go out gratis without money. {12} He that striketh a man willfully to kill him, dying let him die. {13} But he that did not lie in wait for him, but God delivered him into his hands, I will appoint thee a place whereunto he ought to fly. {14} If a man of set purpose kill his neighbour, and by lying in wait for him, thou shalt pluck him out from mine Altar, that he may die. {15} He that striketh his father or mother, dying let him die. {16} He that shall steal a man, and sell him, being convicted of the trespass, dying let him die. {17} He that curseth his father, or mother, dying let him die. {18} If men fall at words, and the one strike his neighbour with a stone or with his fist, and he die not, but lie in his bed: {19} if he rise, and walk abroad upon his staff, he that did strike shall be quit, yet so that he make restitution for his work, and for his expenses upon the physicians. {20} He that striketh his man or maid-servant with a rod, and they die in his hands, he shall be guilty of the crime. {21} But if the party remain alive a day or two, he shall not be subject to punishment, because it is his money. {22} If certain fall at words, and one strike a woman with child, and she indeed abort, but her self live; he shall be subject to so much damage as the woman's husband shall require, and as arbiters shall award. {23} But if her death do ensue thereupon, he shall render life for life, {24} eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, {25} adustion for adustion, wound for wound, stripe for stripe. {26} If any man strike the eye of his man-servant or maid-servant, and leave them but one eye, he shall make them free for the eye which he put out. {27} Also if he strike out a tooth of his man-servant or maid-servant, he shall in like manner make them free. {28} If an oxe with his horn strike a man or a woman, and they die, he shall be stoned: and his flesh shall not be eaten, the owner also of the oxe shall be quit. {29} But if the oxe were wont to strike from yesterday and the day before, and they warned his master, neither did he shut him up, and he kill a man or a woman; both the oxe shall be stoned, & they shall put to death his owner also. {30} And if they set a price upon him, he shall give for his life whatsoever he is asked. {31} Also if with his horn he strike a son, or a daughter, he shall be subject to the like sentence. {32} If he invade a bondman or bondwoman, he shall give thirty sicles of silver to their master, but the oxe shall be stoned. {33} If a man open a cistern, & dig one, & do not cover it, and an oxe or an ass fall into it, {34} the owner of the cistern shall pay the price of the beasts: and that which died shall be his own. {35} If one man's oxe gore an other man's oxe, & he die, they shall sell the oxe that liveth, and shall divide the price, and the carcass of that which died they shall part between them. {36} But if he knew that his oxe was wont to strike from yesterday and the day before, and his master did not keep him in, he shall render oxe for oxe, and shall take the carcass whole.

The punishment of theft 5. and other trespasses, 7. if a thing committed to custody or lent doth perish, 16. of deflowering a virgin, 18. of enchanting, bestiality, and idolatry, 21. of hurting strangers, widows, and orphans. 25. The law of lending without usury, 26. of taking pledge, 28. of reverence to superiors, and of paying tithes.

{1} IF any man steal an oxe or a sheep, and kill or sell it: he shall restore five oxen for one oxe, and four sheep for one sheep. {2} If the thief be found breaking up the house or undermining it, and taking a wound die; the striker shall not be guilty of blood. {3} But if he do this when the sun is risen, he hath committed manslaughter, and himself shall die. If he have not wherewith to make restitution for the theft, himself shall be sold. {4} If that which he stole be found with him alive, either ox, or ass, or sheep; he shall restore double. {5} If any man hurt a field or a vineyard, and let go his beast to feed upon that which is other mens; the best of whatsoever he hath in his own field, or in his vineyard, he shall restore, according to the estimation of the damage. {6} If fire breaking forth light upon the thorns, and catch stacks of corn, or corn standing in the fields, he shall render the damage that kindled the fire. {7} If a man commit money, or a vessel unto his friend to keep, & they be stolen away from him that received them; if the thief be found, he shall restore double: {8} If the thief be not known, the master of the house shall be brought to the gods, and shall swear that he did not extend his hand upon his neighbour's good, {9} to do any fraud, as well in ox as in ass, and sheep and raiment, and whatsoever may bring damage: the cause of both parties shall come to the gods: and if they give judgment, he shall restore double to his neighbour. {10} If a man commit ass, ox, sheep, or any beast, to his neighbour's custody, and it die, or be hurt, or be taken of enemies, and no man saw; {11} there shall be an oath between them, that he did not put forth his hand to his neighbour's good: and the owner shall admit the oath, and he shall not be compelled to make restitution. {12} But if it were taken away by stealth, he shall restore the damage to the owner. {13} If it were eaten of a beast, let him bring unto him that which was slain, and he shall not make restitution. {14} He that asketh of his neighbour to borrow any of these things, and it be hurt or dead, the owner being not present, he shall be compelled to make restitution. {15} But if the owner be present, he shall not make restitution, especially if it were hired and came for the hire of the same. {16} If a man seduce a virgin being not yet despoised, and lie with her; he shall endow her, and have her to wife. {17} If the virgin's father will not give her, he shall give money according to the manner of the dowry, which virgins are wont to receive. {18} Enchanters thou shalt not suffer to live. {19} He that lieth with a brute beast, dying let him die. {20} He that sacrificeth to gods, shall be put to death, but to the Lord only. {21} Thou shalt not molest a stranger, nor afflict him: for your selves also were strangers in the Land of Aegypt. {22} A widow and an orphan you shall not hurt. {23} If you hurt them, they will cry out to me, and I will hear their cry: {24} and my fury shall take indignation, and I will strike you with the sword, and your wives shall be widows, and your children orphans. {25} If thou lend money to my people being poor, that dwelleth with thee, thou shalt not urge them as an exactor, nor oppress them with usuries. {26} If thou take of thy neighbour a garment in pledge, thou shalt give it him again before sun set. {27} For that same is the only thing wherewith he is covered, the clothing of his body, neither hath he other to sleep in: if he cry to me, I will hear him, because I am merciful. {28} Thou shalt not detract from the gods, and the prince of thy people thou shalt not curse. {29} Thy tithes and thy first fruits thou shalt not slack to pay, the first-born of thy sons thou shalt give me. {30} Of thy oxen also & sheep thou shalt do in like manner: seven days let it be with the dam, the eighth day thou shalt render it to me. {31} Holy men you shall be to me: the flesh that beasts have tasted of before, you shall not eat, but shall cast it to the dogs.

Laws are appointed to Judges (the enemy's oxe or ass to be saved) 8. namely not to take bribes. 10. The seventh year and day all must rest. 14. Three principal feasts must be solemnized every year. 20. Conduction and protection of an Angel is promised. 24. The people are again commanded to destroy Idols. 29. Why their enemies shall be destroyed by little and little.

{1} THOU shalt not admit a lying voice: neither shalt thou join thy hand to say false testimony for a wicked person. {2} Thou shalt not follow the multitude to do evil: neither shalt thou in judgement agree to the sentence of the most part, to stray from the truth. {3} The poor man also thou shalt not pity in judgment. {4} If thou meet thy enemy's ox or ass going astray, bring it back to him. {5} If thou see the ass of him that hateth thee lie underneath his burden, thou shalt not pass by, but shalt lift him up with the same. {6} Thou shalt not decline the poor man's judgment. {7} A lie thou shalt avoid. The innocent and just person thou shalt not put to death: because I abhor the impious man. {8} Neither shalt thou take bribes, which do blind also the wise, and pervert the words of the just. {9} The stranger thou shalt not molest, for you know the hearts of strangers: because your selves also were strangers in the Land of Aegypt. {10} Six years thou shalt sow thy ground, and shalt gather the corn thereof. {11} But the seventh year thou shalt let it alone, and make it to rest, that the poor of thy people may eat, and whatsoever shall be left, let the beasts of the field eat it: so shalt thou do in thy vineyard and thy olivet. {12} Six days thou shalt work: the seventh day thou shalt cease, that thy ox may rest and thine ass: and the son of thy handmaid may be refreshed, and the stranger. {13} Keep all things that I have said to you. And by the name of foreign gods you shall not swear, neither shall it be heard out of your mouth. {14} Three times every year you shall celebrate feasts to me. {15} Thou shalt keep the solemnity of Azymes. Seven days shalt thou eat azymes, as I commanded thee, in time of the month of new corn, when thou didst come forth out of Aegypt: thou shalt not appear in my sight empty. {16} And the solemnity of the harvest of the first fruits of thy work, whatsoever thou didst sow in the field. The solemnity also in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered all thy corn out of the field. {17} Thrice a year shall all thy male sex appear before the Lord thy God. {18} Thou shalt not sacrifice the blood of my victim upon leaven, neither shall the fat of the solemnity remain until the morning. {19} The first fruits of the corn of thy ground thou shalt carry into the house of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of his dam. {20} Behold I will send mine Angel, which shall go before thee, and keep thee in thy journey, and bring thee into the place that I have prepared. {21} Observe him, and hear his voice, neither do thou think him one to be contemned: for he will not forgive when thou hast sinned, and my name is in him. {22} But if thou wilt hear his voice, and do all that I speak, I will be enemy to thine enemies, & will afflict them that afflict thee. {23} And mine Angel shall go before thee, and shall bring thee in unto the Amorrheite, and Hetheite, & Pherezeite, and Chananeite, and Heveite, & Jebuzeite, whom I will destroy. {24} Thou shalt not adore their gods, nor serve them. Thou shalt not do their works, but shalt destroy them, and break their statues. {25} And you shall serve the Lord your God, that I may bless your bread & waters, and may take away infirmity from the midst of thee. {26} There shall not be a fruitless nor barren body in thy land: I will fill the number of thy days. {27} I will send my terror to run before thee, and will kill all people, to whom thou shalt enter: and will turn the backs of all thine enemies before thee: {28} sending forth hornets before, that shall chase away the Heveite, and Chananeite, & Hetheite, before thou enter. {29} I will not cast them out from thy face in one year: lest the land be brought into a wilderness, and beasts increase against thee. {30} By little and little I will expel them from thy sight, till thou be increased, and dost possess the Land. {31} And I will set thy bounds from the Red sea unto the sea of the Palestines, and from the desert unto the river: I will deliver the inhabitants of the Land in your hands, and will cast them out from your sight. {32} Thou shalt not enter league with them, nor with their gods. {33} Let them not dwell in thy land, lest perhaps they make thee to sin against me, if thou serve their gods: which undoubtedly will be a scandal to thee.

Moyses with others are commanded to ascend, he to the Lord, the rest a far off. 4. They offer Sacrifice. 8. Moyses sprinkles the blood of the Testament upon the people. 15. Then ascending to the mountain, God covereth it with a fiery cloud.

{1} TO Moyses also he said: Go up to the Lord, thou, and Aaron, Nadab and Abiu, and seventy Ancients of Israel, and you shall adore a far off. {2} And Moyses only shall ascend to the Lord, and they shall not approach: neither shall the people ascend with him. {3} Moyses therefore came and told the people all the words of our Lord, & the judgments: and all the people answered with one voice: All the words of our Lord, which he hath spoken, we will do. {4} And Moyses wrote all the words of our Lord: and rising in the morning he builded an Altar at the foot of the mount, & twelve titles according the twelve tribes of Israel. {5} And he sent young men of the children of Israel, & they offered holocausts, & sacrificed pacific victims to our Lord, calves. {6} Moyses therefore took the half part of the blood, and put it into bowls: and the residue he poured upon the Altar. {7} And taking the volume of the covenant, he read the people hearing it: Who said, All things that our Lord hath spoken, we will do, and we will be obedient. {8} And he took the blood, and sprinkled it upon the people, and said: This is the blood of the Covenant which our Lord hath made with you upon all these words. {9} And there went up Moyses and Aaron, Nadab and Abiu, and seventy of the Ancients of Israel: {10} and they saw the God of Israel: and under his feet as it were a work of sapphire stone, and as the heaven, when it is clear. {11} Neither did he set his hand upon those of the children of Israel, that retired far off, and they saw God, and did eat, and drink. {12} And our Lord said to Moyses: Come up to me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee tables of stone, and the law, and the commandments which I have written: that thou mayst teach them. {13} Moyses rose up, and his Minister Josue: and Moyses ascending into the mount of God, {14} said to the Ancients: Expect here till we return to you, you have Aaron and Hur with you: If any question shall rise, you shall refer it to them. {15} And when Moyses was ascended, a cloud covered the mount, {16} and the glory of our Lord dwelt upon Sinai, covering it with a cloud six days, and the seventh day he called him out of the midst of the darkness. {17} And the form of the glory of our Lord, was as it were fire burning upon the top of the mount, in the sight of the children of Israel. {18} And Moyses entering into the midst of the cloud, ascended into the mount: and he was there forty days and forty nights.

Oblations of first fruits, and free-gifts for making the Tabernacle, and things pertaining thereto. 10. The Ark. 17. The Propitiatory, and Cherubims. 23. A table, and thereon the Loaves of proposition. 31. A candlestick, 37. and seven lamps, with snuffers of gold.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} they take first fruits for me, of every man Speak to the children of Israel, that that offereth of his own accord, you shall take them. {3} And these are the things which you must take: Gold, and silver, and brass, {4} hyacinth and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and silk, and the hair of goats, {5} and ram's skins dyed red, and janthine skins, and the wood setim; {6} oil to make lights: spices for ointment, and for incense of good savour: {7} Onyx stones, and precious stones to adorn the ephod, and rationale. {8} And they shall make me a sanctuary, and I will dwell in the midst of them: {9} according to all the similitude of the tabernacle which I will shew thee, & of all the vessel to the service thereof: and thus you shall make it: {10} Frame an ark of the wood setim, the length whereof shall have two cubits & an half: the breadth, a cubit & an half: the height, likewise a cubit & an half. {11} And thou shalt plate it with most pure gold within and without: and over it thou shalt make a golden crown round about: {12} & four golden rings, which thou shalt put at the four corners of the ark: let two rings be on the one side, & two on the other. {13} Thou shalt make bars also of the wood setim, & shalt cover them with gold. {14} And thou shalt put them in through the rings that are in the sides of the ark, that it may be carried on them: {15} the which shall be always in the rings, neither shall they at any time be drawn out of them. {16} And thou shalt put in the ark the testification which I will give thee. {17} Thou shalt make a Propitiatory of most pure gold: the length thereof shall hold two cubits and an half, and the breadth a cubit & an half. {18} Two Cherubims also thou shalt make of beaten gold, on both sides of the oracle. {19} Let one Cherub be on the one side, and the other on the other. {20} Let them cover both sides of the Propitiatory spreading their wings, and covering the oracle, and let them look one towards the other, their faces turned unto the Propitiatory wherewith the ark is to be covered, {21} wherein thou shalt put the testimony that I will give thee. {22} Thence will I command, and will speak to thee over the propitiatory & from the midst of the two Cherubims which shall be upon the ark of testimony, all things which I will command the children of Israel by thee. {23} Thou shalt make a table also of the wood setim, having two cubits in length, and in breadth a cubit, & in height a cubit and an half. {24} And thou shalt plate it with most pure gold: and thou shalt make to it a golden ledge round about, {25} and to the ledge itself a crown enterpolished, four fingers high: and upon the same, an other golden crown. {26} Thou shalt prepare also four golden rings, and shalt put them in the four corners of the same table at every foot. {27} Under the crown shall the golden rings be, that the bars may be put through them, and the table may be carried. {28} The bars also themselves thou shalt make of the wood setim, & shalt compass them with gold to bear up the table. {29} Thou shalt prepare also saucers, and phials, censers, & goblets, wherein the libaments are to be offered, of most pure gold. {30} And thou shalt set upon the table loaves of proposition in my sight always. {31} Thou shalt make also a candle stick beaten of most pure gold, the shaft thereof, & branches, cups, and bowls, and lilies proceeding from the same. {32} Six branches shall go forth of the sides, three out of one side, and three out of the other. {33} Three cups as it were in manner of a nut on every branch, and bowl withal, and a lily: and three-cups likewise of the fashion of a nut in an other branch, and a bowl withal, and a lily. This shall be the work of the six branches, that are to be drawn forth from the shaft: {34} and in the candlestick itself shall be four cups in manner of a nut, and at every one bowls and lilies. {35} Bowls under two branches in three places, which together make six coming forth out of one shaft. {36} Both the bowls therefore and the branches shall be out of it, all the whole beaten of most pure gold. {37} Thou shalt make also seven lamps, and shalt set them upon the candlestick, for to give light over-against. {38} The snuffers also and where the snuffings shall be put out, let them be made of most pure gold. {39} The whole weight of the candlestick with all the furniture thereof shall have a talent of most pure gold. {40} Look, and make it according to the pattern, that was shewed thee in the mount.

The form of the Tabernacle, with the appertinances, and of what matter, number, and qualities all things shall be.

{1} AND the tabernacle thou shalt make thus: Ten curtains shalt thou make of twisted silk, and hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, varied with embroidered work. {2} The length of one curtain shall have twenty eight cubits: the breadth shall be of four cubits. All the curtains shall be of one measure. {3} Five curtains shall be joined one to an other, & the other five shall hang together with the connection. {4} Loops of hyacinth thou shalt make in the sides & tops of the curtains, that they may be coupled one to another. {5} Fifty loops shall every curtain have on both sides, so set on, that one loop may be against another loop, and one may be fitted to the other. {6} Thou shalt make also fifty circles of gold wherewith the veils of the curtains are to be joined, that it may be made one tabernacle. {7} Thou shalt make also eleven curtains of hair, to cover the top of the tabernacle. {8} The length of one hair curtain shall have thirty cubits: and the breadth, four: the measure of all the curtains shall be equal. {9} Of the which, five thou shalt join apart, and the six thou shalt couple one to an other, so that the sixth curtain in the front of the roof thou shalt double. {10} Thou shalt make also fifty loops in the edge of one curtain, that it may be joined with the other: and fifty loops in the edge of the other curtains that it may be coupled with his fellow. {11} Thou shalt make also fifty buckles of brass, wherewith the loops may be joined, that of all there may be made one covering. {12} And that which shall remain in the curtains, that are prepared for the roof, to wit, one curtain that is overplus, with the half thereof thou shalt cover the backside of the tabernacle. {13} And there shall hang down a cubit on the one side, and an other on the other side, which is the overplus in the length of the curtains, fencing both sides of the tabernacle. {14} Thou shalt make also an other cover to the roof, of the ram's skins dyed red: & over that again an other cover of janthine skins. {15} Thou shalt make also the boards of the tabernacle standing upright of the wood setim, {16} of which let every one have ten cubits in length, and in breadth one and a half a-piece. {17} In the sides of the board, shall be made two mortises, whereby one board may be joined to an other board: and after this manner shall all the boards be prepared. {18} Of the which twenty shall be in the south side that tendeth southward. {19} For the which thou shalt cast forty feet of silver, that there may two feet be put under every board at the two corners. {20} In the second side also of the tabernacle that looketh to the North, there shall be twenty boards, {21} having forty feet of silver, two feet shall be put under every board. {22} But on the west quarter of the tabernacle thou shalt make six boards, {23} and again other two which shall be erected in the corners at the back of the tabernacle. {24} And they shall be joined together from beneath unto the top, & one jointure shall hold them all. The like jointure shall be kept for the two boards also that are to be put in the corners. {25} And they shall be in all eight boards, their silver feet sixteen, two feet accounted for every board. {26} Thou shalt make also five bars of the wood setim, to hold together the boards on the one side of the tabernacle, {27} and five others on the other side, & as many at the west side: {28} which shall be put along by the midst of the boards from one end to the other. {29} The boards also themselves thou shalt plate with gold, & shalt cast rings of gold to be set upon them, through which the bars may hold together the boardwork: the which thou shalt cover with plates of gold. {30} And thou shalt erect the tabernacle according to the pattern that was shewed thee in the Mount. {31} Thou shalt make also a veil of hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk, wrought with embroidered work & goodly variety: {32} which thou shalt hang before four pillars of the wood setim, the which themselves also shall be plated with gold, & shall have four heads of gold, but feet of silver. {33} And the veil shall be hanged on with rings, within the which thou shalt put the ark of testimony, with the which also the Sanctuary, and the Sanctuaries of the Sanctuary, shall be divided. {34} Thou shalt set also the Propitiatory upon the ark of testimony in the Sancta sanctorum: {35} and the table without the veil: and over-against the table the candlestick in the south side of the tabernacle: for the table shall stand in the north side. {36} Thou shalt make also a hanging in the entering of the tabernacle of hyacinth, and purple, {86} and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk with embroidered work. {37} And five pillars of the wood setim thou shalt plate with gold, before the which the hanging shall be drawn: whose heads shall be of gold, and feet of brass.

An Altar must be made with things belonging thereto. 9. Also the court of the tabernacle with hanging and pillars. 20. And provision of oil for lamps.

{1} THOU shalt make also an Altar of the wood setim, which shall have five cubits in length, an as many in breadth, that is, four-square, and three cubits in height. {2} And there shall be at the four corners horns of the same: and thou shalt cover it with brass. {3} And thou shalt make for the uses thereof pans for to take the ashes, and tongues, and flesh-hooks, and fire pans, all the vessel thou shalt make of brass. {4} And a grate in manner of a net of brass: at the four corners whereof shall be four rings of brass, {5} which thou shalt put under the hearth of the Altar: and the grates shall be unto the midst of the Altar. {6} Thou shalt make also two bars for the Altar of the wood setim, which thou shalt cover with plates of brass: {7} and thou shalt draw them through rings, & they shall be on both sides of the Altar to carry it. {8} Not massy, but empty & hollow in the inside shalt thou make it, as it was shewed thee in the Mount. {9} Thou shalt make also the court of the tabernacle, in the south part whereof against the south there shall be hangings of twisted silk: one side shall hold in length an hundred cubits. {10} And twenty pillars with as many feet of brass, which shall have heads with their engravings of silver. {11} In like manner also on the north side there shall be in length hangings of an hundred cubits, twenty pillars, and feet of brass as many, and their heads with their engravings of silver. {12} But in the breadth of the court, that looketh to the west, there shall be hangings of fifty cubits, and ten pillars, and as many feet. {13} In that breadth also of the court, which looketh to the east, there shall be fifty cubits. {14} In the which there shall be deputed to one side hangings of fifteen cubits, and three pillars and as many feet: {15} and in the other side there shall be hangings containing fifteen cubits, three pillars, and as many feet. {16} And in the entering of the court there shall be made an hanging of twenty cubits of hyacinth and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk, with embroidered work: it shall have four pillars, with as many feet. {17} All the pillars of the court round about shall be garnished with plates of silver, silver heads, and feet of brass. {18} In length the court shall occupy and hundred cubits, in breadth fifty, the height, shall be of five cubits, and it shall be made of twisted silk, and shall have feet of brass. {19} All the vessel of the tabernacle for all uses and ceremonies, the pins as well of it as of the court, thou shalt make of brass. {20} Command the children of Israel that they bring thee oil of the olive-trees the purest, and beaten with a pestle: that a lamp may burn always. {21} in the tabernacle of the testimony, without the veil that is drawn before the testimony. And Aaron and his sons, shall place it, that it may give light before the Lord until the morning. Is shall be a perpetual observance throughout their successions before the children of Israel.

God commandeth Moyses to make diverse sorts of vestures for Aaron and his sons, prescribing the matter, manner, and ornaments thereof.

{1} TAKE unto thee also Aaron thy brother with his sons, from among the children of Israel that they may do the function of priesthood unto me: Aaron, Nadab, and Abiu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. {2} And thou shalt make an holy vesture to Aaron thy brother for glory and beauty. {3} And thou shalt speak to all the wise of heart, whom I have replenished with the spirit of wisdom, that they make Aaron's vestures, wherein he being sanctified may minister to me. {4} And these shall be the vestments that they shall make: Rationale and an Ephod, a tunic and a strait linen garment, a mitre and a girdle. They shall make the holy vestments for thy brother Aaron and his sons, that they may do the function of priesthood unto me. {5} And they shall take gold, and hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and silk. {6} And they shall make the Ephod of gold and hyacinth and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk, embroidered with diverse colours. {7} It shall have two edges joined in the top on both sides, that they may be closed together. {8} The very workmanship also and all the variety of the work shall be of gold and hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk. {9} And thou shalt take two Onyx stones, and shalt grave in them the names of the children of Israel: {10} six names in one stone, and the other six in the other, according to the order of their nativity. {11} After the work of a graver and the graving of a lapidary, thou shalt grave them with the names of the children of Israel, set in gold and compassed about: {12} and thou shalt put them in both sides the Ephod, a memorial for the children of Israel. And Aaron shall bear their names before the Lord upon both shoulders, for a remembrance. {13} Thou shalt make also hooks of gold, {14} and two little chains of most pure gold linked one to an other, which thou shalt put into the hooks. {15} The Rationale of judgment also thou shalt make with embroidered work of diverse colours, according to the workmanship of the Ephod of gold, hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk. {16} It shall be four square and double: it shall have the measure of a palm as well in length as in breadth. {17} And thou shalt set in it four rews of stones: In the first rew shall be the stone sardius, and topazius, and the emerald: {18} in the second the carbuncle, the sapphire, & the jasper: {19} in the third a ligurius, an achates, an amethyst: {20} in the fourth a chrysolith, an onyx, and berillus. They shall be set in gold by their rews. {21} And they shall have the names of the children of Israel: with twelve names shall they be graven, every stone with the names of every one according to the twelve tribes. {22} Thou shalt make in the Rationale chains linked one to an other of the purest gold: {23} and two rings of gold, which thou shalt put in both the tops of the Rationale: {24} and the golden chains thou shalt join to the rings, that are in the edges thereof: {25} and the ends of the chains themselves thou shalt couple with two hooks on both sides of the Ephod, which is toward the Rationale. {26} Thou shalt make also two rings of gold which thou shalt put in the tops of the Rationale, in the brims, that are over against the Ephod, & look toward the back parts thereof. {27} Moreover also other two rings of gold, which are to be set on both sides of the Ephod beneath, that looketh toward the nether joining, that the Rationale may be fitted with the Ephod, {28} and may be fastened by the rings thereof unto the rings of the Ephod with a lace of hyacinth, that the joining artificially wrought may continue, & the Rationale & Ephod may not be separated one from the other. {29} And Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the Rationale of judgment upon his breast, when he shall enter into the Sanctuary, a memorial before the Lord for ever. {30} And thou shalt put in the Rationale of Judgment Doctrine, and Verity, which shall be on Aaron's breast, when he shall go in before the Lord: and he shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel on his breast, in the sight of the Lord always. {31} And thou shalt make the tunic of the Ephod all of hyacinth, {32} in the midst whereof above shall be a hole for the head, and a border round about it woven, as is wont to be made in the utmost parts of garments, that it may not easily be broken. {33} And beneath at the feet of the same tunic, round about, thou shalt make as it were pomegranates, of hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, little bells interposed between, {34} so that there be a bell of gold and a pomegranate; and again an other bell of gold & a pomegranate. {35} And Aaron shall be vested with it in the office of his ministry, that the sound may be heard, when he goeth in & cometh out of the Sanctuary, in the sight of the Lord, & that he die not. {36} Thou shalt make also a plate of the purest gold: wherein thou shalt grave after the work of a graver, Holy to the Lord. {37} And thou shalt tie it with a lace of hyacinth, and it shall be upon the mitre, {38} hanging over the forehead of the High-Priest. And Aaron shall carry the iniquities of those things, which the children of Israel have offered and sanctified, in all their gifts and donaries. And the plate shall be always in his forehead, that the Lord may be well pleased with them. {39} And thou shalt gird the tunic with silk, and thou shalt make a silken mitre, and a bawdrike of embroidered work. {40} Moreover for the sons of Aaron thou shalt prepare linen tunics, and bawdrikes, and mitres for glory and beauty: {41} And with all these things thou shalt vest Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him. And thou shalt consecrate the hands of them all, and shalt sanctify them, that they may do the function of priesthood unto me. {42} Thou shalt make also linen breeches, to cover the flesh of their turpitude from the reins unto the thighs: {43} and Aaron and his sons shall use them when they shall enter into the tabernacle of testimony, or when they approach to the Altar to minister in the Sanctuary, lest guilty of iniquity they die. It shall be a law for ever to Aaron and to his seed after him.

The manner of consecrating Aaron and other Priests: with burnt offerings, 26. and pacifics, whereof Aaron and his sons shall participate. 38. The institution of the daily Sacrifice of two lambs, one in the morning, the other at even.

{1} BUT this also shalt thou do, that they may be consecrated to me in priesthood. Take a calf from the herd, and two rams without spot, {2} and unleavened bread, and a cake without leaven, tempered with oil, wafers also unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flour thou shalt make all. {3} And: being put in a basket thou shalt offer them: and the calf and the two rams. {4} And thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of testimony: And when thou hast washed the father with his sons in water, {5} thou shalt vest Aaron with his vestments, that is, with the linen garment and the tunic, and the Ephod and the Rationale, which thou shalt gird with the bawdrike. {6} And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and the holy plate upon the mitre, {7} and thou shalt pour the oil of unction upon his head: and by this rite shall he be consecrated. {8} His sons also thou shalt bring, and shalt invest them with the linen tunics, and gird them with a bawdrike, {9} to wit, Aaron and his children, and thou shalt put mitres upon them: and they shall be Priests to me by a perpetual religion. After that thou shalt have consecrated their hands, {10} thou shalt present also the calf before the tabernacle of testimony. And Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands upon his head, {11} and thou shalt kill him in the sight of the Lord, beside the door of the tabernacle of testimony. {12} And that which thou takest of the blood of the calf, thou shalt put upon the horns of the Altar with thy finger, and the rest of the blood thou shalt pour at the bottom thereof. {13} Thou shalt take also the whole fat that covereth the entrails, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and shalt offer a burnt sacrifice upon the Altar: {14} but the flesh of the calf and the hide and the dung, thou shalt burn abroad without the camp, because it is for sin. {15} Thou shalt take also one ram, upon the head whereof Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands. {16} Which when thou hast killed, thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and pour round about the Altar. {17} And the ram itself thou shalt cut into pieces, and his entrails and feet being washed, thou shalt put upon the flesh cut in pieces, and upon his head. {18} And thou shalt offer the whole ram for a burnt sacrifice upon the Altar: it is an oblation to the Lord, a most sweet savour of the victim of the Lord. {19} Thou shalt take also the other ram, upon whose head Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands. {20} Which when thou hast immolated, thou shalt take of his blood, and put upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron and of his sons, and upon the thumbs and great toes of their right hand and foot, and thou shalt pour the blood upon the Altar round about. {21} And when thou hast taken of the blood that is upon the Altar, and of the oil of unction, thou shalt sprinkle Aaron and his vesture, his sons and their vestments. And after they and their vestments are consecrated, {22} thou shalt take the fat of the ram, and the tail and the tallow, that covereth the lungs, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat, that is upon them, and the right shoulder, because it is the ram of consecration: {23} and a piece of one loaf, a cake tempered with oil, a wafer out of the basket of azymes, which is set in the sight of the Lord: {24} and thou shalt put all upon the hands of Aaron and of his sons, and shalt sanctify them elevating before the Lord. {25} And thou shalt take all from their hands: and shalt burn them upon the Altar for an holocaust, a most sweet savour in the sight of the Lord, because it is his oblation. {26} Thou shalt take also the breast of the ram, wherewith Aaron was consecrated, and elevating it thou shalt sanctify it before the Lord, and it shall fall to thy part. {27} And thou shalt sanctify both the consecrated breast, and the shoulder that thou didst separate of the ram, {28} wherewith Aaron was consecrated and his sons, and they shall fall to Aaron's part and his sons by a perpetual right from the children of Israel: because they are the primitives and beginnings of their pacific victims which they offer to the Lord. {29} And the holy vesture, which Aaron shall use, his sons shall have after him, that they may be anointed, and their hands consecrated in it. {30} He of his sons that shall be appointed High-Priest in his stead, and that shall enter into the tabernacle of testimony to minister in the Sanctuary, shall wear it seven days. {31} And thou shalt take the ram of the consecration, & shalt boil the flesh thereof in a holy place; {32} which Aaron shall eat and his sons. The loaves also, that are in the basket, they shall eat in the entry of the tabernacle of testimony, {33} that it may be a placable sacrifice, & the hands of the offerers may be sanctified. A stranger shall not eat of them, because they are holy. {34} And if there remain of the consecrated flesh, or of the bread till the morning, thou shalt burn the remains with fire: they shall not be eaten, because they are sanctified. {35} All that I have commanded thee thou shalt do upon Aaron and his sons. Seven days shalt thou consecrate their hands: {36} & thou shalt offer a calf for sin every day for expiation. And thou shalt cleanse the Altar when thou hast offered the host of expiation, and shalt anoint it unto sanctification. {37} Seven days shalt thou expiate the altar and sanctify it, and it shall be most Holy, every one, that shall touch it, shall be sanctified. {38} This is it which thou shalt do upon the Altar: Two lambs of a year old every day continually, {39} one lamb in the morning, and another at even, {40} the tenth part of flour tempered with oil beaten, which shall have in measure the fourth part of an hin, and wine for libation of the same measure to one lamb. {41} And the other lamb thou shalt offer at even, according to the rite of the morning oblation, and according to that which we have said, for a savour of sweetness: {42} it is a sacrifice to the Lord, by perpetual oblation unto your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of testimony before the Lord, where I will appoint to speak unto thee. {43} And there will I command the children of Israel, and the Altar shall be sanctified in my glory. {44} I will sanctify also the tabernacle of testimony with the Altar & Aaron with his sons, to do the function of priesthood unto me. {45} And I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel & will be their God, {46} & they shall know that I am the Lord their God, that have brought them out of the Land of Aegypt, that I might abide among them, I, the Lord their God.

How, and of what matter, the Altar of incense shall be made: 12. What money shall be gathered for the use of the Tabernacle. 18. A brazen laver is also to be made, 25. and holy oil of unction.

{1} THOU shalt make also an Altar to burn incense, of the wood setim, {2} having a cubit of length, and an other of breadth, that is, four square, and two cubits in height. The horns shall proceed out of the same. {3} And thou shalt plate it with the purest gold, as well the grate thereof, as the walls round about, and the horns. And thou shalt make to it a crown of gold round about, {4} and two golden rings under the crown on either side, that the bars may be put into them, and the Altar may be carried. {5} The bars also themselves thou shalt make of the wood setim, and shalt plate them with gold. {6} And thou shalt set the Altar against the veil, that hangeth before the ark of the testimony before the propitiatory wherewith the testimony is covered, where I will speak to thee. {7} And Aaron shall burn incense upon it, sweetly fragrant, in the morning. When he shall dress the lamps, he shall burn it: {8} and when he shall place them at even, he shall burn incense everlasting before the Lord through your generations. {9} You shall not offer upon in incense of an other composition, nor oblation, and victim, neither shall you offer libaments. {10} And Aaron shall pray upon the horns thereof once a year, with the blood of that which was offered for sin, & shall pacify upon it in your generations. It shall be most Holy to the Lord. {11} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {12} When thou shalt take the sum of the children of Israel according to their number, every one of them shall give a price for their souls to the Lord, & there shall be no scourge among them, when they shall be reckoned. {13} And this shall every one give that passeth to the naming, half a sicle according to the measure of the temple. A sicle hath twenty oboles. The half part of a sicle shall be offered to the Lord. {14} He that is accounted in the number, for twenty years and upward, shall give price. {15} The rich man shall not add to half a sicle, & the poor man shall diminish nothing. {16} And the money being received, which was contributed of the children of Israel, thou shalt deliver unto the uses of the tabernacle of testimony, that it may be a monument of them before the Lord, & he may be propitious to their souls. {17} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {18} Thou shalt make also a laver with his foot of brass, to wash in: and thou shalt set it between the tabernacle of the testimony and the Altar. And water being put into it, {19} Aaron and his sons shall wash therein their hands and feet, {20} when they are going into the tabernacle of testimony, and when they are to come unto the Altar, to offer on it incense to the Lord, {21} lest perhaps they die. It shall be an everlasting law to him, and to his seed by succession. {22} And our Lord spake to Moyses, {23} saying: Take spices, of principal and chosen myrrh five hundred sicles, and of cinnamon half so much, that is, two hundred fifty sicles, of calamus in like manner two hundred fifty, {24} and of cassia five hundred sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, of oil of olives the measure hin: {25} and thou shalt make the holy oil of unction, an ointment compounded by the art of an unguentary, {26} and thereof thou shalt anoint the tabernacle of testimony, and the ark of the testament, {27} and the table with the vessel thereof, the candlestick, and the furniture thereof, the Altars of incense, {28} and of holocaust, and all the furniture that pertaineth to the service of them. {29} And thou shalt sanctify all, and they shall be most Holy: he that shall touch them, shall be sanctified. {30} Thou shalt anoint Aaron and his sons, and shalt sanctify them, that they may do the function of priesthood unto me. {31} To the children of Israel also thou shalt say: This oil of unction shall be holy unto me through your generations. {32} The flesh of man shall not be anointed therewith, and you shall make none other after the composition of it, because it is sanctified, and shall be holy unto you. {33} What man soever shall compound such, and shall give thereof to a stranger, shall be abandoned out of his people. {34} And our Lord said to Moyses: Take unto thee spices, stacte, and onycha, galbanum of sweet savour, and the clearest frankincense, all shall be of equal weight: {35} and thou shalt make incense compounded by the work of an unguentary, exactly tempered, and pure, and most worthy of sanctification. {36} And when thou hast beaten all into very small powder, thou shalt set of it before the tabernacle of testimony, in the place where I will appear to thee. Most Holy shall the incense be unto you. {37} Such confection you shall not make unto your own uses, because it is holy to the Lord. {38} What man soever shall make the like, to enjoy the smell thereof, shall perish out of his people.

Beseleel and Ooliab are deputed by our Lord to make the Tabernacle, and the things belonging thereto. 12. The observation of the sabbath day is again commanded. 18. And our Lord delivereth to Moyses two tables written with the finger of God.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} the son of Uri the son of Hur of the tribe Behold, I have called by name Beseleel of Juda, {3} and I have replenished him with the spirit of God, with wisdom, & understanding, and knowledge in all work, {4} to devise whatsoever may be artificially made of gold, and silver, and brass, {5} of marble, and precious stones, and diversity of wood. {6} And I have given him for his fellow, Ooliab the son of Achisamech of the tribe of Dan. And in the heart of every skilful man have I put wisdom: that they may make all things which I have commanded thee, {7} the tabernacle of covenant, and the ark of testimony, and the propitiatory, that is over it, and all the vessel of the tabernacle, {8} and the table and the vessel thereof, the candlestick most pure with the vessel thereof, and the Altars of incense, {9} and of holocaust, and all their vessel, the laver with his foot, {10} the holy vestments in the ministry for Aaron the Priest, and for his sons, that they may execute their office, about the sacred things: {11} the oil of unction, and the incense of spices in the Sanctuary, all things which I have commanded thee, shall they make. {12} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {13} Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: See that you keep my sabbath: because it is a sign between me and you in your generations: that you may know that I am the Lord, which sanctify you. {14} Keep you my sabbath: for it is holy unto you: he that shall pollute it, dying shall die: he that shall do work in it, his soul shall perish out of the midst of his people. {15} Six days shall you do work: in the seventh day is the sabbath, the holy rest to the Lord. Every one that shall do any work in this day, shall die. {16} Let the children of Israel keep the Sabbath, and celebrate it in their generations. It is an everlasting covenant {17} between me and the children of Israel, and a sign perpetual. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and in the seventh he ceased from work. {18} And our Lord, when he had ended such speeches in mount Sinai, gave unto Moyses two stone tables of testimony, written with the finger of God.

The people (Aaron consenting) make & adore the image of a calf. 7. Which God revealing to Moyses, 11. he prayeth our Lord, for Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob's sake to spare the people, and perform his promise. 14. Wherewith God is pacified. 15. Yet Moyses coming from the Mount, and seeing the calf, and idolatry, throweth down the tables and breaketh them. 20. destroyeth the idol, 21. blameth Aaron, 27. causeth many Idolaters to be slain, 31. and again prayeth for the people.

{1} AND the people seeing that Moyses made tarriance ere he came down from the mount, being assembled against Aaron, they said: Arise, make us gods, that may go before us: for what hath chanced to this Moyses the man that brought us out of the Land of Aegypt, we know not. {2} And Aaron said to them: Take the golden earlets from the ears of your wives, and sons, and daughters, & bring them to me. {3} And the people did that he had commanded, bringing the earlets to Aaron. {4} Which when he had received, he formed them by founder's work, and made of them a molten calf. And they said: These are thy gods Israel, that have brought thee out of the land of Aegypt. {5} Which when Aaron had seen, he builded an altar before it, and by a crier's voice proclaimed saying: Tomorrow is the solemnity of the Lord. {6} And rising in the morning, they offered holocausts, and pacific hosts, and the people sat down to eat, and to drink, and they rose up to play. {7} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: Go, get thee down: thy people, which thou hast brought out of the Land of Aegypt, hath sinned. {8} They have quickly revolted from the way that thou didst shew them: and they have made to themselves a molten calf, and have adored, and immolating hosts unto it, have said: These are thy gods Israel, that have brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt. {9} And again our Lord said to Moyses: I see that this people is stiff-necked: {10} suffer me, that my fury may be angry against them, & that I may destroy them, and I will make thee into a great nation. {11} But Moyses besought the Lord his God, saying: Why Lord, is thy fury angry against thy people, whom thou hast brought forth of the Land of Aegypt, in great power, and in a strong hand? {12} Let not the Aegyptians say I beseech thee: He hath craftily brought them forth, that he might kill them in the mountains, and destroy them from the earth: let thine anger cease, and be pacified upon the wickedness of thy people. {13} Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel thy servants, to whom thou swarest by thine own self, saying: I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven: and this whole land, whereof I have spoken, I will give to your seed, & you shall possess it always. {14} And our Lord was pacified from doing the evil which he had spoken against his people. {15} And Moyses returned from the mount, carrying the two tables of testimony in his hand, written on both sides, {16} and made by the work of God: the writing also of God was graven in the tables. {17} And Josue hearing the tumult of the people crying out, said to Moyses: The noise of battail is heard in the camp. {18} Who answered: It is not the cry of men encouraging of fight, nor the shout of men compelling to fly: but I do hear the voice of singers. {19} And when he approached to the camp, he saw the calf, and the dances: and being very wrath, he threw the tables out of his hand, and brake them at the foot of the mount. {20} And catching the calf which they had made, he burnt it, & beat it into powder, which he strawed into water, and gave thereof drink to the children of Israel. {21} And he said to Aaron: What hath this people done to thee, that thou shouldest bring upon them an heinous sin? {22} To whom he answered: Let not my Lord be offended for thou knowest this people, that it is prone to evil: {23} they said to me: Make us gods, that may go before us: for unto this same Moyses, that brought us forth out of the Land of Aegypt, we know not what is chanced. {24} To whom I said: Which of you hath gold? They took, & brought to me: & I cast it into the fire, and this calf came forth. {25} Moyses therefore seeing the people that they were made naked (for Aaron had spoiled them for the ignominy of filth, & had set them naked among their enemies). {26} & standing in the gate of the camp, he said: If any man be our Lord's, let him join to me, And there gathered unto him all the sons of Levi: {27} to whom he said: This saith the Lord God of Israel: Put every man his sword upon his thigh: go, and return from gate to gate through the midst of the camp, and every man kill his brother, and friend, and neighbour. {28} And the sons of Levi did according to the saying of Moyses, and there were slain in that day about three thousand men. {29} And Moyses said: You have consecrated your hands this day to our Lord, every man in his son & in his brother, that blessing may be given to you. {30} And when the next day was come, Moyses spake to the people: You have sinned a very great sin: I will go up to our Lord, if by any means I may be able to entreat him for your sinful fact. {31} And returning to our Lord, he said: I beseech thee, this people hath sinned a heinous sin, and they have made to themselves gods of gold; either forgive them this trespass, {32} or if thou do not, strike me out of the book that thou hast written. {33} To whom our Lord answered: He that hath sinned to me, him will I strike out of my book: {34} but go thou, and lead this people wither I have told thee: mine Angel shall go before thee. And I in the day of revenge will visit this sin also of theirs. {35} Our Lord therefore smote the people for the fault concerning the calf, which Aaron had made.

God's wrath being mitigated by Moyses, the people mourn for their sin. 7. Moyses pitcheth the tabernacle without the camp, and therein converseth familiarly with God. 18. desiring to see his glory.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: Go, get thee up from this place, thou and thy people which thou hast brought out of the Land of Aegypt, into the land whereof I sware to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying: To thy seed I will give it: {2} and I will send an Angel thy precursor, that I may cast out the Chananeite, and Amorreite, and Hetheite, and Pherezeite, and Heveite, and Jebuseite, {3} and thou mayest enter into the land that floweth with milk and honey: for I will not go up with thee, because thou art a stiff-necked people: lest perhaps I destroy thee in the way. {4} And the people hearing this very ill saying, mourned: and no man put on his ornaments after the custom. {5} And our Lord said to Moyses: Speak to the children of Israel: Thou art a stiff-necked people, once I shall go up in the midst of thee, and shall destroy thee. Now presently lay away thy ornaments, that I may know what to do unto thee. {6} Therefore the children of Israel laid away their ornaments from mount Horeb. {7} Moyses also taking the tabernacle, pitched it without the camp a far off, and called the name thereof, The Tabernacle of covenant. And all the people, that had any question, went forth to the Tabernacle of covenant, without the camp. {8} And when Moyses went forth to the tabernacle, all the people rose up, and every one stood in the door of his pavilion, and they beheld the back of Moyses, till he entered into the tabernacle. {9} And when he was entered into the Tabernacle of covenant, the pillar of the cloud came down, and stood at the door, & he spake with Moyses, {10} all they beholding that the pillar of the cloud stood at the door of the Tabernacle. And they stood, & adored at the doors of their tabernacles. {11} And our Lord spake unto Moyses face to face, as a man is wont to speak to his friend. And when he returned into the camp, his minister Josue the son of Nun, a young man, departed not from the Tabernacle. {12} And Moyses said to our Lord: Thou commandest me to lead forth this people, & doest not shew me whom thou wilt send with me, especially whereas thou hast said: I know thee by name, and thou hast found grace in my sight. {13} If therefore I have found grace in thy sight, shew me thy face, that I may know thee, and may find grace before thine eyes, look upon thy people this nation. {14} And our Lord said: My face shall go before thee, & I will give thee rest. {15} And Moyses said: If thy self doest not go before, bring us not out of this place. {16} For whereby shall we be able to know I and thy people, that we have found grace in thy sight, unless thou walk with us that we may be glorified of all peoples, that dwell upon the earth? {17} And our Lord said to Moyses: This word also, which thou hast spoken, will I do: for thou hast found grace before me, and thy self I have known by name. {18} Who said: Shew me thy glory. {19} He answered: I will shew thee all good, and will call in the name of the Lord before thee: and I will have mercy on whom I will, and I will be merciful to whom it shall please me. {20} And again he said: Thou canst not see my face: for man shall not see me, & live. {21} And again: Behold, quoth he, there is a place with me, and thou shalt stand upon the rock. {22} And when my glory shall pass, I will set thee in a hole of the rock, & protect thee with my right hand, until I pass: {23} and I will take away my hand, and thou shalt see my back-parts: but my face thou canst not see,

Moyses goeth again into Mount Sinai, with new tables, praying for the people: 10. to whom God promiseth to give possession of the Land. 12. Prohibith all association with the Gentiles, for fear of Idolatry. 18. giveth precepts concerning the first-born, the Sabbath, and other feasts. 28. After forty day's fast, Moyses returneth to the people with the commandments, and his face appearing horned, he covereth it whosoever he speaketh to the people.

{1} AND after this he said: Cut thee two tables of stone like unto the former, and I will write upon them the words, which the tables had which thou hast broken. {2} Be ready in the morning, that thou mayest forthwith go up into the mount Sinai, and thou shalt stand with me upon the top of the mount. {3} Let no man go up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout the whole mount: the oxen also and the sheep let them not feed over-against. {4} He cut out therefore two tables of stone, such as had been before: and rising very early he went up into mount Sinai, as our Lord had commanded him, carrying with him the tables. {5} And when our Lord was descended in a cloud, Moyses stood with him, calling upon the name of our Lord. {6} Who passing before him said: Dominator Lord God, merciful and clement, patient and of much compassion, and true, {7} which keepest mercy unto thousands: which takest away iniquity, and wicked facts, and sins, and no man of himself is innocent before thee. Which doest render the iniquity of the fathers to the children, and to the nephews unto the third and fourth generation. {8} And Moyses making haste, bowed flat unto the earth, & adoring, {9} he said: If I have found grace in thy sight, o Lord, I beseech thee that thou wilt go with us (for it is a stiff-necked people) and take away our iniquities & sins, & possess us. {10} Our Lord answered: I will make a covenant in the sight of all. I will do signs that were never seen upon the earth, nor in any nations: that this people may see, in the midst of whom thou art, the terrible work of the Lord, which I will do. {11} Observe all things which this day I command thee: I my self will cast out before thy face the Amorrhite, & Chananeite, & Hethite, the Pherezeite also, and Heveite, and Jebuseite. {12} Beware thou never join amity with the inhabitants of that land, which may be thy ruin: {13} but destroy their altars, break their statues, and cut down their groves: {14} adore not a strange God. The Lord his name is Jealous, God is an emulator. {15} Enter no traffic with the men of those regions: lest when they have fornicated with their gods, & have adored their idols, some man call thee to eat of the things immolated. {16} Neither shalt thou take a wife for thy sons of their daughters: lest after themselves have fornicated they make thy sons also to fornicate with their gods. {17} Molten gods thou shalt not make to thee. {18} Thou shalt keep the solemnity of the azymes. Seven days shalt thou eat azymes, as I have commanded thee, in the time of the month of new corn: for in the month of spring time thou didst go out of Aegypt. {19} All of the male kind, that openeth the matrice, shall be mine. Of all beasts, as well oxen as of sheep, it shall be mine. {20} The first-born of an ass thou shalt redeem with a sheep: but if thou wilt not give a price for it, it shall be slain. The first-born of thy sons thou shalt redeem: neither shalt thou appear empty in my sight. {21} Six days shalt thou work, the seventh day thou shalt cease to ear & reap. {22} The solemnity of weeks thou shalt make to thee, in the first fruits of corn of thy wheat harvest, and the solemnity, when the time of the year returneth that all things are laid up. {23} Three times of the year all thy male shall appear in the sight of the omnipotent Lord God of Israel. {24} For when I shall have taken away the nations from thy face, and shall have dilated thy borders, no man shall lie in wait against thy land, when thou doest go up, and appear in the sight of the Lord thy God thrice in a year. {25} Thou shalt not immolate the blood of my host upon leaven: neither shall there remain in the morning of the victim of the solemnity of the Phase. {26} The first of the fruits of thy ground thou shalt offer in the house of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of his dam. {27} And our Lord said to Moyses: write thee these words, in which I have made a covenant both with thee and with Israel. {28} Therefore he was there with our Lord forty days & forty nights: he did not eat bread, and he drunk no water, & he wrote in the tables the words of the covenant ten. {29} And when Moyses came down from the mount Sinai, he held the two tables of testimony, and he knew not that his face was horned by the conversation of the talk of our Lord. {30} And Aaron & the children of Israel seeing the face of Moyses horned, they were afraid to come near. {31} And being called of him, they returned as well Aaron as the Princes of the Synagogue. And after that he spake to them, {32} all the children of Israel also came to him: whom he commanded all things that he had heard of our Lord in mount Sinai. {33} And having ended his talk, he put a veil upon his face. {34} Which going in to our Lord, and speaking with him, he took away until he went forth, and then he spake to the children of Israel all things that had been commanded him, {35} who saw that the face of Moyses coming forth was horned, but he covered his face again, if at any time he spake to them.

The precept of the Sabbath is yet renewed. 4. First fruits, and other gifts are required, and duly offered, for the making of the tabernacle and other things thereto belonging, which are here recited. 30. Beseleel and Ooliab are appointed workmen for this purpose.

{1} THEREFORE all the multitude of the children of Israel being gathered together, he said to them: These are the things which our Lord hath commanded to be done. {2} Six days you shall do work: the seventh day shall be holy unto you, the sabbath, and rest of our Lord: he that shall do any work in it, shall be slain. {3} You shall not kindle fire in all your habitations on the sabbath day. {4} And Moyses said to all the assembly of the children of Israel: This is the word that our Lord hath commanded, saying: {5} Separate with you first fruits to the Lord. Let every one that is willing & hath a ready heart, offer them to the Lord: gold and silver, and brass, {6} hyacinth and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and silk, the hair of goats, {7} and ram's skins dyed red, and janthine skins, the wood setim, {8} and oil to maintain lights, and to make ointment, and most sweet incense. {9} Onyx stones, and precious stones, for the adorning of the Ephod and the Rationale. {10} Whosoever of you is wise, let him come, and make that which our Lord hath commanded: {11} to wit, the Tabernacle, and the roof thereof, and the cover, the rings, and the boardwork with the bars, the pins & the feet: {12} the Ark and the staves, the propitiatory, and the vail, that is drawn before it: {13} the Table with the bars and the vessel, and the loaves of proposition: {14} the Candlestick to bear up the lights, the vessel thereof and the lamps, and the oil to the nourishing of fires: {15} the Altar of incense, and the bars, and the oil of unction and the incense of spices: the Hanging at the door of the tabernacle: {16} the Altar of holocaust, and his grate of brass, with the bars and vessel thereof: the Laver and his feet: {17} the Curtains of the court with the pillars and the feet, the hanging in the doors of the entry, {18} the pins of the tabernacle and of the court with their little cords: {19} the Vestments, that are to be used in the ministry of the sanctuary, the vesture of Aaron the high-

Priest, and of his sons, to do the function of Priesthood unto me. {20} And all the multitude of the children of Israel going forth from the sight of Moyses, {21} offered first fruits to our Lord with a most prompt and devout mind, to make the work of the tabernacle of the testimony. Whatsoever was necessary to the service thereof and to the holy vestments, {22} both men and women did give, tablets and earlets, rings and bracelets: every vessel of gold was separated for the donaries of our Lord. {23} If any man had hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed red, and janthine skins, {24} metal of silver and brass, they offered to our Lord, and the wood setim for diverse uses. {25} But the skilful women also gave such things as they had spun, hyacinth, purple, and scarlet, and silk, {26} and goat's hair, giving all of their own accord. {27} But the Princes offered onyx stones, and precious stones, for the Ephod and the Rationale, {28} and spices and oil to maintain the lights, and for the preparing of ointment, and to make the incense of most sweet savour. {29} All men and women with devout mind offered donaries, that the works might be made which our Lord had commanded by the hand of Moyses. All the children of Israel did dedicate voluntary things to our Lord. {30} And Moyses said to the children of Israel: Behold, our Lord hath called by name Beseleel the son of Uri the son of Hur of the tribe of Juda. {31} And hath filled him with the spirit of God, with wisdom and intelligence, and science and all learning, {32} to devise and to make work in gold and silver, and brass, {33} and in graving stones, and in carpenter's work. whatsoever can be devised artificially, {34} he hath given in his heart: Ooliab also the son of Achisamech of the tribe of Dan: {35} both hath he instructed with wisdom, to make the works of a carpenter, a tapester, an embroiderer of hyacinth and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and silk, and to weave all things, and to invent all new things.

More being given than was needful. 6. Moyses made to be proclaimed that no more should be offered. 8. So the curtains, 13. rings, 18. buckles, 19. the cover, 20. boards, 21. bars, 35. a veil, 36. pillars, and a hanging are made ready.

{1} BESELEEL therefore, and Ooliab, and every wise man, to whom our Lord gave wisdom and understanding, to know how to work artificially, made the things that are necessary for the uses of the Sanctuary, and which our Lord did command. {2} And when Moyses had called them, and every cunning man, to whom our Lord had given wisdom, and such as of their own accord had offered themselves to the making of the work, {3} he delivered all the donaries of the children of Israel unto them. Who being earnest about the work, the people daily in the morning did offer their vows. {4} Whereupon the artificers being constrained to come, {5} said to Moyses: The people offereth more than is necessary. {6} Moyses therefore commanded proclamation to be made by the crier's voice: Let neither man nor woman offer any more in the work of the Sanctuary. And so they ceased from offering gifts, {7} because the things that were offered did suffice and were overmuch. {8} And all the wise hearted men, to accomplish the work of the tabernacle, made ten curtains of twisted silk, and hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, with varied work, and the art of embroidering: {9} of which one had in length twenty eight cubits, and in breadth four: there was one measure of all the curtains. {10} And he joined five curtains, one to an other, and the other five he coupled to themselves one with an other. {11} He made also loops of hyacinth in the edge of one curtain on either side, and in the edge of the other curtain in like manner, {12} that the loops might meet one against an other, and might be joined each with other. {13} Whereupon also he did cast fifty rings of gold, that might catch the loops of the curtains, and might be made one tabernacle. {14} He made also eleven curtains of goats hair to cover the roof of the tabernacle. {15} one curtain in length had thirty cubits, & in breadth four cubits: all the curtains were of one measure: {16} of which five he joined apart, & the other six apart. {17} And he made fifty loops in the edge of one curtain, and fifty in the edge of an other curtain, that they might be joined one to an other. {18} And fifty buckles of brass wherewith the roof might be knit together, that of all the curtains there might be made one covering. {19} He made also a cover for the tabernacle of ram's skins dyed red: & an other cover over that of janthine skins. {20} He made also the boards of the tabernacle of the wood setim standing. {21} The length of one board was ten cubits: and the breadth contained one cubit & an half. {22} There were two mortises throughout every board, that one might be joined to the other. So made he in all the boards of the tabernacle. {23} Of the which twenty were at the south side against the south, {24} with forty feet of silver. Two feet were put under one board on either side of the corners, where the mortises of the sides end in the corners. {25} At that side also of the tabernacle, that looked toward the north, he made twenty boards, {26} with forty feet of silver, two feet for every board. {27} But against the west, to wit, at that side of the tabernacle, which looketh to the sea, he made six boards, {28} and two other at each corner of the tabernacle behind: {29} which were also joined from beneath unto the top, & they grew together into one connexion. So he made on either side at the corners: {30} that there were in all eight boards, and had sixteen feet of silver, to wit, two feet under every board. {31} He made also bars of the wood setim, five to hold together the boards of one side of the tabernacle, {32} and five other to join together the boards of the other side: and besides these, five other bars at the west side of the tabernacle against the sea. {33} He made also an other bar, that might come by the midst of the boards from corner unto corner. {34} And the board-work itself he plated with gold. And their rings he made of gold, through which the bars might be drawn: the which also themselves he covered with plates of gold. {35} He made also a veil of hyacinth, and purple, scarlet, and twisted silk, with embroidered work, varied and distinguished: {36} and four pillars of the wood setim, which with their heads he plated with gold, casting their feet of silver. {37} He made also a hanging in the entry of the tabernacle of hyacinth, purple, scarlet, and twisted silk, with the work of an embroiderer: {38} and five pillars with their heads, which he covered with gold, and their feet he did cast of brass.

Beseeleel maketh the Ark. 6. the Propitiatory, with Cherubims, 10. the Table, with vessel belonging thereto, 17. the Candlestick with bowels and branches: 23. seven lamps with snuffers, 25. the Altar of incense, 29. and compoundeth the incense.

{1} AND Beseeleel made also the ark of the wood setim, having two cubits & an half in length, and a cubit an and half in breadth, the height also was of one cubit and an half: and he plated it with the purest gold within & without. {2} And he made to it a crown of gold round about, {3} casting four rings of gold at the four corners thereof: two rings in the one side, and two in the other. {4} Bars also he made of the wood setim, which he plated with gold, {5} and which he put into the rings, that were at the sides of the ark to carry it. {6} He made also the Propitiatory, that is, the Oracle, of the purest gold, two cubits & an half in length, and a cubit & an half in breadth. {7} Two Cherubins also of beaten gold, which he set on either side of the propitiatory: {8} One Cherub in the top of one side, and the other Cherub in the top of the other side: two Cherubins in each top of the Propitiatory, {9} spreading their wings, and covering the Propitiatory, and looking one toward the other and toward it. {10} He made also the table of the wood setim in length two cubits, and in breadth one cubit, which had in height a cubit and an half. {11} And he did compass it with the finest gold, and he made to it a golden ledge round about, {12} and to the ledge itself a golden crown enterpolished of four fingers, & upon the same an other golden crown. {13} And he cast four rings of gold, which he put in the four corners at every foot of the table, {14} against the crown: & he put the bars into them, that the table might be carried. {15} The bars also themselves he made of the wood setim, and compassed them with gold. {16} And the vessel for the diverse uses of the table, saucers, phials, and goblets, & censers, of pure gold, wherein the libaments are to be offered. {17} He made also the candlestick beaten of the finest gold. From the shaft whereof the branches, cups, & bowls & lilies did proceed: {18} six on both sides, three branches on one side, & three on the other: {19} three cups in manner of a nut on every branch, and bowls withal and lilies, and three cups of the fashion of a nut in an other branch, and bowls withal and lilies. The work of the six branches, that proceeded from the shaft of the candlestick, equal. {20} And in the shaft itself were four cups after the manner of a nut, and bowls withal at every one and lilies: {21} and bowls under two branches in three places, which together make six branches proceeding from one shaft. {22} Both the bowls therefore, & the branches were out of it, all beaten of the purest gold. {23} He made also the seven lamps with their snuffers, and the vessel, where the snuffings should be put out, of most pure gold. {24} The candlestick withal the vessel thereof did weigh a talent of gold. {25} He made also the altar of incense of the wood setim, having a cubit every way four square, and in height two: from the corners whereof the horns did proceed. {26} And he plated it with the purest gold, with the grate and the walls and the horns. {27} And he made to it a crown of gold round about, and two golden rings under the crown at either side, that the bars may be put into them, and the altar may be carried. {28} And the bars themselves he made also of the wood setim, and covered them with plates of gold. {29} He compounded also oil for the ointment of sanctification, and incense of the purest spices with the work of a pigmentary.

The same Beseele maketh the Altar of Holocaust. 8. the brazen laver. 9. the court with pillars and hangings. 21. The gifts that were offered are recited.

{1} HE made also the Altar of Holocaust of the wood setim, five cubits four square, and three in height: {2} the horns whereof did proceed from the corners, and he covered it with plates of brass. {3} And for the uses thereof he prepared of brass diverse vessels, cauldrons, tongs, flesh-hooks, pot-hooks, and fire pans. {4} And the grate thereof in manner of a net he made of brass, and under it in the midst of the altar an hearth, {5} casting four rings at as many tops of the net, to put in bars to carry it: {6} the which themselves also he made of the wood setim, and covered them with plates of brass: {7} and he drew them through the rings, that stood out in the sides of the altar. And the altar itself was not massy, but hollow of boards, and within empty. {8} He made also the laver of brass, with the foot thereof, of women's glasses, that watched in the door of the tabernacle. {9} He made also the court, in the south side whereof were hangings of twisted silk, of an hundred cubits, {10} twenty pillars of brass with their feet, the heads of the pillars, and the whole graving of the work, of silver. {11} In like manner at the north side the hangings, pillars, and feet & the heads of the pillars were of the same measure and work & metal. {12} But on that side that looketh to the west, there were hangings of fifty cubits, ten brazen pillars with their feet, and the heads of the pillars, and all the graving of the work, of silver. {13} Moreover against the east he prepared hangings of fifty cubits: {14} of the which, one side contained fifteen cubits of three pillars, with their feet: {15} & on the other side (because between both he made the entry of the tabernacle) there were hangings equally of fifteen cubits, & three pillars, & feet as many. {16} All the hangings of the court were woven of twisted silk. {17} The feet of the pillars were of brass, & their heads with all their gravings of silver: but the pillars also of the court themselves he plated with silver. {18} And in the entry thereof he made with embroidered work a hanging of hyacinth, purple, scarlet, and twisted silk, that had twenty cubits in length, but the height was five cubits, according to the measure which all the hangings of the court had. {19} And the pillars in the entry were four with feet of brass, and their heads and gravings of silver. {20} The pins also of the tabernacle and of the court round about he made of brass. {21} These are the instruments of the tabernacle of testimony, which were numbered according to the precept of Moyses, in the ceremonies of the Levites by the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the Priest: {22} which Beseele the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Juda had accomplished, as our Lord commanded by Moyses, {23} having joined to himself for his companion Ooliab the son of Achisamech of the tribe of Dan: who was himself also an egregious artificer in wood, and a tapester, and embroiderer of hyacinth, purple, scarlet, and silk. {24} All the gold that was spent in the work of the Sanctuary, and that was offered in donaries, was nine and twenty talents, and seven hundred thirty sicles according to the measure of the Sanctuary. {25} And it was offered of them that passed to the number, from twenty years and upward, of six hundred three thousand, & five hundred fifty able men to bear arms. {26} There were moreover an hundred talents of silver, whereof were cast the feet of the Sanctuary, and of the entry where the veil hangeth. {27} An hundred feet were made of an hundred talents, one talent being accounted for every foot. {28} And of the thousand seven hundred, and seventy five he made the heads of the pillars, which themselves he also plated with silver. {29} Of brass also there were offered seventy two thousand talents, and four hundred sicles besides, {30} of the which were cast the feet in the entry of the tabernacle of testimony, and the altar of brass with the grate thereof, and all the vessels, that pertain to the use thereof, {31} and the feet of the court as well in the circuit as in the entry thereof, and the pins of the tabernacle and of the court round about.

All the ornaments of Aaron and his sons are made. 31. and the whole work of the Tabernacle is perfited.

{1} MOREOVER of hyacinth and purple, scarlet and silk he made the vestures, that Aaron should wear when he ministered in the holy places, as our Lord commanded Moyses. {2} He made therefore an Ephod of gold, hyacinth, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and twisted silk, {3} with embroidered work, and he did cut thin plates of gold, and drew them small into threads, that they might be twisted with the woof of the former colours, {4} and two edges coupled one to the other in the top on either side, {5} and a bawdrike of the same colours, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {6} He prepared also two Onyx stones, fast set and closed in gold, & graven by the art of a lapidary, with the names of the children of Israel: {7} & he set them in the sides of the Ephod for a monument of the children of Israel, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {8} He made also a Rationale with embroidered work according to the work of the Ephod, of gold, hyacinth, purple, and scarlet twice dyed, & twisted silk: {9} four square, double, of the measure of a palm. {10} And he set four rews of precious stones. In the first rew was sardius, topazius, an emerald. {11} In the second, a carbuncle, a saphire, and a jasper. {12} In the third, a ligurius, an achates, and an amethyst. {13} In the fourth a chrysolith, an onyx, and berillus, compassed & enclosed in gold by their rews. {14} And the twelve stones themselves were graven with the names of the twelve tribes of Israel, every one with his several name. {15} They made also in the rationale little chains linked one to an other of the purest gold, {16} and two hooks, and as many rings of gold. Moreover the rings they set on either side of the Rationale, {17} on the which the two golden chains should hang, which they put into the hooks, that stood out in the corners of the Ephod. {18} These both before and behind did so agree with themselves, that the Ephod and the Rationale might be knit one to the other, {19} tied to the bawdrike & with rings strongly couple, which a lace of hyacinth joined, lest they should flag loosely, and be moved one from the other, as our Lord commanded Moyses. {20} They made also the tunic of the Ephod all of hyacinth, {21} and a hole for the head in the upper part against the midst, and the border of the hole round about woven: {22} and beneath at the feet pomegranates of hyacinth, purple, scarlet, and twisted silk: {23} and little bells of the purest gold, which they did put between the pomegranates in the utmost part of the tunic round about: {24} to wit, a bell of gold, & a pomegranate, wherewith the high-Priest went adorned, when he executed his ministry, as our Lord had commanded Moyses: {25} They made also silken tunics with woven work for Aaron and his sons: {26} and mitres with their little crowns of silk: {27} Linen breeches also, of fine linen: {28} & a girdle of twisted silk, hyacinth, purple, & scarlet twice dyed, with the art of embroidering, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {29} They made also the plate of sacred veneration of most pure gold, & they wrote in it with the work of a lapidary: The Holy of our Lord: {30} and they tied it to the mitre with a lace of hyacinth, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {31} Therefore all the work of the tabernacle & of the roof of testimony was perfected: & the children of Israel did all things which our Lord had commanded Moyses. {32} And they offered the tabernacle & the roof & the whole furniture, rings, boards, bars, pillars and their feet, {33} the cover of ram's skins dyed red, and the other cover of janthine skins, {34} the veil, the ark, the bars, the propitiatory, {35} the table with the vessel thereof and the loaves of proposition: {36} the candlestick, the lamps, and the furniture of them with the oil: {37} the altar of gold, and the ointment, and the incense of spices: {38} and the hanging in the entry of the tabernacle: {39} the altar of brass, the grate, the bars, and all the vessel thereof: the laver with the foot thereof: the hangings of the court, and the pillars with their feet: {40} the hanging in the entry of the court, and the little cords, and the pins thereof. Nothing wanted of the vessel, that was commanded to be made for the ministry of the tabernacle, and for the roof of covenant. {41} The vestments also, which the priests use in the Sanctuary, to wit, Aaron and his sons, {42} the children of Israel offered, as our Lord had commanded. {43} Which things after that Moyses saw all finished, he blessed them.

According to God's commandment Moyses erecteth the Tabernacle, with all things appertaining, the first day of the second year after their delivery from Aegypt. 32. God replenisheth the same with his Majesty, a cloud remaining over it by day, and a pillar of fire by night, but when they shall march, the same passeth before them.

{1} AND Our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} month, thou shalt erect the tabernacle of The first month, the first day of the the testimony, {3} & shalt put in it the ark, and shalt let down before it the veil: {4} & bringing in the table, thou shalt set upon it the things that are commanded after the rite. The candlestick shall stand with the lamps thereof, {5} and the altar of gold whereon the incense is burned, before the ark of testimony. Thou shalt put the hanging in the entry of the tabernacle, {6} and before it the altar of holocaust: {7} the laver between the altar and the tabernacle, which thou shalt fill with water. {8} And thou shalt compass about the court with hangings, & the entry thereof. {9} And taking the oil of unction thou shalt anoint the tabernacle with the vessel thereof, that they may be sanctified: {10} the altar of holocaust and all the vessel thereof: {11} the laver with the foot thereof; all shalt thou consecrate with the oil of unction, that they may be most Holy. {12} And thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of testimony, and having washed them with water, {13} thou shalt revest them with the sacred vestments, that they may minister to me, and the unction of them may prosper to an everlasting priesthood {14} And Moyses did all things which our Lord had commanded. {15} Therefore the first month of the second year, the first day of the month, the tabernacle was placed. {16} And Moyses erected it, and put the boards and feet and bars, and reared the pillars, {17} and spread the roof over the tabernacle, putting over it a cover, as our Lord had commanded. {18} He put also the testimony in the ark, thrusting bars underneath, and the oracle above. {19} And when he had brought the ark into the tabernacle, he drew before it the veil to fulfill the commandment of our Lord. {20} He set the table also in the tabernacle of testimony at the north side without the veil, {21} ordering the bread of proposition before it, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {22} He set the candlestick also in the tabernacle of testimony over against the table on the south side, {23} placing the lamps in order, according to the precept of our Lord. {24} He set also the altar of gold under the roof of testimony against the veil, {25} and burned upon it the incense of spices, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {26} He put also the hanging in the entry of the tabernacle of testimony, {27} and the altar of holocaust in the entry of the testimony, offering on it the holocaust, and the sacrifices, as our Lord had commanded. {28} The laver also he set between the tabernacle of testimony and the altar, filling it with water. {29} And Moyses and Aaron, and his sons washed their hands and feet, {30} when they entered the roof of covenant, and went to the altar, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {31} He erected also the court, round about the tabernacle and the altar, drawing the hanging in the entry thereof. After all things were perfited, {32} the cloud covered the tabernacle of testimony, and the glory of our Lord filled it. {33} Neither could Moyses enter the roof of covenant, the cloud covering all things, and the majesty of our Lord shining, because the cloud had covered all things. {34} If at any time the cloud did leave the tabernacle, the children of Israel went forward by their troops: {35} If it hung over, they remained in the same place. {36} For the cloud of our Lord hung over the tabernacle by day, and fire by night, in the sight of all the children of Israel throughout all their mansions.

THE BOOK OF LEVITICUS

Divers rites in offering holocausts, as well of cattle, 14. as of birds.

{1} AND our Lord called Moyses, and spake to him out of the tabernacle of testimony, saying: {2} Speak to the children of Israel, & thou shalt say to them: The man of you, that shall offer an host to our Lord, of beasts, that is of oxen & sheep, offering victims, {3} if his oblation be an holocaust, and of the herd, he shall offer a male, without spot, at the door of the tabernacle of testimony, to propitiate our Lord unto him: {4} and he shall put his hands upon the head of the host, and is shall be acceptable, and profitable to his expiation. {5} And he shall immolate the calf before our Lord, and the children of Aaron the Priests shall offer the blood thereof, pouring it in the circuit of the altar, which is before the door of the tabernacle. {6} And the skin of the host being plucked off, the joints they shall cut into pieces, {7} and shall put fire underneath in the altar, having before laid a pile of wood in order: {8} and the joints that are cut out, laying in order thereupon, to wit, the head, & all things that cleave to the liver, {9} the entrails and feet being washed with water, and the Priest shall burn them upon the altar for an holocaust, and sweet savour to our Lord. {10} And if the oblation be of flocks, an holocaust of sheep or of goats, a lamb of a year old without spot shall he offer: {11} and he shall immolate it at the side of the altar that looketh to the North, before our Lord: but the blood thereof the sons of Aaron shall pour upon the Altar round about: {12} And they shall divide the joints, the head, and all that cleave to the liver: and shall lay them upon the wood, under which the fire is to be put: {13} but the entrails & the feet they shall wash with water. And the whole the Priest shall offer and burn upon the altar for an holocaust, and most sweet savour to our Lord. {14} But if the oblation of holocaust to our Lord be of birds, of turtles and young pigeons, {15} the Priest shall offer it at the altar: and writhing the head to the neck, and breaking the place of the wound, he shall make the blood to run down upon the brim of the altar: {16} but the crop of the throat, and the feathers he shall cast night to the altar at the east side, in the place where the ashes are wont to be poured out, {17} & he shall break the pinions thereof, and shall not cut nor divide it with a knife, and shall burn it upon the altar, putting fire under the wood. It is an holocaust and oblation of most sweet savour to our Lord.

How to offer flour, 4. loaves, wafers, with oil and incense, without leaven or honey, 12. also first fruits. 13. And salt in every oblation.

{1} WHEN a soul shall offer an oblation of sacrifice to our Lord, fine flour shall be his oblation, and he shall pour oil upon it, and put frankincense, {2} and shall carry it to the sons of Aaron the Priests: of whom one shall take a handful of the flour, and the oil, and all the frankincense, and shall put it a memorial upon the Altar for a most sweet savour to our Lord. {3} And that which shall be left of the sacrifice, shall be Aaron's, & his sons, Holy of holies among the oblations of our Lord. {4} But when thou offerest a sacrifice baked in the oven: of flour, to wit, loaves without leaven, tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened laid over with oil. {5} If thine oblation be of the frying pan, of flour tempered with oil, and without leaven, {6} thou shalt divide it into little pieces, and shalt pour oil upon it. {7} And if the sacrifice be from the gridiron, in like manner the flour shall be tempered with oil, {8} which offering to our Lord, thou shalt deliver to the hands of the Priest. {9} Who having offered it shall take a memory of the sacrifice, and burn it upon the altar for a sweet savour to our Lord, {10} and whatsoever is left, shall be Aaron's, and his sons, Holy of holies among the oblations of our Lord. {11} Every oblation that is offered to our Lord, shall be made without leaven, neither shall any leaven and honey be burned in the sacrifice of our Lord. {12} The first fruits only of them and the gifts you shall offer but upon the altar they shall not be put, or a savour of sweetness. {13} What sacrifice soever thou offerest, thou shalt season it with salt, neither shalt thou take away the salt of the covenant of thy God from thy sacrifice. In every oblation thou shalt offer salt. {14} But if thou offer a gift of the first fruits of thy corn to our Lord, of the ears being yet green, thou shalt dry it at the fire, and bruise it in manner of meal, and so shalt thou offer thy first fruits to our Lord, {15} pouring oil upon it, and putting on frankincense, because it is the oblation of our Lord. {16} Whereof the Priest shall burn for memory of the gift, part of the meal bruised, and of the oil, and all the frankincense.

How the pacific hosts must be offered to beeves, 6. sheep, 7. lambs, 12. and goats.

{1} AND if his oblation be an host of pacifics, and he will offer of beeves, male or female, without spot shall he offer them before our Lord. {2} And shall lay his hand upon the head of his victim, which shall be immolated in the entire of the tabernacle of testimony, & the sons of Aaron the Priest shall pour the blood in the circuit of the altar. {3} And they shall offer of the host of pacifics, for an oblation to our Lord, the fat that covered the entrails, and whatsoever fat is within: {4} the two kidneys with the fat wherewith the guts are covered, and the caul of the liver with the two little kidneys. {5} And they shall burn them upon the altar, for an holocaust, putting fire under the wood: for an oblation of most sweet savour to our Lord. {6} But if his oblation, and the host of pacifics be of flocks, whether he offer male, or female, they shall be without spot. {7} If he offer a lamb before our Lord, {8} he shall put his hand upon the head of his victim; which shall be immolated in the entire of the tabernacle of testimony: and the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood thereof in the circuit of the altar. {9} And they shall offer of the host of pacifics, a sacrifice to our Lord: the fat and the whole rump, {10} with the kidneys, and the fat that covereth the belly and all the vital parts, and both little kidneys, with the fat that is about the guts, and the caul of the liver with the two little kidneys. {11} And the Priest shall burn them upon the altar, to the food of the fire, and of the oblation of our Lord. {12} If his oblation be a goat, and he offer it to our Lord, {13} he shall put his hand upon the head thereof: and shall immolate it in the entire of the tabernacle of testimony. And the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood thereof in the circuit of the altar. {14} And they shall take of it to the food of our Lord's fire, the fat that covereth the belly, and that covereth all the vital parts: {15} the two little kidneys with the caul, that is upon them about the guts, and the tallow of the liver with the little kidneys: {16} and the Priest shall burn them upon the altar, to the food of the fire, and of the most sweet savour. All the fat shall be our Lord's. {17} by a perpetual right in your generations, and in all your habitations: you shall eat no blood nor fat at all.

How a Priest, 13. the multitude, 22. a Prince, 27. or any one of the people, sinning of ignorance, must offer hosts.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} soul that sinneth by ignorance, & doth any Speak to the children of Israel: The thing of all the commandments of our Lord, which he commanded not to be done: {3} If the Priest that is anointed sin, making the people to offend, he shall offer for his sin a calf without spot to our Lord, {4} and he shall bring it to the door of testimony before our Lord, and shall put his hand upon the head thereof, and shall immolate it to our Lord. {5} He shall draw also of the blood of the calf, carrying it into the tabernacle of testimony. {6} And when he hath dipped his finger in the blood he shall sprinkle it seven times before our Lord, against the veil of the Sanctuary. {7} and of the same blood he shall put upon the horns of the altar of incense most acceptable to our Lord, which is in the tabernacle of testimony. And all the rest of the blood he shall pour at the foot of the altar of holocaust in the entry of the tabernacle. {8} And the fat of the calf he shall take away for the sin, as well that which covereth the entrails, as all the parts that are within. {9} The two little kidneys, and the caul that is upon them beside the guts, & the fat of the liver with the two little kidneys, {10} as is taken away from the calf which is an host of pacifics, and he shall burn them upon the altar of holocaust. {11} But the skin and all the flesh with the head and feet and bowels and dung, {12} and the rest of the body he shall carry forth without the camp into a clean place, where the ashes are wont to be poured out: and he shall burn them upon a pile of wood, which shall be burnt in the place where the ashes are poured out. {13} And if all the multitude of Israel be ignorant, and through ignorance do that which is against the commandment of our Lord, {14} and afterwards understand their sin, they shall offer for their sin a calf, and shall bring it to the door of the tabernacle. {15} And the ancients of the people shall put their hands upon the head thereof before our Lord. And the calf being immolated in the sight of our Lord, {16} the Priest that is anointed shall carry of the blood into the tabernacle of testimony, {17} dipping his finger, & sprinkling seven times against the veil, {18} and he shall put of the same blood on the horns of the altar, that is before our Lord, in the tabernacle of testimony: and the rest of the blood, he shall pour at the foot of the altar of holocaust, which is a the door of the tabernacle of testimony. {19} And all the fat thereof he shall take up, & shall burn it upon the altar: {20} doing so with this calf, as he did also before: & the Priest praying for them, our Lord will be propitious unto them. {21} But the calf itself he shall carry forth without the camp, and shall burn it like as the former calf: because it is for the sin of the multitude. {22} If a Prince sin, and by ignorance do of many things one, that by the law of our Lord is forbidden: {23} and afterwards understandeth his sin, he shall offer an host to our Lord, a buck of the goats without spot. {24} And he shall put his hand upon the head thereof: and when he hath immolated it in the place where holocaust is wont to be slain before our Lord, because it is for sin, {25} the Priest shall dip his fingers in the blood of the host for sin, touching the horns of the altar of holocaust, and the rest pouring at the foot thereof. {26} But the fat he shall burn upon it, as it wont to be done in the victims of pacifics: and the Priest shall pray for him, and for his sin, and it shall be forgiven him. {27} And if a soul of the people of the land shall sin through ignorance, doing any of those things that by the law of our Lord are forbidden, and offending, {28} and knoweth his sin, he shall offer a she goat without spot. {29} And he shall put his hand upon the head of the host that is for sin, and shall immolate it in the place of holocaust. {30} And the Priest shall take up of the blood with his finger: and touching the horns of the altar of holocaust, the rest he shall pour out at the foot thereof. {31} But taking away all the fat, as is wont to be taken away of the victims of pacifics, he shall burn it upon the altar, for a sweet savour to our Lord; and he shall pray for him, and it shall be forgiven him. {32} But if he offer of the flock a victim for his sin, to wit, an ewe without spot, {33} he shall put his hand upon the head thereof, and shall immolate it in the place where the hosts of holocausts are wont to be slain. {34} And the Priest shall take of the blood thereof with his finger, and touching the horns of the altar of holocaust, the rest he shall pour at the foot thereof. {35} All the fat also he shall take away, as the fat of the ram, that is offered for pacifics, is wont to be taken away: and shall burn it upon the altar, a burnt sacrifice of our Lord: and he shall pray for him, and for his sin, and it shall be forgiven him.

Of hosts, for the sin of concealing an other's perjury. 2. for uncleanness 4. for vain swearing, 14. for error in exercising holy rites, 17. & for any sin committed by ignorance.

{1} IF a soul sin, and hear the voice of one swearing, and be witness, because either he himself saw, or is privy to it: unless he utter it, he shall bear his iniquity. {2} The soul that toucheth any unclean thing, either that which was killed of a beast, or died of itself, or any other thing that creepeth: and forgeteth his uncleanness, is guilty, and hath offended: {3} and if he touch any thing of the uncleanness of man, according to any impurity wherewith he is wont to be polluted, & having forgotten, do know it afterward, he shall be guilty of an offence. {4} The soul that sweareth, and uttereth with his lips that he would do either ill or well, and bindeth the same with an oath, and his word, & having forgotten afterward understandeth his offence, {5} let him do penance for his sin, {6} and offer of the flocks an ewe lamb, or a she goat, and the Priest shall pray for him and for his sin: {7} but if he be not able to offer a beast, let him offer two turtles, or two young pigeons to our Lord, one for sin, and the other for an holocaust, {8} and he shall give them to the Priest: who offering the first for sin, shall writhe back the head thereof to the little pinions, so that it stick to the neck, and be not altogether broken off. {9} And of the blood thereof he shall sprinkle the wall of the altar, and whatsoever is left, he shall make it distil to the bottom thereof, because it is for sin. {10} And the other he shall burn for an holocaust, as is wont to be done: and the Priest shall pray for him, and for his sin, and it shall be forgiven him. {11} And if his hand be not able to offer two turtles, or two young pigeons, he shall offer for his sin of flour the tenth part of an ephi. He shall not put oil upon it, nor cast any frankincense thereon, because it is for sin, {12} and he shall deliver it to the Priest: who taking thereof a full handful, shall burn it upon the altar for a monument of him that did offer it, {13} praying for him & making expiation: but the part that is left, himself shall have for a gift. {14} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {15} If a soul transgressing the ceremonies, by error shall sin in those things that are sanctified to our Lord, he shall offer for his offence a ram without spot out of the flocks, that may be bought for two sicles, according to the weight of the Sanctuary: {16} and the damage itself which he did, he shall restore, and the fifth part he shall add besides, delivering it to the Priest, who shall pray for him, offering the ram, and it shall be forgiven him. {17} If a soul sin by ignorance, and do one of those things which by the law of the Lord are forbidden, and being guilty of sin, understand his iniquity, {18} he shall offer a ram without spot of the flocks to the Priest, according to the measure and estimation of the sin: who shall pray for him, because he did it unwitting: and it shall be forgiven him, {19} because by error he offended against the Lord.

Oblation for sin wittingly committed. 8. The manner of offering holocaust. 12. Continual fire to be kept in the Altar. 14. The sacrifices which Priests shall offer at their Consecration. 24. In general hosts for sin, and who shall eat of the same, and where.

{1} OUR Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} the Lord, shall deny unto his neighbour The soul that shall sin, and contemning the thing delivered to his custody, which was committed to his credit, or shall by force extort any thing, or do oppression, {3} or shall find a thing lost, and denying it, be also forsaken, and shall do any other thing of many, wherein men are wont to sin, {4} being convicted of the offence, {5} he shall render all things which by fraud he would have obtained, whole, and the fifth part besides to the owner unto whom he did the damage. {6} But for his sin he shall offer a ram without spot out of the flock, and shall give it to the Priest, according to the estimation and measure of the offence: {7} who shall pray for him before the Lord, and he shall have forgiveness for every thing that in doing he sinned. {8} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {9} Command Aaron and his sons: This is the Law of an holocaust: It shall be burnt upon the altar, all night until morning: the fire shall be upon the same altar. {10} The Priest shall be revested with the tunic and the linen femorals: and he shall take up the ashes, which the devouring fire burned, and putting them besides the altar, {11} shall be unvested of his former vestments, and being clothed with others, shall carry them forth, without the camp, and in a most clean place shall cause them to be consumed unto dust. {12} And the fire on the altar shall always burn, which the Priest shall nourish, putting wood underneath, in the morning every day, and laying on the holocaust, thereupon shall burn the fat of the pacifics. {13} This fire is continual which shall never fail on the altar. {14} This is the Law of the sacrifice and libaments, which the children of Aaron shall offer before the Lord, and before the altar. {15} The Priest shall take up a handful of the flour, that is tempered with oil, and all the frankincense, that is put upon the flour: and he shall burn it on the altar for a monument of most sweet odour to the Lord: {16} and the part of the flour that is left, shall Aaron eat with his sons, without leaven: and he shall eat it in the Holy place of the court of the tabernacle. {17} And therefore it shall not be leavened, because part thereof is offered for the burnt sacrifice of the Lord. It shall be most Holy, as that for sin, and for offence. {18} The males only of Aaron's stock shall eat it. It shall be an ordinance and everlasting in your generations of the sacrifices of the Lord. Every one that toucheth them, shall be sanctified. {19} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {20} This is the oblation of Aaron, and of his sons, which they must offer to the Lord, in the day of their unction. The tenth part of an ephi of flour shall they offer in a sacrifice for ever, half thereof in the morning, and half thereof at even: {21} which being tempered with oil shall be fried in a frying pan. {22} And the Priest that by right succeedeth his father, shall offer it hot, for a most sweet odour to the Lord, and it shall wholly be burnt on the altar. {23} For every sacrifice of the Priest shall be consumed with fire, neither shall any man eat thereof. {24} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {25} Speak to Aaron and his sons: This is the law of the host for sin. In the place where the holocaust is offered, shall it be immolated before our Lord. It is Holy of holies. {26} The Priest that doth offer it, shall eat it in a holy place, in the court of the tabernacle. {27} Whatsoever shall touch the flesh thereof, shall be sanctified. If of the blood thereof a garment be sprinkled, it shall be washed in a holy place. {28} And the earthen vessel, wherein it was sodden, shall be broken, but if the vessel be of brass, it shall be scoured, and washed with water. {29} Every male of the priestly race shall eat of the flesh thereof, because it is Holy of holies. {30} For the host that is slain for sin, whose blood is carried into the tabernacle of testimony to make expiation in the Sanctuary, shall not be eaten, but shall be burnt with fire.

The manner of offering hosts for offences, 11. and of pacific victims, for thanks-giving. 22. No fat, 26. nor blood is to be eaten.

{1} THIS also is the law of an host for an offence, the most Holy: {2} therefore where the holocaust is immolated, the victim also for an offence shall be slain: the blood thereof shall be poured round about the altar. {3} They shall offer thereof the rump and the fat that covereth the entrails: {4} the two little kidneys, and the fat that is beside the guts, and the caul of the liver with the two little kidneys. {5} And the Priest shall burn them upon the altar: it is the burnt sacrifice of our Lord for an offence. {6} Every male of the Priests stock, in a holy place shall eat this flesh, because it is most Holy. {7} As the host for sin is offered, so also that for an offence: the law of both hosts shall be one: to the Priest that offereth it, it shall pertain. {8} The Priest that offereth the victim of holocaust, shall have the skin thereof. {9} And every sacrifice of flour, that is baked in the one, & whatsoever is prepared upon the gridiron, or in the frying pan, it shall be that Priest's by whom it is offered. {10} Whether they be tempered with oil, or dry, to all the sons of Aaron equal measure shall be divided to ever one. {11} This is the law of the host of pacifics that is offered to our Lord. {12} If the oblation be for thanks-giving, they shall offer loaves without leaven tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened laid over with oil, and fried flour, and manchets tempered with the mingling of oil: {13} Loaves also leavened with the host of thanks, which is offered for pacifics: {14} whereof one for first fruits shall be offered to our Lord, and shall be the Priest's that shall pour out the blood of the host. {15} the flesh whereof shall be eaten the same day, neither shall any of it remain until morning. {16} If any man by vow, or of his own accord offer an host, it shall in like manner be eaten the same day: but if ought remain until the morrow, it is lawful to eat it. {17} but whatsoever the third day shall find, fire shall consume it. {18} If any man eat of the flesh of the victim of pacifics the third day, the oblation shall be of none effect, neither shall it profit the offerer: yea rather whatsoever soul shall defile itself with such meat, shall be guilty of prevarication. {19} The flesh that hath touched any unclean thing, shall not be eaten, but shall be burnt with fire: he that is clean, shall eat thereof. {20} A soul being polluted that eateth of the flesh of the host of pacifics, which is offered to our Lord, shall perish from his people. {21} And that which hath touched the uncleanness of man, or of beast, or of any thing that can pollute, & eateth of such kind of flesh, shall perish from his people. {22} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {23} Speak to the children of Israel: The fat of a sheep, and of an oxe, and of a goat you shall not eat. {24} The fat of the carcass of carrion, & of the beast that was caught of an other beast, you shall have for diverse uses. {25} If any man eat the fat that should be offered for the burnt sacrifice of our Lord, he shall perish out of his people. {26} The blood also of whatsoever beast you shall not take in meat, as well of birds as of cattle. {27} Every soul that eateth blood, shall perish out of his people. {28} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {29} Speak to the children of Israel, saying: He that offereth a victim of pacifics to our Lord, let him offer therewith a sacrifice also, that is, the libaments thereof. {30} He shall hold in his hands the fat of the host, and the breast: & when he hath offered and consecrated both to our Lord, he shall deliver them to the Priest, {31} who shall burn the fat upon the altar, but the breast shall be Aaron's, and his sons'. {32} The right shoulder also of the pacific hosts shall fall for first fruits of the Priest. {33} He of the sons of Aaron, that offereth the blood, and the fat, himself shall have the right shoulder also for his portion. {34} For the breast of elevation and the shoulder of separation I have taken of the children of Israel, from their pacific hosts, and have given them to Aaron the Priest, and to his sons, by a law for ever, of all the people of Israel. {35} This is the anointing of Aaron and his sons, in the ceremonies of our Lord, in the day when Moyses offered them, that they might do the function of priesthood, {36} and the things that our Lord commanded to be given them of the children of Israel, by a perpetual religion in their generations. {37} This is the law of holocaust, and of the sacrifice of sin, and for an offence, and for consecration, and the victims of pacifics: {38} Which our Lord appointed to Moyses in mount Sinai when he commanded the children of Israel, that they should offer their oblations to our Lord in the desert of Sinai.

Moyses consecrateh Aaron high-Priest, 13. and his sons Priests, 33. continuing in the tabernacle seven days and nights.

{1} AND Our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} vestments, and the oil of unction, a calf Take Aaron with his sons, their for sin, two Rams, a basket with azymes, {3} and thou shalt gather all the assembly to the door of the tabernacle. {4} And Moyses did as our Lord had commanded. And all the multitude being gathered before the door of the tabernacle, {5} he said: This is the word, that our Lord hath commanded to be done. {6} And immediately he offered Aaron & his sons: and when he had washed them, {7} he revested the high-Priest with the strait linen garment, girding him with a bawdrike, & revesting him with the tunic of hyacinth, and over it he put the Ephod, {8} which he straitening with the girdle, fitted it to the Rationale, wherein was Doctrine and Verity. {9} with the mitre also he covered his head: and upon it, against the forehead, he put the plate of gold consecrated in sanctification, as our Lord had commanded him. {10} He took also the oil of unction, wherewith he anointed the tabernacle, with all the furniture thereof. {11} And sanctifying them, and having sprinkled the altar seven times, he anointed it, and all the vessel thereof, and the laver with the foot thereof he sanctified with the oil. {12} The which pouring upon Aaron's head, he anointed, & consecrated him: {13} his sons also after he had offered them, he revested with linen tunics and girded them with bawdrikes, and put mitres on them, as our Lord had commanded. {14} He offered also the calf for sin: and when Aaron and his sons had put their hands upon the head thereof, {15} he did immolate it: drawing the blood, & dipping his finger, touched the horns of the altar round about. Which being expiated, and sanctified, he poured the rest of the blood at the bottom thereof. {16} But the fat that was upon the entrails, and the caul of the liver, & the two little kidneys, with their little tallow he burnt upon the altar: {17} the calf with the skin, and the flesh, and the dung, he burnt without the camp, as our Lord had commanded. {18} He offered also a ram for an holocaust: upon the head whereof when Aaron and his sons had put their hands, {19} he did immolate it, and poured the blood thereof in the circuit of the altar. {20} And cutting the ram itself into pieces, the head thereof, and the joints, and the fat he burnt with fire, {21} having first washed the entrails, & the feet, & the whole ram together he burnt upon the altar, because it was an holocaust of most sweet odour to our Lord, as he had commanded him. {22} He offered also the second ram, for the consecration of Priests: and Aaron and his sons did put their hands upon the head thereof: {23} which when Moyses had immolated, taking of the blood thereof, he touched the tip of Aaron's right ear, and the thumb of his right hand, in like manner also of his foot. {24} He offered also the sons of Aaron: and when of the blood of the ram, being immolated, he had touched the tip of the right ear of every one, and the thumbs of the right hand and foot, the rest he poured on the altar, round about: {25} but the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that covereth the entrails, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys with their fat, and with the right shoulder, he separated. {26} And taking out of the basket of azymes, which was before our Lord, a loaf without leaven, and a manchet tempered with oil, and a wafer, he put them upon the fat, and the right shoulder, {27} delivering all to Aaron, and to his sons, Who having lifted them up before our Lord, {28} he took them again of their hands, and burnt them upon the altar of holocaust, because it was the oblation of consecration, for a sweet odour, of the sacrifice to our Lord. {29} And he took of the ram of consecration, the breast for his portion, elevating it before our Lord, as our Lord had commanded him. {30} And taking the ointment, and the blood that was upon the altar, he sprinkled it upon Aaron, and his vestments, & upon his sons and their vestments. {31} And when he had sanctified them in their vestments, he commanded them, saying: Boil the flesh before the door of the tabernacle, and there eat it. Eat ye also the loaves of consecration, that are laid in the basket, as our Lord commanded me, saying: Aaron and his sons shall eat them: {32} and whatsoever shall be left of the flesh, and the loaves, fire shall consume. {33} Out of the door also of the tabernacle you shall not go forth seven days, until the day wherein the time of your consecration shall be expired, for in seven days the consecration is finished: {34} as at this present it hath been done, that the rite of the sacrifice might be accomplished. {35} Day & night shall you tarry in the tabernacle observing the watches of our Lord, lest you die: for so it hath been commanded me. {36} And Aaron, and his sons did all things which our Lord spake by the hand of Moyses.

Sacrifices for sin, 12. and of holocaust, 18. and pacifics are offered: 22. and Aaron stretching forth his hand blesseth the people.

{1} AND when the eight day was come, Moyses called Aaron and his sons, and the ancients of Israel, and said to Aaron. {2} Take of the herd a calf for sin, and a ram for an holocaust, both without spot, and offer them before our Lord. {3} And to the children of Israel thou shalt speak: Take ye buck goat for sin, and a calf, and a lamb, of a year old, & without spot for an holocaust, {4} an ox and a ram for pacifics: and immolate them before our Lord, offering in the sacrifice of every one flour tempered with oil; for to day our Lord will appear to you. {5} They took therefore all things that Moyses had commanded before the door of the tabernacle: where when all the multitude stood, {6} Moyses said: This is the word, which our Lord hath commanded: do it, and his glory will appear to you. {7} And he said to Aaron: Approach to the altar, & immolate for thy sin: offer the holocaust, and pray for thy self and for the people, and when thou hast slain the people's host, pray for them, as our Lord hath commanded. {8} And forthwith Aaron approaching to the altar, immolated the calf for his sin: {9} the blood whereof his sons brought to him: wherein dipping his finger, he touched the horns of the altar, and poured the rest at the foot thereof. {10} And the fat, and the little kidneys, and the caul of the liver, which are for sin, he burnt upon the altar, as our Lord had commanded Moyses: {11} but the flesh and skin thereof he burnt with fire without the camp. {12} He immolated also the victim of holocaust: and his sons brought him the blood thereof, which he poured in the circuit of the altar. {13} The host also it-self being cut into pieces, they brought with the head and every member. All which he burnt with fire upon the altar, {14} having first washed the entrails and the feet with water. {15} And offering for the sin of the people, he slew the buck goat: and expiating the altar: {16} he made the holocaust, {17} adding in the sacrifice the libaments, which are offered withal, and burning them upon the altar, beside the ceremonies of the morning holocaust. {18} He immolated also the ox, and the ram, the pacific hosts of the people: and his sons brought him the blood, which he poured upon the altar round about. {19} The fat also of the ox, and the rump of the ram, and the two little kidneys with their fat, and the caul of the liver, {20} they put upon the breasts, & after the fat was burnt upon the altar, {21} their breasts, & the right shoulders, Aaron did separate, elevating them before our Lord, as Moyses had commanded. {22} And stretching forth his hand to the people, he blessed them. And so the hosts for sin, and the holocausts, and the pacifics being finished, he descended. {23} And Moyses and Aaron going into the tabernacle of testimony, & afterward coming forth, blessed the people. And the glory of our Lord appeared to all the multitude: {24} & behold a fire coming forth from our Lord, devoured the holocaust, and the fat that was upon the altar: Which thing, when the multitude had seen, they praised our Lord, falling on their faces.

Nadab and Abiu the sons of Aaron, for offering strange fire, are burnt to death, and cast out of the camp: 6. for whom the people mourn, but not the Priests. 8. Priests are forbid to drink wine, when they enter into the tabernacle, 12. and are commanded to eat the residue of oblations in the holy place, 16. which this time in part they omitted, and are excused, being sorrowful for that which happened to Nadab and Abiu.

{1} AND Nadab and Abiu the sons of Aaron catching censers, did put in fire, and incense thereupon, offering before our Lord strange fire, which was not commanded them. {2} And fire coming forth from our Lord, devoured them, & they died before our Lord. {3} And Moyses said to Aaron: This is it which our Lord hath spoken: I will be sanctified in them, that approach to me, and in the sight of all the people I will be glorified. Which Aaron hearing held his peace. {4} And Moyses calling Misael and Elisaphan, the sons of Oziel, the uncle of Aaron, said to them: Go and take away your brethren from the sight of the Sanctuary, and carry them without the camp. {5} And going forthwith they took them as they lay, revested with linen tunics, and did cast them forth, as it had been commanded them. {6} And Moyses spake to Aaron, & to Eleazar, and Ithamar his sons: Uncover not your heads, and rent not your vestments, lest perhaps you die, & indignation come upon all the assembly. Let your brethren, & all the house of Israel, lament the burning that our Lord hath raised, {7} and your selves shall not go out of the door of the tabernacle, otherwise you shall perish: for the oil of holy unction is upon you. Who did all things according to the precept of Moyses. {8} Our Lord also said to Aaron: {9} Wine, and any thing that may make drunk, you shall not drink, thou and thy sons, when you enter into the tabernacle of testimony, lest you die: because it is an everlasting precept through your generations. {10} And that you may have knowledge to discern between the holy and profane, between the polluted and clean: {11} and may teach the children of Israel all my ordinances, which the Lord hath spoken to them by the hand of Moyses. {12} And Moyses spake to Aaron and to Eleazar, and Ithamar his sons, that were left: Take the sacrifice, that is remaining of the oblation of our Lord, and eat it without leaven beside the altar, because it is Holy of holies. {13} And you shall eat it in a holy place: which is given to thee and thy sons of the oblations of our Lord, as it hath been commanded me. {14} The breast also that is offered, and the shoulder that is separated, you shall eat in a most clean place, thou and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee. For they are laid apart for thee and thy children, of the healthful hosts of the children of Israel: {15} because the shoulder and the breast, and the fat that is burnt on the altar, they have elevated before our Lord, and they pertain to thee, and to thy sons by a perpetual law, as our Lord hath commanded.

{16} Among these things, when Moyses sought for the buck goat, that had been offered for sin, he found it burnt: and being angry against Eleazar, and Ithamar the sons of Aaron that remained, he said: {17} Why did you not eat the host for sin, in a holy place, which is most Holy, and given to you, that you may bear the iniquity of the multitude, and may pray for it in the sight of our Lord, {18} especially whereas of the blood thereof, there hath not been carried within the holy places, and you ought to have eaten it in the Sanctuary, as it was commanded me? {19} Aaron answered: This day hath been offered the victim for sin, and the holocaust before our Lord: and to me that is chanced which thou seest, how could I eat it, or please our Lord in ceremonies having a sorrowful heart? {20} Which when Moyses had heard, he was satisfied with his answer.

The distinction of clean and unclean in beasts, fish, birds, and other things, 43. with commandment to be holy and impolluted.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses & Aaron, saying: these are the beasts which you ought to {2} Say to the children of Israel: eat of all the living things of the earth. {3} Every one that hath the hoof divided, and cheweth the cud among the cattle, you shall eat. {4} But whatsoever indeed cheweth the cud, and hath an hoof, but divideth it not, as the camel, and others, that you shall not eat, and among the unclean you shall repute it. {5} Cherogryl which cheweth the cud, and divideth not the hoof, is unclean. {6} The hare also: for that also cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof. {7} And the swine: which though it divideth the hoof, cheweth not the cud. {8} The flesh of these you shall not eat, nor touch their carcasses, because they are unclean to you. {9} These are the things that breed in the waters, and which it is lawful to eat. All that hath fins, and scales, as well in the sea, as in the rivers, and the pools, you shall eat. {10} But whatsoever hath not fins and scales, of those that move and live in the waters, shall be unto you abominable, {11} and execrable, their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall avoid. {12} All that have not fins and scales in the waters, shall be polluted. {13} Of birds these are they which you must not eat, and are to be avoided of you: The Eagle, and the griffon, and the osprey, {14} and the kite, and the vulture according to his kind, {15} and every one of the raven's kind, according to their similitude, {16} the ostrich, and the owl, and the stern, and the hawk according to his kind, {17} the screechowl, & the diver, and the stork, {18} and the swan, and the onocratal, and the porphirion, {19} the herodian, & the charadron according to his kind, the lapwing also, and the bat. {20} Of fowls every one that goeth upon four feet, shall be abominable to you. {21} And whatsoever walketh upon four feet, but hath the legs behind longer, wherewith he hoppeth upon the earth, {22} that you shall eat, as is the bruke in his kind, the attak, and the ophiomach, and the locust, every one according to their kind. {23} But of fowl whatsoever hath four feet only, shall be execrable to you: {24} and whatsoever shall touch the carcasses of them, shall be polluted, and shall be unclean until even: {25} and if it be necessary that he carry any of these that be dead, he shall wash his cloths, and shall be unclean until sun set. {26} Every beast that hath a hoof, but divideth it not, neither cheweth the cud, shall be unclean: and whatsoever toucheth it, shall be defiled. {27} That which walketh upon hands of all beasts, which go on four feet, shall be unclean: he that toucheth their carcasses shall be polluted until even. {28} And he that carrieth such carcasses, shall wash his cloths, and shall be unclean until even: because all these things are unclean to you. {29} These also shall be reputed among polluted things, of all that move upon the earth, the weasel and the mouse and the crocodile, every one according to their kind, {30} the mygale, and the chameleon, and the stellion, and the lizard, and the mole: {31} all these are unclean. He that toucheth their carcasses, shall be unclean until even: {32} and that whereupon any thing of their carcasses falleth, shall be polluted, as well vessel of wood and raiment, as skins and hair cloths: and in whatsoever vessel any work is done, they shall be dipped in water, and shall be polluted until even, and so afterward shall be clean. {33} But the earthen vessel, whereinto any of these falleth within it, shall be polluted, and therefore is to be broken. {34} All meat, which you shall eat, if the water be poured upon it, shall be unclean; and all liquor that is drunk of all vessel, shall be unclean. {35} And upon whatsoever ought of such carcasses falleth, it shall be unclean: whether ovens, or pots with feet, they shall be destroyed, and shall be unclean. {36} But the fountains and the cisterns, and all collection of waters shall be clean. He that toucheth their carcass, shall be polluted. {37} If it fall upon seed corn it shall not pollute it. {38} But if any man pour water upon the seed, and afterward it be touched with the carcasses, it shall be forthwith polluted. {39} If a beast be dead, of which it is lawful for you to eat, he that toucheth the carcass thereof, shall be unclean until even: {40} and he that eateth or carrieth any thing thereof shall wash his cloths, & shall be unclean until even. {41} All that creepeth upon the earth, shall be abominable, neither shall it be taken for meat. {42} Whatsoever goeth upon the breast on four feet, & hath many feet, or traileth on the earth, you shall not eat, because it is abominable. {43} Do not contaminate your souls, nor touch ought thereof, lest you be unclean. {44} For I am the Lord your God: be holy, because I am holy. Pollute not your souls in any creeping beast, that moveth upon the earth. {45} For I am the Lord, that brought you out of the Land of Aegypt, that I might be your God. You shall be holy because I am holy. {46} This is the law of beasts and fowls, and of every living soul, that moveth in the waters, and creepeth on the earth, {47} that you may know the differences of the clean, and the unclean, and know what you ought to eat, and what to refuse.

The law of women's purification that bear children.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} thou shalt say to them: A woman if Speak to the children of Israel, and receiving seed she bear a man child, shall be unclean seven days, according to the days of the separation of her flowers. {3} And the eighth day the little infant shall be circumcised: {4} but her self shall remain three & thirty days in the blood of her purification: No holy thing shall she touch, neither shall she enter into the Sanctuary, until the days of her purification be expired. {5} But if she bear a woman child, she shall be unclean two weeks, according to the custom of the flux of her flowers, and sixty six days she shall remain in the blood of her purification. {6} And when the days of her purification are expired, for a son, or for a daughter, she shall bring a lamb of a year old for an holocaust, and a young pigeon or a turtle for sin, to the door of the tabernacle of testimony, and shall deliver them to the Priest, {7} who shall offer them before our Lord, and shall pray for her, and so she shall be cleansed from the flux of her blood, this is the law for her that beareth a man child or a woman child. {8} And if her hand find not, neither is able to offer a lamb, she shall take two turtles, or two young pigeons, one for an holocaust, & an other for sin, and the Priest shall pray for her, and so she shall be cleansed.

The law concerning leprosy in men, 47. and in garments.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, saying: flesh shall arise a diverse colour or a {2} The man, in whose skin and blister, or any thing as it were shining, that is to say the plague of the leprosy, shall be brought to Aaron the Priest, or any one of his sons. {3} Who seeing the leprosy in his skin, & the hair turned into a white colour, and the form it-self of the leprosy lower than the skin, and the other flesh: it is the plague of the leprosy, and at his arbitrement he shall be separated. {4} But if there be a shining whiteness in the skin, and not lower than the other flesh, and the hair of the old color, the Priest shall shut him up seven days, {5} and the seventh day he shall view him: and if the leprosy be grown no farther, nor hath passed the former limits in the skin, again he shall shut him up other seven days. {6} And the seventh day he shall behold: if the leprosy be somewhat obscure, and not grown in the skin, he shall cleanse him, because it is a scab: and the man shall wash his cloths, and shall be clean. {7} And if the leprosy grow again, after that he was seen of the Priest and restored to cleanness, he shall be brought unto him, {8} and shall be condemned of uncleanness. {9} If the plague of the leprosy be in a man, he shall be brought to the Priest, {10} and he shall view him. And when there is a white color in the skin, and hath changed the look of the hair, and the flesh also it-self appear quick: {11} it shall be judged a very old leprosy, and grown into the skin. The Priest therefore shall contaminate him, and shall not shut him up, because he is unclean evidently. {12} But if the leprosy spring forth running about in the skin, and cover all the flesh from the head to the feet, whatsoever falleth under the sight of the eyes, {13} the Priest shall view him, and shall judge that he is taken with a most clean leprosy: for that it is all turned into whiteness, and therefore the man shall be clean. {14} But when there shall appear in him quick flesh, {15} then by the judgment of the Priest he shall be polluted, and shall be reputed among the unclean, for quick flesh if it be spotted with leprosy, is unclean. {16} And if again it be turned into whiteness, and cover all the man, {17} the Priest shall view him, and shall judge him to be clean. {18} And the flesh and the skin wherein a boil is risen, an healed, {19} and in the place of the boil there appear a white scar, or somewhat red, the man shall be brought to the Priest: {20} and when he shall see the place of the leprosy lower than the other flesh; and the hair turned into whiteness, he shall contaminate him: for the plague of leprosy is risen in the boil. {21} But if the hair be of the old colour, and the scar somewhat obscure, & be not lower than next flesh, he shall shut him up seven days. {22} And if it be grown farther; he shall judge him to have the leprosy: {23} but if it stay in his place, it is the scar of a boil, and the man shall be clean. {24} And the flesh and skin, that fire hath burnt, and being healed hath a white or a red scar, {25} the Priest shall consider it, and lo it is turned into whiteness, and the place thereof is lower than the other skin: he shall contaminate him, because the plague of leprosy is risen in the scar. {26} But if the colour of the hair be not changed, nor the blemish lower than the other flesh, and the form it-self of the leprosy be somewhat obscure, he shall shut him up seven days, {27} & the seventh day he shall behold him: if the leprosy be grown farther in the skin, he shall contaminate him, {28} but if the whiteness stay in his place, not very clear, it is the plague of a burning, and therefore he shall be cleansed, because it is the scar of a burning. {29} Man, or woman, in whose head or beard the leprosy riseth, the Priest shall see them. {30} and if the place be lower than the other flesh, and the hair yellow, and thinner than it was wont; he shall contaminate them, because it is the leprosy of the head and the beard. {31} But if he perceive the place of the spot equal with the flesh near unto it, and the hair black: he shall shut him up seven days, {32} and in the seventh day he shall look upon it. If the spot be not grown, and the hair be of his own colour, and the place of the plague even with the other flesh: {33} the man shall be shaven saving the place of the spot, and shall be shut up other seven days. {34} If the seventh day the plague seem to have stayed in his place, & not lower than the other flesh, he shall cleanse him, and his cloths being washed he shall be clean. {35} But if after his cleansing the spot be grown again in the skin, {36} he shall no more seek whether the hair be changed into a yellow colour, because he is evidently unclean. {37} Moreover if the spot be stayed, & the hair be black, let him know that the man is healed, and let him boldly pronounce him clean. {38} Man, or woman, in whose skin appeareth whiteness, {39} the Priest shall view them. If he find that whiteness somewhat obscure shineth in the skin, let him know that it is not the leprosy, but a spot of white colour and that the man is clean. {40} The man whose hair falleth off from his head, is bald and clean: {41} and if the hair fall from his forehead, he is bald before and clean. {42} But if in the baldness or in the baldness before there be risen a white or reddish colour, {43} and the Priest perceive this, he shall condemn him undoubtedly of leprosy, which is risen in the baldness. {44} Whosoever therefore shall be defiled with leprosy & is separated at the arbitrement of the Priest, {45} shall have his cloths hanging loose, his head bare, his mouth covered with a cloth, he shall cry himself polluted and unclean. {46} All the time that he is a leper & unclean, he shall dwell alone without the camp. {47} A woollen or linen garment, that shall have the leprosy {48} in the warp, and the woof, or else a skin, or whatsoever is made of a skin, {49} if it be a white or reddish spot, it shall be reputed infected with leprosy, and shall be shewed to the Priest. {50} Who having considered it shall shut it up seven days: {51} and the seventh day again beholding it, if he find that it is grown, it is a leprosy that continueth: he shall judge the garment polluted, and every thing wherein it shall be found, {52} and therefore it shall be burnt with fire. {53} But if he see that it is not grown, {54} he shall command, and they shall wash that, wherein the leprosy is, and he shall shut it up other seven days. {55} And when he shall see that the old shape is not returned, neither yet that the leprosy is grow farther, he shall judge it unclean, and burn it with fire, for that the leprosy is spread in the outside of the garment or through the whole. {56} But if the place of the leprosy be somewhat obscure, after that the garment is washed, he shall break it off, and divide it from that which is found. {57} And if besides in those places, that before where without spot, there appear a flying and wandering leprosy: it must be burnt with fire: {58} if it be ceased, he shall wash with water the parts that be pure, the second time, and they shall be clean. {59} This is the law of the leprosy of a woollen and linen garment, of the warp and the woof, and of all stuff of skins, how it ought to be cleansed or contaminated.

Sacrifices for cleansing leprosy in men, 33. the manner of viewing whether leprosy be in a house or no, 40. and of cleansing it.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} be cleansed. This is the rite of a leper, when he is to {3} He shall be brought to the Priest: who going out of the camp, when he shall find that the leprosy is cleansed, {4} he shall command him that is purified, that he offer for himself two live sparrows, which it is lawful to eat, and cedar-wood, and scarlet & hyssop, {5} and he shall command that one of the sparrows be immolated in an earthen vessel over living water: {6} but the other being alive, with the cedar-wood, and scarlet and the hyssop, he shall dip in the blood of the sparrow that is immolated, {7} wherewith he shall sprinkle him, that is to be cleansed, seven times, that he may be rightly purged: and he shall let go the live sparrow, that it fly into the field. {8} And when the man hath washed his cloths, he shall shave all the hair of his body, and shall be washed with water: & being purified he shall enter into the camp, yet so for all that, that he tarry without his own tent seven days, {9} & the seventh day he shall shave the hair of his head, & his beard & eye-brows, and the hair of his whole body. And having washed again his cloths, and his body, {10} the eighth day he shall take two lambs without spot, and an ewe of a year old without spot, and three tenths of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice, and a sextary of oil apart. {11} And when the Priest that purifieth the man, hath set him and all these things before the Lord in the door of the tabernacle of testimony, {12} he shall take a lamb, and offer it for offence, & the sextary of oil, and having offered all before the Lord, {13} he shall immolate the lamb, where the host for sin is wont to be immolated, and the holocaust, that is, in a holy place. For as for sin, so also the host for offence pertaineth to the Priest: it is Holy of holies. {14} And the Priest taking of the blood of the host, that was immolated for offence, shall put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is cleansed, and upon the thumbs of his right hand and foot: {15} and of the sextary of oil he shall pour into his own left hand, {16} and shall dip his right finger in it and shall sprinkle before the Lord seven times. {17} and the residue of oil in his left hand, he shall pour upon the tip of the right ear of him that is cleansed, and upon the thumbs of his right hand and foot, and upon the blood that was shed for offence, {18} and upon his head. {19} And he shall pray for him before the Lord, and shall make the sacrifice for sin, then shall he immolate the holocaust, {20} and put it on the altar with the libaments thereof, and the man shall orderly be cleansed. {21} But if he be poor, and his hand can not find the things aforesaid, for offence he shall take a lamb for an oblation, that the Priest may pray for him, and a tenth part of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice, and of oil a sextary, {22} and two turtles or two young pigeons, of the which let one be for sin, & the other for an holocaust: {23} & he shall offer them the eight day of his purification to the Priest, at the door of the tabernacle of testimony before the Lord: {24} who receiving the lamb for offence, and the sextary of oil, shall elevate them together: {25} and the lamb being immolated, of the blood thereof he shall put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is cleansed, and upon the thumbs of his right hand and foot: {26} but part of the oil he shall pour into his own left hand, {27} wherein dipping the finger of his right hand, he shall sprinkle it seven times before the Lord: {28} and he shall touch the tip of the right ear of him that is cleansed, and the thumbs of his right hand & foot, in the place of the blood that was shed for offence: {29} & the other part of the oil, that is in his left hand, he shall pour upon the head of the purified person, that he may propitiate the Lord for him, {30} & a turtle, or young pigeon he shall offer, {31} one for offence, & the other for an holocaust, with their libaments. {32} This is the sacrifice of a leper, that is not able to have all things for the cleansing of himself. {33} And our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, saying: {34} When you shall be entered into the Land of Chanaan, which I will give you in possession, if there be the plague of leprosy in a house, {35} he whose house it is, shall go and tell the Priest, saying: It seemeth to me, that there is as it were the plague of leprosy in my house, {36} But he shall command that they carry forth all things out of the house, before he go into it, and see whether it have the leprosy, lest all things become unclean that are in the house. And afterward he shall go in to consider the leprosy of the house: {37} & if he see in the walls thereof as it were little dints, disfigured with paleness or redness, and lower than all the rest, {38} he shall go out of the door of the house, and forthwith shut it seven days. {39} And returning the seventh day, he shall consider it. If he find that the leprosy is grown, {40} he shall command the stones wherein the leprosy is to be plucked out, and to be thrown without the city into an unclean place: {41} and the house it-self to be scraped on the inside round about, and the dust of the scraping to be dispersed without the city into an unclean place, {42} and other stones to be laid in their places, that were taken away, and the house to be plastered with other mortar. {43} But if after the stones be plucked out, and the dust scraped off, & it be plastered with other earth, {44} the Priest going in perceive that the leprosy is returned, and the walls full of spots, it is a lasting leprosy, and the house unclean: {45} the which forthwith they shall destroy, and the stones and timber thereof, and all the dust they shall cast without the town into an unclean place. {46} He that entereth into the house when it is shut, shall be unclean until even: {47} and he that sleepeth in it, & eateth any thing, shall wash his cloths. {48} But if the Priest going in perceive that the leprosy is not grown farther in the house, after it was plastered again, he shall purify it being made whole again: {49} and for the purification thereof he shall take two sparrows, and cedar-wood, and scarlet, and hyssop: {50} and when one sparrow is immolated in an earthen vessel over living waters, {51} he shall take the cedar-wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet, and the live sparrow, and shall dip all in the blood of the sparrow that is immolated, and in the living water, and he shall sprinkle the house seven times, {52} and shall purify it as well with the blood of the sparrow as with the living water and with the live sparrow, and with the cedar-wood and the hyssop and the scarlet. {53} And when he hath let go the sparrow to fly freely away into the field, he shall pray for the house, & it shall be rightly cleansed. {54} This is the law of all leprosy and percussion, {55} of the leprosy of garments and houses, {56} of a scar and of blisters breaking forth, of a shining spot, and when the colours are changed into diverse kinds, {57} that it may be known at what time any thing is clean or unclean.

The law of unclean issues in men, 19. and in women.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, saying: and say to them: The man that hath a flux {2} Speak to the children of Israel, of seed, shall be unclean. {3} And then he shall be judged subject to this fault, when the filthy humour at every moment cleaveth to his flesh, and is congealed. {4} Every bed whereon he sleepeth shall be unclean, and wheresoever he sitteth. {5} If any man touch his bed, he shall wash his cloths: and himself being washed with water, shall be unclean until even. {6} If he sit where that man had sitten, he also shall wash his cloths: and being washed with water, shall be unclean until even. {7} He that toucheth his flesh, shall wash his cloths: and himself being washed with water shall be unclean until even. {8} If such a man cast his spittle upon him that is clean, he shall wash his cloths: and being washed with water he shall be unclean until even. {9} The pad whereupon he sitteth shall be unclean: {10} and whatsoever hath been under him, that hath the flux of seed, shall be polluted until even. He that carrieth any of these things, shall wash his cloths: and himself being washed with water, shall be unclean until even. {11} Every one, whom he toucheth that is such an one, having not washed his hands before, shall wash his cloths, and being washed with water, shall be unclean until even. {12} The earthen vessel that he toucheth shall be broken: but the wooden vessel shall be washed with water. {13} If he be healed that hath such a disease, he shall number seven days after his cleansing, and having washed his cloths and all his body in living water, he shall be clean. {14} And the eighth day he shall take two turtles, or two young pigeons, and he shall come into the sight of our Lord, to the door of the tabernacle of testimony, & shall give them to the Priest, {15} who shall make one for sin, and the other for an holocaust, & he shall pray for him before our Lord, that he may be cleansed of the flux of his seed. {16} The man from whom issueth the seed of copulation, shall wash with water all his body: and he shall be unclean until even. {17} The garment & skin that he weareth, he shall wash with water, and it shall be unclean until even. {18} The woman with whom he companieth shall be washed with water and shall be unclean until even. {19} The woman that monthly hath the flux of blood, shall be separated seven days. {20} Every one that toucheth her, shall be unclean until even: {21} and that whereon she sleepeth or sitteth in the days of her separation shall be polluted. {22} He that toucheth her bed shall wash his cloths: & himself being washed with water, shall be unclean until even. {23} Whosoever shall touch any vessel whereupon she sitteth, he shall wash his cloths: and himself being washed with water shall be polluted until even. {24} If a man company with her in the time of her menstrual blood, he shall be unclean seven days: and every bed whereon he sleepeth shall be polluted. {25} The woman that hath a flux of blood many days not in her menstrual time, or that ceaseth not to have a flux after the menstrual blood, as long as she is subject to this disease, she shall be unclean, as if she were in her menstrual time. {26} Every bed, whereupon she sleepeth, and vessel whereupon she sitteth, shall be polluted. {27} Whosoever toucheth them shall wash his cloths: and himself being washed with water, shall be unclean until even. {28} If the blood stay and cease to run, she shall count the seven days of her purification: {29} and the eighth day she shall offer for her self to the Priest, two turtles, or two young pigeons, at the door of the tabernacle of testimony: {30} who shall make one for sin, and the other for an holocaust, and he shall pray for her before our Lord, and for the flux of her uncleanness. {31} You shall teach therefore the children of Israel, that they take heed of uncleanness, and die not in their filthiness, when they shall pollute my tabernacle that is among them. {32} This is the law of him that hath the flux of seed and that is polluted by copulation, {33} and the woman that is separated in her menstrual times, or that hath a continual flux of blood, and of the man that sleepeth with her.

When and how the high-Priest must enter into the Sanctuary. 14. How he shall expiate (or reconcile) the same, 16, and the Tabernacle, 18, and the Altar. 20. How he shall offer a live goat, and send him into the wilderness. 29. And all must celebrate the feast of expiation or cleansing from sins.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, after the death of the two sons of Aaron, when they were slain offering strange fire: {2} and he commanded him, saying: Speak to Aaron thy brother, that he enter not at all times into the Sanctuary, that is within the veil before the propitiatory, wherewith the ark is covered, lest he die (for in a cloud will I appear over the oracle) {3} unless he do these things before: He shall offer a calf for sin, and a ram for an holocaust. {4} He shall be revested with a linen tunic, he shall hide his privities with linen femorals: he shall be girded with a linen girdle, a linen mitre shall he put upon his head: for these are holy vestments: with all which, when he is washed, he shall be revested. {5} And he shall receive of the whole multitude of the children of Israel two buck goats for sin, and one ram for an holocaust. {6} And when he hath offered the calf, and prayed for himself, and for his own house, {7} he shall make the two buck goats to stand before the Lord in the door of the tabernacle of testimony: {8} and casting lots upon both, one for the Lord, & an other for the goat of dismission: {9} that, whose lot fell to the Lord, he shall offer for sin: {10} but that, whose lot was to be the goat of dismission, he shall set alive before the Lord that he may pour out prayer upon him, and dismiss him into the wilderness. {11} After that these things be duly celebrated, he shall offer the calf, & praying for himself and for his house, he shall immolate it: {12} and taking the thurible, which he hath filled of the burning coals of the altar, and taking up with his hand of the compounded perfume for incense, he shall go in beyond the veil into the Holy place: {13} that when the incense is put upon the fire, the cloud thereof and the vapour may cover the oracle, which is over the testimony, and he die not. {14} He shall take also of the blood of the calf, and sprinkle with his finger seven times against the propitiatory to the east. {15} And when he hath killed the buck goat for the sin of the people, he shall carry in the blood thereof within the veil, as hath been commanded of the blood of the calf, that he may sprinkle it against the oracle, {16} and expiate the Sanctuary from the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and from their prevarications, and all their sins. According to this rite shall he do to the tabernacle of testimony, which is fixed among them in the midst of the filth of their habitation. {17} Let not man be in the tabernacle when the high-Priest goeth into the Sanctuary, to pray for himself and for his house, & for the whole assembly of Israel, until he come forth. {18} And when he is come forth to the altar that is before the Lord, let him pray for himself, and taking the blood of the calf, and the buck goat, let him pour it upon the horns thereof round about: {19} and sprinkling with his finger seven times, let him expiate, and sanctify it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel. {20} After he hath cleansed the Sanctuary, an the tabernacle, and the altar, then let him offer the live goat: {21} and putting both hands upon his head, let him confess all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their offences and sins: which praying to light on his head, he shall send him forth by a man ready thereto, into the desert. {22} And when the goat hath carried all their iniquities into the solitary round, and shall be let go into the desert, {23} Aaron shall return into the tabernacle of testimony, and putting off the vestments, which he had on him before when he entered into the Sanctuary, and leaving them there, {24} he shall wash his flesh in a holy place, and shall be clothed with his own garments. And after that he hath gone forth & offered his own holocaust, and the peoples, he shall pray as well for himself, as for the people: {25} and the fat, that is offered for sins, he shall burn upon the altar, {26} but he that hath let go the goat of dismission, shall wash his cloths and body with water, and so shall enter into the camp. {27} But the calf & the buck goat, that were immolated for sin, and whose blood was carried into the Sanctuary, to accomplish the expiation, they shall carry forth without the camp, and shall burn with fire as well the skins as their flesh, and the dung: {28} and whosoever burneth them shall wash his cloths and his flesh with water, & so shall enter into the camp. {29} And this shall be to you an everlasting ordinance. The seventh month, the tenth day of the month you shall afflict your souls, and no work shall you do, whether he be of the same country, or a stranger that sojourneth among you. {30} Upon this day shall be the expiation of you, and cleansing from all your sins: before the Lord you shall be cleansed, {31} for it is a sabbath of rest, & you shall afflict your souls by a perpetual religion. {32} And the Priest shall expiate, that is anointed, & whose hands are consecrated to do the function of priesthood for his father: & he shall be revested with the linen stole & the holy vestments, {33} & he shall expiate the Sanctuary & the tabernacle of testimony & the altar, the Priests also & all the people. {34} And this shall be an ordinance for ever, that you pray for the children of Israel, and for all their sins once in a year. He did therefore as our Lord had commanded Moyses.

All Sacrifices must be offered at the door of the Tabernacle. 7. with special prohibition of Idolatry. 10. None must eat blood. 15. Whosoever eateth carrion flesh is contaminated, and must be washed.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} the children of Israel, saying to them: This Speak to Aaron and his sons, and to all is the word which our Lord hath commanded, saying: {3} Any man whosoever of the house of Israel, if he kill an ox or a sheep, or a goat in the camp or without the camp, {4} and offer it not at the door of the tabernacle and oblation to the Lord, shall be guilty of blood: as if he had shed blood, so shall he perish out of the midst of his people. {5} Therefore shall the children of Israel bring to the Priest their hosts, which they kill in the field, that they may be sanctified to our Lord before the door of the tabernacle of testimony, & they may immolate them pacific hosts to our Lord. {6} And the Priest shall pour the blood upon the altar of our Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of testimony, and shall burn the fat for a sweet odour to our Lord: {7} and they shall no more immolate their hosts to devils, with whom they have committed fornication. It shall be an ordinance for ever to them and to their posterity. {8} And to them thou shalt say: The man of the house of Israel, and the strangers, which sojourn with you, that offereth an holocaust or victim, {9} and bringeth it not to the door of the tabernacle of testimony, that it may be offered to our Lord, shall perish out of his people. {10} Any man whosoever of the house of Israel, and of the strangers that sojourn among them, if he eat blood, I will set my face against his life, and will destroy it out of his people. {11} because the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you, that upon the altar you may make expiation with it for your souls, and the blood may be for an expiation of the soul. {12} Therefore have I said to the children of Israel: No soul of you shall eat blood, nor of the strangers, that sojourn with you. {13} Any man whosoever of the children of Israel, and of the strangers that sojourn with you, if by hunting or fowling he take wild beast or fowl, which it is lawful to eat, let him pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with earth. {14} For the life of all flesh is in the blood: whereupon I said to the children of Israel: The blood of no flesh shall you eat, because the life of the flesh is in the blood: and whosoever eateth it shall die. {15} The soul that eateth carrion, or that which is taken of a beast, as well of them of the same country as of strangers, shall wash his cloths, and himself with water, and shall be contaminated until even: and in this order he shall be made clean. {16} And if he do not wash his cloths, and his body, he shall bear his iniquity.

Marriage prohibited in certain degrees of consanguinity and affinity. 18. And diverse carnal and execrable sins committed in other nations, are strictly forbidden.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} thou shalt say to them: I Speak to the children of Israel, and , the Lord your God, {3} according to the custom of the Land of Aegypt, wherein you have dwelt, you shall not do: and according to the manner of the Country of Chanaan, into the which I will bring you, you shall not do, nor walk in their ordinances. {4} You shall do my judgments, and shall observe my precepts, and shall walk in them. I, the Lord your God. {5} Keep my laws and judgments, which a man doing, shall live in them. I, the Lord. {6} No man shall approach to her that is next of his blood, to reveal her turpitude. I, the Lord. {7} The turpitude of thy father, and the turpitude of thy mother thou shalt not discover: she is thy mother, thou shalt not reveal her turpitude. {8} The turpitude of thy father's wife thou shalt not discover: for it is the turpitude of thy father: {9} The turpitude of thy sister by father, or by mother, which was born at home or abroad, thou shalt not reveal. {10} The turpitude of thy son's daughter or of thy niece by the daughter, thou shalt not reveal: because it is thy turpitude. {11} The turpitude of thy father's wife's daughter, which she bare to thy father, and is thy sister, thou shalt not reveal. {12} The turpitude of thy father's sister thou shalt not discover: because she is the flesh of thy father. {13} The turpitude of thy mother's sister thou shalt not reveal, because she is of the flesh of thy mother. {14} The turpitude of thy father's brother thou shalt not reveal, neither shall thou approach to his wife, who is joined to thee by affinity. {15} The turpitude of thy daughter in law thou shalt not reveal, because she is thy son's wife, neither shalt thou discover her ignominy. {16} The turpitude of thy brother's wife thou shalt not reveal: because it is the turpitude of thy brother. {17} The turpitude of thy wife, and her daughter thou shalt not reveal. Her son's daughter, and her daughter's daughter, thou shalt not take, to reveal her ignominy: because they are her flesh, and such copulation is incest. {18} Thou shalt not take thy wife's sister for an harlot, to vex her withal, neither shalt thou reveal her turpitude, while she is yet living. {19} To a woman, having her flowers, thou shalt not approach, neither shalt thou reveal her turpitude. {20} With thy neighbour's wife thou shalt not company, nor be polluted with commixtion of seed. {21} Of thy seed thou shalt not give to be consecrated to the idol Moloch, nor pollute the name of thy God: I, the Lord. {22} Company not with mankind, as with womankind, because it is abomination. {23} With no beast shalt thou company, neither shalt thou be polluted with it. A woman shall not lie down to a beast, nor company with it: because it is an heinous fact. {24} Neither be ye polluted in any of the things wherewith all the nations have been contaminated, which I will cast out before your sight, {25} and wherewith the land is polluted: whose abominations I will visit, that it vomit out the inhabitants thereof. {26} Keep my ordinances and judgments, and do not any of these abominations, as well the same countryman as the stranger that sojourneth with you. {27} For all these execrable things did the inhabitants of the land, that have been before you, and have polluted it. {28} Beware therefore lest in like manner it vomit out you also, when you shall do the like things, as it vomited out the nation that was before you. {29} Every soul, that shall do any of these abominations, shall perish from the midst of his people, {30} Keep my commandments. Do not the things which they have done, that have been before you, and be not polluted in them: I, the Lord your God.

Divers Moral, Ceremonial, and Judicial precepts are briefly recited.

{1} OUR Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} children of Israel, and thou shalt say to Speak to all the assembly of the them: Be ye holy, because I, the Lord your God am holy. {3} Let every one fear his father, and mother. Keep my Sabbaths. I, the Lord your God. {4} Turn not your selves to idols, neither make you to your selves molten gods. I, the Lord your God. {5} If ye immolate an host of pacifics to the Lord, that it may be placable, {6} that day wherein it is immolated, shall you eat it, and the next day: and whatsoever shall be left until the third day, you shall burn with fire. {7} If after two days any man eat thereof, he shall be profane, and guilty of impiety: {8} and shall bear his iniquity, because he hath polluted the holy of the Lord, and that soul shall perish out of his people. {9} And when thou reapest the corn of thy land, thou shalt not shear the face of the earth to the very ground: neither shalt thou gather the ears that remain. {10} Neither in thy vineyard shalt thou gather the clusters and grapes that fall down, but shall leave them to the poor, and the strangers to take. I, the Lord your God. {11} You shall not commit theft. You shall not lie, neither shall any man deceive his neighbour. {12} Thou shalt not forswear thy self in my name, nor pollute the name of thy God. I, the Lord. {13} Thou shalt not calumniate thy neighbour, nor oppress him by violence. The work of thy hireling shall not abide with thee until morning. {14} Thou shalt not speak evil of the deaf man, nor put a stumbling block before the blind: but thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, because I am the Lord. {15} Thou shalt not do that which is unjust, nor judge unjustly. Consider not the person of a poor man, neither honour thou the countenance of him that is mighty. Judge justly to thy neighbour. {16} Thou shalt not be a criminatour, nor a whisperer among the people. Thou shalt not stand against the blood of thy neighbour. I, the Lord. {17} Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart, but control him openly, lest thou incur sin through him. {18} Seek not revenge, nor be mindful of the injury of thy citizens. Thou shalt love thy friend as thy self. I, the Lord. {19} Keep ye my laws. Thou shalt not make thy cattle to gender with the beasts of an other kind. Thy field thou shalt not sow with diverse seed. A garment that is woven of two sorts, thou shalt not put on. {20} If a man lie with a woman by carnal copulation, that is a bondwoman also marriable, & yet not redeemed with a price, nor made free, both shall be beaten, and they shall not die, because she was not free. {21} And for his offence he shall offer to the Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of testimony a ram: {22} and the Priest shall pray for him, and for his sin before the Lord, and he shall become propitious to him again, and the sin shall be forgiven. {23} When you shall be entered into the land, and have planted in it fruit trees, you shall take away the prepuces of them: the fruits that come forth shall be unclean to you, neither shall you eat of them. {24} But in the fourth year, all their fruit shall be sanctified, laudable to the Lord. {25} And the fifth year you shall eat the fruits, gathering the offspring that they bring forth. I , the Lord your God. {26} You shall not eat with blood. You shall not divine, nor observe dreams. {27} Neither shall you cut your hair roundwise: nor shave your beard. {28} And for the dead you shall not cut your flesh, neither shall you make in your selves any figures or marks. I, the Lord. {29} Make not thy daughter a common strumpet, lest the land be contaminated and filled with wickedness. {30} Keep ye my Sabbaths, & fear my Sanctuary. I, the Lord. {31} Decline not to magicians, neither ask any thing of soothsayers, to be polluted by them. I, the Lord your God. {32} Before the hoar head rise up, and honour the person of an old man: and fear the Lord thy God. I am the Lord. {33} If a stranger dwell in your land, and abide among you, do not upbraid him: {34} but let him be among you as the same country man: and you shall love him as your selves: for you also have been strangers in the Land of Aegypt. I, the Lord your God. {35} Do not any unjust thing in judgment, in rule, in weight, or measure. {36} Let the balance be just, and the weights equal, the bushel just, and the sextary equal. I, the Lord your God, that brought you out of the Land of Aegypt. {37} Keep all my precepts, and all my judgements, and do them. I, the Lord.

Whosoever giveth of his seed to Moloch must be stoned to death. 6. All that decline to Magic, 9. curse their parents, 10. commit adultery, certain incest, or bestiality, shall die. 19. Other incest is deprived of children. 22. The Israelites also shall be cast out of the Land, if they commit such sins.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} children of Israel: If any man of the These things thou shalt speak to the children of Israel, & of the strangers, that dwell in Israel, give of his seed to the idol Moloch, dying let him die: the people of the land shall stone him. {3} And I will set my face against him: and will cut him off from the midst of his people, because he hath given of his seed to Moloch, and hath contaminated my Sanctuary, and polluted my holy name. {4} And if the people of the land neglecting, and as it were little esteeming my commandment, let alone the man that hath given of his seed to Moloch, and will not kill him: {5} I will set my face upon that man, & his kindred, and will cut off both him, and all that consented with him, to commit fornication with Moloch, out of the midst of their people. {6} The soul that shall decline to Magicians and soothsayers, and shall commit fornication with them, I will set my face against it, and destroy it out of the midst of his people. {7} Sanctify your selves, and be holy, because I am the Lord your God. {8} Keep my precepts, & do them. I, the Lord that sanctify you. {9} He that curseth his father, or mother, dying let him die: he hath cursed father, and mother, his blood be upon him. {10} If any man commit adultery with an other man's wife, and commit adultery with his neighbour's wife, dying let them die, both the adulterer and the adulteress. {11} He that lieth with his stepmother, and revealeth the ignominy of his father, dying let both die: their blood be upon them. {12} If any man lie with his daughter in law, let both die, because they have done an heinous fact: their blood be upon them. {13} He that lieth with man as if he should company with woman, both have committed abomination, dying let them die: their blood be upon them. {14} He that besides his wife the daughter, marrieth her mother, hath done wickedness: he shall burn alive with them, neither shall there so great abomination remain in the midst of you. {15} He that shall company with beast & cattle, dying let him die: the beast also do ye kill. {16} The woman that shall lie under any beast, shall be killed together with the same: their blood be upon them. {17} He that taketh his sister the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother, & seeth her turpitude, & she beholdeth her brother's ignominy, they have committed a shameful thing: they shall be slain in the sight of their people, because they have revealed one another's turpitude, & they shall bear their iniquity. {18} He that companieth with a woman in her menstrual flux, & revealeth her turpitude, & she openeth the fountain of her blood, both shall be destroyed out of the midst of their people. {19} The turpitude of thy aunt by thy mother, and of thy aunt by thy father, thou shalt not discover: he that doth this, hath disclosed the ignominy of his flesh, both shall bear their iniquity. {20} He that companieth with the wife of his uncle by the father, or of his uncle by the mother, & revealeth the ignominy of his kindred, both shall bear their sin: without children they shall die. {21} He that marrieth his brother's wife, doth an unlawful thing, he hath revealed his brother's turpitude: they shall be without children. {22} Keep my laws, and judgements, and do them: lest the land which you shall enter into and inhabit, vomit out you also. {23} Walk not in the ordinances of the nations, which I will expel before you. For all these things have they done, and I have abhorred them. {24} But to you I speak: Possess their land, which I will give you for an inheritance, a land flowing with milk and honey. I, the Lord your God, that have separated you from other peoples. {25} Therefore do you also separate the clean beast, from the unclean, and the clean fowl from the unclean: pollute not your souls in beasts, and birds, and all things that move on the earth, and which I have shewed unto you to be polluted. {26} You shall be holy unto me, because I, the Lord am holy, and I have separated you from other peoples, that you should be mine. {27} Man, or woman, in whom is a pythonical or divining spirit, dying let them die: they shall stone them: their blood be upon them.

At what funerals Priests may not be present. 7. What women they may not marry. 9. A Priest's daughter committing fornication must be burned. 10. The high-Priest shall not uncover his head, nor rent his garment, nor be present at any funeral, nor at all go forth of the holy place. 13. When he marrieth he must take a virgin. 16. None that hath a blemish in his body (though he be of Aaron's stock) shall minister in the Sanctuary, nor approach to the Altar.

{1} OUR Lord said also to Moyses: Speak to the Priests the sons of Aaron, and thou shalt say to them: Let not a priest be contaminated in the deaths of his citizens, {2} but only in his kin, and nigh of blood, that is to say, upon his father and mother, and son, and daughter, brother also, {3} and sister, being a virgin which hath not been married to a husband: {4} but neither in the Prince of his people shall he be contaminated. {5} Neither shall they shave their head nor beard, nor make incisions in their flesh. {6} They shall be holy to their God, and shall not pollute his name: for the burnt sacrifice of the Lord, and breads of their God do they offer, and therefore they shall be holy. {7} A whore and a vile strumpet he shall not take to wife, nor her, that is put away from her husband: because they are consecrated to their God, {8} and offer the breads of proposition. Be they holy therefore, because I also am holy, the Lord, that sanctify them. {9} The daughter of a Priest, if she be taken in whoredom, & dishonour the name of her father, shall be burnt with fire. {10} The Grand Bishop, that is to say the Priest that is greatest among his brethren, upon whose head hath been poured the oil of unction, and whose hands were consecrated in priesthood, and who was revested with the holy vestments, shall not uncover his head, he shall not rent his garments: {11} and to no dead person shall he enter in at all. Upon his father also, and mother shall he not be contaminated. {12} Neither shall he go forth out of the holy places, lest he pollute the Sanctuary of the Lord, because the oil of the holy unction of his God is upon him. I, the Lord. {13} He shall take a virgin unto his wife: {14} but a widow and her that is put away, and a filth, and a whore he shall not take, but a maid of his own people: {15} that he mingle not the stock of his kindred with the common people of his nation: because I am the Lord that sanctify him. {16} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {17} Speak to Aaron: the man of thy seed throughout their families, that hath a blemish, shall not offer breads to his God, {18} neither shall he approach to his ministry: If he be blind, if lame, if he have a little, or a great, or a crooked nose, {19} if his foot be broken, if his hand, {20} if he be crook backed, or blear-eyed, or have a pearl in his eye, or a continual scab, or dry scurf in his body, or be burnt. {21} Every one that hath a blemish of the seed of Aaron the Priest, shall not approach to offer the hosts to the Lord, nor the breads to his God. {22} He shall eat notwithstanding of the breads that are offered in the Sanctuary, {23} yet so that he enter not within the veil, or approach the altar, because he hath a blemish, and he must not contaminate my Sanctuary. I, the Lord that sanctify them. {24} Moyses therefore spake to Aaron, and to his sons, and to all Israel, all things that had been commanded him.

Who may eat of sanctified things. 17. And what things may be offered.

{1} OUR Lord also spake to Moyses, saying: {2} they beware of those that are the speak to Aaron and to his sons, that consecrated things of the children of Israel, and contaminate not the name of the things sanctified to me, which they offer. I, the Lord. {3} Say to them, and to their posterity: Every man of your stock, that approacheth to those things that are consecrated, & which the children of Israel have offered to the Lord, in whom there is uncleanness, shall perish before the Lord. I am the Lord. {4} The man of the seed of Aaron that is a leper, or hath a flux of seed shall not eat of those things that are sanctified to me until he be healed. He that toucheth a thing unclean by occasion of that is dead, and he from whom issueth seed as it were of copulation, {5} and he that toucheth a creeping beast, and whatsoever unclean thing the touching whereof is filthy, {6} shall be unclean until even, and shall not eat those things that are sanctified: but when he hath washed his flesh with water, {7} and the sun is down, then being cleansed he shall eat of the sanctified things, because it is his meat. {8} Carrion and that which was taken of a beast, they shall not eat, nor be polluted in them. I am the Lord. {9} Let them keep my precepts, that they be not subject to sin, and die in the Sanctuary, when they shall have polluted it. I, the Lord that sanctify them. {10} No stranger shall eat of the sanctified things, the Priest's guest and hireling shall not eat of them. {11} But whom the Priest hath bought, and he that is his servant born in his house, these shall eat of them. {12} If the daughter of a Priest be married to any of the people: of those things that are sanctified, and of the first fruits she shall not eat. {13} But if she be a widow, or put away, and without children return to her father's house: as she was wont being a maid, she shall be fed with her father's meats. No stranger hath power to eat of them. {14} He that eateth of the sanctified things by ignorance, shall add the fifth part with that which he did eat, and shall give it to the Priest into the Sanctuary. {15} Neither shall they contaminate the sanctified things of the children of Israel, which they offer to the Lord: {16} lest perhaps they sustain the iniquity of their offence, when they shall have eaten the sanctified things. I, the Lord that sanctify them. {17} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {18} Speak to Aaron, and to his sons, and to all the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: The man of the house of Israel, and of the strangers which dwell with you, that offereth his oblation, either paying his vows, or offering of his own accord, whatsoever that be which he presenteth for an holocaust of the Lord, {19} to be offered by you, it shall be a male without spot, of beefs, & muttons, & of goats. {20} If it have a blemish, you shall not offer it, neither shall it be acceptable. {21} The man that offereth a victim of pacifics to the Lord, either paying his vows, or offering of his own accord, as well of beefs as of muttons, shall offer it without blemish, that it may be acceptable: there shall be no blemish in it. {22} If it be blind, if it be broken, if it have a scar, if blisters, or a scab, or a dry scurf: you shall not offer them to the Lord, nor burn of them upon the Lord's altar. {23} An ox and a sheep, having the ear and the tail cut off, thou mayst offer voluntarily, but a vow can not be paid of them. {24} No beast that hath the stones bruised, or crushed, or cut and taken away, shall you offer to the Lord, & in your land make not this at all. {25} Of the hand of a stranger you shall not offer breads to your God, and what other thing soever he would give: because they are all corrupted & blemished: you shall not receive them. {26} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {27} An ox, a sheep, and a goat, when they are brought forth, shall be seven days under the udder of their dam: but the eighth day and so forward they may be offered to the Lord. {28} Whether it be a beef, or a sheep, they shall not be immolated in one day with their young ones. {29} If you immolate an host for thanks-giving to the Lord, that he may be placable, {30} the same day you shall eat it, there shall not ought remain until the morning of the next day. I, the Lord. {31} Keep my commandments, & do them. I, the Lord. {32} Pollute not my holy name that I may be sanctified in the midst of the children of Israel. I, the Lord that sanctify you, {33} and brought you out of the Land of Aegypt, that I might be your God. I, the Lord.

The solemnities of the Sabbath, 5. of Pasch and first fruits, 15. of Pentecost, 23. of Trumpets, 26. of Expiations, 33. of Tabernacles; and with what rites the same shall be celebrated.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses saying: {2} thou shalt say to them: These are the Speak to the children of Israel, and festivities of our Lord, which you shall call holy. {3} Six days ye shall do work: the seventh day, because it is the rest of the sabbath, shall be called holy. No work shall you do in it: it is the Sabbath of the Lord in all your habitations. {4} These therefore are the holy festivities of the Lord, which you must celebrate in their times. {5} The first month, the fourteenth day of the month at even, is the Phase of the Lord: {6} and the fifteenth day of this month is the solemnity of the Azymes of the Lord. Seven days shall you eat azymes. {7} The first day shall be most solemn unto you, & holy: no servile work shall you do in it: {8} but you shall offer sacrifice in fire to the Lord seven days, but the seventh day shall be more solemn, & more holy: and you shall do no servile work in it. {9} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {10} Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: When you shall be entered into the land, which I will give you, and shall reap your corn, you shall bring sheaves of ears, the first fruits of your harvest to the Priest: {11} who shall elevate the bundle before the Lord, the next day after the Sabbath, that it may be acceptable for you, and shall sanctify it. {12} And in the self-same day that the sheaf is consecrated, shall be killed a lamb without spot of a year old for an holocaust of the Lord. {13} And the libaments shall be offered with it, two tenths of flour tempered with oil, for a burnt sacrifice of the Lord, and a most sweet odour: libaments also of wine, the fourth part of an hin. {14} Bread, and fried barley, & frumenty, you shall not eat of the corn, until the day that you offer thereof to your God. It is a precept for ever in your generations, and all your habitations. {15} You shall number therefore from the morrow after the Sabbath, wherein you did offer the sheaf of the first fruits, seven full weeks, {16} unto the morrow after the seventh week be expired, that is to say fifty days, and so you shall offer a new sacrifice to the Lord, {17} out of all your habitations, two loaves of first fruits, of two tenths of flour leavened, the which you shall bake for the first fruits of the Lord. {18} And you shall offer with the breads seven lambs without spot of a year old, and one calf from the herd, & two rams, and they shall be for an holocaust with their libaments, for a most sweet odour to the Lord. {19} You shall make a buck goat also for sin, and two lambs of a year old for hosts of pacifics. {20} And when the Priest hath elevated them with the breads of the first fruits before the Lord, they shall turn to his use. {21} And you shall call this day most solemn, and most holy: no servile work shall you do in it. It shall be an everlasting ordinance in all your habitations, and generations. {22} And after you reap the corn of your land, you shall not cut it to the very ground: neither shall you gather the ears that remain, but you shall let them alone for the poor & for strangers. I am the Lord your God. {23} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {24} Speak to the children of Israel: The seventh month on the first day of the month, shall be a Sabbath, a memorial, by sounding of trumpets, and shall be called holy: {25} no servile work shall you do in it, and you shall offer holocaust to the Lord. {26} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {27} upon the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the day of expiations most solemn, and it shall be called holy: and you shall afflict your souls in it, and shall offer holocaust to the Lord. {28} No servile work shall you do the time of this day: because it is a day of propitiation, that the Lord your God may become propitious unto you. {29} Every soul, that is not afflicted this day, shall perish out of his people: {30} and which shall do any work, the same will I destroy out of his people. {31} No work therefore shall you do in it: it shall be an everlasting ordinance unto you in all your generations, and habitations. {32} It is a Sabbath of resting, and you shall afflict your souls the ninth day of the month: from even until even you shall celebrate your sabbaths. {33} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {34} Speak to the children of Israel: From the fifteenth day of this seventh month, shall be the festivity of tabernacles seven days to the Lord. {35} The first day shall be called most solemn and most holy: no servile work shall you do in it. And seven days you shall offer holocausts to the Lord. {36} The eight day also shall be most solemn and most holy, and you shall offer holocausts to the Lord: for it is of assembly and collection: no servile work shall you do in it. {37} These are the festivities of the Lord, which you shall call most solemn and most holy, and shall offer in them oblations to the Lord, holocausts and libaments according to the rite of every day: {38} beside the sabbaths of the Lord, and your gifts and those that you shall offer by vow, or which you shall give to the Lord voluntarily. {39} Therefore from the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you shall have gathered all the fruits of your land, you shall celebrate the festivity of the Lord seven days, on the first day and the eighth shall be a sabbath, that is rest. {40} And you shall take to you the first day the fruits of a most fair tree, and the branches of palms, and boughs of the tree with thick leaves, and willows of the brook, and you shall rejoice before the Lord your God. {41} And you shall celebrate the solemnity thereof seven days in the year. It shall be an everlasting ordinance in your generations. The seventh month shall you celebrate the festivity, {42} and shall dwell in bowers seven days, every one that is of the stock of Israel shall abide in tabernacles: {43} that your posterity may learn that I made the children of Israel to dwell in tabernacles, when I brought them out of the Land of Aegypt. I, the Lord your God. {44} And Moyses spake concerning the solemnities of our Lord to the children of Israel.

Provision of oil for lamps in the Tabernacle. 5. The making, and disposing of loaves of proposition. 10. The punishment of blasphemy, and manslaughter. 18. And the pain of equal revenge.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} they bring unto thee oil of olives most Command the children of Israel, that pure, and clear, to furnish the lamps continually, {3} without the veil of the testimony in the tabernacle of covenant. And Aaron shall set them from even until morning before the Lord, by a perpetual service and rite in your generations. {4} Upon the candle stick most clean shall they be put always in the sight of the Lord. {5} Thou shalt take also flour, & shall bake thereof twelve breads, {126} which shall have every one two tenths: {6} which thou shalt set six one against an other upon the most clean table before the Lord, {7} and thou shalt put upon them the clearest frankincense, that the bread may be for a monument of the oblation of the Lord. {8} Every sabbath they shall be changed before the Lord, received of the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant: {9} and they shall be Aaron's and his sons', that they may eat them in a holy place: because it is most Holy of the sacrifices of the Lord by a perpetual right. {10} And behold there went forth the son of a woman of Israel, whom she had born of an Aegyptian among the children of Israel, and fell at words in the camp with a man of Israel. {11} And when he had blasphemed the name, and had cursed it, he was brought to Moyses: (And his mother was called Salumith, the daughter of Dabri of the tribe of Dan.) {12} And they did cast him into prison, till they might know what our Lord would command. {13} Who spake to Moyses, {14} saying: Bring forth the blasphemer without the camp, and let all that heard him put their hands upon his head, and let all the people stone him. {15} And to the children of Israel thou shalt speak: The man that curseth his God shall bear his sin: {16} and he that blasphemeth the name of the Lord, dying let him die: all the multitude of the people shall stone him, whether he be a natural, or stranger. He that blasphemeth the name of the Lord, dying let him die. {17} He that striketh, and killeth a man, dying let him die. {18} He that striketh a beast, shall render one for it, that is to say, soul for soul. {19} He that giveth any of his neighbours' blemish, as he did, so shall it be done to him: {20} fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth he shall restore. What blemish he gave, the like shall he be compelled to sustain. {21} He that striketh a beast, shall render an other. He that striketh a man, shall be punished. {22} Let there be equal judgment among you, whether a stranger, or a natural sin: because I am the Lord your God. {23} And Moyses spake to the children of Israel: and they brought him forth that had blasphemed, without the camp, and they stoned him. And the children of Israel did as our Lord had commanded Moyses.

The law of the seventh year, 8. and fiftieth year, which is the Jubilee, 13. when all inheritance sold returneth to the former owner (24. as also it may in the mean time be redeemed,) 35. Usury prohibited, 39. and servitude among the Israelites, only they may be hired till the Jubilee year, 47. and may be redeemed from servitude of strangers: 54. at least they shall be free in the year of Jubilee.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses in the mount Sinai, saying: Israel, and thou shalt say to them: When {2} Speak to the children of you shall be entered to the land which I will give you, thou shalt sabbatize the sabbath to the Lord. {3} Six years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt cut thy vineyard, and shalt gather the fruits thereof: {4} but in the seventh year a sabbath shall be to the earth, of the resting of the Lord: the field thou shalt not sow, and the vineyard thou shalt not cut. {5} The things that the ground shall bring forth of it-self, thou shalt not reap: & the grapes of thy first fruits thou shalt not gather as a vintage: for it is a year of the resting of the earth: {6} but they shall be unto you for meat, to thee & thy man-servant, to thy woman-servant and hireling, and to the stranger that sojourneth with thee: {7} to thy beasts & cattle all things that grow shall give meat. {8} Thou shalt number thee also seven weeks of years, that is to say, seven times seven, which together make forty-nine, years: {9} & thou shalt sound with the trumpet the seventh month, the tenth day of the month, in the time of propitiation in all your land. {10} Thou shalt sanctify the fiftieth year, and shalt proclaim remission to all the inhabitants of thy land: for it is the year of Jubilee. Every man shall return to his possession, & every one shall go back to his old family: {11} because it is the Jubilee & the fiftieth year. You shall not sow nor reap the things that grow in the field of their own accord, & the first fruits of vintage you shall not gather, {12} because of the sanctification of the Jubilee, but forthwith as they grow you shall eat them. {13} In the year of Jubilee all shall return to their possessions. {14} When thou shalt sell any thing to thy neighbour, or shalt buy of him, press not thy brother, but according to the number of the years of Jubilee thou shalt buy of him, {15} and according to the supputation of the fruits he shall sell to thee. {16} The more years remain after the Jubilee, so much more shall the price increase: and the less time that thou shalt account, so much the less shall the purchase be valued, for the time of the fruits he shall sell to thee. {17} Do not afflict your countrymen, but let every one fear his God, because I, the Lord your God. {18} Do my precepts, and keep my judgments, and fulfill them: that you may dwell in the land without any fear, {19} and the ground may yield you her fruits, which you may eat unto your fill, fearing no man's invasion. {20} But if you say: What shall we eat the seventh year, if we sow not, nor gather our fruits? {21} I will give you my benediction the sixth year, and it shall yield the fruits of three years: {22} and the eighth year you shall sow, and shall eat of the old fruits, until the ninth year: till new be grown; you shall eat the old. {23} The land also shall not be sold for ever: because it is mine, and you are my strangers & sojourners. {24} For the which cause all the country of your possession shall be sold under the condition of redemption. {25} If thy brother impoverished sell his little possession, & his kinsman will, he may redeem that which he had sold. {26} But if he have no kinsman, and himself can find the price to redeem it: {27} the fruits shall be accounted from that time when he sold it, and the residue he shall restore to the buyer, and so he shall receive his possession again. {28} but if his hand find not to repay the price, the buyer shall have that he bought, until the year of Jubilee. For in it all sale shall return to the owner, & to the old possessor. {29} He that selleth a house within the walls of a city, shall have licence to redeem it, until one year be expired. {30} If he redeem it not, and the compass of the year be fully out, the buyer shall possess it, & his posterity for ever, & it can not be redeemed, no not in the Jubilee. {31} But if the house be in a village that hath not walls, it shall be sold according to the law of fields, if it be not redeemed before, in the Jubilee it shall return to the owner. {32} The houses of Levites, which are in cities, may always be redeemed: {33} if they be not redeemed, in the Jubilee they shall return to the owners, because the houses of the cities of the Levites are for possessions among the children of Israel. {34} But let not their suburbs be sold, because it is a perpetual possession. {35} If thy brother be impoverished, and weak of hand, & thou receive him as a stranger and sojourner and he live with thee, {36} take not usuries of him, nor more than thou gavest: fear thy God, that thy brother may live with thee. {37} Thou shalt not give him thy money to usury, and an overplus of the fruits thou shalt not exact of him. {38} I, the Lord your God, that brought you out of the Land of Aegypt, that I might give you the Land of Chanaan, & might be your God. {39} If thy brother constrained by poverty sell himself to thee, thou shalt not oppress him with the servitude of servants, {40} but he shall be as an hireling and a sojourner, until the year of Jubilee he shall work with thee, {41} and afterward he shall go out with his children, & shall return to his kindred & to the possession of his fathers, {42} for they are my servants, & I brought them out of the Land of Aegypt, let them not be sold by the condition of servants: {43} afflict him not by might, but fear thy God. {44} Let you manservant, & woman servant, be of the nations that are round about you. {45} And of the strangers, that sojourn with you, or that were born of them in your land, these you shall have for servants: {46} and by right of inheritance shall leave them to your posterity, & shall possess them for ever, but your brethren the children of Israel do ye not oppress by might. {47} If the hand of a stranger or sojourner grow strong among you, and thy brother impoverished sell himself to him, or to any of his stock: {48} after the sale he may be redeemed. He that will of his brethren shall redeem him, {49} both the uncle by father, and the uncle's son, and the kinsman, and the allied. But and if himself be able also, he shall redeem himself, {50} accounting only the years from the time of his selling unto the year of Jubilee: and accounting the money, that he was sold for, according to the number of the years and the reckoning of an hireling. {51} If they be more years that remain until the Jubilee, according to these also shall he repay the price. {52} If few he shall make the reckoning with him according to the number of the years, and shall repay to the buyer for that which remaineth of the years, {53} his wages being allowed for the which he served before: he shall not afflict him violently in thy sight. {54} And if by these means he can not be redeemed, in the year of Jubilee he shall go out with his children. {55} For the children of Israel are my servants, whom I brought forth out of the Land of Aegypt.

With new prohibition of Idolatry, and commandment to keep the Sabbath 3. rewards are promised to all that observe God's precepts. 14. And many miserable punishments are threatened to all transgressors.

{1} I, to your selves an idol and thing graven, neither shall you erect titles, nor set a , The Lord your God: you shall not make notorious stone in your land, for to adore it, for I am the Lord your God. {2} Keep my sabbaths, and dread my Sanctuary. I, the Lord. {3} If you walk in my precepts, and keep my commandments, and do them, I will give you rain in their seasons, {4} and the earth shall bring forth her spring, and the trees shall be replenished with fruits. {5} The threshing of your harvest shall reach unto vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto sowing time: and you shall eat your bread to your fill, and without fear shall you dwell in your land. {6} I will give peace in your coasts: you shall sleep, and there shall be none to make you afraid. I will take away evil beasts: and the sword shall not pass through your quarters. {7} You shall pursue your enemies, and they shall fall before you. {8} Five of your shall pursue and hundred strangers, and an hundred of you ten thousand: your enemies shall fall by the sword in your sight. {9} I will respect you, and make you increase: you shall be multiplied, & I will establish my covenant with you. {10} You shall eat the eldest of the old store, & new coming upon it you shall cast forth the old. {11} I will set my tabernacle in the midst of you, and my soul shall not cast you off. {12} I will walk among you, & will be your God, & you shall be my people. {13} I, the Lord your God, that have brought you out of the Land of the Aegyptians, that you should not serve them, and that have broken the chains of your necks, that you might go upright. {14} But if you will not hear me, nor do all my commandments, {15} if you despise my laws, and contemn my judgments that you do not those things which are appointed by me, and bring my covenant to nothing worth, {16} I also will do these things to you: I shall quickly visit you with poverty, and burning heat, which shall waste your eyes, & consume your lives, you shall sow your seed in vain, which shall be devoured of the enemies. {17} I will set my face against you, and you shall fall down before your enemies, and shall be made subject to them that hate you. You shall fly, when no man pursueth you. {18} But if you will not obey me so neither, I will increase your chastisements seven-fold for your sins, {19} and will break the pride of your stubbornness. And I will make to you the heaven from above as iron, and the earth as brass. {20} Your labour shall be spent in vain, the earth shall not bring forth her spring, nor the trees yield their fruits. {21} If you walk contrary to me, & will not hear me, I will increase your plagues until seven-fold for your sins: {22} & I will send in upon you the beasts of the field, which may consume you, & your cattle, and may bring all things to a small number, and that your ways may be made desert. {23} And if you will neither so receive discipline, but walk rather contrary to me: {24} I also will go opposite against you, and will strike you seven times for your sins, {25} and I will bring in upon you the sword a revenger of my covenant. And when you shall fly into the cities, I will send the pestilence in the midst of you, and you shall be delivered in the hands of the enemies, {26} after I shall have broken the staff of your bread: so that ten women shall bake your breads in one oven, and shall render them by weight: and you shall eat, and shall not be filled. {27} But if you will neither by these means hear me, but walk against me, {28} I also will go against you in contrary fury, and will chastise you with seven plagues for your sins, {29} so that you shall eat the flesh of your sons & of your daughters. {30} I will destroy your excuses, & break your idols. You shall fall among the ruins of your idols, & my soul shall abhor you, {31} in so much that I will bring your cities into a wilderness, and I will make your Sanctuaries desert, neither will I receive any more the most sweet odour. {32} And I will destroy your land. And your enemies shall be astonished upon it, when they shall be inhabitants thereof. {33} And you I will disperse into the Gentiles, and will draw out the sword after you, and your land shall be desert, and you cities destroyed. {34} Then shall the land take pleasure in her sabbaths all the days of her desolation: when you shall be {35} in the enemy's land, she shall sabbatize, and rest in the sabbaths of her desolation, because she did not rest in your sabbaths when you dwelt in it. {36} And they that shall remain of you, I will put fear in their hearts in the countries of their enemies, the sound of a flying leaf shall terrify them, and they shall fly at it were a sword: they shall fall when no man pursueth, {37} and they shall every one fall upon their brethren, as flying from wars, none of you shall be so hardy as to resist your enemies. {38} You shall perish among the Gentiles, and the enemy's land shall consume you. {39} And if of them also some remain, they shall pine away in their iniquities in the land of their enemies, and for the sins of their fathers and their own they shall be afflicted: {40} until they confess their own & their ancestor's iniquities, whereby they have prevaricated against me, and walked contrary unto me. {41} I also therefore will walk against them, & bring them into their enemy's land, until their uncircumcised mind be ashamed: then shall they pray for their impieties. {42} And I will remember my covenant, that I made with Jacob, and Isaac, and Abraham. Of the land also I will be mindful: {43} which when it shall be left of them, shall take pleasure in her sabbaths, being desolate for them. But they shall pray for their sins, for that they rejected my judgments, and despised my laws. {44} Howbeit even when they were in the land of their enemies I did not cast them off altogether, neither did I so despise them, that they should be consumed, and I should make my covenant with them frustrate. For I am the Lord their God, {45} and I will remember mine old covenant, when I brought them out of the Land of Aegypt, in the sight of the Gentiles, for to be their God. I, the Lord. These are the judgments, and precepts, and laws, which our Lord gave between himself and the children of Israel in Mount Sinai by the hand of Moyses.

How some vows of diverse persons may be redeemed, but some may not be changed. 28. All, one way or other, must be discharged. 30. Tithes also must be payed, either the same that are due or more.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} thou shalt say to them: The man that shall Speak to the children of Israel, and have made a vow, and bound his soul to God, by estimation he shall give the price. {3} If it be a man from the twentieth year until three score, he shall give fifty sicles of silver, after the measure of the Sanctuary: {4} if a woman, thirty. {5} But from the fifth year until the twentieth, a man shall give twenty sicles: a woman ten. {6} From one month until the fifth year, for a man shall be given five sicles: for a woman three. {7} One that is three score & above, a man shall give fifteen sicles, a woman ten. {8} If he be poor, and not able to pay the estimation, he shall stand before the Priest: and as much as he shall esteem, and see him able to pay, so much shall he give. {9} But the beast, that may be immolated to the Lord, if a man do vow it, shall be holy, {10} and can not be changed, that is to say, neither a better for a bad, nor a worse for a good, and if he change it, both it self that was changed, and that for the which it was changed, shall be consecrated to the Lord. {11} The unclean beast, which can not be immolated to the Lord, if any man vow it shall be brought before the Priest. {12} Who judging whether it be good or evil, shall set the price: {13} which if he that offereth will give, he shall add above the estimation the fifth part. {14} If a man vow his house, and sanctify it to the Lord, the Priest shall consider it, whether it be good or bad, and according to the price which he shall appoint, it shall be sold. {15} but if he that had vowed will redeem it, he shall give the fifth part of the estimation besides, and shall have the house. {16} And if he vow the field of his possession, and consecrate it to the Lord, the price shall be esteemed according to the measure of the seed. If the ground be sowed with thirty bushels of barley, let it be sold for fifty sicles of silver. {17} If he vow his field immediately from the year of Jubilee, that is beginning, how much it can be worth, at so much it shall be esteemed: {18} but if some time after, the Priest shall account the money according to the number of years that remain until the Jubilee, and there shall be diminished of the price. {19} And if he that had vowed will redeem his field, he shall add the fifth part of the esteemed money, and shall possess it. {20} And if he will not redeem it, but it be sold to any other man, he that had vowed it can redeem it no more: {21} for when the day of Jubilee cometh, it shall be sanctified to the Lord, and the possession consecrated pertaineth to the right of the Priests. {22} If the field be bought, and being not of his ancestor's possession be sanctified to the Lord, {23} the Priest shall account the price according to the number of years, unto the jubilee: and he that had vowed shall give that to the Lord. {24} But in the Jubilee, it shall return to the former owner that sold it and had it in the lot of his possession. {25} All estimation shall be weighed by the sicle of the sanctuary. A sicle hath twenty oboles. {26} The first born, which pertain to the Lord, no man may sanctify and vow: whether it be ox, or sheep, they are the Lord's. {27} And if it be an unclean beast, he that offereth it shall redeem it, according to thy estimation, and shall add the fifth part of the price. If he will not redeem it, it shall be sold to an other for how much soever it was esteemed by thee. {28} Any thing that is consecrated to the Lord, whether it be man, or beast, or field, shall not be sold, neither can it be redeemed. Whatsoever is once consecrated, shall be holy of holies to the Lord. {29} And any consecration, that is offered of a man, shall not be redeemed, but dying shall die. {30} All tithes of the land, whether of corn, or of the fruits of trees, are the Lord's, and are sanctified to him. {31} And if any man will redeem his tithes, he shall add the fifth part of them. {32} Of all the tithes of oxen, and sheep, and goats, that pass under the sheep-herd's rod, every tenth that cometh shall be sanctified to the Lord. {33} It shall not be chosen neither good nor bad, neither shall it be changed for an other. If any man change it, both that which was changed, and that for the which it was changed, shall be sanctified to the Lord, and shall not be redeemed. {34} These are the precepts, which our Lord commanded Moyses unto the children of Israel in the mount Sinai.

THE BOOK OF NUMBERS

All the men of twelve tribes of Israel, of the Age of twenty years and upwards (but not under, nor women,) are numbered: 20. and are found in all six hundred thirty thousand five hundred fifty. The Levites not yet numbered, are designed to serve about the Tabernacle.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses in the desert of Sinai in the tabernacle of covenant, the first day of the second month, the second year of their going out of Aegypt, saying: {2} Take the sum of the whole assembly of the children of Israel by their kindreds, & houses, and the names of every one, whatsoever of the male sex, {3} from the twentieth year and upward, of all the strong men of Israel, and you shall number them by their troops, thou and Aaron. {4} And there shall be with you the Princes of the tribes, and of the houses in their kindreds, {5} whose names are these: Of Ruben, Elizur the son of Sedeur. {6} Of Simeon, Salamiel the son of Surisaddai. {7} Of Juda, Nahasson, the son of Aminadab. {8} Of Issachar, Nathanael the son of Suar. {9} Of Zabulon, Eliah the son of Helon. {10} And of the sons of Joseph, of Ephraim, Elisama the son of Ammiud. Of Manasses, Gamaliel, the son of Phadassur. {11} Of Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gedeon. {12} Of Dan, Ahiezer the son of Ammisaddai. {13} Of Aser, Pheguel the son of Ochran. {14} Of Gad, Eliazaph the son of Duel. {15} Of Nephthali, Ahira the son of Enan. {16} These are the most noble Princes of the multitude by their tribes & kindreds, and the heads of the host of Israel: {17} whom Moyses and Aaron took with all the multitude of the common people: {18} and assembled them the first day of the second month, reckoning them by the kindred, and houses, and families, and heads, and names of every one from the twentieth year and upward, {19} as our Lord had commanded Moyses. And they were numbered in the desert of Sinai. {20} Of Ruben the first begotten of Israel, by their generations and families and houses, and names of every head, all that is of the male sex, from the twentieth year & upward, of them that go forth to war, {21} forty six thousand five hundred. {22} Of the sons of Simeon by the generations, and families, and houses of their kindreds, were reckoned by the names & heads of every one, all that is of the male sex from the twentieth year and upward, of them that go forth to war, {23} fifty nine thousand three hundred. {24} Of the sons of Gad, by the generations and families and houses of their kindreds were reckoned by the names of every one from twenty years and upward, all that went forth to war, {25} forty five thousand six hundred fifty. {26} Of the sons to Juda by the generations and families and houses of their kindreds, by the names of every one from the twentieth year and upward, all that could go forth to war, {27} were reckoned seventy four thousand six hundred. {28} Of the sons of Issachar, by the generations and families and houses of their kindreds, by the names of every one from the twentieth year & upward, all that went forth to war, {29} were reckoned fifty four thousand four hundred. {30} Of the sons of Zabulon, by the generations, & families and houses of their kindreds, were reckoned by names of every one from the twentieth year and upward, all that could go forth to war, {31} fifty seven thousand four hundred. {32} Of the sons of Joseph, namely of the sons of Ephraim by the generations, families and houses of their kindreds were reckoned by the names of every one, from the twentieth year & upward, all that could go forth to war, {33} forty thousand five hundred. {34} Moreover of the sons of Manasses, by the generations and families and houses of their kindreds, were reckoned by the names of every one from twenty years and upward, all that could go forth to war, {35} thirty two thousand two hundred. {36} Of the sons of Benjamin by the generations & families and houses of their kindreds, were reckoned by names of every one from the twentieth year and upward, all that could go forth to war, {37} thirty five thousand four hundred. {38} Of the sons of Dan, by the generations and families and houses of their kindreds, were reckoned by the names of every one from twenty years and upward, all that could go forth to war, {39} sixty two thousand seven hundred. {40} Of the sons of Aser, by the generations and families and houses of their kindreds, were reckoned by the names of every one from the twentieth year and upward, all that could go forth to war, {41} forty thousand and a thousand five hundred. {42} Of the sons of Nephthali, by the generations, and families, and houses of their kindreds were reckoned by the names of every one from the twentieth year and upward, all that could go forth to war, {43} fifty three thousand four hundred. {44} These are they, whom Moyses and Aaron numbered, and the twelve Princes of Israel, every one by the houses of their kindreds. {45} And the whole number of the children of Israel by their houses and families, from the twentieth year and upward, that could go to war, {46} were six hundred three thousand men five hundred fifty. {47} But the Levites in the tribe of their families were not numbered with them. {48} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {49} Number not the tribe of Levi, neither shalt thou put the sum of them with the children of Israel: {50} but appoint them over the tabernacle of testimony, and all the vessel thereof, and whatsoever pertaineth to the ceremonies. They shall carry the tabernacle and all the furniture thereof: and they shall be in the ministry, and shall pitch round about the tabernacle. {51} When you are to go forward, the Levites shall take down the tabernacle: when you are to camp, they shall set it up. What stranger soever cometh to it, he shall be slain. {52} And the children of Israel shall camp every man by his troops and bands and host. {53} Moreover the Levites shall pitch their tents round about the tabernacle. {54} The children of Israel thereof did according to all things which our Lord had commanded Moyses.

At the east side of the Tabernacle the tribe of Juda, as chief, with Issachar and Zabulon do pitch their tents, and march first: 10. on the south Ruben, with Simeon and Gad (17. The Tabernacle is carried, & erected by the Levites, who lodge & march round about it.) 18. On the west side, Ephraim with Manasses and Benjamin: 25. on the north, Dan with Aser and Nephthali.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron saying: Israel by the troops, ensigns, and {2} Every one of the children of standards, and houses of their kindreds shall camp round about the tabernacle of covenant. {3} On the east Judas shall pitch his tents by the troops of his band: and the Prince of his sons shall be Nahasson the son of Aminadab. {4} And the whole sum of the warriors of his stock, seventy four thousand six hundred. {5} Beside him camped they of the tribe of Issachar, whose Prince was Nathanael the son of Suar: {6} and all the number of his warriors fifty four thousand four hundred. {7} In the tribe of Zabulon the Prince was Eliab the Son of Helon. {8} And all the host of warriors of his stock, fifty seven thousand four hundred. {9} All that were numbered in the camp of Judas, were an hundred eighty six thousand four hundred: and they by their troops shall march first. {10} In the camp of the sons of Ruben on the south side the Prince shall be Elisur the son of Sedeur: {11} and the whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, forty six thousand five hundred. {12} Beside him camped they of the tribe of Simeon: whose Prince was Salamiel the son of Surisaddai, {13} and the whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, fifty nine thousand three hundred. {14} In the tribe of Gad, the Prince was Eliasaph the son of Duel, {15} and the whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, forty five thousand six hundred fifty. {16} All that were reckoned in the camp of Ruben, an hundred fifty thousand and a thousand four hundred fifty by their troops: they shall march in the second place. {17} But the tabernacle of testimony shall be lifted up by the offices of the Levites and their troops. As it shall be set up, so shall it be taken down. Every one shall march by their places, and orders. {18} On the west side shall be the camp of the sons of Ephraim, whose Prince was Elisama the son of Ammiud. {19} The whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, forty thousand five hundred. {20} And with them the tribes of the sons of Manasses, whose Prince was Gamaliel the son of Phadassur, {21} and the whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, thirty two thousand two hundred. {22} In the tribe of the sons of Benjamin the Prince was Abidan the son of Gedeon, {23} and the whole host of his warriors, that were reckoned, thirty five thousand four hundred. {24} All that were numbered in the camp of Ephraim, an hundred eight thousand one hundred by their troops: they shall march the third. {25} On the north part camped the sons of Dan: whose Prince was Ahiezar the son of Ammisaddai. {26} The whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, sixty two thousand seven hundred. {27} Besides him they of the tribe of Aser pitched their tents: whose Prince was Pheguel the son of Ochran: {28} the whole host of his warriors, that were numbered, forty thousand and a thousand five hundred. {29} Of the tribe of the sons of Nephthali the Prince was Ahira the son of Enan. {30} The whole host of his warriors, fifty three thousand four hundred. {31} All that were numbered in the camp of Dan, were an hundred fifty seven thousand six hundred: and they shall march last. {32} This is the number of the children of Israel by the houses of their kindreds and troops of the host being divided, six hundred three thousand five hundred fifty. {33} And the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel: for so our Lord had commanded Moyses. {34} And the children of Israel did according to all things that our Lord had commanded. They camped by their troops, and marched by their families and houses of their fathers.

The Levites are assumed to the service of the Tabernacle, 14. numbered by their several families, and their offices distinguished, 45. They are taken to God in place of the first-born of the children of Israel. The residue of the first-born above the number of Levites, are redeemed with price.

{1} THESE are the generations of Aaron and Moyses in the day that our Lord spake to Moyses in Mount Sinai. {2} And these be the names of the sons of Aaron: his first begotten Nadab, then Abiu, and Eleazar, and Ithamar. {3} These are the names of the sons of Aaron the Priests that were anointed, and whose hands were filled and consecrated, to do the function of the priesthood. {4} For Nadab and Abiu died, when they offered the strange fire in the sight of our Lord, in the desert of Sinai, without children: and Eleazar and Ithamar did the function of priesthood in the presence of Aaron their father. {5} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {6} Bring the tribe of Levi, & make them stand in the sight of Aaron the Priest to minister unto him, and let them watch, {7} and observe whatsoever pertaineth to the service of the multitude before the tabernacle of testimony, {8} and let them keep the vessel of the tabernacle, serving in the ministry thereof. {9} And thou shalt give the Levites for a gift, {10} to Aaron and to his sons, to whom they are delivered of the children of Israel. But Aaron and his sons thou shalt appoint over the service of priesthood. The stranger, that approacheth to minister, shall die. {11} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {12} I have taken the Levites from the children of Israel, for every first born, that openeth the matrice among the children of Israel, and the Levites shall be mine. {13} For the first born is mine: since I struck the first born in the Land of Aegypt: I have sanctified to me whatsoever is first born in Israel from man unto beast, they are mine: I, the Lord. {14} And our Lord spake to Moyses in the desert of Sinai, saying: {15} Number the sons of Levi by the houses of their fathers and their families, every male from one month & upward. {16} Moyses numbered, as our Lord had commanded, {17} & there were found the sons of Levi by their names, Gerson & Caath and Merari. {18} The sons of Gerson: Lebni & Semei. {19} The sons of Caath: Amram, and Jesaar, Hebron & Oziel. {20} The sons of Merari: Moholi & Musi. {21} Of Gerson were two families, the Lebinital, & Semetal: {22} of whom were numbered the people of male sex from one month & upward, seven thousand five hundred. {23} These shall pitch behind the tabernacle on the West, {24} under their Prince Heliaph, the son of Lael. {25} And their charge shall be in the tabernacle of covenant, {26} the tabernacle it-self and the cover thereof, the hanging that is drawn before the doors of the roof of covenant, and the curtains of the court: the hanging also that is hanged in the entry of the court of the tabernacle, and whatsoever pertaineth to the rite of the altar, the cords of the tabernacle, and all the furniture thereof. {27} The kindred of Caath shall have the peoples of the Amramites, and Jesaarites, and Hebronites, and Ozielites. These are the families of the Caathites reckoned by their names: {28} all of the male sex from one month and upward, eight thousand six hundred, they shall have the guard of the Sanctuary, {29} and shall camp on the south side. {30} And their Prince shall be Elizaphan the son of Oziel: {31} and they shall keep the ark, and table, and the candlestick, the altars, and the vessel of the Sanctuary, wherein the ministration is, and the veil, and all such kind of implements. {32} And the Prince of the Princes of the Levites, Eliazar, the son of Aaron the Priest, shall be over them that watch for the custody of the Sanctuary. {33} But of Merari shall be the peoples of the Moholites, and Musites, reckoned by their names: {34} all of the male kind from one month & upward, six thousand two hundred. {35} Their Prince Suriel the son of Abihaiel: they shall camp on the north side. {36} Under their custody shall be the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars, and the pillars and their feet, and all things that pertain to this kind of service: {37} and the pillars of the court round about with their feet, and the pins with the cords. {38} Before the tabernacle of covenant, that is to say, on the east side, shall Moyses and Aaron camp, with their sons, having the custody of the Sanctuary, in the midst of the children of Israel. What stranger soever cometh thereto, shall die. {39} All the Levites, that Moyses and Aaron numbered, according to the precept of our Lord by their families in the male kind from one month and upward, were twenty two thousand. {40} And our Lord said to Moyses: Number the first-born of the male sex of the children of Israel, from one month and upward, and thou shalt have the sum of them. {41} And thou shalt take the Levites unto me for all the first-born of the children of Israel, I am the Lord: & their cattle for all the first-born of the cattle of the children of Israel. {42} Moyses reckoned, as our Lord had commanded, the first-born of the children of Israel. {43} And the males by their names, from one month & upward, were twenty two thousand two hundred seventy three. {44} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {45} Take the Levites for the first-born of the children of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites for their cattle, & the Levites shall be mine. I am the Lord. {46} But for the price of two hundred seventy three of the first-born of the children of Israel, that exceed the number of the Levites, {47} thou shalt take five sicles for every head, after the measure of the Sanctuary. A sicle hath twenty oboles. {48} And thou shalt give the money to Aaron and to his sons the price of them that are above. {49} Moyses therefore took their money, that were above, & whom he redeemed of the Levites, {50} for the first born of the children of Israel, a thousand three hundred sixty five sicles, according to the weight of the Sanctuary, {51} and gave it to Aaron & his sons, according to the word that our Lord had commanded him.

Distinct offices are assigned to the families of Aaron, 15. of the other sons of Caath, 21. of Gerson, 29. and of Merari. 34. Who are all numbered from the age of thirty years to fifty, and so employed to their offices and burdens.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, saying: Caath out of the midst of the Levites, by {2} Take the sum of the sons of their houses and families, {3} from the thirtieth year and upward, unto the fiftieth year, of all that go in to stand and to minister in the tabernacle of covenant. {4} This is the service of the sons of Caath: {5} when the camps remove, Aaron and his sons shall enter into the tabernacle of covenant, and Sanctum Sanctorum, and shall take down the veil that hangeth before the door, and shall wrap in it the ark of testimony, {6} and shall cover it again with a cover of Ianthe skins, and shall spread over it a cloth all of hyacinth, and shall draw in the bars. {7} The table also of proposition they shall wrap in a cloth of hyacinth, and shall put with it the censers and little mortars, the goblets and cups to pour the libaments: the breads shall be always on it: {8} and they shall spread over it a cloth of scarlet, which again they shall cover with a veil of ianthe skins, and shall put in the bars. {9} They shall take also a cloth of hyacinth wherewith they shall cover the candlestick with the lamps and tongs thereof and snuffers and all the vessels of oil, which are necessary for the dressing of the lamps: {10} and over all they shall put a cover of ianthe skins, and put in the bars. {11} Moreover the golden altar also they shall wrap in a cloth of hyacinth, and shall spread over it a cover of ianthe skins, and put in the bars. {12} All the vessels wherewith the ministration is done in the Sanctuary, they shall wrap in a cloth of hyacinth and shall spread over it a cover of ianthe skins, and put in bars. {13} But the altar also they shall make clean from the ashes, & shall wrap it in a purple cloth, {14} and shall put with it all the vessels, that they use in the ministry thereof, that is to say, fire pans, flesh hooks & forks, pot-hooks and shovels. All the vessels of the altar together they shall cover with a veil of ianthine skins, and shall put in the bars. {15} And when Aaron and his sons have wrapped up the Sanctuary & the vessels thereof in the removing of the camp, then shall the sons of Caath enter in to carry the things wrapped up: and they shall not touch the vessels of the Sanctuary, lest they die. These are the burdens of the sons of Caath in the tabernacle of covenant: {16} over whom shall be Eleazar the son of Aaron the Priest, to whose charge pertaineth the oil to dress the lamps, and the incense of composition, and the sacrifice, that is always offered, and the oil of unction, and whatsoever pertaineth to the service of the tabernacle, and of all the vessels, that are in the Sanctuary. {17} And our Lord spake unto Moyses and Aaron, saying: {18} Destroy not the people of Caath out of the midst of the Levites: {19} but do this to them, that they may live, and not die, if they touch Sancta Sanctorum. Aaron and his sons shall enter, and they shall dispose the charges of every one, and shall divide what every one must carry. {20} Let others by no curiosity see the things that are in the Sanctuary before they be wrapped up, otherwise they shall die. {21} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {22} Take the sum of the sons of Gerson also by their houses and families & kindreds, {23} from thirty years & upward, unto fifty years. Number them all that go in & minister in the tabernacle of covenant. {24} This is the office of the family of the Gersonites, {25} for to carry the curtains of the tabernacle, & the roof of the covenant the other cover, and over all the ianthine cover, and the hanging that hangeth in the entry of the tabernacle of covenant, {26} the curtains of the court, and the veil in the entry that is before the tabernacle. All things that pertain to the altar, the cords, and vessels of the ministry, {27} shall the sons of Gerson carry, by the commandment of Aaron and his sons: and every one shall know to what burden they must be assigned. {28} This is the service of the family of the Gersonites in the tabernacle of covenant, and they shall be under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the Priest. {29} The sons of Merari also by the families and houses of their fathers thou shalt reckon, {30} from thirty years and upward, until fifty years, all that enter in to the office of their ministry, & to the service of the covenant of testimony. {31} These are their burdens: They shall carry the boards of the tabernacle and the bars thereof, the pillars and the feet of them, {32} the pillars also of the court round about, with their feet and pins and cords. All the vessels and implements they shall receive by account, and so shall carry them. {33} This is the office of the family of the Merarites, and their ministry in the tabernacle of covenant: and they shall be under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the Priest. {34} Moyses therefore and Aaron and the Princes of the synagogue reckoned the sons of Caath, by their kindreds and houses of their fathers, {35} from thirty years and upward, unto the fiftieth year, all that enter in to the ministry of the tabernacle of covenant: {36} and they were found two thousand seven hundred fifty. {37} This is the number of the people of Caath that enter into the tabernacle of covenant: these did Moyses and Aaron number according to the word of our Lord by the hand of Moyses. {38} The sons of Gerson also were numbered by the kindreds and houses of their fathers, {39} from thirty years and upward, unto the fiftieth year, all that enter in to minister in the tabernacle of covenant: {40} and they were found two thousand six hundred thirty. {41} This is the people of the Gersonites, whom Moyses and Aaron numbered according to the word of our Lord. {42} The sons of Merari also were numbered by the kindreds & houses of their fathers, {43} from thirty years and upward, unto the fiftieth year, all that enter in to accomplish the rites of the tabernacle of covenant: {44} and they were found three thousand two hundred. {45} this is the number of the sons of Merari, whom Moyses and Aaron reckoned according to the commandment of our Lord by the hand of Moyses. {46} All that were reckoned of the Levites, and whom Moyses and Aaron and the Princes of Israel took by name, by the kindreds and houses of their fathers, {47} from thirty years and upward, unto the fiftieth year, entering in to the ministry of the tabernacle, and to carry the burden, {48} were in all eight thousand five hundred eighty. {49} According to the word of our Lord did Moyses reckon them, every one according to their office and burdens, as our Lord had commanded him.

Lepers and all polluted persons must be cast out of the camp. 5. Confession of sin, and satisfaction for trespass. 9. First fruits and oblations pertain to the Priests. 11. The law of jealousy.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} they cast out of the camp every leper, and Command the children of Israel, that whosoever hath a flux of seed, & is polluted upon the dead: {3} as well man as woman cast ye out of the camp, lest when they shall dwell with you, they contaminate it. {4} And the children of Israel did so, and they did cast them forth without the camp, as our Lord had spoken to Moyses. {5} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {6} Speak to the children of Israel: man, or woman, when they shall do any of all the sins, that are wont to chance to men, and by negligence have transgressed the commandment of the Lord, and have offended, {7} they shall confess their sins, & restore the principal it self, & the fifth part over to him, against whom they sinned. {8} But if there be none to receive it, they shall give it to the Lord, and it shall be the Priest's, the ram excepted, that is offered for expiation, to be a placable host. {9} All the first fruits also, which the children of Israel do offer, pertain to the Priest: {10} and whatsoever is offered into the Sanctuary of every one, and is delivered to the hands of the Priest, it shall be his. {11} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {12} Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: The man, whose wife erreth, and contemning her husband, {13} hath slept with an other man, and her husband could not find it, but the adultery is secret, and can not be proved by witnesses, because she was not found in the adulterous fact: {14} if the spirit of jealousy stir up the husband against his wife, which either is polluted or is charged with false suspicion, {15} he shall bring her to the Priest, and shall offer an oblation for her, the tenth part of a satum of barley meal: he shall not pour oil thereon, nor put frankincense upon it: because it is a sacrifice of jealousy, and an oblation searching out adultery. {16} The Priest therefore shall offer it, & set it before the Lord. {17} And he shall take holy water in an earthen vessel, and he shall cast a little gravel of the pavement of the tabernacle into it. {18} And when the woman shall stand in the sight of the Lord, he shall uncover her head, and shall put upon her hands the sacrifice of recordation, and the oblation of jealousy: and himself shall hold the most bitter waters, whereon he heaped curses with execration, {19} and he shall adjure her, and shall say: If an other man hath not slept with thee, and if thou be not polluted by forsaking thy husband's bed, these most bitter waters shall not hurt thee, whereupon I have heaped curses. {20} But if thou hast declined from thy husband, & art polluted, and hast lien with an other man, {21} thou shalt be subject to these maledictions: Our Lord give thee for a malediction, and an example of all among his people: make he thy thigh to rot, and belly swelling burst asunder. {22} The cursed water enter into thy belly, and thy womb being swollen let thy thigh rot. And the woman shall answer, Amen, amen. {23} And the Priest shall write these curses in a book, and shall wash them out with the most bitter waters, whereupon he heaped the curses, {24} and he shall give them her to drink. Which when she hath drunk up, {25} the Priest shall take of her hand the sacrifice of jealousy, and shall elevate it before the Lord, and shall put it upon the altar: yet so notwithstanding that first {26} he take a handful of the sacrifice of that which is offered, & burn it upon the altar: and so give the most bitter waters to the woman to drink. {27}

Which when she hath drunk, if she be polluted, and by contempt of her husband guilty of adultery, the waters of malediction shall go through her, and her belly being puffed up her thigh shall rot withal: and the woman shall be for a malediction, and an example to all the people. {28} But if she be not polluted, she shall be blameless, and shall bear children. {29} This is the law of jealousy. If the woman decline from her husband, and if she be polluted, {30} and the husband stirred with the spirit of jealousy brought her in the sight of the Lord, and the Priest have done to her according to all things that are written: {31} the husband shall be without fault, and she shall bear her iniquity.

Consecration, 14, and oblation of Nazareites. 22. A set form how the Priest shall bless the people.

{1} AND our Lord spake unto Moyses, saying: {2} thou shall say to them: Man, or woman, Speak to the children of Israel, and when they shall make a vow to be sanctified, and will consecrate themselves to the Lord: {3} they shall abstain from wine, & every thing that can make one drunk, vinegar of wine, and of any other potion, and whatsoever is pressed out of the grape, they shall not drink: new grapes and dry they shall not eat {4} all the days wherein they are by vow consecrated to the Lord: whatsoever may be of the vineyard, from the raisin to the kernel they shall not eat. {5} All the time of his separation a razor shall not pass over his head, until the day be expired, that he is consecrated to the Lord. He shall be holy whiles the bush of hair on his head doth grow. {6} All the time of his consecration he shall not enter in to the dead, {7} neither shall he be contaminated, no not on his father's and mother's and brother's and sister's corpse, because the consecration of his God is upon his head. {8} All the days of his separation he shall be holy to the Lord. {9} But if any man die suddenly before him, the head of his consecration shall be polluted: which he shall shave forthwith in the same day of his purgation, and again the seventh day: {10} and in the eighth day he shall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons to the Priest in the entry of the covenant of testimony. {11} And the Priest shall offer one for sin, and the other for an holocaust, and shall pray for him, because he hath sinned by occasion of the dead: and he shall sanctify his head that day: {12} and shall consecrate to the Lord the days of his separation, offering a lamb of a year old for sin: yet so that the former days be made frustrate, because his sanctification was polluted. {13} This is the law of consecration. When the days, that by vow he had determined, shall be expired: he shall bring him to the door of the tabernacle of covenant, {14} and shall offer his oblation to the Lord, a male lamb of a year old without spot for an holocaust, and an ewe lamb of a year old without spot for sin, and a ram without spot, for a pacific host, {15} a basket also of unleavened breads that are tempered with oil, and wafers without leaven anointed with oil, and the libaments of every one: {16} which the Priest shall offer before the Lord, and shall offer as well for sin, as for an holocaust. {17} But the ram he shall immolate for a pacific host to the Lord, offering withal the basket of azymes, and the libaments that by custom are due. {18} Then shall the Nazarite be shaven before the door of the tabernacle of covenant, from the bush of the hair of his consecration: and he shall take his hairs, and lay them upon the fire, that is put under the sacrifice of pacifics. {19} And a shoulder of the ram boiled, and one cake without leaven out of the basket, and one wafer unleavened, and he shall deliver them into the hands of the Nazarite, after that his head be shaven. {20} And receiving them again from him, he shall elevate them in the sight of the Lord: and being sanctified they shall be the Priest's, as the breast, which was commanded to be separated, and the shoulder. After these things, the Nazarite may drink wine. {21} This is the law of the Nazarite, when he shall vow his oblation to the Lord in the time of his consecration, besides those things which his hand shall find, according to that which he had vowed in his mind, so shall he do to the fulfilling of his sanctification. {22} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {23} Speak to Aaron and his sons: Thus shall you bless the children of Israel, and you shall say to them: {24} Our Lord bless thee, and keep thee. {25} Our Lord shew his face to thee, and have mercy upon thee. {26} Our Lord turn his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace. {27} And they shall invocate my name upon the children of Israel, and I will bless them.

In dedication of the Tabernacle the Princes of the twelve tribes offer jointly six wains, and twelve oxen. 11. Then every Prince several days make other oblations. 89. And God speaketh to Moyses from the Proprietary.

{1} AND it came to pass in the day that Moyses finished the tabernacle and erected it, he anointed also and sanctified it with all the vessel thereof, the altar likewise and all the vessel thereof. {2} The Princes of Israel and the heads of the families, that were in every tribe, and the Rulers of them, that had been numbered, offered {3} gifts before our Lord, six wains covered, with twelve oxen, Two Princes offered one wain, and every man one oxe, and they offered them before the tabernacle. {4} And our Lord said to Moyses: {5} Take them of their hands to serve in the ministry of the tabernacle, and thou shalt deliver them to the Levites according to the order of their ministry. {6} When Moyses therefore had taken the wains and the oxen, he delivered them to the Levites. {7} Two wains & four oxen he gave to the sons of Gerson, according to that which was necessary for them. {8} The other four wains, and the eight oxen he gave to the sons of Merari according to their offices and service, under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the Priest. {9} But to the sons of Caath he gave not wains and oxen: because they serve in the sanctuary, and carry their burdens upon their own shoulders. {10} The Princes therefore offered unto the dedication of the altar, the day wherein it was anointed, their oblation before the altar. {11} And our Lord said to Moyses: Let the Princes one and one every day offer their gifts unto the dedication of the altar. {12} The first day Nahasson the son of Aminadab of the tribe of Juda offered his oblation: {13} and there were in it a silver plate of an hundred and thirty sicles weight, a phial of silver having seventy sicles according to the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {14} a little mortar of ten sicles of gold full of incense: {15} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {16} and a buck goat for sin: {17} and for a sacrifice of pacifics, two oxen, five rams, five buck goats, five lambs of a year old. This is the oblation of Nahasson the son of Aminadab. {18} The second day offered Nathanael the son of Suar, Prince of the tribe of Issachar, {19} a plate of silver weighing and hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles, according to the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {20} a little mortar of gold having ten sicles full of incense: {21} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust, {22} and a buck goat for sin: {23} and for a sacrifice of pacifics two oxen, five rams, five buck goats, five lambs of a year old, this was the oblation of Nathanael the son of Suar. {24} The third day the Prince of the sons of Zabulon Eliab the son of Helon, {25} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {26} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {27} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {28} and a buck-goat for sin, {29} and for a sacrifice of pacifics, two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old. This is the oblation of Eliab the son of Helon. {30} The fourth day the Prince of the sons of Ruben, Elisur the son of Sedeur, {31} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {32} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {33} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old, for an holocaust: {34} and a buck-goat for sin: {35} and for pacific hosts two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old, this was the oblation of Elisur the son of Sedeur. {36} The fifth day the Prince of the sons of Simeon Salamiel the son of Surisaddai, {37} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {38} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {39} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {40} and a buck-goat for sin: {41} & for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Salamiel the son of Surisaddai. {42} The sixth day the Prince of the sons of Gad, Eliasaph the son of Duel {43} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {44} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {45} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {46} and a buck-goat for sin: {47} and for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Eliasaph the son of Duel. {48} The seventh day the Prince of the sons of Ephraim, Elisama the son of Ammiud {49} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {50} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {51} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {52} and a buck-goat for sin: {53} and for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Elisama the son of Ammiud. {54} The eight day the Prince of the sons of Manasses, Gamaliel the son of Phadassur, {55} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {56} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles, full of incense: {57} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, & a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {58} and a buck-goat for sin: {59} and for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Gamaliel the son of Phadassur. {60} The ninth day the Prince of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gedeon {61} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {62} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {63} an oxe out of the herd, and a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {64} and a buck-goat for sin: {65} and for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old, this was the oblation of Abidan the son of Gedeon. {66} The tenth day the Prince of the sons of Dan, Ahiezer the son of Ammisaddai {67} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles, after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {68} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense: {69} an oxe out of the herd, & a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {70} and a buck-goat for sin: {71} & for pacific hosts two oxen, five rams, five buck-goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Ahiezer the son of Ammisaddai. {72} The eleventh day the Prince of the sons of Aser, Pheguel the son of Ochran {73} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {74} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles full of incense. {75} an oxe out of the herd, & a ram, and a lamb of a year old for an holocaust, {76} and a buck goat for sin: {77} & for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Pheguel the son of Ochran. {78} The twelfth day the Prince of the sons of Nephthali, Ahira the son of Enan {79} offered a plate of silver weighing an hundred thirty sicles, a phial of silver having seventy sicles after the weight of the Sanctuary, both full of flour tempered with oil for a sacrifice: {80} a little mortar of gold weighing ten sicles, full of incense: {81} an oxe out of the herd, & a ram, & a lamb of a year old for an holocaust: {82} and a buck goat for sin {83} and for pacific hosts, two oxen, five rams, five buck goats, five lambs of a year old. This was the oblation of Ahira the son of Enan. {84} These things were offered of the Princes of Israel in the dedication of the altar, in the day wherein it was consecrated: plates of silver twelve: phials of silver twelve: little mortars of gold twelve: {85} so that one plate had an hundred and thirty sicles of silver, & one phial had seventy sicles: that is, in the whole of all the vessels of silver two thousand four hundred sicles, by the weight of the Sanctuary: {86} little mortars of gold twelve full of incense weighing ten sicles a piece, by the weight of the Sanctuary: that is, in the whole an hundred twenty sicles of gold: {87} oxen out of the herd for an holocaust, twelve, rams twelve, lambs of a year old twelve, and their libaments: twelve buck goats for sin. {88} For pacific hosts, oxen twenty four, rams sixty, buck goats sixty, lambs of a year old sixty. These things were offered in the dedication of the altar, when it was anointed. {89} And when Moyses entered into the tabernacle of covenant, to consult the oracle, he heard the voice of him that spake to him from the propitiatory, that was over the ark between the two Cherubs, from whence also he spake to him.

Seven lamps are so placed on the golden candlestick, that they may shine towards the breads of proposition. 5. The ordination of the Levites. 24. And at what age they shall serve in the tabernacle.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} him: When thou shalt place the seven Speak to Aaron, and thou shalt say to lamps, let the candlestick be set up in the south part over against the north, toward the table of the breads of proposition, over against that part toward which the candlestick looketh, shall they shine. {3} And Aaron did so, and he put the lamps upon the candlestick, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {4} This was the making of the candlestick, of beaten gold, as well the middle shaft, as all things that arose out of both sides of the branches: according to the example which our Lord shewed to Moyses, so wrought he the candlestick. {5} And our Lord spake to Moyses saying: {6} Take the Levites out of the midst of the children of Israel, and thou shalt purify them, {7} according to this rite: Let them be sprinkled with the water of lustration, and shave all the hairs of their flesh. And when they have washed their garments, & are cleansed, {8} they shall take an oxe out of the herds, & his libament flour tempered with oil: & an other oxe out of the herd thou shalt take for sin: {9} & thou shalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of covenant, calling together all the multitude of the children of Israel. {10} And when the Levites are before the Lord, the children of Israel shall put their hands upon them. {11} and Aaron shall offer the Levites, a gift in the sight of the Lord from the children of Israel, that they may serve in his ministry. {12} The Levites also shall put their hands upon the heads of the oxen, of the which thou shalt make one for sin, and the other for holocaust of the Lord, to pray for them. {13} And thou shalt set the Levites in the sight of Aaron and of his sons, and being offered shall consecrate them to the Lord, {14} and shall separate them from the midst of the children of Israel, to be mine. {15} And afterward they shall enter into the tabernacle of covenant, to serve me. And thou shalt so purify and consecrate them for an oblation of the Lord: because they were given me for a gift of the children of Israel. {16} For the first born that open every matrice in Israel, I have taken them. {17} For mine are all the first born of the children of Israel, as well of men as of beasts. From the day that I smote every first born in the Land of Aegypt, have I sanctified them to me: {18} and I have taken the Levites for all the first born of the children of Israel: {19} and have delivered them for a gift to Aaron and his sons out of the midst of the people, to serve me for Israel in the tabernacle of covenant, & to pray for them, that there be no plague among the people, if they should presume to approach unto my Sanctuary. {20} And Moyses & Aaron and all the multitude of the children of Israel did concerning the Levites the things that our Lord had commanded Moyses: {21} and they were purified, and washed their garments. And Aaron elevated them in the sight of the Lord, and prayed for them, {22} that being purified they might enter to their offices into the tabernacle of covenant before Aaron and his sons. Even as our Lord had commanded Moyses touching the Levites, so was it done. {23} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {24} This is the law of the Levites: From twenty five years and upward, they shall enter in to minister in the tabernacle of covenant. {25} And when they shall have accomplished the fiftieth year of their age, they shall cease to serve: {26} and shall be the ministers of their brethren in the tabernacle of covenant, to keep the things that are commanded to them, but not to do the very works. Thus shalt thou dispose to the Levites in their custodies.

The precept of Pasch to be made the fourteenth day of the first moon, is renewed. 6. But the unclean, and travelers in journey the fourteenth day of the second month. 15. The camp must rest or march, as the cloud or pillar of fire remaineth over the tabernacle, or departeth.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses in the desert of Sinai, the second year, after they went out of the land of Aegypt, the first month, saying: {2} Let the children of Israel make the Phase in his time, {3} the fourteenth day of this month at even, according to all the ceremonies and justifications thereof. {4} And Moyses commanded the children of Israel that they should make the Phase. {5} Who made it in his time: the fourteenth day of the month at even in mount Sinai. According to all things that our Lord had commanded Moyses the children of Israel did. {6} But behold certain unclean upon the soul of man, which could not make the Phase on that day, coming to Moyses and Aaron, {7} said to them: We are unclean upon the soul of man: why are we defrauded that we can not offer the oblation to our Lord in due time among the children of Israel? {8} To whom Moyses answered: Stand that I may ask counsel what our Lord will command concerning you. {9} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {10} Speak to the children of Israel: The man that shall be unclean upon a soul, or in his journey far off in your nation, let him make the Phase to the Lord {11} in the second month, the fourteenth day of the month at even: with azymes and wild lettuce shall they eat it: {12} they shall not leave any thing thereof until morning, and a bone thereof they shall not break, all the rite of the Phase they shall observe. {13} But if any man both be clean, and was not in his journey, and yet did not make the Phase, that soul shall be destroyed out from among his peoples, because he offered not sacrifice to the Lord in his due time: he shall bear his sin. {14} The sojourner also and stranger if they be with you, shall make the Phase to the Lord, according to the ceremonies and justifications thereof. The self-same precept shall be among you as well to the stranger, as to him that is born in the country. {15} Therefore the day that the tabernacle was erected, a cloud covered it. And from evening over the tabernacle there was as it were the likeness of fire until morning. {16} So was it done always: by day the cloud covered it, and by night as it were the likeness of fire. {17} And when the cloud that protected the tabernacle had been taken away, then the children of Israel marched: and in the place where the cloud had stood, there they camped. {18} At the commandment of our Lord they marched, and at his commandment they pitched the tabernacle. All the days that the cloud stood over the tabernacle, they remained in the same place: {19} and if it chanced that it did continue over it a long time, the children of Israel were in the watches of our Lord, and marched not. {20} for as many days soever as the cloud had been over the tabernacle. At the commandment of our Lord they pitched their tents, and at his commandment they took them down. {21} If the cloud had been from even until morning, and immediately at day break had forsaken the tabernacle, they marched: & if it had departed after a day and a night, they took down their tents. {22} But if for two days or one month or a longer time it had been over the tabernacle, the children of Israel remained in the same place, and marched not: but immediately as it had departed, they removed the camp. {23} By the word of the Lord they pitched their tents, and by his word they marched: and were in the Watches of our Lord according to his commandment by the hand of Moyses.

Trumpets are sounded by the Priests, diversly for diverse purposes. 11. The camp marcheth from the desert of Sinai. 29. Moyses entreateth Hobab the Midianite to remain with them. 35. His prayer when the ark is taken up, and set down.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} silver, wherewith thou mayest call Make thee two trumpets of beaten together the multitude when the camp is to be removed. {3} And when thou shalt sound with the trumpets, all the multitude shall gather unto thee to the door of the tabernacle of covenant. {4} If thou sound but once, the Princes shall come to thee, and the heads of the multitude of Israel. {5} But if the trumpeting sound in length and with a broken tune, they shall move their camp first that are on the east side. {6} And at the second sound and the like noise of the trumpet, they shall take up their tents that dwell toward the south, and after this manner shall the rest do, when the trumpets shall sound to the marching. {7} But when the people is to be gathered together, the sound of the trumpet shall be plain, and they shall not make a broken sound. {8} And the sons of Aaron the Priests shall sound with the trumpets: and this shall be an ordinance for ever in your generations. {9} If you go forth to war out of your land against the enemies that fight against you, you shall sound with trumpets in length, and there shall be remembrance of you before the Lord your God, that you may be delivered out of the hands of your enemies. {10} If at any time you shall have a banquet, & festival days, and Calends, you shall sound with trumpets over the holocausts, & pacific victims, that they may be unto you for a remembrance of your God. I, the Lord your God. {11} The second year, in the second month, the twentieth day of the month was the cloud lifted up from the tabernacle of covenant: {12} & the children of Israel marched by their troops from the desert of Sinai, and the cloud rested in the wilderness of Pharan. {13} And the first moved their camp according to the commandment of our Lord by the hand of Moyses. {14} The sons of Judas by their troops: whose Prince was Nahasson the son of Aminadab. {15} In the tribe of the sons of Issachar, the Prince was Nathanael the son of Suar. {16} In the tribe of Zabulon, the Prince was Eliab the son of Helon. {17} And the tabernacle was taken down, which the sons of Gerson and Merari carrying, marched. {18} And the sons of Ruben also marched, by their troops and order, whose Prince was Heliur the son of Sedeur. {19} And in the tribe of Simeon, the Prince was Salamiel the son of Surisaddai. {20} Moreover in the tribe of Gad, the Prince was Eliasaph the son of Duel. {21} And the Caathites also marched carrying the Sanctuary. So long was the tabernacle carried, till they came to the place of erecting it. {22} The sons of Ephraim also moved their camp by their troops, in whose host the Prince was Elisama the son of Ammiud. {23} And in the tribe of the sons of Manasses, the Prince was Gamaliel the son of Phadassur. {24} And in the tribe of Benjamin the Prince was Abidan the son of Gedeon. {25} The last of all the camp marched the sons of Dan by their troops, in whose host the Prince was Ahiezer the son of Ammisaddai. {26} And in the tribe of the sons of Aser, the Prince was Pheguel the son of Ochran. {27} And in the tribe of the sons of Nephthali the Prince was Ahira the son of Enan. {28} These are the camps, and the marchings of the children of Israel by their troops when they marched. {29} And Moyses said to Hobab the son of Raguel the Madianite, his allied: We march toward the place, which our Lord will give us: come with us, that we may do thee good: for our Lord hath promised good things to Israel. {30} To whom he answered: I will not go with thee, but I will return to my country, wherein I was born. {31} And he said: Do not forsake us: for thou knowest in what places through the desert we may camp, and thou shalt be our guide. {32} And when thou comest with us, whatsoever shall be best of the riches, which our Lord shall deliver us, we will give thee. {33} They marched therefore from the Mount of our Lord three days' journey, and the ark of the covenant of our Lord went before them, for three days providing a place for the camp. {34} The cloud also of our Lord was over them by day when they marched. {35} And when the ark was lifted up, Moyses said: Arise Lord, and be thine enemies dispersed, and let them fly that hate thee, from thy face. {36} And when it was set down, he said: Return Lord to the multitude of the host of Israel.

The people murmuring are punished with fire. 7. Manna is again described. 10. Moyses being afflicted with solicitude of troublesome people, 16. God adjoyneth seventy Ancients to sustain part of his burden. 18. Promiseth to give all the people flesh. 25. The Ancients do prophesy. 31. The people have their fill of flesh. 33. but forthwith many die of the plague, whereof the place is called, The sepulchres of concupiscence.

{1} IN the mean time there arose a murmuring of the people, as it were repining for labour, against our Lord. Which when our Lord had heard, he was angry. And the fire of our Lord being kindled against them, devoured the uttermost part of the camp. {2} And when the people had cried to Moyses, Moyses prayed to our Lord, and the fire was quenched. {3} And he called the name of the place, Kindling: for that the fire of our Lord had been kindled against them. {4} For the common vulgar people that came up with them, burned with desire, sitting and weeping, the children of Israel being joined together with them, and said: Who shall give us flesh to eat? {5} We remember the fishes that we did eat in Aegypt gratis: the cucumbers come unto our mind, and the melons, and leeks and onions and garlike. {6} Our soul is dry, our eyes behold nothing else but Manna. {7} And the Manna was as it were the seed of Coriander, of the colour of bdellion. {8} And the people went about, & gathering it, ground it in a mill, or brayed it in a mortar, boiling it in a pot, and making cakes thereof of the taste as it were of oiled bread. {9} And when the dew fell in the night upon the camp, the Manna also fell withal. {10} Moyses therefore heard the people weeping by their families, every one at the doors of his tent. And the fury of our Lord was exceeding wrath: but to Moyses also it seemed an intolerable thing. {11} And he said to our Lord: Why hast thou afflicted thy servant? wherefore do I not find grace before thee? and why hast thou laid the weight of all this people upon me? {12} Have I conceived all this multitude, or begotten them, that thou shouldest say to me: Carry them in thy bosom as the nurse is wont to carry the little infant, and bear them into the land, for the which thou hast sworn to their fathers? {13} Whence shall I have flesh to give to so great a multitude? They whine against me, saying: Give us flesh that we may eat. {14} I alone can not sustain all this people, because it is heavy for me. {15} But if it seem unto thee otherwise, I beseech thee to kill me, and let me find grace in thine eyes, that I be not molested with so great evils. {16} And our Lord said to Moyses: Gather me seventy men of the ancients of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the ancients of the people and masters: and thou shalt bring them to the door of the tabernacle of covenant, and shalt make them to stand there with thee, {17} that I may descend & speak to thee: and I will take of thy spirit, and will deliver to them, that they may sustain with thee

the burden of the people, and thou only be not burdened. {18} To the people also thou shalt say: Be sanctified: to morrow you shall eat flesh: for I have heard you say: Who shall give us meats of flesh? It was well with us in Aegypt. That the Lord may give you flesh, and you may eat: {19} not one day, nor two, or five, or ten, no nor twenty, {20} but even to a month of days, till it go out of your nostrils, & be turned to loathsome ness, because you have rejected the Lord, who is in the midst of you, and have whined before him, saying: Wherefore came we out of Aegypt? {21} And Moyses said: There are six hundred thousand footmen of this people, and sayest thou: I will give them flesh to eat a whole month? {22} Why, shall a multitude of sheep and oxen be killed, that it may suffice for meat? Or shall all the fishes of the sea be gathered together, for to fill them? {23} To whom our Lord answered: Why, is the hand of the Lord unable? Now presently thou shalt see whether my word shall be accomplished in deed. {24} Moyses therefore came, and told the people the words of our Lord, assembling seventy men of the ancients of Israel, whom he caused to stand about the tabernacle. {25} And our Lord descended in a cloud, and spake to him, taking away of the spirit that was in Moyses, and giving to the seventy men. And when the spirit had rested on them, they prophesied, neither ceased they any more. {26} And there had remained in the camp two men, of the which one was called Eldad, and the other Medad, upon whom the spirit rested. For they also had been enrolled, & were not gone forth to the tabernacle. {27} And when they prophesied in the camp, there ran a boy, and told Moyses, saying: Eldad and Medad do prophesy in the camp. {28} Forthwith Josue the Nun, the minister of Moyses, and chosen of many, said: My Lord Moyses forbid them. {29} But he said: Why hast thou emulation for me? O that all the people might prophesy, and that our Lord would give them his spirit! {30} And Moyses returned, and the ancients of Israel into the camp. {31} And a wind coming forth from our Lord, taking quails over the sea brought them, and let them fall into the camp the space of one day's journey, on every side of the camp round about, and they did fly in the air two cubits high over the earth. {32} The people therefore rising up all that day, and the night, and the next day, gathered together a multitude of quails, he that did least, ten cores: and they dried them round about the camp. {33} As yet the flesh was in their teeth, neither had that kind of meat failed: & behold the fury of our Lord being provoked against the people, struck them with an exceeding great plague. {34} And that place was called The Sepulchres of concupiscence: for there they buried the people that had lusted. And departing from the Sepulchres of concupiscence, they came unto Haseroth, and tarried there.

Mary and Aaron murmur against Moyses. 6. Whom God praiseth above other Prophets. 10. Mary being stricken with leprosy. Aaron confesseth his fault. 13. Moyses prayeth for her, and after seven day's separation from the camp, she is restored.

{1} AND Mary and Aaron spake against Moyses, for his wife the Aethiopian, said: hath our Lord spoken by Moyses {2} and they only? Hath he not spoken to us also in like manner? Which when our Lord had heard, {3} (For Moyses was the mildest man above all men that dwelt upon the earth) {4} immediately he spake to him, and to Aaron and Mary: Go forth you three only to the tabernacle of covenant. And when they were come forth, {5} our Lord descended in the pillar of a cloud, and stood in the entry of the tabernacle calling Aaron & Mary. Who going unto him, {6} he said to them: Hear my words: If there shall be among you a Prophet of the Lord, in vision will I appear to him, or in sleep I will speak to him. {7} But my servant Moyses is not such an one, who in all my house is most faithful: {8} for mouth to mouth I speak to him: and plainly, and not by riddles and figures doth he see the Lord. Why therefore did you not fear to detract from my servant Moyses? {9} And being wrath against them, he went away:

{10} the cloud also departed that was over the tabernacle: and behold Mary appeared white with leprosy as it were snow. And when Aaron had looked on her, and saw her wholly covered with leprosy, {11} he said to Moyses: I beseech thee my Lord, lay not upon us this sin which we have foolishly committed, {12} let not this woman be as it were dead, and as an abortive that is cast forth of the mother's womb. Lo now the one half of her flesh is devoured with the leprosy. {13} And Moyses cried to our Lord, saying: God, I beseech thee, heal her. {14} To whom our Lord answered: If her father had spit upon her face, ought she not to have been ashamed seven days at the least? Let her be separated seven days without the camp, and afterwards she shall be called again. {15} Mary therefore was shut forth without the camp seven days: and the people moved not from that place, until Mary was called again.

From the desert of Pharan Moyses sendeth twelve men (of every tribe one) to view the Land of Chanaan: 17. changeth Osee his name into Josue, 18. instructeth them which way to go, and what to note in the land: 22. which they perform: 26. and after forty days return, bringing with them fruits, in token of the land's fertility. 29. But in other respects (the rest besides Caleb and Josue) discouraging the people make them to murmur.

{1} AND the people marched from Haseroth pitching their tents in the desert of Pharan. {2} And there our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {3} Send men that may view the Land of Channan, which I will give to the children of Israel, one of every tribe, of the Princes. {4} Moyses did that which our Lord had commanded, from the desert of Pharan sending principal men, whose names be these. {5} Of the tribe of Ruben, Sammuia the son of Zechur. {6} Of the tribe of Simeon, Saphat the son of Huri. {7} Of the tribe of Juda, Caleb the son of Jephone. {8} Of the tribe of Issachar, Igal the son of Joseph. {9} Of the tribe of Ephraim, Osee the son of Nun. {10} Of the tribe of Benjamin, Phalti the son of Raphu. {11} Of the tribe of Zabulon, Geddiel the son of Sodi. {12} Of the tribe of Joseph, of the sceptre of Manasses, Gaddi, the son of Susi. {13} Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli. {14} Of the tribe of Aser, Sthur the son of Michael. {15} Of the tribe of Nephthali, Nahabi the son of Vapsi. {16} Of the tribe of Gad, Guel the son of Machi. {17} These are the names of the men, whom Moyses sent to view the Land: and he called Osee the son of Nun, Josue. {18} Moyses therefore sent them to view the Land of Chanaan, and said to them: Go up by the south side. And when you shall come to the mountains, {19} view the Land, what it is: and the people that are the inhabitants thereof, whether they be strong or weak: few in number or many: {20} the land it-self, whether it be good or bad: what manner of cities, walled or without walls: {21} the ground, fat or barren, woody or without trees. Be of good courage, and bring us of the fruits of the Land. And it was the time when now the first ripe grapes are to be eaten. {22} And when they were gone up, they viewed the Land from the desert of Sin, unto Rohob as you enter to Emath. {23} And they went up at the south side, & came to Hebron, where were Achiman and Sisai & Tholmai the sons of Enac, for Hebron was built seven years before Tanis the city of Aegypt. {24} And going forward as far as the Torrent of cluster, they cut off a branch with the grapes thereof, which two men carried upon a lever. They took of the pomegranates also & of the figs of that place: {25} which was called Nehelescol, that is to say, the Torrent of cluster, for that thence the children of Israel had carried a cluster. {26} And the discoverers of the Land returning after forty days, having circuited all the country, {27} came to Moyses & Aaron and to all the assembly of the children of Israel into the desert of Pharan; which is in Cades. And speaking to them and to all the multitude they shewed the fruits of the Land: {28} and reported, saying: We came into the Land to which thou didst send us, which in very deed floweth with milk and honey, as by these fruits may be known: {29} but it hath very strong inhabitants, and cities great and walled. The stock of Enac we saw there. {30} Amalec dwelleth in the south, the Hethite and the Jebusite and the Amorrite in the mountains: but the Chanante abideth beside the sea and about the streams of Jordan. {31} Among these things Caleb appeasing the murmuring of the people that rose against Moyses, said: Let us go up and possess the Land because we may obtain it. {32} But the others, that had been with him, said: No, we are not able to go up to this people, because it is stronger than we. {33} And they detracted from the Land, which they had viewed, before the children of Israel, saying: The Land, which we have viewed, devoureth her inhabitants: the people, that we beheld, is of a tall stature. {34} There we saw certain monsters of the sons of Enac, of the giant's kind: to whom being compared, we seemed as it were locusts.

The mutinous murmuring people being unplaceable, 11. God expostulath their ingratitude, threateneth to destroy them. 13. Yet Moyses pacifieth his wrath, 22. but so that all which were numbered coming from Aegypt, except Caleb and Josue, shall die in the wilderness. 31. And their children shall possess the promised land. 40. Then fighting contrary to Moyses' admonition are beaten, and many slain by their enemies.

{1} THEREFORE all the Multitude crying out wept that night, Israel murmured against Moyses and {2} and all the children of Aaron, saying: {3} Would God we had died in Aegypt: and in this vast wilderness would God we might die, and that our Lord would not bring us into this Land, lest we fall by the sword, and our wives and children be led captive. Is it not better to return into Aegypt? {4} And one said to an other: Let us appoint a captain, & let us return into Aegypt. {5} Which Moyses & Aaron hearing fell flat upon the ground before all the multitude of the children of Israel. {6} But Josue the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephone, who themselves also had viewed the land, rent their garments, {7} and spake to all the multitude of the children of Israel: The Land, which we have circuited, is very good. {8} If our Lord be propitious, he shall bring us into it, and deliver us a ground flowing with milk and honey. {9} Be not rebellious against our Lord: neither fear ye the people of this land, for even as bread so we may devour them, all aid is gone from them: our Lord is with us, fear ye not. {10} And when all the multitude cried, and would have stoned them, the glory of our Lord appeared over the roof of covenant in the sight of all the children of Israel. {11} And our Lord said to Moyses: How long will this people detract me? How long will they not believe me in all the signs that I have done before them? {12} I will strike them therefore with pestilence, and will consume them: but thee I will make Prince over a great nation and a stronger than this is. {13} And Moyses said to our Lord: That the Aegyptians, from the midst of whom thou hast brought forth this people, {14} and the inhabitants of this Land, which have heard that thou Lord art among this people, and art seen face to face, and thy cloud protecteth them, and in a pillar of a cloud thou goest before them by day, and in a pillar of fire by night, {15} may hear that thou hast killed so great a multitude as it were one man, and may say: {16} He could not bring in the people into the Land, for which he had sworn, therefore did he kill them in the wilderness. {17} Let therefore the strength of our Lord be magnified as thou hast sworn, saying: {18} The Lord is patient and full of mercy, taking away iniquity and wicked deeds, and leaving no man innocent, which visitest the sins of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation. {19} Forgive, I beseech thee, the sin of this thy people, according to the greatness of thy mercy, as thou hast been propitious to them since their going out of Aegypt unto this place. {20} And our Lord said: I have forgiven it according to thy word. {21} Live I: and the whole earth shall be replenished with the glory of the Lord. {22} But yet all the men that have seen my majesty, and the signs that I have done in Aegypt, and in the wilderness, and have tempted me now ten times, neither have obeyed my voice, {23} they shall not see the Land for the which I sware to their fathers, neither shall any of them that hath detracted me, behold it. {24} My servant Caleb, who being full of an other spirit hath followed me, will I bring in unto this Land which he hath circuited: and his seed shall possess it. {25} Because the Amalecite and the Cananite dwell in the valleys. To morrow remove the camp, and return into the wilderness by the way of the Red sea. {26} And our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, saying: {27} How long doth this ungracious multitude murmur against me? I have heard the complaints of the children of Israel. {28} Say therefore to them: live I, sayeth our Lord: According as you have spoken I hearing it, so will I do to you. {29} In this wilderness shall your carcasses lie. All you that are numbered from twenty years & upward, and have murmured against me, {30} you shall not enter into the Land, over the which I have lifted up my hand to make you inhabit it, except Caleb the son of Jephone, and Josue the son of Nun. {31} But your little ones, of whom you said, that they should be a prey to the enemies, will I bring in: that they may see the Land that hath misliked you. {32} Your carcasses shall lie in the wilderness. {33} Your children shall wander in the desert forty years, and shall bear your fornication, until the carcasses of their fathers be consumed in the desert, {34} according to the number of the forty days, wherein you viewed the land: a year shall be reputed for a day. And forty years you shall receive your iniquities, and shall know my revenge: {35} for as I have spoken, so will I do to all this wicked multitude, that hath risen together against me: in this wilderness shall it fail, and die. {36} Therefore all the men, whom Moyses had sent to view the Land, and which returning had made all the multitude to murmur against him, detracting from the Land that it was nought, {37} died and were stricken in the sight of our Lord. {38} But Josue the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephone lived of all them, that had gone to view the Land. {39} And Moyses spake all these words to all the children of Israel, and the people mourned exceedingly. {40} And behold very early in the morning rising they went up to the top of the mountain, and said: We are ready to go up to the place, whereof our Lord hath spoken: for we have sinned. {41} To whom Moyses said: Why transgress you the word of our Lord, which shall not succeed prosperously with you? {42} Go not up, for our Lord is not with you: lest you fall before your enemies. {43} The Amalecite and the Chananite are before you, by whose sword you shall fall, for that you would not consent to our Lord, neither will our Lord be with you. {44} But they being blinded went up to the top of the mountain. But the ark of the testament of our Lord & Moyses departed not from the camp. {45} And the Amalecite came down and the Cananite, that dwelt in the mountain: and striking and hewing them, pursued them as far as Horma.

Certain precepts concerning Sacrifices 17. and first fruits, are repeated, 22. also touching different punishment of sin committed by ignorance and by set wilfulness: 32. and accordingly one is stoned to death for gathering sticks on the Sabbath day. 37. All are commanded to carry a sign in their garments, thereby to remember the commandments of God.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} thou shalt say to them: When you shall be Speak to the children of Israel, and entered into the Land of your habitation, which I will give you, {3} and shall make oblation to the Lord for an holocaust, or victim, paying vows, or voluntarily offering gifts, or in your solemnities burning a sweet savour unto the Lord, of oxen or of sheep: {4} whosoever immolateth the victim, shall offer a sacrifice of flour, the tenth part of an ephi tempered with oil, which shall have in measure the fourth part of an hin: {5} and wine of the same measure to pour the libaments shall he give for the holocaust or for the victim. For every lamb {6} and ram there shall be a sacrifice of flour of two tenths, which shall be tempered with oil the third part of an hin: {7} and wine for the libament, the third part of the same measure, shall he offer for a sweet savour to the Lord. {8} But when thou makest an holocaust or host of oxen, to fulfill thy vow, or for pacific victims, {9} thou shalt give for every ox three tenths of flour tempered with oil, which shall have half the measure of a hin: {10} and wine to pour libaments of the same measure for an oblation of most sweet savour to the Lord. {11} So shalt thou do {12} for every oxe and ram and lamb & buck goat. {13} As well they that are born in the country as the strangers {14} after one rite shall offer sacrifices. {15} There shall be all one precept & judgment as well to your selves as to the strangers of the land. {16} Our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {17} Speak to the children of Israel, & thou shalt say to them: {18} When you are come into the land, which I will give you, {19} and shall eat of the breads of that country, you shall separate first fruits to the Lord {20} of your meats. As of your barn floors you separate first fruits, {21} so of your pasts shall you give first fruits to the Lord {22} And if through ignorance you omit any of these things, which the Lord hath spoken to Moyses, {23} and by him hath commanded you, from the day that he began to command and so forward, {24} and the multitude have forgotten to do it: they shall offer a calf out of the herd, an holocaust for a most sweet savour to the Lord, and the sacrifice and libaments, thereof, as the ceremonies require, and a buck goat for sin: {25} and the Priest shall pray for all the multitude of the children of Israel: and it shall be forgiven them, because they sinned not wittingly, offering notwithstanding burnt sacrifice to the Lord for themselves and for their sin and error: {26} and it shall be forgiven all the people of the children of Israel, and the strangers, that sojourn among them: because it is the fault of all the people through ignorance. {27} But if one soul shall sin unwitting, he shall offer a she goat of a year old for his sin: {28} and the Priest shall pray for him, because he sinned unwitting before the Lord: and he shall obtain him pardon, and it shall be forgiven him. {29} As well to them that are born in the country as to the strangers one law shall be for all, that sin by ignorance. {30} But the soul, that through pride committeth any thing, whether he be born in the country, or a stranger, (because he hath been rebellious against the Lord) shall perish out of his people: {31} for he hath contemned the word of the Lord, and made his precept of no effect: therefore shall he be destroyed, and shall bear his iniquity. {32} And it came to pass, when the children of Israel were in the wilderness, and had found a man gathering sticks on the Sabbath day, {33} they presented him to Moyses and Aaron and the whole multitude. {34} Who shut him into prison, not knowing what they should do with him. {35} And our Lord said to Moyses, dying let this man die, let all the multitude stone him without the camp. {36} And when they had brought him out, they stoned him, and he died as our Lord had commanded. {37} Our Lord also said to Moyses: {38} Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, that they make themselves fringes in the corners of their garments, putting in them ribands of hyacinth: {39} which when they shall see, they may remember all the commandments of the Lord, and not follow their own cogitations and eyes, fornicating after diverse things, {40} but rather mindful of the precepts of the Lord may do them, and be holy to their God. {41} I, the Lord your God, that brought you out of the Land of Aegypt, that I might be your God.

Core and his complices, making schism against Moyses and Aaron, 31. some are swallowed in the earth, with their families and substance; 35. other two hundred and fifty offering incense, 41. and fourteen thousand seven hundred of the common people, murmuring in behalf of the seditious, are consumed with fire from heaven.

{1} AND behold Core the son of Isaar, the son of Caath, the son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiron the sons of Eliab, Hon also the son of Pheleth of the children of Ruben, {2} rose against Moyses, & other of the children of Israel, two hundred fifty men, princes of the synagogue, and which in the time of assembly were called by name. {3} And when they had stood up against Moyses and Aaron, they said: Let it suffice you, that all the multitude consisteth of holy ones, and our Lord is among them: Why lift you up your selves above the people of our Lord? {4} Which when Moyses had heard, he fell flat on his face: {5} and speaking to Core and all the multitude, he said: In the morning our Lord will make it known who pertain to him, and the holy he will join to himself: and whom he shall choose, they shall approach to him. {6} This do therefore: Take every man their censers, thou Core, and all thy council: {7} and taking fire in them to morrow, put upon it incense before our Lord: and whom soever he shall choose, the same shall be holy: you do much exalt your selves ye sons of Levi. {8} And he said again to Core: Hear ye sons of Levi: {9} Is it a small thing unto you, that the God of Israel hath separated you from all the people, and joined you to himself, that you should serve him in the service of the tabernacle, and should stand before the full assembly of the people, & should minister to him? {10} did he therefore make thee and all thy brethren the sons of Levi to approach unto him, that you should challenge unto you the priesthood also, {11} & all thy company should stand against our Lord? For what is Aaron that you murmur against him? {12} Moyses therefore sent to call Dathan and Abiron the sons of Eliab. Who answered: We come not. {13} Why, is it a small matter to thee that thou hast brought us out of a land, that flowed with milk and honey, to kill us in the desert, unless thou rule also like a Lord over us? {14} In deed, hast thou brought us into a land, that floweth with rivers of milk and honey, and hast thou given us possessions of fields and vineyards? What, wilt thou pluck out our eyes also? We come not. {15} Moyses therefore being very wrath, said to our Lord: Respect not their sacrifices: thou knowest that I have not taken of them so much as a little ass at any time, neither have afflicted any of them. {16} And he said to Core: Thou, and all thy congregation stand ye apart before our Lord, and Aaron to morrow apart. {17} Take every one your censers, and put incense upon them, offering to our Lord two hundred fifty censers: Let Aaron also hold his censer. {18} Which when they had done, Moyses and Aaron standing, {19} & had heaped together all the multitude against them to the door of the tabernacle, the glory of our Lord appeared to them all. {20} And our Lord speaking to Moyses and Aaron, said: {21} Separate your selves from the midst of this congregation, that I may suddenly destroy them. {22} Who fell flat on their face, and said: Most mighty God of the spirits of all flesh, when one sinneth, shall thy wrath rage against all? {23} And our Lord said to Moyses: {24} Command the whole people that they separate themselves from the tabernacles of Core and Dathan and Abiron. {25} And Moyses arose, and went to Dathan and Abiron: and the ancients of Israel following him, {26} he said to the multitude: Depart from the tabernacles of the impious men, and touch not the things that pertain to them, lest you be wrapped in their sins. {27} And when they were departed from their tents round about, Dathan and Abiron coming forth stood in the entry of their pavilions with their wives and children, and all the multitude. {28} And Moyses said: In this you shall know that our Lord hath sent me to do all things that you see, and that I have not forged them of my own mind: {29} If they die the accustomed death of men, and if the plague, wherewith others also are wont to be visited, do visit them, our Lord did not send me: {30} but if our Lord do a new thing, that the earth opening her mouth swallow them down, and all things that pertain to them, and they descend quick into hell, you shall know that they have blasphemed our Lord. {31} Immediately therefore as he ceased to speak, the earth brake a-sunder under their feet: {32} and opening her mouth, devoured them with their tabernacles & all their substance. {33} and they went down into hell quick covered with the ground, and perished out of the midst of the multitude. {34} But all Israel, that stood round about, fled at the cry of them that perished, saying: Lest perhaps the earth swallow us also. {35} But a fire also coming forth from our Lord, slew the two hundred fifty men, that offered the incense. {36} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {151} {37} Command Eleazar the son of Aaron the Priest that he take up the censers that lie in the burning fire, and that he sprinkle the fire hither and thither: because they be sanctified {38} in the deaths of the sinners: and let him beat them into plates, and fasten them to the altar, because there hath been offered incense in them to the Lord, and they are sanctified, that the children of Israel may see them for a sign and a monument. {39} Eleazar therefore the Priest took the brazen censers, wherein they had offered, whom the burning fire devoured, and beat them into plates, fastening them to the altar: {40} that the children of Israel afterward might have, wherewith to be admonished, that no stranger approach, and he that is not of the seed of Aaron, to offer incense to our Lord, lest he suffer as Core hath suffered, & all his congregation, according as our Lord spake to Moyses. {41} And all the multitude of the children of Israel murmured the day following against Moyses & Aaron, saying: You have killed the people of our Lord. {42} And when there rose a sedition, and the tumult grew farther, {43} Moyses and Aaron fled to the tabernacle of covenant. Which after they were entered the cloud covered it, and the glory of our Lord appeared. {44} And our Lord said to Moyses: {45} Depart from the midst of this multitude, even now will I destroy them. And as they lay upon the ground, {46} Moyses said to Aaron: Take the censer, and drawing fire from the altar, put incense upon it, going quickly to the people to pray for them: for even now is the wrath come forth from our Lord, & the plague rageth. {47} Which when Aaron had done, and had run to the midst of the multitude, which now the burning fire did waste, he offered the incense: {48} and standing between the dead and the living, he prayed for the people, and the plague ceased. {49} And there were, that were stricken, fourteen thousand and seven hundred men, beside them that had perished in the sedition of Core. {50} And Aaron returned to Moyses unto the door of the tabernacle of covenant after that the destruction was ceased.

Moyses taking of the Princes of twelve tribes twelve rods, and one of Aaron for the tribe of Levi, layeth them all in the tabernacle all night, 8. where Aaron's rod (and none of the rest) buddeth, bloometh, and bringeth forth fruit. 9. And all being shewed to the people, Aaron's is carried back, and kept for a monument in the tabernacle.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} take a rod of every one of their kindreds, Speak to the children of Israel, and of all the Princes of their tribes, twelve rods, and the name of every one thou shalt write upon his rod. {3} And the name of Aaron shall be in the tribe of Levi, and one rod shall contain all their families: {4} and thou shalt lay them in the tabernacle of covenant before the testimony, where I will speak to thee. {5} Whomsoever of these I shall choose, his rod shall blossom: and I shall stay from me the grudgings of the children of Israel, wherewith they murmur against you. {6} And Moyses spake to the children of Israel: and all the Princes gave him rods by every tribe: and they were twelve rods besides Aaron's rod. {7} Which when Moyses had laid before our Lord in the tabernacle of testimony: {8} returning the day following he found that Aaron's rod in the house of Levi was budded: and the buds thereof swelling, the blossoms were shot forth, which spreading the leaves; were fashioned into almonds. {9} Moyses therefore brought forth all the rods from the sight of our Lord to all the children of Israel, and they saw and every one received their rods. {10} And our Lord said to Moyses: Carry back Aaron's rod into the tabernacle of testimony, that it may be kept there for a sign of the rebellious children of Israel, and let their complaints cease from me, lest they die. {11} And Moyses did as our Lord had commanded. {12} And the children of Israel said to Moyses: Behold we are consumed, we are all perished. {13} Whosoever approacheth to the tabernacle of our Lord, he dieth. Are we all to be destroyed unto utter consumption?

The charge and burden of Priests within the Tabernacle, and of Levites about the same. 8. First fruits, and oblations are due to the Priests; 21. the tithes to the Levites; 26. who of the same pay tithes to the Priests.

{1} AND our Lord said to Aaron: Thou, and thy sons, and the house of thy father with thee shall bear the iniquity of the Sanctuary: both thou & thy sons together shall bear the sins of your priesthood. {2} But thy brethren also of the tribe of Levi, and the sceptre of thy father take with thee, and let them be ready at hand, and minister to thee: but thou and thy sons shall minister in the tabernacle of testimony. {3} And the Levites shall watch upon thy precepts, and upon all the works of the tabernacle: so notwithstanding, that they approach not to the vessels of the Sanctuary and to the altar, lest both they die, and you perish withal. {4} But let them be with thee, and watch in the custodies of the tabernacle, and in all the ceremonies thereof. A stranger shall not join with you. {5} Watch in the custody of the Sanctuary, and in the ministry of the altar: lest indignation rise upon the children of Israel. {6} I have given you your brethren the Levites out of the midst of the children of Israel, and have delivered them a gift to the Lord, to serve in the ministries of his tabernacle. {7} And thou and thy sons look to your priesthood: and all things that pertain to the service of the altar, and that are within the veil, shall be executed by the Priests. If any stranger approach, he shall be slain. {8} And our Lord spake to Aaron, behold I have given thee the custody of my first fruits. All things that are sanctified of the children of Israel, have I delivered to thee and to thy sons for the priestly office, as everlasting ordinances. {9} These things therefore shalt thou take of those, that are sanctified, and are offered to the Lord. All oblation, and sacrifice, and whatsoever is rendered to me for sin and offence, & becometh Holy of holies, shall be thine, and thy sons. {10} In the Sanctuary shalt thou eat it: males only shall eat thereof, because it is to thee a consecrated thing. {11} But the first fruits, which the children of Israel shall vow and offer, I have given thee, and thy sons, and thy daughters for a perpetual right. He that is clean in thy house, shall eat them. {12} All the best of oil, and wine, and corn, whatsoever first fruits they offer to the Lord, I have given them to thee. {13} Of fruits all the first, that the ground bringeth forth, and are brought to the Lord, shall turn to thy uses: he that is clean in thy house, shall eat them. {14} Every thing that the children of Israel render by vow, shall be thine. {15} Whatsoever first breaketh forth from the matrice of all flesh, which they offer to the Lord, whether it be of men, or of beasts, shall be thy right: yet so, that for the first born of man thou take a price, and every beast that is unclean thou cause to be redeemed. {16} whose redemption shall be after one month, for five sicles of silver, by the weight of the Sanctuary. A sicle hath twenty oboles. {17} But the first-born of beef and sheep and goat thou shalt not cause to be redeemed, because they are sanctified to the Lord, only the blood of them thou shalt pour upon the altar, and the fat thou shalt burn for a most sweet odour to the Lord. {18} But the flesh shall turn to thy use, as the consecrated breast, and the right shoulder, shall be thine. {19} All the first fruits of the Sanctuary which the children of Israel offer to the Lord, have I given thee and thy sons, and daughters for a perpetual right. A covenant of salt is it for ever before the Lord, to thee and to thy sons. {20} And our Lord said to Aaron: In their land you shall possess nothing, neither shall you have a portion among them: I am thy portion and inheritance in the midst of the children of Israel. {21} And to the sons of Levi I have given all the tithes of Israel in possession for the ministry wherewith they serve me in the tabernacle of covenant: {22} that the children of Israel approach not any more to the tabernacle, nor commit deadly sin, {23} only the sons of Levi serving me in the tabernacle, and bearing the sins of the people. It shall be an everlasting ordinance in your generations. No other thing shall they possess, {24} being content with the oblation of tithes, which I have separated for their uses and necessities. {25} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {26} Command the Levites, and denounce unto them: When you shall receive of the children of Israel the tithes, which I have given you, offer first fruits of them to the Lord, that is to say, the tenth part of the tenth: {27} that it may be reputed to you for an oblation of first fruits, as well of the barn floors as of the presses, {28} and of all things whereof you receive tithes, the first fruits offer to the Lord, and give them to Aaron the Priest. {29} All things that you shall offer of the tithes, and shall separate for the gifts of the Lord, they shall be the best and chosen things. {30} And thou shalt say to them: If you offer all the goodly and the better things of the tithes, it shall be reputed to you as if you had given first fruits of the barn floor and the press: {31} and you shall eat them in all your places, as well you as your families: because it is the reward for the ministry, wherewith you serve in the tabernacle of testimony. {32} And you shall not sin in this point, reserving the principal and fat things to your selves, lest you pollute the oblations of the children of Israel, and die.

A red cow is offered in burnt victim for sin: 9. whose ashes are mingled in water for expiation of diverse legal uncleanness, 11. as by touching the dead, 14. by entering into the tent of the dead, also the vessel that is therein, and the vessel that lacketh a cover, 22. and whatsoever the unclean toucheth.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses and Aaron, saying: which the Lord hath appointed. Command {2} This is the religion of the victim, the children of Israel, that they bring unto thee a red cow of full age, wherein is no blemish, and that hath not carried yoke: {3} and you shall deliver her to Eleazar the Priest, who bringing her forth without the camp, shall immolate her in the sight of all: {4} and dipping his finger in her blood, shall sprinkle it against the doors of the tabernacle seven times, {5} and shall burn her in the sight of all, committing as well her skin and the flesh, as the blood, and the dung to the fire. {6} Wood also of the cedar, and hyssop, and scarlet twice dyed shall the Priest cast into the flame, that wasteth the cow. {7} And then at length washing his garments, and his body, he shall enter into the camp, and shall be polluted until even. {8} But he also that burneth her shall wash his garments and his body, and shall be unclean until even. {9} And a man that is clean shall gather the ashes of the cow, and shall pour them out without the camp in a most clean place, that they may be reserved for the multitude of the children of Israel, and for water of aspersion: because the cow was burnt for sin. {10} And when he that carried the ashes of the cow hath washed his garments, he shall be unclean until even. The children of Israel, and the strangers that dwell among them, shall have this for a holy thing by a perpetual ordinance. {11} He that toucheth the dead corpse of a man, and is unclean therefore seven days, {12} shall be sprinkled of this water the third day, and the seventh, and so shall be cleansed. If he were not sprinkled the third day, the seventh day he can not be cleansed. {13} Every one that toucheth the dead corpse of man's soul, and is not sprinkled with this commixtion, shall pollute the tabernacle of the Lord, and shall perish out of Israel: because he was not sprinkled with the water of expiation, he shall be unclean, and his filthiness shall remain upon him. {14} This is the law of the man that dieth in a tabernacle: All that enter into his tent, and all the vessels that are there, shall be polluted seven days. {15} The vessel, that hath no cover, nor binding over it, shall be unclean. {16} If any man in the field touch the corpse of a man that was slain, or that died of himself, or his bone, or grave, he shall be unclean seven days. {17} And they shall take of the ashes of combustion & of sin, & shall pour living water upon them into a vessel: {18} in the which when a man that is clean hath dipped hyssop, he shall sprinkle therewith all the tent, and all the implements, and the men polluted with such contagion, {19} and in this manner he that is clean shall purge the unclean the third and seventh day, And being expiated the seventh day, he shall wash both himself and his garments, and be unclean until evening. {20} If any man be not expiated after this rite, his soul shall perish out of the midst of the Church: because he hath polluted the Lord's Sanctuary, and is not sprinkled with water of lustration. {21} This precept shall be an ordinance for ever. He also that sprinkleth the waters, shall wash his garments: Every one that toucheth the waters of expiation, shall be unclean until even. {22} Whatsoever he toucheth that is unclean he shall make it unclean: and the soul that toucheth any of these things, shall be unclean until even.

Mary the sister of Moyses dieth. 2. The people murmur for lack of water. 7. Moyses and Aaron being commanded to draw some out of a rock, do it doubtfully: 12. and for the same are foretold that they shall die in the desert. 14. Not obtaining licence to pass through Edom, 22. they come into Mount Hor, where Eleazar is ordained High-Priest, Aaron dieth, and is mourned by the people thirty days.

{1} AND the children of Israel, and all the multitude came into the desert Sin, the first month: and the people abode in Cades. And Mary died there, and was buried in the same place. {2} And when the people lacked water, they came together against Moyses and Aaron: {3} and being turned into sedition, said: Would God we had perished among our brethren before our Lord. {4} Why have you brought forth the Church of our Lord into the wilderness, that both we and our cattle should die? {5} Why did you make us ascend out of Aegypt, and have brought us into this exceeding naughty place, which can not be sowed, which bringeth forth neither fig, nor vines, nor pomegranates, moreover also hath no water for to drink? {6} And Moyses and Aaron, the multitude being dismissed, entering into the tabernacle of covenant, fell flat upon the ground, and cried to our Lord, and said: Lord God hear the cry of this people, and open unto them thy treasure the fountain of living water, that being satisfied, their murmuring may cease. And the glory of our Lord appeared over them. {7} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {8} Take the rod, and assemble the people together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and speak to the rock before them, and it shall give waters. And when thou hast brought forth water out of the rock, all the multitude shall drink and their cattle. {9} Moyses therefore took the rod, which was in the sight of our Lord, as he commanded him, {10} the multitude being assembled before the rock, and he said to them: Hear ye rebellious & incredulous: Can we out of this rock bring you forth water? {11} And when Moyses had lifted up his hand striking the rock twice with the rod, there came forth great plenty of water, so that the people drunk and their cattle. {12} And our Lord said to Moyses and Aaron: Because you have not believed me, to sanctify me before the children of Israel, you shall not bring in these peoples into the land, which I will give them. {13} This is the water of contradiction, where the children of Israel quarrelled against our Lord, and he was sanctified in them. {14} In the mean time Moyses sent messengers from Cades to the King of Edom, which should say: Thus thy brother Israel biddeth us to say: Thou knowest all the labour, that hath taken us, {15} in what manner our fathers went down into Aegypt, and there we dwelt a great time, and the Aegyptians afflicted us, and our fathers: {16} and in what manner we cried to our Lord, and he heard us, and sent an Angel, that hath brought us out of Aegypt. Lo being presently in the city of Cades, which is in thy uttermost borders, {17} we beseech thee that we may have licence to pass through thy country. We will not go through the fields, nor through the vineyards, we will not drink the waters of thy wells, but we will go the common high way, declining neither to the right hand, nor to the left, till we be past thy borders. {18} To whom Edom answered: Thou shalt not pass by me, otherwise I will come armed against thee. {19} And the children of Israel said: We will go by the beaten way: and if we and the cattle drink thy waters, we will give thee that which is just: there shall be no difficulty in the price, only let us pass speedily. {20} But he answered: Thou shalt not pass: And immediately he came forth to meet them with an infinite multitude, and a strong hand, {21} neither would he condescend to them desiring to grant them passage through his borders. For the which cause Israel turned an other way from him. {22} And when they had removed the camp from Cades, they came into the mountain Hor, which is in the borders of the land of Edom: {23} Where our Lord spake to Moyses: {24} Let Aaron, saith he, go to his people: for he shall not enter to the Land, which I have given the children of Israel, for that he was incredulous to my mouth, at the Waters of contradiction. {25} Take Aaron and his son with him, and thou shalt bring them into the mountain Hor. {26} And when thou hast unvested the father of his vesture, thou shalt revest therewith Eleazar his son: Aaron shall be gathered, and die there. {27} Moyses did as our Lord had commanded: and they went up into the mountain Hor before all the multitude. {28} And when he had spoiled Aaron of his vestments, he revested Eleazar his son with them. {29} After that he was dead in the top of the mountain, he went down with Eleazar. {30} And all the multitude seeing that Aaron was dead, mourned upon him thirty days throughout all their families.

Israelites at the first encounter with the Chananeites having the worse, after their vow kill the King of Arad, and destroy his cities. 4. The people again murmuring are stricken with fiery serpents, 7. but confessing their fault, Moyses by God's commandment setteth up a brazen serpent for a remedy. 10. They march through diverse places, 17. and sing a Canticle at a well which God gave them.. 21. They kill Sehon King of the Amorrhites, and conquer his land. 33. Likewise Og King of Basan.

{1} WHICH when the Chananite King of Arad, who dwelt toward the south, had heard, to wit, that Israel was come by the way of the spies, he fought against them, and being victor, he took the prey of them. {2} But Israel binding himself by vow to our Lord, said: If thou wilt deliver this people into my hand, I will destroy their cities. {3} And our Lord heard the prayers of Israel, and delivered the Chananite, whom they slew overthrowing their cities: and they called the name of that place Horma, that is to say, Anathema. {4} And they marched also from the mountain Hor, by the way that leadeth to the Red sea, that they might compass the land of Edom. And the people began to be weary of the journey and labour: {5} and speaking against God and Moyses, they said: Why didst thou bring us out of Aegypt, to die in the wilderness? There wanteth bread, waters there are none: our soul now loatheth at this most light meat. {6} Wherefore our Lord sent upon the people fiery serpents, at whose plagues and the deaths of very many, {7} they came to Moyses, and said: We have sinned, because we have spoken against our Lord and thee: Pray that he take from us the serpents. And Moyses prayed for the people {8} and our Lord spake to him: Make a brazen serpent, and set it for a sign: he that being stricken looketh on it, shall live. {9} Moyses therefore made A BRAZEN SERPENT, and set it for a sign: whom when they that were stricken looked on, they were healed. {10} And the children of Israel marching camped in Oboth. {11} Whence departing they pitched their tents in Jeabarim, in the wilderness, that looketh toward Moab against the east part. {12} And removing from thence, they came to the Torrent Zared. {13} Which they forsaking camped against Arnon, which is in the desert, & standeth out in the borders of the Amorrhite. For Arnon is the border of Moab, dividing the Moabites & the Amorrhites. {14} Whereof it is said in the book of the wars of our Lord: As he did in the Red sea, so will he do in the streams of Arnon. {15} The rocks of the torrents were bowed, that they might rest in Ar, and lie in the borders of the Moabites. {16} From that place appeared the well, whereof our Lord spake to Moyses: Gather the people together, and I will give them water. {17} Then Israel sang this verse: Arise the well. They sang thereto: {18} The well, which the Princes digged, & the Captains of the multitude prepared in the lawgiver, and in their staves. And they marched from the wilderness to Mathana. {19} From Mathana unto Nahaliel: from Nahaliel unto Bamoth {20} From Bamoth is a valley in the country of Moab, in the top of Phasga, which looketh toward the desert. {21} And Israel sent messengers to Sehon King of the Amorrhites, saying: {22} I beseech thee that I may have licence to pass through thy land: we will not go aside into the fields and the vineyards, we will not drink waters of the wells, we will go the king's high way, till we be past thy borders. {23} Who would not grant that Israel should pass by his borders; but rather gathering an army, went forth to meet them in the desert, and came unto Jasa, and fought against them. {24} Of whom he was stricken in the edge of the sword, and his land was possessed from Arnon unto Jeboc, and to the children of Ammon: for the borders of the Ammonites were kept with a strong garrison. {25} Israel therefore took all his cities, and dwelt in the cities of the Amorrhite, to wit, in Hesebon, and the villages thereof. {26} The city Hesebon was Sehon's the king of the Amorrhite, who fought against the king of Moab: and took all the land, that had been of his dominion, as far as Arnon. {27} Therefore it is said in the proverb: Come into Hesebon, let the city of Sehon be built and erected: {28} A fire went forth from Hesebon, a flame from the town of Sehon, & devoured Ar of the Moabites, and the inhabitants of the high places of Arnon. {29} Woe to thee Moab, thou art undone people of Chamos. He hath given his sons into flight, and his daughters into captivity to Sehon the King of the Amorrhites. {30} There yoke is perished from Hesebon unto Dibon, they came weary into Nophe, and unto Medaba. {31} Israel therefore dwelt in the Land of the Amorrhite. {32} And Moyses sent some to take a view of Jazer: Whose villages they took, and possessed the inhabitants. {33} And they turned themselves, and went up by the way of Basan, and Og the king of Basan came against them with all his people, to fight in Edrai. {34} And our Lord said to Moyses: Fear him not, for into thy hand I have delivered him, and all his people, and land: and thou shalt do to him as thou didst to Sehon the king of the Amorrhites, the inhabiter of Hesebon. {35} They therefore smote him also with his sons, and all his people unto utter destruction, and they possessed his land.

Balac King of Moab fearing the Israelites, sendeth for Balaam a soothsayer to curse them. 8. Who consulting his false God, is forbid by God Almighty to go, and so excuseth himself. 15. Balac sendeth again offering greater reward. 19. he again consulteth, and God biddeth him go. 22. But sendeth an Angel to meet him in the way, who his ass seeing, shunned three times, and so often he beateth her, 28. then she speaketh, expostulating his hard usage: 31. he also seeth the Angel, 35. and is charged to speak nothing but that the Angel shall suggest.

{1} AND marching forward they camped in the champion country of Moab, where Jericho is situated beyond Jordan. {2} And Balac the son of Sephor seeing all things that Israel had done to the Amorrhite, {3} and that the Moabites were in great fear of him, and could not sustain his assault, {4} he said to the elders of Midian: So will this people destroy all that dwell in our coasts, as the oxe is wont to eat the grass unto the very roots. And he was at the same time king in Moab. {5} He sent therefore messengers to Balaam the son of Beor a soothsayer, who dwelt upon the river of the land of the children of Ammon, to call him, and to say: Behold a people is come out of Aegypt, that hath covered the face of the earth, sitting against me. {6} Come therefore, and curse this people, because it is mightier than I: if by any means I may strike them and cast them out of my land. For I know that he is blessed whom thou shalt bless, and cursed upon whom thou shalt heap curses. {7} And the ancients of Moab went, and the elders of Midian, having the price of divination in their hands. And when they were come to Balaam, and had told him all the words of Balac: {8} he answered: Tarry here this night, and I will answer whatsoever the Lord shall say to me. And whilst they stayed with Balaam, God came, and said to him: {9} What would these men that are with thee? {10} He answered: Balac the son of Sephor king of the Moabites hath sent to me, {11} saying: Behold a people that is come out of Aegypt, hath covered the face of the land: come, and curse them, if by any means fighting I may drive them away. {12} And God said to Balaam: Go not with them, neither do thou curse the people: because it is blessed. {13} Who in the morning arising said to the Princes: Go into your country, because the Lord hath forbid me to come with you. {14} The princes returning, said to Balac: Balaam would not come with us. {15} Again he sent many more and more noble, than he had sent before. {16} Who when they were come to Balaam, said: Thus saith Balac the son of Sephor: Slack not to come to me: {17} for I am ready to honour thee, and whatsoever thou wilt I will give thee: Come, and curse this people. {18} Balaam answered: If Balac would give me his house full of silver and gold, I can not change the word of the Lord my God, to speak either more, or less. {19} I beseech you that you will also tarry here this night, and I may know what the Lord will answer me once more. {20} God therefore came to Balaam in the night, and said to him: If these men be come to call thee, arise and go with them: yet so, that thou do that which I shall command thee. {21} Balaam arose in the morning, and saddling his ass went with them. {22} And God was angry. And an Angel of our Lord stood in the way against Balaam, who sat upon the ass, and had two servants with him. {23} The ass seeing the Angel standing in the way, with a drawn sword, turned her self out of the way, and went by the field. Whom when Balaam had beat, and had brought her again to the beaten way, {24} the Angel stood in the straits of two walls, wherewith vineyards were inclosed. {25} Whom the ass seeing, joined her self close to the wall, and bruised the foot of him that rid. But he beat her again: {26} and nevertheless the Angel passing to a narrow place, where there could be no going aside neither to the right hand nor to the left, stood to meet him. {27} And when the ass had seen the Angel standing, she fell under the feet of the rider. Who being angry, beat her sides with a staff more vehemently. {28} And our Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and she spake: What have I done to thee? Why strikest thou me, lo now the third time? {29} Balaam answered: Because thou hast deserved, and hast abused me: I would I had a sword, that I might kill thee. {30} The ass said: Am not I thy beast, on which thou hast been always accustomed to ride until this present day? Tell me what like thing did I ever to thee. But he said: Never. {31} Forthwith our Lord opened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the Angel standing in the way with a drawn sword, and he adored him flat to the ground. {32} To whom the Angel said: Why beatest thou thy ass the third time? I am come to withstand thee, because thy way is perverse, and contrary to me: {33} and unless the ass had turned out of the way, giving place to me resisting thee, I had slain thee, and she should have lived. {34} Balaam said: I have sinned, not knowing that thou didst stand against me: and now if it displease thee that I go, I will return. {35} The Angel said: Go with these men, and see thou speak no other thing than I shall command thee. He went therefore with the Princes. {36} Which when Balac heard, he came forth to meet him in a town of the Moabites, that is situated in the uttermost borders of Arnon. {37} And he said to Balaam: I sent messengers to call thee, why didst thou not come immediately unto me? Was it because I can not reward thy coming? {38} To whom he answered: Lo here I am: Shall I be able to speak any other thing, but that which God shall put in my mouth? {39} They therefore went on together, and came into a city, that was in the uttermost borders of his Kingdom. {40} And when Balac had killed oxen, and sheep, he sent thereof to Balaam, and to the Princes that were with him, presents. {41} And when morning was come, he brought him to the excelses of Baal, and he beheld the uttermost part of the people.

Balaam endeavoureth to curse Israel, but God forceth him to bless them. 11. Again he urgeth him to curse them, but he still prophesieth good things of them. 26. Yet Balac insisteth willing him to curse, or not to bless them.

{1} AND Balaam said to Balac: Build me here seven altars, and prepare as many calves, and rams of the same number. {2} And when he had done according to the word of Balaam, they together laid a calf and a ram upon an altar. {3} And Balaam said to Balac: Stand a while beside thy holocaust, until I go, if happenly the Lord will meet me, and whatsoever he shall command, I will speak to thee. {4} And when he was gone in haste, God met him. And Balaam speaking to him, said: I have erected seven altars, and have laid thereon a calf and a ram. {5} And our Lord put a word in his mouth, and said: Return to Balac, and thus shalt thou speak. {6} Returning he found Balac standing beside his holocaust, and all the Princes of the Moabites: {7} and taking up his parable, he said: From Aram hath Balac king of the Moabites brought me, from the mountains of the East: Come, quoth he, and curse Jacob; make haste, and detest Israel. {8} How shall I curse, whom God hath not cursed? By what means may I detest, whom the Lord detesteth not? {9} From the highest flints shall I see him, and from the hills shall I view him. The people shall dwell alone, and among the Gentiles shall not be accounted. {10} Who may be able to number the dust of Jacob, and to know the number of the stock of Israel? My soul die the death of the just, and my last ends be made like to them. {11} And Balac said to Balaam: What is this that thou doest? That thou shouldst curse mine enemies I called thee: and thou contrary wise blessest them. {12} To whom he answered: Can I speak ought else, but that which the Lord commandeth? {13} Balac therefore said: Come with me into an other place whence thou mayest see part of Israel, and canst not see the whole, from thence curse them. {14} And when he had brought him into a high place, upon the top of the mountain Phasga, Balaam builded seven altars, and laying thereon calves and rams, {15} he said to Balac: Stand here beside thy holocaust, whilst I go to meet him. {16} Whom when our Lord had met, and had put the word in his mouth, he said: Return to Balac and thus thou shalt speak to him. {17} Returning he found him standing beside his holocaust, and the Princes of the Moabites with him. To whom Balac said: What hath the Lord spoken? {18} But he taking up his parable, said: Stand Balac, and hearken, hear thou son of Sephor: {19} God is not as man, that he may lie, nor as the son of man, that he may be changed. Hath he said then, and will he not do? Hath he spoken, and will he not fulfil? {20} I was brought to bless, the blessing I am not able to stay. {21} There is no idol in Jacob, neither is there simulachre to be seen in Israel. The Lord his God is with him, and the sound of the victory of the king in him. {22} God hath brought him out of Aegypt, whose strength is like to the unicorn. {23} There is no Soothsaying in Jacob, nor divination in Israel. In their times it shall be said to Jacob and Israel what God hath wrought. {24} Behold the people shall rise up as a lioness and as a lion shall raise it self: It shall not lie down till it devour the prey, and drink the blood of the slain. {25} And Balac said to Balaam: neither curse, nor bless him. {26} And he said: Did I not tell thee, that whatsoever God should command me, that would I do? {27} And Balac said to him: Come, and I will bring thee to an other place: if happenly it please God that thence thou mayest curse them. {28} And when he had brought him upon the top of the mountain Phogor, which looketh to the wilderness, {29} Balaam said to him: Build me here seven altars, and prepare as many calves, and rams of the same number. {30} Balac did as Balaam had said: and he laid the calves and the rams on every altar.

Balaam forced by the evidence of truth (though not converted in will to serve God, whom he confesseth to be omnipotent) prophesieth still more good of Israel: 10. wherefore Balac interrupted him, and he answereth plainly that God Almighty will have it so. 15. And so proceeding he prophesieth of CHRIST. 20. Also of Amalacheites, Cineites, and Italians.

{1} AND when Balaam had seen that it pleased our Lord that he should bless Israel, he went not as before he had gone, to seek soothsaying: but directing his countenance against the desert, {2} and lifting up his eyes, he saw Israel abiding in their tents by their tribes: and the spirit of God coming vehemently upon him, {3} taking up his parable he said: Balaam the son of Beor hath said:

The man hath said whose eye is stopped: {4} The hearer of the words of God hath said, he that hath beheld the vision of the Omnipotent, he that falleth, and so his eyes are opened: {5} How beautiful are thy tabernacles, o Jacob, and thy tents, o Israel! {6} As woody valleys, as watered gardens beside the rivers, as tabernacles which the Lord hath pitched, as cedars by the waters' side. {7} Water shall flow out of his bucket, and his seed shall be into many waters. For Agag shall his king be taken away, and his kingdom shall be taken away. {8} God hath brought him out of Aegypt, whose strength is like to the Rhinoceros. They shall devour nations his enemies, and break their bones, and pierce them with arrows. {9} Lying, he hath slept as a lion, and as a lioness, whom none shall be bold to raise up. He that blesseth thee, himself also shall be blessed: he that curseth thee, shall be reputed accurst. {10} And Balac being angry against Balaam, clapping his hands together said: To curse mine enemies I called thee, whom thou contrary wise hast blessed the third time: {11} return to thy place. I was determined verily to honour thee magnifically, but the Lord hath deprived thee of the honour appointed. {12} Balaam made answer to Balac: did I not say to thy messengers, whom thou didst send to me: {13} If Balac would give me his house full of silver and gold, I can not pass the word of the Lord my God, to utter of my own mind either any good, or evil: but whatsoever the Lord shall say, that will I speak? {14} But yet going to my people, I will give thee counsel, what thy people shall do to this people in the last time. {15} Therefore taking up his parable, again he said: Balaam the son of Beor hath said: The man whose eye is stopped, hath said: {16} the hearer of the words of God hath said, who knoweth the doctrine of the Highest, and seeth the visions of the Omnipotent, who falling hath his eyes opened: {17} I shall see him, but not now: I shall behold him but not near. A STAR SHALL RISE out of Jacob, and a rod shall arise from Israel: and shall strike the Dukes of Moab, and shall waste all the children of Seth. {18} And Idumea shall be his possession: the inheritance of Seir shall come to their enemies: but Israel shall do manfully. {19} Of Jacob shall he be that shall rule, and shall destroy the remains of the city. {20} And when he had seen Amalec, taking up his parable, he said: Amalec the beginning of Gentiles, whose latter ends shall be destroyed. {21} He saw also the Cinite: and taking up his parable, he said: Thy habitation indeed is strong: but if thou build thy nest in a rock, {22} and thou be chosen of the stock of Cin, how long shalt thou be able to continue? For Assur shall take thee. {23} And taking up his parable again he spake: Alas, who shall live, when God shall do these things? {24} They shall come in galleys from Italy, they shall overcome the Assyrians, and shall waste the Hebrews, and at the last themselves also shall perish. {25} And Balaam rose, and returned into his place: Balac also returned the way that he came.

By carnal fornication many are drawn to spiritual. For which twenty four thousand are slain. 10. Phinees his zeal in stabbing to death two fornicators is commended by God, and rewarded.

{1} AND Israel at that time abode in Setim, and the people fornicated with the daughters of Moab, {2} who called them to their sacrifices. And they did eat and adore their gods. {3} And Israel was professed to Beelphegor, and our Lord being angry, {4} said to Moyses: Take all the Princes of the people, and hang them up against the sun on gibbets: that my fury may be averted from Israel. {5} And Moyses said to the Judges of Israel: Kill every man his neighbours, that are professed to Beelphegor. {6} And behold one of the children of Israel entered in before the face of his brethren to a whore a Madianite in the sight of Moyses, and of all the multitude of the children of Israel, who wept before the doors of the tabernacle. {7} Which thing when Phinees had seen the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron the Priest, he arose out of the midst of the multitude, and catching a dagger {8} went in after the man of Israel into the brothel house, and thrust them through both together, to wit, the man and the woman in the genitals. And the plague ceased from the children of Israel, {9} and there were slain four and twenty thousand men. {10} And our Lord said to Moyses: {11} Phinees the son of Eleazar the son of Aaron the Priest hath averted my wrath from the children of Israel: because he was moved with my zeal against them, that my self might not destroy the children of Israel in mine own zeal. {12} Therefore speak to him: Behold I give him the peace of my covenant, {13} and there shall be as well to him as to his seed the covenant of priesthood for ever, because he hath been zealous for his God, and hath expiated the wicked fact of the children of Israel. {14} And the name of the man of Israel, that was slain with the woman of Midian, was Zambris the son of Salu, a Prince of the kindred and tribe of Simeon. {15} Moreover the Madianess that was slain with him, was called Cozbi the daughter of Sur a most noble Prince of the Madianites. {16} And our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {17} Let the Madianites find you their enemies, and strike you them: {18} Because they also have done like enemies against you, and have guilefully deceived you by the idol Phogor and Cozbi the daughter of the Duke of Midian their sister, who was stricken in the day of the plague for the sacrilege of Phogor.

All the men of twelve tribes being again numbered, from the age of twenty years and upward, are found to be six hundred one thousand seven hundred and thirty. 57. Of the tribe of Levi also, numbered of the male sex from the age of one month and upward, are found twenty three thousand: 64, all being dead in the desert, which were numbered before, except Caleb and Josue.

{1} AFTER the blood of the offenders was shed, our Lord said to Moyses and Eleazar the son of Aaron, the Priest: {2} Number the whole sum of the children of Israel from twenty years and upward, by their houses and kindreds, all that can go forth to wars. {3} Moyses therefore & Eleazar the Priest spake, in the champion country of Moab upon Jordan against Jericho, to them that were {4} from twenty years and upward, as our Lord had commanded, of whom this is the number: {5} Ruben the first born of Israel, his son, Henoch, of whom is the family of the Henochites: and Phallu, of whom is the family of the Phalluites: {6} and Hesron, of whom is the family of the Hesronites: and Charmi, of whom is the family of the Charmites. {7} These are the families of the stock of Ruben: whose number was found forty three thousand, and seven hundred thirty {8} The son of Phallu, Eliab: {9} his sons, Namuel and Dathan and Abiron. These are Dathan and Abiron the Princes of the people, that rose against Moyses and Aaron in the sedition of Core, when they rebelled against our Lord: {10} and the earth opening her mouth devoured Core, very many dying, when the fire burnt two hundred fifty men. And there was a great miracle done, {11} that Core perishing, his sons perished not. {12} The sons of Simeon by their kindreds: Namuel, of him is the family of the Namuelites: Iamin, of him is the family of the Iaminites: Iachin, of him is the family of Iachinites: {13} Zare, of him is the family of the Zareites: Saul, of him is the family of the Saulites. {14} These are the families of the stock of Simeon, of which the whole number was two and twenty thousand two hundred. {15} The sons of Gad by their kindreds: Sephon, of him is the family of the Sephonites: Aggi, of him is the family of the Aggitites: Suni, of him is the family of the Sunites: {16} Ozni, of him is the family of the Oznites: Her, of him is the family of the Herites: {17} Arod, of him is the family of the Arodites: Ariel, of him is the family of the Arielites. {18} These are the families of Gad, of which the whole number was forty thousand five hundred. {19} The sons of Judas, Her, and Onan, who died both in the land of Chanaan. {20} And the sons of Judas by their kindreds were: Sela, of whom is the family of the Selaites: Phares, of whom is the family of the Pharesites: Zare, of whom is the family of the Zareites. {21} Moreover the sons of Phares; Hesron, of whom is the family of the Hesronites: and Hamul, of whom is the family of the Hamulites.

{22} these are the families of Judas, of which the whole number was seventy six thousand five hundred. {23} The sons of Issachar, by their kindreds: Thola, of whom is the family of the Tholaites: Phua, of whom is the family of the Phuaites: {24} Jasub, of whom is the family of the Jasubites: Semran, of whom is the family of the Semranites. {25} these are the kindreds of Issachar, whose number was sixty four thousand three hundred. {26} The sons of Zabulon by their kindreds: Sared, of whom is the family of the Saredites: Elon of whom is the family of the Elonites: Jalel of whom is the family of Jalelites. {27} These are the kindreds of Zabulon, whose number was sixty thousand five hundred: {28} The sons of Joseph by their kindreds, Manasses & Ephraim. {29} Of Manasses was born Machir, of whom is the family of the Machirites. Machir begat Galaad, of whom is the family of the Galaadites. {30} Galaad had sons: Jezer, of whom is the family of the Jezerites: & Helec, of whom is the family of the Heleclites: {31} and Asriel, of whom is the family of the Asrielites: and Sechem, of whom is the family of the Sechemites: {32} & Semida, of whom is the family of the Semidaites: and Hepher, of whom is the family of the Hepherites. {33} And Hepher was the father of Salphaad, who had no sons, but only daughters, whose names are these: Maala, and Noa, and Hegla, and Melcha, and Tersa. {34} These are the families of Manasses, & the number of them is fifty two thousand seven hundred. {35} And the sons of Ephraim by their kindreds were these: Suthala, of whom is the family of the Suthalaites: Becher, of whom is the family of the Becherites: Thehen, of whom is the family of the Thehenites. {36} Moreover the son of Suthala was Heran, of whom is the family of the Heranites. {37} these are the kindreds of the sons of Ephraim: whose number was thirty two thousand five hundred. {38} These are the sons of Joseph by their families. The sons of Benjamin in their kindreds: Bela, of whom is the family of the Belaites: Asbel, of whom is the family of the Asbelites: Ahiram, of whom is the family of the Ahiramites: {39} Supham, of whom is the family of the Suphamites: Hupham, of whom is the family of the Huphamites. {40} The sons of Bela: Hered, and Noeman. Of Hered, the family of the Heredites: of Noeman, the family of the Noemanites. {41} These are the sons of Benjamin by their kindreds, whose number was forty five thousand six hundred. {42} The sons of Dan by their kindreds: Suham, of whom is the family of the Suhamites: these are the kindreds of Dan by their families. {43} All were Suhamites, whose number was sixty four thousand four hundred. {44} The sons of Aser by their kindreds: Jemna, of whom is the family of the Jemnaites: Jessui, of whom is the family of the Jessuites: Brie, of whom is the family of the Brieites. {45} The sons of Brie: Heber, of whom is the family of the Heberites: and Melchiel, of whom is the family of the Melchielites. {46} And the name of the daughter of Aser, was Sara. {47} These are the kindreds of the Sons of Aser, and their number fifty three thousand four hundred. {48} The sons of Nephthali by their kindreds: Jessie, of whom is the family of the Jesielites: Guni, of whom is the family of the Gunites: {49} Jeser, of whom is the family of the Jeserites: Sellem, of whom is the family of the Sellemites. {50} these are kindreds of the sons of Nephthali by their families: whose number was forty five thousand four hundred. {51} This is the sum of the children of Israel, that were reckoned, six hundred thousand, and a thousand seven hundred thirty. {52} And our Lord spake to Moyses saying: {53} To these shall the land be divided according to the number of names for their possessions. {54} To the greater number thou shalt give a greater portion, and to the fewer a less: to every one, as they have now been reckoned, shall possession be delivered: {55} yet so that lot do divide the Land to the tribes and the families. {56} Whatsoever shall chance by lot, that let either the more take, or the fewer. {57} This also is the number of the sons of Levi by their families: Gerson, of whom the family of the Gersonites: Caath, of whom the family of the Caathites: Merari, of whom the family of the Merarites. {58} These are the families of Levi: The family of Lobni, the family of Hebron, the family of Moholi, the family of Musi, the family of Core. Howbeit Caath begat Amram: {59} who had to wife Jochabed the daughter of Levi, who was born to him in Aegypt, She bare to Amram her husband sons, Aaron and Moyses, and Mary their sister. {60} Of Aaron were born Nadab and Abiu, and Eleazar and Ithamar: {61} of the which Nadab and Abiu died, when they had offered the strange fire before our Lord. {62} And all that were numbered were twenty three thousand of the male kind from one month and upward: who were not reckoned among the children of Israel, neither was their possession given with the rest. {63} This is the number of the children of Israel, that were enrolled by Moyses and Eleazar the Priest, in the champion country of Moab upon Jordan against Jericho. {64} Among whom there was none of them that were numbered before by Moyses and Aaron in the desert of Sinai. {65} For our Lord had foretold that all should die in the wilderness. And none remained of them, but Caleb the son of Jephone, and Josue the son of Nun.

Salphaad's daughters succeed to their father's inheritance. 8. And the law is established that for lack of sons daughters shall inherit, and for lack also of daughters the next of kin. 12. God commandeth Moyses to ascend into Mount Abarim, and thence view the promised Land, but foretelleth him that he shall die, and not go into it. 15. He then prayeth God to provide an other to lead the people, 18. and Josue is designed in presence of Eleazar and the people.

{1} AND there came the daughters of Salphaad, the son of Hepher, the son of Galaad, the son of Machir, the son of Manasses, who was the son of Joseph: whose names are, Maala, and Noa, and Hegla, and Melcha, and Thersa. {2} And they stood before Moyses and Eleazar the Priest, and all the Princes of the people at the door of the tabernacle of covenant, and said: {3} Our father died in the desert, neither was he in the sedition, that was raised against our Lord under Core, but he died in his own sin: he had no men children. Why is his name taken away out of his family, because he hath not a son? Give us possession among the kin of our father. {4} And Moyses referred their cause to the judgment of our Lord. {5} Who said to him: {6} The daughters of Salphaad require a just thing: give them possession among their father's kin, and let them succeed him in the inheritance. {7} And to the children of Israel thou shalt speak these things: {8} When a man dieth without a son, his inheritance shall pass to his daughter. {9} If he have no daughter, he shall have his brethren his successors. {10} And if he have no brethren neither, you shall give the inheritance to his father's brethren. {11} But if he have no such uncles by the father neither, the inheritance shall be given to them that are the next of kin: and this shall be to the children of Israel a holy ordinance by a perpetual law, as the Lord hath commanded Moyses. {12} Our Lord also said to Moyses: Go up into this mountain Abarim, and view from thence the Land which I will give to the children of Israel: {13} and when thou shall have seen it, thou also shall go to thy people, as thy brother Aaron is gone: {14} because you did offend me in the desert Sin in the contradiction of the multitude, neither would you sanctify me before them upon the waters. These are the waters of contradiction in Cades of the desert Sin. {15} To whom Moyses answered: {16} Our Lord, the God of the spirits of all flesh, provide a man that may be over this multitude: {17} and may go out and enter in before them, and bring them out, or bring them in: lest the people of our Lord be as sheep without a pastor. {18} And our Lord said to him: Take Josue the son of Nun, a man in whom is the Spirit, and put thy hand upon him. {19} Who shall stand before Eleazar the Priest and all the multitude: {20} and thou shalt give him precepts in the sight of all, and part of thy glory, that all the synagogue of the children of Israel may hear him. {21} For him, if any thing be to be done, Eleazar the Priest shall consult the Lord. At his word shall he go out and shall go in, and all the children of Israel with him, and the rest of the multitude. {22} Moyses did as our Lord had commanded. And when he had taken Josue, he set him before Eleazar the Priest, and all the assembly of the people. {23} And imposing his hands on his head, he repeated all things that our Lord had commanded.

Special sacrifices are appointed for every day in the morning and evening. Likewise for every Sabbath day, 21. for the first day of every month, for Pasch, 26. and for Pentecost.

{1} OUR Lord also said to Moyses: {2} thou shalt say to them: My oblation and Command the children of Israel, and breads, and burnt sacrifice of most sweet odour offer ye in their times. {3} These are the sacrifices which you must offer: Two lambs of a year old without blemish daily for the everlasting holocaust: {4} one you shall offer in the morning, and the other at even: {5} the tenth part of an ephi of flour, which shall be tempered with the purest oil, and shall have the fourth part of an hin. {6} It is the continual holocaust which you offered in Mount Sinai for a most sweet odour of the burnt sacrifice of the Lord. {7} and for a libament you shall offer of wine the fourth part of an hin for every lamb in the Sanctuary of the Lord. {8} And the other lamb in like manner you shall offer at even according to all the rite of the morning sacrifice, and of the libaments thereof, an oblation of most sweet odour to the Lord. {9} And on the day of the Sabbath, you shall offer two lambs of a year old without blemish, and two tenths of flour tempered with oil in sacrifice, & the libaments, {10} which are ritely poured every Sabbath for an everlasting holocaust. {11} And in the Calends you shall offer an holocaust to the Lord, two calves of the herd, one ram, seven lambs of a year old without blemish, {12} and three tenths of flour tempered with oil in sacrifice for every calf: and two tenths of flour tempered with oil to every ram: {13} and the tenth part of a tenth of flour tempered with oil in sacrifice to every lamb. It is an holocaust of most sweet odour and burnt sacrifice to the Lord. {14} And the libaments of wine, that are to be poured for every victim, shall be these: The half part of an hin for every calf, the third to a ram, the fourth to a lamb. This shall be the holocaust through all months that succeed one an other as the year turneth about. {15} A buck goat also shall be offered to the Lord for sins an everlasting holocaust with his libaments. {16} And in the first month the fourteenth day of the month shall be the Phase of the Lord, {17} and the fifteenth day the solemnity: seven days shall they eat azymes. {18} Of the which the first day shall be venerable & holy: no servile work shall you do therein. {19} And you shall offer burnt sacrifice an holocaust to the Lord, two calves of the herd, one ram, seven lambs of a year old without blemish: {20} and the sacrifice of every one of flour which shall be tempered with oil, three tenths to every calf, & two tenths to every ram, {21} and the tenth part of a tenth to every lamb, that is to say, to the seven lambs. {22} And one buck goat for sin, that expiation may be made for you, {23} beside the morning holocaust which you shall always offer. {24} So shall you do every day of the seven days for a food of the fire, & for a most sweet odour to the Lord, which shall rise of the holocaust, and of the libaments of every on. {25} The seventh day also shall be most solemn and holy unto you; no servile work shall you do therein. {26} The day also of first fruits when you shall offer new fruits to the Lord, after that the weeks be accomplished, shall be venerable and holy: no servile work shall you do therein. {27} And you shall offer an holocaust for a most sweet odour to the Lord, two calves of the herd, one ram, and seven Lambs of a year old without blemish: {28} and in the sacrifices of them three tenths of flour tempered with oil to every calf, to every ram two, {29} every lamb the tenth part of a tenth, which together are seven lambs. A goat also {30} which is slain for expiation: beside the everlasting holocaust & the libaments thereof. {31} All shall you offer without blemish with their libaments.

In the seventh month are celebrated with particular sacrifices the feasts of Trumpets, 7. of expiation, 12. of Tabernacles, 35. and of Assembly and Collection.

{1} THE first day also of the seventh month shall be venerable and holy unto you, no servile work shall you do therein, because it is the day of sounding and of trumpets. {2} And you shall offer an holocaust for a most sweet odour to the Lord, one calf of the herd, one ram, and seven lambs of a year old without blemish: {3} and in their sacrifices of flour tempered with oil three tenths to every calf, two tenths to a ram, {4} one tenth to a lamb, which together are seven lambs: {5} and a buck goat for sin, which is offered for the expiation of the people, {6} besides the holocaust of the Calends with the sacrifices thereof, and the everlasting holocaust with the accustomed libaments. With the same ceremonies shall you offer burnt sacrifice for a most sweet odour to the Lord. {7} The tenth day also of this seventh month shall be holy and venerable unto you, & you shall afflict your souls: no servile work shall you do therein. {8} And you shall offer an holocaust to the Lord for a most sweet odour, one calf of the herd, one ram, seven Lambs of a year old without blemish: {9} and in their sacrifices of flour tempered with oil three tenths to every calf, two tenths to the ram, {10} the tenth part of a tenth to every lamb, which are in all seven lambs: {11} and a buck goat for sin, besides these things that are wont to be offered for offence unto expiation, and for the everlasting holocaust with their sacrifice and libaments. {12} But the fifteenth day of the seventh month, which shall be unto you holy and venerable, no servile work shall you do therein, but you shall celebrate the solemnity to the Lord seven days. {13} and you shall offer an holocaust for a most sweet odour to the Lord, calves of the herd thirteen, rams two, lambs of a year old without blemish fourteen: {14} & in their libaments of flour tempered with oil three tenths to every calf, which are together thirteen calves: & two tenths to every ram, that is, together to two rams, {15} And the tenth part of a tenth to every lamb, which are together fourteen lambs: {16} and a buck goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust, & the sacrifice & the libament thereof. {17} The next day you shall offer calves of the herd twelve, two rams, lambs a year old without blemish fourteen: {18} and the sacrifices and libaments of every one to the calves and the rams and the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {19} and a buck goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust, and the sacrifice and libament thereof. {20} The third day you shall offer eleven calves, two rams, lambs of a year old without blemish fourteen: {21} and the sacrifices and the libaments of every one to the calves & the rams and the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {22} and a buck-goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust, and the sacrifice, and libament thereof. {23} The fourth day you shall offer ten calves, two rams, lambs a year old without blemish fourteen: {24} and the sacrifices and the libaments of every one to the calves and the rams and the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {25} and a buck-goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust, and the sacrifice thereof and libament. {26} The fifth day you shall offer nine calves, two rams, lambs of a year old without blemish fourteen: {27} and the sacrifices and the libaments of every one to the calves and the rams and the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {28} and a buck-goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust, and the sacrifices thereof and libament. {29} The sixth day you shall offer eight calves, two rams, lambs of a year old without blemish fourteen: {30} & the sacrifices and the libaments of every one to the calves and the rams & the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {31} and a buck-goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust, and the sacrifice thereof and libament. {32} The seventh day you shall offer seven calves, and two rams, lambs of a year old without blemish fourteen: {33} and the sacrifices and the libaments of every one to the calves and the rams and the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {34} and a buck-goat for sin, beside the everlasting holocaust and the sacrifice thereof and libament. {35} The eight day, which is most solemn, no servile work you do therein, {36} offering an holocaust for a most sweet odour to the Lord: one calf, one ram, lambs of a year old with out blemish seven. {37} And the sacrifices and the libaments of every one to the calves and the rams and the lambs you shall ritely celebrate: {38} and a buck-goat for sin, besides the everlasting holocaust, & the sacrifice thereof and libament. {39} These things shall you offer to the Lord in your solemnities: besides your vows and voluntary oblations in holocaust, in sacrifice, in libament, and in pacific hosts.

Voluntary vows or oaths of men; 14. of maids in their father's houses, 7. or newly married; 10. of widows, or wives divorced, 11. and of wives in their husband's houses: and how they bind, or are made frustrate.

{1} AND Moyses told the children of Israel all things that our Lord had commanded him: {2} and he spake to the Princes of the tribes of the children of Israel: This is the word that our Lord hath commanded: {3} If any man make a vow to our Lord, or bind himself by an oath: he shall not make his word frustrate, but all that he promised he shall fulfill. {4} If a woman vow any thing, and bind her self with an oath, she that is in her father's house, & as yet in maiden's age: if her father know the vow that she promised, and the oath wherewith she bound her soul, and hold his peace, she shall be bound to the vow: {5} Whatsoever she promised and sware, she shall fulfill in deed. {6} But if immediately as he heareth it, her father do gainsay it, both her vows & her oaths shall be frustrate, neither shall she be bound to the promise, for that her father hath gainsaid it. {7} If she have a husband, and vow any thing, and the word once going out of her mouth bind her soul by an oath, {8} the day that her husband heareth it, {166} and doth not gainsay it, she shall be bound to the vow, and shall render whatsoever she promised. {9} But if as soon as he heareth he gainsay it, and make her promises frustrate, and the words wherewith she had bound her soul, our Lord will be propitious to her. {10} The widow, and she that is divorced, whatsoever they vow they shall render. {11} The wife in the house of her husband, when she hath bound her self by vow and by oath, {12} if her husband hear, and hold his peace, neither do gainsay the promise, she shall render whatsoever she had promised. {13} But if forthwith he gainsay it, she shall not be holden bound to the promise: because her husband gainsaid it, and our Lord will be propitious to her. {14} If she vow and bind her self by oath, to afflict her soul by fasting, or abstinence from other things, it shall be in the arbitrement of her husband, whether she shall do it, or not do it. {15} And if the husband hearing it hold his peace, and defer sentence till an other day: whatsoever she had vowed and promised, she shall render: because immediately as he heard it, he held his peace, {16} but if he gainsay it after that he knew it, himself shall bear her iniquity. {17} These are the laws, which our Lord appointed to Moyses between the husband and the wife, between the father and the daughter, that is as yet in maiden's age, or that abideth in her father's house.

The Midianites are slain in battle, for that they had drawn the people of Israel to sin. 11. The prey is brought to Moyses, 14. who being angry that the women (which were the occasion of sin) are saved alive, commandeth to kill all the male children, and all the women saving only virgins. 19. The soldiers are purified, as also the prey, 26. & then divided among the victors, and other people, taking out portions for the Levites. 48. The Princes of the host give free offerings to our Lord.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} Revenge first the children of Israel on the Midianites, and so thou shalt be gathered to thy people. {3} And Moyses forthwith said: Arm of you men to fight, which may take the revenge of our Lord on the Midianites. {4} Let a thousand men of every tribe be chosen of Israel to be sent to the war. {5} And they gave a thousand of every tribe, that is to say, twelve thousand well appointed to fight: {6} whom Moyses sent with Phinees the son of Eleazar the Priest, and the holy vessels, and the trumpets to sound he delivered to him. {7} And when they had fought against the Madianites and had overcome, all the men they slew, {8} and their kings Evi, and Recem, and Sur, and Hur, and Rebe, five Princes of the Nation: Balaam also the son of Beor they killed with the sword. {9} And they took their wives, and little ones, and all their goods: whatsoever they had been able to make, they spoiled: {10} as well cities as towns and castles the fire did consume. {11} And they took the prey, and all things that they had taken as well of men as of beasts, {12} and they brought them to Moyses, and Eleazar the Priest, and to all the multitude of the children of Israel. But the rest of the implements they carried to the camp in the champion countries of Moab, beside Jordan against Jericho. {13} And Moyses and Eleazar the Priest went forth, & all the Princes of the synagogue to meet them without the camp. {14} And Moyses being angry with the Princes of the host, the tribunes, and the centurions that were come from the battle, {15} said: Why have you reserved the women? {16} Are not these they, that deceived the children of Israel at the suggestion of Balaam, and made you prevaricate against our Lord upon the sin of Phogor, whereupon also the people was stricken? {17} Therefore kill all whatsoever is of the male sex, among the little ones also: & the women, that have known men in carnal copulation, slay ye: {18} but the girls and all the women that are virgins reserve to you: {19} and tarry without the camp seven days. He that hath killed a man, or touched him that is killed, shall be expiated the third day and the seventh. {20} And of all the prey, whether it be garment, or vessel, and some thing prepared for implements, of goats' skins, and hair, and wood shall be expiated. {21} Eleazar also the Priest spake to the host, that had fought in this manner: This is the precept of the law, which our Lord hath commanded Moyses: {22} Gold, and silver, and brass, and iron, and lead, and tin, {23} and all that may pass through the fire, shall be purged by fire, but whatsoever can not abide the fire, shall be sanctified with the water of expiation: {24} and you shall wash your garments the seventh day, and being purified, afterward you shall enter into the camp. {25} And our Lord said to Moyses: {26} Take the sum of those things that were taken, from man unto beast, thou and Eleazar the Priest and the Princes of the multitude: {27} and thou shalt divide the prey equally between them, that fought & went forth to the war, and between the rest of the multitude: {28} and thou shalt separate a portion to the Lord from them that fought and were in battle, one soul of five hundred as well of mankind as of oxen and asses and sheep, {29} and thou shalt give it to Eleazar the Priest, because they are the first fruits of the Lord. {30} Out of the half part also of the children of Israel thou shalt take the fiftieth head of mankind, and of oxen, and sheep, and of all beasts, and thou shalt give them to the Levites, that watch in the custodies of the tabernacle of the Lord. {31} And Moyses and Eleazar did, as our Lord commanded. {32} And the prey which the host had taken, was of sheep six hundred seventy five thousand, {33} of oxen seventy two thousand, {34} of asses sixty one thousand. {35} The souls of the folks of the female sex, that had not known men, thirty two thousand. {36} And the half part was given to them, that had been in the battle, of sheep three hundred thirty seven thousand five hundred: {37} of the which for the portion of our Lord where reckoned sheep six hundred seventy five. {38} And of the thirty six thousand oxen, oxen seventy and two: {39} of the thirty thousand five hundred asses, asses sixty one: {40} of the souls of mankind sixteen thousand, there fell to the portion of our Lord thirty two souls. {41} And Moyses delivered the number of the first fruits of our Lord to Eleazar the Priest, as it had been commanded him, {42} of the half part of the children of Israel, which he had separated to them, that had been in the battle. {43} But of the half part that had chanced to the rest of the multitude, that is to say, of the three hundred thirty seven thousand five hundred sheep, {44} and of the thirty six thousand oxen, {45} and of the thirty thousand five hundred asses, {46} and of the sixteen thousand of mankind, {47} Moyses took the fiftieth head, and gave it to the Levites, that watched in the tabernacle of our Lord, as our Lord had commanded. {48} And when the Princes of the host were come to Moyses, and the tribunes, and centurions, they said: {49} We thy servants have reckoned the number of the warriors, which we had under our hand: and not so much as one verily was lacking. {50} For this cause we offer in the donaries of our Lord every one, that which we could find in the prey of gold, garters and tablets, rings and bracelets, and chains, that thou mayest pray to our Lord for us. {51} And Moyses and Eleazar the Priest received all the gold in diverse forms {52} in weight sixteen thousand seven hundred fifty sicles of the tribunes and of the centurions. {53} For that which every one had spoiled in the prey, was his own. {54} And that which was received they brought into the tabernacle of testimony, for a monument of the children of Israel before our Lord.

The children of Ruben and Gad, demanding to have inheritance on that side Jordan, where they yet are. 7. Moyses justly rebuketh them; 16. yet upon condition that they will march first over Jordan, and remain the first in battle, till the land be subdued to the children of Israel, 28. he granteth to them, and the half tribe of Manasses, that which they request.

{1} AND the children of Ruben and Gad had much cattle, and they had in beasts an infinite substance. And when they had seen Jazer and Galaad fit countries for to feed cattle, {2} they came to Moyses and Eleazar the Priest, and the Princes of the multitude, and said: {3} Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and Nemra, Hesebon, and Eleale, and Sabam, and Nebo, and Beon, {4} the land, which our Lord smote in the sight of the children of Israel, is of a very plentiful soil for the feeding of beasts: and we thy servants have very much cattle: {5} and we pray thee if we have found grace before thee, that thou give us thy servants the same in possession, and make us not pass over Jordan. {6} To whom Moyses answered: Why, shall your brethren go to fight, and will you sit here? {7} Why subvert you the minds of the children of Israel, that they may not be bold to pass into the place, which our Lord will give them? {8} Did not your fathers so, when I sent from Cadesbarne to view the Land? {9} And when they were come as far as the Valley of cluster, having viewed all the country, they subverted the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not enter the coasts, which our Lord gave them. {10} Who being wrath sware, saying: {11} If these men, that came up out of Aegypt, from twenty years and upward, shall see the land, which under oath I promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and they would not follow me, {12} except Caleb the son of Jephone the Cenezeite, and Josue the son of Nun: these have fulfilled my will. {13} And our Lord being wrath against Israel, led him about through the desert forty years, until the whole generation was consumed, that had done evil in his sight. {14} And behold, quoth he, you are risen up in stead of your fathers, the offspring and disciples of sinful men, to augment the fury of our Lord against Israel. {15} But if you will not follow him, he will leave the people in the wilderness, and you shall be the cause of the death of all. {16} But they coming near, said: We will make sheepcotes, and stalls for our cattle, for our little ones also fenced cities: {17} and we our selves armed and girded will march on to battle before the children of Israel, until we bring them in unto their places. Our little ones and whatsoever we can have, shall be in walled cities, because of the lying of wait of the inhabitants. {18} We will not return into our houses, until the children of Israel possess their inheritance: {19} neither will we seek any thing beyond Jordan, because already we have our possession on the east side thereof. {20} To whom Moyses said: If you do that you promise, march on, well appointed before our Lord to fight: {21} and let every man of war pass over Jordan, until our Lord subvert his enemies, {22} and all the Land be subdued to him: then shall you be blameless before our Lord & before Israel, & you shall obtain the countries that you would in the sight of our Lord. {23} But if you do not that which you say, no man can doubt but you sin against God: and know ye that your sin shall apprehend you. {24} Build therefore cities for your little ones, and sheepcotes and stalls for your sheep and cattle: and accomplish that which you have promised. {25} And the children of Gad and Ruben said to Moyses: We are thy servants, we will do that which our Lord commandeth. {26} We will leave our little ones, and our wives, and sheep, and cattle in the cities of Galaad: {27} and we thy servants all well appointed will march on to the war, as thou my Lord speakest. {28} Moyses therefore commanded Eleazar the Priest, & Josue the son of Nun, and the Princes of the families by the tribes of Israel, and he said to them: {29} If the children of Gad, and the children of Ruben pass with you over Jordan all armed to the war before our Lord, and the Land be subdued to you: give them Galaad in possession. {30} But if they will not pass armed with you into the Land of Chanaan, let them take places to dwell in among you. {31} And the children of Gad, and the children of Ruben answered: As our lord hath spoken to his servants, so will we do: {32} our selves armed will march before our Lord into the Land of Chanaan, and we confess that we have already received our possession beyond Jordan. {33} Moyses therefore gave to the children of Gad and Ruben, and to the half tribe of Manasses the son of Joseph, the kingdom of Sehon king of the Amorrhite, and the Kingdom of Og king of Basan, and their land and the cities thereof round about. {34} Therefore the sons of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, {35} and Etroth, and Sophan, and Jazar, and Jegbaa, {36} and Bethnemra, and Betharan, cities fenced, and sheepcotes for their sheep. {37} But the children of Ruben builded Hesebon, and Eleale, & Cariathaim, {38} and Nabo, and Baalmeon changing their names, Sabama also: giving names to the cities, which they had built. {39} Moreover the children of Machir, the son of Manasses, went into Galaad, and wasted it killing the Amorrhite the inhabiter thereof. {40} Moyses therefore gave the land of Galaad to Machir the son of Manasses, who dwelt in it. {41} And Jair the son of Manasses went, and took the villages thereof, which he called Havoth Jair, that is to say, the Villages of Jair. {42} Nobe also went, and took Canath with the villages thereof: and he called it by his own name Nobe.

The {42} mansions of the children of Israel between Aegypt & the Land of promise are recited. 50. They are commanded to kill all the inhabitants, to purge the land of idolatry, and divide it among them.

{1} THESE are the mansions of the children of Israel, that went out of Aegypt by their troops in the hand of Moyses and Aaron, {2} which Moyses described according to the places of the camp, which by our Lord's commandment they changed. {3} The children of Israel therefore departing from Ramesses the first month, the fifteenth day of the first month, the morrow after they made the Phase, in a mighty hand, all the Aegyptians seeing them, {4} & burying their first born, which our Lord had stricken (yea and on their gods also he had exercised vengeance) {5} they camped in Soccoth. {6} And from Soccoth they came into Etham, which is in the uttermost borders of the wilderness. {7} Departing thence they came over against Phihahiroth, which looketh toward Beelsphon, and camped before Magdal. {8} And departing from Phihahiroth, they passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness: and walking three days through the desert Etham, they camped in Mara. {9} And departing from Mara, they came into Elim, where there were the twelve fountains of waters, and the seventy palm trees: and there they camped. {10} But departing thence also, they pitched their tents upon the Red sea. And departing from the Red sea, {11} they camped in the desert Sin. {12} From whence departing, they came into Daphca. {13} And departing from Daphca, they camped in Alus. {14} And departing from Alus, they pitched their tents in Raphidim, where the people wanted water to drink. {15} And departing from Raphidim, they camped in the desert of Sinai. {16} But departing also from the desert Sinai, they came to the Sepulchres of concupiscence. {17} And departing from the Sepulchres of concupiscence, they camped in Haseroth. {18} And from Haseroth they came into Rethma. {19} And departing from Rethma, they camped in Remmonphares. {20} Whence departing they came into Lebna. {21} From Lebna they camped in Ressa. {22} And departing from Ressa, they came into Ceelatha. {23} Whence departing, they camped in the mountain Sepher. {24} Departing from the mountain Sepher, they came into Harada. {25} Thence departing, they camped in Maceloth. {26} And departing from Maceloth, they came into Thahath. {27} From Thahath they camped in Thare. {28} Whence departing, they pitched their tents in Methca. {29} And from Methca they camped in Hesmona. {30} And departing from Hesmona, they came into Moseroth. {31} And from Moseroth they camped in Benejaacan. {32} And departing from Benejaacan, they came into the mount Gadgad. {33} Whence departing, they camped in Jetebatha. {34} And from Jetebatha they came into Hebrona. {35} And departing from Hebrona, they camped in Asiongaber. {36} Thence departing, they came into the desert Sin, this is Cades. {37} And departing from Cades, they camped in the mount Hor, in the uttermost borders of the Land of Edom. {38} And Aaron the Priest went up into the mountain Hor at the commandment of our Lord: and there he died the fortieth year of the coming forth of the children of Israel out of Aegypt, the fifth month, the first day of the month, {39} when he was an hundred three and twenty years old. {40} And the Chananeite king of Arad, who dwelt toward the south, heard that the children of Israel were come into the Land of Chanaan. {41} And departing from the mountain Hor, they camped in Salmona. {42} Whence departing, they came into Phunon. {43} And departing from Phunon, they camped in Oboth. {44} And from Oboth they came into Ijebarim, which is in the borders of the Moabites. {45} And departing from Ijebarim they pitched their tents in Dibongad. {46} Whence departing, they camped in Helmondeblathaim. {47} And departing from Helmondeblathaim, they came to the mountains Abarim against Nabo. {48} And departing from the mountains Abarim, they passed to the champion countries of Moab, upon Jordan, against Jericho. {49} And there they camped from Bethsimoth unto Abelsatim in the plainer places of the Moabites, {50} where our Lord spake to Moyses: {51} Command the children of Israel, and say to them: When you shall have passed Jordan, entering the Land of Chanaan, {52} destroy all the inhabitants of that Land: break their titles, and burst to fitters their statues, and waste all their excelses, {53} cleansing the Land, and dwelling in it. For I have given it you in possession, {54} which you shall divide among you by lot. To the more you shall give the larger, and to the fewer the straiter. To every one as the lot shall fall, so shall the inheritance be given. By the tribes and the families the possession shall be divided. {55} But if you will not kill the inhabitants of the Land: they that remain, shall be unto you as it were nails in your eyes, and spears in your sides, and they shall be your adversaries in the Land of your habitation: {56} and whatsoever I had thought to do to them, I will do to you.

The situation and limits of Chanaan, towards the South, the West, the North, and the East, 13. which must be divided by lot among nine tribes and a half (the other two and a half having their parts over Jordan) 16. with the name of the persons that shall make the division.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Moyses, saying: {2} thou shalt say to them: When you are Command the children of Israel, and entered into the Land of Chanaan, and it shall be fallen unto you by lot in possession, it shall be limited by these borders: {3} The southside shall begin from the wilderness Sin, which is beside Edom: and it shall have toward the East the most salt sea for the limits. {4} The which shall compass the south side by the ascending of the Scorpion, so that they shall pass into Senna, and reach toward the South as far as Cadesbarne, from whence the frontiers shall go forth to the town named Adar, and shall reach as far as Asemona. {5} And the border shall go round about from Asemona to the Torrent of Aegypt, and shall end in the shore of the great sea. {6} And the west side shall begin from the great sea, and the same shall be the limit thereof. {7} Moreover toward the North part the borders shall begin from the great sea, reaching unto the most high mountain, {8} from the which they shall come unto Emath as far as the borders of Sedada: {9} and the frontiers shall go as far as Sephorna, and the town Enan. These shall be the borders in the North part. {10} From thence they shall mark out the bounds toward the East side from the Village Enan unto Sephama, {11} and from Sephama the bounds shall go down unto Rebla against the fountain Daphnim: from thence they shall come eastward to the sea Cenereth, {12} and shall reach as far as Jordan, and at the last shall be closed in by the most salt sea. This you shall have for your Land by the bounds thereof round about. {13} And Moyses commanded the children of Israel, saying: This shall be the Land, which you shall possess by lot, and which our Lord hath commanded to be given to the nine tribes, and to the half tribe. {14} For the tribe of the children of Ruben by their families, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the number of their kindreds, the half also of the tribe of Manasses, {15} that is, two tribes and an half, have taken their portion beyond Jordan against Jericho at the east side. {16} And our Lord said to Moyses: {17} These are the names of the men, that shall divide the Land unto you: Eleazar the Priest, and Josue the son of Nun, {18} and one Prince of every tribe, {19} whose names are these: Of the tribe of Juda, Caleb: son of Jephone. {20} Of the tribe of Simeon, Samuel the son of Ammiud. {21} Of the tribe of Benjamin Elidad the son of Chaselon. {22} Of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bocci the son of Jogi. {23} Of the children of Joseph of the tribe of Manasses, Hanniel the son of Ephod. {24} Of the tribe of Ephraim, Camuel the son of Septhyan. {25} Of the tribe of Zabulon, Elisaphan the son of Parnach. {26} Of the tribe of Issachar, Duke Phaltiel the son of Ozan. {27} Of the tribe of Aser, Ahiud the son of Salomi. {28} Of the tribe of Nephthali: Phedael the son of Ammiud. {29} These are they whom our Lord commanded to divide the Land of Chanaan to the children of Israel.

Cities and suburbs are appointed for the Levites, among the other tribes. 6. Of which six shall be for refuge of such as unwittingly kill any man, 22. where keeping themselves till the death of the high-Priest, they shall be safe. 30. Wilful murderers convicted (so it be by more than one witness) must die forthwith.

{1} THESE things also spake our Lord to Moyses in the champion countries of Moab upon Jordan, against Jericho: {2} Command the children of Israel that they give unto the Levites of their possessions {3} cities to dwell in, and their suburbs round about: that themselves may abide in the towns, and the suburbs may be for their cattle and beasts. {4} Which from the walls of the cities outward, round about, shall reach the space of a thousand paces. {5} Toward the East shall be two thousand cubits: and toward the South in like manner shall be two thousand: toward the sea also, which looketh to the West, shall be the same measure: and the North part shall be limited with equal bounds. And the cities shall be in the midst, and the suburbs without. {6} And of the same towns, which you shall give to the Levites, six shall be separated for the aid of fugitives, that he may fly to them which hath shed blood: and beside these other forty two towns, {7} that is, in all forty eight with their suburbs. {8} And those cities, that shall be given of the possessions of the children of Israel, from them that have more, more shall be taken away: and that have less, fewer.

Each shall give towns to the Levites according to the measure of their inheritance. {9} Our Lord said to Moyses: {10} Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: When you shall have passed over Jordan into the Land of Chanaan, {11} determine what cities shall be for the succour of fugitives, that have not voluntarily shed blood: {12} in which when the fugitive shall be, the kinsman of him that is killed can not kill him, until he stand in the sight of the multitude, and his cause be judged. {13} And of those cities, that are separated for refuge of the fugitives, {14} three shall be beyond Jordan, and three in the Land of Chanaan, {15} as well for the children of Israel as for strangers and sojourners, that he may fly to them, which hath not voluntarily shed blood. {16} If any man strike with iron, and he die that was stricken, he shall be guilty of murder, and himself shall die. {17} If he cast a stone, and he that is stricken die: he shall be punished in like manner. {18} If he that is stricken with wood die, he shall be revenged by the striker's blood. {19} The kinsman of him that is slain, shall kill the murderer, as soon as he apprehendeth him, he shall kill him. {20} If through hatred one push a man, or cast any thing at him by stratagem, {21} or being his enemy, strike him with his hand, {22} and he die: the striker shall be guilty of murder. The kinsman of him that is slain as soon as he findeth him, shall kill him. {23} But if by chance-medley and without hatred {24} and enmity, he do any of these things, {25} and this be proved in the hearing of the people, and the question debated between him that struck, and the next of blood: {26} the innocent shall be delivered from the hand of the revenger, & by sentence shall be brought back into the city, to which he had fled, and he shall tarry there, until the High-priest, that is anointed with the holy oil, do die. {27} If the murderer be found without the limits of the cities, that are deputed to the banished, {28} and be stricken of him that is the revenger of blood: he shall be guiltless that killed him. {29} For the fugitive ought to have stayed in the city until the death of the High-priest. And after he is dead, then shall the murderer return into his country. {30} These things shall be perpetual, and for an ordinance in all your habitations. {31} The murderer shall be punished by witnesses: none shall be condemned, at the testimony of one man. {32} You shall not take a price of him, that is guilty of blood, he also shall die forthwith. {33} The banished and fugitives before the death of the High-Priest may by no means return into their own cities. {34} Pollute not the land of your habitation, which is polluted with the blood of innocents: neither can it otherwise be expiated, but by his blood, that shedeth an other man's blood. {35} And so shall your possession be cleansed my self abiding with you. For I am the Lord that dwell among the children of Israel.

That the inheritance may not be alienated from one tribe to an other, all must marry within their own tribes.

{1} AND the Princes also of the families of Galaad, the son of Machir, the son of Manasses of the stock of the children of Joseph came, and spake to Moyses before the Princes of Israel, and said: {2} Our Lord hath commanded thee our Lord that thou shouldest by lot divide the Land to the children of Israel, and that to the daughters of Salphaad our brother thou shouldest give the possession due to their father: {3} Whom if men of an other tribe take to wives, their possession shall follow, and being translated to an other tribe, it shall be a diminishing of our inheritance. {4} And so it shall come to pass, that when the Jubilee, that is the fiftieth year of remission is come, the distribution of the lots shall be confounded, and the possession of one shall pass to others. {5} Moyses answered the children of Israel, and as our Lord commanded, said: The tribe of the children of Joseph hath spoken rightly. {6} And this law is promulgated of our Lord touching the daughters of Salphaad: Let them marry to whom they will, only that it be to the men of their own tribe: {7} lest the possession of the children of Israel be mingled from tribe into tribe. For all men shall marry wives of their own tribe and kindred: {8} and all women shall take husbands of the same tribe: that the inheritance may remain in the families, {9} and that the tribes be not mingled among themselves, but remain so {10} as they were separated by our Lord. And the daughters of Salphaad did as it had been commanded: {11} and Maala, and Thersa, and Hegla, and Melcha, and Noa were married to the sons of their uncle by their father, {12} of the family of Manasses, who was the son of Joseph: and the possession, that had been allotted to them, remained in the tribe and family of their father. {13} These are the commandments and judgments, which our Lord commanded by the hand of Moyses to the children of Israel, in the champion countries of Moab upon Jordan against Jericho.

THE BOOK OF DEUTERONOMY

Moyses beginneth, the first day of the eleventh month and fortieth year after the children of Israel parted from Aegypt, to repeat and explicate the Law; 6. first putting them in mind of God's munificence, his own and other superiour's care over them, their ingratitude, incredulity, murmuring, 24. and punishment for the same.

{1} THESE are the words, which Moyses spake to all Israel beyond Jordan, in the champion wilderness, against the Red sea, between Pharan and Tophel and Laban and Haseroth, where there is very much gold: {2} eleven days from Horeb by the way of mount Seir to Cadesbarne. {3} The fortieth year, the eleventh month, the first day of the month Moyses spake to the children of Israel all things that our Lord had commanded him to say unto them: {4} after that he had struck Sehon king of the Amorrhites, which dwelt in Hesebon: and Og the king of Basan which abode in Aseroth, and in Edrai, {5} beyond Jordan in the Land of Moab. And Moyses began to expound the law, and to say: {6} The Lord our God spake to us in Horeb, saying: It is sufficient for you that you have stayed in this mountain: {7} return, and come to the mountain of the Amorrhites, and to the rest that are next to it champion and hilly and lower places against the South, and beside the shore of the sea, the Land of the Chananites, and of Libanus unto the great river Euphrates. {8} Behold (quoth he) I have delivered it to you: enter in and possess it, upon the which our Lord sware to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, that he would give it to them, & to their seed after them. {9} And I said to you at that time: {10} I alone can not sustain you, because the Lord your God hath multiplied you, and you are this day as the stars of heaven, very many. {11} (The Lord God of your fathers add to this number many thousands, and bless you as he hath spoken.) {12} I alone am not able to sustain your businesses, and the charge of you and your quarrels. {13} Give from among you wise and skilful men, and such whose conversation is approved in your tribes, that I may appoint them your princes. {14} Then you answered me: The thing is good which thou meanest to do. {15} And I took of your tribes, men wise and noble, and appointed them Princes, tribunes, and centurions, and quinquagenarians, and deans, that might teach you all things. {16} And I commanded them, saying: Hear them, and judge that which is just: whether he be the same country man, or a stranger. {17} There shall be no difference of persons, so shall you hear the little as the great: neither shall you accept any man's person, because it is the judgment of God. And if any thing seem hard to you, refer it to me, and I will hear it. {18} And I commanded all things that you ought to do. {19} And departing from Horeb, we passed through the terrible and huge wilderness, which you saw, by the way of the mountain of the Amorrhite, as the Lord our God had commanded us. And when we were come into Cadesbarne, {20} I said to you: You are come to the mountain of the Amorrhite, which the Lord our God will give to us. {21} See the Land which the Lord thy God giveth thee: go up and possess it, as the Lord our God hath spoken to thy fathers: fear not, neither dread you any thing. {22} And you came all unto me, and said: Let us send men that may view the Land, {174} and may bring us word what way we shall ascend, and to what cities to go. {23} And because the saying pleased me, I sent of you twelve men, one of every tribe. {24} Who when they had gone, and were ascended into the mountains, they came as far as the Valley of cluster: and the Land being viewed, {25} taking of the fruits thereof, to shew the fruitfulness, they brought unto us, and said: The Land is good, which the Lord our God will give us. {26} And you would not go up, but being incredulous at the word of the Lord our God, {27} you murmured in your tabernacles, and said: our Lord hateth us, and therefore hath brought us out of the Land of Aegypt, that he might deliver us into the hand of the Amorrhite, and destroy us. {28} Whither shall we go up? The messengers have feared our heart, saying: The multitude is very great, and taller of stature than we: the cities great, and fenced even unto heaven, the sons of the Enacims we have seen there. {29} And I said to you: Fear not, neither be ye afraid of them: {30} Our Lord God, which is your conductor, himself will fight for you, as he did in Aegypt in the sight of all. {31} And in the wilderness (thy self hast seen) the Lord thy God hath carried thee, as a man is wont to bear his little son, all the way that you have walked, until you came to this place. {32} And neither so did you believe the Lord your God, {33} who went before you in the way, and marked out the place wherein you should pitch your tents, in the night shewing you the way by fire, and in the day by the pillar of a cloud. {34} And when our Lord had heard the voice of your words, being wrath he sware and said: {35} There shall not any of the men of this wicked generation see the good Land, which by oath I promised to your fathers: {36} beside Caleb the son of Jephone, For he shall see it, and to him I will give the Land, that he hath trodden, and to his children, because he hath followed the Lord. {37} Neither is his indignation against the people to be marvailed at, whereas our Lord being angry with me also for you, said: Neither shalt thou enter in thither. {38} But Josue the son of Nun thy minister, he shall enter for thee: exhort and strengthen him, and he shall by lot divide the Land of Israel. {39} Your little ones, of whom you said that they should be led captives, and your sons that this day know not the difference of good and evil, they shall enter in: and to them I will give the Land, and they shall possess it. {40} But return you and go into the wilderness by the way of the Red sea. {41} And you answered me: We have sinned to our Lord: We will go up and fight, as the Lord our God hath commanded. And when you ready armed went unto the mountain, {42} our Lord said to me: Say to them: Go not up, and fight not, for I am not with you: lest you fall before your enemies. {43} I spake, and you heard not: But resisting the commandment of our Lord, and swelling with pride you went up into the mountain. {44} Therefore the Amorrhite that dwelt in the mountains issuing forth, and coming to meet you, pursued you, as bees are wont to pursue: and smote you from Seir as far as Horma. {45} And when returning you wept before our Lord, he heard you not, neither would he condescend to your voice. {46} You abode therefore in Cadesbarne a great time.

With commemoration of God's continual protection of the Israelites, they are forbid to fight against the Idumeans, 9. the Moabites, or Ammonites. 24. But against Sehon King of Hesebon they should fight, kill him and all his, and possess his land.

{1} AND departing thence we came into the wilderness, that leadeth to the Red sea, as our Lord had said to me: and we compassed the mountain Seir a long time. {2} And our Lord said to me: {3} It is sufficient for you to have compassed this mountain: go toward the North. {4} And command thou the people, saying: You shall pass by the borders of your brethren the children of Esau, which dwell in Seir, and they will be afraid of you. {5} Look diligently therefore that you stir not against them. For I will not give you of their land so much as the step of one foot can tread, because I have given the mountain Seir to be the possession of Esau. {6} Meats you shall buy of them with money, and shall eat: bought water shall you draw, and drink. {7} The Lord thy God hath blessed thee in every work of thy hands: he knoweth thy journey; how thou hast passed this great wilderness, for forty years the Lord thy God dwelling with thee, and thou hast wanted nothing. {8} And when we had passed by our brethren the children of Esau, that dwelt in Seir, by the champion way from Elath and from Asiongaber, we came to the way, that leadeth into the desert of Moab. {9} And our Lord said to me: Fight not against the Moabites, neither make battle against them: for I will not give thee any of their land, because I have given Ar to the children of Lot in possession. {10} Emim first were the inhabitants thereof, a great people, and valiant, and so tall that they were thought, {11} as it were giants, of the Enacims stock, and were like the children of the Enacims. Moreover the Moabites call them Emim. {12} But in Seir before dwelt the Horrins: who being expelled and destroyed, the children of Esau did inhabit it, as Israel did in the land of his possession, which our Lord gave him. {13} Rising up therefore to pass the Torrent Zared, we came to it. {14} And the time, that we walked from Cadesbarne unto the passage of the torrent Zared, was thirty and eight years: until all the generation of the men that were warriors was consumed out of the camp, as our Lord had sworn: {15} whose hand was against them, that they should perish from among the camp. {16} And after all the warriors were dead, {17} our Lord spake to me, saying: {18} Thou shalt pass this day the borders of Moab, the city named Ar: {19} and approaching unto the frontiers of the children of Ammon, beware thou fight not against them, neither once move to battle: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon, because I have given it to the children of Lot in possession. {20} It was reputed the land of giants: and giants in old time dwelt in it, whom the Ammonites call Zomzommim, {21} a great and huge people, & of long stature, as the Enacims whom our Lord destroyed before their face: and he made them to dwell in their stead, {22} as he had done to the children of Esau, that dwelt in Seir, destroying the Horreites, and delivering their land to them, which they possess until this present. {23} The Hevites also, that dwelt in Haserim as far as Gaza, the Capadocians expelled: who issuing out of Capadocia, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead. {24} Arise ye, and pass the torrent Arnon: behold I have delivered in thy hand Sehon king of Hesebon the Amorrhite, and begin to possess his land, and make war against him. {25} This day will I begin to send thy terror and fear upon the peoples, that dwell under the whole heaven: that hearing thy name they may quake, and tremble after the manner of women in travail, and be pinched with sorrow. {26} I sent therefore messengers from the wilderness of Cademoth to Sehon the king of Hesebon with peaceable words, saying: {27} We will pass through thy land, we will go the common high way: we will not decline neither to the right hand, nor to the left. {28} Sell us meats for money, that we may eat: give us water for money, and so we will drink. Only this, that thou wilt grant us passage, {29} as the children of Esau have done, that dwell in Seir, and the Moabites, that abide in Ar: until we come to Jordan, and pass to the Land, which the Lord our God will give us. {30} And Sehon the king of Hesebon would not give us passage: because the Lord thy God had indurated his spirit, and hardened his heart, that he might be delivered into thy hands, as now thou seest. {31} And our Lord said to me: Behold I have begun to deliver Sehon unto thee, and his land, begin to possess it. {32} And Sehon came forth to meet us with all his people to battle in Jasa. {33} And the Lord our God delivered him to us: and we smote him with his sons and all his people. {34} And all his cities we took at that time, killing the inhabitants thereof, men and women and little ones. We left nothing among them. {35} Except the cattle, which came to their portion that took preys: and the spoils of the cities, which we took {36} from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the torrent Arnon, a town that is situated in a valley, as far as Galaad. There was not a village or city, that escaped our hands: the Lord our God delivered all unto us. {37} Except the land of the children of Ammon, to the which we approached not: and all that adjoin to the torrent Jeboc, and the cities on the mountain, and all the places, from which the Lord our God prohibited us.

The victory against Og King of Basan of the giant's stock is repeated. 12. Ruben Gad and half tribe of Manasses have possession on the other side Jordan from their brethren. 23. Moyses praying that he may go over Jordan, for the sins of the people is denied.

{1} THEREFORE turning we went up by the way of Basan: and Og the king of Basan came forth to meet us with his people to fight in Edrai. {2} And our Lord said to me: Fear him not: because he is delivered into thy hand with all his people and his land: and thou shalt do to him as thou hast done to Sehon king of the Amorrhites, that dwelt in Hesebon. {3} Therefore the Lord our God delivered into our hands Og also the king of Basan, and all his people: and we struck them to utter destruction, {4} wasting all his cities at one time. There was not a town that escaped us: sixty cities, all the country of Argob the Kingdom of Og in Basan. {5} All the cities were fenced with very high walls, and with gates and bars, beside innumerable towns that had no walls. {6} And we destroyed them, as we had done to Sehon the king of Hesebon, destroying every city, and men and women and children: {7} but the cattle, and the spoils of the cities we took for our prey. {8} And we took at that time the land out of the hand of two kings of the Amorrhites, that were beyond Jordan: from the torrent Arnon unto the mountain Hermon. {9} which the Sidonians call Sarion, and the Amorrhites Sanir: {10} all the cities, that are situated in the plain, and all the Land of Galaad and Basan as far as Selcha, and Edrai, cities of the Kingdom of Og in Basan. {11} For only Og the king of Basan remained of the stock of giants. His bed of iron is shewed, which is in Rabbath of the children of Ammon, having nine cubits in length, and four in breadth after the measure of the cubit of a man's hand. {12} And we possessed the Land at that time from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the torrent Arnon, unto the half part of mount Galaad: and the cities thereof I gave to Ruben and Gad. {13} And the other part of Galaad, and all Basan of the kingdom of Og, I delivered to the half tribe of Manasses, all the country of Argob: and all Basan is called the Land of giants. {14} Jair the son of Manasses possessed all the country of Argob unto the borders of Gessuri, and Machati. And he called Basan by his own name, Havoth Jair, that is to say, the towns of Jair, until this present day. {15} To Machir also I gave Galaad. {16} And to the tribes of Ruben and Gad I gave of the Land of Galaad as far as the Torrent Arnon, half of the torrent, and the confines unto the torrent Jeboc, which is the border of the children of Ammon: {17} and the plain of the wilderness, and Jordan, and the borders of Cenereth unto the sea of the desert, which is most salt, at the foot of mount Phasga against the east. {18} And I commanded you at that time, saying: The Lord your God giveth you this land for an inheritance, go well appointed before your brethren the children of Israel all you strong men: {19} except your wives, and little ones, and your cattle. For I know you have much cattle, & they must remain in the cities, which I have delivered you, {20} until our Lord give rest to your brethren, as he hath given to you: and they also possess the Land, which he will give them beyond Jordan: then shall every man return to his possession, which I have given you. {21} Josue also at that time I commanded, saying: Thine eyes have seen what the Lord your God hath done to these two kings: so will he do to all the kingdoms, to the which thou shalt pass. {22} Fear them not: for the Lord your God will fight for you. {23} And I prayed our Lord at that time, saying: {24} Lord God thou hast begun to shew unto thy servant thy greatness, and most mighty hand. For neither is there other God either in heaven, or in earth, that is able to do thy works, and to be compared to thy strength. {25} I will pass over therefore, and will see this excellent Land beyond Jordan, and this goodly mountain, and Libanus. {26} And our Lord was angry with me for you, and heard me not, but said to me: It sufficeth thee: speak no more to me of this matter. {27} Go up to the top of Phasga, and cast thine eyes round about to the west, and to the north, and the south, and the east, and behold it. For thou shalt not pass this Jordan. {28} Command Josue, and encourage and strengthen him: for he shall go before this people, and shall divide unto them the Land, which thou shalt see. {29} And we abode in the valley against the temple of Phogor.

Moyses exhorte the people to keep God's commandments. 15. Namely that they make no similitude nor image of man, nor of beast, bird, fish, sun, moon, nor of any creature to serve the same for the Creator. He foretellet his own death, 23. threateneth them if they forsake God 41. and appointhe three cities of refuge, on the same side Jordan.

{1} AND now Israel hear the precepts and judgments, which I teach thee: that doing them, thou mayest live, and entering in mayest possess the Land, which the Lord the God of your fathers will give you. {2} You shall not add to the word, that I speak to you, neither shall you take away from it: keep the commandment of the Lord your God which I command you. {3} Your eyes have seen all things that our Lord hath done against Beelphegor, how he hath destroyed all his worshippers out of the midst of you. {4} But you that cleave to the Lord your God, live all until this present day. {5} You know that I have taught you precepts, and justices, as the Lord my God hath commanded me: so shall you do them in the Land, which you shall possess: {6} and you shall observe, and fulfill them in work. For this is your wisdom, and understanding before peoples, that hearing all these precepts, may say: Behold a people full of wisdom and understanding, a great nation. {7} Neither is there other nation so great, that hath gods approaching unto them, as our God is present at all our petitions. {8} For what other nation is there so renowned that hath the ceremonies, and just judgments, and the whole law, which I will set forth this day before your eyes. {9} Keep thy self therefore, and thy soul carefully. Forget not the words, that thine eyes have seen, and let them not fall out of thy heart all the days of thy life. Thou shalt teach them thy sons and thy nephews, {10} the day wherein thou didst stand before the Lord thy God in Horeb, when our Lord spake to me, saying; Assemble unto me the people, that they may hear my words, and may learn to fear me all the time that they live on the earth, and may teach their children. {11} And you came to the foot of the mount, which burned even unto heaven: and there was in it darkness, and a cloud and mist. {12} And our Lord spake to you from the midst of the fire. The voice of his words you heard, and form you saw not at all. {13} And he shewed you his covenant, which he commanded you to do, and the ten words, that he wrote in two table of stone. {14} And he commanded me at that time that I should teach you the ceremonies and judgments, which you should do in the Land, that you shall possess. {15} Keep therefore your souls carefully. You saw not any similitude in the day, that our Lord spake to you in Horeb from the midst of the fire: {16} lest perhaps deceived you might make you a graven similitude, or image of male or female, {17} the similitude of all cattle, that are upon the earth, or of birds, that fly under heaven, {18} and of creeping beasts, that move on the earth, or of fishes, that under the earth abide in the waters: {19} lest perhaps lifting up thine eyes to heaven, thou see the Sun and the Moon, and all the stars of heaven, and deceived by error thou adore and serve them, which the Lord thy God created to serve all nations, that are under heaven. {20} But you our Lord hath taken, and brought out of the iron furnace of Aegypt, to have you his people by inheritance, as it is this present day. {21} And our Lord was angry with me for your words, and he sware that I should not pass over Jordan, nor enter into the excellent Land, which he will give you. {22} Behold I die in this ground, I shall not pass over Jordan: you shall pass, and possess the goodly Land. {23} Beware lest at any time thou forget the covenant of the Lord thy God, which he hath made with thee: and make to thee a graven similitude of those things, which our Lord hath prohibited to be made: {24} because the Lord thy God is a consuming fire, jealous God. {25} If you shall beget sons & nephews and abide in the Land, & being deceived make to you some similitude, committing evil before the Lord your God, to provoke him to wrath: {26} I call this day heaven and earth witnesses, that you shall quickly perish from out of the Land, which being passed over Jordan you shall possess. You shall not dwell therein long time, but our Lord will destroy you, {27} and disperse you into all nations, and you shall remain a few among the nations, to the which our Lord will lead you. {28} and there you shall serve gods, that were framed with men's hand, wood and stone, that see not, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell. {29} And when thou shalt seek there the Lord thy God, thou shalt find him, yet so, if thou seek him with all thy heart, & all tribulation of thy soul. {30} After that all the things aforesaid shall find thee, & in the latter time thou shalt return to the Lord thy God, and shalt hear his voice. {31} Because the Lord thy God is a merciful God: he will not leave thee, nor altogether destroy thee: nor forget the covenant, wherein he sware to thy fathers. {32} Ask of the days of old, that have been before thy time from the day that God created man upon the earth, from one end of heaven to the other end thereof, if ever there was done the like thing, or it hath been known at any time, {33} that a people should hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of fire, as thou hast heard, and lived: {34} if God so did that he went in, and took unto him a Nation out of the midst of nations, by temptations, signs, and wonders, by fight and strong hand, and stretched out arm, and horrible visions according to all things, that the Lord your God did for you in Aegypt, thine eyes seeing it: {35} that thou mightest know that our Lord, he is God, and there is none other beside him, {36} from heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might teach thee. And in earth he shewed thee his fire, very great, and thou didst hear his words out of the midst of the fire, {37} because he loved thy fathers, and chose their seed after them. And he brought thee out of Aegypt, going before thee in his great power, {38} to destroy very great nations and stronger than thou, at thy entering in, and to bring thee in, and give thee their land in possession, as thou seest this present day. {39} know therefore this day, and think in thy heart that our Lord he is God in heaven above, and in the earth beneath, and there is none other. {40} Keep his precepts and commandments, which I command thee: that it may be well with thee, and thy children after thee, and thou mayest remain a long time upon the Land, which the Lord thy God will give thee. {41} Then Moyses separated three cities beyond Jordan at the east side, {42} that he might flee to them which should kill his neighbour not voluntarily, neither was his enemy a day or two before, and he might scape to some of these cities: {43} Bosor in the wilderness, which is situated in the champion country of the tribe of Ruben: and Ramoth in Galaad, which is in the tribe of Gad: and Golan in Basan, which is in the tribe of Manasses. {44} This is the law that Moyses set before the children of Israel, {45} and these are the testimonies and ceremonies and judgments, which he spake to the children of Israel, when they came out of Aegypt, {46} beyond Jordan in the valley against the temple of Phogor in the land of Sehon king of the Ammorhite, that dwelt in Hesebon, whom Moyses struck. The children of Israel also coming out of Aegypt {47} possessed his land, and the land of Og the king of Basan, the two kings of the Amorrrhites, which were beyond Jordan toward the rising of the sun: {48} from Aroer, which is situated upon the bank of the torrent Arnon, unto the mountain Sion, which is also Hermon, {49} all the plain beyond Jordan at the east side, unto the sea of the wilderness, and unto the foot of mount Phasga.

The ten commandments are repeated and explained, 23. with commemoration of their dread and fear, when they heard the voice from the cloud, and saw the mountain burn.

{1} AND Moyses called all Israel, and said to them: Hear Israel the ceremonies and judgments, which I speak in your ears this day: learn them, and fulfill them in work. {2} The Lord our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. {3} Not with our fathers did he make the covenant, but with us at this present, and do live. {4} Face to face did he speak to us in the mount out of the midst of the fire. {5} I was arbiter and Mediator betwixt our Lord and you at that time, to shew you his words, for you feared the fire, and went not up into the mount, and he said: {6} I, the Lord thy God, that brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt out of the house of servitude. {7} Thou shalt not have strange gods in my sight. {8} Thou shalt not make to thee a thing graven, nor the similitude of any things, that are in heaven above, and that are in the earth beneath, and that abide in the waters under the earth. {9} Thou shalt not adore them, and thou shalt not serve them. For I am the Lord thy God, a Jealous God, rendering the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation to them that hate me, {10} and doing mercy upon many thousands to them that love me, and keep my precepts. {11} Thou shalt not usurp the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for he shall not be unpunished that taketh his name upon a vain thing. {12} Observe the day of the Sabbath, to sanctify it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee. {13} Six days shalt thou work, and shalt do all thy works. {14} The seventh is the day of the Sabbath, that is, the rest of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not do any work therein, thou, and thy son and daughter, man servant and woman servant, and oxe, and ass, and all thy cattle, and the stranger that is within thy gates: that thy man servant may rest, and thy woman servant, even as thy self. {15} Remember that thou also didst serve in Aegypt, and the Lord thy God brought thee out from thence in a strong hand, and stretched out arm. Therefore hath he commanded thee that thou shouldst observe the Sabbath. {16} Honour thy father and mother, as our Lord thy God hath commanded thee, that thou mayst live a long time, and it may be well with thee in the Land, which the Lord thy God will give thee. {17} Thou shalt not murder. {18} Neither shalt thou commit adultery. {19} And thou shalt not steal. {20} Neither shalt thou speak against thy neighbour false testimony. {21} Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife: Nor house, nor field, nor man servant, nor woman servant, nor oxe, nor ass, and all things that are his. {22} These words spake our Lord to all your multitude in the mount, out of the midst of the fire and the cloud, and the darkness, with a loud voice, adding nothing more: and he wrote them in the two tables of stone, which he delivered unto me. {23} And you after you heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, and saw the mount burn, came to me all the Princes of the tribes and the elders, and you said: {24} Behold the Lord our God hath shewed us his majesty and greatness for we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire, & have proved this day that God speaking with man, man hath lived. {25} Why shall we die therefore, and this exceeding great fire devour us? For if we hear the voice of the Lord our God any more, we shall die. {26} What is all flesh, that it should hear the voice of the living God, who speaketh out of the midst of the fires as we have heard, and may live? {27} Approach thou rather: and hear all things that the Lord our God shall say to thee: and thou shalt speak to us, and we hearing will do them. {28} Which when our Lord had heard, he said to me: I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they spoke to thee: they have spoken all things well. {29} Who shall give them to have such a mind, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments at all time, that it may be well with them and with their children for ever? {30} Go and say to them: Return into your tents. {31} But thou stand here with me, and I will speak to thee all my commandments, and ceremonies, and judgments: which thou shalt teach them, that they may do them in the Land, which I will give them in possession. {32} Keep therefore and do the things which our Lord God hath commanded you: you shall not decline neither to the right hand, nor to the left: {33} but the way that the Lord your God hath commanded shall you walk, that you may live and it may be well with you, and your days may be prolonged in the land of your possession.

God is diligently to be served, and loved with thy whole heart, thy whole soul, and whole strength: All his precepts, ceremonies, and judgements must be carefully kept, and commended to posterity.

{1} THESE are the precepts, and ceremonies, and judgments, which the Lord your God commanded that I should teach you, and you should do them in the Land, whereunto you pass over to possess it: {2} that thou mayst fear the Lord thy God, and keep his commandments and precepts, which I command thee, and thy sons, and nephews, all the days of thy life, that thy days may be prolonged. {3} Hear Israel, and observe that thou do the things which our Lord hath commanded thee, and it may be well with thee, and thou mayst be greatly multiplied, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised thee a land flowing with milk & honey. {4} Hear Israel, The Lord our God, is one Lord. {5} Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole strength. {6} And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thy heart: {7} and thou shalt tell them to thy children, and thou shalt meditate sitting in thy house, and walking on thy journey, sleeping, and rising. {8} And thou shalt bind them as a sign on thy hand, and they shall be and shall move between thine eyes, {9} and thou shalt write them in the entry, and on the doors of thy house. {10} And when the Lord thy God shall have brought thee into the Land, for the which he sware to thy fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and shall have given thee great and goodly cities, which thou didst not build, {11} houses full of all riches, which thou didst not erect, cisterns which thou didst not dig, vineyards and oliveyards, which thou didst not plant, {12} and thou shalt have eaten and be full: {13} take heed diligently lest thou forget our Lord, that brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt, out of the house of servitude. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve, and by his name shalt thou swear. {14} You shall not go after the strange gods of all Nations, that are round about you: {15} because the Lord thy God is a Jealous God in the midst of thee: lest sometime the fury of the Lord thy God be wrath against thee, & take thee away from the face of the earth. {16} Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God, as thou didst tempt him in the place of temptation. {17} Keep the precepts of the Lord thy God, and the testimonies & ceremonies, which he hath commanded thee: {18} And do that which is pleasant and good in the sight of our Lord, that it may be well with thee: and entering in thou mayest possess the goodly Land, whereof our Lord sware to thy fathers, {19} that he would destroy all thy enemies before thee, as he hath spoken. {20} And when thy son shall ask thee to morrow, saying: What mean these testimonies, and ceremonies, and judgments, which the Lord our God hath commanded us? {21} thou shalt say to him: We were the bondmen of Pharao in Aegypt, and our Lord brought us out of Aegypt in a strong hand: {22} and he did signs & wonders great and very sore in Aegypt against Pharao, and all his house, in our sight, {23} and he brought us out from thence, that being brought in, he might give us the Land, whereupon he sware to our fathers. {24} And our Lord commanded that we should do all these ordinances, and should fear the Lord our God, that it might be well with us all the days of our life, as it is at this day. {25} And he will be merciful to us, if we keep and do all his precepts before the Lord our God, as he commanded us.

No league nor fellowship to be had with the Gentiles: 5. but their altars, groves, and all their idols to be destroyed. 17. God promiseth victories to his people, willing them to trust in him, and serve him.

{1} WHEN the Lord thy God shall have brought thee into the land, which thou doest enter in to possess, and shall have destroyed many Nations before thee, the Hethite, and the Gergezeite, and the Amorrhite, and the Chananite, and the Perezite, and the Hevite, and the Jebusite, seven nations of much greater number than thou art, and stronger than thou: {2} and the Lord thy God shall have delivered them to thee, thou shalt strike them unto utter destruction. Thou shalt not make league with them, nor pity them, {3} nor make marriages with them. Thy daughter thou shalt not give to his son, nor take his daughter for thy son: {4} for he will seduce thy son, that he follow not me, and that he rather serve strange gods, and the fury of our Lord will be wrath, and shall quickly destroy thee. {5} But these things rather you shall do to them: Overthrow their altars, and break their statues, and cut down their groves, and burn their sculptiles. {6} Because thou art a holy people to the Lord thy God. The Lord thy God hath chosen thee, to be his peculiar people of all peoples, that are upon the earth. {7} Not because you passed all nations in number, is our Lord joined unto you, & hath chosen you, whereas you are fewer than all peoples: {8} but because our Lord hath loved you, and hath kept the oath, which he sware to your fathers: and hath brought you forth in a strong hand, and redeemed you from the house of servitude, out of the hand of Pharaor the king of Aegypt. {9} And thou shalt know that the Lord thy God, he is a strong and faithful God, keeping his covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his precepts, unto a thousand generations: {10} and rendering forthwith to them that hate him, so that he destroyeth them, and deferreth no longer, immediately rendering to them that, they deserve. {11} Keep therefore the precepts and ceremonies and judgments, which I command thee this day to do them. {12} If after thou hast heard these judgments, thou keep and do them, the Lord also thy God will keep the covenant unto thee, and the mercy which he sware to thy fathers: {13} and he will love and multiply thee, and will bless the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and vintage, oil, and herds, the flocks of thy sheep upon the Land, for the which he sware to thy fathers that he would give it thee. {14} Blessed shalt thou be among all peoples. There shall be none barren with thee of neither sex, as well in men as in thy flocks. {15} Our Lord will take away from thee all disease: and the sore infirmities of Aegypt, which thou knowest, he will not bring upon thee, but upon all thine enemies. {16} Thou shalt devour all the peoples, which the Lord thy God will give thee. Thine eye shall not spare them, neither shalt thou serve their gods, lest they be the ruin of thee. {17} If thou say in thy heart: These nations are more than I, how shall I be able to destroy them? {18} Fear not, but remember what the Lord thy God did to Pharaor & to all the Aegyptians, {19} the exceeding great plagues, which thine eyes saw, and the signs and wonders, and the strong hand, and the stretched out arm, that the Lord thy God might bring thee forth: so will he do to all peoples, whom thou fearest. {20} Moreover hornets also will the Lord thy God send upon them, until he destroy and consume all that escaped thee, & can hide themselves. {21} Thou shalt not fear them, because the Lord thy God is in the midst of thee, a mighty God & terrible: {22} he will consume these nations in thy sight by little & little and by parts. Thou mayest not destroy them all together: lest perhaps the beasts of the earth multiply against thee. {23} And the Lord thy God will give them in thy sight: an will kill them until they be utterly destroyed. {24} And he will deliver their kings into thy hands, and thou shalt destroy their names under heaven: no man shall be able to resist thee, until thou destroy them. {25} Their sculptiles thou shalt burn with fire: thou shalt not covet the silver and gold, whereof they were made, neither shalt thou take to thee any thing thereof, lest thou offend, because it is the abomination of the Lord thy God. {26} Neither shalt thou bring in ought of the idol into thy house, lest thou become anathema, as also that is. As filthiness thou shalt detest it, and as uncleanness and filth thou shalt account it abominable, because it is anathema.

The people is put in mind of afflictions which happened in the desert, and of benefits as well past, as promised. 11. to the end they love and serve God more affectually.

{1} EVERY commandment, that I command thee this day, take diligent heed that thou do it: that you may live, and be multiplied, and entering in may possess the Land, for the which our Lord sware to your fathers. {2} And thou shalt remember all the journey, through the which the Lord thy God hath brought thee forty years by the desert, that he might afflict & prove thee, & that the things that were in thy heart might be made known, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments or not. {3} He afflicted thee with penury, and gave thee for meat Manna, which thou knewest not nor thy fathers: for to shew unto thee that not in bread only a man live, but in every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God. {4} Thy raiment, wherewith thou wast covered hath not decayed for age, and thy foot is not worn, lo this is the fortieth year. {5} That thou mayest recount in thy heart, that as a man disciplineth his son, so the Lord thy God hath disciplined thee, {6} that thou shouldst keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, and walk in his ways, and fear him. {7} For the Lord thy God will bring thee in unto a good land, a land of rivers and waters and of fountains: in the plains whereof and mountains deep floods gush out: {8} a land of wheat, of barley, and vineyards, wherein fig trees and pomegranates, and oliveyards do grow: a land of oil and honey. {9} Where without any penury thou shalt eat thy bread, and enjoy abundance of all things: whose stones are iron, and out of the mountains thereof are digged metals of brass: {10} that when thou hast eaten, and art full, thou mayest bless the Lord thy God for the excellent land, which he hath given thee. {11} Observe, and beware lest at any time thou forget the Lord thy God, and neglect his commandments and judgments and ceremonies, which I command thee this day: {12} lest after thou hast eaten and art filled, hast built goodly houses, and dwelled in them, {13} and shalt have herds of oxen and flocks of sheep, of gold and silver, and of all things plenty, {14} thy heart be lifted up, and thou remember not the Lord thy God, that brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt, out of the house of servitude: {15} and was thy conductor in the huge and terrible wilderness, wherein was the serpent burning with his breath, and the scorpion and the dipsas, and no waters at all: who brought forth rivers out of the hardest rock, {16} and fed thee with Manna in the wilderness, which thy fathers knew not. And after he had afflicted and proved thee, at the last he had mercy upon thee, {17} lest thou shouldst say in thy heart: Mine own force, & the strength of mine own hand, have achieved all these things for me. {18} But remember the Lord thy God, that he hath given thee strength, that he might fulfill his covenant, concerning which he sware to thy fathers, as this present day sheweth. {19} But if forgetting the Lord thy God, thou shalt follow strange gods, and shalt serve and adore them: behold now I foretell thee that thou shalt perish utterly. {20} As the Nations, which our Lord destroyed at thine entry, so shall you also perish, if you be disobedient to the voice of the Lord your God.

Lest they should impute the victories (which they shall have) to themselves. 6. they are put in mind of their often provoking God's wrath, 12. by idolatry, 22. by murmuring, by concupiscence, by contempt, and other sins, 25. for which they should have been destroyed, but God spared them for his promise made to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

{1} HEAR Israel: Thou shalt go over Jordan this day to possess very great nations and stronger than thy self, huge cities, and walled even unto heaven. {2} a great people and tall, the sons of the Enacims, whom thou hast seen, and heard, against whom no man is able to resist. {3} Thou shalt know therefore this day that the Lord thy God himself will pass over before thee, a devouring and consuming fire, who shall destroy and abolish and bring them to nothing before thy face quickly, as he hath spoken to thee. {4} Say not in thy heart, when the Lord thy God shall have destroyed them in thy sight: For my justice hath our Lord brought me in, to possess this land, whereas these nations were destroyed for their impieties. {5} For not because of thy justices and equity of thy heart dost thou enter in to possess their lands: but because they have done impiously, at thy entering in they are destroyed: and that our Lord might accomplish his word, which by oath he promised to thy fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. {6} Know therefore that not for thy justices hath the Lord thy God given thee this excellent land in possession, whereas thou art a very stiff necked people. {7} Remember, and forget not how thou didst provoke the Lord thy God to wrath in the wilderness. From the same day that thou camest out of Aegypt, unto this place, thou hast always contended against our Lord. {8} For in Horeb also thou didst provoke him, and being wrath he would have destroyed thee, {9} when I went up into the mount, to receive the tables of stone, of the covenant which our Lord made with you: and I continued in the mount forty days and nights, not eating bread, nor drinking water. {10} And our Lord gave me two tables of stone written with the finger of God, and containing all the words that he spake to you in the mount from the midst of the fire, when the assembly of the people was gathered. {11} And when forty days were passed, and as many nights, our Lord gave me the two tables of stone, the tables of covenant, {12} and he said to me: Arise, and go down from hence quickly: for thy people which thou didst bring out of Aegypt, have quickly forsaken the way, that thou hast shewed them, and have made them a molten idol. {13} And again our Lord said to me: I see that this people is stiff necked: {14} suffer me that I may destroy them, and abolish their name from under heaven, and may set thee over a Nation, that is greater and stronger than this. {15} And when I came down from the burning mount, and held the two tables of covenant with both hands, {16} and saw that you had sinned to the Lord your God, and had made you a molten calf, and had quickly forsaken his way which he had shewed you, {17} I cast the tables out of my hands, and brake them in your sight. {18} And I fell down before our Lord as before, forty days and nights not eating bread, nor drinking water, for all your sins, which you committed against our Lord, and provoked him to wrath: {19} for I feared his indignation and anger, wherewith being moved against you, he would have destroyed you. And our Lord heard me this time also. {20} Against Aaron also being exceeding angry, he would have destroyed him, and for him in like manner did I pray. {21} And your sin that you had committed, that is, the calf, I took, and burnt it with fire, and breaking it into pieces, and bringing it wholly into dust, I threw it into the torrent that descendeth from the mount. {22} In the burning also and in the temptation, and in the Sepulchres of concupiscence you provoked our Lord: {23} and when he sent you from Cadesbarne, saying: Go up, and possess the Land that I have given you, and you contemned the commandment of your Lord God, and did not believe him, neither would you hear his voice, {24} but were always rebellious from the day that I began to know you. {25} And I lay before our Lord forty days and nights, in the which I humbly besought him, that he would not destroy you as he had threatened: {26} and praying I said: Lord God, destroy not thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed in thy greatness, whom thou didst bring out of Aegypt in a strong hand. {27} Remember thy servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: regard not the stubbornness of this people, and his impiety and sin: {28} lest perhaps the inhabitants of the land, out of which thou hast brought us, say: The Lord could not bring them in unto the Land, that he promised them, and he hated them: therefore did he bring them forth, that he might kill them in the wilderness. {29} Which are thy people and thine inheritance, whom thou didst bring forth in thy great strength, and in thy stretched out arm.

Moyses receiving the second tables of the ten commandments, and making an ark, put them therein. 6. With mention of certain places where the children of Israel had camped, of Aaron's death, and of the Levite's offices, and possessions. 12. he inculcath the fear and love of God, and the keeping of his precepts. 16. Namely to circumcise the heart, 19. to love strangers, 20. and not to serve, nor swear by false Gods.

{1} AT that time our Lord said to me: Hew thee two tables of stones, as the former were, & come up to me into the mount: & thou shalt make an ark of wood, {2} & I will write in the tables the words that were in them, which before thou didst break, & thou shalt put them in the ark. {3} I made therefore an ark of the wood Setim. And when I had hewed two tables of stone like to the former, I went up into the mount, having them in my hands. {4} And he wrote in the tables, according as he had written before, the ten words, which our Lord spake to you in the mount from the midst of the fire, when the people was gathered: and he gave them to me. {5} And returning from the mount, I came down, and put the tables into the ark, that I had made, which are there till this present, as our Lord commanded me. {6} And the children of Israel removed their camp from Beroth of the children of Jacan into Mosera, where Aaron died and was buried, for whom Eleazar his son did the function of priesthood. {7} Thence they came into Gadgad: from the which place departing, they camped in Jetebatha, in a Land of waters and torrents. {8} At that time he separated the tribe of Levi, to carry the ark of the covenant of our Lord, and to stand before him in the ministry, and to bless in his name until this present day. {9} For the which cause Levi had no part nor possession with his brethren: because, our Lord himself is his possession, as the Lord thy God promised him. {10} And I stood in the mount, as before, forty days and nights: and our Lord heard me this time also, and would not destroy thee. {11} And he said to me: Go, and march before the people, that they may enter, and possess the Land, which I sware to their fathers that I would deliver to them. {12} And now Israel, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but that thou fear the Lord thy God, and walk in his ways, and love him, and serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul: {13} and keep the commandments of our Lord, and his ceremonies, which I command thee this day, that it may be well with thee? {14} Behold heaven is the Lord's thy God, and the heaven of heaven, the earth and all things that are in it. {15} And yet to thy fathers was our Lord joined, and he loved them, and chose their seed after them, that is to say you, from all Nations, as this day it is proved. {16} Circumcise therefore the prepuce of your heart, and your neck indurate no more: {185} {17} because the Lord your God he is the God of gods, and the Lord of lords, a great God and mighty, and terrible, that accepteth not person nor gifts. {18} He doth judgment to the pupil and the widow, loveth the stranger, and giveth him victual and raiment. {19} And do you therefore love strangers because you also were strangers in the Land of Aegypt. {20} Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him only: to him thou shalt cleave, and shalt swear in his name. {21} He is thy praise, and thy God, that hath done for thee these great and terrible things, which thine eyes have seen. {22} In seventy souls did thy fathers go down into Aegypt: and behold now the Lord thy God hath multiplied thee as the stars of heaven.

For the benefits of God (whereof some are repeated, and others promised) the Israelites are bound to love him. 16. But if they forsake him he threateneth punishments, 26. proposing benediction and malediction as they shall deserve.

{1} LOVE therefore the Lord thy God, and observe his precepts & ceremonies, his judgments and commandments at all time. {2} Know this day the things that your children know not, who saw not the discipline of the Lord your God, his great doings and strong hand and stretched out arm, {3} the signs and works which he did in the midst of Aegypt to Pharaeo the king, and to all his land, {4} and to all the host of the Aegyptians, and to their hosts and chariots: how the waters of the red sea covered them, when they pursued you, and how our Lord destroyed them until this present day: {5} and to you what things he hath done in the wilderness, till you came to this place: {6} and to Dathan and Abiron the sons of Eliab, which was the son of Ruben: whom the earth opening her mouth swallowed up with their houses and tabernacles, and all their substance, which they had in the midst of Israel. {7} Your eyes have seen all the great works of our Lord, that he hath done, {8} that you may keep all his commandments, which I command you this day, and may enter in, and possess the Land, to the which you enter, {9} and may live in it a great time: which our Lord by oath promised to your fathers, and to their seed, flowing with milk and honey. {10} For the Land, which thou goest to possess, is not as the Land of Aegypt, which thou camest out of, where when the seed is sown, waters are brought in to water it after the manner of gardens: {11} but it is hilly and champion, expecting rain from heaven, {12} which the Lord thy God doth always visit, and his eyes are on it from the beginning of the year unto the end thereof. {13} If then you obey my commandments, which I command you this day, that you love the Lord your God, and serve him with all your heart, and with all your soul, {14} he will give rain to your Land: the timely and the lateward, that you may gather your corn, and wine, and oil, {15} and hay out of the fields to feed your cattle, and that your selves may eat and be filled. {16} Beware lest perhaps your heart be deceived, and you depart from our Lord, and serve strange gods, & adore them: {17} and our Lord being wrath shut up heaven, and the rain come not down, nor the earth give her spring, and you perish quickly from the excellent Land, which our Lord will give you. {18} Put these my words in your hearts and minds, and hang them for a sign on your hands, and place them between your eyes. {19} Teach your children that they meditate them, when thou sittest in thy house, and walkest on the way, and liest down and risest up. {20} Thou shalt write them upon the posts and gates of thy house: {21} that thy days may be multiplied, and the days of thy children in the Land, which our Lord swore to thy fathers, that he would give it them as long as the heaven hangeth over the earth. {22} For if you keep the commandments which I command you, and do them, that you love the Lord your God, & walk in all his ways, cleaving to him, {23} our Lord will destroy all these nations before your face, and you shall possess them, which are greater and stronger than you. {24} Every place that your foot shall tread, shall be yours. From the desert, and from Libanus, from the great river Euphrates unto the west sea shall be your borders. {25} None shall stand against you: your terror & fear shall the Lord your God give upon all the land that you shall tread, as he hath spoken to you. {26} Behold I set forth in your sight this day benediction and malediction: {27} benediction, if you obey the commandments of the Lord your God, which I command you this day: {28} malediction, if you obey not the commandments of the Lord your God, but revolt from the way, which now I do shew you, and walk after strange gods, which you know not. {29} And when the Lord thy God shall have brought thee into the Land, to the which thou goest to inhabit, thou shalt put the benediction upon mount Garizim, the malediction upon mount Hebal: {30} which are beyond Jordan behind the way that bentheth to the going down of the sun in the Land of the Chanane, which dwelleth in the champion country against Galgala, which is beside the valley that reacheth and entereth far. {31} For you shall pass over Jordan, to possess the Land which the Lord your God will give you, that you may have and possess it. {32} See therefore that you fulfill the ceremonies and judgments, which I shall set this day in your sight.

All idolatry, and whatsoever appertaineth thereto must be destroyed. 5. Sacrifices, tithes, and donaries must be offered in the special place. 15. Eating flesh they must not eat the blood. 29. In no case to imitate the idolatry of gentiles.

{1} THESE are the precepts and judgments, that you must do in the Land, which the Lord God of thy fathers will give thee, to possess it all the days, that thou shalt go upon the earth. {2} Subvert all places, wherein the nations, which you shall possess, worshipped their gods upon the high mountains, and hills, and under every tree full of leaves. {3} Overthrow their altars, and break their statues, their groves burn with fire, and their idols hew all to pieces: destroy their names out of those places. {4} You shall not do so to the Lord your God: {5} but to the place, which the Lord your God hath chosen of all your tribes, to put his name there and to dwell in it, shall you come: {6} and shall offer in that place your holocausts and victims, the tithes and first fruits of your hands, and your vows and donaries, the first born of your oxen and sheep. {7} And you shall eat there in the sight of the Lord your God: and you shall rejoice in all things, whereunto you shall put your hand, you and your house, wherein the Lord your God hath blessed you. {8} You shall not do there the things, that we do here this day, every man, that which seemeth good to himself. {9} For until this present time you are not come to rest, and to the possession, which the Lord your God will give you. {10} You shall pass over Jordan, and shall dwell in the Land which the Lord your God will give you, that you may have rest from all enemies round about: and may dwell without all fear, {11} in the place, which the Lord your God shall choose, that his name may be therein. Thither shall you bring all the things, that I command you, holocausts, and hosts, and tithes, and the first fruits of your hands: and whatsoever is the principal in the gifts, that you shall vow to our Lord. {12} There, shall you feast before the Lord your God, you and your sons and daughters, men servants and women servants, and the Levite, that dwelleth in your cities. For he hath no other part and possession among you. {13} Beware thou offer not thy holocausts in every place, that thou shalt see: {14} but in that which our Lord shall choose, in one of thy tribes shalt thou offer hosts, and shalt do what things soever I command thee. {15} But if thou wilt eat, and the eating of flesh delight thee, kill, and eat according to the blessing of the Lord thy God, which he hath given thee in the cities: whether it be unclean, that is to say, blemished and feeble: or clean, that is to say, sound and without blemish, such as is lawful to be offered, as the doe and the hart, shalt thou eat it, {16} only without eating the blood, which thou shalt pour out upon the earth as water. {17} Thou canst not eat in thy towns the tithe of thy corn, and wine, and oil, the first born of thy herds and cattle, and all things that thou vowest, and that thou wilt offer voluntarily, and the first fruits of thy hands: {18} but before the Lord thy God shalt thou eat them in the place, which the Lord thy God shall choose, thou and thy son and thy daughter, and man servant, and woman servant, and the Levite, that dwelleth in thy cities: and thou shall rejoice and be refreshed before the Lord thy God in all things, whereunto thou shalt extend thy hand. {19} Take heed thou forsake not the Levite all the time that thou livest in the land. {20} When the Lord thy God shall have dilated thy borders, as he hath spoken to thee, and thou wilt eat the flesh, that thy soul desireth: {21} and if the place be far off, which the Lord thy God shall choose, that his name may be there, thou shalt kill of the herds and cattle, which thou hast, as I have commanded thee, and shalt eat in thy towns, as it pleaseth thee. {22} As the doe is eaten and the hart, so shall thou eat them: both the clean and unclean shall eat in common. {23} This only beware, that thou eat not the blood, for their blood is for the soul: and therefore thou must not eat the soul with the flesh: {24} but upon the earth thou shalt pour it as water, {25} that it may be well with thee and thy children after thee, when thou shalt do that which pleaseth in the sight of our Lord. {26} But the things which thou hast sanctified, and vowed to our Lord, thou shalt take up, and shalt come to the place, which our Lord shall choose: {27} and shalt offer thy oblations the flesh and the blood upon the altar of the Lord thy God: the blood of thy hosts thou shalt pour on the altar: and the flesh, thy self shalt eat. {28} Observe and hear all things that I command thee, that it may be well with thee & thy children after thee for ever, when thou shalt do that which is good & pleasing in the sight of the Lord thy God. {29} When the Lord thy God shall have destroyed before thy face the nations, that thou enterest in to possess, & thou shalt possess them, & dwell in their land: {30} beware lest thou imitate them, after they be subverted at thy entering in, and thou require their ceremonies, saying: As these nations have worshipped their gods, so will I also worship. {31} Thou shalt not do in like manner to the Lord thy God. For all the abominations, that our Lord doth abhor, have they done to their gods, offering their sons and daughters, and burning them with fire. {32} What I command thee, that only do to our Lord: neither add any thing, nor diminish.

False Prophets must be slain, 6. how near soever they be in kindred, or friendship. 12. The whole city that shall permit false doctrine must be utterly destroyed, men, beasts, and all moveables, and never be built again.

{1} IF there rise in the midst of thee a Prophet, or one that saith he hath seen a dream, and foretell a sign and a wonder, {2} and it come to pass which he spake, and he say to thee: Let us go, and follow strange gods, which thou knowest not, and let us serve them: {3} thou shalt not hear the words of that Prophet or dreamer: for the Lord your God tempteth you, that it may appear whether you love him or not, with all your heart, and with all your soul. {4} Follow the Lord your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and hear his voice: him you shall serve, and to him you shall cleave. {5} And that Prophet or forger of dreams shall be slain: because he spake that he might avert you from the Lord your God, which brought you out of the Land of Aegypt, and redeemed you from the house of servitude: that he might make thee to err from the way, that the Lord thy God commanded thee: and thou shalt take away the evil out of the midst of thee. {6} If thy brother the son of thy mother, or thy son or daughter, or thy wife that is in thy bosom, or thy friend, whom thou lovest as thy soul, will persuade thee secretly, saying: Let us go, and serve strange gods, which thou knowest not, nor thy fathers, {7} of all nations round about, that be nigh or far, from the beginning unto the end of the earth, {8} consent not to him, nor hear him, neither let thine eye spare him to pity and hide him, {9} but forthwith thou shalt kill him. Let thy hand be first upon him, and after thee all the people lay hand on him. {10} With stones shall he be stoned to death: because he would have withdrawn thee from the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt, from the house of servitude: {11} that all Israel hearing may fear, and may do no more any thing like to this. {12} If in one of thy cities, which the Lord thy God shall give thee to inhabit, thou hear some say: {13} There are gone forth children of Belial out of the midst of thee, and have averted the inhabitants of their city, and have said: Let us go, and serve strange gods which you know not: {14} inquire carefully, and diligently, the truth of the thing being looked into, if thou find it certain that is said, and that this abomination is in act committed, {15} thou shalt forthwith strike the inhabitants of that city in the edge of the sword, and shalt destroy it and all things that are in it, unto the very beasts. {16} What stuff also soever there is, thou shalt gather together in the midst of the streets thereof, and shalt burn it with the city it-self, so that thou consume all things to the Lord thy God, and it be a heap for ever: it shall be built no more, {17} and there shall nothing stick in thy hand of that anathema: that our Lord may be turned from the wrath of his fury, and may have mercy on thee, and multiply thee as he sware to thy fathers, {18} when thou shalt hear the voice of the Lord thy God, keeping all his precepts, which I command thee this day, that thou mayest do that which is pleasing in the sight of the Lord thy God.

Gentile's manner of mourning for the dead is prohibited. 3. Likewise to eat things unclean, with mention of certain clean and unclean beasts, 9. fishes, 11. and birds. 21. Also precepts of piety, clemency, paying tithes, first fruits, 27. nourishing of Levites, strangers, orphans, and widows.

{1} BE ye the children of the Lord your God: you shall not cut your selves, nor make baldness for the dead. {2} because thou art a holy people to the Lord thy God: and he chose thee to be his peculiar people of all nations that are upon the earth. {3} Eat not the things that are unclean. {4} This is the beast, that you ought to eat: The oxe, and the sheep, and the goat, {5} the hart and the doe, the buffle, the chamois, the pygargue, the wild beef, the cameloparde. {6} Every beast, that divideth the hoof in two parts, and cheweth the cud, shall you eat. {7} But of them that chew the cud, and divide not the hoof, these you shall not eat, as the camel, the hare, the cherogril: because they chew the cud, & divide not the hoof, they shall be unclean to you {8} The swine also, because it divideth the hoof, and cheweth not the cud, shall be unclean. Their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall not touch. {9} These shall you eat of all that abide in the waters: Such as have fins and scales, eat: {10} them that are without fins & scales, eat not, because they are unclean. {11} All birds that are clean eat. {12} The unclean eat not: to wit, the eagle, and the grype, & the osprey, {13} the ringtail, and the vulture and kite according to their kind: {14} and all of the raven's kind, {15} and the ostrich, and the owl, and the stern, and the hawk according to his kind: {16} the herodian and the swan, and the stork, {17} and the diver, the porphirion, and nightcrow, {18} the onocratal, and the charadriion, every one in their kind: the lapwing also and the bat. {19} And all that creepeth and hath little wings, shall be unclean, and shall not be eaten. {20} All that is clean, eat. {21} But whatsoever is dead of it-self, eat not thereof. To the stranger, that is within thy gates, give it to eat, or sell it to him: because thou art the holy people of our Lord thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of his dam. {22} The tenth part thou shalt separate of all thy fruits that spring in the earth every year, {23} and thou shalt eat in the sight of our Lord thy God in the place, which he shall choose, that his name may be invoked therein, the tithe of thy corn, and wine, and oil, and the first born of thy herds and sheep: that thou mayest learn to fear the Lord thy God at all time. {24} But when the way, and the place which our Lord thy God shall choose, are far, and he hath blessed thee, and thou canst not carry all these things thither, {25} thou shalt sell, and bring all into a price, and shalt carry it in thy hand, and shalt go to the place, which our Lord thy God shall choose: {26} and thou shalt buy with the same money whatsoever pleases thee, either of herds, or of sheep, wine also and sicer, and all that thy soul desireth: and thou shalt eat before our Lord thy God, and shall feast, thou and thy house: {27} and the Levite that is within thy gates, beware thou forsake him not, because he hath no other part in thy possession. {28} The third year thou shalt separate an other tenth of all things, that grow to thee at that time: and shalt lay it up within thy gates. {29} And the Levite shall come that hath no other part nor possession with thee, and the stranger and pupil and widow, that are within thy gates, and shall eat and be filled: that our Lord thy God may bless thee in all the works of thy hands that thou shalt do.

Remission of debts in the seventh year to the Israelites, but not to strangers. 4. Albeit there will always be some poor, yet they must so lend to their needy brethren, that none be forced to beg. 12. A bought servant that is an Hebrew must be set free in the seventh year, 16. except he desire to serve still. 19. The first-born in all cattle must be consecrated to God, without making private profit thereof.

{1} IN the seventh year thou shalt make a remission. this order. He to whom any thing is owing {2} which shall be celebrated in of his friend or neighbour and brother, can not ask it again, because it is the year of remission of our Lord. {3} Of the sojourner and stranger thou shalt exact: of thy country man & neighbour thou shalt not have power to require it. {4} And needy person and beggar there shall be none among you that our Lord thy God may bless thee in the land, which he will give thee in possession. {5} Yet so if thou hear the voice of our Lord thy God, & keep all things that he hath bid, and which I command thee this day, he will bless thee, as he hath promised. {6} Thou shalt lend to many nations, & thy self shalt borrow of no man. Thou shalt have dominion over very many nations, and no man shall have dominion over thee. {7} If one of thy brethren that abideth within the gates of thy city in the land, which our Lord thy God will give thee, come to poverty: thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor close thy hand, {8} but shalt open it to the poor man, and shalt lend him, that which thou perceivest he hath need of. {9} Beware lest perhaps an impious cogitation steal in upon thee, and thou say in thy heart: The seventh year of remission draweth nigh: & turn away thy eyes from thy poor brother denying to lend him that which he asketh: lest he cry against thee to our Lord, and it become a sin unto thee. {10} But thou shalt give to him: neither shalt thou do any thing craftily in relieving his necessities: that our Lord thy God may bless thee at all times, and in all things whereunto thou shalt put thy hand. {11} There shall not want poor in the land of thy habitation: therefore I command thee that thou open thy hand to thy needy and poor brother, that liveth in the Land. {12} When thy brother an Hebrew man, or Hebrew woman is sold to thee, and hath served thee six years, in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free: {13} and to whom thou givest freedom, thou shalt in no case suffer him to depart empty: {14} but give him his wayfare of thy flocks, and of thy barn floor, and thy press, wherewith our Lord thy God shall bless thee. {15} Remember that thy self also didst serve in the Land of Aegypt, and our Lord thy God made thee free, and therefore do I now command thee. {16} But if he say: I will not depart; because he loveth thee, and thy house, and feeleth that he is well with thee: {17} thou shalt take an awl, {190} and bore through his ear in the door of thy house, & he shall serve thee for ever. To thy woman servant also thou shalt do in like manner. {18} Turn not away thine eyes from them, when thou makest them free: because he hath served thee six years after the wages of an hireling: that our Lord thy God may bless thee in all the works that thou doest. {19} Of the first born, that come forth in thy herds and sheep, whatsoever is of the male sex, thou shalt sanctify to our Lord thy God. Thou shalt not work with the first born of an oxe, and thou shalt not shear the first born of thy sheep. {20} In the sight of our Lord thy God shalt thou eat them every year in the place, that our Lord shall choose, thou and thy house. {21} But if it have blemish, and be either lame, or blind, or in any part disfigured or feeble, it shall not be immolated to our Lord thy God: {22} but within the gates of thy city shalt thou eat it: as well the clean as the unclean in like manner shall eat them, as the doe, and the hart. {23} This only shalt thou observe, that their blood thou eat not, but pour it out on the earth as water.

Three more solemn feasts to be kept every year, Pasch, 9. Pentecost, 13, and the feast of tabernacles. 18. Just Judges to be appointed in every city. 21. All occasions of Idolatry to be avoided.

{1} OBSERVE the month of new corn, and the first of the spring time, that thou mayest make the Phase to our Lord thy God: because in this month our Lord thy God brought thee out of Aegypt by night. {2} And thou shalt immolate the Phase to our Lord thy God, of sheep, and of oxen in the place which our Lord thy God shall choose, that his name may dwell there. {3} Thou shalt not eat in it leavened bread: Seven days shalt thou eat without leaven, the bread of affliction, because in fear didst thou come out of Aegypt: that thou mayest remember the day of thy coming out of Aegypt all the days of thy life. {4} Leavened shall not appear in all thy coasts for seven days, and there shall not remain of the flesh of that which was immolated at even the first day until morning. {5} Thou canst not immolate the Phase in every one of thy cities, which our Lord thy God will give thee; {6} but in the place which our Lord thy God shall choose, that his name may dwell there: thou shalt immolate the Phase at even at the going down of the sun, when thou camest out of Aegypt. {7} And thou shalt boil, and eat it in the place, which our Lord thy God shall choose, and in the morning rising up thou shalt go into thy tents. {8} Six days shalt thou eat azymes: and in the seventh day, because it is the collection of our Lord thy God, thou shalt do no work. {9} Seven weeks shalt thou number thee from that day wherein thou didst put the sickle to the corn, {10} and thou shalt celebrate the festival day of weeks to our Lord thy God, a voluntary oblation of thy hand, which thou shalt offer according to the blessing of our Lord thy God: {11} and thou shalt feast before our Lord thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man servant, and thy woman servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger and pupil and widow, which abide with you: in the place which our Lord thy God shall choose, that his name may dwell there: {12} and thou shalt remember that thou wast a servant in Aegypt: and thou shalt keep and do the things that are commanded. {13} The solemnity also of Tabernacles thou shalt celebrate seven days, when thou hast gathered thy fruit of the barn floor and the press: {14} and thou shalt feast in the festivity, thou, thy son, and thy daughter, thy man servant and woman servant, the Levite also and stranger, and pupil and widow that are within thy gates. {15} Seven days shalt thou celebrate the feasts to our Lord thy God in the place which our Lord shall choose: and our Lord thy God will bless thee in all thy fruits, and in every work of thy hands, and thou shalt be in joy. {16} Three times in a year shall all thy male appear in the sight of our Lord thy God in the place which he shall choose: in the solemnity of Azymes, in the solemnity of weeks, {191} and in the solemnity of Tabernacles. There shall not appear before our Lord any empty: {17} but every one shall offer according to that he hath, according to the blessing of our Lord his God, which he shall give him. {18} Judges and masters shalt thou appoint in all thy gates, which our Lord thy God shall give thee, in every of thy tribes: that they may judge the people with just judgment, {19} and not decline to either part. Thou shalt not accept person, nor gifts: because that gifts blind the eyes of the wise, and change the words of the just. {20} Justly shalt thou pursue that which is just: that thou mayest live and possess the Land, which our Lord thy God shall give thee. {21} Thou shalt plant no grove, nor any tree near the altar of our Lord thy God. {22} Neither shalt thou make nor set to thy self a statue: which thing our Lord thy God hateth.

Perfect hosts, not maimed nor defective, must be offered to God. Idolaters stoned to death. 8. When inferior judges differ, the cause must be decided by the High Priest in consistory, who is warranted not to err therein, & all are bound to obey his sentence. 14. The duty also of a King (whom in future time God will condescend to give them) is described, with special charge to receive the law of God at the Priest's hands.

{1} THOU shalt not immolate to our Lord thy God a sheep, and an oxe, wherein there is blemish, or any fault: because it is abomination to our Lord thy God. {2} When there shall be found with thee within one of thy gates, which our Lord thy God shall give thee, man or woman that do evil in the sight of our Lord thy God, and transgress his covenant, {3} that they go and serve strange gods, and adore them, the sun and the moon, and all the host of heaven, which things I commanded not, {4} and this is told thee, and hearing it thou hast inquired diligently, and found it to be true, and the abomination is committed in Israel: {5} thou shalt bring forth the man and the woman, that have committed that most heinous thing, to the gates of thy city, and they shall be stoned. {6} At the mouth of two or three witnesses shall he perish that is to be slain. Let no man be killed, one only giving testimony against him. {7} The hand of the witnesses shall be first to kill him, and the hand of the rest of the people shall be laid on last: that thou mayest take away the evil out of the midst of thee. {8} If thou perceive that the judgment with thee be hard and doubtful between blood and blood, cause and cause, leprosy and leprosy: and thou see that the words of the judges within thy gates do vary: arise, and go up to the place, which our Lord thy God shall choose. {9} And thou shalt come to the Priests of the Levitical stock, and to the judge, that shall be at that time: and thou shalt ask of them, who shall shew thee the truth of the judgment. {10} And thou shalt do whatsoever they, that are presidents of the place which our Lord shall choose, shall say and teach thee, {11} according to his law; and thou shalt follow their sentence: neither shalt thou decline to the right hand nor to the left hand. {12} But he that shall be proud, refusing to obey the commandment of the Priest, which at that time ministereth to our Lord thy God, and the decree of the judge, that man shall die, and thou shalt take away the evil out of Israel: {13} and the whole people hearing shall fear, that none afterward swell in pride. {14} When thou art entered the Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee, and dost possess it, and dwellest in it, and sayest: I will set a king over me, as all nations have round about: {15} him shalt thou set, whom our Lord thy God shall choose of the number of thy brethren. A man of an other nation that is not thy brother, thou canst not make king. {16} And when he is made, he shall not multiply to himself horses, nor lead back the people into Aegypt, taking high courage for the number of his horsemen, especially whereas our Lord hath commanded you that in no case you return any more the same way. {17} He shall not have many wives, that may allure his mind, nor huge weights of silver & gold. {18} And after he shall sit in the throne of his kingdom, he shall copy to himself the Deuteronomy of this Law in a volume, taking the copy of the priests of the Levitical tribe, {19} & he shall have it with him, & shall read it all the days of his life, that he may learn to fear our Lord his God, and keep his words and ceremonies, that are commanded in the law. {20} And that his heart be not lifted up into pride over his brethren, nor decline to the right side or the left side, that he may reign a long time, and his sons over Israel.

Instead of other inheritance Priests and Levites have provision by Sacrifices and oblations. 9. All superstition to be avoided. 15. Perpetuity of Prophets, and finally one special PROPHET (to wit CHRIST) is promised. 20. False Prophets must be slain.

{1} THE Priests and Levites, and all that are of the same tribe, shall have no part nor inheritance with the rest of Israel, because they shall eat the sacrifices of our Lord, and his oblations, {2} and nothing else shall they receive of the possession of their brethren: for our Lord himself is their inheritance, as he hath spoken to them. {3} This shall be the right of the Priests from the people, and from them that offer victims: whether they immolate oxe, or sheep, they shall give to the Priest the shoulder and the maw: {4} the first fruits of corn, of wine, and oil, and a part of the wool of their sheep-shearing. {5} For him hath our Lord chosen of all thy tribes, that he might stand and minister to our Lord, he and his sons for ever. {6} If a Levite go out of one of thy cities of all Israel in the which he dwelleth, and would come desiring the place which our Lord shall choose, {7} he shall minister in the name of our Lord his God, as all his brethren the Levites, that shall stand at that time before our Lord. {8} He shall receive the same portion of meats that the rest do: beside that, which in his own city is due to him by succession from his fathers. {9} When thou art entered the Land, which our Lord thy God shall give thee, beware thou be not willing to imitate the abominations of those nations. {10} Neither let there be found in thee any that shall expiate his son, or daughter, making them to pass through the fire: or that demandeth of soothsayers, and observeth dreams and divinations, neither let there be a sorcerer, {11} nor enchanter, nor that consulteth with python, or diviners, and seeketh the truth of the dead. {12} For all these things our Lord abhorreth, and for these abominations will he destroy them at thy entering in. {13} Thou shalt be perfect & without spot with our Lord thy God. {14} These nations, whose land thou shalt possess, hear soothsayers, and diviners: but thou art otherwise instructed of our Lord thy God. {15} A PROPHET of thy nation & of thy brethren like unto me, will our Lord thy God raise up to thee: him thou shalt hear, {16} as thou didst request of our Lord thy God in Horeb, when the assembly was gathered, and saidst: I will no more hear the voice of our Lord my God, and this exceeding great fire I will see no more, lest I die. {17} And our Lord said to me: They have spoken all things well. {18} A Prophet will I raise up to them out of the midst of their brethren like to thee: and I will put my words in his mouth, and he shall speak all things that I shall command him. {19} But he that will not hear his words, which he shall speak in my name, I will be the revenger. {20} And the Prophet that being depraved with arrogancy will speak in my name, the things that I did not command him to say, or in the name of strange gods, shall be slain. {21} And if in secret cogitation thou answer: How shall I understand the word, that our Lord spake not? {22} This sign thou shalt have: That which the same Prophet foretelleth, in the name of the Lord, & cometh not to pass: that, our Lord hath not spoken, but by the arrogancy of his mind the Prophet hath forged it: and therefore thou shalt not fear him.

Certain cities of refuge must be assigned for casual manslaughter. 11. Wilful murder punished by death without remission. 15. so it be convinced by two or three witnesses. 16. False witnesses punished with the pain, which the crime objected deserved.

{1} WHEN our Lord thy God hath destroyed the nations, whose land he will deliver to thee, and thou dost possess it, and dwellest in the cities and houses thereof: {2} three cities shalt thou separate to thee in the midst of the Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee in possession, {3} preparing diligently the way: and thou shalt divide the whole province of thy Land equally into three parts: that he which for murder is a fugitive, may have near at hand, wether to escape. {4} This shall be the law of the murderer that flyeth, whose life is to be saved: He that striketh his neighbour unwitting, & that is proved yesterday & the day before to have had no hatred against him, {5} but to have gone with him simply unto the wood to cut wood, and in cutting of wood, the axe slipped out of his hand, & the iron falling from the handle struck his friend, and killed him: he shall fly to one of the cities aforesaid, and live: {6} lest perhaps the next kinsman of him, whose blood was shed, pricked with sorrow, pursue, and apprehend him if the way be too long, and strike his life that is not guilty of death, because he is proved to have had no hatred before, against him that was slain. {7} Therefore I command thee, that thou separate three cities of equal distance one from an other. {8} And when our Lord thy God shall have dilated thy borders, as he sware to thy fathers, and shall give thee all the Land that he promised them {9} (yet so, if thou keep his commandments, & do the things which I command thee this day, that thou love our Lord thy God, and walk in his ways at all time) thou shalt add to thee other three cities, and shalt double the number of the three cities aforesaid: {10} that innocent blood be not shed in the midst of the Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee to possess, lest thou be guilty of blood. {11} But if any man hating his neighbour, lie in wait for his life, and rise and strike him, and he die, and he fly to one of the cities aforesaid, {12} the ancients of his city shall send, and take him out of the place of refuge, and shall deliver him into the hand of the kinsman of him, whose blood was shed, & he shall die. {13} Thou shalt not pity him, & thou shalt take away the guilty blood out of Israel, that it may be well with thee. {14} Thou shalt not take, and transfer thy neighbour's bounds, which thy predecessors did set in thy possession, which our Lord thy God will give thee in the Land, that thou shalt receive to possess. {15} One witness shall not stand against any man, whatsoever sin, or wickedness it be: but in the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word stand. {16} If a lying witness stand against a man, accusing him of prevarication, {17} both of them, whose the cause is, shall stand before our Lord in the sight of the Priests and the judges that shall be in those days. {18} And when searching most diligently, they shall find that the false witness hath said a lie against his brother: {19} they shall render to him as he meant to do to this brother, and thou shalt take away the evil out of the midst of thee: {20} that others hearing may have fear, and may not be bold to do such things. {21} Thou shalt not pity him, but life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot shall thou exact.

Lawful wars are to be undertaken with courage and confidence. 5. Such as for special causes may be discouraged, must be dismissed from the field. 10. What to be observed towards the enemy. 19. What trees may not be cut down, and what sort may be, for the use of wars.

{1} IF thou go forth to war against thine enemies, and see the horse men and chariots, and the multitude of the adversary's host greater than thou hast, thou shalt not fear them: because the Lord thy God is with thee, which brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt. {2} And when the battle is now at hand, the Priest shall stand before the army, and shall speak to the people thus: {3} Hear Israel, you this day join battle against your enemies, let not your heart fear, be not afraid, retire not, neither dread them: {4} because our Lord your God is in the midst of you, & will fight for you against your adversaries, to deliver you from danger. {5} The Captains also through every band in the hearing of the host shall proclaim: What man is there that hath built a new house, & hath not dedicated it? Let him go, & return into his house, lest perhaps he die in the battle, & an other dedicate it. {6} What man is there that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not as yet made it to be common, whereof all men may lawfully eat? Let him go, and return into his house: lest perhaps he die in the battle, and an other man execute his office. {7} What man is there, that hath despoused a wife, and not taken her? Let him go, and return into his house, lest perhaps he die in the war, and an other take her. {8} These things being said they shall add the rest, and shall speak to the people: What man is there fearful, and faint-hearted? Let him go, and return into his house, lest he make the hearts of his brethren to fear, as himself is frightened with fear. {9} And when the Captains of the host shall hold their peace, and make an end of speaking, every man shall prepare their bands to fight. {10} If at any time thou come to win a city, thou shalt first offer peace. {11} If they receive it, and open the gates to thee, all the people that is therein shall be saved, and shall serve thee under tribute. {12} But if they will not make peace, and shall begin battle against thee, thou shalt assault it. {13} And when our Lord thy God shall deliver it into thy hand, thou shalt strike all that is therein of the male sex, in the edge of the sword, {14} excepting women and children, the cattle and other things, that are in the city. All the prey thou shalt divide to the army, and thou shalt eat of the spoils of thine enemies, which our Lord thy God shall give thee. {15} So shalt thou do to all cities, that be very far from thee, and be not of these cities, which thou shalt receive in possession. {16} But of those cities that shall be given thee, thou shalt suffer none at all to live: {17} but shalt kill them in the edge of the sword, to wit, the Hethite, & Amorrhite, & Chananite, the Pherezite, and Hevite, and Jebusite, as our Lord thy God hath commanded thee: {18} lest perhaps they teach you to do all the abominations, which themselves did work to their gods: & you sin against our Lord your God. {19} When thou hast besieged a city a long time, and hast compassed it with munition to win it, thou shalt not cut down the trees, that may be eaten of, neither shalt thou spoil the country round about with axes: because it is a tree, and not a man, neither can it increase the number of warriors against thee. {20} But if there be any trees not fruitful, but wild, and apt for other uses, cut them down, and make engines, until thou take the city, which fighteth against thee.

How to seek out a secret murderer. 10. Women taken in battle may be married: and afterwards can not be sold nor made bond women. 15. The eldest son may not be deprived of his birthright for hatred of his mother. 18. A stubborn son must be stoned to death. 22. When one is hanged on a gibbet, he must be taken down the same day, and buried.

{1} WHEN there shall be found in the Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee, the corpse of a man slain, and he that is guilty of the murder is not known, {2} thy ancients and judges shall go forth, and measure from the place of the corpse the distance of every city round about: {3} and which they shall perceive to be nearer than the rest, the ancients of that city shall take an heifer out of the herd, that hath not drawn yoke, nor ploughed the ground, {4} and shall bring her to a rough and stony valley, that never was ploughed, nor received seed: and in it they shall strike off the neck of the heifer: {5} and the Priests the sons of Levi shall come, whom our Lord thy God hath chosen to minister to him, and to bless in his name, and at their word every matter dependeth, and whatsoever is clean or unclean must be judged. {6} And the ancients of that city shall come to the slain person, and shall wash their hands over the heifer, that was stricken in the valley, {7} and shall say: Our hands did not shed this blood nor our eyes see it. {8} be merciful to thy people Israel whom thou hast redeemed, o Lord, & impute not innocent blood in the midst of thy people Israel. And the guilt of blood shall be taken from them: {9} and thou shalt be free from the innocent's blood, that was shed, when thou shalt have done that which our Lord hath commanded thee. {10} If thou go forth to fight against thine enemies, and our Lord thy God deliver them in thy hand and thou lead them away captive, {11} and seest in the number of the captives a beautiful woman, and lovest her, and wilt have her to wife, {12} thou shalt bring her into thy house: who shall shave her hair, and pare her nails, {13} and put off the raiment wherein she was taken: and sitting in thy house, shall mourn her father and mother one month: and afterward thou shalt enter unto her, and shalt sleep with her, and she shall be thy wife. {14} But if afterward she content not thy mind, thou shall let her go free, neither canst thou sell her for money, nor oppress her by might: because thou hast humbled her. {15} If a man have two wives, one beloved, and the other hated, and they have begotten children by him, & the son of the hated be the first-born, {16} and he meaneth to divide his substance among his sons: he can not make the son of the beloved the first-born, and prefer him before the son of the hated, {17} but the son of the hated he shall acknowledge for the first-born, and shall give to him of those things which he hath, all double: for this is the beginning of his children, & to this are due the first birth rights. {18} If a man beget a stubborn and froward son, that will not hear the commandments of his father and mother, and being chastened, contemneth to be obedient: {19} they shall take him, and bring him to the ancients of his city, and to the gate of judgment, {20} and shall say to them: This our son is froward and stubborn, he contemneth to hear our admonitions, he giveth himself to comission, and to riot and banqueting: {21} the people of the city shall stone him: and he shall die, that you may take away the evil out of the midst of you, and all Israel hearing it may be afraid. {22} When a man hath offended so that he is to be punished by death, & being condemned to die is hanged on a gibbet: {23} his body shall not remain upon the tree, but the same day shall be buried: because he is accused of God that hangeth on a tree: and thou shalt not contaminate thy Land, which our Lord thy God giveth thee in possession.

Piety towards neighbours. 5. Neither sex may use the apparel of the other. 6. Cruelty to be avoided even towards birds. 8. Battlement about the roof of a house. 9. Things of diverse kinds not to be mixed. 12. cords in the hemis of a cloak. 13. Trial and punishment of adultery and of deflowering virgins. 30. The son may not marry his step mother.

{1} THOU shalt not see thy brother's oxe or sheep straying, and pass by: but shalt bring it back to thy brother, {2} although thy brother be not nigh, and thou know him not: thou shalt bring them unto thy house, and they shall be with thee until thy brother seek them, and receive them. {3} In like manner shalt thou do with his ass, and with his raiment, and with every thing of thy brother's, that shall be lost: if thou find it, neglect it not as pertaining to another. {4} If thou see thy brother's ass or oxe to be fallen in the way, thou shalt not contemn it, but shalt lift it up with him. {5} A woman shall not be clothed with man's apparel, neither shall a man use woman's apparel: for he is abominable before God that doeth these things. {6} If walking by the way thou find a bird's nest in a tree or on the ground, and the dam sitting upon the young or the eggs: thou shalt not hold her with her young, {7} but shalt let her go, taking the young and holding them: that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live a long time. {8} When thou buildest a new house, thou shalt make a battlement to the roof round about: lest blood be shed in thy house, and thou be guilty, another slipping, and falling headlong. {9} Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with diverse seed: lest both the seed which thou didst sow, and the things that grow of the vineyard be sanctified together. {10} Thou shalt not plough with an oxe and ass together. {11} Thou shalt not wear a garment that is woven of wool and linen. {12} Thou shalt make little cords in the hem at the four corners of thy cloak, wherewith thou shalt be covered. {13} If a man marry a wife, and afterward hate her, {14} and seek occasions to put her away, objecting unto her a very ill name, and say: I took this wife, and companying with her: I found her not a virgin: {15} her father and mother shall take her, and shall carry with them the signs of her virginity to the ancients of the city that are in the gate: {16} and the father shall say: I gave my daughter unto this man to wife: whom because he hateth, {17} he layeth unto her a very ill name, so that he saith: I found not thy daughter a virgin: and behold these are the signs of my daughters virginity. They shall spread the vesture before the ancients of the city: {18} and the ancients of that city shall take the man, and beat him, {19} condemning him besides, in a hundred sicles of silver, which he shall give to the wench's father, because he hath infamously spread a very ill name upon a virgin of Israel: and he shall have her to wife, and can not put her away all the days of his life. {20} But if it be true which he objected, and virginity be not found in the wench, {21} they shall cast her forth without the doors of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her to death, & she shall die: because she hath done wickedness in Israel, to fornicate in her father's house: and thou shalt take away the evil out of the midst of thee. {22} If a man lie with an other's man wife, both shall die, that is to say, the adulterer and the adulteress: and thou shalt take away the evil out of Israel. {23} If a man have despoused a maid that is a virgin, and some man find her in the city, & lie with her, {24} thou shalt bring forth both of them to the gate of that city, & they shall be stoned: the maid, because she cried not, being in the city: the man, because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife, and thou shalt take away the evil from the midst of thee. {25} But if the man find the maid that is despoused in the field, and taking her lie with her, he alone shall die: {26} the maid shall suffer nothing, neither is she guilty of death: for as a thief riseth against his brother, and taketh away his life, so also did the maid suffer. {27} She was alone in the field: she cried, and there was no man to deliver her. {28} If a man find a maid that is a virgin, which hath not a spouse, and taking her lie with her, and the matter come into judgment, {29} he that lay with her, shall give to the father of the maid fifty sicles of silver, and shall have her to wife, because he hath humbled her: he can not put her away all the days of his life. {30} No man shall take his father's wife, nor reveal his covering.

Eunuchs, bastards, Moabites, & Ammonites, may not enter into the Church. 7. Idumeans and Aegyptians may be admitted. 9. Observation of spiritual and corporal cleanness. 15. Other precepts concerning fugitives, 17. fornication, 19. usury, 21. vows, 24. and eating other men's grapes or corn.

{1} AN Eunuch that hath his stones broken, or cut off, and his yard cut away, shall not enter into the Church of our Lord. {2} Mamzer, that is to say, one born of a common woman, shall not enter into the Church of our Lord, until the tenth generation. {3} The Ammonite and the Moabite yea after the tenth generation shall not enter into the church of our Lord, for ever: {4} because they would not meet you with bread & water in the way, when you came out of Aegypt: and because they hired against thee Balaam, the son of Beor of Mesopotamia in Syria, to curse thee: {5} & our Lord thy God would not hear Balaam, and he turned his cursing into thy blessing, for that he loved thee. {6} Thou shalt not make peace with them, neither do thou seek their good all the days of thy life for ever. {7} Thou shalt not abhor the Idumite, because he is thy brother: nor the Aegyptian, because thou waste a stranger in his land. {8} They that are born of them, in the third generation shall enter into the church of our Lord. {9} When thou goest forth against thine enemies to battle, thou shalt keep thy self from all evil thing. {10} If there be among you a man, that is polluted in a dream by night, he shall go forth without the camp, {11} and shall not return, before he be washed with water at even: and after sunset he shall return into the camp. {12} Thou shalt have a place without the camp, whither thou mayest go to the necessities of nature, {13} carrying on thy girdle a piked instrument. And when thou sittest down, thou shalt dig round about, & with the earth that is digged up shall cover {14} that which thou art eased of (for our Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp, to deliver thee and to give thine enemy unto thee) and let thy camp be holy, & let no filthiness appear therein, lest he forsake thee. {15} Thou shalt not deliver the servant to his master, that is fled to thee. {16} he shall dwell with thee in the place, that shall please him, and in one of thy cities shall he rest: vex him not. {17} There shall be no whore of the daughters of Israel nor whoremonger of the sons of Israel. {18} Thou shalt not offer the hire of a strumpet, nor the price of a dog, in the house of our Lord thy God, whatsoever it be that thou hast vowed: because both is abomination before our Lord thy God. {19} Thou shalt not lend to thy brother money to usury, nor corn, nor any other thing: {20} but to the stranger. And to thy brother thou shalt lend that which he needeth, without usury: that our Lord thy God may bless thee in all thy work in the Land, which thou shalt enter to possess. {21} When thou hast vowed a vow to our Lord thy God, thou shalt not slack to pay it: because our Lord thy God will require it. And if thou delay, it shall be reputed to thee for sin. {22} If thou wilt not promise, thou shalt be without sin. {23} But that which is once gone out of thy lips, thou shalt observe, & shalt do as thou hast promised to our Lord thy God, & hast spoken with thy proper will and thine own mouth. {24} Entering into thy neighbour's vineyard, eat grapes as much as shall please thee: but carry none out with thee. {25} If thou enter into thy friend's corn, thou shalt break the ears, and rub them in thy hand: but with a sickle thou shalt not reap.

Divorce permitted to avoid greater evil. 5. The newly married must not go to war. 7. He that treacherously selleth a man must be slain. 8. Disobedience to Priests incurreth leprosy. 10. Such things may not be taken to pledge, as can not be well spared. 14. Poor labourers must be presently payed. 16. Not one punished for an other's fault, but right judgement to all. 18. and liberal alms to the poor.

{1} IF a man take a wife, and have her, and she find not grace before his eyes for some loathsome ness: he shall write a bill of divorce, and shall give it in her hand, and dismiss her out of his house. {2} And being departed, when she shall have married an other husband, {3} and he also hateth her, and hath given her a bill of divorce, and hath dismissed her out of his house, or is dead: {4} the former husband can not take her again to wife: because she is polluted, and is made abominable before our Lord: lest thou make thy Land to sin, which our Lord thy God shall deliver thee to possess. {5} When a man hath lately taken a wife, he shall not go forth to battle, neither shall any public necessity be enjoined him, but he shall attend to his own house without fault, that one year he may rejoice with his wife. {6} Thou shalt not take for a pledge the nether or the upper millstone: because he hath pledged his life to thee. {7} If any man be taken soliciting his brother of the children of Israel, & selling him take a price, he shall be slain, and thou shalt take away the evil from the midst of thee. {8} Observe diligently that thou incur not the plague of leprosy, but thou shalt do whatsoever the Priests of the Levitical stock shall teach thee, according to that, which I have commanded them, and fulfill thou it carefully. {9} Remember what our Lord your God did to Mary, in the way when you came out of Aegypt. {10} When thou shalt require of thy neighbour any thing that he oweth thee, thou shalt not enter into his house to take away a pledge: {11} but thou shalt stand without, and he shall bring forth to thee that which he hath. {12} But if he be poor, the pledge shall not lodge with thee that night, {13} but forthwith thou shalt restore it to him before the going down of the sun: that sleeping in his raiment, he may bless thee, and thou mayest have justice before our Lord thy God. {14} Thou shalt not deny the hire of the needy, and poor man thy brother, or the stranger, that dwelleth with thee in the land, and is within thy gates: {15} but the same day thou shalt pay him the price of his labour, before the going down of the sun because he is poor, and there-withal sustaineth his life: lest he cry against thee to our Lord, and it be reputed to thee for a sin. {16} The fathers shall not be slain for the children, nor the children for the fathers, but every one shall die for his own sin, {17} Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the stranger and the pupil, neither shalt thou take away the widow's raiment for a pledge. {18} Remember that thou didst serve in Aegypt, & our Lord thy God delivered thee from thence. Therefore I command thee that thou do this thing. {19} When thou hast reaped the corn in the field, and forgetting hast left a sheaf, thou shalt not return to take it away: but thou shalt suffer the stranger, and the pupil, and the widow to take it away, that our Lord thy God may bless thee in all the work of thy hands. {20} If thou have gathered the fruits of thy olive trees, whatsoever remaineth on the trees, thou shalt not return to gather it: but shalt leave it to the stranger, the pupil, and the widow. {21} If thou make vintage of thy vineyard, thou shalt not gather the clusters that remain, but they shall go to the uses of the stranger, the pupil, & the widow. {22} Remember that thou also didst serve in Aegypt, and therefore I command thee that thou do this thing.

Punishment afflicted according to the fault, but so that he which is beaten have not above forty stripes. 4. The oxe's mouth not be muzzled that treadeth corn. 5. A married man dying without issue, his brother must marry the widow. 11. The wife that taketh her husband's adversary by his privities must lose her hand. 13. No false weights nor measures to be kept. 17. Amelicties must be utterly destroyed.

{1} IF there be a controversy between some, & they call upon the judges: whom they shall perceive to be just, to him they shall give the price of justice: whom impious, him they shall condemn of impiety. {2} And if they see that the offender be worthy of stripes, they shall cast him down, & shall cause him to be beaten before them. According to the measure of the sin shall the measure also of the stripes be: {3} yet so, that they exceed not the number of forty: lest thy brother depart foully torn before thine eyes. {4} Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the oxe that treadeth out thy corn in the floor. {5} When brethren shall dwell together, and one of them die without children, the wife of the deceased shall not marry to an other: But his brother shall take her, & raise up the seed of his brother: {6} & the first born son of her he shall call by his name, that his name be not abolished out of Israel. {7} But if he will not take his brother's wife, that by law is due to him, the woman shall go to the gate of the city, and call upon the ancients, and say: My husband's brother will not raise up his brother's seed in Israel: nor take me to his wife. {8} And forthwith they shall cause him to be sent for, and shall ask him. If he answer: I will not take her to wife: {9} the woman shall come to him before the ancients, and shall take off his shoe from his foot, and spit in his face, and say: So shall it be done to the man, that buildeth not his brother's house. {10} And his name shall be called in Israel The house of the unshod. {11} If two men fall at words betwixt themselves, and one begin to brawl against the other, and the wife of the one willing to deliver her husband out of the hand of the stronger, put forth her hand, and take his privities: {12} thou shalt cut off her hand, neither shalt thou be moved with any pity upon her. {13} Thou shalt not have diverse weights in thy bag, a greater and a less: {14} neither shall there be in thy house a greater bushel and a less. {15} Thou shalt have a weight just and true, and thy bushel shall be equal and true: that thou mayest live a long time upon the Land, which our Lord thy God shall give thee. {16} For thy Lord abhorreth him, that doth these things, and detesteth all injustice. {17} Remember what Amalec did to thee in the way when thou camest out of Aegypt: {18} how he met thee, & struck the hindmost of thy army, which being weary rested themselves, when thou wast spent with famine and labour, and he feared not God. {19} Therefore when our Lord thy God shall give thee rest, and subdue all nations round about in the Land, which he hath promised thee, thou shalt destroy his name under heaven. Beware thou forget it not.

First fruits must be offered in special place assigned to God's service, professing of gratitude for the land possessed according to God's promise. 12. Likewise tithes of the third year, 16. with conclusion, that the people promise to observe all the precepts of God, and so doing he will protect and prosper them.

{1} AND when thou art entered into the Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee to possess, and hast obtained it, and dwellest in it: {2} thou shalt take first of all thy fruits, and put them in a maund, and shalt go to the place, which our Lord thy God shall choose, that his name may be invoked there: {3} and thou shalt go to the Priest, that shall be in those days, and say to him: I profess this day before our Lord thy God, that I am entered into the Land, for the which he sware to our fathers, that he would give it us. {4} And the Priest taking the maund at his hand, shall set it before the altar of our Lord thy God: {5} and thou shalt speak in the sight of our Lord God: The Syrian persecuted my father, who descended into Aegypt, and sojourned there in a very small number, and grew into a nation great and strong and of an infinite multitude. {6} And the Aegyptians afflicted us, and persecuted us, laying on most grievous burdens: {7} and we cried to our Lord the God of our fathers: who heard us, and respected our affliction, and labour, and distress: {8} and brought us out of Aegypt in a strong hand, a stretched out arm, in great terror, in signs and wonders: {9} and brought us into this place, and delivered to us this Land flowing with milk and honey. {10} And therefore now I offer first fruits of the Land, which our Lord hath given me. And thou shalt leave them in the sight of our Lord thy God, adoring our Lord thy God, {11} And thou shalt feast in all the good things, which our Lord thy God hath given to thee, and thy house, thou and the Levite, and the stranger that is with thee. {12} When thou hast finished the tithe of all thy fruits, in the third year of tithes thou shalt give to the Levite, & the stranger, & the pupil, & the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled: {13} & thou shalt speak in the sight of our Lord thy God: I have brought that which is sanctified out of my house, & have given it to the Levite, and the stranger, and the pupil, and the widow, as thou hast commanded me: I have not transgressed thy commandments nor forgotten thy precepts. {14} I have not eaten of them in my mourning, nor separated them in any uncleanness, nor spent of them any thing in funerals. I have obeyed the voice of our Lord my God, and have done all things as thou didst command me. {15} Look from thy sanctuary, and thy high habitation of heaven, and bless thy people Israel, and the Land, which thou hast given us, as thou swarest to our fathers, a land flowing with milk & honey. {16} This day our Lord thy God hath commanded thee to do these commandments and judgments: that thou keep and fulfill them with all thy heart, and with all thy soul. {17} Thou hast chosen our Lord this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and keep his ceremonies, and precepts, and judgements, & obey his commandment. {18} And our Lord hath chosen thee this day, that thou shouldst be his peculiar people, as he hath spoken to thee, and thou shouldst keep all his commandments: {19} and make thee higher than all nations which he created, to his praise, and name, and glory: that thou mayst be a holy people of our Lord thy God, as he hath spoken.

God's commandments must be written in plastered stones. An Altar erected, and Sacrifices offered. 12. Observers of the commandments must be blessed, and transgressors cursed. 14. With the form of cursing of idolaters, and diverse other enormous sinners.

{1} AND Moyses and the ancients of Israel commanded the people, saying: Keep every commandment that I command you this day. {2} And when you are passed over Jordan into the land, which our Lord thy God will give thee, thou shalt erect great stones, and shalt polish them with plaster. {3} that thou mayst write upon them all the words of this law, when thou hast passed over Jordan: that thou mayst enter into the Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, as he sware to thy fathers. {4} When therefore you are passed Jordan, erect the stones, which I command you this day, in mount Hebal, and thou shalt polish them with plaster: {5} and thou shalt build there an altar to our Lord thy God, of stones, which iron hath not touched, {6} and of stones not fashioned nor polished: and thou shalt put upon it holocausts to our Lord thy God, {7} and shalt immolate pacific hosts, and eat there, and feast before our Lord thy God. {8} And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law plainly and clearly. {9} And Moyses and the Priests of the Levitical stock said to all Israel: Attend, and hear Israel: This day thou art made the people of our Lord thy God: {10} thou shalt hear his voice, and do the commandments and justices, which I command thee. {11} And Moyses commanded the people in that day, saying: {12} These shall stand to bless the people, upon mount Garizim, when you are past Jordan: Simeon, Levi, Judas, Issachar, Joseph, & Benjamin. {13} And over against them these shall stand to curse on mount Hebal: Ruben, Gad, and Aser, and Zabulon, Dan and Nephthali. {14} And the Levites shall pronounce, and say to all the men of Israel with a high voice: {15} Cursed be the man that maketh a graven and molten thing, the abomination of our Lord, the work of the hands of artificers, & shall put it in secret, and all the people shall answer, and say: Amen. {16} Cursed be he that honoureth not his father and mother. And all the people shall say: Amen. {17} Cursed be he that removeth his neighbour's bounds. And all the people shall say: Amen. {18} Cursed be he that maketh the blind to go amiss in his journey. And all the people shall say: Amen. {19} Cursed be he that perverteth the judgment of the stranger, of the pupil and the widow. And all the people shall say: Amen. {20} Cursed be he that sleepeth with his father's wife, and revealeth the cover of his bed. And all the people shall say: Amen. {21} Cursed be he that lieth with any beast. And all the people shall say: Amen. {22} Cursed be he that sleepeth with his sister, the daughter of his father, or of his mother. And all the people shall say: Amen. {23} Cursed be he that sleepeth with his mother in law. And all the people shall say: Amen. {24} Cursed be he that secretly striketh his neighbour. And all the people shall say: Amen. {25} Cursed be he that taketh gifts, to kill the soul of innocent blood. And all the people shall say: Amen. {26} Cursed be he that abideth not in the words of this law, and fulfilleth them not in work, and all the people shall say: Amen.

J Divers blessings are promised to the observers of God's commandments, 15. and curses threatened to transgressors.

{1} BUT if thou wilt hear the voice of our Lord thy God, that thou do and keep all his commandments, which I command thee this day, our Lord thy God will make thee higher than all nations, that be on the earth. {2} And all these blessings shall come upon thee, and overtake thee: yet so if thou hear his precepts. {3} Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed in the field. {4} Blessed shall be the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the troops of thy herds, & the folds of thy sheep. {5} Blessed shall thy barns be, and blessed thy remains: {6} Blessed shalt thou be coming in and going out. {7} Our Lord will give thine enemies, that rise up against thee, to fall down in thy sight: one way they shall come against thee, and seven ways they shall fly from thy face. {8} Our Lord will send forth blessing upon thy cellars, and upon all the works of thy hands: and will bless thee in the land, that thou shalt receive. {9} Our Lord will raise thee up unto himself to be a holy people, as he sware to thee: If thou keep the commandments of our Lord thy God, and walk in his ways. {10} And all the people of the earth shall see that the name of our Lord is invoked upon thee, and they shall fear thee. {11} Our Lord will make thee abound with all goods, with the fruit of thy womb, & the fruit of thy cattle, with the fruit of thy land, which our Lord sware to thy fathers that he would give thee. {12} Our Lord will open his most excellent treasure, the heaven, that it may give rain to thy land in due season: and will bless all the works of thy hands. And thou shalt lend to many nations, and thy self shalt take loan of no man. {13} And our Lord shall make thee the head, and not the tail: and thou shalt be always above, and not under: yet so, if thou wilt hear the commandments of our Lord thy God which I command thee this day, and keep & do them, {14} & decline not from them, neither to the right hand, nor to the left, nor follow strange gods, nor serve them. {15} But if thou wilt not hear the voice of our Lord thy God, to keep & do all his commandments & ceremonies which I command thee this day, all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee. {16} Cursed shalt thou be in the city, cursed in the field. {17} Cursed shall thy barn be, and cursed thy remains. {18} Cursed shall be the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy ground, the herds of thy oxen, and the flocks of thy sheep. {19} Cursed shalt thou be coming in, and cursed going out. {20} Our Lord shall send upon thee famine and hunger, & rebuke upon all the works which thou shalt do: until he consume and destroy thee quickly, for thy most wicked inventions, wherein thou hast forsaken me. {21} Our Lord set the pestilence upon thee, until he consume thee out of the land, which thou shalt enter in to possess. {22} Our Lord strike thee with poverty, with the fever and cold, with burning and heat, & with corrupt air and blasting, and pursue thee till thou perish. {23} Be the heaven that is over thee, of brass, & the ground that thou treadest, of Iron. {24} Our Lord give dust for rain upon thy land, and ashes descend from heaven upon thee, till thou be consumed. {25} Our Lord deliver thee to fall down before thine enemies. One way go thou forth against them, & fly seven, and be thou dispersed throughout all the Kingdoms of the earth. {26} And be thy carcass meat to all the fowls of the air, & beasts of the earth, and be there none to drive them away. {27}

Our Lord strike thee with the boyle of Aegypt, and the part of thy body, by the which dung is cast out, with scab also and itch, so that thou canst not be cured. {28} Our Lord strike thee with madness and blindness and fury of mind, {29} & grope thou at midday as the blind is wont to grope in the dark, and direct not thy ways. And at all times sustain thou wrong, and be thou oppressed with violence, neither have thou any to deliver thee. {30} Take thou a wife, and an other sleep with her. Build thou a house, and dwell not therein. Plant thou a vineyard, and take not the vintage thereof. {31} Be thy oxe immolated before thee, and thou not eat thereof. Be thy ass taken away in thy sight, and not restored to thee. Be thy sheep given to thine enemies, and be there none to help thee. {32} Be thy sons and thy daughters delivered to another people, thine eyes seeing, and daseling at the sight of them all the day, and be there no strength in thy hand. {33} The fruits of thy land, and all thy labours let a people eat, which thou knowest not: and be thou always sustaining calumny, and oppressed all days, {34} and astonished at the terror of those things, which thine eyes shall see. {35} Our Lord strike thee with a very sore botch in the knees and shanks, and be thou uncurable from the sole of the foot unto the top of thy head. {36} Our Lord shall bring thee, and thy king whom thou shalt appoint over thee, unto a nation, which thou and thy fathers know not: & there thou shalt serve strange gods, wood and stone. {37} And thou shalt be destroyed for a proverb and fable to all peoples, unto whom our Lord shall bring thee in. {38} Thou shalt cast much seed into the ground, and gather little: because the locusts shall devour all things. {39} Thou shalt plant a vineyard, and dig, and the wine thou shalt not drink, nor gather any thing thereof: because it shall be wasted with worms. {40} Thou shalt have olives in all thy borders, and shalt not be anointed with the oil: because they shall drop away, and perish. {41} Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, and shalt not enjoy them: because they shall be led into captivity. {42} All thy trees and the fruits of thy ground the blasting shall consume. {43} The stranger that liveth with thee in the Land, shall ascend over thee, and shall be higher: and thou shalt descend downward, and be inferior. {44} He shall lend thee, and thou shalt not lend him. He shall be as the head, and thou shalt be the tail. {45} And all these curses shall come upon thee, and pursuing shall overtake thee, till thou perish: because thou heard not the voice of our Lord thy God, nor kept his commandments and ceremonies which he commanded thee. {46} And they shall be in thee as signs & wonders, and in thy seed for ever: {47} because thou didst not serve our Lord thy God in joy and gladness of heart, for the abundance of all things. {48} Thou shalt serve thine enemy, whom our Lord will send upon thee, in hunger, and thirst, and nakedness, and all penury, and he shall put an iron yoke upon thy neck, till he consume thee. {49} Our Lord will bring upon thee a Nation from a far, and from the uttermost ends of the earth, in likeness of an eagle that flyeth with vehemency: whose tongue thou canst not understand: {50} a very malapert Nation, that will attribute nothing to the ancient, nor have pity on the little one, {51} and will devour the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruits of thy Land: until thou perish, and will not leave thee wheat, wine, and oil, herds of oxen, and flocks of sheep: until it destroy thee, {52} and consume thee in all thy cities, and thy strong and high walls be destroyed, wherein thou hadst confidence in all thy Land. Thou shalt be besieged within thy gates in all thy Land, which our Lord thy God will give thee: {53} and thou shalt eat the fruit of thy womb, and the flesh of thy sons & of thy daughters, which our Lord thy God shall give thee, in the distress and vastation wherewith thine enemy shall oppress thee. {54} The man that is delicate in thee & very riotous, shall much envy his own brother, and his wife that lieth in his bosom, {55} so that he shall not give them of the flesh of his children, which he will eat: because he hath nothing else in the siege and penury, wherewith thine enemies shall waste thee within all thy gates. {56} The tender and delicate woman, that could not go upon the ground; nor set down her foot for over-much niceness and tenderness, will envy her husband, that lieth in her bosom, upon the flesh of her son and daughter: {57} and the filthiness of the after births, that come forth from the midst of her thighs, and upon the children that are born the same hour. For they shall eat them secretly, because of the penury of all things, in the siege and vastation, wherewith thine enemy shall oppress thee within thy gates. {58} Unless thou keep and do all the words of this law, that be written in this volume, and fear his name glorious and terrible, {203} that is, Our Lord thy God: {59} our Lord shall increase thy plagues, and the plagues of thy seed, great plagues and continuing, sore infirmities and perpetual. {60} And he shall turn upon thee all the afflictions of Aegypt, which thou didst fear, and they shall cleave to thee. {61} Moreover also all the diseases, and plagues, that be not written in the volume of this law, our Lord will bring upon thee, till he consume thee: {62} & you shall remain few in number, which before was as the stars of heaven for multitude, because thou hearest not the voice of our Lord thy God. {63} And as before our Lord rejoiced upon you, doing good to you, & multiplying you: so he shall rejoice destroying and subverting you, so that you may be taken away from the Land, which thou shalt enter to possess. {64} Our Lord shall disperse thee into all peoples, from the farthest parts of the earth to the ends thereof: and there thou shalt serve strange gods, which thou art ignorant of and thy fathers, wood and stone. {65} In those nations also thou shalt not be quiet, neither shall there be resting for the step of thy foot. For our Lord will give thee a fearful heart, and daseling eyes, & a soul consumed with pensiveness: {66} and thy life shall be as it were hanging before thee. Thou shalt fear night and day, and thou shalt not trust in thy life. {67} In the morning thou shalt say: Who will grant me evening? And at evening: Who will grant me morning? For the fearfulness of thy heart, wherewith thou shalt be terrified, and for those things which thou shalt see with thine eyes. {68} Our Lord shall bring thee again with ships into Aegypt by the way, whereof he said to thee that thou shouldst see it no more. There shalt thou be sold to thine enemies for bondmen and bondwomen, and no man shall buy you.

A covenant and oath is made between God and his people (with commemoration of sundry benefits by them received) that keeping his law they shall be more blessed: and breaking the same shall sustain the threatened punishments.

{1} THESE are the words of the covenant which our Lord commanded Moyses to make with the children of Israel in the Land of Moab: beside that covenant which he made with them in Horeb. {2} And Moyses called all Israel, and said to them: you saw all things, that our Lord did before you in the Land of Aegypt to Pharao, and to all his servants, and to his whole land, {3} the great temptations, which thine eyes have seen, those mighty signs, and wonders, {4} and our Lord hath not given you a heart to understand, and eyes to see, and ears that can hear, unto this present day. {5} He hath brought you forty years by the desert: your garments are not worn out, neither are the shoes of your feet consumed with age. {6} Bread you have not eaten, wine and sicer you have not drunk: that you might know that I am the Lord your God. {7} And you came to this place: and there came forth Sehon the king of Hesebon, and Og the king of Basan, meeting us to fight. And we struck them. {8} and took their land, and delivered it in possession to Ruben and Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses. {9} Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and fulfill them: that you may understand all things that you do. {10} You stand this day all before our Lord your God, your Princes, and tribes, and ancients, and doctors, all the people of Israel, {11} your children and your wives, and the strangers that abide with thee in the camp, besides the cutters of wood, and them, that carry water: {12} that thou mayest pass in the covenant of our Lord thy God, and in the oath which in this day our Lord thy God maketh with thee: {13} that he may raise thee up a people to himself, and he be thy God as he hath spoken to thee, and as he sware to thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. {14} Neither with you only do I make this covenant, and confirm these oaths, {15} but with all that be present & absent. {16} For you know how we dwelt in the Land of Aegypt, and how we have passed through the midst of nations, which passing through {17} you have seen their abominations & filth, that is to say, their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which they worshipped. {18} Lest perhaps there be among you man or woman, family or tribe, whose heart is turned away this day from our Lord God, to go and serve the gods of those Nations: and there be among you a root bringing forth gall & bitterness. {19} And when he shall hear the words of this oath, he bless himself in his heart, saying: I shall have peace, and walk in the pravity of my heart: and the drunken take to her the thirsty, {20} & our Lord forgive him not: but then his fury most specially fume, and his zeal against that man, and all the curses sit upon him, that be written in this volume: & our Lord abolish his name under heaven, {21} and consume him unto perdition out of all the tribes of Israel, according to the curses that are contained in the Book of this law & covenant. {22} And the generation following shall say, and the children that shall be born from thence-forth, and the strangers that shall come from a far, seeing the plagues of that Land, & the infirmities, wherewith our Lord hath afflicted it, {23} burning it with brimstone, and heat of the salt, so that it can no more be sown, nor any green thing spring thereof, after the example of the subversion of Sodom and Gomorrah, Adama, and Seboim, which our Lord subverted in his wrath & fury. {24} And all the Nations shall say: Why hath the Lord done thus to this Land? What is this exceeding wrath of his fury? {25} And they shall answer: Because they forsook the covenant of the Lord, which he made with their fathers, when he brought them out of the Land of Aegypt: {26} and they have served strange gods, and adored them, whom they knew not, and to whom they had not been designed: {27} therefore the fury of the Lord was wrath against this Land, to bring upon it all the curses that are written in this volume: {28} and he hath cast them out of their land, in wrath and fury, and in very great indignation, and hath thrown them into a strange land, as this day it is proved. {29} Things hidden, to our Lord God, which are manifest, to us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this Law.

If the children of Israel, offending and falling into the foresaid curses shall repent, God will restore them to his blessings again: 11. leaving it in their power to serve him if they will, 17. and therefore warneth them that the impudent shall assuredly perish, because having life and death, blessing and cursing proposed, they choose the worse.

{1} THEREFORE when all these words shall be come upon thee, the blessing or cursing, which I have set forth before thee: and thou be touched with repentance of thy heart in all nations, into which our Lord thy God dispersed thee, {2} and shalt return to him, and obey his commandments, as I this day command thee, with thy children in all thy heart, & in all thy soul: {3} our Lord thy God will bring thee again from the captivity, and have mercy upon thee, and gather thee again out of all the peoples, into which he dispersed thee before. {4} If thou be dispersed as far as the poles of heaven, thence will our Lord thy God draw thee back. {5} and will take thee to him, and bring thee into the Land, which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt obtain it: and blessing thee will make thee to be of a greater number, than were thy fathers. {6} Our Lord thy God will circumcise thy heart, and the heart of thy seed: that thou mayest love our Lord thy God in all thy heart, and in all thy soul, that thou mayest live. {7} And all these curses he will turn upon thine enemies, & them that hate and persecute thee. {8} But thou shalt return, and hear the voice of our Lord thy God, & shalt do all the commandments which I command thee this day: {9} and our Lord will make thee abound in all the works of thy hands, in the issue of thy womb, and in the fruit of thy cattle, in the fertility of thy ground, and in the plenty of things. For our Lord will return to rejoice upon thee in all riches, as he rejoiced in thy fathers: {10} yet so, if thou hear the voice of our Lord thy God, and keep his precepts and ceremonies, which are written in this law: and return to our Lord thy God in all thy heart, and in all thy soul. {11} This commandment, that I command thee this day, is not above thee, nor so far off, {12} nor situated in heaven that thou mayest say: Which of us is able to ascend unto heaven to bring it to us, that we may hear and fulfill it in work? {13} nor placed beyond the sea: that thou mayest pretend, and say: Which of us can pass over the sea and bring it even unto us, that we may hear, & do that which is commanded? {14} But the word is very near thee, in thy mouth and in thy heart, to do it. {15} Consider that I have set before thee this day life and good, and contrarywise death and evil: {16} that thou mayest love our Lord thy God, and walk in his ways, and keep his commandments and ceremonies and judgments: and thou mayest live, and he multiply thee, and bless thee in the Land which thou shalt enter to possess. {17} But if thy heart be averted, and thou wilt not hear, and deceived with error thou adore strange gods, and serve them: {18} I foretell thee this day that thou shalt perish, & abide a little time in the Land, which passing over Jordan, thou shalt enter to possess. {19} I call for witnesses this day heaven & earth, that I have proposed to you life and death, blessing and cursing. Choose therefore life, that both thou mayest live, and thy seed: {20} and mayest love our Lord thy God, and obey his voice, and cleave to him (for he is thy life, and the length of thy days) that thou mayest live in the Land, for the which our Lord sware to thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, that he would give it them.

Moyses substituteth Josue his successor in temporal government 9. delivereth the law to the Priests. 16. God foretelleth that the people will often forsake him, and that he will punish them, 19. commandeth Moyses to write a canticle (an abridgement of the Law) easy to be remembered. 25. And in further testimony against them, the Levites must put this book in the ark of covenant.

{1} MOYESES Therefore went, and spake all these words to all Israel, them: I am this day an hundred and {2} and said to twenty years old, I can not go out & come in any longer, especially whereas our Lord also hath said to me: Thou shalt not pass over this Jordan: {3} Our Lord therefore thy God will pass over before thee: he will destroy all these nations in thy sight, and thou shalt possess them: and this Josue shall pass over before thee, as our Lord hath spoken. {4} And our Lord shall do to them as he did to Sehon and Og the kings of the Ammorites, and to their land, and shall destroy them. {5} Therefore when our Lord shall have delivered these also to you, you shall do in like manner to them as I have commanded you. {6} Do manfully, & be strengthened: fear not, neither tremble ye at their sight: because our Lord thy God himself is thy conductor, & will not leave nor forsake thee. {7} And Moyses called Josue, & said to him before all Israel: Take courage, & be strong: for thou shalt bring in this people into the Land, which our Lord swore that he would give to their fathers, and thou shalt divide it by lot. {8} And our Lord that is your conductor, himself will be with thee: he will not leave, nor forsake thee: fear not, neither dread thou. {9} Moyses therefore wrote this law, & delivered it to the Priests the sons of Levi, which carried the ark of the covenant of our Lord, & to all the ancients of Israel. {10} And he commanded them saying: After seven years, in the year of remission, in the solemnity of tabernacles, {11} when all come together out of Israel, to appear in the sight of our Lord thy God, in the place which our Lord shall choose, thou shalt read the words of this law before all Israel, they hearing, {12} and the people being assembled together, as well men as women, children, & strangers, that are within thy gates: that hearing they may learn, and fear our Lord your God, and keep, and fulfill all the words of this law. {13} Their children also who now are ignorant; that they may hear, and fear our Lord their God, all the days that they live in the Land, which passing over Jordan you go to obtain. {14} And our Lord said to Moyses: Behold the days of thy death are nigh: call Josue, and stand ye in the tabernacle of testimony, that I may command him. Moyses therefore and Josue went, & stood in the tabernacle of testimony. {15} and our Lord appeared there in the pillar of a cloud, which stood in the entering of the tabernacle. {16} And our Lord said to Moyses: Behold thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, and this people rising up will fornicate after strange gods in the Land, to the which it entereth to dwell therein: there will they forsake me, and will make the covenant, which I have made with them, of none effect. {17} And my fury shall be wrath against them in that day, & I will forsake them, and will hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured: all evils and afflictions shall find them, so that they shall say in that day: In truth because God is not with me, these evils have found me. {18} But I will hide, and keep close my face in that day, for all the evils which they have done, because they have followed strange gods. {19} Now therefore write unto you this canticle, & teach the children of Israel: that they know it by heart, and sing it by mouth, & this song be unto me for a testimony among the children of Israel. {20} For I will bring them into the Land, for the which I sware to their fathers, flowing with milk and honey: And when they have eaten, and are full, and fat, they will turn away to strange gods, and serve them: and will detract from me, and make my covenant of none effect. {21} After that many evils and afflictions shall have found them, this canticle shall answer them for a testimony, which no oblivion shall take away out of the mouth of their seed. For I know their cogitations, what things they are about to do this day, before that I bring them into the Land which I have promised them. {22} Moyses therefore wrote the canticle and taught it the children of Israel: {23} And our Lord commanded Josue the son of Nun, and said: Take courage, and be strong: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the Land which I have promised, and I will be with thee. {24} Therefore after that Moyses wrote the words of this law in a volume, and finished it, {25} he commanded the Levites, that carried the ark of the covenant of our Lord, saying: {26} Take this book, and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of our Lord your God: that it may be for a testimony against thee. {27} For I know thy contention, and thy most stiff neck. Whiles I yet live and go in with you, you have done always contentiously against our Lord: how much more when I shall be dead? {28} Gather to me all the ancients by your tribes, and your doctors, and I will speak these words in their hearing, and will invoke against them heaven and earth. {29} For I know that after my death you will do wickedly, and will decline quickly from the way, that I have commanded you: and evils shall come upon you in the later times, when you shall do evil in the sight of our Lord, to provoke him by the works of your hands. {30} Moyses therefore spake in the hearing of the whole assembly of Israel the words of this song, and finished it even to the end.

A Canticle of the Law, wherein the people are exhorted to serve God, for his perfect goodness, for his singular benefits, for their former ingratitude, and for his mercy still mixed with his punishments. 44. All which being earnestly commended to them to remember and teach their children. 48. Moyses is commanded to go into a mountain, whence he shall see the promised land, but not enter into it.

{1} HEAR ye heavens what things I speak, the earth hear the words of my mouth. {2} My doctrine grow together as rain, my speech flow as the dew, as it were a shower upon the herb, and as it were drops upon the grass. {3} Because I will invoke the name of our Lord: give magnificence to our God. {4} The works of God be perfect, and all his ways judgments: God is faithful, and without any iniquity, just and right. {5} They have sinned to him, and not his children in filthiness: a froward and perverse generation, {6} These things doest thou render to our Lord, thou foolish and unwise people? Is not he thy father, that hath possessed thee, and made, and created thee? {7} Remember the old days, think upon every generation: ask thy father, and he will declare to thee: thy elders, and they will tell thee. {8} When the highest divided the nations: when he separated the sons of Adam, he appointed the limits of people according to the number of the children of Israel. {9} But our Lord's part is his people: Jacob the cord of his inheritance. {10} He found him in a desert land, and a place of horror, and of vast wilderness: he led him about, and taught him: and kept him as the apple of his eye. {11} As the eagle provoking her young to fly, and hovering over them hath he spread his wings, and he hath taken him, and carried him on his shoulders. {12} Our Lord only was his guide: and there was not with him a strange God. {13} He placed him over an high land: that he might eat the fruits of the fields, that he might suck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the hardest stone. {14} Butter from the herd, and milk of the sheep, with the fat of lambs, & of rams of the sons of Basan: and buck-goats with the marrow of wheat, and might drink the blood of the grape most pure. {15} The beloved was made gross, and spurned: made gross, fatted, dilated, he left God his Maker, and departed from God his salvation. {16} They provoked him in strange gods, and in abominations stirred him to anger. {17} They immolated to devils and not to God, to gods, which they knew not: there came new and fresh ones, whom their fathers worshipped not. {18} God that begat thee thou hast forsaken, and hast forgotten our Lord thy creator. {19} Our Lord saw, and was moved to wrath: because his sons and daughters provoked him. {20} And he said: I will hide my face from them, and will consider their last: for it is a perverse generation, and unfaithful children. {21} They have provoked me in that, which was no God, and have angered me in their vanities: & I will provoke them in that which is no people, and in a foolish nation will I anger them. {22} A fire is kindled in my wrath, and shall burn even to the lowest parts of hell: and shall devour the earth with her spring, and shall burn the foundations of mountains. {23} I will heap evils upon them, and mine arrows I will spend in them. {24} They shall be consumed with famine, & birds shall devour them with most bitter biting: the teeth of beasts will I send upon them, with the fury of those that trail upon the ground, and creep. {25} Without shall the sword devour them, and within fearfulness, the young man and the virgin together, the sucking child with the old man. {26} I said: Where are they? I will make their memory to cease from among man. {27} But for the wrath of the enemies I have deferred: lest perhaps their enemies might be proud, & would say: Our mighty hand, and not the Lord, hath done all these things. {28} A nation without counsel is it, and without wisdom. {29} O that they were wise, and understood, and would provide for their last! {30} How should one pursue a thousand, and two put ten thousand to flight? Was it not therefore, because their God sold them, and our Lord inclosed them? {31} For our Lord is not as their gods: our enemies also are judges. {32} Of the vineyard of Sodom, is their vineyard, and of the suburbs of Gomorrah: their grape the grape of gall, and the clusters most bitter. {33} The gall of dragons their wine, and the venom of Asps, incurable. {34} Are not these things laid up with me, and signed in my treasures? {35} Revenge is mine, and I will repay them in time, that their foot may slide: the day of perdition is at hand, and the times make haste to be present. {36} Our Lord will judge his people, and will have mercy on his servants: he shall see that their hand is weakened, & the shut-up also have failed, and the residue be consumed. {37} And he shall say: Where are their gods, in whom they had confidence. {38} Of whose victims they did eat fat, and drank the wine of their libaments: Let them arise, and help you, and protect you in necessity. {39} See ye that I am only, and there is no other God besides me: I will kill, and I will make to live: I will strike, and I will heal, and there is none that can deliver out of my hand. {40} I will lift up my hand to heaven, and will say: I live for ever. {41} If I shall whet my sword as the lightning, & my hand take judgment: I will repay vengeance to mine enemies, and them that hate me will I requite. {42} I will imbrue my arrows with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh, of the blood of the slain and captivity, of the bare head of the enemies. {43} You gentiles praise his people, because he will revenge the blood of his servants: and will repay vengeance upon their enemies, and will be propitious to the land of his people. {44} Moyses therefore came and spake all the words of this canticle in the ears of the people, he and Josue the son of Nun. {45} And he finished all these words, speaking to the children of Israel, {46} & he said to them: Set your hearts on all the words, which I testify to you this day: that you command them to your children to keep and to do, and to fulfill all things of this law that are written: {47} for not in vain are they commanded you, but that every one should live in them: which doing you may continue a long time in the Land, which passing over Jordan you enter to possess. {48} And our Lord spake to Moyses in the same day, saying: {49} Go up into this mount Abarim, that is to say, of passages, into mount Nebo, which is in the Land of Moab against Jericho: and see the Land of Chanaan, which I will deliver to the children of Israel to obtain, and die thou in the mount. {50} Which going up unto thou shalt be joined to thy peoples, as Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor, and was laid to his people: {51} because you did prevaricate against me in the midst of the children of Israel at the Waters of contradiction in Cades of the desert of Sin: and you did not sanctify me among the children of Israel. {52} Over against shalt thou see the Land, and shalt not enter into it, which I will give to the children of Israel.

Moyses blessing the tribes of Israel (Simeon omitted) prophesieth particularly of every one. 26. Again exhorteth them, that as God hath chosen them his peculiar people, so they love and honour him their only God.

{1} THIS is the blessing, wherewith Moyses the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death. {2} And he said: Our Lord came from Sinai, and from Seir is he risen to us: he hath appeared from mount Pharan, and with him thousands of Saints. In his right hand a fiery law. {3} He hath loved the peoples, all the Saints are in his hand: and they that approach to his feet shall receive of his doctrine. {4} Moyses commanded us a law, the inheritance of the multitude of Jacob. {5} He shall be king with the most right, the Princes of the people being assembled with the tribes of Israel. {6} Live Ruben, and die he not, and be he little in number. {7} This is the blessing of Judas: Hear Lord the voice of Judas, and bring him in unto his people: his hands shall fight for him, and he shall be his helper against his adversaries. {8} To Levi also he said: Thy perfection, and thy doctrine be to thy holy man, whom thou hast proved in temptation, and judged at the Waters of contradiction. {9} He that said to his father and to his mother: I know you not; and to his brethren: I know you not: and they knew not their children. These kept thy word, and observed thy covenant, {10} thy judgments, o Jacob, and thy law, o Israel: they shall put incense in thy fury, and holocaust upon thine altar. {11} Bless Lord his strength, and receive the works of his hands. Strike the backs of his enemies, and they that hate him, let them not rise up. {12} And to Benjamin he said: The best beloved of our Lord shall dwell confidently in him: as in a bride-chamber all the day shall he abide, and between his shoulders shall he rest. {13} To Joseph also he said: Of the blessing of our Lord be his land, of the fruits of heaven, and the dew, & the depth lying underneath. {14} Of the pomes of the fruits of the sun and moon, {15} of the tops of the old mountains, of the pomes of the eternal hills: {16} and of the fruits of the earth, and of the fullness thereof. The blessing of him, that appeared in the bush, come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the Nazarite among his brethren. {17} His beauty as of the first born of an oxe, his horns the horns of an unicorn: in them shall he winnow the Nations even to the ends of the earth. These are the multitudes of Ephraim, and these the thousands of Manasses. {18} And to Zabulon he said: Rejoice Zabulon in thy going out, and Issachar in thy tabernacles. {19} They shall call the peoples to the mountain: there shall they immolate the victims of justice. Who shall suck the inundation of the sea as milk, and the hidden treasures of the sands. {20} And to Gad he said: Blessed be Gad in breadth: as a lion hath he rested, and taken the arm and the top of the head. {21} And he saw his principality, that in his part the doctor was reposed: which was with the princes of the people, and did the justices of our Lord, and his judgment with Israel. {22} To Dan also he said: Dan a lion's whelp, he shall flow largely from Basan. {23} And to Nephthali he said: Nephthali shall enjoy abundance, and shall be full of the blessings of our Lord: the sea and the south he shall possess. {24} To Aser also he said: Blessed be Aser in children, be he acceptable to his brethren, and dip he in oil his foot. {25} His shoe iron and brass. As the days of thy youth, so also thy old age. {26} There is no other God as the God of the rightest: the mounter of heaven is thy helper. By his magnificence the clouds run hither and thither. {27} his habitation is above, and under the everlasting arms: he shall cast out the enemy from thy face, and shall say: Be destroyed. {28} Israel shall dwell confidently, and alone. The eye of Jacob in the land of corn and wine, and the heavens shall be misty with dew. {29} Blessed art thou Israel: who is like to thee, o people that art saved in our Lord, the shield of thy help, and the sword of thy glory? Thy enemies shall deny thee, and thou shalt tread their necks.

Moyses seeth the promised land, but is not suffered to go into it. 5. He dieth at the age of {120}. years. God burieh his body secretly, and all Israel mourn for him thirty days. 9. Josue replenished (by imposition of Moyses' hands) with the spirit of God, succeedeth. 10. But Moyses for his special familiarity with God, and for most wonderful miracles is commended above all other Prophets.

{1} MOYES therefore went up from the champion of Moab upon mount Nebo, into the top of Phasga against Jericho: and our Lord shewed him all the land of Galaad as far as Dan, {2} and all Nephthali, and the land of Ephraim and Manasses, and all the Land of Juda unto the utmost sea, {3} and the south part, and the breadth of the plain of Jericho, a city of palm-trees as far as Segor. {4} And our Lord said to him: This is the Land, for the which I swear to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying: To thy seed will I give it. Thou hast seen it with thine eyes, and shalt not pass over to it. {5} And Moyses the servant of our Lord died there, in the land of Moab, our Lord commanding it: {6} and he buried him in the valley of the Land of Moab against Phogor: and no man hath known his sepulchre until this present day. {7} Moyses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, neither were his teeth moved. {8} And the children of Israel mourned him in the champion country of Moab thirty days: & the days of their mourning that mourned for Moyses were accomplished. {9} And Josue the son of Nun was replenished with the spirit of wisdom, because Moyses did put his hands upon him. And the children of Israel obeyed him, and did as our Lord commanded Moyses. {10} And there rose no more a Prophet in Israel as Moyses, whom our Lord had known face to face, {11} in all signs and wonders, which he sent by him, to do in the Land of Aegypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to his whole Land, {12} and all the strong hand, and great marvels, which Moyses did before all Israel.

THE BOOK OF JOSUE

Josue encouraged by our Lord 10. admonisheth the people to prepare themselves to pass over Jordan, 12. and all the able men of the tribes of Ruben, Gad, and half Manasses, to march armed before the rest. 16. All promise to do whatsoever he commandeth.

{1} AND it came to pass after the death of Moyses the servant of our Lord, that our Lord spake to Josue the son of Nun, the minister of Moyses, and said to him: {2} Moyses my servant is dead: arise, and pass over this Jordan thou and all the people with thee into the Land, which I will give to the children of Israel. {3} Every place the step of your foot shall tread, will I deliver to you, as I have spoken to Moyses. {4} From the desert and Libanus unto the great river Euphrates, all the land of the Hethites unto the great sea against the going down of the sun, shall be your border. {5} No man shall be able to resist you all the days of thy life: as I have been with Moyses, so will I be with thee: I will not leave nor forsake thee. {6} Take courage, and be strong: for thou shalt by lot divide to this people the Land, for the which I swear to their fathers, that I would deliver it to them. {7} Take courage therefore, and be very strong: that thou keep and do all the Law, which Moyses my servant hath commanded thee: decline not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest understand all things which thou doest. {8} Let not the volume of this law depart from thy mouth: but thou shalt meditate in it days and nights, that thou mayest keep and do all things that be written in it: then shalt thou direct thy way, and understand it. {9} Behold I command thee, take courage, and be strong. Fear not, and dread not: because the Lord thy God is with thee in all the things to whatsoever thou shalt go. {10} And Josue commanded the Princes of the people, saying: Pass through the midst of the camp, and command the people, and say: {11} Prepare for your selves victuals: for after the third day you shall pass over Jordan, and shall enter to possess the Land which our Lord your God will give you. {12} To the Rubenites also & Gaddites, & half tribe of Manasses he said: {13} Remember the word which Moyses the servant of our Lord commanded you, saying: Our Lord your God hath given you rest, and all this Land. {14} Your wives, and children, and cattle shall tarry in the Land, which Moyses delivered to you beyond Jordan: but pass you over armed before your brethren, all that are strong of hand, and fight for them, {15} until our Lord give rest to your brethren, as to you also he hath given, and they also possess the Land which our Lord your God will give them: and so return into the Land of your possession, & you shall dwell in it, which Moyses the servant of our Lord gave you beyond Jordan, against the rising of the sun. {16} And they made answer to Josue, & said: all things that thou hast commanded us we will do: and whither soever thou shalt send us, we will go. {17} As we obeyed Moyses in all things, so will we obey thee also: only be our Lord thy God with thee, as he was with Moyses. {18} He that shall gainsay thy mouth, and not obey all thy words that thou shalt command him, let him die. Thou only take courage, and do manfully.

Two discoverers sent into Hiericho are hid and concealed by Rahab: 8. and upon promise of like safety to her whole family, 21. she helpeth them secretly away.

{1} THEREFORE Josue the son of Nun sent from Setim two men, to spy in secret, and said to them: Go, and view the Land, & the city of Jericho. Who going entered into the house of a woman, a harlot, named Rahab, and rested with her. {2} And it was told the king of Jericho, & said: Behold there are men come in hither by night of the children of Israel, to spy the Land. {3} And the king of Jericho sent to Rahab, saying: Bring forth the men that came to thee, and are entered into thy house, for they be spies, and are come to view all the Land. {4} And the woman taking the men, hid them, & said: I confess they came to me, but I knew not whence they were: {5} and when the gate was a shutting in the dark, and they withal went out, I know not whither they be gone: pursue quickly, and you shall overtake them. {6} But she made the men to go up into the roof of her house, and covered them with the stalk of flax, which was there. {7} And they that were sent, followed them, the way that leadeth to the ford of Jordan: and they being gone out, the gate forthwith was shut. {8} Neither were they yet asleep that lay hid, and behold the woman went up to them, and said: {9} I know that the Lord hath given this Land to you: for your terror is fallen upon us, & all the inhabitants of the Land are become faint. {10} We have heard that the Lord dried up the water of the Red sea at your entering, when you came out of Aegypt: and what things you did to the two kings of the Amorrites, that were beyond Jordan, Sehon and Og, whom you slew. {11} And hearing these things we greatly feared, and our heart fainted, neither did there remain spirit in us at your entering in: for the Lord your God he is God in heaven above, and in the earth beneath. {12} Now therefore swear to me by the Lord, that as I have done mercy with you, so you also do with my father's house: and you give me a true sign, {13} that you save my father and mother, my brethren and sisters, and all things that be theirs, and deliver our souls from death. {14} Who answered her: Be our lives for you unto death, only if thou betray us not. And when our Lord shall have delivered us the land, we will do in thee mercy and truth. {15} She therefore did let them down by a cord out of a window: for her house joined fast to the wall. {16} And she said to them: Go up to the mountains, lest perhaps they meet you returning: and there, lie hid three days, till they return, and so you shall go on your way. {17} Who said to her: We shall be quit from this oath wherewith thou hast sworn us, {18} if we entering the Land, there be this purple cord a sign, and thou tie it in the window, by the which thou hast let us down: & gather thy father and mother, & brethren, & all thy kindred into thy house. {19} He that shall go forth of the door of thy house, his blood shall be upon his head, & we shall be quit. But the blood of all that shall be with thee in the house, shall redound upon our head, if any man touch them. {20} But if thou wilt betray us, and utter this talk abroad, we shall be quit from this oath, wherewith thou hast adjured us. {21} And she answered: As you have spoken, so be it done, and dismissing them to go, she hung the purple cord in the window. {22} But they walking came to the mountains, and tarried there three days, till they returned that pursued them: for seeking every way, they found them not. {23} Who being entered into the city, the discoverers returned, and came down from the mountain: and passing over Jordan, they came to Josue the son of Nun, and told him all things that had chanced to them, {24} and said: Our Lord hath delivered all this land into our hands, and all the inhabitants thereof are overthrown with fear.

After three days abode by the banks of Jordan, 3. the Priests with the Ark of God entering first into the river, [21] 15. the upper part miraculously standeth and swelleth, the lower running away, they go into the mid channel, and there stay, whilsts all the people pass over dry foot.

{1} JOSUE therefore rising up in the night, removed the camp: and departing from Setim, they came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, & abode there for three days. {2} Which being passed, the heralds went through the midst of the camp, {3} and began to proclaim: When you shall see the ark of covenant of our Lord your God, and the Priests of the Levitical stock carrying it, rise you also, & follow them going before: {4} & let there be between you & the ark the space of two thousand cubits: that you may see it a far off, & know which way you may go: because you have not walked by it before: & beware you approach not to the ark. {5} And Josue said to the people: Be sanctified, for to morrow our Lord will do among you marvelous things. {6} And he said to the Priests: Take up the ark of the covenant, & go before the people. Who fulfilling his commandments, took it, and walked before them. {7} And our Lord said to Josue: This day will I begin to exalt thee before all Israel: that they may know as I was with Moyses, so am I with thee also. {8} And do thou command the Priests, that carry the ark of the testament, and say to them: When you shall be entered into part of the water of Jordan, stand in it. {9}

And Josue said to the children of Israel: Come hither, and hear the word of our Lord your God. {10} And again he said: In this you shall know that our Lord the living God is in the midst of you, and shall destroy in your sight the Chananite and Hethite, the Hevite and Pherezite, the Gergesite also and the Jebusite, and the Amorrhite. {11} Behold the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth shall go before you into Jordan. {12} Prepare twelve men of the tribes of Israel, one of every tribe. {13} And when the Priests that carry the ark of the Lord of the whole earth shall set the steps of their feet in the waters of Jordan, the waters that are beneath shall run down and decay: and those that come from above, shall stand together in one heap. {14} Therefore the people went out of their tabernacles to pass over Jordan: and the Priests that carried the ark of the covenant, went on before them. {15} And they being entered into Jordan, and their feet dipped in part of the water (and Jordan in the harvest time had filled the banks of his channel) {16} the waters that came downward stood in one place, and like a mountain swelling up appeared far from the city, that is called Adom, to the place of Sartan: but those that were beneath ran down into the Sea of the wilderness (which now is called the dead sea) until they wholly decayed. {17} And the people went against Jericho: and the Priests that carried the ark of the covenant of our Lord, stood girded upon the dry ground in the midst of Jordan, and all the people passed over through the dry channel.

In memory of their miraculous passage, twelve chief men, of the twelve tribes, take so many great stones from the midst of Jordan, 9. and put other twelve, where the Priests stood with the ark. 18. The waters return to their former course. And the twelve stones are erected for a monument.

{1} WHO being passed over, our Lord said to Josue: tribe: {32} & command them that they take Choose twelve men, one in every up out of the midst of the channel of Jordan, where the feet of the Priests stood, twelve most hard stones, which you shall put in the place of the camp, where you shall pitch tents this night. {4} And Josue called twelve men, whom he had chosen out of the children of Israel, one of every tribe, {5} and he said to them: Go before the ark of our Lord your God to the midst of Jordan, and carry from thence every man a stone on your shoulders, according to the number of the children of Israel, {6} that it may be a sign among you: and when your children shall ask you to morrow, saying: What mean these stones? {7} You shall answer them: The waters of Jordan decayed before the ark of the covenant of our Lord, when it passed over the same: therefore were these stones set for a monument of the children of Israel for ever. {8} The children of Israel therefore did as Josue commanded them, carrying out of the channel of Jordan twelve stones, as our Lord had commanded him, according to the number of the children of Israel, unto the place, wherein they camped, and there they set them. {9} Other twelve stones also Josue put in the midst of the channel of Jordan, where the Priests stood, that carried the ark of the covenant: and they be there until this present day. {10} But the Priests that carried the ark, stood in the midst of Jordan, till all things were accomplished which our Lord had commanded Josue to speak to the people, and Moyses had said to him. And the people made haste, and passed over. {11} And when they had all passed over, the ark also of our Lord passed over, the Priests also went before the people. {12} The children of Ruben also and Gad, & the half tribe of Manasses, went armed before the children of Israel, as Moyses had commanded them: {13} and forty thousand fighting men by troops, and bands marched through the plain and champion country of the city of Jericho. {14} In that day our Lord magnified Josue before all Israel, that they should fear him, as they had feared Moyses, whiles he yet lived. {15} And he said to him: {16} Command the Priests that carry the ark of the covenant, that they come up out of Jordan. {17} Who commanded them, saying: Come ye up out of Jordan. {18} And when they that carried the ark of the covenant of our Lord were come up, & began to tread on the dry ground, the waters returned into their channel, and ran as they were wont before. {19} And the people came up out of Jordan the tenth day of the first month, and camped in Galgal against the East side of the city of Jericho. {20} The twelve stones also, which they had taken out of the channel of Jordan, Josue set in Galgal, {21} and said to the children of Israel: When your children shall ask their fathers to morrow, and shall say to them: What mean these stones? {22} You shall teach them, and say: By the dry channel did Israel pass over this Jordan, {23} your Lord God drying the waters thereof in your sight, until you passed over: {24} as he had done before in the red sea, which he dried till we passed through: {25} that all the people of the earth may learn the most strong hand of our Lord, that you also may fear our Lord your God.

The kings of Chanaan are sore affrighted with the news of Israel's passage over Jordan. 2. Circumcision is again commanded, and observed, which had been omitted in the desert forty years. 10. They make their Pasch. 12. Manna ceaseth. 13. And an Angel appeareth to Josue.

{1} THEREFORE after that all the kings of the Amorrhites, which dwelt beyond Jordan at the west side, and all the kings of Chanaan, which possessed the places nigh to the great sea, had heard that our Lord had dried the streams of Jordan before the children of Israel, till they passed over, their heart failed, and there remained no spirit in them, fearing the entering of the children of Israel. {2} At that time our Lord said to Josue: Make thee knives of stone, and circumcise the second time the children of Israel. {3} He did that which our Lord had commanded, and he circumcised the children of Israel in the hill of the prepuces. {4} And this is the cause of the second circumcision: All the people, that came out of Aegypt of the malekind, all the fighting men died in the desert by the long circuits of the way, {5} who were all circumcised. But the people that was born in the desert, {6} during the forty years of the journey in the wide wilderness was uncircumcised: till they were consumed that had not heard the voice of our Lord, and to whom he had sworn before, that he would not shew them a land flowing with milk and honey. {7} The children of these succeeded in the place of the fathers, and were circumcised of Josue: for they were in the prepucie even as they were born, neither had any circumcised them in the way. {8} And after that they were all circumcised, they abode in the same place of the camp, until they were whole. {9} And our Lord said to Josue: This day have I taken away the reproach of Aegypt from you. And the name of that place was called Galgal, until this present day. {10} And the children of Israel abode in Galgal, & they made the Phase, the fourteenth day of the month at even, in the champion of Jericho: {11} and they did eat of the corn of the Land the next day, azyme loaves and polent of the same year. {12} And Manna failed after they did eat of the corn of the Land, neither did the children of Israel use that meat any more, but they did eat of the corn of the present Land of Chanaan. {13} And when Josue was in the field of the city of Jericho, he lifted up his eyes, and saw a man standing against him, holding a drawn sword, and he went to him, and said: Art thou ours, or our adversaries? {14} Who answered: No: but I am a prince of the host of our Lord, and now I come. {15} Josue fell flat on the ground. And adoring he said: What speaketh my Lord to his servant? {16} Loose, saith he, thy shoe from thy feet: for the place wherein thou dost stand, is holy. And Josue did as it was commanded him.

Some Priests carrying the ark, others sounding Jubilee trumpets, armed men going before, and the rest of the people following, go every day once, six days together, and the seventh day seven times, round about Jericho. 16. At last all making a great shout, the walls fall down, and they entering in kill and destroy all (22. saving Rahab and her kindred.) The gold, silver, brass, and iron are brought into the treasury. 26. And he is cursed that shall build the city again.

{1} AND Jericho was shut and fenced, for fear of the children of Israel, and no man durst go out or come in. {2} And our Lord said to Josue: Behold I have given into thy hands Jericho, & the king thereof, & all the valiant men. {3} Go round about the city all you that be men of war once a day: so shall you do six days. {4} And the seventh day the Priests shall take up the seven trumpets, which are used in the Jubilee, and shall go before the ark of the covenant: and you shall go about the city seven times, and the Priests shall sound with trumpets. {5} And when the voice of the trumpet shall sound in length and with a broken tune, and shall sound in your ears, all the people shall cry together with a very great shout, and the walls of the city shall fall to the ground, and they shall enter in every one at the place against which they shall stand. {6} Josue therefore the son of Nun called the Priests, and said to them: Take up the ark of the covenant: and let seven other Priests take up the seven trumpets of the Jubilees, and march before the ark of our Lord. {7} To the people also he said: Go and compass the city, the armed going before the ark of our Lord. {8} And when Josue had ended his words, and the seven Priests sounded with seven trumpets before the ark of the covenant of our Lord, {9} and all the armed host went before, the rest of the common people followed the ark, and all places sounded with the trumpets. {10} But Josue had commanded the people, saying: You shall not cry, neither shall your voice be heard, nor any word go out of your mouth, until the day come wherein I shall say to you: Cry, and shout. {11} Therefore the ark of our Lord went about the city once a day, & returning into the camp, abode there. {12} Josue therefore rising in the night, the Priests took the ark of our Lord, {13} and seven of them seven trumpets, which are used in the jubilee: and they went before the ark of our Lord walking and sounding: and the armed people went before them, and the rest of the common people followed the ark, and they sounded with trumpets. {14} And they went round about the city the second day once, and returned into the camp. So did they six days. {15} But the seventh day, rising up early they went about the city, as it was ordained, seven times. {16} And when in the seventh going about, the priests sounded with the trumpets, Josue said to all Israel: Make a shout, for our Lord hath delivered to you the city: {17} and let this city be anathema: and all things that are in it, to our Lord. Only Rahab the harlot let her live, with all that be with her in the house: for she hid the messengers whom we sent. {18} But you, beware you touch not ought of those things, that are commanded, and be guilty of prevarication, and all the camp of Israel be under sin, and be troubled. {19} But whatsoever gold or silver there shall be, and of brazen vessels and iron, let it be consecrated to our Lord, laid up in his treasures. {20} Therefore all the people making a shout, and the trumpets sounding, after that the voice and the sound thundered in the ears of the multitude, the walls forthwith fell: and every man went up by the place that was against him, and they took the city, {21} and killed all things that were in it, from man to woman, from the infant to the old man. The oxen also and sheep, and the asses they struck in the edge of the sword. {22} But to the two men that had been sent for spies, Josue said: Go into the house of the woman the harlot, and bring her forth, and all things that be hers, as you assured her by oath. {23} And the young men going in, brought out Rahab, and her parents, her brethren also, and all her stuff and kindred, and made them to tarry without the camp. {24} But the city, and all things that were found therein they burnt: except the gold and silver, and brazen vessels, and iron, which they consecrated unto the treasury of our Lord. {25} But Rahab the harlot and the house of her father, and all that she had, Josue caused to live, and they dwelt in the midst of Israel until this present day: for that she hid the messengers, which he had sent to view Jericho. At that time Josue pronounced a curse, saying: {26} Cursed be the man before our Lord, that shall raise up and build the city of Jericho. In his first born lay he the foundations thereof, and in the last of his children set he up the gates thereof. {27} Our Lord therefore was with Josue, and his name was bruited in all the earth.

For the sin of Achan, reserving secretly to himself certain money, and other precious things, the Israelites are beaten in battle. 13. But the offender being found out, and stoned to death, God's wrath is turned from them.

{1} BUT the children of Israel transgressed the commandment, and usurped of the anathema: For Achan the son of Charmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zare of the tribe of Juda, took somewhat of the anathema: and our Lord was angry against the children of Israel. {2} And when Josue sent from Jericho men against Hai, which is beside Bethaven, at the East side of the town of Bethel, he said to them: Go up, and view the Land: who accomplishing his commandments, viewed Hai. {3} and returning they said to him: Let not all the people go up, but let two or three thousand men go, and destroy the city: why shall all the people be vexed in vain against very few enemies? {4} There went up therefore three thousand fighting men. Who immediately turning their backs, {5} were stricken of the men of the city of Hai, and there fell of them six and thirty men: and the adversaries pursued them from the gate as far as Sabarim, and they struck them flying away by the descent: and the heart of the people was much afraid, and melted like unto water. {6} But Josue rent his garments, and fell flat on the ground before the ark of our Lord until evening, as well he as all the ancients of Israel: and they cast dust upon their heads, {7} and Josue said: Alas, o Lord God, why wouldst thou bring this people over the river of Jordan, to deliver us into the hands of the Amorrhite, & to destroy us? Would God as we began, we had tarried beyond Jordan. {8} My Lord God what shall I say, seeing Israel turning their backs to their enemies. {9} The Chananites shall hear of it, & all the inhabitants of the Land, and being gathered together in a plump shall compass us about, & shall destroy our name from the earth: and what wilt thou do to thy great name? {10} And our Lord said to Josue: Arise, why liest thou flat on the ground? {11} Israel hath sinned, and transgressed my covenant: and they have taken of the anathema, and have stolen and lied, and have hid it among their vessels. {12} Neither can Israel stand before his enemies, and he shall fly them: because he is polluted with the anathema. I will be no more with you, till you dispatch him, that is guilty of this wicked fact. {13} Arise, sanctify the people, and say to them: Be sanctified against to morrow, for thus saith our Lord God of Israel: There is anathema in the midst of thee, o Israel: thou canst not stand before thine enemies, till he be destroyed out of thee that is contaminated with this wicked fact. {14} And you shall come in the morning every one by your tribes: and what tribe soever the lot shall find, it shall come by the kindreds thereof, the kindred by the houses, & the house by the men. {15} And whosoever he be that shall be taken in this fact, he shall be burnt in the fire with all his substance, because he hath transgressed the covenant of our Lord, & hath done abomination in Israel. {16} Josue therefore rising in the morning, made Israel to come by their tribes, and it was found the tribe of Juda. {17} Which being presented by the families thereof, it was found the family of Zare. Presenting that also by the houses, he found it Zabdi: {18} Whose house dividing into every man, he found Achan the son of Charmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zare of the tribe of Juda. {19} And Josue said to Achan: My son, give glory to our Lord God of Israel, and confess, and tell me what thou hast done, hide it not. {20} And Achan answered Josue, & said to him: Indeed I have sinned to our Lord the God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done. {21} For I saw among the spoils a cloak of scarlet very good, and two hundred sicles of silver, and a golden rule of fifty sicles: and coveting I took it away, and hid it in the ground against the midst of my tabernacle, and the silver I covered with the earth digged up. {22} Josue therefore sent ministers: who running to his tabernacle found all things hid in the same place, and the silver withal. {23} And taking it away out of the tent, brought it to Josue, and to all the children of Israel, and threw it before our Lord. {24} Josue therefore taking Achan the son of Zare, and the silver and the cloak, and the golden rule, his sons also and daughters, his oxen, and asses, and sheep, and the tabernacle it-self, and all the stuff: (and all Israel with him) they brought them to the valley of Achor: {25} Where Josue said: Because thou hast disturbed us, our Lord disturb thee in this day. And all Israel stoned him: and all things that were his, were consumed with fire. {26} And they gathered together upon him a great heap of stones, which remaineth until this present day. And the fury of our Lord was averted from them. And the name of that place was called, the valley of Achor, until this day.

By stratagem of an ambushment the city of Hai is taken and burned, and all the inhabitants slain. 20. The king hanged. 30. An altar built; Sacrifice offered, 32. the law written in stones, the people blessed, and the blessings and cursings read before them all.

{1} AND our Lord said to Josue: Fear not, neither do thou dread: take with thee all the multitude of fighting men, and rising go up unto the town of Hai. Behold I have delivered into thy hand the king thereof, & the people, and the city and the land. {2} And thou shalt do to the city of Hai, and to the king thereof, as thou hast done to Jericho, and to the king thereof: but the prey and all the cattle you shall spoil for your selves: lay ambushments to the city behind it. {3} And Josue arose, and all the host of the men of war with him, to go up into Hai: and thirty thousand chosen valiant men he sent in the night, {4} and commanded them, saying: Lay ambushments behind the city: neither retire you far off: and you shall all be ready. {5} But I and the rest of the multitude, which is with me, will go up on the contrary side against the city. And when they shall issue out against us, as we did before, we will fly, and turn our backs: {6} till pursuing they be drawn forward far from the city: for they will think that we fly as before. {7} We therefore flying, and they pursuing, you shall rise out of the ambushments, and shall waste the city: and our Lord your God will deliver it into your hands. {8} And when you shall take it, burn it, and you shall do all things so, as I have commanded. {9} And he dismissed them away, and they went on to the place of the ambushments, and sat between Bethel and Hai, at the West side of the city of Hai. But Josue that night stayed in the midst of the people, {10} and rising early he mustered his soldiers, and went up with the ancients in the front of the host, environed with the aid of the fighting men. {11} And when they were come, and were gone up directly against the city, they stood on the North side of the city, between which and them was a valley in the midst. {12} And five thousand men had he chosen, and set in the ambushments between Bethel and Hai, on the West side of the same city: {13} but all the rest of the host went in battle array on the North side, so that the last of the multitude did reach to the West side of the city. Josue therefore went that night, and stood in the midst of the valley. {14} Which when the king of Hai had seen, he made haste in the morning, and issued forth with all the host of the city, and bent his arm toward the desert, being ignorant that there lay embusments secretly behind his back. {15} But Josue and all Israel gave back, feigning fear, and flying by the way of the wilderness. {16} But they cried aloud together, & encouraging one an other, pursued them. And when they were gone from the city, {17} and not one remained in the city of Hai and Bethel that pursued not Israel (even as they had rushed out leaving the towns open) {18} our Lord said to Josue: Lift up the shield, that is in thy hand, against the city of Hai, for I will deliver it to thee. {19} And when he had lifted up his shield against the city, the embusments, that lay hid, rose up immediately: and going to the city, took and burnt it. {20} And the men of the city, that pursued Josue, looking back & seeing the smoke of the city rise up even to heaven, they could no more fly hither and thither: especially whereas they, that had feigned running away, and went toward the wilderness, most valiantly resisted against the pursuers. {21} And Josue and all Israel seeing that the city was taken, and the smoke of the city rose up, returning he struck the men of Hai. {22} For they also that had taken and burnt the city, issuing out of the city against their own men, began to strike the enemies in the midst of them. When the adversaries therefore were slain on both sides, so that none of so great a multitude was saved, {23} they took the king of the city of Hai alive, and presented him to Josue. {24} Therefore all being slain, that had pursued Israel flying to the deserts, and falling by the sword in the same place, the children of Israel returning struck the city. {25} And there were that fell that same day from man unto woman, twelve thousand men, all of the city of Hai. {26} But Josue plucked not in his hand, which he had stretched forth on high, holding the shield till all the inhabitants of Hai were slain. {27} And the cattle and the prey of the city, the children of Israel divided among them, as our Lord had commanded Josue. {28} Who burnt the city, and made it a heap for ever: {29} the king also thereof he hung on a gibbet until evening and the going down of the sun. And he commanded, and they took down his corpse from the gibbet: and threw it in the very entering of the city, heaping upon it a great heap of stones, which remaineth until this present day. {30} Then Josue built an altar to our Lord the God of Israel in mount Hebal, {31} as Moyses the servant of our Lord had commanded the children of Israel, and it is written in the volume of the law of Moyses: an Altar of unhewed stones which iron hath not touched; and he offered upon it holocausts to our Lord, and immolated pacific victims. {32} And he wrote upon stones the Deuteronomy of the law of Moyses, which he had ordered before the children of Israel. {33} And all the people, and the ancients, {219} and the Princes and judges stood on both sides of the ark, in the sight of the Priests that carried the ark of the covenant of our Lord, as well the stranger as also the man of the same country. The half part of them beside mount Garizim, and half beside mount Hebal, as Moyses the servant of our Lord had commanded. And first indeed he blessed the people of Israel. {34} After this he read all the words of the blessing and the cursing, and all things that were written in the volume of the law. {35} Nothing of those things, which Moyses had commanded, did he leave untouched, but he repeated all things before all the multitude of Israel, the women and children and strangers, that dwelt among them.

Other nations fearing Israel join their forces to fight against them, 3. but the Gabaonites send Ambassadors, feigning craftily to come far off, 14. with whom Josue and the ancients of Israel make league binding it by oath. 16. Within three days they are detected to be near inhabitants. Whereupon the people murmur against their Princes. Who yet for their oath, let the Gabaonites live, 20. only making them and their progeny perpetual servants, to cut wood, and carry water.

{1} WHICH things being heard, all the kings beyond Jordan, that dwelt in the mountains and champion countries, in the places by the sea side and the shore of the great sea, they also that dwelt beside Libanus, the Hethite and Amorrhite, the Chananite, the Pherezite, and the Hevite, and the Jebusite, {2} were gathered to fight against Josue and Israel with one mind and one sentence. {3} But they that dwelt in Gabaon, hearing all things that Josue had done to Jericho and Hai: {4} subtly devising took provision for themselves, laying old sacks upon their asses, & bottles of wine rent and sowed again, {5} and shoes very old which for a shew of oldness were clouted with specks, putting on them old garments: the loaves also, which they carried for provision by the way, were hard, and broken into pieces: {6} and they went on to Josue, who then abode in the camp at Galgal, and said to him, and withal to all Israel: We are come from a far country, desirous to make peace with you. And the children of Israel answered them, and said: {7}

Lest perhaps you dwell in the Land which is due to us by lot, and we can not enter a league with you. {8} But they said to Josue: We are thy servants. To whom Josue said: Who are you? & whence came you? {9} They answered: From a very far country are thy servants come, in the name of the Lord thy God. For we have heard the same of his might, all things that he did in Aegypt, {10} and to the two kings of the Amorrhites that were beyond Jordan, Sehon the king of Hesebon, and Og the king of Basan, that were in Astaroth, {11} and our ancients, and all the inhabitants of our Land said to us: Take in your hands victuals for a very long way, and go meet them, and say: We are your servants, enter a league with us. {12} Behold, these loaves we took hot, when we departed from our houses to come to you, now they are become dry, and broken for over-much oldness. {13} The bottles of wine was filled being new, now they are burst and dissolved. The garments and shoes that we have upon us, & which we have on our feet, for the length of the long way are worn, and almost consumed. {14} They took therefore of their victuals, & asked not the mouth of our Lord. {15} And Josue made peace with them, and entering a league promised that they should not be slain: the princes also of the multitude sware to them. {16} But three days after that the league was made, they heard that they dwelt nigh, and they should be among them. {17} And the children of Israel removed the camp, and came into their cities the third day, whose names are these, Gabaon, and Chaphira, and Beroth, and Chariathiarim. {18} And they struck them not, because the princes of the multitude had sworn in the name of our Lord the God of Israel. Therefore all the common people murmured against the princes. {19} Who answered them: We have sworn to them in the name of our Lord the God of Israel, and therefore we may not touch them. {20} But this we will do to them: Let them be reserved indeed alive, lest the wrath of God be stirred against us, if we shall be forsown: {21} but so let them live, that for the uses of the whole multitude they hew wood, and carry in water. Who speaking these things, {22} Josue called the Gabaonites, and said to them: Why would you deceive us by fraud to say: We dwell very far off from you, whereas you are in the midst of us? {23} Therefore you shall be under a curse, and there shall not fail of your stock a hewer of wood, and a carrier of water into the house of my God. {24} Who answered: It was told us thy servants, that the Lord thy God had promised Moyses his servants, that he would deliver you all the Land and would destroy all the inhabitants thereof. Therefore we feared exceedingly and provided for our lives, compelled by your terror, and we took this counsel. {25} And now we are in thy hand: that which seemeth unto thee good and right, do to us. {26} Josue therefore did as he had said, and delivered them from the hand of the children of Israel, that they should not be slain. {27} And he decreed in that day, that they should be in the ministry of all the people, and of the altar of our Lord, hewing wood, and carrying water, until this present time, in the place which our Lord had chosen.

Five kings of the Amorrhites besieging Gabaon, because it is confederate with Israel. 6. Josue with his army defeateth theirs, killing and pursuing them. 11. Many also are slain with hail stones. 12. At the prayer of Josue the sun and moon stand still the space of one day. 22. The five kings are hanged on gibbets. 29. He taketh also and subdueth diverse cities 40, and countries.

{1} WHICH things when Adonisedec king of Jerusalem had heard, to wit, that Josue had taken Hai, and had subverted it (for as he had done to Jericho and the king thereof, so did he to Hai and their king) and that the Gabaonites were fled to Israel, and were their confederates, {2} he was sore afraid. For Gabaon was a great city, and one of the kingly cities, and greater than the town of Hai, and all their men of war most valiant. {3} Therefore Adonisedec king of Jerusalem sent to Oham king of Hebron, and to Pharam king of Jerimoth, to Japhia also king of Lachis, and to Dabir king of Eglon, saying: {4} Come up to me, and bring aid, that we may overcome Gabaon, because it revolted to Josue, and to the children of Israel.

{5} Therefore the five kings of the Amorrhites being assembled went up: the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jerimoth, the king of Lachis, the king of Eglon, together with their hosts, & camped about Gabaon, assaulting it. {6} But the inhabitants of the city Gabaon which was besieged, sent to Josue, who then abode in the camp at Galgal, and said to him: withdraw not thy hands from the help of thy servants: come up quickly & deliver us, and bring aid: for there are assembled against us all the kings of the Amorrhites, which dwell in the mountains, {7} And Josue went up from Galgal, & all the host of the men of war with him most valiant men. {8} And our Lord said to Josue: Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thy hands: none of them shall be able to resist thee. {9} Josue therefore came in upon them suddenly, going up all the night from Galgal. {10} And our Lord troubled them at the sight of Israel: and destroyed them with a great slaughter in Gabaon, & pursued them by the way of the ascent of Beth-horon, & struck them unto Azeca & Macea. {11} And when they fled the children of Israel, and were in the descent of Beth-horon, our Lord sent upon them great stones from heaven as far as Azeca: and there died far more with the stones of hail, than they whom the children of Israel had strucken with the sword. {12} Then spake Josue to our Lord in the day, that he delivered the Amorrhite in the sight of Israel, & said before them: Thou sun against Gabaon move not, and thou Moon against the valley of Aialon. {13} And the Sun & Moon stood still, till the people revenged themselves of their enemies. Is not this written in the book of the just? The Sun therefore stood still in the midst of heaven, & hastened not to go down the space of one day. {14} There was not before nor after so long a day, our Lord obeying the voice of a man, and fighting for Israel. {15} And Josue returned with all Israel into the camp of Galgal. {16} For the five kings were fled, and had hid themselves in a cave of the city of Macea. {17} And it was told Josue that the five kings were found lying hid in a cave of the city of Macea. {18} Who commanded them saying: Roll great stones into the mouth of the cave, and set industrious men, which may keep them shut in: {19} and stand not you still, but pursue the enemies, and kill all the hindermost of them that fly, neither let them enter into the forts of their cities, whom our Lord God hath delivered into your hands. {20} The adversaries therefore being slain with a great slaughter, and almost consumed to utter destruction, they that could escape from Israel entered into fenced cities. {21} And all the host returned to Josue in Macea, where then the camp was, safe and the full number: and no man durst once mutter against the children of Israel. {22} And Josue commanded, saying: Open the mouth of the cave, & bring forth to me the five kings, that lie hid therein. {23} And the ministers did as it was commanded them: and they brought to him the five kings out of the cave, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jerimoth, the king of Lachis, the king of Eglon. {24} And when they were brought forth to him, he called all the men of Israel, and said to the princes of the host that were with him: Go, and set your feet upon the necks of these kings. Who when they had gone, & trodden with their feet the necks of them lying under, {25} again he said to them: Fear ye not, neither dread, take courage and be strong: for so will our Lord do to all your enemies, against whom you fight. {26} And Josue struck, and slew them, and hanged them upon five gibbets: and they hung until evening. {27} And when the sun was down, he commanded the soldiers to take them down from the gibbets. Who cast them being taken down into the cave, wherein they had lien hid, and put on the mouth thereof great stones, which continue until this present. {28} The same day Josue took Macea and struck it in the edge of the sword, and killed the king and all the inhabitants thereof: he left not in it so much as small reliques. And he did to the king of Macea, as he had done to the king of Jericho. {29} and he passed with all Israel from Macea unto Lebna, & fought against it: {30} which our Lord delivered with the king thereof into the hands of Israel: & they struck the city in the edge of the sword, & all the inhabitants thereof. They left not in it any remains. And they did to the king of Lebna, as they had done to the king of Jericho. {31} From Lebna he passed unto Lachis with all Israel: & placing the host round about assaulted it. {32} And our Lord delivered Lachis into the hands of Israel, and he took it the day following, and struck it in the edge of the sword, and every soul that was in it, as he had done to Lebna. {33} At that time went up Horam the king of Gazar, to aid Lachis: whom Josue struck with all his people to utter destruction. {34} And he passed from Lachis unto Eglon, & compassed it, {35} and won it the same day: and struck in the edge of the sword all the souls that were in it, according to all things that he had done to Lachis. {36} He went up also with all Israel from Eglon unto Hebron, and fought against it: {37} took it, & struck it in the edge of the sword, the king also thereof, and all towns of that country, & all the souls that remained in it: he left not therein any remains: as he had done to Eglon, so did he also to Hebron, all things that he found in it consuming with the sword. {38} Thence returning unto Dabir, {39} he took it, and wasted it: the king also thereof and all towns round about he struck in the edge of the sword: he left not in it any remains: as he had done to Hebron & Lebna and to their kings, so did he to Dabir and the king thereof. {40} Josue therefore struck all the hilly country & south and champion, and Asedoth with their kings: he left not in it any relics, but every thing that could breathe he slew, as our Lord the God of Israel had commanded him, {41} from Cadesbarne unto Gaza. All the Land of Gosen unto Gabaon, {42} and all their kings and countries he took and wasted at one assault: for our Lord the God of Israel fought for him. {43} And he returned with all Israel to the place of the camp in Galgal.

Jabin a more principal king summoneth other kings to join with him against Israel. 6. Josue animated with God's promise of victory, 7. overthroweth them all, 16. subdueth their country: 12. killeth also many of the giant's stock.

{1} WHICH things when Jabin the king of Asor had heard, he sent to Jobab the king of Madon, and to the king of Semeron, and to the king of Achsaph: {2} to the kings also of the North, that dwelt in the mountains and in the plain against the south side of Ceneroth, in the champion also and countries of Dor by the sea side: {3} the Chananite also on the East and West, and the Amorrhite and Hethite and Pherezite and Jebusite in the mountains: the Hevite also which dwelt at the foot of Hermon in the Land of Maspha. {4} And they issued forth all with their troops, a people exceeding many as the sand that is in the shore of the sea, their horses also and chariots of passing great multitude. {5} And all these kings assembled together in one at the Waters of Merom, to fight against Israel. {6} And our Lord said to Josue: Fear them not: for to morrow this self-same hour will I deliver all these to be wounded in the sight of Israel: their horses thou shalt houghsinew, and their chariots thou shalt burn with fire. {7} And Josue came, & all the host with him against them to the Waters of Merom suddenly, & ran in upon them, {8} and our Lord delivered them into the hands of Israel. Who struck them, and pursued them as far as great Sidon, and the Waters of Maserephoth, and the field of Masphe, which is on the East side thereof. Therefore he struck all, so that he left no relics of them: {9} and he did as our Lord had commanded him, their horses he houghsinewed, and their chariots he burnt. {10} And returning immediately he took Asor: and the king thereof he struck with the sword. For Asor in old time among all these Kingdoms held the principality. {11} And he struck all the souls, that abode there: he left not in it any remains, but to utter destruction he wasted all things, and the city it-self he destroyed with fire. {12} And all the cities round about, their kings also he took, struck & destroyed, as Moyses the servant of God had commanded him. {13} Except the cities that were situated on hills and higher ground, the rest Israel burnt: one only, Asor, very well fenced he consumed with fire. {14} And all the prey of these cities and the cattle, the children of Israel divided among themselves, all the men being slain. {15} As our Lord had commanded Moyses his servant, so did Moyses command Josue, and he accomplished all things: he omitted not of all the commandments, not so much as one word, which our Lord had commanded Moyses. {16} Josue therefore took all the hilly country, & south, & the land of Gosen, and the plain, and the West quarter, and the mountain of Israel, and the champion country thereof: {17} and the part of the mountain, that goeth up to Seir as far as Baalgad by the plain of Libanus under mount Hermon: all their kings he took, struck, & slew. {18} A great time did Josue fight against these kings. {19} There was not a city that did deliver it-self to the children of Israel, except the Hevite, which dwelt in Gabaon: for he took all by fight. {20} For it was the sentence of our Lord, that their hearts should be indurate and they should fight against Israel, and fall, and should not deserve any clemency, and should perish, as our Lord had commanded Moyses. {21} At that time Josue came and slew the Enacims of the mountains, of Hebron, and Dabir, and Anab, and from all the mountain of Juda and Israel, and destroyed their cities. {22} He left not any of the stock of the Enacims, in the Land of the children of Israel: saving the cities of Gaza, and Geth, and Azotus, in the which only they were left. {23} Josue therefore took all the Land, as our Lord spake to Moyses, and delivered it in possession to the children of Israel, according to their parts and tribes: and the Land rested from battles.

Besides Sehon and Og, kings of Hesebon and Basan slain by Moyses, 7. are reckoned thirty one kings slain by Josue.

{1} THESE are the kings, which the children of Israel struck, and possessed their Land beyond Jordan toward the rising of the sun, from the torrent Arnon unto mount Hermon, and all the East part, that looked toward the wilderness. {2} Sehon the king of the Amorrhites, which dwelt in Hesebon, had dominion from Aroer, which is situated upon the bank of the torrent Arnon, & of the middle part in the valley, and of half Galaad, as far as the torrent Jaboc, which is the border of the children of Ammon: {3} and from the wilderness, unto the sea of Ceneroth against the East, and unto the Sea of the wilderness, which is the most salt sea, on the East side by the way that leadeth to Besimoth, & on the South side, which lieth under Asedoth, as far as Phasga. {4} The border of Og the king of Basan, of the remnant of the Raphaims who dwelt in Astaroth, and in Edrai, and had dominion in mount Hermon, and in Salecha, and in all Basan, unto the borders {5} of Gessuri, and Machati, and of the half part of Galaad: the borders of Sehon the king of Hesebon. {6} Moyses the servant of our Lord, and the children of Israel struck them, and Moyses delivered their Land in possession to the Rubenites, and Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasses. {7} These are the kings of the Land, whom Josue struck and the children of Israel beyond Jordan on the West side, from Balaalgad in the field of Libanus, unto the mount, part whereof goeth up into Seir: and Josue delivered it in possession to the tribes of Israel, to every one their portions. {8} as well in the mountains as in the plain and champion countries. In Asedoth, and in the wilderness, and in the South was the Hethite & the Amorrhite, the Chananite, and the Pherezite, the Hevite and the Jebusite. {9} The king of Jericho one: the king of Hai, which is on the side of Bethel, one: {10} the king of Jerusalem one, the king of Hebron one, {11} the king of Jerimoth one, the king of Lachis one, {12} the king of Eglon one, the king of Gazer one, {13} the king of Dabir one, the king of Gader one, {14} the king of Herma one, the king of Hered one, {15} the king of Lebna one, the king of Adullam one, {16} the king of Macea one, the king of Bethel one, {17} the king of Taphua one, the king of Opher one, {18} the king of Aphec one, the king of Saron one, {19} the king of Madon one, the king of Asor one, {20} the king of Semeron one, the king of Achsaph one, {21} the king of Thenac one, the king of Mageddo one, {22} the king of Cades one, the king of Jachanan one, {23} the king of Carmel one, the king of Dor, and of the province of Dor one, the king of the Nations of Galgal one, {24} the king of Thersa one: all the kings thirty one.

God commandeth Josue to divide the land (describing the limits thereof) amongst nine tribes and a half. 8. with a recapitulation of the parts already given, on the other side Jordan to the other two tribes and a half. The tribe of Levi (v. 14. & {33.}) hath their provision in other manner.

{1} JOSUE was old, and striken in age, and our Lord said to him: Thou art old, and of a great age, and there is a very large country left, which is not yet divided by lot: {2} to wit, all Galilee, Philisthiim, and all Gessuri. {3} From the troubled river that watereth Aegypt, unto the borders of Accaron against the North: the Land of Chanaan, which is divided unto five lords of the Philisthiims, the Gazites, the Azotians, the Ascalonites, the Gethites, and the Accaronites. {4} But on the South side are the Hevites, all the Land of Chanaan, and Maara of the Sidonians as far as Apheca, and the borders of the Amorrhite, {5} and his confines. The country also of Libanus against the East from Baalgad under mount Hermon, till thou enter into Emath. {6} Of all that dwell in the mountain from Libanus, unto the Waters Maserephoth, and all the Sidonians. I am he that will destroy them from the face of the children of Israel. Let it come therefore into a portion of the inheritance of Israel, as I have commanded thee. {7} And now divide the Land in possession to the nine tribes, and to the half tribe of Manasses, {8} with the which Ruben & Gad have possessed the Land, which Moyses the servant of our Lord delivered to them beyond the streams of Jordan, on the east side. {9} From Aroer, which is situate on the bank of the torrent Arnon, and in the midst of the valley, and all the champion of Medaba, as far as Didon: {10} and all the cities of Cehon, the king of the Amorrhite, which reigned in Hesebon, unto the borders of the children of Ammon. {11} And Galaad, and the border of Gessuri and Machati, and all mount Hermon, and all Basan, as far as Salecha, {12} all the Kingdom of Og in Basan, which reigned in Astaroth and Edrai, he was of the relics of the Raphaims: and Moyses struck, and destroyed them. {13} And the children of Israel would not destroy Gessuri and Machati: and they have dwelt in the midst of Israel until this present day. {14} But to the tribe of Levi he gave no possession: but the sacrifices and victims of our Lord the God of Israel, that is his inheritance, as he spake to him. {15} Moyses therefore gave possession to the children of Ruben according to their kindreds. {16} And their border was from Aroer, which is situate on the bank of the torrent Arnon, and in the midst of the valley of the same torrent: all the plain, that leadeth to Medaba, {17} and Hesebon, and all their villages, which are in the champion. Dibon also, and Bamothbaal, and the town Baalmaon, {18} and Jassa, and Cedimoth, and Mephaath, {19} and Cariathaim, and Sabama, and Sarathasar in the mountain of the Valley. {20} Bethphogor and Asedoth, Phasga and Bethiesimoth, {21} and all the champion cities, and all the Kingdoms of Sehon the king of the Amorrhite, that reigned in Hesebon, whom Moyses struck with the Princes of Madian: the Hevite, and Recem, and Sur, and Hur, and Rebe, Dukes of Sehon inhabitants of the Land. {22} And Balaam the son of Beor the soothsayer, did the children of Israel kill by the sword, with the rest that were slain. {23} And the river of Jordan was made the border of the children of Ruben. This is the possession of the Rubenites by their kindreds of cities and villages. {24} And Moyses gave to the tribe of Gad & to his children possession by their kindreds, the division whereof is this: {25} The border of Jaser, and all the cities of Galaad, and the half part of the Land of the children of Ammon: as far as Aroer, which is against Rabba: {26} and from Hesebon unto Ramoth, Masphe and Betonim: and from Manaim unto the borders of Dabir. {27} In the valley also Bethhara, and Bethnemra, and Socoth, and Saphon the other part of the Kingdom of Sehon the king of Hesebon: the end of this also is Jordan, unto the uttermost part of the sea Cenereth beyond Jordan on the east side. {28} This is the possession of the children of Gad by their families, their cities, and villages. {29} He gave also to the half tribe of Manasses and their children possession according to their kindreds, {30} the beginning whereof is this: From Manaim all Basan, and all the Kingdoms of Og the king of Basan, and all the villages of Jair, which are in Basan, threescore towns. {31} And the half part of Galaad, and Astaroth, and Edrai, cities of the Kingdom of Og in Basan: to the children of Machir, the son of Manasses, to the half part of the children of Machir according to their kindreds. {32} This possession divided Moyses in the champion countries of Moab, beyond Jordan, against Jericho on the East side. {33} But to the tribe of Levi he gave no possession: because our Lord the God of Israel himself is their possession, as he spake to them.

Caleb of the tribe of Juda (seeing some knew their lots already, and that the whole land was now to be divided) 6. demandeth, according to God's promise made by Moyses (for his true and good report of the same land, when he with others viewed it) that Hebron be given him and his seed to inherit, 13. which Josue confirmeth unto him.

{1} THIS is it, which the children of Israel possessed in the Land of Chanan, which Eleazar the Priest, and Josue the son of Nun, and the Princes of the families by the tribes of Israel gave to them: {2} dividing all things by lot, as our Lord had commanded in the hand of Moyses, to the nine tribes, and the half tribe. {3} For to two tribes and a half Moyses had given possession beyond Jordan: besides the Levites, which received no land among their brethren: {4} but into their place succeeded the children of Joseph divided into two tribes, of Manasses and Ephraim: neither did the Levites receive other portion in the Land, but cities to inhabit, and their suburbs to feed their beasts and cattle. {5} As our Lord had commanded Moyses, so did the children of Israel, and they divided the Land. {6} Therefore the children of Juda came to Josue in Galgal, and Caleb the son of Jephone the Cenezeite spake to him: Thou knowest what our Lord spake to Moyses the man of God concerning me and thee in Cadesbarne. {7} Forty years old was I when Moyses the servant of our Lord sent me from Cadesbarne, to view the Land, & I reported to him that which to me seemed true. {8} But my brethren, that had gone up with me, discouraged the heart of the people: and I nevertheless followed our Lord God. {9} And Moyses sware in that day, saying: The Land, which thy foot hath trodden, shall be thy possession, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast followed our Lord my God. {10} Our Lord therefore hath granted me life, as he promised until this present day. It is forty and five years, since our Lord spake this word to Moyses, when Israel walked through the wilderness: this day am I eighty and five years old, {11} so lufty, as I was at that time when I was sent to view: the strength of that time continueth in me until this day, as well to fight as to go. {12} Give me therefore this mountain, which our Lord promised, thy self also hearing it, wherein are the Enacims, and great cities and fenced: if perhaps our Lord be with me, and I shall be able to destroy them, as he promised me. {13} And Josue blessed him, and delivered to him Hebron in possession. {14} And from thence-forth Hebron belonged to Caleb the son of Jephone the Cenezeite, until this present day: because he followed our Lord the God of Israel. {15} The name of Hebron before was called Cariath Arbe: Adam the greatest among the Enacims was laid there: and the Land ceased from battles.

The borders of the lot of Juda, 13. including Caleb's particular inheritance (16. out of which he giveth Cariath Sepher, and his daughter to Othoniel, for winning it:) 21. with the names of the cities thereof, 63. the Jebusite yet dwelling with Juda in Hierusalem.

{1} THEREFORE the lot of the children of Judas by their kindreds was this: From the border of Edom, unto the desert of Sin against the South, and unto the uttermost part of the south coast. {2} the beginning thereof was from the top of the most salt sea, and from the brink thereof, that looketh to the South. {3} And it goeth forth against the Ascent of the Scorpion, & passeth through into Sina: and riseth up into Cadesbarne, and reacheth into Esron, ascending to Addar, and compassing Carcaa, {4} and thence passing through into Asemona, & reaching to the Torrent of Aegypt: and the borders thereof shall be the great sea. This shall be the end of the south coast. {5} But on the East side the beginning shall be the most salt sea unto the utmost parts of Jordan: & those places that look to the North from the brink of the sea unto the same river of Jordan. {6} And the border goeth up into Beth Hagla, and passeth from the north into Beth Araba: ascending to the stone of Bohen the son of Ruben. {7} And reaching as far as the borders of Debera from the Valley of Achor, against the North looking toward Galgal, which is opposite to the Ascent of Adommim, on the south side of the torrent: and passeth the waters, that are called The Fountain of the sun: and the ends thereof shall be to the Fountain Rogel. {8} And it ascendeth by the Valley of the sun of Ennom on the side of the Jebusite toward the South, this is Jerusalem: and thence rearing it-self to the top of the mountain, which is against Geennom toward the West in the top of the Valley of Raphaim against the North. {9} And it passeth through from the top of the mountain to the fountain of the water Nephtoa: and reacheth to the towns of mount Ephron: and bentheth into Baala, which is Cariathiarim, that is to say, a city of woods. {10} And it compasseth from Baala against the West, unto mount Seir: and passeth by the side of mount Jarim toward the North into Cheslon: and goeth down into Bethsames, and passeth into Thamma. {11} And it reacheth toward the North coast of a part of Accaron at the side: and bentheth to Sechrona, and passeth mount Baala: and cometh into Jebneel, and is shut up with the end of the great sea toward the West. {12} These are the borders of the children of Judas in circuit in their kindreds. {13} But to Caleb the son of Jephone he gave a portion in the midst of the children of Judas, as our Lord had commanded him: Cariath Arbe the father of Enac, that is Hebron. {14} And Caleb destroyed out of it the three sons of Enac, Sesai and Ahiman and Tholmai of the stock of Enac. {15} And from thence going up he came to the inhabitants of Dabir, which before was called Cariath Sepher, that is to say, a city of letters. {16} And Caleb said: He that shall strike Cariath-sepher, and take it, I will give him Axa my daughter to wife. {17} And Othoniel the son of Cenez, the younger brother of Caleb took it: & he gave him Axa his daughter to wife. {18} Who going together, she was moved by her husband to ask a field of her father, and she sighed as she sat on her ass. To whom Caleb said: What aileth thee? {19} But she answered: Give me a blessing: A South and dry Land thou hast given me, join also a watery. Caleb therefore gave her a watery ground above & beneath. {20} This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Judas by their kindreds. {21} And the cities from the uttermost parts of the children of Judas by the borders of Edom on the South were Cabseel and Eder and Jagur, {22} & Cina and Dimona and Adada, {23} and Cades, and Asor, and Jethnan, {24} Ziph and Telem and Baloth, {25} Asor the new and Carioth, Hesron, this is Asor. {26} Amam, Sama, and Molada, {27} and Asergadda and Hassemon and Bethphelet, {28} and Hasersual and Bersabee and Baziothia {29} and Baala and Jim & Esem, {30} and Eltholad and Cesil and Harma {31} and Sicceleg, and Medemena and Sensenna, {32} Labaoth and Selim & Aen and Remon. All the cities twenty nine, and their villages. {33} But in the champion countries: Estaol and Sarea and Asena, {34} and Sanoe and Engannim and Taphua and Enaim, {35} and Jerimoth, and Adullam, Socho & Azeca, {36} & Saraim and Adithaim and Gedera and Gederothaim: fourteen cities, and their villages. {37} Sanan and Hadassa and Magdalad, {38} Delean and Masepha and Jecthel, {39} Lachis and Bascath and Eglon, {40} Chebbon and Leheman and Cethlis {41} and Gideroth and Bethdagon and Naama & Maceda: sixteen cities, and their villages. {42} Labana and Ether and Asan, {43} Jephtha and Esna and Nesib, {44} and Ceila and Achzib and Mareza: nine cities, and their villages. {45} Accaron with the towns and villages thereof. {46} From Accaron unto the sea: all places that bend toward Azotus & the villages thereof. {47} Azotus with the towns & villages thereof. Gaza with the towns & villages thereof, unto the torrent of Aegypt, & the great sea is the border thereof. {48} And in the mountain: Samir & Jether & Socoth {49} & Danna & Cariath senna, this is Dabir: {50} Anab & Istemo & Anim, {51} Gosen & Olson & Gilo: eleven cities & their villages. {52} Arab & Ruma & Esaan, {53} & Janum & Beth-thaphua & Apheca, {54} Athmatha and Cariath-arbe, this is Hebron, and Sior: nine cities and their villages. {55} Maon and Carmel and Ziph and Jota, {56} Jezrael & Jucadam and Zanoe, {57} Accain, Gabaa and Thamma: ten cities and their villages. {58} Halthul, and Bethsur, and Gedor, {59} Mareth, and Beth-anoth, and Eltecon: six cities and their villages. {60} Cariathbaal, this is Cariathiarim the city of woods, and Arebba: two cities and their villages. {61} In the desert Beth-araba, Meddin, and Sachacha, {62} and Nebsan, and the city of salt, and Engaddi: six cities, and their villages. {63} But the Jebusite the inhabitant of Jerusalem, the children of Judas could not destroy: and the Jebusite dwelt with the children of Judas in Jerusalem until this present day.

The tribe of Ephraim (younger son of Joseph) receive their lot. 10. The Chananeite yet dwelleth with them paying tribute.

{1} THE lot also of the children of Joseph fell from Jordan against Jericho and the Waters thereof, on the east: the wilderness which goeth up from Jericho to the mountain of Bethel: {2} and goeth out from Bethel to Luza: and passeth the border of Archia, to Atharoth. {3} And descendeth Westward, by the border of Jephleti, unto the borders of Beth horon the lower, and to Gazer: and their countries are ended by the great sea: {4} and Manasses and Ephraim the children of Joseph possessed it. {5} And the border of the children of Ephraim was made according to their kindreds: and their possession toward the East was Ataroth addar unto Beth-horon the higher. {6} And the confines go out unto the sea: but Machmethath looketh to the North, and it compasseth the borders against the East into Thanath-selo: and passeth through on the East side to Janoe. {7} and it goeth down from Janoe into Ataroth and Naaratha: and it cometh into Jericho, & goeth out to Jordan. {8} From Taphua it passeth through against the sea into the Valley of reeds, and the issues thereof are into the most salt sea. This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families. {9} And cities with their villages were separated to the children of Ephraim in the midst of the possession of the children of Manasses, {10} and the children of Ephraim slew not the Chananeite, which dwelt in Gazer: and the Chananeite dwelt in the midst of Ephraim until this day tributary.

The half tribe of Manasses (eldest son of Joseph) receive their lot. 3. including the daughters of Salphaa: 14. with an enlargement of inheritance to the same tribes of Ephraim and Manasses.

{1} AND this lot fell to the tribe of Manasses (for he is the first born of Joseph:) To Machir the first born of Manasses the father of Galaad, who was a warlike man, and had for possession Galaad and Basan: {2} and to the rest of the children of Manasses according to their families, to the children of Abiezer, & to the children of Helec, & to the children of Esriel, & to the children of Sechem, & to the children of Hepher, and to the children of Semida. These are the children of Manasses the son of Joseph, males by their kindreds. {3} But Salphaad the son of Hepher the son of Galaad the son of Machir the son of Manasses had no sons, but only daughters: whose names be these, Maala & Noa and Hegla and Melcha and Thersa. {4} And they came in the presence of Eleazar the Priest, and of Josue the son of Nun, and of the Princes, saying: Our Lord commanded by the hand of Moyses, that a possession should be given us in the midst of our brethren. And he gave them according to the commandment of our Lord a possession in the midst of their father's brethren. {5} And the cords fell to Manasses, ten, beside the Land of Galaad and Basan beyond Jordan. {6} For the daughters of Manasses possessed inheritance in the midst of his sons. And the Land of Galaad fell to the lot of the children of Manasses that remained. {7} And the border of Manasses from Aser, was Machmethath which looketh to Sichem: and goeth out on the right hand beside the inhabitants of the Fountain of Taphua. {8} For in the lot of Manasses was fallen the Land of Taphua, which is beside the borders of Manasses, the childrens of Ephraim. {9} And the border of the Reed valley went down into the south of the torrent of the cities of Ephraim, which are in the midst of the cities of Manasses: the border of Manasses on the North of the torrent, and the issue thereof goeth to the sea: {10} so that the possession of Ephraim is on the south, and on the North of Manasses, and the sea incloseth both, and they be joined one to an other in the tribe of Aser on the North, and in the tribe of Issachar on the East. {11} And the inheritance of Manasses in Issachar and in Aser was Bethsan and the villages thereof, and Jeblaam with the villages thereof, and the inhabitants of Dor with the towns thereof, the inhabitants also of Endor with the towns thereof, and in like manner the inhabitants of Thenac with the towns thereof, and the inhabitants of Mageddo with the towns thereof, and the third part of the city of Nopheth. {12} Neither could the children of Manasses overthrow the cities, but the Chananite began to dwell in his Land. {13} But after that the children of Israel grew to be strong, they subdued the Chananites, and made them their tributaries, neither did they kill them. {14} And the children of Joseph spake to Josue, and said: Why hast thou given me the possession of one lot and cord, whereas I am of so great a multitude, & our Lord hath blessed me? {15} To whom Josue said: If thou be a great people, go up into the wood, and cut thee room in the Land of the Pherezite and Raphaims: because the possession of mount Ephraim is narrow for thee. {16} To whom the children of Joseph answered: We can not go up to the mountains, whereas the Chananites that dwell in the champion country, wherein are situated Bethsan with the towns thereof and Jezrael possessing the midst of the valley, use iron chariots. {17} And Josue said to the house of Joseph, of Ephraim, and Manasses: Thou art a great people, and of great strength, thou shalt not have one lot, {18} but thou shalt pass to the mountain, and shalt cut and make glades for thee to inhabit: and mayest proceed farther, when thou hast subverted the Chananite, whom thou sayest to have iron chariots, and to be very strong.

From the camp of Israel in Silo surveyors are sent to divide the rest of the Land into seven parts, for the seven tribes yet without portions. 10. Which being done, Josue casteth lots for them, 11. and the first lot falleth to Benjamin, 12. whose part is described by the limits, 21. with the names of the principal cities.

{1} AND all the children of Israel were assembled in Silo, and there they pitched the tabernacle of the testimony, & the Land was subdued to them. {2} But there remained seven tribes of the children of Israel, which as yet had not received their possessions. {3} To whom Josue said: How long are you slack with cowardness, and enter not to posses the Land, which our Lord the God of your fathers hath given you? {4} Choose of every tribe three men, that I may send them, and they may go and circuit the Land, and mark it out according to the number of every multitude: and report unto me that which they have marked out. {5} Divide unto you the Land into seven parts: let Judas be in the bounds on the south quarter, and the house of Joseph on the North. {6} The Land in the midst between these, mark out into seven parts: and you shall come hither to me, that before our Lord your God, I may cast the lot for you: {7} for the Levites' part is not among you, but the priesthood of our Lord is their inheritance. And Gad and Ruben, and the half tribe of Manasses had now received their possessions beyond Jordan at the East side: which Moyses the servant of our Lord gave them. {8} And when the men were risen up, that they might go to mark out the land, Josue commanded them, saying: Circuit the Land and mark it out, and return to me: that here before our Lord, in Silo I may cast the lot for you. {9} They therefore went on: and going over it, divided it into seven parts, writing it in a volume. And they returned to Josue into the camp in Silo. {10} Who did cast lots before our Lord in Silo, and divided the Land to the children of Israel into seven parts. {11} And first came up the lot of the children of Benjamin by their families, to possess the Land between the children of Judas and the children of Joseph. {12} And their border was against the North from Jordan: going forward by the side of Jericho on the North quarter, and thence Westward rising up unto the mountains, and reaching to the wilderness of Bethaven, {13} and passing through by Luza to the South, the same is Bethel: and goeth down into Ataroth addar unto the mountain, that is on the South of Beth-horon the lower. {14} And it bendeth compassing against the sea, Southward of the mountain that looketh to Beth-horon against the South: and the issues thereof are into Cariath baal, which is called also Cariathiarim, a city of the children of Judas. This is their coast against the sea, toward the West. {15} But on the South from part of Cariathiarim the border issueth forth against the sea, and cometh to the fountain of the waters of Nephtoa. {16} And it goeth down into part of the mountain that looketh toward the Valley of the children of Ennom: and is against the North quarter in the uttermost part of the Valley Raphaim. And it goeth down into Gehennom (that is, the valley of Ennom) by the side of the Jebusite to the South: and cometh to the Fountain of Rogel, {17} passing to the North, and going forth to Ensemes, that is to say, the fountain of the sun: {18} and it passeth unto the little hills, that are against the ascent of Adommim: and goeth down to Abenboen, that is, the stone of Boen the son of Ruben: and it passeth on the North side to the champion countries: and goeth down into the plain, {19} and passeth by against the North of Bethagla: and the issues thereof are against the brink of the most salt sea on the North in the end of Jordan to the south quarter: {20} which is the border thereof on the East. This is the possession of the children of Benjamin by their borders round about, and their families. {21} And their cities were, Jericho and Beth hagla and Vallis Casis, {22} Beth Araba and Samaraim and Bethel, {23} and Avim and Aphara and Ophera, {24} Town Emona and Ophni and Gabee: twelve cities, & their towns. {25} Gabao and Rama and Beroth, {26} and Mesphe, and Capbara, and Amosa, {27} and Recem, Jarephel and Tharela, {28} and Sela, Eleph, and Jebus, which is Jerusalem, Gabath and Cariath: fourteen cities, and their towns. This is the possession of the children of Benjamin by their families.

The second lot falleth to the tribe of Simeon, the situation of whose inheritance is described, with the names of their principal cities. 10. The third in like sort to Zabulon. 17. The fourth to Issachar. 24. The fifth to Aser. 32. The sixth to Nephtali. 40. And the seventh to Dan. 49. All the Land being distributed among the tribes, with common consent they give a special city to Josue, in the midst of them.

{1} AND the second lot came forth of the children of Simeon by their kindreds: and their inheritance was {2} in the midst of the possession of the children of Judas: Bersabee and Sabee and Molada, {3} and Hasersual, Bala and Asem, {4} and Eltholad, Bethul and Harma, {5} and Siceleg and Betmarchaboth and

Hasersusa, {6} and Bethlebaoth & Sarohen: thirteen cities, and their towns: {7} Ain and Remmon and Athor and Asan: four cities, and their towns: {8} all the little towns round about these cities unto Baalath Beer Ramath against the south quarter. This is the inheritance of the children of Simeon according to their kindreds, {9} in the possession and cord of the children of Judas: because it was greater. And therefore the children of Simeon possessed in the midst of their inheritance. {10} And the third lot fell of the children of Zabulon by their kindreds: and the border of their possession was made as far as Sarid. {11} And it went up from the sea and Merala, and came into Debbaseth: as far as the torrent, which is against Jeconam. {12} And it returneth from Sared against the East into the ends of Caseleth thabor: and it goeth out to Dabereth, and riseth up against Japhie. {13} And thence it passeth along to the east side of Geth hepher and Thacasm: and goeth out into Remmon, Amthar and Noa. {14} And it compasseth to the North of Hanathon: & the issues thereof are the valley Jephthael, {15} & Cateth & Naalol & Semeron & Jerala & Bethlehem: twelve cities, & their towns. {16} This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Zabulon by their kindreds, the cities and their little towns. {17} The fourth lot came forth to Issachar by their kindreds. {18} And his inheritance was Jezrael and Casaloth and Sunem, {19} and Hapharaim and Sehon, and Anaharath {20} and Rabboth & Cesion, Abes, {21} & Rameth, and Engannim, and Enhadda and Bethpheses. {22} And the border thereof cometh to Thabor & Sehesema and Bethsames: and their issues were Jordan: sixteen cities, and their towns. {23} This is the possession of Issachar by their kindreds, the cities, and their little towns. {24} And the fifth lot fell to the tribe of the children of Aser by their kindreds: {25} and their border was Halcathe and Chali and Beten and Axaph, {26} and Elmelec and Amaad and Messal: and it reacheth to Carmel of the sea and Sihor and Labanath. {27} And it returneth against the east of Bethdagon: and passeth along to Zabulon and the Valley Jephthael against the North into Bethemec and Nehiel. And it goeth out to the left side of Cabul, {28} and Abran and Rohob and Hamon and Cana, as far as great Sidon. {29} And it returneth into Horma unto the very well fenced city Tyre, & unto Hosa: and the issues thereof shall be into the sea from the cord of Achziba: {30} and Amma and Aphec & Rohob, cities twenty two, and their towns. {31} This is the possession of the children of Aser by their kindreds, and the cities and their towns. {32} Of the sons of Nephthali fell the sixth lot by their families: {33} and the border began from Heleph and Elon into Saanaim, and Adami, which is Neceb, and Jebnael unto Lecum: and their issues unto Jordan: {34} and the border returneth against the West into Azanothabor, and thence goeth out into Hucua, and passeth along into Zabulon against the South, and into Azer against the West, and into Juda unto Jordan against the rising of the sun. {35} cities very well fenced, Assedim, Ser, and Emath, and Reccath and Cenereth, {36} and Edema and Arama, Asor, {37} and Cedes and Edrai, Enhasor {38} and Jeron and Magdalel, Horem and Bethanath and Bethsames: nineteen cities and their towns. {39} This is the possession of the tribe of the children of Nephthali by their kindreds, the cities and their towns. {40} To the tribe of the children of Dan by their families came forth the seventh lot: {41} and the border of their possession was Sara and Esthaol, & Hirsemes, that is the city of the sun. {42} Selebin & Aialon and Jethela, {43} Elon and Themna and Acron, {44} Elthee, Gebbethon and Balaath, {45} and Jud and Bane and Barac and Gethremmon: {46} and Mejaron & Arecon, with the border that looketh toward Joppe, {47} and is shut up with the same end. And the children of Dan went up, & fought against Lesem, and they took it: and they struck it in the edge of the sword, and possessed, and dwelt in it, calling the name of it Lesem Dan, by the name of Dan the father thereof. {48} This is the possession of the tribe of the sons of Dan, by their kindreds, the cities and their towns: {49} And when he had made an end of dividing the Land by lot to every one by their tribes, the children of Israel gave possession to Josue the son of Nun in the midst of them, {50} according to the commandment of our Lord, the city which he requested, Thammath Saraa in mount Ephraim: and he built the city, and dwelt in it. {51} These are the possessions, which Eleazar the Priest, and Josue the son of Nun, and the Princes of the families and of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided by lot in Silo, before our Lord at the door of the tabernacle of testimony, and they parted the Land.

six cities of refuge for such as commit casual manslaughter are named. 6. In which remaining till the death of the high Priest, they may then return to their proper dwelling place, and be safe.

{1} AND our Lord spake to Josue, saying: Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: {2} Separate the cities of the fugitives, of the which I spake to you by the hand of Moyses; {3} that he may fly to them whosoever shall strike a soul unwitting, and may escape the wrath of the nigh kinsman, which is the revenger of blood. {4} When he shall be fled to one of these cities, he shall stand before the gate of the city & shall speak to the ancients of that city those things that may prove himself innocent: & so they shall receive him, and give him place to inhabit. {5} And when the revenger of the blood shall pursue him, they shall not deliver him into his hands: because he struck his neighbour by ignorance, neither is he proved to be his enemy two or three days before. {6} And he shall dwell in that city till he stand before judgment rendering a cause of his fact, and the high priest die, which shall be at that time: then shall the manslayer return, & enter into the city and his house out of the which he had fled. {7} And they appointed Cedes in Galilee of the mount of Nephthali, and Sichem in the mount of Ephraim, and Cariatharbee, the same is Hebron, in the mount of Juda. {8} And beyond Jordan against the East quarter of Jericho, they appointed Bosor, which is situated in the champion wilderness of the tribe of Ruben, and Ramoth in Galaad of the tribe of Gad, and Gaulon in Basan of the tribe of Manasses. {9} These cities were appointed to all the children of Israel, and to the strangers, that dwelt among them: that he might fly to them which unwittingly had stricken a soul, and might not die in the hand of the kinsman, coveting to revenge the blood shed, until he might stand before the people to declare his cause.

Cities with suburbs are assigned to the tribe of Levi. 4. To the sons of Caath by the line of Aaron being Priests, thirteen. 5. To the rest of Caath's progeny, being Levites, ten. 6. To the sons of Gerson Levites, thirteen. 7. To the sons of Merari Levites (34. of a lower degree) twelve; 9. with the names of all the cities: 39. in all forty eight. 41. So God's promise is fully performed having given the whole Land to Israel in peaceable possession.

{1} AND the Princes of the families of Levi came to Eleazar the Priest, and Josue the son of Nun, and to the chief of the kindreds in every tribe of the children of Israel {2} and they spake to them in Silo of the Land of Chanaan, and said: Our Lord commanded by the hand of Moyses, that cities should be given us to inhabit, and their suburbs to feed cattle. {3} And the children of Israel gave of their possessions according to the commandment of our Lord, cities and their suburbs. {4} And the lot came forth unto the family of Caath of the children of Aaron the Priest out of the tribe of Judas, and Simeon, and Benjamin, thirteen cities. {5} And to the rest of the children of Caath, that is to the Levites, which remained, out of the tribes of Ephraim, and Dan, and the half tribe of Manasses, ten cities. {6} Moreover to the children of Gerson came forth a lot, that they should take of the tribes of Issachar & Aser & Nephthali, & the half tribe of Manasses in Basan, cities in number thirteen. {7} And to the sons of Merari by their kindreds, of the tribe of Ruben and Gad & Zabulon, twelve cities. {8} and the children of Israel gave to the Levites cities and their suburbs, as our Lord commanded by the hand of Moyses, giving to every one by lot. {9} Of the tribes of the children of Judas & Simeon, Josue gave cities: whose names be these, {10} to the children of Aaron by the families of Caath of the Levitical stock (for the first lot came forth to them) {11} Cariatharbe the father of Enac, which is called Hebron, in the mountain of Judas, & the suburbs thereof round about. {12} But the fields and the towns thereof he had given to Caleb the son of Jephone to possess. {13} He gave therefore to the children of Aaron the Priest Hebron a city of refuge, & the suburbs thereof: and Lobna with the suburbs thereof: {14} and Jether and Estemo, {15} & Holon, & Dabir, {16} and Ain, & Jeta, and Bethsames, with the suburbs thereof: nine cities of two tribes, as hath been said. {17} And of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, Gabaon, & Gabae, {18} and Anathoth and Almon, with their suburbs: four cities. {19} All the cities together of the children of Aaron the Priest, thirteen, with their suburbs. {20} But to the rest by the families of the children of Caath of the Levitical stock was given this possession. {21} Of the tribe of Ephraim the cities of refuge, Sichem with the suburbs thereof in the mountain of Ephraim, and Gazer {22} and Cibsaime, and Beth horon, with the suburbs thereof, four cities. {23} Of the tribe of Dan also, Eltheco and Gabathon, {24} & Aialon and Gethremmon, with the suburbs thereof, four cities. {25} Moreover of the half tribe of Manasses, Thanac and Gethremmon, with their suburbs, two cities. {26} All the cities ten, and their suburbs, were given to the children of Caath of the inferior degree. {27} To the children of Gerson also of the Levitical stock he gave of the half tribe of Manasses the cities of refuge, Gaulon in Basan, and Bosram, with their suburbs, two cities. {28} Moreover of the tribe of Issachar, Cesion, and Dabereth, {29} and Jaramoth, & Engannim, with their suburbs, four cities. {30} And of the tribe of Aser, Masal and Abdon, {31} and Helcath, & Rohob, with their suburbs, four cities. {32} Of the tribe also of Nephthali the cities of refuge, Cedes in Galilee: and Hammoth Dor, and Carthan, with their suburbs, three cities. {33} All the cities of the families of Gerson, thirteen, with their suburbs. {34} And to the children of Merari Levites of the inferior degree by their families was given of the tribe of Zabulon, Jecnam and Cartha {35} and Damna and Naalol, four cities with their suburbs. {36} Of the tribe of Ruben beyond Jordan against Jericho the cities of refuge, Bosor in the wilderness, Misor and Jaser and Jethson and Mephaath, four cities with their suburbs. {37} Of the tribe of Gad the cities of refuge, Ramoth in Galaad, and Manaim & Hesebon & Jaser, four cities with their suburbs. {38} All the cities of the children of Merari by their families and kindreds, twelve. {39} Therefore all the cities of the Levites in the midst of the possession of the children of Israel were forty eight, {40} with their suburbs, every one distributed by the families. {41} And our Lord God gave to Israel all the Land, that he had sworn he would give to their fathers: and they possessed it, and dwelt in it. {42} And peace was given by him on all nations round about: and none of their enemies durst resist them, but all were brought into their dominion. {43} Not so much certes as one word, which he had promised, that he would perform unto them, was frustrate, but all things were accomplished in deeds.

The tribes of Ruben and Gad, and half Manasses return to their possessions. 10. Who building an altar by the side of Jordan, the other tribes suspect that they will make a schism, and therefore purpose to fight against them. 13. But first sending an ambassage to admonish them, 21. they answer that they made not an altar for sacrifice, but only for a monument, that notwithstanding they dwell on the other side of Jordan, yet they are of the same people of God 30. wherewith all Israel is satisfied.

{1} THE same time Josue called the Rubenites, and Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasses, {2} and said to them: You have done all things that Moyses the servant of our Lord commanded you: me also have you obeyed in all things, {3} neither have you left your brethren a long time, until this present day, keeping the commandment of our Lord your God. {4} Therefore because our Lord your God hath given your brethren quietness and peace, as he promised: return, and go into your tabernacles, and to the land of your possession, which Moyses the servant of our Lord delivered to you beyond Jordan: {5} always so that you keep attentively, and in work fulfill the commandment, and the law which Moyses the servant of our Lord commanded you, that you love our Lord your God, and walk in all his ways, and observe all his commandments, and cleave to him, and serve him in all your heart, and in all your soul. {6} And Josue blessed them, and dismissed them. Who returned into their tabernacles. {7} And to the half tribe of Manasses Moyses had given possession in Basan: and therefore to the half that remained Josue gave a lot among the rest of their brethren, beyond Jordan at the West side. And when he dismissed them into their tabernacles, and had blessed them, {8} he said to them: In much substance & riches return to your seats, with silver and gold, brass and iron, and variety of raiment: divide the prey of your enemies with your brethren. {9} And the children of Ruben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses returned, and went from the children of Israel in Silo, which is situated in Chanaan, to enter into Galaad the Land of their possession, which they had obtained according to the commandment of our Lord in the hand of Moyses. {10} And when they were come to the little banks of Jordan, into the Land of Chanaan, they built beside Jordan an altar of an infinite greatness. {11} Which thing when the children of Israel had heard, and certain messengers had reported to them that the children of Ruben, and Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses had builded and altar in the Land of Chanaan, upon the little banks of Jordan, against the children of Israel: {12} they assembled all in Silo, that they might go up, and fight against them. {13} And in the mean time they sent to them into the Land of Galaad, Phinees the son of Eleazar the Priest, {14} and ten Princes with him, one of every tribe. {15} Who came to the children of Ruben, and Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses into the Land of Galaad, and said to them: {16} This message doth all the people of our Lord send to you: What is this transgression? Why have you forsaken our Lord the God of Israel, building a sacrilegious altar, and revolting from the worship of him? {17} Is it a small thing to you that you sinned in Beelphegor, and until this present day the spot of this abomination abideth in us? And many of the people fell dead. {18} And you to day have forsaken our Lord, and to morrow his wrath will rage against all Israel. {19} But if you think the land of your possession to be unclean, pass to the Land wherein is the tabernacle of our Lord, and dwell among us: only that you depart not from our Lord, and from our company, an altar being built beside the altar of our Lord God. {20} Did not Achan the son of Zare transgress the commandment of our Lord, and his wrath lay upon all the people of Israel? And he was one man, & I would he alone had perished in his wicked fact. {21} And the children of Ruben, and Gad, and of the half tribe of Manasses answered the Princes of the legacy of Israel: {22} The most mighty God our Lord, the most mighty God our Lord, himself knoweth, and Israel together shall understand: If with the mind of prevarication we have erected this altar, let him not keep us, but punish us presently: {23} and if we did it with that mind, that we might lay upon it holocausts, and sacrifice, and pacific victims, let himself examine it and judge: {24} and not rather with that meaning and deliberation, that we said: To morrow your children will say to our children: What have you to do with our Lord the God of Israel? {25} Our Lord hath put a border between us and you, O ye children of Ruben, and children of Gad, the river Jordan: and therefore you have no part in our Lord. And by this occasion your children shall avert our children from the fear of our Lord. We therefore thought it better, {26} and said: Let us build us an altar, not for holocausts, nor to offer victims, {27} but for a testimony between us and you, and our issue and your progeny, that we may serve our Lord, and it may be our right to offer both holocausts, and victims, and pacific hosts: and that your children to morrow say not to our children: You have no part in our Lord. {28} And if they will say so, they shall answer them: Behold the altar of our Lord, which our fathers made, not for holocausts, nor for sacrifice, but for our testimony and yours. {29} God save us from this abomination that we should revolt from our lord, & leave his steps, erecting an altar to offer holocausts, and sacrifices, and victims, beside the altar of our Lord God, which is erected before his tabernacle. {30} Which things being heard, Phinees the priest, and the princes of the legacy, which were with him, were pacified: and they admitted most willingly the words of the children of Ruben, and Gad, and of the half tribe of Manasses. {31} And Phinees the Priest the son of Eleazar said to them: Now we know that our Lord is with us, because you are not culpable of this prevarication, and have delivered the children of Israel from the hand of our Lord. {32} And he returned with the Princes from the children of Ruben and Gad, out of the Land of Galaad, into the Land of Chanaan, to the children of Israel, and reported to them. {33} And the saying pleased all that heard it. And the children of Israel praised God, and they did no more say, that they would go up against them, and fight, and destroy the Land of their possession. {34} And the children of Ruben, & the children of Gad called the altar which they had built, Our testimony, that our Lord he is God.

Josue being old admonisheth the people to keep God's commandments, 12. and to avoid marriages, and all society with gentiles, lest falling to idolatry God as certainly punish them, as he hath been beneficial and bountiful to them.

{1} AND when much time passed, after that our Lord had given peace to Israel, all the nations being subdued round about, and Josue now very ancient, and of a great age: {2} Josue called all Israel, and the elders, and the Princes, and the judges, and the masters, and said to them: I am old, and far gone in age: {3} and you see all things, that our Lord your God hath done to all the nations round about, how himself hath fought for you: {4} and now because he hath by lot divided to you all the Land, from the East part of Jordan unto the great sea, and many nations yet remain: {5} Our Lord your God will destroy them, and take them away from your face, and you shall possess the Land, as he hath promised you. {6} Only take courage, and be careful that you keep all things which be written in the volume of the law of Moyses: and decline not from them neither to the right hand nor to the left: {7} lest after that you are entered in to the Gentiles, which shall be among you, you swear in the name of their gods, and serve them, and adore them: {8} but cleave to our Lord your God: which you have done until this day. {9} And then our Lord God will take away in your sight the great nations and very strong, and no man shall be able to resist you. {10} One of you shall pursue a thousand men of the enemies: because our Lord your God himself will fight for you, as he hath promised. {11} This only beware very diligently beforehand, that you love our Lord your God. {12} But if you will cleave to the error of these nations that dwell among you, and make marriages with them, and join amity: {13} even now know ye that our Lord your God will not destroy them before your face, but they shall be a pit and a snare for you, and a stumbling block at your side, and stakes in your eyes, till he take you away and destroy you from his excellent Land, which he hath delivered to you. {14} Behold I this day enter into the way of all flesh, and you shall know with all your mind, that all the words which our Lord promised that he would perform to you, one is not escaped without effect. {15} Therefore as he hath fulfilled in deed that which he promised, and all things prosperous have come: so will he bring upon you what evils soever he hath threatened, till he take you away and destroy you from this excellent Land, which he hath delivered to you, {16} because you have transgressed the covenant of our Lord your God, which he hath made with you, and have served strange gods, and adored them: quickly and in haste shall the fury of our Lord rise against you, and you shall be taken away from this excellent Land, which he hath delivered to you.

Inconsideration of diverse principal benefits here recited, 14. Josue exhorteth the people to serve God sincerely, seeing it is in their choice to do well or evil. 16. They promise all true service and obedience to God. 25. Whereupon he reneweth the pact between God and them, writing it in the volume of the law, and erecting a great stone in testimony. 29. He dieth and is buried in mount Ephraim. 32. Joseph's bones are buried in Sichem. 33. Eliazar the high-Priest also dieth and is buried in Ephraim.

{1} AND Josue gathered together all the tribes of Israel into Sichem, and called the ancients, and Princes, and judges, and masters: and they stood in the sight of our Lord: {2} and to the people he spake in this manner: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Beyond the river did your fathers dwell from the beginning, Thare the father of Abraham, and of Nachor: and they served strange gods. {3} I took therefore your father Abraham from the coasts of Mesopotamia, and brought him into the Land of Chanaan, and multiplied his seed, {4} and gave him Isaac: & again to him I gave Jacob and Esau. Of whom, to Esau I gave mount Seir to possess: but Jacob & his children went down into Aegypt. {5} And I sent Moyses & Aaron, & struck Aegypt with many signs and wonders. {6} And I brought you and your fathers out of Aegypt, and you came to the sea: and the Aegyptians pursued your fathers with chariots and horsemen, as far as the Red sea. {7} And the children of Israel cried to the Lord: who did put darkness between you and the Aegyptians, and brought the sea upon them, & overwhelmed them. Your eyes saw all things I did in Aegypt, and you dwelt in the wilderness a great time: {8} & I brought you into the Land of the Amorrhite, which dwelt beyond Jordan. And when they fought against you, I delivered them into your hands, and you possessed their Land, and slew them. {9} And there rose Balac the son of Sephor king of Moab, and fought against Israel. And he sent and called Balaam the son of Beor, that he might curse you: {10} & I would not hear him, but contrarywise by him I blessed you, and delivered you out of his hand. {11} And you passed Jordan, and came to Jericho. And the men of that city fought against you, the Amorrhite, and Pherezite, and Chananiite, & the Hethite, and Gergesite, and the Hevite, and Jebusite: & I delivered them into your hands. {12} And I sent before you horns: and I cast them forth out of their places, the two kings of the Amorrhites, not in thy sword and bow. {13} And I gave you the Land, wherein you laboured not, and the cities which you built not, to dwell in them: vineyards and olive trees, which you planted not. {14} Now therefore fear our lord and serve him with a perfect and very true heart: and take away the gods, which your fathers served in Mesopotamia and in Aegypt, and serve our Lord. {15} But if it like you not to serve our Lord, choice is given you: choose this day that which pleases you, whom you ought especially to serve, whether the gods, which your fathers served in Mesopotamia, or the gods of the Amorrhites, in whose Land you dwell: but I and my house will serve our Lord. {16} And the people answered, and said: God forbid we should leave our Lord, and serve strange gods. {17} Our Lord God he brought us and our fathers out of the Land of Aegypt, out of the house of servitude: and did in our sight great signs, & kept us in all the way by the which we walked, & among all the peoples, through which we passed. {18} And he hath cast out all the nations, the Amorrhite inhabiter of the Land, which we have entered. We therefore will serve our Lord, because he is our God. {19} And Josue said to the people: You can not serve our Lord: for God is holy, and a mighty emulator, neither will he pardon your wickedness & sins. {20} If you leave our Lord, and serve strange gods, he will turn himself; and will afflict you, & overthrow you after he hath given you good things. {21} And the people said to Josue: No, it shall not be so as thou speakest, but we will serve our Lord. {22} And Josue said to the people: You are witnesses, that your selves have chosen to you our Lord for to serve him. And they answered: Witnesses. {23} Now therefore, quoth he, take away strange gods out of the midst of you, and incline your hearts to our Lord the God of Israel. {24} And the people said to Josue: We will serve our Lord God, and will be obedient to his precepts. {25} Josue therefore in that day made a covenant, and proposed to the people precepts and judgments in Sichem. {26} He wrote also all these words in the volume of the law of our Lord: and he took a very great stone, and put it under the oak, that was in the Sanctuary of our Lord: {27} and said to all the people: Behold this stone shall be a testimony for you, that it hath heard all the words of our Lord, which he hath spoken to you: lest perhaps hereafter you will deny, and lie to our Lord your God. {28} And he dismissest the people, every one into their possession. {29} And after these things, Josue the Son of Nun the servant of our Lord died, being an hundred and ten years old: {30} and they buried him in the coasts of his possession in Thamnathare, which is situated in the mountain of Ephraim, on the North part of mount Gaas. {31} And Israel served our Lord all the days of Josue, and of the ancients, that lived a long time after Josue, & that had known all the works of our Lord which he had done in Israel. {32} The bones also of Joseph which the children of Israel had taken out of Aegypt, they buried in Sichem, in part of the field, which Jacob had bought of the sons of Hemor the father of Sichem, for a hundred young ewes, and it was in the possession of the sons of Joseph. {33} Eleazar also the son of Aaron died: and they buried him in Gabaath of Phinees his son, which was given him in mount Ephraim.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES

Under a general captain of the tribe of Juda, assisted by the tribe of Simeon, Israel subdueth diverse cities of the gentiles. (12. Othoniel taking Cariath Sepher possesseth it, and marrieth Caleb's daughter, obtaining also addition of her dowry.) 21. Jebusites yet dwell in Hierusalem with Benjamin, 27. and the Chaneites with diverse of the tribes.

{1} AFTER the death of Josue Israel consulted our Lord, saying: Who shall go up before us against the , the children of Chananeite, & shall be captain of the war? {2} And our Lord said: Judas shall go up: behold I have delivered the Land into his hands. {3} And Judas said to Simeon his brother: Come up with me into my lot, and fight against the Chananeite, that I also may go forward with thee into thy lot. And Simeon went with him. {4} And Judas went up and our Lord delivered the Chananeite, and the Pherezite into their hands: and they struck in Bezem ten thousand men. {5} And they found Adonibezec in Bezem, and fought against him, and struck the Chananeite and the Pherezite. {6} And Adonibezec fled: whom pursuing they took, cutting off the extreme parts of his hands and feet. {7} And Adonibezec said: Seventy kings having the extreme parts of their hands and feet cut off, gathered up the relics of meats under my table: as I have done, so hath God repaid me. And they brought him into Jerusalem, and there he died. {8} Therefore the children of Judas assaulting Jerusalem, took it, and struck it in the edge of the sword, setting the whole city on fire. {9} And afterward going down they fought against the Chananeite, which dwelled in the mountains, and southward, & in the champion countries. {10} And Judas going forward, against the Chananeite, that dwelled in Hebron (the name whereof was before time Cariatharbe) struck Sesai, and Ahiman, and Tholmai: {11} and departing thence went to the inhabitants of Dabir, the old name whereof was Cariath Sepher, that is a city of letters. {12} And Caleb said: He that shall strike Cariath Sepher, and spoil it, I will give him Axa my daughter to wife. {13} And when Othoniel the son of Cenez, the younger brother of Caleb had taken it, he gave him Axa his daughter to wife. {14} Whom going on her way her husband admonished to ask a field of her father. To whom, when she had sighed sitting on her ass, Caleb said: What aileth thee? {15}

But she answered. Give me a blessing, for a dry land thou hast given me: give me also a watery. Caleb therefore gave her a watery ground above, and watery beneath. {16} And the children of the Cinite the cousin of Moyses went up from the city of palms, with the children of Judas into the desert of his lot, which is at the south side of Arad, & dwelt with him. {17} But Judas went with Simeon his brother, & together they struck the Chananeite that dwelt in Sephaath, and slew him. And the name of the city was called, Horma, that is, Anathema. {18} And Judas took Gaza with the coasts thereof, & Ascalon, & Accaron with their bounds. {19} And our Lord was with Judas, & he possessed the mountains: neither could he destroy the inhabitants of the valley, because they had many hooked chariots. {20} And they gave to Caleb Hebron, as Moyses had said, who destroyed out of it the three sons of Enac. {21} But the Jebusite the inhabiter of Jerusalem the children of Benjamin destroyed not: {238} and the Jebusite dwelt with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem until this present day. {22} The house also of Joseph went up into Bethel, and our Lord was with them. {23} For when they besieged the city, which before was called Luza, {24} they saw a man coming out of the city, and said to him: Shew us the entrance of the city, and we will shew thee mercy. {25} Who when he had shewed them, they struck the city in the edge of the sword: but that man, & all his kindred they dismissed. {26} Who being dismissed, went into the Land of the Hetthims, & built there a city, & called it Luza: which is so called until this present day. {27} Manasses also destroyed not Bethsan, and Thanac with their little towns, and the inhabitants of Dor, and Jeblaam, and Mageddo with their little towns. And the chananite began to dwell with them. {28} But after that Israel was waxen strong he made them tributaries, and would not destroy them. {29} Ephraim also killed not the Chananeite, that dwelt in Gazer, but dwelt with him. {30} Zabulon destroyed not the inhabitants of Cetron, and Naalol: but the Chananeite dwelt in the midst of him, & was made tributary to him. {31} Aser also destroyed not the inhabitants of Accho, & of Sidon, of Ahalab, and Achazib, & Helba, & Aphec, & Rohob: {32} and he dwelt in the midst of the Chananeite the inhabiter of that Land, neither did he kill them. {33} Nephthali also destroyed not the inhabitants of Bethsames, & Bethanath: and he dwelt in the midst of the Chananeite the inhabiter of the Land, and the Bethsamesites & Bethanites were tributaries to him. {34} And the Amorrhite straitened the children of Dan in the mountain, and gave them not place to go down to the plain: {35} and he dwelt in the mount Hares which is interpreted shells, in Aialon and Salebim. And the hand of the house of Joseph was aggravated, and he became tributary to him. {36} And the border of the Amorrhite was from the Ascent of the Scorpion, the rock, and the higher places.

An Angel reciting many benefits of God towards Israel, and their ingratitude, 4. they weep for their faults. 10. After the death of Josue and other ancients of his time, the people often fall, and repenting are delivered from afflictions: 19. but still fall again worse and worse.

{1} AND the Angel of our Lord went up from Galgal to the place of weepers, and said: I brought you out of Aegypt, and have brought you into the Land, for the which I swear to your fathers: and I promised that I would not make frustrate my covenant with you for ever: {2} only so that you should not make a league with the inhabitants of this Land, but should overthrow their altars: and you would not hear my voice. Why have you done this? {3} For the which cause I would not destroy them from before your face: that you may have enemies, and their gods may be a ruin unto you. {4} And when the Angel of our Lord spake these words to all the children of Israel, they lifted up their voice, and wept. {5} And the name of that place was called, the place of weepers, or of tears: and there they immolated hosts to our Lord. {6} Josue therefore dismissed the people, and the children of Israel went every one into his possession, to obtain it: {7} and they served our Lord all his days, and the days of the ancients, of them that lived a long time after him, and knew all the works of our Lord, which he had done with Israel. {8} And Josue the son of Nun, the servant of our Lord, died, being an hundred and ten years old, {9} and they buried him in the borders of his possession in Thamnathshare in the mount of Ephraim, on the North side of mount Gaas. {10} And all that generation was gathered to their fathers: and there rose others, that knew not our Lord, and the works which he had done with Israel. {11} And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of our Lord, and served Baalim. {12} And they left our Lord the God of their fathers, that had brought them out of the Land of Aegypt: and followed strange gods, and the gods of the peoples, that dwelt round about them, and adored them: and they provoked our Lord to anger, {13} leaving him, and serving Baal and Astaroth. {14} And our Lord being wrath against Israel, delivered them into the hands of ransackers: who took them and sold them to the enemies, that dwelt round about: neither could they resist their adversaries: {15} but whither soever they had meant to go, the hand of our Lord was upon them, as he spake, and sware to them: and they were vehemently afflicted. {16} And our Lord raised up Judges, that should deliver them from the hands of the wasters: but neither would they hear them, {17} fornicating with strange gods, and adoring them. They did quickly forsake the way, in the which their fathers had gone: and hearing the commandments of our Lord, they did all things contrary. {18} And when our Lord raised up Judges, in their days he was moved with mercy, and heard the groanings of the afflicted, and delivered them from the slaughter of the wasters. {19} But after the Judge was dead, they returned, and did much worse things than their fathers had done, following strange gods, serving them, and adoring them. They left not their inventions, and the very hard way, by which they were accustomed to walk. {20} And the fury of our Lord was angry against Israel, & said: Because this nation hath made my covenant frustrate, which I had made with their fathers, and hath contemned my voice: {21} I also will not destroy the nations which Josue did let alone, and died: {22} that in them I may try Israel, whether they will keep the way of the Lord, and walk in it, as their fathers kept it, or not. {23} Our Lord therefore left all these nations, and would not quickly overthrow them, neither delivered them into the hands of Josue.

The people associating themselves with Gentiles, against whom they ought to fight, 8. are invaded by foreign kings: 9. but repenting are delivered by Othoniel 12. Falling again, afflicted, and repenting, 15. are delivered by Aod, 21. secretly killing Eglon their enemy. 31. After him Samgar defendeth Israel against the Philistines.

{1} THESE are the Nations, which our Lord left, that in them he might instruct Israel, and all that had not known the wars of the Chananites: {2} that afterward their children might learn to fight with their enemies, and to be accustomed to war: {3} the five Princes of the Philisthiims, and the Chananite, and Sidonian, and Hevite, that dwelt in mount Libanus, from mount Baal Hermon to the entering into Emath. {4} And he left them, that in them he might try Israel, whether they would hear the commandments of our Lord, which he had commanded their fathers by the hand of Moyses, or not. {5} Therefore the children of Israel dwelt in the midst of the Chananite, and Hethite, and Amorrhite, and Pherezite, and Hevite, and Jebusite: {6} and they took their daughters to wives, and themselves gave their own daughters to their sons, and served their gods. {7} And they did evil in the sight of our Lord, and forgot their God, serving Baalim and Astaroth. {8} And our Lord being wrath against Israel, delivered them into the hands of Chusan Rasathaim the king of Mesopotamia, and they served him eight years. {9} And they cried to our Lord: who raised them up a saviour, & delivered them, to wit, Othoniel the son of Cenez, the younger brother of Caleb: {10} and the Spirit of our Lord was in him, and he judged Israel. And he went forth to fight, and our Lord delivered into his hands Chusan Rasathaim the king of Syria, and oppressed him. {11} And the land rested forty years, and Othoniel the son of Cenez died. {12} And the children of Israel added to do evil in the sight of our Lord: who strengthened against them Eglon the king of Moab: because they did evil in his sight. {13} And he joined to him the children of Ammon, and Amalec: and he went and struck Israel, and possessed the city of palms. {14} And the children of Israel served Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years: {15} and afterward they cried to our Lord: who raised up unto them a saviour called Aod, the son of Gera, the son of Jemini, who used both hands for the right. And the children of Israel sent by him presents to Eglon the king of Moab. {16} Who made himself a two edged sword, having in the midst a haft in length the palm of a hand, and was girded therewith under his cassock on the right thigh. {17} And he presented the gifts to Eglon the king of Moab. And Eglon was exceeding gross. {18} And when he had presented the gifts unto him, he brought his fellows on the way that came with him. {19} And returning from Galgal, where the idols were, he said to the king: I have a secret message to thee, o king. And he commanded silence: & all being gone forth that were about him, {20} Aod went in to him: and he sat in a summer chamber alone, and he said: A word from God I have to thee. Who forthwith rose out of his throne. {21} And Aod put forth his left hand, & took the dagger from his right thigh, and fastened it into his belly {22} so mightily that the haft followed the blade in the wound, and was closed up fast with the most fat grease. Neither did he pluck out the dagger, but as he had stricken, so left it in the body: and forthwith by the secret parts of nature the ordure of the belly came forth. {23} But Aod shutting the doors of the chamber very diligently, & locking them sure, {24} went out by a postern door. And the king's servants going in, saw the doors of the chamber shut, and they said: Peradventure he purgeth his belly in the summer chamber. {25} And expecting long till they were ashamed, & seeing that no man did open, they took a key: and opening they found their Lord on the earth lying dead. {26} But Aod, whiles they were troubled, escaped, and passed by the Place of idols, whence he had returned. And he came into Seirath: {27} and forthwith the trumpet sounded in the mount of Ephraim: and the children of Israel went down with him, himself going in the front. {28} Who said to them: Follow me: for our Lord hath delivered our enemies the Moabites into our hands. And they went down after him, and occupied the fords of Jordan, which bring over into Moab: & they suffered no man to pass: {29} but they struck the Moabites at that time, about ten thousand, all stout and strong men, none of them could escape. {30} And Moab was humbled that day under the hand of Israel: and the Land rested eighty years. {31} After him was Samgar the son of Anath, who struck of the Philistimes six hundred men with the culter of a plough: and he also defended Israel.

Again the people sinning are oppressed, and crying to God, 4. by direction of Debbara a Prophetess, Barac fighteth against Sisara their enemy. 15. Who stricken with fear, and flying away, 17. Jahel pretending his safety killeth him in her house.

{1} AND the children of Israel added to do evil in the sight of our Lord after the death of Aod, {2} and our Lord delivered them into the hands of Jabin the king of Chanaan, which reigned in Asor: and he had a captain of his army named Sisara, and he dwelt in Haroseth of the gentiles. {3} And the children of Israel cried to our Lord, for he had nine hundred iron hooked chariots, and for twenty years had vehemently oppressed them. {4} And there was one Debbara a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, which judged the people at that time. {5} And she sat under a palm tree, which was called by her name, between Rama and Bethel in the mount of Ephraim: and the children of Israel went up to her for all judgment. {6} Who sent, and called Barac the son of Abinoem of Cedes in Nephthali, and she said to him: Our Lord God of Israel hath commanded thee: Go, and lead an army into mount Thabor, and thou shalt take with thee ten thousand fighting men of the children of Nephtali, & of the children of Zabulon: {7} and I will bring unto thee in the place of the Torrent Cison, Sisar the Prince of the host of Jabin, and his chariots, and all the multitude, and will deliver them in thy hand. {8} And Barac said to her: If thou come with me, I will go: If thou wilt not come with me, I will not go. {9} Who said to him: I will go indeed with thee, but at this time the victory shall not be imputed to thee, because Sisara shall be delivered into the hand of a woman. Debbora therefore arose, and went with Barac into Cedes. {10} Who calling unto him Zabulon and Nephtali, went up with ten thousand fighting men, having Debbora in his company. {11} And Haber the Cinite was in time past departed from the rest of the Cinites his brethren of Hobab, the cousin of Moyses: and had pitched his tents unto the valley, which is called Sennim, and was near Cedes. {12} And it was told Sisara, that Barac the son of Abinoem was gone up into mount Thabor: {13} and he gathered nine hundred iron hooked chariots, and all his army from Haroseth of the gentiles to the torrent Cison. {14} And Debbora said to Barac: Arise, for this is the day wherein our Lord hath delivered Sisara into thy hands: behold he is thy leader. And Barac went down from mount Thabor, and ten thousand fighting men with him. {15} And our Lord terrified Sisara and all his chariots, & all the multitude in the edge of the sword at the sight of Barac: in so much, that Sisara leaping down from his chariot, fled a-foot, {16} & Barac pursued the chariots flying, and the army unto Haroseth of the gentiles, and all the multitude of the enemies was utterly destroyed. {17} But Sisara flying came to the tent of Jahel the wife of Haber the Cinite, for there was peace betwixt Jabin the king of Asor, and the house of Haber the Cinite. {18} Jahel therefore going forth to meet Sisara, said to him: Come in to me, my Lord, come in, fear not. Who being entered into her tabernacle, and covered of her with a cloak, {19} said to her, Give me, I beseech thee, a little water, for I am very thirsty. Who opened a bottle of milk, and gave him to drink, and covered him. {20} And Sisara said to her: Stand before the door of the tabernacle, and when any shall come asking thee, and saying: Is there any man here? Thou shalt say: There is none. {21} Jahel therefore the wife of Haber took a nail of the tabernacle, taking withal a hammer also: and going in secretly, and with silence she put the nail upon the temple of his head, and striking it with the hammer, fastened it into his brain even to the ground: who joining deep sleep & death together, fainted, and died. {22} And behold Barac following Sisara came: and Jahel going forth to meet him, said to him: Come, and I will shew thee the man whom thou seekest. Who when he was entered in unto her, saw Sisara lying dead, and the nail fastened in his temples. {23} Therefore God that day humbled Jabin the king of Chanaan before the children of Israel: {24} which increased daily, and with strong hand oppressed Jabin the king of Chanaan, till they destroyed him.

The Canticle of Debbora and Barac giving thanks after their victory.

{1} AND Debbora and Barac the son of Abinoem sang in that day, saying: Israel have voluntarily offered your lives {2} You that of to peril, bless our Lord. {3} Hear you kings, and give ear ye Princes: I am, I am she, that will sing to our Lord, I will chant to our Lord the God of Israel. {4} Lord when thou wentest out of Seir, and didst pass by the countries of Edom, the earth was moved, and the heavens and clouds distilled waters. {5} The mountains melted before the face of our Lord, and Sinai before the face of our Lord God of Israel. {6} In the days of Samgar the son of Anath, in the days of Jahel the paths rested: and they that went by them, walked by by-ways. {7} The valiants in Israel ceased, and rested: until Debbora arose, a mother rose in Israel. {8} Our Lord chose new wars, and the gates of the enemies himself subverted: shield and spear if there appeared among forty thousand of Israel. {9} My heart loveth the Princes of Israel: you that of your own good will, offered your selves to danger, bless our Lord. {10} You that ride upon your fair asses, and sit in judgment, and walk in the way, speak. {11} Where the chariots were crushed together, and the army of the enemies was suffocated, there let the justices of our Lord be told, and his clemency toward the valiants of Israel: then did the people of Our Lord go down to the gates, {242} and obtained the principality. {12} Arise, arise Debbora, arise, arise, and speak a canticle: Arise Barac, and apprehend thy captives thou son of Abinoem. {13} The remnant of the people is saved, our Lord hath fought in the valiants. {14} Out from Ephraim he destroyed them into Amalec, and after him out from Benjamin into thy peoples O Amalec: Out from Machir there descended Princes, and out from Zabulon they that led the army to fight. {15} The Captains of Issachar were with Debbora, and followed the steps of Barac, who as it were into a headlong and bottomless pit gave himself to danger: Ruben being divided against it-self, there was found contention of courageous persons. {16} Why dwellest thou between the two bounds, that thou mayest hear the whistlings of the flocks? Ruben being divided against itself, there was found contention of courageous men. {17} Galaad rested beyond Jordan, and Dan gave himself to ships: Aser dwelt in the sea shore, and abode in havens. {18} But Zabulon and Nephtali offered their lives to death in their country of Merome. {19} The kings came & fought, the kings of Chanaan fought in Thanac besides the waters of Mageddo, and yet going a preying they took nothing. {20} From heaven they fought against them: the stars remaining in their order and course, fought against Sisara. {21} The torrent of Cison drew their carcasses, the torrent of Cadumim, the torrent of Cison: my soul tread down the strong ones. {22} The hoof of the horses fell off, the strongest of the enemies flying violently, and falling down headlong. {23} Curse ye the land of Meroz, said the Angel of our Lord: Curse the inhabitants thereof, because they came not to help our Lord, to aid his most mighty ones. {24} Blessed among women be Jahel the wife of Haber the Cinite, and blessed be she in her tabernacle. {25} To him that asked water she gave milk, and in the phial of Princes she offered butter. {26} Her left hand she put to the nail, and her right hand to the smith's hammer, and struck Sisara, seeking in his head a place for the wound, and piercing valiantly through his temple. {27} Between her feet he fell: he failed, and died: he was rolled before her feet, and he lay without life and miserable. {28} Looking through a window, his mother howled: and she spake out of a higher chamber: Why lingereth his chariot to come back? Wherefore are the feet of his wagons slow? {29} One wiser than the rest of his wives answered these words to her mother in law: {30} Peradventure now he divideth the spoils, and the fairest of the women is chosen for him: garments of sundry colours are delivered to Sisara for a prey, and diverse furniture is laid together to adorn the necks. {31} So perish all thine enemies, O Lord: but they that love thee, as the Sun shineth in his rising, so let them glitter. {32} And the Land rested for forty years.

The people falling again to sin, are oppressed by the Midianites. 21. An Angel appearing to Gideon, sendeth him to deliver Israel. 17. confirming his mission by miracle. 25. So he first destroyeth Baal's altar, 34. then gathereth an army against Idolaters. 36. And is assured again of God's protection by two miracles in a fleece of wool.

{1} AND the children of Israel did evil in the sight of our Lord: who delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years, {2} and they were sore oppressed of them. And they made themselves dens and caves in the mountains, and very well fenced places to resist. {3} And when Israel had sown, Midian came up and Amalec, and the rest of the East nations: {4} and pitching their tents by them wasted all things as they were in the blade unto the entering of Gaza: & they left nothing at all in Israel that pertained to man's life, not sheep, not oxen, not asses. {5} For they and all their flocks came with their tabernacles, and like unto locusts filled all places, an innumerable multitude of men, & of camels, wasting whatsoever they touched. {6} And Israel was sore humbled in the sight of Midian. {7} And he cried to our Lord desiring help against the Midianites. {8} Who sent unto them a man that was a Prophet, and he spake: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: I made you to come up out of Aegypt, and brought you out of the house of servitude, {9} & delivered you out of the hands of the Aegyptians, and of all the enemies, that afflicted you: and I cast them out at your entering, and delivered you their Land. {10} And I said: I, the Lord your God, fear not the gods of the Amorrhites, in whose land you dwell. And you would not hear my voice. {11} And an Angel of our Lord came, and sat under an oak, that was in Ephra, and pertained to Joas the father of the family of Ezri. And when Gedeon his son did thresh and purge wheat in a winepress, to fly Midian, {12} the Angel of our Lord appeared to him, and said: Our Lord be with thee, o most valiant of men. {13} And Gedeon said to him: I beseech thee my Lord, if our Lord be with us, why have these evils apprehended us? Where are his marvelous works, which our fathers have told us, and said: Out of Aegypt did our Lord bring us? But now our Lord hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hand of Midian. {14} And our Lord looked toward him, and said: Go in this thy strength, and thou shalt deliver Israel out of the hand of Midian: know that I have sent thee. {15} Who answering said: I beseech thee, my Lord, wherein shall I deliver Israel? Behold my family is the meanest in Manasses, & I, the least in my father's house. {16} And our Lord said to him: I will be with thee: and thou shalt strike Midian as it were one man. {17} And he said: If I have found, quoth he, grace before thee, give me a sign that it is thou which speakest to me. {18} Neither depart thou hence, till I return to thee, bringing a sacrifice, and offering to thee. Who answered: I will tarry thy coming. {19} Gedeon therefore went in, and boiled a kid, and of a bushel of flour baked unleavened loaves: and putting the flesh in a basket, and the broth of the flesh into a pot, he carried all under the oak, and offered to him. {20} To whom the Angel of our Lord said: Take the flesh and the unleavened loaves, and put them upon that rock, and pour out the broth thereon. And when he had done, {21} the Angel of our Lord stretched forth the tip of the rod, which he held in his hand, and touched the flesh and the unleavened loaves: and there arose a fire from the rock, and consumed the flesh, and the unleavened loaves: and the Angel of our Lord vanished from his eyes. {22} And Gedeon seeing that it was the Angel of our Lord, said: Alas my Lord God: that I have seen the Angel of our Lord face to face. {23} And our Lord said to him: Peace be with thee: fear not, thou shalt not die. {24} And Gedeon built there an altar to our Lord, & called it, our Lord's peace, until this present day. And when he was yet in Ephra, which is of the family of Ezri, {25} that night our Lord said to him: Take a bullock of thy father's, and an other bullock of seven years, and thou shalt destroy the altar of Baal, which is thy father's: and cut down the grove, that is about the altar: {26} and thou shalt build an altar to the Lord thy God in the top of this rock, whereupon thou didst lay the sacrifice before: and thou shalt take the second bullock, and shalt offer an holocaust upon a pile of the wood, which thou shalt cut down out of the grove. {27} Gedeon therefore taking to him ten men of his servants, did as our Lord had commanded him. But fearing his father's house, and the men of that city, he would not do it by day, but accomplished all things by night. {28} And when the men of that town were risen in the morning, they saw the altar of Baal destroyed, and the grove cut down, and the other bullock laid upon the altar, which then was built. {29} They said one to an other: Who hath done this? And when they inquired for the author of the fact, it was said: Gedeon the son of Joas did all these things. {30} And they said to Joas: Bring forth thy son hither, that he may die: because he hath destroyed the altar of Baal, and hath cut down his grove. {31} To whom he answered: Why are you revengers of Baal, that you fight for him? He that is his adversary, let him die before to morrow light appear: if he be God, revenge he himself, on him that hath razed his altar. {32} From that day Gedeon was called Jerobaal, {244} because Joas had said: Let Baal revenge himself on him, that hath razed his altar. {33} Therefore all Midian, and Amalec, and the east peoples were gathered together, and passing over Jordan, camped in the vale Jezrael. {34} But the spirit of our Lord re vested Gedeon, who sounding with a trumpet called together the house of Abiezer, to follow him. {35} And he sent messengers into all Manasses, which it-self also did follow him: and other messengers into Aser and Zabulon and Nephthali, which met him. {36} And Gedeon said to God: If thou save Israel by my hand, as thou hast spoken, {37} I will put this fleece of wool on the floor: if there shall be dew in the fleece only, and on all the ground dryness, I shall know that by my hand, as thou hast spoken, thou wilt deliver Israel. {38} And it came so to pass. And rising in the night wringing the fleece, he filled a vessel with the dew. {39} And he said again to God: Let not thy fury be angry against me if I tempt once again, seeking a sign in the fleece. I desire that the fleece only may be dry, and all the ground wet with dew. {40} And God did that night as he had requested: and there was dryness in the fleece only, and dew on all the ground.

Gedeon marching with thirty two thousand men, all that are fearful, and that drink water kneeling are dismissed, & only three hundred that drink little remain. 9. By a Midianite's dream Gedeon is encouraged. 16. By a stratagem the enemy is frightened & overthrown. 24. The Ephraites kill Oreb & Zeb.

{1} THEREFORE Jerobaal, which is also Gedeon, rising in the night, and all the people with him, came to the fountain that is called Harad. And the camp of Midian was in the valley on the North side of the high hill. {2} And our Lord said to Gedeon: There is much people with thee, neither shall Midian be delivered into their hand: lest Israel glory against me, and say: By mine own force I am delivered. {3} Speak to the people, and proclaim in all their hearing: He that is fearful and timorous, let him return. And they departed from mount Galaad, and there returned two and twenty thousand men, and only ten thousand remained. {4} And our Lord said to Gedeon: Yet there is a great multitude, lead them to the waters, and there I will prove them: and of whom I shall tell thee that he go with thee, let him go: whom I shall forbid to go, let him return. {5} And when the people were come down to the waters, our Lord said to Gedeon: They that shall lap the water with their tongues, as dogs are wont to lap, thou shalt separate them apart: but they that shall drink bowing down their knees, shall be on the other part. {6} The number therefore of them that had lapped water, their hand casting it to their mouth, was three hundred men: and all the rest of the multitude had drunk kneeling. {7} And our lord said to Gedeon: In the three hundred men, that lapped water, I will deliver you, and give Midian in thy hand: but let all the rest of the multitude return into their place. {8} Taking therefore victuals and trumpets according to the number, all the rest of the multitude he commanded to depart to their tabernacles: and himself with the three hundred gave himself to the battle. And the camp of Midian was beneath in the valley. {9} The same night our Lord said to him: Arise, & go down into the camp: because I have delivered them into thy hand. {10} But if thou be afraid to go alone, let Phara thy servant go down with thee. {11} And when thou shalt hear what they speak, then shall thy hands be strengthened, & thou shalt go down more secure to the enemies' camp. He therefore went down and Phara his servant into part of the camp, where the watch was of men in arms. {12} But Midian and Amalec, & all the East peoples lay scattered in the valley, as a multitude of locusts: their camels also were innumerable, as the sand that lieth in the sea shore. {13} And when Gedeon was come, one told his neighbour a dream & in this manner he reported that which he had seen: I saw a dream, & there seemed to me as it were a hearth loaf of barley, to roll, & to come into the camp of Midian: and when it was come to the tabernacle, it struck it, and overthrew it, & beat it all flat with the earth. {14} He to whom he spake, answered: This is no other thing, but the sword of Gedeon the son of Joas the man of Israel. For the Lord hath delivered Midian into his hands, and all their camp. {15} And when Gedeon had heard the dream, and the interpretation thereof, he adored: and turned to the camp of Israel, and said: Arise ye, for our Lord hath delivered the camp of Midian into our hands. {16} And he divided the three hundred men into three parts, and gave them trumpets in their hands, and empty pitchers, and lamps in the midst of their pitchers. {17} And he said to them: What you shall see me do, that do ye: I will enter into part of the camp, & that which I shall do follow you. {18} When the trumpet shall sound in my hand, do you also sound and cry together round about the camp: To our Lord & to Gedeon. {19} And Gedeon went in, & the three hundred that were with him, into part of the camp, the watch of midnight beginning, and raising up the watch men they began to sound with their trumpets, and to clap the pitchers one against an other. {20} And when they sounded in three places round about the camp, and had broken the pitchers, they held the lamps in the left hands, and with the right they sounded the trumpets, and cried: The sword of our Lord and of Gedeon: {21} standing every one in his place round about the enemies' camp. Therefore the whole camp was troubled, and crying out and howling they fled: {22} and the three hundred men nevertheless persisted sounding with the trumpets. And our Lord sent in the sword in all the camp, and they murdered one an other, {23} flying as far as Bethsetta, and the brink of Abelmehu in Tebbath. But the men of Israel of Nephthali, and Aser shouting together, & all Manasses pursued Midian. {24} And Gedeon sent messengers into all mount Ephraim, saying: Come down to meet Midian, and take the waters before them to Bethbera and Jordan. And all Ephraim shouted, and took the waters before them and Jordan unto Bethbera. {25} And two men that were apprehended of Midian, Oreb and Zeb, Oreb he slew in the Rock of Oreb, Zeb in the press of Zeb. And they pursued Midian, carrying the heads of Oreb and Zeb to Gedeon beyond the streams of Jordan.

The Ephraimites quarrelling because they were not called to the wars, are pacified by Gedeon. 4. The men of Soccoth and Phanuel denying victuals for the camp, Gedeon (in the mean time 10. overthrowing the enemy) 15. revengeth their reproachful contempt, 18. killeth Soccoth and Salmana, 22. refuseth dominion, 24. but receiveth as a gift, the Jewels taken in the prey: 27. maketh thereof an Ephod, which turneth to the ruin of his family. 30. Having seventy sons by his wives, and one by a concubine, dieth in good old age. 33. And the people fall again to idolatry.

{1} AND the men of Ephraim said to him: What is this that thou didst mean to do, that thou wouldest not call us when thou didst go to fight against Midian? Chiding bitterly and almost offering violence. {2} To whom he answered: What could I have done like to that, which you have done? Is not the cluster of Ephraim better than the vintages of Abiezer? {3} Into your hands hath our Lord delivered the Princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeb, what, could I have done the like as you have done? Which when he had spoken, their spirit rested, wherewith they did swell against him. {4} And when Gedeon was come to Jordan, he passed over it with the three hundred men that were with him: and for weariness, they could not pursue them that fled. {5} And he said to the men of Soccoth: Give, I beseech you, bread to the people that is with me, because they are very faint: that we may pursue Zebee and Salmana the kings of Midian. {6} The Princes of Soccoth answered: Peradventure the palms of the hands of Zebee and Salmana are in thy hand, & therefore thou requirest that we give bread to thy army. {7} To whom he said: When our Lord therefore shall have delivered Zebee and Salmana into my hands, I will tear your flesh with the thorns and briers of the desert. {8} And going up from thence, he came into Phanuel: & he spake to the men of that place the like things. To whom they also answered, as the men of Soccoth had answered. {9} He said therefore to them also: When I shall be returned conqueror in peace, I will destroy this tower. {10} But Zebee and Salmana rested with all their army. For fifteen thousand men were remaining of all the troops of the East peoples, and hundred and twenty thousand fighting men and those that drew sword, being slain. {11} And Gedeon going up by the way of them, that dwelt in tabernacles, on the East side of Nobe, & Jegbaa, struck the camp of the enemies which were secure, and suspected no mischance. {12} And Zebee and Salmana fled, whom Gedeon pursuing apprehended, all their host being put out of array. {13} And returning from the battle before sun rising, {14} he took a boy of the men of Soccoth: and he asked him the names of the Princes and ancients of Soccoth, and he described seventy seven men. {15} And he came to Soccoth, and said to them: Behold Zebee and Salmana, concerning whom you upbraided me, saying: Peradventure the hands of Zebee and Salmana are in thy hands, and therefore thou desirest that we give bread to the men that be weary, and are faint. {16} He took therefore the ancients of the city, and thorns and briers of the desert, and tore them with the same, and cut the men of Soccoth into pieces. {17} The tower also of Phanuel he overthrew, killing the inhabitants of the city. {18} And he said to Zebee and Salmana: What manner of men were they, whom you slew in Thabor? Who answered: Like unto thee, and one of them as it were the son of a king. {19} To whom he answered: They were my brethren, the sons of my mother. Our Lord liveth, that if you had saved them I would not kill you. {20} And he said to Jether his eldest son: Arise, and kill them. Who drew not out his sword: for he was afraid, because he was yet a boy. {21} And Zebee and Salmana said: Do thou rise and run upon us: because according to his age is the strength of a man. Gedeon rose up, and slew Zebee and Salmana: and he took the ornaments and bosses, wherewith the necks of kings' camels are wont to be adorned. {22} And all the men of Israel said to Gedeon: Rule thou over us, and thy son, and thy son's son: because thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian. {23} To whom he said: I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you, but our Lord shall rule over you. {24} And he said to them: One petition I request of you: Give me the earlets of your prey. For the Ismalites were accustomed to have golden earlets. {25} Who answered: we will give them most willingly. And spreading a mantle on the ground, they cast on it the earlets of the prey: {26} and the weight of the earlets that he desired, was a thousand five hundred sicles of gold, besides the ornaments, and jewels, and purple vesture, which the kings of Midian were wont to use, & besides the golden chains of the camels. {27} And Gedeon made thereof an Ephod, and put it in his city Ephra. And all Israel did fornicate in it, and it became a ruin to Gedeon and to all his house. {28} But Midian was humbled before the children of Israel, neither could they any more lift up their necks: but the land rested for forty years, wherein Gedeon ruled. {29} Jerobaal therefore the son of Joas went, and dwelt in his own house: {30} and he had seventy sons, which came out of his thigh, because he had many wives. {31} And his concubine, which he had in Sichem, bare him a son named Abimelec. {32} And Gedeon the son of Joas died in a good old age, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father in Ephra of the family of Ezri. {33} But after that Gedeon was dead, the children of Israel were averted, and did fornicate with Baalim. And they made a covenant with Baal, that he should be their God: {34} neither did they remember our Lord their God, which delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies round about: {35} neither did they mercy with the house of Jerobaal Gedeon, according to all the benefits that he had done to Israel.

Abimelech Gedeon's concubine's son killeth his brethren, 7. only the youngest escapeth, and by a parable expostulath the injury done to his father's house. 23. Shortly the Sichemites detest Abimelech. 26. Gaal conspireth against him, but is overcome. 50. Finally Abimelech is wounded to death by a woman.

{1} AND Abimelech the son of Jerobaal went into Sichem to his mother's brethren and spake to them, & to all the kindred of the house of his mother's father, saying: {2} Speak to all the men of Sichem: whether is better for you, that seventy men have dominion over you, all the sons of Jerobaal, or that one man have dominion over you? & withhold consider that I am your bone, and your flesh. {3} And his mother's brethren spake to him to all the men of Sichem all these words, & inclined their hearts after Abimelech, saying: He is our brother. {4} And they gave him seventy weight of silver out of the temple of Baalberit. Who hired therewith unto himself needy men and vagabonds, and they followed him. {5} And he came into his father's house in Ephra, and murdered his brethren the sons of Jerobaal, seventy men, upon one stone: & there remained Joatham the youngest son of Jerobaal, & was hid. {6} And all the men of Sichem assembled together all the families of the city of Mello: & they went and made Abimelech king, beside the oak that stood in Sichem. {7} Which being told to Joatham, he went, & stood in the top of mount Garizim: & lifting up his voice, he cried, & said: Hear me ye men of Sichem, so as God may hear you. {8} The trees went to anoint a king over them: & they said to the olive tree: Reign over us. {9} Which answered: Can I forsake my fatness, which both gods do use, and men, and come to be promoted among the trees? {10} And the trees said to the fig tree: Come, and take the Kingdom over us. {11} Which answered them: Can I forsake my sweetness, and my most sweet fruits, & go to be promoted among the other trees? {12} And the trees spake to the vine: Come, and reign over us. {13} Which answered them: Can I forsake my wine, that cheereth God and men, & be promoted among the other trees? {14} And the trees said to the rhamnus: Come, and reign over us. {15} Who answered them: If indeed you make me your king, Come, and rest under my shadow: but if you mean it not, let there fire issue forth of the rhamnus, & devour the cedars of Libanus. {16} Now therefore, if you have well, and without sin appointed Abimelech king over you, and have dealt well with Jerobaal, and with his house, & have requited him the like for his benefits, who fought for you, {17} & put his life in dangers, that he might deliver you from the hand of Madian, {18} who now are risen against my father's house, and have killed his sons seventy men upon one stone, & have made Abimelec the son of his handmaid king over the inhabitants of Sichem, because he is your brother: {19} If therefore you have dealt well, and without fault with Jerobaal, and his house, rejoice this day in Abimelech, & rejoice he in you. {20} But if unjustly, let there fire issue forth from him, and consume the inhabitants of Sichem, and town of Mello: and let there fire go forth from the men of Sichem, and from the town of Mello, & devour Abimelech. {21} Which things when he had said, he fled, and went into Bera: and dwelt there for fear of Abimelech his brother. {22} Abimelech therefore reigned over Israel three years. {23} And our Lord sent a very evil spirit between Abimelech and the inhabitants of Sichem: Who began to detest him, {24} & to lay the wickedness of the murdering of the seventy sons of Jerobaal, & the shedding of their blood upon Abimelech their brother, and upon the rest of the Princes of the Sichemites, that had holpen him. {25} And they set an ambushment against him on the top of the mountains: & whiles they tarried for his coming, they committed robberies, taking preys of them that passed by: and it was told Abimelech. {26} And Gaal the son of Obed came with his brethren, & passed into Sichem. At whose coming the inhabitants of Sichem taking courage, {27} issued forth into the fields, wasting the vineyards, & treading the grapes: and gathering companies of musicians went into the temple of their god, and in their banquets and cups cursed Abimelech. {28} Gaal the son of Obed crying: Who is Abimelech; and what is Sichem, that we should serve him? Is he not the son of Jerobaal, and hath made Zebul his servant prince over the men of Emor the father of Sichem? Why then shall we serve him? {29} would God that some man would give this people under my hand, that I might take Abimelech out of the way. And some said to Abimelech: Gather together a multitude of an army, and come. {30} For Zebul the Prince of the city, hearing the words of Gaal the son of Obed, was very wrath, {31} & sent messengers secretly to Abimelech, saying: Behold, Gaal the son of Obed is come into Sichem with his brethren, & raiseth the city against thee. {32} Arise therefore in the night with the people, that is with thee, and lie hid in the field: {33} and betimes in the morning at sun rising, set upon the city. And when he issueth forth against thee with his people, do to him what thou shalt be able. {34} Abimelech therefore arose with all his army in the night, and laid ambuscades near to Sichem in four places. {35} And Gaal the son of Obed went forth, & stood in the entrance of the gate of the city. And Abimelech rose, & all his army with him from the place of the ambuscades. {36} And when Gaal had seen the people, he said to Zebul: Behold a multitude cometh down from the mountains. To whom he answered: Thou seest the shadows of the mountains as it were heads of men, & with this error thou art deceived. {37} Again Gaal said: Behold there cometh down people from the navel of the land, & one troop cometh by the way that looketh to the oak. {38} To whom Zebul said: Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou didst speak? Who is Abimelech that we should serve him? Is not this the people, which thou didst despise? Go forth, and fight against him. {39} Gaal therefore went, the people of the Sichemites looking on, and fought against Abimelech, {40} who pursued him flying, and drive him into the city: and there were slain of his part many, unto the gate of the city. {41} And Abimelech sat in Ruma: but Zebul expelled Gaal and his companions out of the city, neither did he suffer them to abide in it. {42} Therefore the day following the people went forth into the field. Which being told to Abimelech, {43} he took his army, and divided it into three troops, setting ambuscades in the fields. And seeing that the people came out of the city, he arose, and set upon them {44} with his own troop, oppugning and besieging the city: and two troops scattered through the field pursue the adversaries. {45} Moreover Abimelech all the day oppugned the city: which he took, & killed the inhabitants thereof, and destroyed it, so that he sowed salt in it. {46} Which when they heard that dwelt in the tower of Sichem, they entered into the temple of their god Berith, where they had made a covenant with him, & thereof the place had taken his name, which was exceeding well fenced. {47} Abimelech also hearing that the men of the tower of Sichem were gathered together, {48} he went up into mount Selmon with all his people: and taking an axe, he cut off the bough of a tree, and laying it on his shoulder & carrying it, he said to his companions: That which you see me do, do ye out of hand. {49} They therefore cutting off boughs from the trees, every man as fast as he could, followed their captain. Who compassing the fort burnt it: and so it came to pass, that with the smoke and the fire a thousand persons were slain, men and women together, of the inhabitants of the tower of Sichem. {50} And Abimelech departing thence came to the town of Thebes, which compassing he besieged with his army. {51} And there was in the midst of the city an high tower, to the which were fled both men and women together, and all the Princes of the city, the gate being shut very strongly, and they standing upon the battlements of the tower by the bulwarks. {52} And Abimelech coming near the tower, fought manfully: & approaching to the door, endeavoured to put fire under it: {53} and behold one woman casting from above a piece of a millstone, dashed it against the head of Abimelech, and brake his brain. {54} Who called by and by his esquire, and said to him: Draw out thy sword, and strike me: lest perhaps it be said that I was slain of a woman. Who doing as he was commanded slew him. {55} And when he was dead, all that were with him of Israel returned into their seats: {56} and God repaid the evil, that Abimelech had done against his father, killing his seventy brethren. {57} The Sichemites were also rewarded for that which they had wrought, and the curse of Joatham the son of Jerobaal came upon them.

Thola ruleth in Israel twenty three years. 3. Jair twenty two. 6. The people fall again to idolatry, are afflicted by the Philistines and Ammonites. 10. They cry to God for help, who biddeth them call for help to the gods whom they have served. 16. But crying still to God, and throwing away their idols, he hath compassion of them.

{1} AFTER Abimelech there arose Ruler in Israel Thola the son of Phua the uncle of Abimelech, a man of Issachar, which dwelt in Samir of mount Ephraim: {2} and judged Israel three and twenty years, and died and was buried in Samir. {3} After him succeeded Jair the Galaadite, who judged Israel for two and twenty years, {4} having thirty sons sitting upon thirty ass colts, & Princes of thirty cities, which of his name were called Havoth Jair, that is, the towns of Jair, until this present day, in the Land of Galaad. {5} And Jair died, and was buried in the place, which is called Camon. {6} But the children of Israel joining new sins to their old, did evil in the sight of our Lord, & served the idols, Baalim and Astaroth, & the gods of Syria and of Sidon and of Moab and the children of Ammon and of the Philistines: and they left our Lord, and did not serve him. {7} Against whom our Lord being wrath, delivered them into the hands of the Philistines and of the children of Ammon. {8} And they were afflicted and sore oppressed for eighteen years, all that dwelt beyond Jordan in the Land of the Amorrhite, which is in Galaad: {9} in so much, that the children of Ammon passing over Jordan wasted Judas and Benjamin and Ephraim: and Israel was afflicted exceedingly. {10} And crying to our Lord, they said: We have sinned to thee, because we have forsaken our Lord God & have served Baalim. {11} To whom our Lord spake: Have not the Aegyptians and the Amorrhites, and the children of Ammon and the Philistines, {12} the Sidonians also and Amalech and Chanaan oppressed you, & you cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hands? {13} And yet you have forsaken me, and have worshipped strange gods: therefore I will not add to deliver you any more: {14} go and invoke the gods which you have chosen: let them deliver you in the time of distress. {15} And the children of Israel said to our Lord: We have sinned, render to us whatsoever pleaseth thee: only now deliver us. {16} In saying which things, they threw away out of their coasts all the idols of strange gods, and served our Lord God: who sorrowed for their miseries. {17} Therefore the children of Ammon crying together pitcht their tents in Galaad: against whom the children of Israel being assembled camped in Maspha. {18} And the Princes of Galaad said every one to their neighbours: Who of us shall first begin to fight against the children of Ammon, shall be the Duke of the people of Galaad.

Jephte rejected by his brethren, is entreated by the ancients of Galaad to return and fight for them against the Ammonites: 12. with whom he first pleadeth the cause of Israel by just reasons 26. and long prescription. But they persisting obstinate, he (30. inconsiderately vowed) 32. overthroweth them, 34. and sacrificeth his only daughter.

{1} THERE was at that time Jephte the Galaadite, a most valiant man & a warrior, {250} the son of a woman that was an harlot, who was born of Galaad. {2} And Galaad had a wife of whom he had sons: who after they were grown, cast out Jephte, saying: Thou canst not be heir in the house of our father, because thou art born of an other mother. {3} Whom he flying & avoiding, dwelt in the Land of Tob: and there were gathered to him needy men, & thievish, & followed him as their Prince. {4} In those days the children of Ammon fought against Israel: {5} who pressing sore upon them, the ancients of Galaad went to take Jephte out of the Land of Tob to help them: {6} & they said to him: Come & be our Prince, & fight against the children of Ammon. {7} To whom he answered: Are not you they that hated me, & cast me out of my father's house, and now are come to me forced by necessity. {8} And the Princes of Galaad said to Jephte: For this cause be we now come to thee, that thou go forth with us, & fight against the children of Ammon, and be the Captain of all that dwell in Galaad. {9} Jephte also said to them: If you be come to me sincerely, that I should fight for you against the children of Ammon, and if our Lord deliver them into my hands, shall I be your Prince? {10} Who answered him: Our Lord which heareth these things, himself is mediator and witness that we will do as we have promised. {11} Jephte therefore went with the Princes of Galaad, and all the people made him their Prince. And Jephte spake all his words before our Lord in Maspha. {12} And he sent messengers to the king of the children of Ammon, which should say in his person: What is between me and thee, that thou art come against me, to waste my Land? {13} To whom he answered: Because Israel took my land when he ascended out of Aegypt, from the coasts of Arnon unto Jaboc and Jordan: now therefore with peace restore the same to me. {14} By whom Jephte again sent word, and commanded them that they should say to the king of Ammon: {15} Thus saith Jephte: Israel did not take the Land of Moab, nor the Land of the children of Ammon: {16} but when they ascended out of Aegypt, he walked through the desert unto the Red sea, and came into Cades. {17} And he sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying: Suffer me that I may pass through the land. Who would not condescend to his requests. He sent also to the king of Moab, who also himself contemned to give passage. He abode therefore in Cades, {18} and compassed the Land of Edom at the side, and the land of Moab: & came against the East quarter of the Land of Moab, & camped beyond Arnon: neither would he enter the bounds of Moab: for Arnon is the border of the Land of Moab. {19} Israel therefore sent messengers to Sehon the king of the Amorrhites, who dwelt in Hesebon, & they said to him: Suffer me to pass through thy land unto the river. {20} Who also himself despising the words of Israel, suffered him not to pass through his borders: but gathering an infinite multitude went forth against him into Jasa, & resisted strongly. {21} And our Lord delivered him into the hands of Israel with all his army, & he struck him, & possessed all the Land of the Amorrhite the inhabiter of that country, {22} and all the coasts thereof from Arnon unto Jaboc, and from the wilderness unto Jordan. {23} Our Lord therefore the God of Israel subverted the Amorrhite, his people of Israel fighting against him, and wilt thou now possess his land? {24} Are not those things which Chamos thy god possessed, due to thee by right? But the things that our Lord God hath obtained conqueror, shall come to our possession: {25} unless perhaps thou be better than Balac the son of Sephor the king of Moab: or canst shew, that he wrangled against Israel, and fought against him, {26} when he dwelt in Hesebon, & the little towns thereof, & in Aroer, & the towns thereof, or in all the cities near Jordan, for three hundred years. Wherefore have you so long attempted nothing for reclaim? {27} Therefore I do not sin against thee, but thou doest evil against me, denouncing me unjust wars. Our Lord be judge the arbiter of this day between Israel, and between the children of Ammon. {28} And the king of the children of Ammon would not harken to the words of Jephte, which he sent him by the messengers. {29} Therefore the spirit of our Lord came upon Jephte, and circuiting Galaad, and Manasses, Maspha also of Galaad, and thence passing to the children of Ammon, {30} he vowed a vow to our Lord, saying: If thou wilt deliver the children of Ammon into my hands, {31} whosoever shalt first come forth out of the doors of my house, and shall meet me returning with peace from the children of Ammon, him will I offer an holocaust to our Lord. {32} And Jephte passed to the children of Ammon, to fight against them: whom our Lord delivered into his hands. {33} And he struck from Aroer till thou come to Mennith, twenty cities, and as far as Abel, which is set with vineyards, with a very great plague. And the children of Ammon were humbled by the children of Israel. {34}

But Jephete returning into Maspha to his house, his only begotten daughter met him with timbrels and dances. For he had not other children. {35} Whom when he saw, he rent his garments, and said: Woe is me my daughter, thou hast deceived me, and thy self art deceived: for I have opened my mouth to our Lord, and I can do no other thing. {36} To whom she answered: My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth to our Lord, do unto me whatsoever thou hast promised, the revenge & victory of thine enemies being granted to thee. {37} And she said to her father: This only grant me which I desire: Suffer me that two months I may go about the mountains, & bewail my virginity with my fellows. {38} To whom he answered: Go. And he dismissed her two months. And when she was gone with her fellows and companions, she mourned her virginity in the mountains. {39} And the two months being expired, she returned to her father, and he did to her as he had vowed, who knew not man. Thence-forth a fashion in Israel, and a custom was kept: {40} that after the compass of a year the daughters of Israel assemble together, and mourn the daughter of Jephete the Galaadite four days.

Ephraites rising against Jephete, forty two thousand of them are slain. 8. Abesan is Judge. 11. After him Ahialon. 13. Then Abdon.

{1} BUT behold in Ephraim there arose a sedition. For they passing against the North, said to Jephete: Going to fight against the children of Ammon, why wouldst thou not call us, that we might go with thee? Therefore we will burn thy house. {2} To whom he answered: I and my people were at great strife against the children of Ammon: & I called you, that you should aid me, and you would not do it. {3} Which I seeing put my life in mine own hands, and passed to the children of Ammon, and our Lord delivered them into my hands. What have I deserved, that you rise against me in battle. {4} Therefore all the men of Galaad being called to him, he fought against Ephraim: and the men of Galaad struck Ephraim, because he had said: Galaad is a fugitive of Ephraim, & dwelleth in the midst of Ephraim & Manasses. {5} And the Galaadites took the fords of Jordan, by the which Ephraim was to return. And when there had come to the same, one of the number of Ephraim, flying, and had said: I beseech you let me pass: The Galaadites said to him: Art thou not an Ephraite? Who saying: I am not: {6} they asked him: Say then Schibboleth, which is interpreted an ear of corn. Who answered, Sibboleth, not being able by the same letter to express, and ear of corn. And immediately being apprehended they killed him in the very passage of Jordan. And there fell at that time of Ephraim two and forty thousand. {7} Therefore Jephete the Galaadite judged Israel six years: and he died, and was buried in his city of Galaad. {8} After him Abesan of Bethlehem judged Israel: {9} who had thirty sons, and as many daughters, which he sending abroad, gave to husbands, and took wives for his sons of the same number, bringing them into his house. Who judged Israel seven years: {10} and died and was buried in Bethlehem. {11} To whom succeeded Ahialon a Zabulonite: and he judged Israel ten years: {12} and he died and was buried in Zabulon. {13} After him, Abdon judged Israel, the son of Illel a Pharonite: {14} who had forty sons, and of them thirty nephews, mounting upon seventy ass colts, and he judged Israel eight years: {15} and he died, and was buried in Pharon of the Land of Ephraim, in the mount of Amalec.

The people fall again to idolatry & are afflicted by the Philistines. 3. An Angel fortelleth Manue his wife, that she shall have a son, & that he shall be a Nazareite from his birth. 11. Confirmeth the same to Manue. 16. They offer sacrifice to God. 24. The child is born, called Samson, and blessed of God.

years. {2} And there was a certain man of Saraa, and of the stock of Dan, named Manue, having a wife barren. {3} To whom an Angel of our Lord appeared, and said to her: Thou art barren and without children: but thou shalt conceive & bear a son: {4} beware therefore that thou drink not wine & sicer, nor eat any unclean thing: {5} because thou shalt conceive & bear a son, whose head the razor shall not touch: for he shall be a Nazareite of God, from his infancy, and from his mother's womb, and he shall begin to deliver Israel from the hands of the Philistines. {6} Who when she was come to her husband, said to him: A man of God came to me, having an Angelical countenance, exceeding terrible. Whom when I had asked, who he was, and whence he came, and by what name he was called, he would not tell me: {7} but this is answered: Behold thou shalt conceive and bear a son: beware thou drink not wine nor sicer, and that thou eat not any unclean thing: for the child shall be the Nazarite of God from his infancy, and from his mother's womb until the day of his death. {8} Manue therefore prayed to our Lord, and said: I beseech thee, o Lord, that the man of God, whom thou didst send, may come again, and teach us what we ought to do concerning the child that shall be born. {9} And our Lord heard Manue praying, and the Angel of our Lord appeared again to his wife sitting in the field, but Manue her husband was not with her. Who when she had seen the Angel, {10} hastened, and ran to her husband: and she told him, saying: Behold the man hath appeared to me, whom I saw before. {11} Who rose, and followed his wife: and coming to the man, said to him: Art thou he that didst speak to the woman? And he answered: I am. {12} To whom Manue, when, said he, thy word shall be fulfilled, what wilt thou that the child do? Or from what shall he keep himself? {13} And the Angel of our Lord said to Manue: From all things, which I have spoken to thy wife, let him refrain himself: {14} and whatsoever growth of the vineyard, let him not eat: wine and sicer let him not drink, let him not eat any unclean thing: and whatsoever I have commanded her, let him fulfill and keep. {15} And Manue said to the Angel of our Lord: I beseech thee that thou condescend to my petitions, and let us make to thee a kid of goats. {16} to whom the Angel answered: If thou constrain me, I will not eat thy bread: but if thou wilt make holocaust, offer it to our Lord. And Manue knew not that it was an Angel of our Lord. {17} And he said to him: What is thy name, that, if thy word shall be fulfilled, we may honour thee? {18} To whom he answered: Why asketh thou my name, which is marvelous? {19} Manue therefore took a kid of the goats: and the libaments, & put them upon a rock, offering to our Lord, who doth marvelous things: & he and his wife looked on. {20} And when the flame of the altar ascended into heaven, the Angel of our Lord ascended together in the flame. Which when Manue and his wife had seen, they fell flat on the ground, {21} & the Angel of our Lord appeared to them no more. And forthwith Manue understood that it was an Angel of our Lord, {22} and he said to his wife: Dying we shall die, because we have seen God. {23} To whom his wife answered: If our Lord would have killed us, he would not have taken of our hands holocausts and libaments, neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor have told us these things that are to come. {24} She therefore bare a son, and called his name Samson. And the child grew, and our Lord blessed him. {25} And the Spirit of our Lord began to be with him in the camp of Dan betwixt Saraa and Esthaol.

Samson desirous to marry a Philistinian woman, 5. by the way killeth a lion. 8. In whose mouth after few days, finding honey, 12. he proposeth thereof a riddle to the Philistines for a wager: 15. which revealing to his wife, she telleth it to his adversaries. 19. He killeth and spoileth thirty men, so payeth the wager: and his wife taketh an other man.

{1} SAMSON therefore went down into Thamnatha, and seeing there a woman of the daughters of the Philistines, {2} he went up and told his father and his mother, saying: I saw a woman in Thamnatha of the daughters of the Philisthiims: which I beseech you take for me to wife. {3} To whom his father and mother said: Is there not a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, and in all my people, that thou wilt take a wife of the Philisthiims, which are uncircumcised? And Samson said to his father: Take this for me: because she hath pleased mine eyes. {4} But his parents knew not that the thing was done of our Lord, & he sought an occasion against the Philisthiims, for at that time the Philisthiims had dominion over Israel. {5} Samson therefore went down with his father and mother into Thamnatha. And when they were come to the vineyards of the town, there appeared a lion's whelp cruel, and roaring, and met him. {6} And the Spirit of our Lord came upon Samson, and he tore the lion, as if he should tear a kid into pieces, having nothing at all in his hand: and this thing he would not tell to his father and mother. {7} And he went down and spake to the woman, that had pleased his eyes. {8} And after some days returning to take her, he went aside to see the carcass of the lion, and behold there was a swarm of bees in the mouth of the lion, and a honey comb. {9} Which when he had taken in his hands, he did eat in the way: and coming to his father and mother, he gave them part, who also themselves did eat: neither would he for all that, tell them, that he had taken the honey from the body of the lion. {10} His father therefore went down to the woman, and made his son Samson a feast, for so young men were accustomed to do. {11} When the citizens therefore of that place had seen him, they gave him thirty companions to be with him. {12} To whom Samson spake: I will propose you a riddle, which if you shall solve me within the seven days of the feast, I will give you thirty sindons, and as many coats: {13} but if you shall not be able to solve it, you shall give me thirty sindons, and coats of the same number. Who answered him: Propound the riddle, that we may hear it. {14} And he said to them: Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong issued forth sweetness. Neither could they for three days solve the proposition. {15} And when the seventh day was come, they said to the wife of Samson: Speak to thy husband, and use persuasion to him, that he tell thee what the riddle signifieth. Which thing if thou wilt not do, we will burn thee, and thy father's house: have you therefore called us to the bridal that you might spoil us? {16} Who shed tears before Samson, and complained saying: Thou hastest me, and lovest me not: therefore the problem, which thou hast propounded to the sons of my people, thou wilt not expound to me. But he answered: I would not tell it to my father and mother, and can I tell it to thee? {17} The seven days therefore of the feast she wept before him: and at the length the seventh day for that she molested him he expounded it. Who immediately told her country men. {18} And they told it him the seventh day before the going down of the sun: What is sweeter than honey, and what, stronger than a lion? Who said to them: If you had not ploughed with my heifer, you had not found out my proposition. {19} The Spirit therefore of our Lord came upon him, {254} and he went down to Ascalon, and struck there thirty men, whose garments being taken away he gave to them, that had solved the problem. And being exceeding wrath he went up into his father's house: {20} but his wife took a husband one of his friends and bridal companions.

Samson tying firebands to foxes' tails burneth the Philisthiim's corn. 6. They burn his wife and her father. 8. He beateth them and hideth himself. 10. His own countrymen to get peace with the Philisthiims, take and bind him, so meaning to deliver him. 14. But he breaketh the cords, and with the jaw bone of an ass killeth a thousand of his enemies. 18. Being exceeding dry, is refreshed with water, from the tooth of the same jaw.

{1} AND after a certain time, when the days of wheat harvest were at hand, Samson came, meaning to visit his wife, and he brought her a kid of goats. And when he would enter into her chamber as he was wont, her father prohibited him, saying: {2} I thought that thou hadst hated her, and therefore I delivered her to thy friend: but she hath a sister, which is younger & fairer than she, let this be thy wife in stead of her. {3} To whom Samson answered: From this day there shall be no fault in me against the Philisthiims: for I will do you evils. {4} And he went, and caught three hundred foxes, & he coupled them tail to tail, and tied firebrands in the midst: {5} which kindling with fire, he let them go, that they might run abroad hither and thither. Who immediately went on into the corn of the Philisthiims. Which being set on fire, both the corn now carried together, and that which yet stood in the stalk, was all burnt, in so much that the flame consumed the vineyards also & the olivets. {6} And the Philisthiims said: Who hath done this thing? To whom it was said: Samson the son in law of the Thammathite: because he took his wife, and gave her to an other, he hath wrought these things. And the Philisthiims went up, and burnt both the woman and her father. {7} To whom Samson said: Although you have done these things, notwithstanding yet will I require revenge of you, & then I will rest. {8} And he struck them with a great plague, so that astonished they laid the calf of the leg upon the thigh. And going down he dwelt in the cave of the rock Etam. {9} Therefore the Philisthiims going up into the Land of Juda camped in the place, which afterward was called Lechi, that is, the jaw bone, where their army was spread abroad. {10} And they of the tribe of Juda said to them: Why are you come up against us? Who answered: That we may bind Samson, we are come, & may repay him the things that he hath wrought against us. {11} There went down therefore three thousand men of Juda, to the cave of the flint Etam, & said to Samson: knowest not thou that the Philisthiims reign over us? Why wouldst thou do this thing? To whom he said. As they did to me so have I done to them. {12} To bind thee, quoth they, we are come, and to deliver thee into the hands of the Philisthiims. To whom Samson: Swear, quoth he, and promised me that you kill me not. {13} They said: We will not kill thee, but will deliver thee bound. And they bound him with two new cords, and took him from the rock Etam. {14} Who when he was come to the place of the Jaw-bone and the Philisthiims shouting were come against him, the Spirit of our Lord fell upon him: and as flax is wont to be consumed at the savour of fire, so the bands wherewith he was bound were dissipated and loosed. {15} And finding a jaw bone, to wit, the jaw bone of an ass, which lay there, catching it he slew therewith a thousand men, {16} and said: In the jaw bone of an ass, in the jaw of the colt of the asses have I destroyed them, and have struck a thousand men. {17} And when he had ended these words singing, he threw the jaw bone out of his hand, and called the name of that place Ramathlechi, which is interpreted the lifting up of the jaw-bone. {18} And being very thirsty he cried to our Lord, & said: Thou hast given in the hand of thy servant this very great salvation and victory: and behold I die for thirst, and shall fall into the hands of the uncircumcised. {19} Our Lord therefore opened a great tooth in the jaw of the ass, & there issued out of it waters. Which being drunk, he refreshed his spirit, & received strength again. Therefore the name of that place was called: The fountain of him that invocated from the jawbone, until this present day. {20} And he judged Israel in the days of the Philisthiims twenty years.

Samson environed in a city taketh away the gates, and carrieth them on his shoulders into a mountain. 4. Is at last deceived by Dalila, 21. his eyes put out, and scornfully abused. 26. But finally God restoring his strength, he striking two pillars, the house falleth, and with himself killeth three thousand Philisthiims.

{1} HE went also into Gaza, and saw there a woman that was an harlot, and went in unto her. {2} Which when the Philisthiims had heard, and it was bruited among them, that Samson was entered into the city, they compassed him, keepers being set in the gate of the city: & there all the night waiting with silence, that in the morning they might kill him going out. {3} But Samson slept until midnight, and then arising he took both the leaves of the gates, with their posts and lock, and laying them on his shoulders, carried them to the top of the mountain, which looketh toward Hebron. {4} After these things he loved a woman, which dwelt in Valley Sorec, and she was called Dalila. {5} And the Princes of the Philisthiims came to her, and said: Deceive him, and learn of him, wherein he hath so great strength, and how we may be able to overcome him, and being bound to afflict him: which if thou shalt do, we will give thee every one a thousand and an hundred pieces of silver. {6} Dalila therefore spake to Samson: Tell me, I beseech thee, wherein thy greatest strength is, and what it is wherewith being bound thou canst not break forth. {7} To whom Samson answered: If I shall be bound with seven cords of sinews not yet dry, and moist as yet, I shall be weak as other men. {8} And the Princes of the Philisthiims brought unto her seven cords, as he had said: with the which she bound him, {9} ambushments lying secretly in wait near her, and in the chamber expecting the end of the thing, and she cried to him: The Philisthiims upon thee Samson. Who brake the bands, as if a man should break a thread of tow twined with spittle, when it hath taken the savour of fire: and it was not known wherein his strength was. {10} And Dalila said to him: Behold thou hast deluded me, and hast spoken false: now at the least tell me wherewith thou mayest be bound. {11} To whom he answered: If I shall be bound with new cords, that were never occupied, I shall be weak and like to other men. {12} With the which Dalila again bound him, and cried: The Philisthiims upon thee Samson, ambushments being prepared in the chamber. Who did so break the bands as threads of linen cloth. {13} And Dalila said to him again: How long deceivest thou me, and speakest false? Shew wherewith thou mayest be bound. To whom Samson answered: If thou plat seven hairs of my head with a hair lace, & fasten a nail tied round about with them in the ground, I shall be weak. {14} Which when Dalila had done, she said to him: The Philisthiims upon thee Samson. Who rising up from sleep drew out the nail with the hairs and the hair lace. {15} And Dalila said to him: How doest thou say that thou lovest me, whereas thy mind is not with me? These three times thou hast lied to me, and wouldest not tell wherein thy greatest strength is. {16} And when she molested him, and continually hung upon him for many days, not giving him space to rest, his soul fainted, and was wearied even unto death. {17} Then opening the truth of the thing, he said to her: There never came iron upon my head, because I am a Nazarite, that is to say, consecrated to God from my mother's womb: if my head shall be shaven, my strength shall depart from me, and I shall fail, and shall be as other men. {18} And she seeing that he had confessed to her all his mind, sent to the princes of the Philisthiims and willed them: Come up yet once more, for now he hath opened his heart to me. Who went up taking with them the money which they had promised. {19} But she made him to sleep upon her knees, and to lay his head in her bosom. And she called a barber, and shaved his seven hairs, and began to drive him away, and thrust him from her: for immediately the strength departed from him: {20} and she said: The Philisthiims upon thee Samson. Who arising from sleep, said in his mind: I will go forth as I did before, and will shake my self, not knowing that our Lord was departed from him. {21} Whom when the Philisthiims had apprehended, forthwith they plucked forth his eyes, and led him to Gaza bound with chains, and being shut up in prison they made him grind. {22} And now his hairs had begun to grow again, {23} and the Princes of the Philisthiims assembled in one, that they might immolate magnifical hosts to Dagon their god, and might feast, saying: Our god hath delivered our enemy Samson into our hands. {24} Which thing the people also seeing, praised their god, & said the same things: Our god hath delivered our adversary into our hands, who destroyed our country, and killed very many. {25} And rejoicing throughout their banquets, when they had now taken their good cheer, they commanded that Samson should be called, and should play before them. Who being brought out of prison played before them, and they made him to stand between two pillars. {26} Who said to the servant that governed his steps:

Suffer me to touch the pillars, on which all the house stayeth, and let me lean upon them, and rest a little. {27} And the house was full of men and women, and there were all the Princes of the Philisthiims, also from the roof and higher part, about three thousand of both sex beholding Samson playing. {28} But he invoking our Lord, said: Lord God remember me, and restore now to me mine old strength my God, that I may revenge me of mine enemies, and for the loss of two eyes may receive one revenge. {29} And taking both the pillars, on which the house rested, and holding the one in his right hand, and the other in his left, {30} he said: Let me die with the Philisthiims. And the pillars being strongly shaken, the house fell upon all the Princes, and the rest of the multitude that was there: and he killed many, more dying, than before he had killed living. {31} And his brethren going down and all his kindred, they took his body, and buried it betwixt Saraa and Esthaol in the Sepulchre of his father Manue. And he judged Israel twenty years.

Michas and his mother cause a graven and molten idol to be made of silver. 5. He maketh one of his sons Priest for the idol, 10. and for the same purpose hireth also a Levite.

{1} THERE was at that time a certain man of mount Ephraim named Michas, said to his mother: The thousand and {2} who hundred silver pieces, which thou hadst separated to thy self, and concerning the which thou didst swear in my hearing, behold I have, and they are with me. To whom she said: Blessed be my son to the Lord. {3} He therefore rendered them to his mother, who had said to him: I have consecrated and vowed this silver to the Lord, that my son may receive it of my hand, & make a graven and a molten (god) & now I deliver that to thee. {4} He rendered them therefore to his mother: who took two hundred silver pieces and gave them to the silversmith, that he might make of them a graven and a molten (god) which was in the house of Michas. {5} Who separated also therein a little house of the god, and made an Ephod, and Theraphim, that is to say, a priestly vestment, and idols: and he filled the hand of one of his sons, and he became his priest. {6} In those days there was not a king in Israel, but every one did that which seemed right to himself. {7} There was also an other young man of Bethlehem Juda, of the kindred thereof: & he was a Levite, and dwelt there. {8} And going forth out of the city of Bethlehem, he would sojourn wheresoever he should find it commodious for him. And when he was come into mount Ephraim, making his journey, and had turned aside a little into the house of Michas, {9} he was demanded of him whence he came. Who answered: I am a Levite of Bethlehem Juda, and I go to dwell where I shall be able, and shall perceive it to be profitable for me. {10} And Michas said: Abide with me, and be to me a father and a priest, and I will give thee every year ten silver pieces, and a double livery, and the things that be necessary for victual. {11} He was content, and abode with the man, and was unto him as one of his sons. {12} And Michas filled his hand, and had the young man for a Priest with him, saying: {13} Now I know that God will do me good having a Priest of the Levitical kind.

First sending spies to discover, {11}. six hundred armed men of the tribe of Dan go to seek possessions. 14. By the way they take the idol and idolatrical Priest from Michas, 27. surprise the town of Lais, 30. and there set up idolatry.

{1} IN those days there was not a king in Israel, and the tribe of Dan sought possession for it-self, that it might dwell therein: for until that day it had not received a lot among the other tribes. {2} Therefore the children of Dan sent five men of their stock and family most valiant from Saraa and Esthaol, that they might view the land, and diligently behold it, and they said to them: Go, and consider the land. Who going forward when they were come into mount Ephraim, and had entered into the house of Michas, they rested there: {3} and knowing the voice of the young man the Levite, and using his lodging, they said to him: Who brought thee hither? What doest thou here? For what cause wouldest thou come hither? {4} Who answered them: These, and these things hath Michas done to me, & hath hired me for wages to be his Priest. {5} And they desired him that he would consult the Lord, that they might know whether they should go on a prosperous journey, and the thing should have effect. {6} Who answered them: Go in peace: The Lord regardeth your way, and the journey that you go. {7} The five men therefore going came to Lais, & they saw the people dwelling in it without any fear, according to the custom of the Sidonians, secure and quiet, no man at all resisting them, & of great riches, & separated far from Sidon & from all men. {8} And returning to their brethren in Saraa & Esthaol, and asking what they had done, they answered them: {9} Arise, & let us go up to them: for we have seen the Land exceeding rich & plentiful: neglect not, slack not: let us go, & possess it, it will be no labour. {10} We shall enter unto them being secure, into a most large country, & our Lord will deliver to us the place, wherein is penury of nothing of those things that grow on the earth. {11} There departed therefore from the kindred of Dan, that is to say, from Saraa and Esthaol six hundred men, furnished with warlike armour, {12} and going up they tarried in Cariathiarim of Juda: which place from that time took the name of the Tents of Dan, and it is at the back of Cariathiarim: {13} Thence they passed into mount Ephraim. And when they were come to the house of Michas, {14} the five men, that before had been sent to view the Land of Lais, said to the rest of their brethren: You know that in these houses there is an Ephod, and Theraphim, and a graven, and molten god: See what pleaseth you. {15} And when they had turned a little aside, they entered into the house of the young man the Levite, which was in the house of Michas: and saluted him with peaceable words. {16} And the six hundred men so as they were armed, stood before the door. {17} But they, that were entered the house of the young man, endeavoured to take away the graven, the Ephod, and the idols, and molten god, and the priest stood before the door, the six hundred most valiant men expecting not far off. {18} They therefore that were entered took the graven, the Ephod, the theraphim and molten god. To whom the priest said: What do you? {19} To whom they answered: Hold thy peace, and put thy finger upon thy mouth and come with us, that we may have thee for a father, and a Priest. Whether is better for thee, that thou be a Priest in the house of one man, or in one tribe and family in Israel? {20} Which when he had heard, he agreed to their words, and took the Ephod, and idols, and graven god, & departed with them. {21} Who when they went forward, & had made the children and the cattle to go before them, and all that was precious, {22} and were now far from the house of Michas, the men that dwelt in the house of Michas crying out together followed, {23} and at their back began to shout. Who looking back, said to Michas: What meanest thou? Why dost thou cry? {24} Who answered: My gods, which I made me, you have taken away, & the Priest, and all that I have, and do you say: What aileth thee? {25} And the children of Dan said to him: Beware thou speak no more unto us, and there come unto thee men provoked in mind, and thou with all thy house perish. {26} And so they went on their journey begun. But Michas seeing that they were stronger than he, returned into his house. {27} And the six hundred men took the Priest, and the things which we spake of before, and came into Lais to a people that was quiet and secure, and struck them in the edge of the sword: and the city they delivered to fire, {28} no man at all bringing them succour, for that they dwelt far from Sidon, and had with no men any society and affairs. And the city was situated in the country of Rohob: which building again they dwelt in it, {29} calling the name of the city Dan, according to the name of their father, whom Israel had begotten, which before was called Lais. {30} And they set up to themselves the graven idol, and Jonathan the son of Gersam the son of Moyses, and his sons Priests in the tribe of Dan, until the day of their captivity. {31} And the idol of Michas remained with them all the time that the house of God was in Silo. In those days there was not a king in Israel.

A Levite bringing homeward his reconciled wife, 15. at Gabaa in the tribe of Benjamin hardly getteth lodging. 25. His wife is there villainously abused by wicked men, and in the morning found dead. 29. Whereupon her husband cutteth her body, and sendeth pieces to every tribe of Israel, requiring them to revenge the wicked fact.

{1} THERE was a certain man a Levite, dwelling on the side of mount Ephraim, who took a wife of Bethlehem Juda: {2} which left him, and returned unto her father's house into Bethlehem, & abode with him four months. {3} And her husband followed her, willing to be reconciled unto her, & to speak her fair, & to bring her back with him, having in his company a servant and two asses: who received him, & brought him into her father's house. Which when his father in law had heard, and had seen him, he met him joyful. {4} and embraced the man. And the son in law tarried in the house of his father in law three days, eating with him and drinking familiarly. {5} But the fourth day arising before day, he would depart. Whom his father in law held, and said to him: Taste first a little bread, & strengthen thy stomach, and so thou shalt depart. {6} And they sat together, & did eat & drink. And the father of the young woman said to his son in law: I beseech thee that thou tarry here to day, and let us make merry together. {7} But he rising up, began as if he would depart. And nevertheless with much ado his father in law stayed him, and made him to tarry with him. {8} But when morning was come, the Levite prepared to go his journey. To whom his father in law again: I beseech thee, quoth he, that thou take a little meat, and making thy self strong, till the day be farther spent, afterward thou mayest depart. They did eat therefore together. {9} And the young man arose, that he might set forward with his wife and his servant. To whom his father in law spake again: Consider that the day is more declining to the west, and draweth nigh to evening: tarry with me to day also, and spend the day in mirth, and to morrow thou shalt depart that thou mayest go into thy house. {10} His son in law would not condescend to his words: but forthwith went forward, and came over against Jebus, which by an other name is called Jerusalem, leading with him two asses laden, and his concubine. {11} And now they were come nigh to Jebus & the day changed into night: & the servant said to his master: Come, I beseech thee, let us turn into the city of the Jebusites, and tarry in it. {12} To whom his master answered: I will not enter into the town of a strange nation, which is not of the children of Israel but I will pass as far as Gabaa: {13} and when I shall come thither, we will lodge in it, or at the least in the city of Rama {14} They passed therefore by Jebus, and went on their journey begun, and the sun went down to them beside Gabaa, which is in the tribe of Benjamin: {15} and they turned into it, that they might lodge there. Whither when they were entered, they sat in the street of the city, and no man would receive them to lodge. {16} And behold there appeared an old man, returning out of the field and from his work in the evening, who himself also was of mount Ephraim, and dwelt as a stranger in Gabaa; but the men of that country were the children of Jemini. {17} And lifting up his eyes, the old man saw the man sitting with his fardels in that street of the city, and said to him: Whence comest thou? And whither goest thou? {18} Who answered him: We departed from Bethlehem Juda, and we go to our place, which is on the side of mount Ephraim, from whence we went into Bethlehem: and now we go to the house of God, and none will receive us under his roof, {19} having straw and hay for provender of the asses, and bread and wine for the use of my self and of thy handmaid, and of the servant that is with me: we lack nothing but lodging. {20} To whom the old man answered: Peace be with thee, I will give all things that are necessary: only, I beseech thee, tarry not in the street. {21} And he brought him into his house, and gave provender to his asses: and after they had washed their feet, he received them to a banquet. {22} They making merry, and after the labour of their journey refreshing their body with meat & drink, there came men of that city, the children of Belial (that is to say, without yoke) and besetting the old man's house, began to knock at the doors, crying to the master of the house, & saying: Bring forth the man, that entered into thy house, that we may abuse him. {23} And the old man went out to them, and said: Do not so brethren, do not this evil: because this man is entered to my lodging, and cease from this folly: {24} I have a daughter that is a virgin, & this man hath a concubine, I will bring them forth to you, that you may humble them, and fulfill your lust: only, I beseech you, work not this wickedness against nature on the man. {25} They would not agree to his words. Which the man seeing, he brought forth his concubine to them, and he delivered her to them to be illuded: whom when they had abused all the night, they let her go in the morning. {26} But the woman, when the darkness departed, came to the door of the house, where her Lord lodged, & there fell down. {27} Morning being come, the man arose, & opened the door, that he might finish his journey begun: & behold his concubine lay before the door, her hands spread on the threshold. {28} To whom he, thinking that she took her rest, spake: Arise, and let us walk, Who answering nothing, perceiving that she was dead, he took her, & laid her upon his ass, & returned into his house. {29} Which when he was entered unto, he took a sword, and cutting the carcass of his wife with her bones into twelve parts and pieces, he sent them into all the borders of Israel. {30} Which when every one had seen, they cried together: There was never such a thing done in Israel from that day, when our fathers ascended out of Aegypt, until this present time: give sentence, and decree in common what is needful to be done.

[All the other tribes fighting against Benjamin, 13, because they will not punish the malefactors, 21, have the worse, 25, also the second time. 29, But the third time the Benjamites are all slain saving six hundred men.]

{1} THEREFORE all the children of Israel went forth, and were gathered together, as it were one man, from Dan to Bersabee, and the Land of Galaad, to our Lord in Maspha: {2} and all the corners of the people, and all the tribes of Israel assembled into the Church of the people of God four hundred thousand footmen warriors. {3} (Neither were the children of Benjamin ignorant that the children of Israel were come up into Maspha.) And the Levite the husband of the woman that was killed being asked, how so great wickedness had been committed, {4} answered: I came into Gabaa of Benjamin with my wife, & there I took my lodging: {5} & behold the men of that city by night beset the house wherein I tarried, meaning to kill me, and vexing my wife with incredible fury of lust, finally she died. {6} Whom being taken I did cut into pieces, and sent the parts into all the borders of your possession: because never was there so heinous an offense, and so great an abomination done in Israel. {7} You are all present the children of Israel, determine what you ought to do. {8} And all the people standing, answered as it were by the word of one man: we will not depart into our tabernacles, neither shall any man enter into his house: {9} but this will we do in common against Gabaa. {10} Let ten men be chosen of an hundred out of all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand, to bring victuals for the army, and that we may fight against Gabaa of Benjamin, and render to it for the wicked fact, which it deserved. {11} And all Israel assembled to the city, as it were one man with one mind, and one counsel: {12} and they sent messengers to all the tribe of Benjamin, which should say: Why is there so great abomination found in you? {13} Deliver the men of Gabaa, that have committed this heinous fact, that they may die, and the evil may be taken away out of Israel. Who would not hear the commandment of their brethren the children of Israel: {14} but out of all cities, which were of their lot, they assembled into Gabaa, to aid them, and to fight against all the people of Israel. {15} And there were found five and twenty thousand of Benjamin of them that drew sword, beside the inhabitants of Gabaa, {16} which were seven hundred most valiant men, so fighting with the left hand as with the right: and so directly casting stones with slings, that they could strike a hair also, and the stroke of the stone should not be carried awry on either part. {17} Of the men of Israel also, beside the children of Benjamin, were found four hundred thousand of them that drew swords, and were prepared to fight. {18} Who rising came into the house of God, that is, into Silo: and they consulted God, and said: Who shall be in our army General of the battle against the children of Benjamin? To whom our Lord answered: Let Judas be your captain. {19} And forthwith the children of Israel arising in the morning camped beside Gabaa: {20} and thence proceeding to fight against Benjamin, began to assault the city. {21} And the children of Benjamin issuing out of Gabaa, slew of the children of Israel that day two and twenty thousand men. {22} Again Israel having confidence in their strength and number, set the army in array in the same place, wherein they had fought before: {23} yet so that they did first go up and weep before our Lord until night: and consulted him, and said: Shall I proceed any more to fight against the children of Benjamin my brethren, or not? To whom he answered: Go up to them, and enter battle. {24} And when the children of Israel the next day had proceeded against the children of Benjamin to battle, {25} the children of Benjamin brake forth out of the gates of Gabaa: and meeting them they raged with so great a slaughter against them, that they overthrew eighteen thousand men that drew sword. {26} For the which thing all the children of Israel came into the house of God, and sitting wept before our Lord: and they fasted that day until evening, and offered to him holocausts, and pacific victims, {27} and asked him concerning their state. At that time the ark of the covenant of our Lord was there, {28} and Phinees the son of Eleazarus the son of Aaron provost of the house. They therefore consulted our Lord, and said: shall we go forth any more to fight against the children of Benjamin our brethren, or rest? To whom our Lord said: Go up, for to morrow I will deliver them into your hands. {29} And the children of Israel set ambushments round about the city of Gabaa: {30} & the third time, as once & twice, they brought forth their army against Benjamin. {31} But the children of Benjamin also issued forth boldly out of the city, & pursued a long way the adversaries flying, so that they wounded of them, as the first day & the second, & slew them turning their backs by two ways, whereof the one went into Bethel, & the other into Gabaa, and overthrew about thirty men: {32} for they thought to kill them after their accustomed manner. Who feigning artificially as though they fled, took advise to draw them away from the city, & as it were flying to bring them to the paths aforesaid. {33} Therefore all the children of Israel rising out of their seats, set their army in battle array, in the place which is called Baalhamar. The ambushments also, which were about the city, began by little & little to open themselves, {34} & to proceed from the West part of the city. Yea and other ten thousand men of all Israel provoked the inhabitants of the city to skirmishes. And the battle grew sore against the children of Benjamin: & they understood not that on every side destruction hang over them. {35} And our Lord struck them in the sight of the children of Israel, & they slew of them in that day five and twenty thousand, and an hundred men, all warriors and that drew sword. {36} But the children of Benjamin when they saw themselves to be inferior, began to fly. Which the children of Israel seeing, gave them place to fly, that they might come to the ambushments prepared, which they had set near the city. {37} Who when they had suddenly risen out of their dens, and Benjamin turned their backs to the slayers, they entered the city, and struck it in the edge of the sword. {38} And the children of Israel had given a sign to them, whom they had laid in the ambushments, that after they had taken the city, they should kindle a fire: that the smoke ascending on high, they might shew that the city was taken. {39} Which when the children of Israel saw being in the very fight (for the children of Benjamin thought that they fled, and pursued more instantly, having slain thirty men of their army) {40} and they saw as it were a pillar of smoke to rise up from the city: Benjamin also looking back, when he saw the city taken, and the flames carried on high: {41} they that before had feigned as if they fled, turning their face resisted more manfully. Which when the children of Benjamin had seen, they were turned into flight, {42} and began to go the way of the desert, the adversaries pursuing them thither also. But they also that had fired the city, met them. {43} And so it came to pass, that on both sides they were slain of the enemies, neither was there any rest of men dying. They fell, & were overthrown on the east side of the city of Gabaa. {44} And there were that were slain in the same place, eighteen thousand men all most valiant warriors. {45} Which when they had seen, that were remaining of Benjamin, they fled into the wilderness, and went on to the rock, the name whereof is Remmon. In that flight also straggling, and going diverse ways, they slew five thousand men. And whereas they went farther, they pursued him, and slew also other two thousand. {46} And so it came to pass, that all which were slain of Benjamin in diverse places, were five and twenty thousand one hundred fighting men, most prompt to wars. {47} There remained therefore of all the number of Benjamin that could escape, and fly into the wilderness, six hundred men: and they abode in the Rock Remmon four months. {48} But the children of Israel retiring, struck all the remains of the city with the sword, from men even to beasts, and all the cities and villages of Benjamin the devouring flame did consume.

The tribe of Benjamin is repaired 8. by four hundred virgins reserved in the slaughter of Jabel Galaad: 19. and by other virgins taken, that come forth of Silo to dance.

{1} THE children of Israel sware also in Maspha, and said: None of us shall give of his daughters to the children of Benjamin to wife. {2} And they came all to the house of God in Silo, and sitting in his sight until evening, lifted up their voice, & with great wailing began to weep saying: {3} Wherefore, o Lord God of Israel, is this evil done in thy people, that this day one tribe should be taken away out of us? {4} And on the morrow rising early, they built an altar: and offered there holocausts, and pacific victims, and said: {5} Who hath not ascended in the host of our Lord of all the tribes of Israel? For they had bound themselves with a great oath, when they were in Maspha, that they should be slain which had been wanting. {6} And the children of Israel being moved with repentance upon their brother Benjamin, began to say: One tribe is taken away out of Israel, {7} Whence shall they take wives? For we have all sworn in common, that we will not give our daughters to them. {8} Therefore they said: Who is there of all the tribes of Israel, that went not up to our Lord into Maspha? And behold the inhabitants of Jabel Galaad were found not to have been in that army. {9} (At that time also when they were in Silo, none of them was found there.) {10} They sent therefore ten thousand the strongest men, and commanded them: Go, and strike the inhabitants of Jabel Galaad in the edge of the sword, as well their wives as their little ones. {11} And this shall be it which you shall observe: All of the male kind, and woman that have known men, kill ye, but the virgins reserve. {12} And there were found of Jabel Galaad four hundred virgins, that knew not man's bed, and they brought them to the camp in Silo, into the Land of Chanaan. {13} And they sent messengers to the children of Benjamin, that were in the Rock Remmon, & commanded them that they should receive them in peace. {14} And the children of Benjamin came at that time, and there were given unto them wives of the daughters of Jabel Galaad: but others they found not, which they might give them in like manner. {15} And all Israel was very sorry, and repented for the killing of one tribe out of Israel. {16} And the ancients said: What shall we do to the rest, that have not taken wives? For all the women in Benjamin are dead. {17} And we must very carefully, and with great study provide, that one tribe be not destroyed out of Israel. {18} For our own daughters we can not give them, being bound with an oath & a curse, whereby we said: Cursed be he that shall give to Benjamin any of his daughters to wife. {19} And they took counsel, and said: Behold there is an anniversary solemnity of our Lord in Silo, which is situate on the North of the city of Bethel, on the East side of the way, that goeth from Bethel to Sichem, & on the South of the town of Lebona. {20} And they commanded the children of Benjamin and said: Go, and lie hid in the vineyards. {21} And when you shall see the daughters of Silo come forth after the manner to lead dances, issue forth suddenly out of the vineyards, & catch of them every one his wife, and go into the Land of Benjamin. {22} And when their father shall come, and their brethren, and shall begin to complain against you, and to chide, we will say to them: Have pity on them: for they took them not away by the right of warriors and conquerors, but when they desired to receive them, you gave them not, and on your part the fault was committed. {23} And the children of Benjamin did as it had been commanded them: and according to their number they took away to themselves of those that led the dances, every one his wife: and they went into their possession, building cities, and dwelling in them. {24} The children of Israel also returned by their tribes and families into their tabernacles. In those days there was not a king in Israel: but every one did that which seemed right to himself.

THE BOOK OF RUTH

By occasion of famine Elimelech of Bethlehem going with his wife Noemi, and two sons, into the Land of Moab, there dieth. 4. His sons marry wives of the country, and die without issue. 6. Noemi returning homewards hardly persuadeth one of her daughters in law to part from her. 15. The other, called Ruth, will needs go with her, professing the same God and Religion. 19. So these two arrive in Bethlehem.

{1} IN the days of one Judge, when the Judges ruled, there came a famine in the Land. And there went a man of Bethlehem Juda to sojourn in the land of Moab, with his wife and two children. {2} Himself was called Elimelech, and his wife Noemi: and his two sons, the one Mahalon, and the other Chelion, Ephraites of Bethlehem Juda. And entering into the country of Moab, they abode there. {3} And Elimelech the husband of Noemi died: and she remained with her sons. {4} Who took wives of the Moabites, of the which one was called Orpha, and the other Ruth. And they abode there ten years, {5} and both died, to wit, Mahalon and Chelion: and the woman remained destitute of her two children & her husband. {6} And she arose to go into her country with both her daughters in law from the country of Moab: for she had heard that our Lord had respected his people, & had given them victuals. {7} She therefore went forth from the place of her peregrination, with both her daughters in law: and being now set in the way to return into the Land of Juda, {8} she said to them: Go into your mother's house, our Lord do mercy with you, as you have done with the dead and with me. {9} Grant he unto you to find rest in the house of your husbands, which you shall take. And she kissed them. Who lifting up their voice began to weep, {10} & to say: We will go on with thee to thy people. {11} To whom she answered: Return my daughters, why come you with me? Shall I have sons any more in my womb, that you may hope for husbands of me? {12} Return my daughters, and go your ways: for I am now spent with old age, and not fit for wedlock. Although I might conceive this night, and bear children, {13} if you would expect till they grow, and be of man's age, you shall be old women before you marry. Do not so my daughters, I beseech you: for your distress doth the more grieve me, & the hand of our Lord is come forth against me. {14} Therefore lifting up their voice they began to weep again: Orpha kissed her mother in law, and returned: Ruth cleaved to her mother in law, {15} to whom Noemi said: Behold thy kinswoman is returned to her people, and to her gods, go with her. {16} Who answered: Be not against me, to the end that I should leave thee and depart: for whither soever thou shalt go, I will go: and where thou shalt abide, I also will abide. Thy people my people, and thy God my God. {17} The land that shall receive thee dying, in the same will I die: and there will I take a place for my burial. These things do God to me, & these things add he, if death only shall not separate me and thee. {18} Noemi therefore seeing that Ruth with a steadfast mind had determined to go forward with her, would not be against it, nor persuade her any more to return to her friends: {19} and they went forth together, and came into Bethlehem. Who being entered into the city, a brute was quickly spread among them: and the women said: This is that Noemi. {20} To whom she said: Call me not Noemi (that is to say, beautiful) but call me Mara (that is to say, bitter) because with bitterness hath the Almighty very much replenished me. {21} I went forth full, and our Lord hath brought me back empty. Why therefore do you call me Noemi whom our Lord hath humbled, and the Almighty hath afflicted? {22} Noemi therefore came with Ruth the Moabite her daughter in law, from the Land of her peregrination: and returned into Bethlehem, when barley was first reaped.

Ruth gathering ears of corn in Booz field, 8. he kindly biddeth her tarry with his servants. 17. At night she returneth carrying good quantity of corn, and part of the meat, which they gave her, to her mother in law.

{1} AND Elimelech her husband had a cousin, a mighty man and of great riches, named Booz. {2} And Ruth the Moabite said to her mother in law: If thou command, I will go into the field, and gather the ears of corn, that shall escape the hands of the reapers, where soever I shall find the grace of the father of the house favourable towards me. To whom she answered: Go my daughter. {3} She went therefore & gathered the ears of corn after the backs of the reapers. And it chanced that the owner of the same field was Booz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech. {4} And behold, he came out of Bethlehem, and said to the reapers: Our Lord be with you. Who answered him: Our Lord bless thee. {5} And Booz said to the young man that was overseer of the reapers: Whose maid is this? {6} To whom he answered: This is that Moabite, which came with Noemi from the country of Moab, {7} and she desired that she might gather the ears of corn that remain, following the steps of the reapers: and from morning until now she stayeth in the field, and not so much as for a very moment hath she returned home. {8} And Booz said to Ruth: Hear me daughter, go not into an other field to gather, neither depart thou from his place: but join thy self to my maids, {9} & where they have reaped, follow. For I have commanded my servants, that no man molest thee: but if thou shalt thirst also, go to the fardels, and drink the waters, whereof the servants also do drink. {10} Who falling on her face and adoring upon the ground, said to him: Whence cometh this to me, that I should find grace before thine eyes, and that thou wouldest vouchsafe to know me a strange woman? {11} To whom he answered: All things have been told me, which thou hast done to thy mother in law after the death of thy husband: and that thou left thy parents, and the land wherein thou wast born, and art come to a people, which before thou knewest not. {12} Our Lord render unto thee for thy work, and God grant thou mayest receive a full reward of our Lord thy God of Israel, to whom thou art come, & under whose wings thou art fled. {13} Who said: I have found grace in thine eyes my Lord, which hast comforted me, and hast spoken to the heart of thy handmaid, which am not like to one of thy maids. {14} And Booz said to her: When the hour shall come to eat, come hither, and eat bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. She therefore sat at the side of the reapers, and she heaped to her self polent, and did eat and was filled, & took the leavings. {15} And from thence she arose to glean the ears of corn after her manner. And Booz commanded his servants, saying: Yea & if she will reap with you, forbid her not: {16} and of your own handfuls also cast forth of purpose, and let them remain, that she may gather them without bashfulness, and gathering let no man control her. {17} She gleaned therefore in the field until evening: and that which she had gathered beating with a rod and threshing she found of barley as it were the measure of an ephi, that is, three bushels. {18} Which carrying she returned into the city, and shewed to her mother in law: moreover she brought forth, & gave her of the remains of her meat, wherewith she had been filled. {19} And her mother in law said to her: Where hast thou gathered to day, & where hast thou wrought? Blessed be he that hath had mercy on thee. And she told her with whom she had wrought: and she told the man's name, that he was called Booz. {20} To whom Noemi answered: Be he blessed of our Lord: because the same grace, which he had shewed to the living, he hath kept also to the dead. And again she said: The man is our nigh cousin. {21} And Ruth: This also, quoth she, he commanded me, that so long I should join my self to the reapers, till all the corn were reaped. {22} To whom her mother in law said: It is better my daughter, that thou go forth with his maids to reap, lest in an other man's field some may resist thee. {23} She therefore joined her self to the maids of Booz: and so long reaped with them, till the barley and the wheat were laid up in the barns.

Ruth instructed by her mother in law sleepeth at Booz feet, 8. and signifying that she pertaineth to him by the law of affinity, receiveth a good answer, 14. and six measures of barley.

{1} BUT after that she was returned to her mother in law, she heard of her: My daughter, I will seek thee rest, and will provide that it may be well with thee. {2} This Booz, to whose maids thou art joined in the field, is our nigh kinsman, and this night he winnoweth the barn floor of the barley. {3} Wash therefore and anoint thy self, and put on thy better garments, and go down into the barn floor, let no man see thee, till he shall have ended eating & drinking. {4} And when he shall go to sleep, mark the place wherein he sleepeth: and thou shalt come, and discover the mantle wherewith he is covered toward his feet, and shall cast thy self down and lie there: and he will tell thee what thou must do. {5} Who answered: Whatsoever thou shalt command, that will I do. {6} And she went down into the barn floor, and did all the things which her mother in law had commanded her. {7} And when Booz had eaten, and drunken, and was made pleasant, and was gone to sleep by the heap of sheaves, she came closely, and discovering the mantle at his feet, laid her self down. {8} And behold, when it was now midnight the man was afraid, and troubled: and he saw a woman lying at his feet, {9} and said to her: Who art thou? And she answered: I am Ruth thy handmaid: spread thy mantle upon thy servant, because thou art nigh of kin. {10} And he said: Blessed art thou of our Lord my daughter, and the former mercy thou hast passed with the latter: because thou hast not followed young men either poor or rich. {11} Fear not therefore, but whatsoever thou shalt say to me, I will do to thee. For all the people that dwelleth within the gates of my city know, that thou art a woman of virtue. {12} Neither do I deny my self nigh of kin, but there is an other nearer than I. {13} Rest this night: and when morning is come, if he will retain thee by the right of nigh of kindred, the thing is well done, but if he will not, I will take thee without all doubt, our Lord liveth, sleep until morning. {14} She slept therefore at his feet till the night was gone. Therefore she arose before men could know one an other, and Booz said: Beware lest any man know that thou camest hither. {15} And again, Spread, quoth he, thy mantle, wherewith thou art covered, and hold it with both hands. Who spreading and holding it, he measured six measures of barley, and put it upon her. Who carrying it entered into the city, {16} and came to her mother in law. Who said to her: What hast thou done daughter? And she told her all things, that the man had done to her. {17} And she said: Behold six measures of barley hath he given me, and he said: I will not have thee return empty to thy mother in law. {18} And Noemi said: Expect daughter till we see what end the thing will have. For the man will not cease until he have accomplished that which he hath spoken.

Book before the ancients of the city (the nearer kinsman refusing) possessesthe inheritance of Elimelech, 10. and marrieth Ruth. 13. Hath by her a son, the grandfather of David. 18. Whose genealogy by this occasion is recited, from Phares the son of Judas the Patriarch.

{1} BOOZ therefore went up to the gate, and sat there. And when he had seen the nigh kinsman pass by, of whom the talk was had before, he said to him: Turn in a little while, and sit here: calling him by his name. Who turned in, and sat. {2} And Booz taking ten men of the city, said to them: Sit ye here. {3} Who sitting down, he spake to the nigh kinsman: Noemi, who is returned from the country of Moab, will sell the part of the field belonging to our brother Elimelech. {4} Which I would thee to understand, and would tell thee before all that sit, and the ancients of my people. If thou wilt possess it by the right of nigh kindred, buy, and possess it. But if it please thee not, tell me the same, that I may know what I ought to do. For there is no nigh kinsman saving thee, which art first, and me, who am second. But he answered: I will buy the field. {5} To whom Booz said: When thou shalt buy the field at the woman's hand, thou must take also Ruth the Moabit, which was the wife of the deceased: that thou mayest raise up the name of thy kinsman in his inheritance. {6} Who answered: I yield my right of nigh kindred: for I may not abolish the posterity of mine own family. Do thou use my privilege, which I profess that I do willingly forgo. {7} And this in old time was the manner in Israel between kinsmen, that if at any time one yielded to an other his right: that the grant might be sure, the man put off his shoe, & gave it to his neighbour, this was a testimony of yielding in Israel. {8} Booz therefore said to his kinsman: Take off thy shoe. Which immediately he loosed from his foot. {9} But to the ancients, & the whole people he said: You are witnesses this day, that I have purchased all things which were Elimelech's, and Chelion's and Mahalon's, Noemi delivering them: {10} & have taken in marriage Ruth the Moabit, the wife of Mahalon, that I may raise up the name of the deceased in his inheritance, lest his name be abolished out of his family and brethren and people. You, I say, are witnesses of this thing. {11} All the people that was in the gate answered, & the ancients: We are witnesses: Our Lord make this woman, which entereth into thy house, as Rachel, and Lia, which builded the house of Israel: that she may be an example of virtue in Ephrata, and may have a famous name in Bethlehem: {12} and that thy house may be, as the house of Phares, whom Thamar bare to Judas, of the seed which our Lord shall give thee of this young woman. {13} Booz therefore took Ruth, and had her to wife: and went in unto her and our Lord gave her to conceive, and to bear a son. {14} And the women said to Noemi: Blessed be our Lord, which hath not suffered that there should fail a successor of thy family: That his name should be called in Israel. {15} And thou shouldst have one that may comfort thy soul, and cherish thy old age. For of thy daughter in law is he born, which will love thee: and much better is she to thee, than if thou hadst seven sons. {16} And Noemi taking the child put it in her bosom, & did the office of a nurse & of one that should carry him. {17} And the women her neighbours congratulating her, & saying: There is a son born to Noemi, called his name Obed: this is the father of Isai, the father of David {18} These are the generations of Phares: Phares begat Esron, {19} Esron begat Aram: Aram begat Aminadab, {20} Aminadab begat Nahasson, Nahasson begat Salmon, {21} Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, {22} Obed begat Isai, Isai begat David.

THE FIRST BOOK OF KINGS

Elcana having two wives, the one called Anna, is barren, and for the same is reproached by the other, called Phenenna. 9. Anna voweth, and prayeth for a man child. 19. conceiveth and beareth a son, calleth him Samuel: 24. and presenteth him to the service of God in Silo.

{1} THERE was a man of Ramathaimsophim, of mount Ephraim, & his name Elcana, the son of Jeroham, the son of Eliu, the son of Thohu, the son of Suph, an Ephraite: {2} and he had two wives, the name of one was Anna, and the name of the second Phenenna. Phenenna had children: but Anna had not children. {3} And that man went up from his city upon ordinary days, to adore and sacrifice unto the Lord of hosts in Silo. And there were the two sons of Heli, Ophni and Phinees, Priests of our Lord. {4} The day came therefore, & Elcana immolated, and gave to Phenenna his wife, & to all her sons and daughters parts: {5} but to Anna he gave one part with heavy cheer, because he loved Anna. And our Lord had shut her matrice. {6} Her adversary also afflicted her, and vexed her sore, in so much that she upbraided her, that our Lord had shut her matrice: {7} and so did she every year, when the time returned, that they went up to the temple of our Lord: and so she provoked her: moreover she wept, and took not meat. {8} Elcana therefore her husband said to her: Anna, why weepest thou? And why dost thou not eat? And wherefore dost thou afflict thy heart? Am not I better to thee, than ten children? {9} And Anna arose after she had eaten and drunk in Silo. And Heli the Priest sitting upon a Stool before the posts of the house of our Lord, {10} whereas Anna had a heavy heart, she prayed to our Lord, weeping abundantly, {11} and she vowed a vow, saying: O Lord of hosts, if regarding thou wilt behold the affliction of thy servant, and wilt be mindful of me, and not forget thy handmaid, and wilt give unto thy servant a man child: I will give him to our Lord all the days of his life, & the razor shall not come upon his head. {12} And it came to pass, when she multiplied prayers before our Lord, that Heli observed her mouth. {13} Moreover Anna spake in her heart, and only her lips moved, and voice there was not heard at all. Heli therefore thought her to be drunk, {14} and said to her: How long wilt thou be drunk? Digest a little the wine, wherewith thou art wet. {15} Anna answering, Not so, quoth she, my Lord: for I am an exceeding unhappy woman, and wine and whatsoever may inebriate, I have not drunk, but I have poured out my soul in the sight of our Lord. {16} Account not thy handmaid as one of the daughters of Belial: for of the multitude of my sorrow and heaviness have I spoken until this present. {17} Then Heli said to her: Go in peace: and the God of Israel give thee thy petition, which thou hast asked him. {18} But she said: Would God thy handmaid may find grace in thine eyes. And the woman went on her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more changed otherwise. {19} And they rose in the morning, and adored before our Lord: and they returned, & came into their house to Ramatha. And Elcana knew Anna his wife: and our Lord remembered her. {20} And it came to pass after a certain compass of days, Anna conceived & bare a son, and called his name Samuel: because she asked him of our Lord. {21} And Elcana her husband went up, and all her house, to immolate unto our Lord the solemn host, and his vow, {22} and Anna went not up: for she said to her husband: I will not go till the infant be weaned, and till I may bring him, that he may appear before the sight of our Lord, and may remain there continually. {23} And Elcana her husband said to her. Do that which seemeth good to thee, and tarry till thou wean him: and I pray that our Lord fulfill his word. The woman therefore tarried, and gave her son suck, till she removed him from the milk. {24} And she brought him with her, after she had weaned him, with three calves, & three bushels of meal, and a flagon of wine, and she brought him to the house of our Lord in Silo. But the child was yet a little infant: {25} and they immolated a calf, and offered the child to Heli. {26} And Anna said: I beseech thee my Lord, thy soul liveth my Lord: I am that woman, which stood before thee here praying our Lord. {27} For this child did I pray, and our Lord hath given me my petition, which I asked him. {28} Therefore I also have given him to our Lord all the days, which he shall live, that he may be applied to our Lord. And they adored our Lord there. And Anna prayed, and said

Anna giveth thanks in a Canticle. 11. The sons of Heli grievously sinning are reprehended, but not duly corrected by their father. 21. Anna beareth three sons more, and two daughters. 27. Heli is threatened, 34. and the death of his two sons foretold.

{1} MY heart hath rejoiced in our Lord, and my horn is exalted in my God: my mouth is dilated upon mine enemies: because I have joyed in thy salvation. {2} There is none holy as our Lord is: for neither is there an other beside thee, and there is none so strong as our God. {3} Do not multiply to speak high things boasting, let old matters depart from your mouth: because our Lord is a God of all knowledge, and to him cogitations are prepared. {4} The bow of the strong men is overcome, and the weak are girded with strength. {5} They that before were filled have hired out themselves for bread: and the hungry are filled, until the barren woman bare very many: and she that had many children was weakened. {6} Our Lord mortifieth and quickeneth, bringeth down to hell and fetcheth back again. {7} Our Lord maketh poor and enricheth, humbleth and liftest up. {8} He raiseth the needy man from the dust, and from the dung he liftest up the poor: that he may sit with Princes, and hold the throne of glory. For the poles of the earth are our Lord's, and upon them he hath set the world. {9} The feet of his Saints he will keep, and the impious shall be silent in darkness: because in his own force man shall not be strengthened. {10} Our Lord shall his adversaries fear: & upon them shall he thunder in the heavens: our Lord shall judge the ends of the earth, & shall give empire to his King, and shall exalt the horn of his Christ. {11} And Elcana went into Ramatha, unto his house: but the child ministered in the sight of our Lord before the face of Heli the Priest. {12} Moreover the sons of Heli, were the sons of Belial, not knowing our Lord, {13} nor the office of Priests to the people: but whosoever had immolated a victim, the servant of the Priest came, whilst the flesh was in boiling, and had a flesh hook with three teeth in his hand, {14} and thrust it into the kettle, or into the cauldron, or into the pot, or into the pan: and all that the flesh hook brought up, the Priest took to himself. So did they to all Israel that came into Silo. {15} Yea before they burnt the fat, the servant of the Priest came, and said to him that immolated: Give me flesh, that I may boil it for the Priest: for I will not take flesh of thee sod, but raw. {16} And he that immolated said to him: Let the fat first be burnt to day according to the manner, and take unto thee how much soever thy soul desireth. Who answering said to him: Not so: for thou shalt give it now, or else I will take it away by force. {17} Therefore the sin of the young men was exceeding great before our Lord: because men detracted from the sacrifice of our Lord. {18} But Samuel ministered before the face of our Lord: a child, girded with an ephod of linen. {19} And his mother made him a little tunic, which she brought upon the ordinary days, going up with her husband to immolate the solemn host. {20} And Heli blessed Elcana and his wife: & he said to him: Our Lord render thee seed of this woman, for the usury that thou hast given our Lord. And they went into their place. {21} Our Lord therefore visited Anna, and she conceived, and bare three sons, and two daughters: and the child Samuel was magnified before our Lord. {22} And Heli was very old, and heard all things which his sons did to all Israel: & how they slept with the women that waited at the door of the tabernacle: {23} and he said to them: Why do you these kind of things, which I hear, very naughty things, of all the people? {24} Do not so my sons: for it is not a good report, which I do hear, that you make the people of our Lord to transgress. {25} If man shall sin against man, God may be pacified toward him: but if a man shall sin against our Lord who shall pray for him? And they heard not the voice of their father, because our Lord would kill them. {26} But the child Samuel prospered, and grew, and pleased both our Lord and men. {27} And there came a man of God to Heli, and said to him: Thus saith our Lord: Was not I openly revealed to thy father's house, when they were in Aegypt in the house of Pharao? {28} and I chose him of all the tribes of Israel for my Priest, that he might ascend to my altar, and burn to me incense, and might carry the ephod before me: and I gave to thy father's house all things of the sacrifices of the children of Israel. {29} Why have you with your heel rejected my victim, and my gifts which I commanded to be offered in the temple: and hast rather honoured thy sons than me, that you would eat the first fruits of every sacrifice of Israel my people? {30} Therefore said our Lord the God of Israel: Speaking I spake that thy house, and the house of thy father should minister in my sight for ever. But now saith our Lord: Be this far from me: but whosoever shall glorify me I will glorify him: and they that contemn me, shall be base. {31} Behold the days come: and I will cut off thy arm, and the arm of thy father's house, that there may not be an old man in thy house. {32} And thou shalt see whom thou enviest in the temple, in all prosperities of Israel, and there shall not be an old man in thy house for ever. {33} Notwithstanding I will not altogether take away a man of thee from mine altar: but that thine eyes may fail, and thy soul melt: and a great part of thy house shall die when it is come to man's age. {34} And this shall be a sign to thee, which shall come upon thy two sons, Ophni, and Phinees: In one day they shall both die. {35} And I will raise up unto me a faithful Priest, which shall do according to my heart, and my soul: and I will build him a faithful house and the same shall walk before my Christ all days. {36} And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall remain in thy house, shall come that he may be prayed for, and shall offer a piece of silver, and a manchet of bread, and shall say: Leave me I beseech thee to one priestly part, that I may eat a morsel of bread.

Samuel thrice called upon in sleep by vision from God, repaireth to Heli, 10. the fourth time our Lord revealeth to him the evil, that shall fall to Heli and his house. 16. Which he, being requested, declareth to Heli.

{1} AND the child Samuel ministered to our Lord before Heli, and the word of our Lord was precious in those days, there was no vision manifest. {2} It came to pass therefore on a certain day Heli lay in his place, & his eyes were become dim, neither could he see: {3} before the lamp of God was extinguished, Samuel slept in the temple of our Lord, where the ark of God was. {4} And our Lord called Samuel. Who answering, said: Lo here I am. {5} And he ran to Heli and said: Lo here I am: for thou didst call me. Who said: I did not call thee: return and sleep. And he went & slept. {6} And our Lord added again to call Samuel. And Samuel rising up went to Heli, & said: Lo here I am: because thou didst call me. Who answered: I did not call thee my son, return & sleep. {7} Moreover Samuel did not yet know our Lord, neither had the word of our Lord been revealed to him. {8} And our Lord added, & called Samuel yet the third time. Who rising up went to Heli, {9} & said: Lo here I am: because thou didst call me. Heli therefore understood that our Lord called the child & said to Samuel: Go, & sleep: and if he shall call thee hereafter, thou shalt say: Speak Lord, for thy servant heareth. Samuel therefore went and slept in his place. {10} And our Lord came, and stood: and he called, as he had called twice, Samuel, Samuel. And Samuel said: Speak Lord, for thy servant heareth. {11} And our Lord said to Samuel: Behold I do a thing in Israel: which whosoever shall hear, both his ears shall tingle. {12} In that day will I raise up against Heli all things which I have spoken touching his house: I will begin, and accomplish it. {13} For I have foretold him that I would judge his house for ever, because of iniquity, for that he knew that his sons did wickedly, and hath not corrected them. {14} Therefore have I sworn to the house of Heli that the iniquity of his house can not be expiated with victims and gifts for ever. {15} And Samuel slept until morning, and opened the doors of the house of our Lord. And Samuel feared to tell the vision unto Heli. {16} Heli therefore called Samuel, and said: Samuel my son. Who answering, said: Here I am. {17} And he asked him: What is the word, that our Lord hath spoken to thee? I beseech thee conceal it not from me. These things do God to thee, and these, do he add, if thou shalt hide from me a word of all the words, which were said to thee. {18} Samuel therefore told him all the words, and did not hide them from him. And he answered: It is our Lord: let him do that which is good in his eyes. {19} And Samuel grew, and our Lord was with him, and there fell not of his words upon the ground. {20} And all Israel knew from Dan to Bersabee, that faithful Samuel was the Prophet of our Lord. {21} And our Lord added to appear in Silo, because our Lord had been revealed to Samuel in Silo, according to the word of our Lord. And the word of Samuel came to pass to all Israel.

The Israelites are beaten in battle by the Philisthiims. 3. Who for their better protection and comfort, fetch the Ark of God into the camp: 10. but are beaten again, the Ark taken, and with many others the two sons of Heli are slain. 13. All which Heli understanding falleth from his seat, and breaketh his neck: 19. also his daughter in law presently travailing of child is delivered of a son.

{1} AND it came to pass in those days, the Philisthiims assembled together to fight: and Israel went forth to meet the Philisthiims into battle, & camped beside the Stone of help. Moreover the Philisthiims came into Aphec, {2} & put their army in array against Israel. And after they had joined battle, Israel turned their backs to the Philisthiims: and there were slain in the fight here & there through the fields, as it were four thousand men. {3} And the people returned to the camp: & the ancients of Israel said: Why hath our Lord struck us to day before the Philisthiims? Let us fetch unto us the ark of the covenant of our Lord from Silo, and let it come into the midst of us, that it may save us from the hand of our enemies. {4} The people therefore sent into Silo, and they took from thence the ark of the covenant of the Lord of hosts sitting upon the Cherubims: and the two sons of Heli were with the ark of the covenant of God, Ophni and Phinees. {5} And when the ark of the covenant of our Lord was come into the camp, all Israel made a shout with a great cry, and the earth sounded. {6} And the Philisthiims heard the voice of the cry, & said: What is this voice of a great cry in the camp of the Hebrews? And they knew that the ark of our lord was come into the camp {7} And the Philisthiims were afraid, saying: God is come into the camp. And they mourned, saying: {272} {8} Woe to us: for there was no so great rejoicing yesterday and the day before: woe to us. Who shall keep us from the hand of these high gods? These be the gods that struck Aegypt with all plague, in the desert. {9} Take courage, & be men, ye Philisthiims: lest you be servants to the Hebrews, as they also have served you: take courage & fight. {10} The Philisthiims therefore fought, and Israel was slain, and every man fled into his tabernacle: and there was made an exceeding great plague: and there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen. {11} And the ark of God was taken:

the two sons also of Heli died, Ophni and Phinees. {12} And a man of Benjamin running out of the battle array, came into Silo that day, his garment rent, and sprinkled on his head with dust. {13} And when he was come, Heli sat upon a stool over against the way looking. For his heart was fearful for the ark of God. And that man after he was entered in, told it to the city: and all the city howled. {14} And Heli heard the sound of the cry, and said: What is this sound of this same tumult? But he hastened, and came, and told Heli. {15} And Heli was ninety and eight years old, & his eyes were dim, and he could not see. {16} And he said to Heli: I am he that came from the battle, & I he that fled out of the field this day. To whom he said: What is done my son? {17} And he brought the news answering: Israel, quoth he, is fled before the Philisthiims, and a great ruin is made in the people: moreover also thy two sons are dead, Ophni & Phinees: & the ark of God is taken. {18} And when he had named the ark of God, he fell from his stool backward beside the door, & his neck being broken he died. For he was an old man, & of a great age: & he judged Israel forty years. {19} And his daughter in law, the wife of Phinees, was great with child, & nigh to be delivered: & hearing the report that the ark of God was taken, & her father in law was dead, & her husband, she bowed her self & was delivered: for sudden pains were fallen upon her. {20} And in the very moment of her death, they said to her that stood about her: Fear not, because thou hast born a son. Who answered them not, nor gave heed to it. {21} And she called the child Ichabod, saying: The glory is translated from Israel, because the ark of God is taken, and for her father in law, and for her husband; {22} and she said: The glory is translated from Israel, for that the ark of God was taken.

Dagon falleth down twice in presence of the Ark, his head and hands broken off. 6. The Philisthiims being sore plagued in all their cities where the ark cometh, 11. determine to send it back to the Israelites.

{1} AND the Philisthiims took the ark of God, and carried it from the Stone of help into Azotus. {2} And the Philisthiims took the ark of God, and brought it into the temple of Dagon, and set it beside Dagon. {3} And when the Azotians had risen early the next day, behold Dagon, lay flat on the ground before the ark of our Lord: and they took Dagon, and restored him into his place. {4} And again early the next day rising up, they found Dagon lying upon his face on the earth before the ark of our Lord: & the head of Dagon, & the two palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold: {5} moreover the body only of Dagon was remaining in his place. For this cause the priests of Dagon, and all that enter into his temple, tread not upon the threshold of Dagon in Azotus until this day. {6} And the hand of our Lord was heavy upon the Azotians, and he plagued them, and struck Azotus and the coasts thereof in the secret part of the fundament. And the towns and fields bubbled forth in the midst of that country, and there came forth mice, and there was confusion of great death in the city. {7} And the men of Azotus seeing this manner of plague, said: Let not the ark of the God of Israel tarry with us: because his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our God. {8} And sending they gathered together all the Princes of the Philisthiims to them, and said: What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And the Gethites answered: Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about, and they carried about the ark of the God of Israel. {9} And they carrying it about, the hand of our Lord was made through every city by an exceeding great slaughter: and it struck the men of every city, from little unto great, and they had emeroids in their secret parts. And the Gethites took counsel, and made themselves stools of skins. {10} They sent therefore the ark of God into Accaron. And when the ark of God was come into Accaron, the Accaronites cried out, saying: They have brought unto us the ark of the God of Israel, to kill us and our people. {11} They sent therefore and gathered together all the Princes of the Philistines, who said: Dismiss the ark of the God of Israel, & let it return into his place, and not kill us with our people. {12} For there was made the fear of death in every city, and the hand of God exceeding grievous. The men also that had not died, were stricken in the secret part of the buttocks: and the howling of every city went up into heaven.

The Ark is sent back with five emeroids and five mice of gold, upon a new wain drawn by two milch kine: 13. which coming directly to Bethsames are sacrificed, the wain serving for fire, the Levites keep the Ark. 19. Many others are slain looking of curiosity into it.

{1} THEREFORE the ark of God was in the country of the Philistines seven months. {2} And the Philistines called the Priests and soothsayers, saying: What shall we do with the ark of the Lord? Tell us how we may send it back into his place. Who said: {3} If you send back the ark of the God of Israel, send it not away empty, but that which you owe render unto it for sin, and then you shall be cured: and you shall know why his hand departeth not from you. {4} Who answered: What is that which we ought to render unto it for sin? And they answered: {5} According to the number of the provinces of the Philistines you shall make five golden emeroids, and five golden mice: because there hath been one plague to you, and to your Princes. And you shall make the similitudes of your emeroids, and the similitudes of the mice that have destroyed the land, and you shall give glory to the God of Israel: if perhaps he will lighten his hand from you, and from your gods and from your land. {6} Why do you harden your hearts, as Aegypt and Pharao did harden their heart? Did not he after he was stricken them dismiss them, and they departed? {7} Now therefore take and make one new wain: and two kine having calved, on which there hath no yoke been put, couple in the wain, & shut up their calves at home. {8} And you shall take the ark of the Lord, and put it in the wain, and the vessels of gold, which you have paid him for sin, you shall put into a little casket at the side thereof: and dismiss it that it may go. {9} And you shall look: and if so be that it shall go up by the way of his coasts against Bethsames, he hath done us this great evil: but if not, we shall know that his hand hath not touched us, but it hath happened by chance. {10} They therefore did in this manner: and taking two kine, that had sucking calves, yoked them to the wain, and shut up their calves at home. {11} And they laid the ark of God upon the wain, and the little casket, that had the golden mice and the similitudes of emeroids. {12} And the kine went directly by the way that leadeth to Bethsames, and they went one way, going forward and lowing: and they declined not neither to the right hand nor to the left: but the Princes also of the Philistines followed unto the borders of Bethsames. {13} Moreover the Bethsamites reaped wheat in the valley: and lifting up their eyes, they saw the ark, & were glad when they had seen it. {14} And the wain came into the field of Josue the Bethsamite, and stood there. And there was a great stone, and they did cut the wood of the wain, and laid the kine upon it an holocaust to our Lord. {15} And the Levites took down the ark of God, and the little casket, that was at the side of it, wherein were the vessels of gold, and they put it upon the great stone. The men also of Bethsames offered holocausts, and immolated victims that day to our Lord. {16} And the five Princes of the Philistines saw, and returned into Accaron that day. {17} And these are the golden emeroids, which the Philistines rendered for sin to our Lord: Azotus one, Gaza one, Ascalon one, Geth one, Accaron one: {18} and the golden mice according to the number of the cities of the Philistines, of the five provinces, from walled city unto town that was without wall, and unto Abel the great, whereupon they put the ark of our Lord, which was until that day in the field of Josue the Bethsamite. {19} But he struck of the men of Bethsames, for that they had seen the ark of our Lord: and he struck of the people seventy men, and fifty thousand of the common people. And the people mourned, because our Lord had stricken the common people with a great plague. {20} And the men of Bethsames said: Who shall be able to stand in the sight of our Lord God this holy one? And to whom shall he go up from us? {21} And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Cariathiarim, saying: The Philistines have brought back the ark of our Lord, come & fetch it back unto you.

The Ark is brought to the house of Abinadab in Gabaa, 3. By Samuel's exhortation, the people cast away the idols and serve only God. 12. Samuel offering sacrifice and praying, Israel prevaileth against the Philistines.

{1} THEREFORE the men of Cariathiarim came, and brought back the ark of our Lord, and carried it into the house of Abinadab in Gabaa: and Eleazar his son they sanctified, that he might keep the ark of our Lord. {2} And it came to pass, from the day that the ark of our Lord abode in Cariathiarim, the days were multiplied (for it was now the twentieth year) and all the house of Israel rested after our Lord. {3} And Samuel spake to all the house of Israel, saying: If you turn to our Lord in all your heart, take away the strange gods out of the midst of you, Baalim and Astaroth: and prepare your hearts to our Lord, & serve him only, and he will deliver you from the hand of the Philistines. {4} Therefore the children of Israel took away Baalim and Astaroth, and served our Lord only. {5} And Samuel said: Gather together all Israel into Masphath, that I may pray our Lord for you. {6} And they assembled into Masphath: and they drew water, and poured it out in the sight of our Lord, and they fasted that day, and said there: We have sinned to our Lord. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Masphath. {7} And the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together into Masphath, and the Princes of the Philistines went up to Israel. Which when the children of Israel had heard, they were afraid at the face of the Philistines. {8} And they said to Samuel: cease not to cry to our Lord God for us, that he save us from the hand of the Philistines. {9} And Samuel took one sucking lamb, and offered it a whole holocaust to our Lord: and Samuel cried to our Lord for Israel, & our Lord heard him. {10} And it came to pass, when Samuel offered the holocaust, the Philistines began battle against Israel: but our Lord thundered with a great noise in that day upon the Philistines, & terrified them, & they were slain before the face of Israel. {11} And the men of Israel issuing out of Masphath pursued the Philistines, & struck them unto the place, that was under Bethchar. {12} And Samuel took one stone, and laid it between Masphath and Sen: and he called the name of that place, The stone of help. And he said: Thus far hath our Lord holpen us. {13} And the Philistines were humbled, neither added they any more to come into the border of Israel. Therefore the hand of our Lord was made upon the Philistines, all the days of Samuel. {14} And the cities, which the Philistines had taken from Israel, were rendered to Israel, from Accaron unto Geth, and their borders: and he delivered Israel from the hand of the Philistines, and there was peace between Israel and the Amorrhite. {15} Samuel also judged Israel all the days of his life: {16} and he went every year circuiting Bethel and Galgala and Masphath, and judged Israel in the foresaid places. {17} And he returned into Ramatha: {275} for there, was his house, and there he judged Israel: he built also there an altar to our Lord.

Samuel growing old, and his sons for bribes perverting judgement, the people require to have a king. 7. To whom by God's commandments, Samuel foresheweth the law of a king, to make them cease from their demand; 19. but they persist therein.

{1} AND it came to pass when Samuel waxed old, he appointed his sons judges over Israel. {2} And the name of his first begotten son was Joel: and the name of the second Abia, judges in Bersabee.

{3} And his sons walked not in his ways: but they declined after avarice, & took bribes, and perverted judgment. {4} Therefore all the ancients of Israel being assembled, came to Samuel into Ramatha. {5} And they said to him: Behold thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: appoint us a king, that he may judge us, as also all nations have. {6} And the word was misliked in the eyes of Samuel, because they had said: Give us a king, that he may judge us. And Samuel prayed to our Lord. {7} And our Lord said to Samuel: Hear the voice of the people in all things which they speak to thee. For they have not rejected thee, but me, that I should not reign over them. {8} According to all their works, which they have done from the day that I brought them out of Aegypt until this day: as they have forsaken me, and served strange gods, so do they also unto thee. {9} Now therefore hear their voice: but yet testify to them, and foretell them the right of the king, that shall reign over them. {10} Samuel therefore spake all the words of our Lord to the people which had desired a king of him, {11} and said: This shall be the right of the king, that shall reign over you: Your sons he will take, & put in his chariots, and will make them unto him the horsemen, and running footmen before his chariots. {12} & will appoint them his tribunes, & centurions, & the ploughers of his fields, & mowers of his corn, & makers of his armour and of his chariots. {13} Your daughters also will he take to make ointments, and to be cooks, and bakers. {14} Your fields also, and vineyards, and the best olivets he will take away, and give to his servants. {15} Yea and your corn also, and the revenues of your vineyards he will tithe, to give his eunuchs & servants. {16} Your servants also and handmaids, and goodliest young men, and asses he will take away and put in his work. {17} Your flocks also will he tithe, you shall be his servants. {18} And you shall cry in that day from the face of the king, which you have chosen you: and our Lord will not hear you in that day, because you desired unto yourselves a king. {19} But the people would not hear the voice of Samuel, but said: Not so: for there shall be a king over us, {20} and we also will be as all nations: and our king shall judge us, and shall go forth before us, and shall fight our battles for us. {21} And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and spake them in the ears of our Lord. {22} And our Lord said to Samuel: Hear their voice, and appoint a king over them. And Samuel said to the men of Israel: Let every man go into his city.

Saul by occasion of seeking his father's asses cometh to Samuel. 15. Who had a revelation of his coming, and a commandment to anoint him. 22. He is entertained and lodged with Samuel.

{1} AND there was a man of Benjamin named Cis, the son of Abiel, the son of Seor, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphia, the son of a man of Jemini, valiant in strength. {2} And he had a son called Saul, chosen and good: and there was not a man of the children of Israel better than he: from the shoulder and upward he appeared above all the people. {3} And the asses of Cis the father of Saul were lost: and Cis said to Saul his son: Take one of the servants with thee, and rising go, & seek the asses. Who when they had passed by mount Ephraim, {4} & by the land of Salisa, & had not found, they passed also through the land of Salim, and they were not: yea and by the Land of Jemini, and found them not. {5} And when they were come into the Land of Suph, Saul said to the servant that was with him: Come let us return, lest perhaps my father hath let alone the asses, and be careful for us. {6} Who said to him: Behold a man of God is in this city, a famous man: all that he speaketh, cometh to pass without doubt, now therefore let us go thither, if perhaps he may tell us of our way, for which we are come. {7} And Saul said to his servant: Lo we will go: what shall we carry to the man of God? The bread is spent in our males: and present we have none to give unto the man of God, nor any thing else. {8} Again the servant answered Saul and said: Behold there is found in my hand the fourth part of a sicle of silver, let us give it to the man of God, that he may tell us our way. {9} (For in time past in Israel so every man spake, going to consult God, Come, and let us go to the seer. For he that at this day is called a Prophet, in time past was called a seer.) {10} And Saul said to his servant: Thy word is very good, come let us go. And they went into the city, wherein the man of God was. {11} And when they went up the ascent of the city, they found maids coming forth to draw water, and said to them: Is the seer here? {12} Who answering said to them: Here he is. Lo before thee, make haste now, for this day he came into the city, because this day there is a sacrifice of the people in the excelse. {13} Entering into the city immediately you shall find him, before he go up into the excelse to eat, for the people will not eat till he come: because he will bless the Host, and afterward they shall eat that are invited. Now therefore go up, because this day you shall find him. {14} And they went up into the city. And when they walked in the midst of the city, Samuel appeared coming forth against them, to go up into the excelse. {15} And our Lord had revealed the ear of Samuel one day before Saul came, saying: {16} This very hour, that now is, to morrow will I send to thee a man of the Land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him ruler over my people of Israel: & he shall save my people from the hand of the Philistiims: because I have respected my people, for their cry is come to me. {17} And when Samuel had beheld Saul, our Lord said to him: behold the man, of whom I told thee, this man shall rule over my people. {18} And Saul came to Samuel in the midst of the gate, & said: Shew me, I pray thee, where is the house of the seer? {19} And Samuel answered Saul, saying: I am the seer, go up before me into the excelse, that you may eat with me to day, & I will dismiss thee in the morning: and all things that are in thy heart, will I tell thee. {20} And concerning the asses, which thou didst lose three days agone, be not careful, because they are found. And whose shall be all the best things of Israel? Not to thee and to all thy father's house? {21} And Saul answering, said: Am not I, the son of Jemini of the least tribe of Israel, and my kindred the last among all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Why therefore hast thou spoken this word to me? {22} Samuel therefore taking Saul & his servant, brought them into the parlour, & gave them a place in the chief room of them that were invited. For there were about thirty men. {23} And Samuel said to the cook: Give the portion, which I gave thee, and commanded that thou shouldst lay it up apart with thee. {24} And the cook lifted up a shoulder, & set it before Saul. And Samuel said: Behold that which hath remained, set it before thee, & eat: because of purpose it was kept for thee, when I called the people. And Saul did eat with Samuel that day. {25} And they descended from the excelse into the town, & he spake with Saul in the top of the house: & he prepared a bed for Saul in the highest room, & he slept. {26} And when they were risen in the morning, and it began now to be light, Samuel called Saul in the high chamber, saying: Arise that I may dismiss thee. And Saul arose: and they went both forth, to wit, he and Samuel. {27} And when they came down in the uttermost part of the city, Samuel said to Saul: Speak to the servant that he go before us, and pass: but stay thou a little while, that I may tell thee the word of our Lord.

Saul is anointed King, and confirmed by signs that his ordinance is of God. 10. He prophesieth, which the people doth admire. 17. Samuel calleth the people together, for appointing a king, the lot falleth on Saul. 25. And the law of the king is again mentioned.

{1} AND Samuel took a little vessel of oil, and poured upon his head, and kissed him, and said: Behold, our Lord hath anointed thee upon his inheritance to be Prince, and thou shalt deliver his people out of the hands of their enemies, that are round about them. And this shall be a sign unto thee, that God hath anointed thee to be Prince. {2} When thou shalt be departed from me this day, thou shalt find two men beside the sepulchre of Rachel in the borders of Benjamin, in the South, and they shall say to thee: The asses are found, which thou didst go to see: and thy father letting go the asses, is careful for you, and saith: What shall I do concerning my son? {3} And when thou shalt depart thence, and pass farther, and shalt come to the oak Thabor, three men going up to God into Bethel shall find thee there, on carrying three kids, and an other three manchets of bread, and an other carrying a flagon of wine. {4} And when they have saluted thee, they will give thee two loaves, and thou shalt take them of their hand. {5} After these things thou shalt come into the hill of God, where the garrison of the Philisthiims is: and when thou shalt be entered there into the city, thou shalt meet there a flock of Prophets coming down from the excelse, and before them psaltery and timbrel, and shalm, and harp, and themselves prophesying. {6} And the Spirit of our Lord shall seize upon thee, and thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be changed into an other man. {7} Therefore when all these signs shall chance to thee, do whatsoever thy hand shall find, because our Lord is with thee. {8} And thou shalt go down before me into Galgala (for I will come down to thee) that thou mayest offer oblation, and immolate pacific victims: seven days shalt thou expect, till I come to thee, & I will shew thee what thou must do. {9} Therefore when he had turned away his shoulder to depart from Samuel, God changed unto him another heart, and all these things came in that day. {10} And they came to the foresaid hill, and behold a troop of Prophets meeting him: & the Spirit of our Lord seized upon him, and he prophesied in the midst of them. {11} And all that had known him yesterday and the day before, seeing that he was with the prophets, & did prophesy, said to each other: What thing hath happened to the son of Cis? What, is Saul also among the Prophets? {12} And one answered an other, saying: And who is there father? Therefore it was turned into a proverb: What, is Saul also among the Prophets? {13} And he ceased to prophesy, and came to the excelse. {14} And Saul's uncle said to him, and to his servant: Whither went you? Who answered: To seek the asses: which when we had not found we came to Samuel. {15} And his uncle said to him: Tell me what Samuel said to thee. {16} And Saul said to his uncle: He told us that the asses were found. But concerning the word of the Kingdom which Samuel had spoken to him, he told him not. {17} And Samuel called together the people of our Lord in Maspha: {18} And said to the children of Israel: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: I brought Israel out of Aegypt, and delivered you from the hand of the Aegyptians, and from the hand of all the kings which afflicted you. {19} But you this day have rejected your God, who only hath saved you out of all your evils and tribulations: and you have said: Not so: but appoint a king over us. Now therefore stand before our Lord by your tribes, and by your families. {20} And Samuel brought all the tribes of Israel, and the lot fell on the tribe of Benjamin. {21} And he brought the tribe of Benjamin and the kindreds thereof, & it fell upon the kindred of Metri, and it came unto Saul the son of Cis. They therefore sought him, and he was not found. {22} And after these things they consulted our Lord whether he would come thither. And our Lord answered: Behold he is hid at home. {23} They ran therefore and took him from thence: and he stood in the midst of the people, and he was higher than all the people from the shoulder and upward. {24} And Samuel said to all the people: Certes you see whom our Lord hath chosen, that there is not the like to him in all the people. And all the people cried, and said: God save the king. {25} And Samuel spake to the people the law of the Kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before our Lord: and Samuel dismissed all the people, every one into his own house. {26} But Saul also departed into his house into Gabaa: & there went with him part of the army, they whose hearts God had touched. {27} But the children of Belial said: What, shall this fellow be able to save us? And they despised him, & brought him not presents: but he dissembled as though he heard not.

Ammonites fighting against Jubes Galaad, and the city ready to yield, 5. Saul gathereth an army, 11. overthroweth the enemy, 14. and is established king.

{1} AND it came to pass as it were a month after, Naas the Ammonite ascended, and began to fight against Jubes of Galaad. And all the men of Jubes said to Naas: Make a league with us, and we will serve thee. {2} And Naas the Ammonite answered them: In this will I make a league with you, that I may pluck out the right eyes of you all, and may make you a reproach in all Israel. {3} And the ancients of Jubes said to him: Grant unto us seven days, that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel: & if there shall not be that may defend us, we will come forth to thee. {4} The messengers therefore came into Gabaa of Saul: and they spake these words, in the hearing of the people: and all the people lifted up their voice, and wept. {5} And behold Saul came, following oxen out of the field, and said: What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the words of the men of Jubes. {6} And the Spirit of our Lord seized on Saul, when he had heard these words, and his fury was exceeding wrath. {7} And taking both the oxen, he cut them into pieces, & sent them into all the coasts of Israel by messengers, saying: Whosoever shall not go forth, and follow Saul and Samuel, so shall it be done to his oxen. Therefore the fear of our Lord invaded the people, and they went forth as it were one man. {8} And he numbered them in Bezem: and there were of the children of Israel three hundred thousand: and of the men of Juda thirty thousand. {9} And they said to the messengers that came: Thus shall you say to the men, that are in Jubes Galaad: To morrow, when the sun shall wax hot, you shall have relief. The messengers therefore came, & told the men of Jubes: Who were glad. {10} And they said: In the morning we will come forth to you: & you shall do to us whatsoever shall please you. {11} And it came to pass, when the morrow was come, Saul set the people into three parts: & entered into the midst of the camp in the morning watch, and struck Ammon until the day waxed hot, & the rest were dispersed, so that there were not left among them two together. {12} And the people said to Samuel: Who is this that said: what, shall Saul reign over us? Give us the men and we will kill them. {13} And Saul said: No man shall be killed this day, because our Lord this day hath relieved Israel: {14} And Samuel said to the people: Come and let us go into Galgal, and let us renew there a Kingdom. {15} And all the people went into Galgal, and there they made Saul king before our Lord in Galgal, and they immolated there pacific victims before our Lord. And Saul rejoiced there, and all the men of Israel exceedingly.

Samuel being justified by the people for his good behaviour, 6. chargeth them with ingratitude towards God, 14. admonishing them, and shewing by a sign, that they offended in demanding a king, 20. Exhorteth them now to serve God, promiseth to pray for them, [279] and forewarneth that they shall receive as they deserve.

{1} AND Samuel said to all Israel: Behold I have heard your voice according to all things which you have spoken to me, and I have appointed a king over you. {2} And now the king goeth before you: and I am wachsen old and have gray hairs: moreover my sons are with you: therefore having conversed with you from my youth until this day, lo I am ready. {3} Speak of me before our Lord, and before his Christ, whether I have taken any man's oxe, or ass: If I have calumniated any man, if I have oppressed any man, if I have taken gift of any man's hand: and I will contemn that same this day, and will restore it to you. {4} And they said thou hast not calumniated us, nor oppressed us, nor taken ought of any man's hand. {5} And he said to them: Witness is our Lord against you, and witness is his Christ in this day, that you have not found any thing in my hand. And they said: Witness. {6} And Samuel said to the people: Our Lord who made Moyses & Aaron, & brought our fathers out of the Land of Aegypt is present. {7} Now therefore stand, that I may contend in judgment against you before our Lord, concerning all the mercies of our Lord, which he hath done with you, and with your fathers: {8} how Jacob entered into Aegypt, and your fathers cried to our Lord: and our Lord sent Moyses and Aaron, and brought your fathers out of Aegypt: and placed them in this place. {9} Who forgat our Lord their God, and he delivered them in the hand of Sisara master of the host of Hasor, and in the hand of the Philisthiims, and in the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought against them {10} But afterward they cried to our Lord, & said: We have sinned, because we have forsaken our Lord, & have served Baalim & Astaroth: now therefore deliver us from the hand of our enemies, & we will serve thee. {11} And our Lord sent Jerobaal, & Badan, & Jephte, & Samuel, and delivered you from the hand of your enemies round about, & you dwelt securely. {12} But you seeing that Naas, king of the children of Ammon was come against you, you said to me: Not so, but a king shall reign over us: whereas our Lord your God did reign among you. {13} Now therefore your king is ready, whom you have chosen and desired: behold our Lord hath given you a king. {14} If you shall fear our Lord, and serve him, & hear his voice, and not exasperate the mouth of our Lord: both you, & the king which reigneth over you, shall be followers of our Lord your God: {15} But if you will not hear the voice of our Lord, but shall exasperate his words, the hand of our Lord shall be upon you, & upon your fathers. {16} But now also stand, & see this great thing which our Lord will do in your sight. {17} Is it not wheat harvest to day? I will call upon our Lord, & he will give noises & rain: and you shall know, & see that you have done great evil to your selves in the sight of our Lord, desiring a king over you. {18} And Samuel cried to our Lord, & our Lord gave noises & rain in that day {19} And all the people feared exceedingly our Lord and Samuel. And all the people said to Samuel: Pray for thy servants to our Lord thy God, that we die not. For we have added evil to all our sins, that we desired unto us a king. {20} And Samuel said to the people: Fear not, you have done all this evil: but yet depart not from the back of our Lord, but serve our Lord in all your heart. {21} And decline not after vain things, which shall not profit you, nor deliver you, because they are vain. {22} And our Lord will not forsake his people for his great name: because our Lord hath sworn to make you a people to himself. {23} And far from me be this sin in our Lord, that I should cease to pray for you, and I will teach you the good and right way. {24} Therefore fear our Lord, and serve him in truth and from your whole heart. For you have seen the great works which he hath done among you. {25} But if you shall persevere in malice, both you and your king shall perish together.

Saul and Jonathas prevail in battle against the Philisthiims. 5. Who increasing their forces, the Israelites for fear fly away and hide themselves. 8. Samuel not coming to the camp, Saul presumeth to offer sacrifice, 11, for which Samuel reproveth him, and declareth that his Kingdom shall be translated to an other. 17. The Philisthiims oppress the Israelites, and deprive them of armour.

{1} A child of one year was Saul when he began to reign, and two years he reigned over Israel. {2} And Saul chose to himself three thousand of Israel: and there were with Saul two thousand in Machmas, and in the mount of Bethel: and a thousand with Jonathas in Gabaa of Benjamin. Moreover the rest of the people he sent back every man into their tabernacles: {3} And Jonathas struck the garrison of the Philisthiims, which was in Gabaa. Which when the Philisthiims had heard, Saul sounded with the trumpet in all the land, saying: Let the Hebrews hear. {4} And all Israel heard this manner of bruit: Saul hath stricken the garrison of the Philisthiims: & Israel took courage against the Philisthiims. The people therefore cried after Saul in Galgal. {5} And the Philisthiims were gathered together to fight against Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and the rest of the common people, as the sand which is in the sea shore very much.

And going up they camped in Machmas at the East of Bethaven. {6} Which when the men of Israel had seen themselves put in a strait (for the people was afflicted) they hid themselves in caves, and in secret places, in rocks also, and in dens, and in cisterns. {7} And the Hebrews passed Jordan into the Land of Gad and Galaad. And when Saul was yet in Galgal, all the people was sore afraid, which followed him. {8} And he expected seven days according to the appointment of Samuel, and Samuel came not into Galgal, and the people slipt away from him. {9} Saul therefore said: Bring me the holocaust, and the pacifics. And he offered the holocaust. {10} And when he had finished offering the holocaust, behold Samuel came: and Saul went forth to meet him & salute him. {11} And Samuel spake to him. What hast thou done? Saul answered: Because I saw that the people slipt from me, and thou wast not come according to the days appointed, moreover the Philisthiims were gathered together into Machmas, {12} I said: Now will the Philisthiims come down to me into Galga, and I have not pacified the face of our Lord. Compelled by necessity, I offered the holocaust. {13} And Samuel said to Saul: Thou hast done foolishly, neither hast thou kept the commandments of our Lord thy God, which he commanded thee. Which if thou hadst not done, even now had our Lord prepared thy Kingdom over Israel for ever, {14} but thy Kingdom shall no farther arise. Our Lord hath sought him a man according to his heart: and him hath our Lord commanded to be Prince over his people, because thou hast not observed the things which our Lord commanded. {15} And Samuel arose & went up from Galgal into Gabaa of Benjamin. And numbered the people, which were found with him, as it were six hundred men. {16} And Saul and Jonathas his son, and the people that were found with them, was in Gabaa of Benjamin: moreover the Philisthiims had pitched in Machmas. {17} And there issued forth to prey from the camp of Philisthians three companies. One company went on against the way of Ephra to the Land of Saul. {18} Moreover an other went by the way of Bethhoron, and the third had turned it-self to the way of the border, in the valley Seboim against the desert. {19} Moreover there was not found an iron smith in all the Land of Israel, for the Philisthiims had so provided, lest perhaps the Hebrews should make sword or spear. {20} All Israel therefore went down to the Philisthiims, that every man might whet his plough culter, and spade, and axe, and rake. {21} Therefore the edges of the shares, and spades, and forks with three teeth, and axes were blunt, even to the goadprick, which was to be mended. {22} And when the day was come to fight, there was not found sword and spear in the hand of all the people, that was with Saul and Jonathas, except Saul and Jonathas his son. {23} And the station of the Philisthiims went forth, to pass up into Machmas.

Jonathas trusting in God, accompanied with one man, his father not knowing, goeth into the Philisthium's camp, killeth twenty men, and troublith their whole army. 16. Saul understanding the same, approacheth with his army, and they get a great victory. 24. But Saul having commanded under pain of death, that none should eat till night, Jonathas for tasting a little honey (though ignorant of the prohibition) is judged to die. 45. But the people oppose themselves, and deliver him from death. 47. Saul prospereth in his Kingdom, with his family.

{1} AND it chanced on a certain day, that Jonathas the son of Saul said to the young man that bare his armour: Come and Let us pass to the garrison of the Philisthiims, which is beyond yonder place. But to his father he told not this same thing. {2} Moreover Saul abode in the utmost part of Gabaa under the pomegranate tree, which was in Magron: and the people with him was about six hundred men. {3} And Achias the son of Achitob the brother of Ichabod the son of Phinees, which was born of Heli the Priest of our Lord in Silo, bare the ephod. But the people also was ignorant whither Jonathas was gone. {4} And there were between the ascents, by the which Jonathas endeavoured to pass unto the garrison of the Philisthiims, rocks standing up on both sides, and as it were in manner of teeth steep broken rocks on either side, the name of one Boses, and the name of the other Sene: {5} one rock standing out toward the North over-against Machmas, and the other to the South, against Gabaa. {6} And Jonathas said to the young man that bare his armour: Come, let us pass to the station of these uncircumcised, if happily our Lord will make for us: because it is not hard for our Lord to save either in many or in few. {7} And his esquire said to him: Do all things which please thy mind: go whither thou desirest, and I will be with thee wheresoever thou wilst. {8} And Jonathas said: Behold we pass to these men. And when we shall appear to them, {9} if they shall speak to us in this manner: Tarry till we come to you: let us stand in our place, & not go up to them. {10} But if they shall say: Come up to us: let us go up, because our Lord hath delivered them in our hands, this shall be a sign unto us. {11} Both of them therefore appeared to the station of the Philisthiims: and the Philisthiims said: Behold the Hebrews come out of the caves, wherein they were hid. {12} And the men of the garrison spake to Jonathas and to his esquire, and said: Come up to us, and we will shew you a thing. And Jonathas said to his esquire: Let us go up, follow me: for our Lord hath delivered them into the hands of Israel. {13} And Jonathas went up on his hands and feet creeping, and his esquire after him. Therefore some fell before Jonathas, other some his esquire following slew. {14} And the first slaughter, which Jonathas and his esquire made, was as it were of twenty men, in the half part of an acre, which a yoke of oxen is wont to plough in a day. {15} And there was made a miracle in the camp, through the fields: yea and all the people of their garrison which had gone to take preys, was astonished, and the land was troubled: and it happened as a miracle from God. {16} And the watchmen of Saul, which were in Gabaa of Benjamin, looked, and lo a multitude overthrown, and flying hither and thither. {17} And Saul said to the people, which was with him: Enquire, and see who is gone from us. And when they had sought, it was found that Jonathas was not present and his esquire. {18} And Saul said to Achias: Bring the ark of our Lord. (for the ark of God was there that day with the children of Israel.) {19} And when Saul spake to the Priest, there arose a great tumult in the camp of the Philisthiims: and it grew by little and little, and sounded more clearly. And Saul said to the Priest: Draw together thy hand. {20} Saul therefore and all the people that was with him shouted together, and they came to the place of the fight: and behold every man's sword had been turned to his neighbour, and a slaughter exceeding great. {21} But the Hebrews also which had been with the Philisthiims yesterday and the day before, and went up with them in the camp, returned to be with Israel, which were with Saul and Jonathas. {22} All the Israelites also which had hid themselves in mount Ephraim, hearing that the Philisthiims were fled, joined themselves with their fellows in battle. And there were with Saul as it were ten thousand men. {23} And our Lord in that day saved Israel. And the fight reached as far as Bethaven. {24} And the men of Israel were joined among themselves in that day: and Saul adjured the people, saying: Cursed be the man that shall eat bread until evening, till I be revenged of mine enemies. And the whole people did eat no bread: {25} and all the common people of the land came into a forest, wherein was honey upon the face of the field. {26} The people therefore entered into the forest, and there appeared dropping honey, and no man put his hand to his mouth, for the people feared the oath. {27} But Jonathas had not heard when his father adjured the people: & he put forth the tip of the rod which he had in his hand, and dipped it into a honey comb: and he turned his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were illuminated. {28} And one of the people answering, said: Thy father hath bound the people with an oath, saying: Cursed be the man that shall eat bread this day. (And the people was faint). {29} And Jonathas said: My father hath troubled the land: your selves have seen that mine eyes are illuminated, because I have tasted a little of this honey: {30} how much more if the people had eaten of the prey of their enemies, which they found? Had there not been made a greater plague in the Philisthiims? {31} They struck therefore in that day the Philisthiims from Machmas unto Aialon. And the people was wearied exceedingly: {32} and being turned to the prey took sheep, and oxen, and calves, and slew them on the ground: and the people did eat with blood. {33} And they told Saul saying that the people had sinned to our Lord, eating with blood. Who said: You have transgressed: Roll to me even now a great stone. {34} And Saul said: Disperse your selves among the common people, and tell them that every man bring me his oxe and ram, and kill ye them upon this same, and eat, and you shall not sin to our Lord eating with blood. All the people therefore brought every man his oxe in his hand until night: and slew them there. {35} And Saul built an altar to our Lord; and then first did he begin to build an altar to our Lord. {36} And Saul said: Let us fall upon the Philisthiims by night, and let us spoil them till it wax light in the morning, neither let us leave a man of them. And the people said: Do all that seemeth good in thine eyes. And the Priest said: Let us approach hither to God. {37} And Saul consulted our Lord: Shall I pursue the Philisthiims? Wilt thou deliver them into the hands of Israel? And he answered him not in that day. {38} And Saul said: Bring hither all the corners of the people: and know, and see by whom this sin hath chanced to day. {39} Our Lord the Savior of Israel liveth, that if it were done by Jonathas my son, he shall die without revoking. Whereunto none of the people gainsaid him. {40} And he said to all Israel: Be you separated into one side, and I with Jonathas my son will be on the other side. And the people answered Saul: Do what seemeth good in thine eyes. {41} And Saul said to our Lord: Lord God of Israel, give a sign: and Jonathas was caught and Saul, and the people went forth. {42} And Saul said: Cast ye lot between me, and Jonathas my son. And Jonathas was taken. {43} And Saul said to Jonathas: Tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathas told him, and said: Tasting I tasted in the tip of the rod which was in mine hand a little honey, & behold I die. {44} And Saul said: These things do God to me, & these things add he, that dying thou shalt die Jonathas. {45} And the people said to Saul: Shall Jonathas then die, which hath made this great salvation in Israel? This is unlawful: our Lord liveth, if there shall fall a hair from his head upon the ground, because with God hath he wrought to day. The people therefore delivered Jonathas, that he should not die. {46} And Saul retired, neither did he pursue the Philisthiims: moreover the Philisthiims departed into their places. {47} And Saul, his kingdom being established over Israel, fought round about against all his enemies, against Moab, & the children of Ammon, and Edom, and the kings of Soba, and the Philistians: and whither soever he turned himself, he overcame. {48} And gathering together an army, he struck Amalec, and delivered Israel from the hand of the spoilers thereof. {49} And the sons of Saul, were Jonathas and Jesu. And Melchisua: and the names of his two daughters, the name of the first born Merob, and the name of the younger Michol. {50} And the name of Saul's wife, Achinoam the daughter of Achimaas: and the name of the Prince of his host Abner, the son of Ner, the cousin german of Saul by the father. {51} Moreover Cis was the father of Saul, and Ner the father of Abner, the son of Abiel. {52} And there was mighty battle against the Philistians all the days of Saul. For whomsoever Saul had seen a valiant man, and fit for battle, he joined him to himself.

Saul is commanded utterly to destroy the Amalecites, 8. but he taking Agag their king spareth his life, & chief of the prey. 10. For which disobedience (20. though pretending that the best things were reserved for sacrifice) he is deposed from his Kingdom. 24. Then acknowledgeth his fault. 32. Samuel cutteth Agag in pieces, 35. and mourneth for Saul.

{1} AND Samuel said to Saul: Our Lord sent me to anoint thee king over his people Israel; now therefore hear the voice of our Lord: {2} Thus saith the Lord of hosts: I have recounted whatsoever Amalec hath done to Israel: how he resisted them in the way when they came up out of Aegypt. {3} Now therefore go, and strike Amalec, and destroy all that he hath: spare him not, and covet not ought of his things: but kill from man unto woman, both child & suckling, oxe and sheep, camel and ass. {4} Saul therefore commanded the people, and numbered them as it were lambs: two hundred thousand footmen, & ten thousand of the men of Juda. {5} And when Saul was come unto the city of Amalec, he laid ambusments in the torrent. {6} And Saul said to the Cinite: Go ye, retire & depart from Amalec: lest perhaps I wrap thee in with him, for thou hast done mercy with all the children of Israel, when they descended out of Aegypt. And the Cinite departed out of the midst of Amalec. {7} And Saul struck Amalec from Hevila, until thou come to Sur, which is over-against Aegypt. {8} And he apprehended Agag the king of Amalec alive: but all the common people he slew in the edge of the sword. {9} And Saul and the people spared Agag, & the best flocks of sheep & herds, & the garments & rams, & all things, that were fair, neither would they destroy them: but whatsoever was vile and refuse, that they destroyed. {10} And the word of our Lord was made to Samuel, saying: {11} It repented me that I have made Saul king: because he hath forsaken me, & hath not fulfilled my words in work. And Samuel was stricken sad, and cried to our Lord all the night. {12} And when Samuel had risen in the night, to go to Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, that Saul was come into Carmelus, and had erected to himself a triumphant arch, and returning was passed, & gone into Galgal. Samuel therefore came to Saul, and Saul offered an holocaust to our Lord of the first of the preys, which he had brought from Amalec. {13} And when Samuel was come to Saul, Saul said to him: Blessed be thou to our Lord, I have fulfilled the word of our Lord. {14} And Samuel said: And what is this voice of flocks, which soundeth in mine ears, and of herds, which I hear? {15} And Saul said: They have brought them from Amalec: for the people hath spared the better sheep and herds that they might be immolated to our Lord thy God, but the rest we have slain. {16} And Samuel said to Saul: Suffer me, and I will shew thee what our Lord hath spoken to me this night. And he said to him: Speak. {17} And Samuel said: When thou wast a little one in thine own eyes, was thou not made chief in the tribes of Israel? And our Lord anointed thee to be king over Israel, {18} and our Lord sent thee on the way, and said: Go, and kill the sinners of Amalec, and thou shalt fight against them until the utter destruction of them. {19} Why therefore hast thou not heard the voice of our Lord: but art turned to the prey, & hast done evil in the eyes of our Lord? {20} And Saul said to Samuel: Yea I have heard the voice of our Lord, & have walked in the way by which our Lord sent me, & have brought Agag the king of Amalec, & Amalec I have slain. {21} But the people took of the prey, sheep and oxen, the principal of those things which were slain, to immolate to our Lord their God in Galgal. {22} And Samuel said: why? Will our Lord have holocausts and victims, and not rather that the voice of our Lord be obeyed? For BETTER IS OBEDIENCE THAN VICTIMS: and to harken rather than to offer the fat of rams. {23} Because it is as it were the sin of enchantment, to resist, & as it were the wickedness of idolatry, to refuse to obey. For as much therefore as thou hast rejected the word of our Lord, our Lord hath rejected thee, that thou shalt not be king. {24} And Saul said to Samuel: I have sinned, because I have transgressed the saying of our Lord, and thy words, fearing the people, and obeying their voice. {25} But now bear I beseech thee my sin, and return with me, that I may adore our Lord. {26} And Samuel said to Saul: I will not return with thee, because thou hast rejected the word of our Lord, and our Lord hath rejected thee that thou shalt not be king over Israel. {27} And Samuel turned himself to depart: but he caught the hem of his cloak, which also did rend. {28} And Samuel said to him: Our Lord hath rent the Kingdom of Israel from thee this day, and hath delivered it to thy neighbour better than thou. {29} Moreover the Triumpher in Israel will not spare, and he will not be turned with repentance: for neither is he a man that he may repent. {30} But he said: I have sinned: howbeit now honour me before the ancients of my people, and before Israel, & return with me, that I may adore our Lord thy God. {31} Samuel therefore returning followed Saul: & Saul adored our Lord. {32} And Samuel said: Bring unto me Agag the king of Amalec. And Agag was presented to him very fat, trembling. And Agag said: Doth bitter death thus separate? {33} And Samuel said: As thy sword hath made women without children, so shall thy mother among women be without children. And Samuel hewed him into pieces before our Lord in Galgal. {34} And Samuel departed into Ramatha: but Saul ascended unto his house into Gabaa. {35} And Samuel saw Saul no more unto the day of his death: but yet Samuel lamented Saul because it repented our Lord that he had appointed him king over Israel.

Samuel by God's commandment anointeth David king. 14. God's spirit parteth from Saul, and a wicked spirit vexeth him. 16. The vexation is mitigated by David's playing on a harp.

{1} AND our Lord said to Samuel: How long dost thou mourn Saul, whom I have rejected that he rule not over Israel? Fill thy horn with oil, and come, that I may send thee to Isai the Bethlehemite: for I have provided me a king among his sons. {2} And Samuel said: How shall I go? For Saul will hear of it, and will kill me. And our Lord said: A calf of the herd shalt thou take in thy hand, and shalt say: I am come to immolate unto our Lord. {3} And thou shalt call Isai to the victim, and I will shew thee what thou must do, and thou shalt anoint whomsoever I shall shew to thee. {4} Samuel therefore did as our Lord spake to him. And he came into Bethlehem, and the ancients of the city marveled meeting him, and they said: Is thy entrance peaceable? {5} And he said: Peaceable: I am come to immolate unto our Lord, be ye sanctified and come with me that I may immolate. He therefore sanctified Isai and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice. {6} And when they were entered in, he saw Eliab, and said: Is there before our Lord his Christ? {7} And our Lord said to Samuel: Respect not his countenance, nor the tallness of his stature: because I have rejected him, neither do I judge according to the look of man: for man seeth those things which appear, but our Lord beholdeth the heart. {8} And Isai called Aminadab, and brought him before Samuel. Who said: Neither this hath our Lord chosen. {9} And Isai brought Samma, of whom he said: This also hath not our Lord chosen. {10} Isai therefore brought his seven sons before Samuel: & Samuel said to Isai: Our Lord hath not chosen of these. {11} And Samuel said to Isai: Are all thy sons now fully come? Who answered: Yet there is left a little one, & he feedeth sheep. And Samuel said to Isai: Send, and bring him: for neither will we sit down till he come hither. {12} He sent therefore, and brought him. And he was red and beautiful to behold, and of a comely face. And our Lord said: Arise, and anoint him, for he it is. {13} Samuel therefore took the horn of oil, & anointed him in the midst of his brethren: and the Spirit of our Lord from that day & so forward was directed upon David: & Samuel rising went into Ramatha. {14} And the Spirit of our Lord departed from Saul, and a wicked spirit vexed him, from our Lord. {15} And the servants of Saul said to him: Behold an evil spirit of God vexeth thee. {16} Let our Lord command, and thy servants which are before thee will seek a man skilful to play on the harp, that when the evil spirit of our Lord shall take thee, he may play with his hand, and thou bear it more easily. {17} And Saul said to his servants: Provide me therefore some man that playeth well, and bring him to me. {18} And one of the servants answering, said: Behold I have seen the son of Isai the Bethlehemite skilful to play, and very valiant in strength, and a warlike man, and wise in his words, & a beautiful man: and our Lord is with him. {19} Saul therefore sent messengers to Isai saying: Send unto me David thy son, which is in the pastures. {20} Isai therefore took an ass loaden with loaves, and a flagon of wine, and one kid of the goats, and sent it by the hand of David his son to Saul. {21} And David came to Saul, and stood before him: but he loved him exceedingly, and was made his esquire. {22} And Saul sent to Isai, saying: Let David stand in my sight: for he hath found grace in mine eyes. {23} Therefore whensoever the evil spirit of our Lord caught Saul, David took his harp, & struck with his hand, & Saul was refreshed, and waxed better, for the evil spirit departed from him.

Goliath a Philistine challengeth any one of Israel to combat. 12. David being sent by his father to visit his brethren, 23. and hearing all Israel so reproachfully provoked, offereth to undertake the challenge: 34. shewing by former acts that he dare accept it. 37. And so by God's special help wherein he trusteth, 49. overthroweth the challenger with a stone of his sling, and cutteth off his head with his own sword. 51. the Philistines flying are slain, and David bringeth the man's head to Saul.

{1} AND the Philisthiims gathering together their companies unto battle, assembled into Socho of Juda: and camped between Socho and Azeca in the borders of Dommim. {2} Moreover Saul and the children of Israel being gathered together came into the valley of Terebinth, and they put the army in array to fight against the Philisthiims. {3} And the Philisthiims stood upon the mountain on this side, and Israel stood upon the mountain on the other side: and the valley was between them. {4} And there came forth a man that was a bastard from the camp of the Philistians, named Goliath, of Geth, in height six cubits and a palm: {5} and a helmet of brass upon his head, & he was clothed with a coat of mail linked. Moreover the weight of his coat of mail was five thousand sicles of brass: {6} and he had brassen boots on his thighs, and a target of brass covered his shoulders. {7} And the shaft of his spear was as it were a weaver's beam, and the very iron of his spear had six hundred sicles of iron: and his esquire went before him. {8} And standing he cried against the bands of Israel, & said to them: Why came you prepared to fight? Am not I a Philistine, and you the servants of Saul? Choose out a man of you, and let him descend to fight hand to hand. {9} If he shall be able to fight with me, & strike me, we will be servants to you: but if I shall prevail, & shall beat him, you shall be servants, & shall serve us. {10} And the Philistine said: I have defied the bands of Israel this day: Give me a man, and let him fight with me hand to hand. {11} And Saul and all the Israelites hearing such words of the Philistians, were astonished, and feared exceedingly. {12} And there was David the son of a man that was an Ephrathite, of whom there was mention before, of Bethlehem Juda, whose name was Isai, who had eight sons, and he was in the days of Saul an old man, and aged among men. {13} And his three elder sons went after Saul into battle: and the names of his three sons, which went to battle, were Eliab the first begotten, and the second Abinadab, the third also Samma: {14} and David was the youngest. The three elder therefore having followed Saul, {15} David went, and returned from Saul, to feed his father's flock in Bethlehem. {16} But the Philistine came forth morning and evening, and stood forty days. {17} And Isai said to David his son: Take for thy brethren an ephi of potent, and these ten loaves, and run into the camp to thy brethren, {18} and these ten little cheeses thou shalt carry to the tribute: and shalt visit thy brethren, if they do well: and learn with whom they are placed. {19} And Saul, and they, and all the children of Israel fought in the Valley of Terebinth against the Philisthiims. {20} David therefore arose in the morning, & commended the flock to the keeper: and he went loaded as Isai had commanded him. And he came to the place Magala, and to the host, which issuing out to fight had made a shout in the battle. {21} For Israel had put themselves in array, and the Philisthiims on the contrary side were prepared. {22} David therefore leaving the vessels which he had brought, under the hand of him that was keeper at the baggage, ran to the place of the battle, and asked if all things went well with his brethren. {23}

And when he yet spake to them, that man the bastard appeared coming up, named Goliath, the Philistine of Geth, coming up from the camp of the Philistians: and he speaking these self-same words, David heard them. {24} And all the Israelites when they had seen the man, fled from his face, fearing him exceedingly. {25} And some one of Israel said: Have you seen this man that came up, to defy Israel he came up? The man therefore that shall strike him, the king will give him his daughter, and he will make his father's house without tribute in Israel. {26} And David spake to the men that stood with him, saying: What shall be given to the man that shall beat this Philistine, and shall take away the reproach from Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine, which hath upbraided the armies of the living God? {27} And the people reported unto him the self-same word, saying: These things shall be given to the man, that shall strike him. {28} Which when Eliab his eldest brother had heard, when he spake with others, he was angry against David, and said: Wherefore camest thou? And why hast thou left those few sheep in the desert? I know thy pride, and the wickedness of thy heart: that to see the battle thou art come down. {29} And David said: What have I done? Is there not cause to speak? {30} And he went a little aside from him to an other, and said the self-same word. And the people answered him as before. {31} And the words which David spake were heard, and told in the sight of Saul. {32} To whom when he was brought, he spake unto him: Let not any man's heart be discouraged in him: I thy servant will go, and will fight against the Philistine. {33} And Saul said to David: Thou art not able to resist this Philistine, nor to fight against him, because thou art a child, but he is a man of war from his youth. {34} And David said to Saul: Thy servant did feed his father's flock, and there came a lion, or a bear, and took a ram out of the midst of the flock: {35} and I pursued them, and struck them, & plucked them out of their mouth, and they arose up against me, and I caught their chin, & I strangled and slew them. {36} For both the lion and the bear did I thy servant kill: therefore this uncircumcised Philistine also shall be as it were one of them. Now will I go & take away the reproach of the people: for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, which hath been so hardy to curse the host of the living God? {37} And David said: Our Lord which hath delivered me from the hand of the lion, and of the bear, he will deliver me from the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said to David: Go, & our Lord be with thee. {38} And Saul clothed David with his raiments, & put an helmet of brass upon his head, and vested him with a coat of mail. {39} David therefore being girded with his sword over his raiment, began to prove if he could go armed: for he was not accustomed. And David said to Saul: I can not go so, because I am not used, & he laid them off. {40} And he took his staff, which he had always in his hands, & he chose him five most bright stones out of the torrent, and cast them into the shepherds scrip, which he had with him, & he took a sling in his hand, & went forth against the Philistine. {41} And the Philistine went, going, & approaching against David, and his esquire before him. {42} And when the Philistine had seen and beheld David, he despised him. And he was a young man red, and beautiful to behold. {43} And the Philistine said to David: Why, am I a dog, that thou comest to me with a staff? And the Philistine cursed David in his gods, {44} and said to David: Come to me, & I will give thy flesh to the fowls of the air and the beasts of the earth. {45} And David said to the Philistine: Thou comest to me with a sword & spear, & shield, but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the bands of Israel, whom thou hast defied {46} this day, and our Lord shall give thee in my hand, & shall strike thee, and take away thy head from thee: and I shall give the carcasses of the camp of the Philisthiims this day to the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the earth: that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel. {47} And all this assembly shall know, that not in sword, nor in spear, doth our Lord save, for it is his battle, & he will deliver you into our hands. {48} When the Philistian therefore was risen up, & came & approached against David, David made haste, & ran to the battle against the Philistian. {49} And he put his hand into his scrip, and took one stone, and cast it with the sling, and fetching it about struck the Philistian in the forehead, and he fell on his face upon the earth. {50} And David prevailed against the Philistian with sling and stone, and he struck, and slew the Philistian. And whereas David had no sword in his hand, {51} he ran, and stood upon the Philistian, and took his sword, and drew it out of the scabbard, and slew him, & cut off his head. And the Philisthiims seeing that the strongest of them was dead, did fly. {52} And the men of Israel & Juda rising up shouted, & pursued the Philistians till they came into a valley to the gates of Accaron, and there fell wounded of the Philisthiims in the way of Saraim, as far as Geth, and as far as Accaron. {53} And the children of Israel returning, after they had pursued the Philistians, invaded their camp. {54} And David taking the head of the Philistian brought it into Jerusalem: but his armour he laid in his tabernacle. {55} And at the same time that Saul saw David going forth against the Philistian, he said to Abner the Prince of the army: Of what stock is this young man descended, Abner? And Abner said: Thy soul liveth, o king, if I know. {56} And the king said: Ask thou whose son this young man is. {57} And when David was returned, after the Philistian was slain, Abner took him, and brought him in before Saul, having the head of the Philistian in his hand. {58} And Saul said to him: O young man, of what progeny art thou? And David said: I am the son of thy servant Isai the Bethlehemite.

David and Jonathas enter league of friendship. 6. Saul hearing David praised above himself is offended, 10. and vexed with an evil spirit attempteth twice to kill him. 17. Promiseth to give him his eldest daughter in marriage, but giveth her to an other, 20. and giveth him the younger, thereby to overthrow him: 25. putting him also in more danger, by requiring of him an hundred prepuces of Philisthiims. 27. David bringeth him two hundred, and his fame increaseth.

{1} AND it came to pass, when he had finished to speak unto Saul, the soul of Jonathas was joined fast to the soul of David, and Jonathas loved him as his soul. {2} And Saul took him in that day, and did not grant unto him to return into his father's house. {3} And David and Jonathas entered a league, for he loved him as his soul. {4} For Jonathas stripped himself of the coat wherewith he was clothed, and gave it to David, and the rest of his garments, unto his sword, and bow, and unto his belt. {5} David also went forth to all things wheretosoever Saul sent him, & he behaved himself wisely: and Saul placed him over the men of war, & he was accepted in the eyes of all the people, & specially in the eyes of Saul's servants. {6} Moreover when David returned, after he struck the Philistian, the women came forth from all the tribes of Israel, singing & dancing to Saul the king, in timbrels of joy, & in cornets. {7} and the women sang, playing and saying: Saul struck a thousand, and David ten thousand. {8} And Saul was exceeding angry, & this word was displeasant in his eyes, and he said: They have given David ten thousand, & to me they have given a thousand: what remaineth for him but only the Kingdom? {9} Therefore Saul did not look upon David with right eyes from that day and afterward. {10} And a day after, the evil spirit of God invaded Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of his house. And David played with his hand as every day. And Saul held a spear, {11} and threw it, thinking that he could nail David to the wall, and David declined from his face the second time. {12} And Saul feared David because our Lord was with him, and was departed from himself. {13} Saul therefore removed him from him, and made him a tribune over a thousand men, and he went out and came in before all the people. {14} Also in all his ways David dealt wisely, and our Lord was with him. {15} Saul therefore saw that he was exceeding wise, and he began to beware of him. {16} But all Israel and Juda loved David, for he came in and went out before them. {17} And Saul said to David: Behold my elder daughter Merob, her will I give thee to wife, only be thou a valiant man, and fight the battles of our Lord. And Saul thought saying: Be not my hand upon him, but let the hands of the Philistians be upon him. {18} And David said to Saul: What am I, or what is my life, or the kindred of my father in Israel, that I should be made the son in law of the king? {19} And it came to pass, at what time Merob the daughter of Saul should have been given to David, she was given to Hadriel the Molathite to wife. {20} But David loved Michol the other daughter of Saul. And it was told Saul, and it pleased him. {21} And Saul said: I will give her to him, that she may be a scandal unto him, & that the hand of the Philistians may be upon him. And Saul said to David: In two things thou shalt be my son in law this day. {22} And Saul commanded his servants: Speak to David secretly out of my presence, saying: Behold thou pleasest the king, and all his servants love thee. Now therefore be thou the king's son in law. {23} And the servants of Saul spake all these words in the ears of David. And David said: Doth it seem unto you a small matter to be the son in law of a king? But I am a poor man, and of small ability. {24} And the servants of Saul reported, saying: These manner of words hath David spoken. {25} And Saul said: Speak thus to David: The king needeth no dowry, but only an hundred prepuces of the Philistians, that revenge may be made of the king's enemies. Moreover Saul thought to deliver David into the hands of the Philistians. {26} And when his servants had reported to David the words that Saul had said, the word was liked in the eyes of David, to be made the king's son in law. {27} And after few days David rising up, went with the men that were under him, and he struck of the Philisthiims two hundred men, and brought their prepuces, and numbered them to the king, that he might be his son in law, Saul therefore gave him Michol his daughter to wife. {28} And Saul saw, and understood that our Lord was with David. And Michol the daughter of Saul loved him. {29} And Saul began more to fear David: and Saul became enemy to David all days. {30} And the Princes of the Philistians went forth: and from the beginning of their going forth, David behaved himself more wisely, than all the servants of Saul, and his name was made renowned exceedingly.

Saul intending to kill David is pacified by Jonathas. 9. Nevertheless attempteth again to kill him, and missing his purpose, 11. sendeth soldiers to take and bring him back that he may be slain, but Michol his wife helpeth him away, and excuseth her self to her father, as if she had done it for fear. 18. David and Samuel flying into Najoth. 20. Again Saul sendeth soldiers after them three times, and they all do prophesy. 22. Then himself pursueth David, and also prophesieth.

{1} AND Saul spake to Jonathas his Son, and to all his servants, that they should kill David. Moreover Jonathas the son of Saul loved David exceedingly. {2} And Jonathas told David, saying: Saul my father seeketh to kill thee: wherefore look to thy self I beseech thee in the morning, and thou shalt abide secretly, and shalt be hid. {3} But I going forth will stand beside my father, in the field wheresoever he shall be: and I will speak of thee to my father, and whatsoever I shall see, I will tell thee. {4} Jonathas therefore spake good words of David to Saul his father, and said to him: Sin not, o king, against thy servant David, because he hath not sinned toward thee, and his works are very good for thee. {5} And he put his life in his hand, and struck the Philistian, and our Lord made great salvation to all Israel. Thou hast seen & didst rejoice, why therefore sinnest thou in innocent blood killing David, who is without fault? {6} Which when Saul had heard, being pacified with the voice of Jonathas, he sware: Our Lord liveth, he shall not be slain. {7} Jonathas herefore called David and shewed him all these words, and Jonathas brought in David to Saul, and he was before him, as he had been yesterday and the day before. {8} And there was battle raised again, and David going forth, fought against the Philisthiims, and struck them with a great slaughter, and they fled from his face. {9} And the evil spirit of our Lord came upon Saul, and he sat in his house, and held a spear: moreover David played with his hand. {10} And Saul endeavoured to nail David to the wall with his spear. And David declined from the face of Saul: and the spear without making wound pierced the wall, & David fled, and was saved that night. {11} Saul therefore sent of his guard into David's house, that they should keep him, & that he might be killed in the morning: Which when Michol his wife had told David, saying: Unless thou save thy self this night, to morrow thou shalt die: {12} she let him down through a window. Moreover he went and fled away, and was saved. {13} And Michol took a statua, and put it upon the bed, and a hairy skin of goats she laid at the head thereof, and covered it with garments. {14} And Saul sent sergeants, that should take away David by force, and it was answered that he was sick. {15} And again Saul sent messengers to see David, saying: Bring him to me in the bed, that he may be slain. {16} And when the messengers were come, there was found a statua upon the bed, & skins of goats at the head thereof. {17} And Saul said to Michol: Why hast thou mocked me, and let go mine enemy that he might fly? And Michol answered Saul: Because he said to me: Let me go, otherwise I will kill thee. {18} But David flying was saved, and came to Samuel in Ramatha, & told him all things that Saul had done to him: and he and Samuel went and abode in Najoth. {19} And it was told Saul by some saying: Behold David is in Najoth in Ramatha. {20} Saul therefore sent sergeants to take away David: who when they had seen a troop of Prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing over them, the spirit of our Lord came also on them, and they also began to prophesy. {21} Which when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers: but they also did prophesy. And again Saul sent the third messengers: who also prophesied. And Saul being wrath for anger, {22} went also himself into Ramatha, and came as far as the great cistern, which is in Socho, and asked, and said: In what place are Samuel and David? And it was told him: Lo they are in Najoth in Ramatha. {23} And he went into Najoth in Ramatha, and the Spirit of our Lord came upon him, and he walked going, and he prophesied till he came into Najoth in Ramatha. {24} And he stripped himself of his garments, and prophesied with the rest before Samuel, and sang naked all that day and night. Whereupon there went out also a proverb: What, is Saul also among the Prophets.

Jonathas comforteth David, 3. confirmeth their former league. 18. By an appointed sign (24. endeavouring first, but in vain, to pacify his father) 35. certifieth David of his father's malice against him. 41. They meet again secretly, and sorrowfully part each from other.

{1} BUT David also fled from Najoth, which is in Ramatha, and coming spake before Jonathas: What have I done? What is mine iniquity, and what sin of mine against thy father, that he seeketh my life? {2} Who said to him: God forbid, thou shalt not die: for neither will my father do any thing great or little, unless he first tell me: this word therefore only hath my father concealed from me? No, this shall not be. {3} And he sware again to David. And David said: Thy father surely knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, & will say: Let not Jonathas know this, lest perhaps he be sad. Yea more, our Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, by one degree only (as I may so say) I and death are divided. {4} And Jonathas said to David: Whatsoever thy soul shall say to me, I will do for thee. {5} And David said to Jonathas: Behold the calends are to morrow, and I after the manner am wont to sit beside the king to eat: dismiss me therefore that I may be hid in the field until the evening of the third day. {6} If thy father looking inquire for me, thou shalt answer him: David desired me, that he might go quickly into Bethlehem his city: because there be solemn victims to all of his tribe. {7} If he shall say: Well; peace shall be to thy servant: but if he be angry, know that his malice is complete. {8} Do mercy therefore toward thy servant: because thou hast caused me thy servant to enter the league of our Lord with thee. But if there be any iniquity in me, do thou kill me, and bring me not in to thy father. {9} And Jonathas said: Be this far from thee, for neither can it be, that I should not tell thee, if I shall certainly know that my father's malice is complete against thee. {10} And David answered Jonathas: Who shall bring me word, if thy father answer thee perhaps any thing sharply of me? {11} And Jonathas said to David: Come, let us go forth abroad into the field: and when they were both gone forth into the field, {12} Jonathas said to David: Lord God of Israel, if I shall search out my father's meaning, to morrow or the day after, and some good thing be upon David, and I send not immediately unto thee, and make thee know thereof, {13} these things do our Lord to Jonathas, and these things add he. But if my father's malice shall persevere against thee, I will reveal thine ear, and will dismiss thee, that thou mayest go in peace, and our Lord be with thee, as he hath been with my father. {14} And if I live, thou shalt do me the mercy of our Lord, but if I die, {15} thou shalt not take away thy mercy from my house for ever, when our Lord shall have rooted out the enemies of David, every one out of the land: take he away Jonathas from his house, and our Lord require it of the hands of David's enemies. {16} Jonathas therefore made a league with the house of David: & our Lord required it of the hands of David's enemies. {17} And Jonathas added to swear unto David, because he love him, for as his own soul, so he loved him. {18} And Jonathas said to him: To morrow are the calends, and thou shalt be asked for: {19} for thy sitting will be inquired of till after to morrow. Thou shalt therefore go down in haste, and shalt come to the place, where thou must be hid in the day, when it is lawful to work, and thou shalt sit beside the stone which is named Ezel. {20} And I will shoot three arrows near it, and will shoot as it were exercising my self at a mark. {21} I will send also a boy saying to him: Go, and fetch me the arrows. {22} If I shall say to the boy: Lo, the arrows are on this side thee, take them up: come thou to me, because there is peace to thee, and there is no evil, our Lord liveth. But if I shall speak thus to the boy: Lo the arrows are beyond thee: Go in peace, because our Lord hath dismissed thee. {23} And concerning the word which I and thou have spoken, our Lord be between thee and me for ever. {24} David therefore was hid in the field, and the calends came, and the king sat down to eat bread. {25} And when the king was set upon his chair (according to the custom) which was beside the wall, Jonathas arose, and Abner sat at the side of Saul, and David's place appeared void. {26} And Saul said nothing that day, for he thought it had chanced perhaps unto him, that he was not clean, nor purified. {27} And when the second day was come after the calends, again David's place appeared empty. And Saul said to Jonathas his son: Why came not the son of Isai neither yesterday nor to day to eat? {28} Jonathas answered Saul: He desired me instantly, that he might go into Bethlehem, {29} and he said: Let me go, because there is a solemn sacrifice in the city, one of my brethren hath sent for me: now therefore if I have found grace in thy sight, I will go quickly, & see my brethren. For this cause he came not to the king's table. {30} But Saul being wrath against Jonathas, said to him: Thou son of a woman which of her own accord ravisheth a man, am I ignorant that thou lovest the son of Isai unto thine own confusion, & to the confusion of thine ignominious mother? {31} For all the days, that the son of Isai shall live upon the earth, thou shalt not be established, nor thy Kingdom. Therefore now presently send, and bring him to me: because he is the son of death. {32} And Jonathas answering Saul his father, said: Why shall he die? What hath he done? {33} And Saul caught a spear to strike him. And Jonathas understood that it was determined of his father, that he would kill David. {34} Jonathas therefore rose from the table in anger of fury, and did not eat bread the second day of the calends. For he was stricken heavy upon David, because his father had confounded him. {35} And when the morning appeared, Jonathas came into the field according to the appointment with David, and a little boy with him, {36} and said to his boy: Go, & fetch me the arrows, which I shoot. And when the boy had run, he shot an other arrow beyond the boy. {37} The boy therefore came to the place of the arrow, which Jonathas had shot: and Jonathas cried behind the back of the boy, and said: Lo the arrow is there further beyond thee. {38} And Jonathas cried again behind the back of the boy, saying: Make haste speedily, stand not. And Jonathas his boy gathered up his arrows, and brought them to his master: {39} and he was altogether ignorant, what was done: for only Jonathas and David knew the matter. {40} Jonathas therefore gave his armour to the boy, and said to him: Go, and carry them into the city. {41} And when the boy was gone, David rose out of the place, which did bend to the South, and falling flat on the ground, adored thrice: & kissing one an other, they wept together, but David more. {42} Jonathas therefore said to David: Go in peace: whatsoever we have sworn both of us in the name of our Lord, saying: Our Lord be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed for ever. {43} And David arose, and departed: but Jonathas also entered into the City.

In case of necessity Achimelech the Priest giveth hallowed bread to David, 8. also the sword which he had taken from Goliath. 10. Then David going to Achis king of Geth, is forced to feign himself mad.

{1} AND David came into Nobe to Achimelech the Priest: and Achimelech was astonished, because David was come. And he said to him: Why art thou alone, and none is with thee? {2} And David said to Achimelech the Priest: The king hath commanded me a word and said: Let no man know the thing, for which thou art sent by me, & what manner of precepts I have given thee, for my servants also I have appointed into such and such a place. {3} Now therefore if thou have any thing at hand, yea if but five loaves, give me, or whatsoever thou shalt find. {4} And the Priest answered David, saying: I have no lay breads at hand, but only holy bread, if the servants be clean, especially from women? {5} And David answered the Priest, and said to him: And truly, if the matter be concerning women, we have refrained our selves from yesterday and the day before, when we came forth, and the vessels of the servants were holy. Moreover this way is polluted, but it also shall be sanctified this day in the vessels. {6} The Priest therefore gave him hallowed bread; for neither was any bread there, but only the loaves of proposition, which had been taken away from the face of our Lord, that hot loaves might be set down. {7} And there was there a certain man of the servants of Saul that day, within the tabernacle of our Lord, & his name was Doeg an Idumite, the mightiest of Saul's pastors. {8} And David said to Achimelech: Hast thou here at hand a spear, or a sword? Because mine own sword, and mine own weapons I took not with me. For the king's word hastened forward. {9} And the Priest said: Lo here the sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou slewest in the Valley of Terebinth, is wrapped up in a mantle behind the Ephod: if thou wilt take this, take it: for neither is here any other beside that. And David said: there is none other like to that, give me it. {10} David therefore arose, and fled that day from the face of Saul: and came to Achis the king of Geth, {11} & the servants of Achis said to him, when they had seen David: Is not this David the king of the land? Did they not sing in dances to this man saying: Saul struck a thousand, and David ten thousand? {12} But David put these words in his heart, and feared exceedingly at the face of Achis the king of Geth. {13} And he changed his countenance before them, and slipt down between their hands and he stumbled at the doors of the gate, and his spittle ran down upon his beard. {14} And Achis said to his servants: You have seen the man mad: why have you brought him to me? {15} Do we lack mad men, that you have brought in this fellow, to play the mad man in my presence? Shall this man enter into my house?

David with a great retinue goeth to king of Moab, 5. but by advice of Gad the Prophet returneth into Juda. 6. Saul lamenting that many conspire against him, 9. Doeg accuseth Achimelech, 14. who justifieth both David and himself. 16. He and all the Priests with much people in Nobe are slain by Saul's commandment. 20. only Abiathar escaping flyeth to David.

{1} DAVID therefore went from thence, and fled to the cave of Odollam. Which when his brethren had heard, and all his father's house, they went down to him thither. {2} And there were gathered unto him all that were in distress, and oppressed with debt, and of a pensive heart, and he was made their Prince, and there were with him about four hundred men. {3} And David departed from thence into Maspha which is Moab: and he said to the king of Moab: Let my father and my mother tarry with you, I beseech thee, till I know what God will do to me. {4} And he left them before the face of the king of Moab, and they abode with him all the days that David was in garrison. {5} And Gad the Prophet said to David. Tarry not in garrison, depart, and go into the Land of Juda. And David departed, and came into the forest of Haret. {6} And Saul heard that David had appeared, and the men that were with him. And Saul when he abode in Gabaa, and was in the wood which is in Rama, holding a spear in his hand, and all his servants that stood about him, {7} he said to his servants that stood about him: Hear me now ye children of Jemini: will the son of Isai give to all you fields, and vineyards, and make all you tribunes, and centurions: {8} because you have all conspired against me, and there is none that telleth me, especially where my son also hath entered league with the son of Isai? There is none of you that pitith my case, neither is there that telleth me: for that my son hath raised up my servant against me, lying in wait for me until this day. {9} And Doeg the Idumite which stood by, and was the chief among the servants of Saul, answering, I saw, quoth he, the son of Isai in Nobe with Achimelech the son of Achitob the Priest. {10} Who consulted our Lord for him, and gave him victuals, yea and the sword of Goliath the Philistine he gave to him. {11} The king therefore sent to call for Achimelech the Priest the son of Achitob & all his father's house, the Priests that were in Nobe, who came all to the king. {12} And Saul said to Achimelech: Hear thou son of Achitob. Who answered: I am ready, my Lord. {13} And Saul said to him: Why have you conspired against me, thou, and the son of Isai, and hast given him bread and a sword, & hast consulted our Lord for him, that he might rise up against me, continuing a traitor until this day? {14} And Achimelech answering the king, said: And who amongst all thy servants faithful as David, and the king's son in law, and going forth at thy commandment, & glorious in thy house? {15} Did I begin this day to consult our Lord for him? Far be this from me: let not the king suspect such a thing against his servant, in all the house of my father: for thy servant knew not any thing concerning this business, either little or great. {16} And the king said: Dying thou shalt die Achimelech, thou, and all thy father's house. {17} And the king said to the couriers, that stood about him. Turn your selves, and kill the Priests of our Lord, for their hand is with David, knowing that he was fled, and they told me not. And the king's servants would not extend their hands upon the Priests of our Lord. {18} And the king said to Doeg: Turn thou, and run upon the Priests. And Doeg the Idumite being turned, ran upon the Priests, and murdered in that day eighty five men revested with an ephod of linen. {19} And Nobe the city of the Priests he struck in the edge of the sword, men and women, and children, and sucklings, and oxe and ass and sheep in the edge of the sword. {20} But one son of Achimelech the son of Achitob, escaping, whose name was Abiathar, fled to David, {21} and told him that Saul had slain the Priests of our Lord. {22} And David said to Abiathar: I knew in that day when Doeg the Idumite was there, without doubt he would tell Saul, I am guilty of all the souls of thy father. {23} Abide with me, fear not: if any man shall seek my life, he shall seek thy life also, and with me thou shall be preserved.

The city of Ceila oppugned by the Philistines is relieved by David. 7. who fearing to be there betrayed, 13. flyeth into the desert of Ziph. 16. Jonathas repaireth secretly to him, and they confirm again their former league. {19} The Ziphians promise to betray David: 27. but Saul leaveth for a while to persecute him, being forced to defend the land from the Philistines invading it.

{1} AND they told David, saying: Behold the Philistines oppugn Ceila, and spoil the barns. {2} David therefore consulted our Lord, saying: Shall I go, and strike these Philistines? And our Lord said to David: Go, and thou shalt strike the Philistines, and shalt save Ceila. {3} And the men that were with David, said to him: Behold we resting here in Jury are afraid, how much more if we shall go into Ceila against the bands of the Philistines? {4} Again therefore David consulted our Lord. Who answering said to him: Arise, and go into Ceila: for I will deliver the Philistines in thy hand. {5} David therefore and his men went into Ceila, and fought against the Philistines, and drove away their beasts, and struck them with a great slaughter, and David saved the inhabitants of Ceila. {6} Moreover at that time, when Abiathar the son of Achimelech fled to David into Ceila, he went down having with him an ephod. {7} And it was told Saul that David was come into Ceila: and Saul said: Our Lord hath delivered him into my hands, & he is shut up being entered the city, where in are gates and locks. {8} And Saul commanded all the people, that they should go down into Ceila to fight, and besiege David and his men. {9} Which when David understood, that Saul secretly prepared evil against him, he said to Abiathar the Priest: Apply the Ephod. {10} And David said: Lord God of Israel, thy servant hath heard a bruit, that Saul determineth to come into Ceila, to destroy the city for me: {11} Will the men of Ceila deliver me into his hands? And will Saul come down, as thy servant hath heard? Lord God of Israel tell thy servant. And our Lord said: He will come down. {12} And David said: Will the men of Ceila deliver me, and the men that are with me, into the hands of Saul? And our Lord said: They will deliver thee. {13} David therefore arose and his men, about six hundred, and going out of Ceila, wandered hither and thither uncertain: and it was told Saul that David was fled from Ceila, and was saved: for which cause he dissembled to go forth. {14} But David abode in the desert in most strong places, & he tarried in the mount of the desert Ziph, in a shadowed hill. Saul notwithstanding sought him always: and our Lord delivered him not into his hands. {15} And David saw that Saul was gone forth to seek his life. Moreover David was in the desert Ziph, in a wood. {16} And Jonathas the son of Saul arose, and went to David into the wood, and strengthened his hands in God, and said to him: {17} Fear not; for neither shall the hand of Saul my father find thee, and thou shalt reign over Israel, & I shall be second to thee, yea and my father knoweth this. {18} Both therefore made a league before our Lord: and David abode in the wood: but Jonathas returned into his house. {19} And the Ziphites went up unto Saul in Gabaa, saying: Lo, doth not David lie hid with us in the most safe places of the wood, in the hill Hachila, which is on the right hand of the desert? {20} Now therefore, as thy soul hath desired, come down, & it shall be our charge to deliver him into the king's hands. {21} And Saul said: Blessed be ye of our Lord, because you have pitied my case. {22} Go therefore I pray you, and prepare diligently, and deal curiously, and consider the place, where his foot is, and who hath seen him there, for he thinketh of me, that I craftily lie in wait for him. {23} Consider and see all his lurking holes, wherein he is hid, and return to me with the certainty of the thing, that I may go with you. Yea and if he shall stop up himself into the earth, I will search him out among all the thousands of Juda. {24} But they rising went into Ziph before Saul: and David and his men were in the desert Maon, in the champion country at the right hand of Jesimon. {25} Saul therefore and his company went to seek him: and it was told David, and forthwith he went down to the rock, and abode in the desert Maon, which when Saul had heard, he pursued David in the desert Maon. {26} And Saul went at the side of the mountain on the one part: and David and his men were in the side of the mountain on the other part: moreover David despaired that he could escape from the face of Saul: Saul therefore & his men in manner of a ring compassed David & his men, to take them. {27} And a messenger came to Saul, saying: Make haste, and come, because the Philistines have poured in themselves upon the land. {28} Saul therefore returned leaving off to pursue David, and he went to meet the Philistines. For this cause they called that place, The Rock dividing.

Saul chancing to come into a cave, David being hid with others in the same place, only cutteth the skirt of his cloak. 5. which after shewing, Saul acknowledgeth his fault, and ceaseth for a time to persecute him.

{1} DAVID therefore went up from thence, and dwelt in the safest places of Engaddi. {2} And when Saul was returned, after he pursued the Philistines, they told him, saying: Behold, David is in the desert Engaddi. {3} Saul therefore taking unto him three thousand chosen men of all Israel, went forth to search out David & his men, yea over the steep broken rocks, which are accessible only to wild goats. {4} And he came to the sheepcotes, which fell in his way as he went, and there was a cave, which Saul entered into, to do his easement: moreover David and his men lay hid in the inner part of the cave. {5} And the servants of David said to him: Behold the day, whereof our Lord said to thee: I will deliver thee thine enemy, that thou mayest do to him as it shall seem good in thine eyes. David therefore arose, and cut off the hem of Saul's cloak softly. {6} After this David's heart struck him, for that he had cut off the hem of Saul's cloak. {7} And he said to his men: Our Lord be merciful unto me, that I do not this thing to my master the anointed of our Lord, that I should lay my hand upon him, because he is the anointed of our Lord. {8} And David persuaded his men with words, and permitted them not to rise against Saul: moreover Saul rising out of the cave, went on his journey begun. {9} And David rose up after him: and going out of the cave, cried behind Saul's back, saying: My lord king. And Saul looked back behind him: and David bowing himself flat toward the ground adored, {10} and said to Saul: Why dost thou hear the words of men that say: David seeketh evil against thee? {11} Lo this day thine eyes have seen, that our Lord delivered thee in my hand, in the cave, and I had a cogitation to kill thee, but mine eye hath spared thee. For I said: I will not extend mine hand upon my Lord, because he is the anointed of our Lord. {12} But rather see and know, o my father, the hem of thy cloak in my hand, that when I did cut off the hem of thy cloak, I would not extend my hand upon thee. Mark, and see, that there is no evil in my hand, nor iniquity, neither have I sinned against thee: but thou liest in wait for my life, to take it away. {13} Our Lord judge between me and thee, and our Lord revenge me of thee, but be not my hand upon thee. {14} As also it is said in the old proverb: FROM THE IMPIOUS shall impiety proceed: be not therefore my hand upon thee: Whom dost thou persecute, o king of Israel? {15} Whom dost thou persecute? Thou persecutest a dead dog, and a flea. {16} Our Lord be judge, and judge between me and thee, and he see, and judge my cause, and deliver me out of thy hand. {17} And when David had fully ended speaking such words to Saul, Saul said: Is this thy voice my son David? And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept: {18} and said to David: Thou art juster than I: for thou hast done me good turns, and I have rendered thee evil. {19} And thou hast shewed this day what good things thou hast done to me: how our Lord delivered me into thy hand, and thou hast not killed me. {20} For who when he hath found his enemy, will let him go in a good way? But our Lord render thee this good turn, for that which thou hast wrought toward me this day. {21} And now because I know that thou most certainly shalt reign, and have the Kingdom of Israel in thy hand: {22} swear to me in our Lord, not to destroy my seed after me, nor to take away my name from the house of my father. {23} And David sware to Saul. Saul therefore went into his house: and David and his men went up into safer places.

Samuel dieth & is mourned. 3. David requesting, 10. and not obtaining victuals of Nabal, 13. threateneth to kill him. 14. But his wife Abigail prudently preventeth the revenge, 18. by sending victuals, 23. and giving good words. 37. All which when Nabal understandeth, he fainteth, and after ten days dieth. 39. David marrieth Abigail: also Achinoam: 44. and his wife Michol is given to an other.

{1} AND Samuel died, and all Israel was gathered together, and they mourned for him, and buried him in his house in Ramatha. And David rising went down into the desert of Pharan. {2} And there was a certain man in the wilderness of Maon, & his possession in Carmel, & that man was exceeding great: and he had three thousand sheep, & a thousand goats: and it chanced that his flock was shorn in Carmel. {3} And the name of the man was Nabal: & the name of his wife Abigail. And that woman was very wise and beautiful: moreover her husband hard, and very ill, and malicious: and he was of the kindred of Caleb. {4} When David therefore heard in the desert, that Nabal sheared his flock, {5} he sent ten young men, and said to them: Go up into Carmel, & you shall come to Nabal, and shall salute him in my name peaceably. {6} And you shall say: Peace be to my brethren, and to thee, and peace to thy house, and to all whatsoever thou hast, be peace. {7} I have heard, that thy shepherds which were with us in the desert did shear: we have never molested them, neither hath ought been wanting to them at any time of the flock, all the time that they were with us in Carmel. {8} Ask thy servants, and they will tell thee. Now therefore let thy servants find grace in thine eyes: for we are come in a good day, whatsoever thy hand shall find, give thy servants, and thy son David. {9} And when David's servants were come, they spake to Nabal all these words in David's name: and so held their peace. {10} But Nabal answering the servants of David, said: Who is David? And what is the son of Isai? There are servants multiplied now a days which fly from their masters. {11} Shall I then take my breads, and my waters, and the flesh of my cattle, which I have killed for my shearers, and give to men whom I know not whence they are? {12} Therefore the servants of David returned by their way, and returning came & told him all the words that he had said. {13} Then said David to his servants: Every man gird him with his sword. And they were every one girded with their swords. And David also was girded with his sword: and there followed David about four hundred men: moreover two hundred remained at the baggage. {14} But to Abigail the wife of Nabal one of their servants told, saying: Behold David hath sent messengers from the desert, to bless our master, and he disdained them: {15} these men were good enough to us, & not troublesome: neither did ever any thing perish all the time, that we have conversed with them in the desert: {16} they were in stead of a wall to us both in the day and in the night, all the days that we fed the flocks with them. {17} Wherefore consider, and think what thou hast to do, for malice is accomplished against thy husband, & against thy house, and he is the son of Belial, so that no man can speak to him. {18} Abigail therefore made haste, and took two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five muttons ready drest, and five measures of polent, and an hundred branches of raisins, and two hundred masses of dry figs, and laid them upon asses, {19} and said to her servants: Go before me; lo, I will follow you at your back: but she told not her husband Nabal. {20} When she therefore had gotten upon an ass, and came down to the foot of the mountain, David and his men came down meeting her, whom she also met. {21} And David said: In vain verity have I preserved all things that were this man's in the desert, and there perished nothing of all that pertained to him, & he hath rendered me evil for good. {22} These things do God to the enemies of David, & these things add he, if I shall leave of all things that pertain to him until morning, any thing pissing against the wall. {23} And when Abigail had seen David, she made haste, & light from her ass, & fell down before David upon her face, & adored upon the earth, {24} and fell at his feet, & said: In me my Lord be this iniquity: let thy handmaid speak I beseech thee in thine ears: and hear the words of thy servant. {25} Let not my lord the king I pray thee, set his heart upon this naughty man Nabal: because according to his name, he is a fool, and folly is with him: but I thy handmaid saw not thy servants my lord, whom thou didst send. {26} Now therefore my lord, our Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, who hath stayed thee that thou shouldst not come unto blood, and hath saved thy hand to thee: and now be thine enemies as Nabal, & they that seek evil to my lord. {27} Wherefore receive this benediction, which thy handmaid hath brought to thee my lord: and give to thy servants that follow thee my lord. {28} Take away the iniquity of thy handmaid: for our Lord making will make to my lord a faithful house, because thou my lord dost fight the battles of our Lord: let not malice therefore be found in thee all the days of thy life. {29} For if a man shall rise, persecuting thee, & seeking thy life, the life of my lord shall be kept, as in the bundle of the living, with our Lord thy God: Moreover the life of thine enemies shall be whirled, as in the violence, and whurl of a sling. {30} When our Lord therefore shall do to thee, my lord, all good things, which he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall constitute thee Prince over Israel, {31} this shall not be an occasion of sobbing to thee, and a scruple of heart to my Lord, that thou hast shed innocent blood, or thy self hast revenged thy self: and when our Lord hath bestowed these benefits upon my lord, thou shalt remember thy handmaid. {32} And David said to Abigail: Blessed be our Lord the God of Israel, who hath sent thee this day to meet me, and blessed be thy speech, {33} and blessed be thou, which hast stayed me to day, that I might not go to blood, and revenge me with mine own hand. {34} Otherwise our Lord liveth, the God of Israel, who hath stayed me that I should not do thee any evil, unless thou hadst quickly come to meet me, there had not remained to Nabal until morning light, any pissing against a wall. {35} And David took of her hand all things which she had brought him, and said to her: Go peaceably into thy house, behold I have heard thy voice, and have honoured thy face. {36} And Abigail came to Nabal: and behold he had a feast in his house, as it were the feast of a king, and Nabal's heart was pleasant: for he was drunk exceedingly: and she told him not a word little or great until morning. {37} But early when Nabal had digested his wine, his wife told him these words, & his heart was dead inwardly, & he became as a stone. {38} And when ten days had passed, our Lord struck Nabal, & he died. {39} Which when David had heard that Nabal was dead, he said: Blessed be our Lord, who hath judged the cause of my reproach at the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his servant from evil, and the malice of Nabal hath our Lord rendered upon his head. David therefore sent, and spake to Abigail, that he might take her to himself to wife. {40} And David's servants came to Abigail into Carmel, and spake to her, saying: David hath sent us unto thee, to take thee to his wife. {41} Who arising adored flat toward the earth, and said: Lo let thy servant be as an handmaid, to wash the feet of the servants of my lord. {42} And Abigail arose, and made haste, and gat upon an ass, and five women went with her, waiting maids, and followed the messengers of David, and became his wife. {43} Yea and Achinoam also did David take of Jezrahel: and both were his wives. {44} But Saul gave Michol his daughter David's wife to Phalti, the son of Lais, who was of Gallim.

The Ziphians bewraying the place, Saul besiegeth David: 5. who by night going where Saul and his men are asleep, 9. hurteth him not: 12. but taketh from him his spear and bottle of water 14. & sheweth what he hath done. 21. Saul again confesseth his fault, and promiseth peace.

{1} AND there came Ziphites unto Saul in Gabaa, saying: Behold

David is hid in the hill Hachila, which is over-against the wilderness. {2} And Saul arose, and went down into the desert Ziph, and with him three thousand men of the chosen of Israel, to seek David in the desert Ziph. {3} And Saul camped in Gabaa Hachila, which was over-against the wilderness in the way: and David dwelt in the desert. And seeing that Saul was come after him into the desert. {4} he sent discoverers, and learned that he was come thither most certainly. {5} And David arose secretly, and came to the place where Saul was: and when he had seen the place wherein Saul slept, and Abner the son of Ner, the Prince of his war, and Saul sleeping in the tent, and the rest of the multitude round about him, {6} David spake to Achimelech the Hethite, and Abisai the son of Sarvia the brother of Joab, saying: Who will go down with me to Saul into the camp? And Abisai said: I will go with thee. {7} David therefore and Abisai came to the people by night, and found Saul lying and sleeping in the tent, & his spear fixed in the ground at his head: and Abner, & the people sleeping round about him. {8} And Abisai said to David: God hath shut up thine enemy this day into thy hands: now therefore I will thrust him through with my spear in the earth once, and twice shall not need. {9} And David said to Abisai: Kill him not: for who shall extend his hand upon the anointed of our Lord, & shall be innocent? {10} And David said: Our Lord liveth, unless our Lord shall strike him, or his day come to die, or descending into battle he perish: {11} Our Lord be merciful unto me, that I extend not my hand upon the anointed of our Lord. Now therefore take the spear which is at his head, and cup of water & let us go. {12} David therefore took the spear, and cup of water, which was at Saul's head, and they went away: and there was none that saw, or understood, or awaked, but all slept, because the dead sleep of our lord had fallen upon them. {13} And when David had passed over against, and stood in the top of the mountain far off, & a good space between them, {14} David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying: Wilt thou not answer, Abner? And Abner answering said: Who art thou, that criest & disquietest the king? {15} And David said to Abner: Art not thou a man? And who is like thee in Israel? Why therefore hast thou not kept thy lord the king? For one of the multitude hath entered in to kill the king thy lord. {16} This thing is not good, which you have done: Our Lord liveth, you are the children of death, which have not kept your lord, the anointed of our Lord. Now therefore behold where the king's spear is, & where the cup of water is, which was at his head. {17} And Saul knew David's voice, & said: Is this thy voice, my son David? And David said: My voice, my lord king, {18} and he said: For what cause doth my lord persecute his servant? What have I done? Or what evil is there in my hand? {19} Now therefore hear, I pray, my lord king, the words of thy servant: If our Lord stir thee up against me, let there be odour of sacrifice: but if the sons of men, they are cursed in the sight of our Lord, which have cast me out this day, that I should not dwell in the inheritance of our Lord, saying: Go, serve strange gods. {20} And now let not my blood be shed upon the earth before our Lord, for the king of Israel is come forth to seek one flea, as the perdix is pursued in the mountains. {21} And Saul said: I have sinned, return my son David, for I will no more do thee evil, for that my life hath been precious in thine eyes to day: for it appeareth that I have done foolishly, & have been ignorant of very many things. {22} And David answering, said: Behold the king's spear, let one of the king's servants pass, and take it. {23} And our Lord will reward every one according to his justice and fidelity, for our Lord hath delivered thee this day into my hand, and I would not extend my hand upon the anointed of our Lord. {24} And as thy life hath been magnified to day in mine eyes, so be my life magnified in the eyes of our Lord, and deliver he me from all distress. {25} Saul therefore said to David: Blessed art thou my son David: and truly doing thou shalt do, and prevailing thou shalt prevail. And David went into his way, and Saul returned into his place.

David for more security goeth again to Achis king of Geth, 5. obtaineth of him the city of Siceleg (6. by which means it becometh subject to the kings of Juda) 8. and maketh preys upon the enemies of king Achis.

{1} AND David said in his heart: at length I shall fall one day into the hands of Saul: is it not better that I fly, and be saved in the Land of the Philistians, that Saul may despair, and cease to seek me in all the coasts of Israel? I will fly therefore his hands. {2} And David arose, and went himself, and the six hundred men with him, to Achis the son of Maoch, the king of Geth. {3} And David dwelt with Achis in Geth, he & his men; every man & his house: & David & his two wives, Achinoam the Jezrahelite, & Abigail the wife of Nabal of Carmel. {4} And it was told Saul that David was fled into Geth, and he added no more to seek him. {5} And David said to Achis: If I have grace in thy sight, let there a place be given me in one of thy cities of this country, that I may dwell there: for why abideth thy servant in the city of the king with thee? {6} Achis therefore gave him in that day Siceleg: for which cause Siceleg became the king's of Juda until this day. {7} And the number of the days that David dwelt in the country of the Philistians, was four months. {8} And David went up, and his men, and drave preys out of Gessuri, and Gerzi, and from the Amalecites: for these villages were inhabited in the land in old time, as men go to Sur, as far as the Land of Aegypt. {9} And David struck all the land, neither left he any man or woman: and taking the sheep, & oxen, and asses, & camels, and garments, he returned & came to Achis. {10} And Achis said to him: Whom hast thou set upon to day? David answered: Against the south of Juda, and against the south of Jeraniel, and against the south of Ceni. {11} David gave life neither to man nor woman, neither brought them into Geth, saying: Lest perhaps they speak against us. These things did David, and this was decreed of him all the days that he dwelt in the country of the Philistians. {12} Achis therefore did credit David, saying: Many evils hath he wrought against his people Israel: Therefore he shall be my servant for ever.

The Philistians fighting against Saul, David promiseth fidelity to Achis. 3. Saul destroyeth magicians, 6. but God not answering him, 7. seeketh a woman that hath a Pythonical spirit, 12. & willeth her to raise up Samuel. 15. Who appearing foretellet him, that he, and his sons shall die the next day.

{1} AND it came to pass that in those days the Philistines gathered together their companies, that they might be prepared to battle against Israel: and Achis said to David: Knowing know thou now, that thou shalt go forth with me in the camp, thou, and thy men. {2} And David said to Achis: Now thou shalt know what thy servant will do. And Achis said to David: And I will appoint thee keeper of my head all days. {3} And Samuel was dead, and all Israel mourned for him, and buried him in Ramatha his city. And Saul took all the magicians & soothsayers out of the land. {4} And the Philistines were gathered together, & came & camped in Sunam: and Saul also gathered together all Israel, & came into Gelboe. {5} And Saul saw the camp of the Philistines, and feared, and his heart was afraid exceedingly. {6} And he consulted our Lord, and he answered him not, neither by dreams, nor by Priests nor by Prophets. {7} And Saul said to his servants: Seek me a woman that hath a pythonical spirit, and I will go to her, and will ask as her. And his servants said to him: There is a woman that hath a pythonical spirit in Endor. {8} He therefore changed his habit and was clothed with other garments, and he went himself, and two men with him, and they came to the woman in the night, and said to her: Divine unto me in the pythonical spirit, and raise me up whom I shall tell thee. {9} And the woman said to him: Lo, thou knowest what great things Saul hath done, and how he hath razed the magicians and soothsayers out of the land: why therefore dost thou lie in wait for my life, that I may be slain? {10} And Saul sware unto her in our Lord, saying: Our Lord liveth, there shall no evil happen unto thee for this thing. {11} And the woman said to him: Whom shall I raise up to thee? Who said: Raise me up Samuel. {12} And when the woman had seen Samuel, she cried out with a loud voice, and said to Saul: Why hast thou deceived me? For thou art Saul. {13} And the king said to her: Fear not: what sawest thou? And the woman said to Saul: I saw gods coming out of the earth. {14} And he said to her: What manner of form hath he? Who said: An old man is come up, and he is clothed with a mantle. And Saul understood that it was Samuel, and he bowed himself upon his face on the earth, and adored. {15} And Samuel said to Saul: why hast thou disquieted me, that I should be raised up? And Saul said, I am in great distress: for the Philisthiims fight against me, and God is departed from me, and would not hear me, neither in the hand of Prophets, nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou shouldest shew me what I shall do. {16} And Samuel said: Why askest thou, whereas our Lord is departed from thee, and is passed to thine adversary? {17} For our Lord will do to thee as he spake in my hand, and he will cut thy Kingdom out of thy hand, & will give it to thy neighbour David: {18} because thou hast not obeyed the voice of our Lord, neither didst thou the wrath of his fury in Amalec. Therefore that which thou sufferest hath our Lord done to thee this day. {19} And our Lord will give Israel also with thee into the hands of the Philisthiims: and to morrow thou and thy sons shall be with me: yea the camp also of Israel will our Lord deliver into the hands of the Philisthiims. {20} And forthwith Saul fell stretched forth on the ground, for he feared much the words of Samuel, and there was no strength in him, because he had not eaten bread all that day. {21} That woman therefore went unto Saul (for he was very much troubled) and said to him: Behold thy handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have put my life in my hand: and I heard the words, which thou spakest to me. {22} Now therefore hear thou also the voice of thy handmaid, and I will set before thee a morsel of bread, that eating thou mayest recover strength, and be able to go on thy journey. {23} Who refused, and said: I will not eat. But his servants and the woman forced him, & at length hearing their voice, he arose from the ground, and sat upon the bed. {24} And that woman had a pasture fed calf in the house, and she made haste, and killed him: and taking meal kneaded it, and baked azymes, {25} and set before Saul, and before his servants, who when they had eaten rose up, and walked all that night.

David going with the Philisthiims towards the war, the Princes urge and force the king to send him back.

{1} THEREFORE all the companies of the Philisthiims were gathered together into Aphec: and Israel also camped upon the fountain, which was in Jezrahel. {2} And the Princes indeed of the Philisthiims marched in hundreds and thousands: but David and his men were in the last company with Achis. {3} And the Princes of the Philisthiims said to Achis: What mean these Hebrews? And Achis said to the Princes of the Philisthiims: Do you not know David, which was the servant of Saul the king of Israel, and is with me many days, or years, and I have not found any thing in him, since the day that he fled to me, until this day? {4} But the Princes of the Philisthiims were angry against him, and said to him: Let this man return, and abide in his place, wherein thou hast appointed him, & let him not go down with us into battle, lest he become an adversary to us, when we shall begin to fight: for how can he otherwise pacify his lord, but in our heads? {5} Is not this David, to whom they sang in dances, saying: Saul hath struck his thousands, and David his ten thousands? {6} Achis therefor called David, and said to him: The Lord liveth, thou art just, and good in my sight: and thy going out, and thy coming in is with me in the camp: and I have not found in thee any evil, since the day that thou camest to me until this day: but thou pleasest not the nobles. {7} Return therefore, and go in peace, and offend not the eyes of the Princes of the Philisthiims. {8} And David said to Achis: For what have I done, and what hast thou found in me thy servant, since the day that I have been in thy fight, until this day, that I may not come, and fight against the enemies of my lord the king? {9} And Achis answering spake to David: I know that thou art good in my sight, as an Angel of God: but the Princes of the Philisthiims have said: He shall not go up with us into battle. {10} Therefore arise in the morning, thou, and the servants of thy lord, which came with thee: and when you are risen in the night, and it shall begin to wax light, go forward. {11} David therefore arose in the night, he and his men, that they might set forward in the morning, and return to the land of the Philisthiims: and the Philisthiims went up into Jezrahel.

David returning to Siceleg, findeth it burned and spoiled, and himself in danger of the people: 7. By our Lord's warrant he pursueth the enemy, 11. taketh a guide: 17. recovereth all that was taken away: 22. rewardeth the soldiers, also those that stayed with the baggage, 25. making it a law for the time to come, that the keepers of the baggage shall have like share with those that fight in battle.

{1} AND when David & his men were come to Siceleg the third day, the Amalecites had made an invasion on the south side into Siceleg, & had stricken Siceleg, & burnt it with fire. {2} And had led away women captive out of it, from the less unto the great: and had not killed any man, but had led them with them, & went on their journey. {3} When David therefore and his men were come to the city, and had found it burnt with fire, and their wives and their sons, and their daughters to be led away captive, {4} David and the people that was with him, lifted up their voices, and mourned till tears failed them. {5} For the two wives also of David were led away captive, Achinoam the Jezraelite, and Abigail the wife of Nabal of Carmel. {6} And David was stricken very sad: for the people would have stoned him, because the soul of every man was bitterly affected upon their sons, and daughters: but David was strengthened in our Lord his God. {7} And he said to Abiathar the Priest the son of Achimelech: Apply unto me the Ephod. And Abiathar applied the Ephod to David, {8} and David consulted our Lord, saying: Shall I pursue these thieves, and shall I take them or not? And our Lord said to him: Pursue them: for thou shalt take them without doubt, & take from them the prey. {9} David therefore went himself, and the six hundred men that were with him, and they came unto the Torrent Besor: & some being weary stayed. {10} But David himself, and four hundred men pursued: for two hundred stayed, who being weary could not pass the Torrent Besor. {11} And they found an Aegyptian in the field, and brought him to David: and they gave him bread to eat, and water to drink, {12} and also a piece of a mass of dry figs, and two bunches of resins. Who when he had eaten, his spirit returned, and he was refreshed: for he had not eaten bread, nor drunken water three days and three nights. {13} David therefore said to him: Whose art thou? Or whence? And wither goest thou? Who said: I am a young man of Aegypt, the servant of an Amalecite: and my master hath left me, because I began to be sick three days agone. {14} For we brake forth at the south side of Cerethi, and against Juda, and at the south of Caleb, and burnt Siceleg with fire. {15} And David said to him: Canst thou bring me to this company? Who said: Swear to me by God, that thou wilt not kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my lord, and I will bring thee to this company. And David sware to him. {16} Who when he had brought them, behold they sat upon the face of all the earth, eating & drinking, and as it were keeping a festival day, for all the prey and spoils which they had taken out of the Land of the Philisthiims, and out of the Land of Juda. {17} And David struck them from evening until the evening of the next day, and there escaped not any of them, but four hundred young men, which had gotten upon camels, and were fled. {18} David therefore rescued all things that the Amalecites had taken, and he rescued his two wives. {19} Neither was there any wanting from little to great, as well of their sons as of their daughters, and of the spoils, and what things soever they had taken, David brought all again. {20} And he took all the flocks and herds, and drove them before his face: and they said: This is the prey of David. {21} And David came to the two hundred men, {302} which being weary had stayed, neither were able to follow David, and he had bidden them to rest in the Torrent Besor: who came forth to meet David, and the people that were with him. And David coming to the people, saluted them peaceably. {22} And every naughty, and wicked fellow of the men, that had gone with David, answering, said: Because they came not with us, we will not give them any thing of the prey, which we have recovered: but let their wife and children suffice every man, whom when they had received, let them depart. {23} But David said: You shall not do so my brethren, of these things, which our Lord hath delivered to us, and hath kept us, and hath given the thieves, that were broken out against us, into our hands: {24} neither shall any man hear you upon this talk. For there shall be equal portion of him that went down into battle, and of him that abode at the baggage, and they shall divide alike. {25} And this hath been done from that day, and ever after it was decreed, and ordained as a law in Israel. {26} David therefore came into Siceleg, and sent gifts of the prey to the ancients of Juda his neighbours, saying: Take a benediction of the prey of our Lord's enemies. {27} To them that were in Bethel, and that were in Ramoth toward the South, and them that were in Gether, {28} and them in Aroer, and them in Sephamoth, and them in Esthamo, {29} and them in Rachal, and them in the cities of Jerameel, and them in the cities of Semi, {30} and them in Harama, and them in the lake of Asan, and them in Athach, {31} and them in Hebron, and to the rest that were in those places, in the which David had tarried, and his men.

Saul with his sons are slain in battle. 7. The Philisthiims possess the place, and hang the dead bodies on a wall, 11. but valiant men of Jabel Galaad take them away, and burn them, bury their bones, and fast seven days.

{1} AND the Philisthiims fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the face of the Philisthiims, and fell being slain in mount Gelboe. {2} And the Philisthiims fell upon Saul, and upon his sons, and they struck Jonathas, and Abinadab, and Melchisua the sons of Saul, {3} and the whole weight of the battle was turned upon Saul: and the archers overtook him, and he was sore wounded of the archers. {4} And Saul said to his esquire: Draw out thy sword, and strike me: lest perhaps these uncircumcised come, and kill me, mocking me. And his esquire would not: for he was frightened with exceeding fear. Saul therefore caught his sword, and fell upon it. {5} Which when his esquire had seen, to wit, that Saul was dead, himself also fell upon his sword and died with him. {6} Saul therefore died, and his three sons, and his esquire, and all his men in that day together. {7} And the children of Israel, that were beyond the valley, and beyond Jordan, seeing that the men of Israel were fled, and that Saul was dead, and his sons, they left their cities, and fled: and the Philisthiims came, and dwelt there. {8} And when the next day was come, the Philisthiims came to spoil them that were slain, and they found Saul and his three sons, lying in mount Gelboe, {9} And they did cut off Saul's head, and spoiled him of his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistians round about, that it should be declared in the temple of their idols, and among their people. {10} And they did put his armour in the temple of Astaroth, but his body they hung on the wall of Bethsam. {11} Which when the inhabitants of Jabel Galaad had heard whatsoever the Philisthiims had done to Saul, {12} all the most valiant men arose, and walked all the night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the wall of Bethsam: and they came to Jabel Galaad, and burnt them there: {13} and they took their bones, and buried them in the wood of Jabel, and fasted seven days.

THE SECOND BOOK OF KINGS

David hearing that Saul and Jonathas are slain, {11}, mourneth with all his family, weeping and fasting. 13. Causeth him to be slain who affirmed that he had killed king Saul. 18. He traineth up archers: 19. and inviteth also all Israel to mourn.

{1} AND it came to pass, after that Saul was dead, that David returned from the slaughter of Amalec, and tarried in Siceleg two days. {2} And in the third day there appeared a man coming out of Saul's camp, his garments torn, and sprinkled on the head with dust, and as he came to David, he fell upon his face, and adored. {3} And David said unto him: Whence comest thou? Who said to him: I fled out of the camp of Israel. {4} And David said unto him: What is the matter that is done? Tell me. Who said: The people is fled out of the battle, and many of the people are overthrown & dead: yea Saul also and Jonathas his son are dead. {5} And David said to the young man that told him: How knowest thou that Saul is dead, and Jonathas his Son? {6} And the young man that told him, said: By chance I came into mount Gelboe, and Saul leaned upon his spear: moreover the chariots and horsemen approached unto him, {7} and turning backward, and seeing me he called. To whom when I had answered, Here I am, {8} he said to me: Who art thou? And I said to him: I am an Amalecite. {9} And he said to me: Stand upon me and kill me, because anguishes hold me, and as yet all my life is in me. {10} And standing upon him, I killed him: for I knew that he could not live after the fall: and I took the Diadem that was on his head, & the bracelet from his arm, & have brought to thee my lord hither. {11} And David taking his garments rent them, and all the men that were with him, {12} and they mourned, & wept, & fasted until evening upon Saul & upon Jonathas his son, and upon the people of our Lord, & upon the house of Israel, because they were fallen by the sword. {13} And David said to the young man that had told him: Whence art thou? Who answered: I am the son of a man a stranger of Amalec. {14} David said to him: Why didst thou not fear to put to thy hand to kill the anointed of our Lord? {15} And David calling one of his servants, said: Go run upon him. Who struck him, & he died. {16} And David said to him: Thy blood be upon thine own head: for thine own mouth hath spoken against thee, saying: I have slain the anointed of our Lord. {17} And David mourned this kind of mourning upon Saul, and upon Jonathas his son. {18} And he commanded that they should teach the children of Juda the bow, as it is written in the Book of the just.) And he said: Consider, O Israel, for them that be dead wounded upon thy high places. {19} The Nobles, O Israel, are slain upon thy mountains: how are the valiant fallen? {20} Tell it not in Geth, neither tell ye it in the high ways of Ascalon: lest perhaps the daughters of the Philisthiims be glad, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised rejoice. {21} Mountains of Gelboe, let neither dew nor rain come upon you, neither be they fields of the first fruits: because there was the shield of the valiants cast away, the shield of Saul, as though he were not anointed with oil. {22} From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the valiants, the arrow of Jonathas never returned backward, and the sword of Saul did not return empty. {23} Saul and Jonathas amiable, {304} and comely in their life, in death also were not divided: swifter than eagles, stronger than lions. {24} Ye daughters of Israel weep upon Saul, who clothed you with scarlet in delicacies, who gave golden ornaments to your attire. {25} How have the valiants fallen in battle? Jonathas been slain in thy high places? {26} I am sorry for thee, my brother Jonathas, exceeding beautiful and amiable above the love of women. As the mother loveth her only son, so did I love thee. {27} How have the strong fallen, and the weapons of war perished?

David is received and anointed king of Juda. 5. He commendeth those of Jabes Galaad, which buried Saul. 8. Isbosheth the son of Saul reigneth over the rest of Israel. 12. Whereby riseth sharp war between Abner and Joab, chief Captains of the two kings. 30. Many more are slain of Abner's party than of Joab's.

{1} THEREFORE after these things David consulted our Lord, saying: Shall I go up into one of the cities of Juda? And our Lord said to him: Go up, And David said: Whither shall I go up? And he answered him: Into Hebron. {2} David therefore went up, and his two wives, Achinoam the Jezrahelite, and Abigail the wife of Nabal of Carmel: {3} yea and the men also that were with him, David brought every one with his household: and they abode in the towns of Hebron. {4} And the men of Juda came, and anointed David there, to reign over the house of Juda. And it was told David, that the men of Jabes Galaad had buried Saul. {5} David therefore sent messengers unto the men of Jabes Galaad, and said unto them: Blessed be you to our Lord, which have done this mercy with your lord Saul, and have buried him. {6} And now our Lord certes will render you mercy and truth: but I also will requite you the good turn, for that you have done this thing. {7} Let your hands be strengthened, and be ye stout men: for although your lord Saul be dead, yet the house of Juda hath anointed me to be their king. {8} But Abner the son of Ner Prince of Saul's army, took Isbosheth the son of Saul, and led him about through the camp, {9} and ordained him king over Galaad, & over Gessuri, & over Jezrahel, & over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel. {10} Forty years old was Isbosheth the son of Saul when he began to reign over Israel, and he reigned two years: and only the house of Juda followed David. {11} And the number of the days, that David abode, reigning in Hebron over the house of Juda, was seven years and six months. {12} And Abner the son of Ner went forth, and the servants of Isbosheth the son of Saul, out of the camp into Gabaon. {13} Moreover Joab the son of Sarvia, and the servants of David went forth, and met them beside the people of Gabaon, and when they were come together into one place, they sat one over-against an other: these on the one side of the pool, and they on the other. {14} And Abner said to Joab: Let the young men rise, and play before us. And Joab answered: Let them rise. {15} There rose therefore and passed twelve in number, of Benjamin, of Isbosheth's part the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David. {16} And every one taking the head of his mate, sticked his sword into the side of his adversary, and they fell together: and the name of the place was called: The field of the valiants, in Gabaon. {17} And there rose a very sore battle in that day: & Abner was put to flight, and the men of Israel, by the servants of David. {18} And there were there the three sons of Sarvia, Joab, and Abisai, & Asael: moreover Asael was a most swift runner, as it were one of the roes, that abide in the woods. {19} And Asael pursued Abner, and declined not to the right hand nor to the left omitting to pursue Abner. {20} Abner therefore looked back behind him, and said: Art thou Asael? Who answered: I am. {21} And Abner said to him: Go to the right hand, or to the left, and apprehend one of the young men, and take to thee his spoils. But Asael would not leave but urged him. {22} And again Abner said to Asael: Retire, and do not follow me, lest I be compelled to stick thee to the ground, and I shall not be able to lift up my face to Joab thy brother. {23} Who contemned to hear, and would not go aside: Abner therefore struck him with his spear turned back in the privy parts, and thrust him through, and he died in the same place: and all that passed by that place, wherein Asael fell & died, did stay. {24} But whiles Joab and Abisai pursued Abner flying, the sun went down: & they came as far as the hill of the water conduit, that is over-against the valley the way of the desert in Gabaon. {25} And the children of Benjamin were assembled together to Abner: and being gathered in a plump into one troop, they stood in the top of one hill. {26} And Abner cried out to Joab, and said: Shall thy sword rage unto utter destruction? Knowest thou not that desperation is dangerous? How long deferrest thou to say to the people, that they leave to pursue their brethren? {27} And Joab said: Our Lord liveth, if thou hadst spoken, in the morning had the people retired from pursuing their brethren. {28} Joab therefore sounded the trumpet, and all the army stood neither did they pursue Israel any further, nor enter into fight. {29} And Abner and his men went through the champion country, all that night: and they passed Jordan, and having viewed all Beth-horon, came to the camp. {30} Moreover Joab returning, after he had left Abner, assembled all the people: and there wanted of David's servants nineteen men, beside Asael. {31} But the servants of David struck of Benjamin, and of the men that were with Abner, three hundred three score, who also died. {32} And they took Asael, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father in Bethlehem: and Joab, and the men that were with him, walked all the night, and in the very twilight they came into Hebron.

Isbosheth's forces daily decay, David increaseth in power, and hath many sons. 7. Abner upon occasion of a slander breaketh from Isbosheth, and serveth David, bringing Michol to him, and much people of Israel. 23. Joab of emulation and revenge killeth Abner. 28. For which David is offended with Joab, 31. and mourneth for Abner.

{1} THERE was made therefore long strife between the house of Saul, & between the house of David: David prospering & always stronger than himself, but the house of Saul decreasing daily. {2} And there were sons born to David in Hebron: & his first begotten was Amnon of Achinoam the Jezrahelite. {3} And after him Cheleah of Abigail the wife of Nabal of Carmel: moreover the third Absalom, the son of Maacha the daughter of Tolmai king of Gessur. {4} And the fourth Adonias, the son of Haggith: and the fifth Saphathia, the son of Abital. {5} The sixth also Jethraam of Eglal the wife of David. These were born to David in Hebron. {6} Therefore when there was battle between the house of Saul & house of David, Abner the son of Ner ruled the house of Saul. {7} And Saul had a concubine named Respha, the daughter of Aia. And Isbosheth said to Abner: {8} Why didest thou go in to my father's concubine? Who being wrath exceedingly for the words of Isbosheth, said: What am I a dog's head against Juda this day, which have done mercy upon the house of Saul thy father, and upon his brethren and nearest friends, and have not delivered thee into the hands of David, and hast thou sought against me that thou mightest charge me for a woman to day? {9} These things do God to Abner, and these things add he to him, unless as our Lord hath sworn to David, so I do truth to him. {10} That the Kingdom be transferred from the house of Saul, and the throne of David be exalted over Israel, and over Juda, from Dan to Bersabee. {11} And he could not answer him any thing, because he feared him. {12} Abner therefore sent messengers to David for himself saying: Whose is the land? And that they should say: Make amity with me, and my hand shall be with thee: and I will reduce unto thee all Israel. {13} Who said: Very well; I will make amity with thee: but one thing I desire of thee, saying: Thou shalt not see my face before thou bring Michol the daughter of Saul: and so thou shalt come, and see me. {14} And David sent messengers to Isbosheth the son of Saul, saying: Restore my wife Michol, which I betrothed to me for an hundred prepuces of the Philisthiims. {15} Isbosheth therefore sent, and took her from her husband Phaltiel, the son of Lais. {16} And her husband followed her weeping as far as Behurim: and Abner said to him: Go, and return. Who returned. {17} Abner also spake to the ancients of Israel, saying: Both yesterday and the day before you sought David that he might reign over you. {18} Now therefore do so: because our Lord hath spoken to David, saying: In the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel from the hands of the Philisthiims, and of all their enemies. {19} And Abner spake also to Benjamin. And he went to speak unto David in Hebron all things which pleased Israel, and all Benjamin. {20} And he came to David into Hebron with twenty men: and David made a feast to Abner, and to his men that came with him. {21} And Abner said to David: I will rise, that I may gather unto thee my lord king all Israel, and may enter a league with thee, & thou mayest reign over all, as thy soul desireth. When David therefore had brought Abner on the way, and he was gone in peace, {22} forthwith David's servants and Joab came, having slain the robbers, with a prey exceeding great: and Abner was not with David in Hebron, because he had now dismissed him, and he was departed in peace. {23} And Joab, and all the army which were with him, came afterward: it was therefore told Joab, that Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he dismissed him, and he departed in peace. {24} And Joab went in to the king, & said: What hast thou done? Behold Abner came to thee: why didst thou dismiss him & he is gone & departed? {25} knowest thou not Abner the son of Ner, that to this end he came to thee, that he might deceive thee, & might know thy going out, & thy coming in, & understand all things that thou doest? {26} Joab therefore being gone from David, sent messengers after Abner, and brought him back from the cistern Sira, David being ignorant thereof. {27} And when Abner was returned into Hebron, Joab brought him aside to the midst of the gate, to spake unto him in guile: and struck him there in the privy parts, & he died, in revenge of the blood of Asael his brother. {28} Which when David had heard, that the thing was now done, he said: I am innocent, and my Kingdom before God for ever from the blood of Abner the son of Ner, {29} & come it upon the head of Joab, & upon all his father's house: neither let there fail of the house of Joab one having a flux of seed, & a leper, and holding the distaff, and falling by the sword, & lacking bread. {30} Joab therefore & Abisai his brother slew Abner, because he had killed Asael their brother in Gabaon in the battle. {31} And David said to Joab, and to all the people, that were with him: Rent your garments, and be girded with sack cloths, & mourn before the funeral of Abner. Moreover king David followed the bier. {32} And when they had buried Abner in Hebron, king David lifted up his voice, and wept upon the grave of Abner: and all the people also wept. {33} And the king mourning and lamenting Abner, said: Not as cowards are wont to die, hath Abner died. {34} Thy hands were not bound, and thy feet were not laden with fetters: but as men are wont to fall before the children of iniquity, so art thou fallen. And all the people doubling it wept upon him. {35} And when all the multitude was come to take meat with David, when it was yet clear day, David sware, saying: These things do God to me, and these add he, if before sun set I shall taste bread or any thing else. {36} And all the people heard, and all things pleased them which the king did in the sight of all the people. {37} And all the people knew, and all Israel in that day, that it was not the king's doing, that Abner the son of Ner was slain. {38} The king also said to his servants: Are you ignorant that a Prince, and the greatest is slain this day in Israel? {39} But I as yet delicate, & anointed king: moreover the sons of Sarvia are hard to me: our Lord reward him that doeth evil according to his malice.

Baana and Rechab secretly kill Isbosheth: 8. bring his head to David. 8. Who condemning their fact, putteth them to death.

{1} AND Isbosheth the son of Saul heard that Abner was slain in Hebron: and his hands were weakened, and all Israel was troubled. {2} And the son of Saul had two men captains of robbers, the name of one Baana, & the name of the other Rechab, the sons of Rhemmon the Berothite of the sons of Benjamin: for Berot also was accounted in Benjamin. {3} And the Berothites fled into Gethaim, and were there strangers until that time. {4} And Jonathas the son of Saul had a son lame in his feet: for he was five years old, when the tidings came of Saul and Jonathas from Jezrahel. His nurse therefore taking him, fled: and when she made haste to fly, he fell, & was made lame: and he was called Miphiboseth. {5} Therefore the sons of Rhemmon the Berothite, Rechab and Baana coming, entered into the house of Isbosheth in the heat of the day: who slept upon his bed at noon. And the Portress of the house that winnowed wheat, was asleep. {6} And they entered into the house secretly taking ears of corn, and Rechab and Baana his brother struck him in privy parts and fled. {7} And when they were entered into the house, he slept upon his bed in a parlour, and striking them killed him: and taking away his head they went by the way of the desert all night. {8} And brought the head of Isbosheth to David into Hebron: & they said to the king: Behold the head of Isbosheth the son of Saul thine enemy, who sought thy life: and our Lord hath given my lord the king this day revenge of Saul, and of his seed. {9} But David answering Rechab and Baana his brother, the sons of Rhemmon the Berothite, said to them: Our Lord liveth, which hath delivered my soul out of all distress, {10} for so much as him that told me, and said: Saul is dead, who thought that he told prosperous things, I apprehended, and slew him in Siceleg, to whom I should have given a reward for his tidings. {11} How much more now when wicked men have slain an innocent man in his own house, upon his bed, shall I not require his blood of your hand, and take you away from the earth? {12} David therefore commanded his servants, and they slew them, and cutting off their hands and feet, hanged them over the pool in Hebron: but the head of Isbosheth they took, and buried in the sepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

With general consent David is anointed king of all Israel. 7. He taketh the tower of Sion in Jerusalem, destroying the Jebusites. 9. Buildeth there a new house: 13. marrieth more wives, and hath more children. 17. The Philistines rising against him are overthrown, 22. also the second time.

{1} AND all the tribes of Israel came to David in Hebron, saying: Behold we are thy bone and thy flesh. {2} Yea and yesterday also & the day before when Saul was king over us, thou wast he that didst lead us forth & bring back Israel: & our Lord said to thee: Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be Prince over Israel. {3} The ancients also of Israel came to the king into Hebron, & king David made a league with them in Hebron before our Lord: and they anointed David to be king over Israel. {4} Thirty years old was David when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years. {5} In Hebron he reigned over Juda seven years and six months: and in Jerusalem he reigned three and thirty years over all Israel & Juda. {6} And the king went, & all the men that were with him, into Jerusalem, to the Jebusite in the habiter of the land, & they said to David: Thou shalt not come in hither, unless thou take away the blind & the lame, saying: David shall not come in hither. {7} But David took the tower of Sion, this is the city of David. {8} For David had proposed in that day a reward to whosoever should strike the Jebusite, and touch the gutters of the house tops, and take away the blind and the lame that hated the soul of David: therefore it is said in the proverb: The blind and the lame shall not enter into the temple. {9} And David dwelt in the tower, and called it, The city of David: & built round about from Mello and inwards. {10} And he went prospering and growing up, and our Lord the God of hosts was with him. {11} Hiram also the king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and cedar trees, and carpenters, and masons for walls: and they built a house for David. {12} And David knew that our Lord had confirmed him king over Israel, and that he exalted his Kingdom over his people Israel. {13} David therefore took yet concubines and wives of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron: and there were born to David other sons also and daughters: {14} And these be the names of them, that were born to him in Jerusalem, Samua, and Sobab, and Nathan, and Salomon, {15} and Jebahar and Elisua, and Nepheg, {16} and Japhia, and Elisama, and Elioda, and Eliphaleth. {17} The Philistines therefore heard that they had anointed David to be king over Israel: and they went up all to seek David: which when David had heard, he went down into a hold. {18} And the Philistines coming were spread in the Vale Raphaim. {19} And David consulted our Lord, saying: Shall I go up to the Philistines? And wilt thou give them into my hand? And our Lord said to David: Go up, because delivering I will give the Philistines in thy hand. {20} David therefore came into Baal Pharasim: and struck them there, and said: Our Lord hath divided mine enemies before me, as waters are divided, therefore the name of the place was called Baal Pharasim. {21} And they left there their graven gods: which David, and his men took. {22} And the Philistines added yet to go up, and spread themselves in the Vale Raphaim. {23} And David consulted our Lord: Shall I go up against the Philistines, and wilt thou deliver them into my hands? Who answered: Go not up against them, but fetch a compass behind their back, & thou shalt come to them over against the pear trees. {24} And when thou shalt hear the sound of one going in the top of the pear-trees, then shalt thou enter battle: because then will our Lord go forth before thy face, to strike the camp of the Philistines. {25} David therefore did as our Lord had commanded him, and he struck the Philistines from Gabaa, until thou come to Gezer.

With great solemnity David bringeth the Ark of God from Abinadab's house. 6. Oza for touching it is suddenly slain. 9. Whereupon David fearing to bring it to his own house, leaveth it in the house of Obededom three months. {12}, then fetcheth it, dancing before it, though Michol scorn his devotion. 17. He offereth sacrifices, distributeth gifts, blesseth the people. 23. And Michol is barren.

{1} AND David again gathered all the chosen of Israel, thirty thousand, and went, and all the people that was with {2} And David arose, him of the men of Juda, to bring the ark of God, upon which was invoked the name of the Lord of hosts, which sitteth in the Cherubins upon it. {3} And they laid the ark of God upon a new wain: and took it out of the house of Abinadab, who was in Gabaa: and Oza and Ahio the sons of Abinadab, did drive the new wain. {4} And when they had taken it out of the house of Abinadab, who was in Gabaa, Ahio keeping the ark of God went before the ark. {5} But David, and all Israel played before our Lord in all wrought wood, both on harps and lutes and timbrels & citterns and cymbals. {6} And after they came to the Floor of Nachon, Oza put forth his hand to the ark of God, and held it: because the oxen spurned, and made it lean aside. {7} And our Lord was wrath with indignation against Oza, and struck him for the rashness: who died there before the ark of God. {8} And David was stricken sad, for that our Lord had stricken Oza, & the name of that place was called: The striking of Oza until this day. {9} And David feared our Lord in that day, saying: How shall the ark of our Lord come unto me? {10} And he would not have the ark of our Lord turn in to himself into the city of David: but he caused it to turn in unto the house of Obededom the Gethite. {11} And the ark of our Lord dwelt in the house of Obededom the Gethite three months: & our Lord blessed Obededom, & all his house, {12} And it was told king David, that our Lord had blessed Obededom, & all that he had for the ark of God. David therefore went, & brought away the ark of God out of the house of Obededom, into the city of David with joy. {13} And when they had passed, that carried the ark of our Lord, six passes, he immolated an oxe and a ram. {14} And David danced with all his might before our Lord, moreover David was girded with a linen ephod. {15} And David, & all the house of Israel brought the ark of testament of our Lord in jubilation, & in sound of trumpet. {16} And when the ark of our Lord was entered into the city of David, Michol the daughter of Saul looking forth through a window, saw king David leaping, & dancing before our Lord: and she despised him in her heart. {17} And they brought in the ark of our Lord, & set it in his place in the midst of the tabernacle, which David had pitched for it: & David offered holocausts, & pacifics before our Lord. {18} And when he had accomplished offering holocausts and pacifics, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts. {19} And he distributed to all the multitude of Israel as well man as woman, to every one, one cake of bread, and one roasted piece of beef, and flour fried with oil: and all the people went, every man into his house. {20} And David returned to bless his own house: and Michol the daughter of Saul coming forth to meet David, said: How glorious was the king of Israel to day uncovering himself before the handmaids of his servants, and was naked, as if one of the ribalds should be naked. {21} And David said unto Michol: Before our Lord, which hath chosen me rather than thy father, and than all his house, and commanded me that I should be duke over the people of our Lord in Israel, {22} both will I play, & will become more vile than I have been: and I will be humble in mine eyes, and with the handmaids, of whom thou speakest, I will appear more glorious. {23} Therefore unto Michol the daughter of Saul was there no child born unto the day of her death.

David's good purpose to build a Temple is deferred by God's appointment. 12. with promise that his son shall perform it, and be established in the Kingdom. 18. For all which he rendereth thanks to God.

{1} AND it came to pass when the king sat in his house, and our Lord had given him rest on every side from all his enemies, {2} he said to Nathan the Prophet: Dost thou see that I dwell in a house of cedar, & the ark of God is set in the midst of skins? {3} And Nathan said to the king: All that is in thy heart, go do, because our Lord is with thee. {4} And it came to pass in that night: and behold the word of our Lord to Nathan, saying: {5} Go, and speak to my servant David: Thus saith our Lord: Shalt thou build me a house to dwell in? {6} For neither have I dwelt in house from the day that I brought the children of Israel out of the Land of Aegypt, until this day: but I walked in tabernacle, and in tent. {7} Throughout all the places, that I have passed with all the children of Israel, speaking did I speak to one of the tribes of Israel, which I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying: why did you not build me a house of cedar? {8} And now these things shalt thou say to my servant David: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: I took thee out of the pastures following the flocks, that thou shouldest be Prince over my people Israel: {9} and I have been with thee wheresoever thou hast walked, and have slain all thine enemies from thy face: and have made thee a great name, according to the name of the great ones, that are in the earth. {10} And I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant it, and they shall dwell under it, and shall be troubled no more: neither shall the children of iniquity add to afflict them as before. {11} From the day that I appointed Judges over my people Israel: {12} and I will give thee rest from all thine enemies. And our Lord foretelleth thee, that our Lord will make thee a house. {12} And when thy days shall be accomplished, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall come forth of thy womb, and I will establish his Kingdom. {13} He shall build a house to my name, and I will establish the throne of his Kingdom for ever. {14} I will be to him for a father, and he shall be to me for a son: who if he shall do any thing unjustly, I will rebuke him in the rod of men, and in the plagues of the sons of men. {15} But my mercy I will not take away from him, as I took from Saul, whom I removed from thy face. {16} And thy house shall be faithful, and thy Kingdom for ever before thy face, and thy throne shall be firm continually. {17} According to all these words, & according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak to David. {18} And David went in, & sat before our Lord, & said: Who am I, o Lord God, & what is my house, that thou hast brought me thus far? {19} But this also hath seemed little in thy sight, o Lord God, unless thou didst speak also of the house of thy servant for a long time: for this is the law of Adam, Lord God. {20} What can David therefore add yet, to speak unto thee? For thou knowest thy servant, o Lord God. {21} For thy word, and according to thy heart thou hast done all these great things, so that thou wouldest notify it to thy servant. {22} Therefore art thou magnified, o Lord God, because there is none like to thee, neither is there a God besides thee, in all things that we have heard with our ears. {23} And what nation is there in the earth as thy people Israel, for the which God hath gone, that he might redeem it to be his people, & might make himself a name, & do for them great wonders, and horrible things upon the earth, before the face of thy people, whom thou redeemedst to thy self out of Aegypt, from the nations & from their gods. {24} For thou hast confirmed the people Israel to be an everlasting people: and thou Lord God art become their God. {25} Now therefore, o Lord God, raise up for ever the word, that thou hast spoken upon thy servant & upon his house, & do as thou hast spoken, {26} that thy name may be magnified for ever, and it may be said: The Lord of hosts is God over Israel. And the house of thy servant David shall be established before our Lord, {27} because thou, o Lord of hosts God of Israel, hast revealed the ear of thy servant, saying: A house I build thee: therefore hath thy servant found his heart to pray thee with this prayer. {28} Now therefore, o Lord God, thou art God, & thy words shall be true: for thou hast spoken to thy servant these good things. {29} Begin therefore, & bless the house of thy servant, that it may be for ever before thee: because thou Lord God hast spoken, by thy blessing shall the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

Diverse nations and countries to which Israel payed tribute, are subdued by David, and pay tribute to Israel. 16. Chief officers are mentioned.

{1} AND it came to pass, after these things David struck the Philisthiims, and humbled them, & David took the bridle of tribute out of the hand of the Philisthiims. {2} And he struck Moab, & measured them with a cord, making them even with the earth: & he measured two cords, one to kill, & one to save alive: & Moab became serving David under tribute. {3} And David struck Adarezer the son of Rohob king of Soba, when he went forth to have dominion over the river Euphrates. {4} And David having taken of his part a thousand seven hundred horsemen, & twenty thousand footmen, hoghsinewed all the chariot horses: & he left of them a hundred chariots. {5} There came also Syria of Damascus to bring aid unto Adarezer the king of Soba: and David struck of Syria two & twenty thousand men. {6} And David put a garrison in Syria of Damascus: & Syria became serving David under tribute: and our Lord preserved David in all things to whatsoever he went forth. {7} And David took the golden armour, which the servants of Adarezer had, and brought them into Jerusalem. {8} And out of Bete, and out of Beroth the cities of Adarezer king David took brass exceeding much. {9} And Tou the king of Emath heard that David had stricken all the force of Adarezer, {10} And Tou sent Joram his son to king David, to salute him congratulating, and to give thanks: for that he had overthrown Adarezer, and stricken him. For Tou was enemy to Adarezer, and in his hand were vessels of gold, & vessels of silver, & vessels of brass: {11} which also king David sanctified to our Lord with the silver and gold, that he had sanctified of all the nations, which he had subdued {12} of Syria, & Moab, and the children of Ammon, and the Philisthiims, and Amalec, & of the spoils of Adarezer the son of Rohob king of Soba. {13} David also made himself a name when he returned having taken Syria in the Vale of Salt-pits, eighteen thousand being slain: {14} & he put soldiers in Idumea, and placed a garrison: and all Idumea was made to serve David: & our Lord preserved David in all things to whatsoever he proceeded. {15} And David reigned over all Israel: David also did judgment and justice to all his people. {16} And Joab the son of Sarvia was over the army: moreover Josaphat the son of Ahilud was recorder: {17} and Sadoc the son of Achitob, and Achimelech the son of Abiathar, were Priests: and Saraias, scribe: {18} And Banaias the son Joiada was over the Cerethi and Phelethi: and the sons of David Princes.

Miphiboseth a lame son of Jonathas is piously relieved by David: 9. giving to his use the particular inheritance of Saul.

{1} AND David said: Is there any think you that is remaining of the house of Saul, that I may do mercy with him for Jonathas' sake? {2} And there was of the house of Saul a servant named Siba, whom when the king had called unto him, he said to him: Art thou Siba? And he answered: I am so thy servant. {3} And the king said: Is there any remaining of the house of Saul, that I may do with him the mercy of God? And Siba said to the king: There is yet living a son of Jonathas, lame of his feet. {4} Where is he? Quoth he. And Siba said to the king: Behold he is in the house of Machir the son of Ammiel in Lodabar. {5} King David therefore sent, and took him out of the house of Machir the son of Ammiel of Lodabar. {6} And when Miphiboseth the son of Jonathas the son of Saul was come to David, he fell on his face, and adored. And David said: Miphiboseth? Who answered: Here I am thy servant. {7} And David said to him: Fear not, because doing I will do mercy on thee for Jonathas thy father, and I will restore the lands of Saul thy father, and thou shalt eat bread upon my table always. {8} Who adoring him, said: Who am I thy servant, that thou hast respect upon a dead dog like unto me? {9} The king therefore called Siba the servant of Saul, and said to him: All things whatsoever were Saul's, and all his house, I have given to thy master's son. {10} Till for him therefore the land, thou and thy sons, and thy servants: and thou shalt bring in meats for thy master's son, that he may be maintained: and Miphiboseth the son of thy Lord shall eat always bread upon my table. And Siba had fifteen sons, and twenty servants. {11} And Siba said to the king: As thou my lord king hast commanded thy servant, so will thy servant do: and Miphiboseth shall eat upon my table, as one of the sons of the king. {12} And Miphiboseth had a little son called Micha: and all the kindred of the house of Siba served Miphiboseth. {13} Moreover Miphiboseth dwelt in Jerusalem: because he did eat always of the king's table: and he was lame on both feet.

Hanon king of Ammon for evil entreating David's men, sent unto him of courtesy, 7. is justly plagued, with his confederates. 15. Also the second time they are overthrown by David.

{1} AND it came to pass after these things, that the king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanon his son reigned for him. {2} And David said: I will do mercy with Hanon the son of Naas, as his father hath done mercy with me. David therefore sent, comforting him by his servants upon his father's death. But when the servants of David were come into the land of the children of Ammon, {3} the Princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanon their lord: Thinkest thou that for the honour of thy father, David hath sent comforters unto thee, and not rather that he might search and spy into the city, and overthrow it, hath David sent his servants unto thee? {4} Hanon therefore took the servants of David, and shaved the one half of their beard, and cut away half their garments unto the buttocks, and sent them away. {5} Which when it was told David, he sent to meet them: for the men were confounded very foully, and David commanded them: Tarry in Jericho, till your beard be grown, and then return. {6} And the children of Ammon seeing that they had done injury to David, sent, and hired for wages the Syrian of Rohob, and the Syrian of Soba, twenty thousand footmen, and of the king Maacha a thousand men, and of Istob twelve thousand men. {7} Which when David had heard, he sent Joab and the whole army of warriors. {8} The children therefore of Ammon issued forth, and set their men in array before the very entrance of the gate: but the Syrian of Soba, and Rohob, and Istob, and Maacha were by themselves in the field. {9} Joab therefore seeing that there was battle prepared against him, both before him and behind him, he picked out of all the chosen of Israel, and directed his army against the Syrian: {10} and the rest of the people he delivered to Abisai his brother, who directed his army against the children of Ammon. {11} And Joab said: If the Syrian shall prevail against me, thou shalt aid me: and if the children of Ammon shall prevail against thee, I will aid thee. {12} Play the man, and let us fight for our people, and the city of our God: and our Lord will do that which is good in his sight. {13} Joab therefore and the people that were with him, began to fight against the Syrians: Who immediately fled from his face. {14} And the children of Ammon seeing that the Syrians were fled, they also fled from the face of Abisai, and entered into the city: and Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem. {15} Therefore the Syrians seeing that they were fallen before Israel, they gathered themselves together. {16} And Adarezer sent, and fetched out the Syrians, that were beyond the river, and brought their army: and Sobach the master of Adarezer's war, was their chief captain. {17} Which when it was told David, he gathered together all Israel, and passed over Jordan, and came into Helam: and the Syrians put themselves in array against David, & fought against him. {18} And the Syrians fled from the face of Israel, and David slew of the Syrians seven hundred chariots, and forty thousand horsemen: and Sobach the Prince of the war he struck: who forthwith died. {19} And all the kings that were to aid Adarezer, seeing themselves overcome of Israel, were afraid and fled, eight and fifty thousand before Israel. And they made peace with Israel: and served them, and the Syrians were afraid any more to aid the children of Ammon.

David overcome with concupiscence committeth adultery with Betsabee: 6. not finding other means to hide the crime, causeth her husband Urias to be slain. 27. Then marrieth her, she beareth a son, and God is offended.

{1} AND it came to pass the year turning about, at such time when kings are wont to proceed to battles, David sent Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel, and they spoiled the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabba: but David remained in Jerusalem. {2} Whilst these things were in doing, it chanced that David arose from his bed after noon, and walked in the top of the king's house: and he saw a woman washing her self, over-against the roof of his house: and the woman was very beautiful. {3} The king therefore sent, and inquired what woman it was. And it was told him, that she was Betsabee the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Urias the Hethite. {4} David therefore sending messengers took her, who when she was entered in to him, he slept with her: and forth with she was sanctified from her uncleanness: {5} and she returned into her house having conceived a child. And sending she told David, and said: I have conceived. {6} And David sent to Joab, saying: Send Urias the Hethite. And Joab sent Urias to David. {7} And Urias came to David. And David asked how well Joab did, & the people, and how the war was ordered. {8} And David said to Urias: Go into thy house, and wash thy feet. And Urias went forth out of the king's house, & the king's meat followed him. {9} But Urias slept before the gate of the king's house, with the other servants of his lord, and went not down to his own house. {10} And it was told David of them that said: Urias went not into his house. And David said to Urias: Didst thou not come from thy journey? Why didst thou not go down into thy house? {11} And Urias said to David: The Ark of God and Israel & Juda dwell in pavillions, & my lord Joab and the servants of my lord abide upon the face of the earth: and shall I enter into my house, to eat and to drink, and sleep with my wife? By thy health, and by the health of thy soul I will not do this thing. {12} David therefore said to Urias: tarry here also this day, and to morrow I will dismiss thee. Urias tarried in Jerusalem that day and the next: {13} and David called him to eat before him and to drink, and he made him drunk: who going out at even, slept on his couch with the servants of his lord, and went not down into his house. {14} The morning therefore was come, and David wrote a letter to Joab: and sent it by the hand of Urias, {15} writing in the letter: Set ye Urias in the front of the battle, where the fight is strongest: and leave him, that being stricken he may die. {16} Therefore when Joab besieged the city, he put Urias in the place where he knew the strongest men were. {17} And the men issuing out of the city, fought against Joab, and there fell of the people of the servants of David, and Urias also the Hethite died. {18} Joab therefore sent, and told David all the story of the battle: {19} and he commanded the messenger, saying: When thou hast told all the story of the battle to the king, {20} if thou see him to be angry, and he say: Why approached you to the wall, to fight? Knew you not that many weapons are thrown from above of the wall? {21} Who struck Abimelec the son of Jerobaal? Did not a woman cast upon him a piece of a millstone from the wall, and slew him in Thebes? Why approached you near the wall? Thou shalt say: Also thy servant Urias the Hethite is slain. {22} The messenger therefore departed, and came, and told David all things that Joab had commanded him, {23} And the messenger said to David: The men have prevailed against us, and they issued forth to us into the field: and we violently pursued them even to the gate of the city. {24} And the archers shot arrows at thy servants from off the wall above: and there died of the king's servants, yea and thy servant Urias the Hethite is dead. {25} And David said to the messenger: Thus shalt thou say to Joab: Let not this thing discomfort thee: for the event of war is diverse: now this man, and now that man the sword consumeth: encourage thy warriors against the city, that thou mayest destroy it, and exhort them. {26} Also the wife of Urias heard, that Urias her husband was dead, & she mourned for him. {27} And the mourning being past, David sent and brought her in into his house, & she became his wife, and she bare him a son: and this thing which David had done, was unpleasant before our Lord.

Nathan the Prophet by a parable induceth David to condemn himself of great sin, 7. blameth and threateneth him for the same. 13. But upon his confession denounceth remission of his sin, with reservation of temporal punishment, 15. the death of the child. 24. Betsabee beareth an other son, who is called Salomon. 26. The city of Rabbath is taken, and a rich crown with other prey.

{1} OUR Lord therefore sent Nathan to David: Who when he was come to him, he said unto him: There were two men in one city, one rich, and the other poor. {2} The rich man had sheep, and oxen exceeding many. {3} But the poor man had nothing at all, beside one little ewe, which he had bought and nourished, and which had grown in his house together with his children, eating of his bread, and drinking of his cup, & sleeping in his bosom: & it was to him as a daughter. {4} And when a certain stranger was come to the rich man, he sparing to take of his own sheep and oxen, to make a feast for that stranger, which was come to him, took the poor man's ewe, & made meats thereof for the man that was come to him. {5} And David being exceedingly wrath with indignation against that man, said to Nathan: Our Lord liveth, the man that hath done this is the child of death. {6} He shall render the ewe fourfold, because he hath done this thing, & hath not spared. {7} And Nathan said to David: Thou art that man. Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: I anointed thee to be king over Israel, & I delivered thee from the hand of Saul, {8} and gave thee the house of thy lord, & the wives of thy lord in thy bosom, and have given thee the house of Israel and Juda: & if these things be little, I will add far greater things unto thee. {9} Why therefore hast thou contemned the word of the Lord, that thou wouldest do evil in my sight? Urias the Hethite thou hast smitten with the sword, and his wife thou hast taken to thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon. {10} For which thing the sword shall not depart from thy house for ever, because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Urias the Hethite, to be thy wife. {11} Therefore thus saith our Lord: Behold, I will raise upon thee evil out of thine own house, and will take thy wives before thine eyes, and give them to thy neighbour, and he shall sleep with thy wives in the sight of this sun. {12} For thou hast done it secretly: but I will do this word in the sight of all Israel, and in the sight of the sun. {13} And David said to Nathan: I have sinned to our Lord. And Nathan said to David: Our Lord also hath taken away thy sin: thou shalt not die. {14} Nevertheless, because thou hast made the enemies of our Lord to blaspheme, for this thing, the son that is born to thee dying shall die. {15} And Nathan returned into his house. Our Lord also struck the child, which the wife of Urias had born to David, and he was past hope. {16} And David besought our Lord for the child: and David fasted a fast, and going in aside, lay upon the ground. {17} And the ancients of his house came, being earnest with him, that he would rise from the ground: who would not, neither did he eat meat with them. {18} And it chanced the seventh day that the infant died: and the servants of David feared to tell him, that the child was dead. For they said: Behold when the child yet lived, we spake to him, and he heard not our voice: how much more if we shall say, The child is dead, will he afflict himself? {19} When David therefore saw his servants muttering, he understood that the infant was dead: and he said to his servants: Is the child dead? Who answered him: He is dead. {20} David therefore rose from the ground; and was washed and anointed: and when he had changed his garment, he entered into the house of our Lord: and adored, and came into his own house, and he called for bread, and he did eat. {21} And his servants said unto him: What thing is this, that thou hast done? For the infant, when he yet lived, thou didst fast and weep: but the child being dead, thou didst rise up, and hast eaten bread. {22} Who said: For the infant, whiles he yet lived, I fasted and wept; for I said: Who knoweth if perhaps our Lord will give him to me, and the infant may live? {23} But now because he is dead, why do I fast? Shall I be able to call him again any more? I shall go to him rather: but he shall not return to me. {24} And David comforted Bethsabee his wife, & going in unto her, slept with her: Who bare a son, & he called his name Salomon, & our Lord loved him. {25} And he sent by the hand of Nathan the Prophet, & called his name, Amiable to our Lord, because our Lord loved him. {26} Joab therefore fought against Rabbath of the children of Ammon, & won the king's city. {27} And Joab sent messengers to David, saying: I have fought against Rabbath, & the City of waters is to be taken. {28} Now therefore gather the rest of the people, & besiege the city, & take it: lest when the city shall be wasted of me, the victory be ascribed to my name. {29} David therefore gathered all the people, and went forth against Rabbath, and when he had fought, he took it. {30} And he took the crown of their king from his head, in weight a talent of gold, having most precious stones, and it was put upon David's head. Yea & the prey of the city he carried away exceeding much: {31} bringing forth also the people thereof sawed them, and drew round about over them chariots shod with iron: and he divided them with knives, and drew them through in form of bricks: so did he to all the cities of the children of Ammon: and David returned, and all the army into Jerusalem.

Amnon ravisheth Thamar. 20. For which Absalom killeth him, 37. and flyeth into Gessur.

{1} AND it came to pass after these things, that Amnon the son of David loved the sister of Absalom the son of David, being very beautiful, called Thamar, {2} & was fond on her exceedingly, so that for the love of her he was sick: because whereas she was a virgin, it seemed unto him hard to do any thing un honestly with her. {3} But Amnon had a friend, named Jonadab, the son of Semmaa David's brother, a very wise man: {4} Who said to him: Why art thou so worn away with leanness the king's son, day by day? Why dost thou not tell me? And Amnon said to him: I love Thamar the sister of my brother Absalom. {5} To whom Jonadab answered: Lie upon thy bed, and feign sickness: and when thy father shall come to visit thee, say to him: Let my sister Thamar, I pray, come to me, to give me meat, and to make me broth, that I may eat of her hand. {6} Amnon therefore lay down & began as it were to be sick: & when the king came to visit him, Amnon said to the king: Let Thamar my sister come, I beseech you, that she may make in my sight two little suppings, & I may take meat of her hand. {7} David therefore sent home to Thamar, saying: Come into the house of Amnon thy brother, & make him broth. {8} And Thamar came into the house of Amnon her brother, & he lay: who taking meal tempered it, & resolving it in his sight she made suppings. {9} And taking that which she had boiled, she poured it out, and set it before him, & he would not eat: and Amnon said: Put forth all from me. And when they had put forth all. {10} Amnon said to Thamar: Bring in the meat into the parlor, that I may eat of thy hand. Thamar therefore took the suppings, which she had made, and carried it in to Amnon her brother in the parlor. {11} And when she had offered him the meat, he caught her, and said: Come, lie with me my sister. {12} Who answered him: Do not so my brother, do not ravish me: for this is not lawful in Israel. Do not this folly. {13} For I shall not be able to bear my reproach, and thou shalt be as one of the foolish in Israel: but rather speak to the king, & he will not deny me to thee. {14} But he would not rest at her petitions, but prevailing by force ravished her, & lay with her. {15} And Amnon hated her with exceeding great hatred so that the hatred was greater wherewith he hated her, than the love with the which before he loved her. And Amnon said to her: Arise, & go. {16} Who answered him: This evil, which now thou doest against me expelling me, is greater than that which thou didst before. And he would not hear her: {17} but calling the servant, that ministered to him, he said: Thrust this woman out from me, and shut the door after her. {18} Who was clothed with a garment down to the foot; for the king's daughters that were virgins, used such kind of garments. His servant therefore thrust her out, and shut the door after her. {19} Who sprinkling ashes on her head, renting her long garment, and her hands upon her head, went going on, and crying. {20} And Absalom her brother said to her: hath Amnon thy brother lien with thee? But now sister hold thy peace, he is thy brother: neither afflict thou thy heart for this thing. Thamar therefore tarried pining in the house of Absalom her brother. {21} And when David the king had heard these words, he was grieved exceedingly. et noluit contristare spiritum Amnon filii sui, quoniam diligebat eum, quia primogenitus erat ei. {22} Moreover Absalom spake not to Amnon neither good nor evil: for Absalom hated Amnon because he had ravished Thamar his sister. {23} And it came to pass after the space of two years, that the sheep of Absalom were shorn in Baalhasor, which is beside Ephraim: and Absalom called all the king's sons, {24} and he came to the king, & said to him: Behold thy servant's sheep are to be shorn: Let the king, I pray, with his servants come to his servant. {25} And the king said to Absalom: Do not so my son, request not that we come all, & charge thee. And when he was earnest with him, and he would not go, he blessed him. {26} And Absalom said: If thou wilt not come, at the least let Amnon my brother, I beseech thee, come with us. And the king said to him: It is not necessary that he go with thee. {27} Absalom therefore was earnest with him, and he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him. And Absalom made a feast as it were the feast of a king. {28} And Absalom had commanded his servants, saying: Mark when Amnon shall be drunk with wine, and I shall say to you: Strike him, and kill him, fear not: for it is I that command you: take courage, and play the valiant man. {29} Therefore the servants of Absalom did against Amnon, as Absalom had commanded them. And all the king's sons rising gat up every one upon their mules, and fled. {30} And when they yet went on in their way, a rumour came to David, saying: Absalom hath stricken all the king's sons, and there is not left of them so much as one. {31} The king therefore rose up, and rent his garments: and fell upon the ground, and all his servants, that stood about him, rent his garments. {32} But Jonadab the son of Semmaa David's brother answering, said: Let not my lord the king think, that all the king's sons be slain: Amnon only is dead, because he was put in the mouth of Absalom since the day that he ravished Thamar his sister. {33} Now therefore let not my lord the king put this word upon his heart, saying: All the king's sons are slain: because Amnon only is dead. {34} And Absalom fled: and the servant that was the scout-watch, lifted up his eyes, and looked: and behold much people came by a by-way on the side of the mountain. {35} And Jonadab said to the king: Lo the king's sons be come: according to the words of thy servant so is it done. {36} And when he had ceased to speak, the king's sons also appeared: and entering in they lifted up their voice, and wept: yea the king also and all his servants bewailed with an exceeding great weeping. {37} Moreover Absalom flying, went to Tholomai the son of Ammiud the king of Gessur, David therefore mourned for his son all days. {38} And Absalom when he was fled, and come into Gessur, was there three years. {39} And king David ceased to pursue Absalom, because he was comforted upon the death of Amnon.

Joab suborning a woman first to propose the suit by a parable, 21. obtaineth pardon for Absalom, 24. but so that he appeareth not in the king's presence. 25. He is exceeding fair, hath three sons and one daughter, 29. Joab refusing to deal further for his free release, Absalom burneth his corn. 31. Then Joab procureth his access to the king.

{1} AND Joab the son of Sarvia, understanding that the king's heart was turned to Absalom, {2} he sent to Thecua, and took thence a prudent woman: and he said to her: Feign that thou mournest, & put on a mourning garment, & be not anointed with oil, that thou mayest be as a woman now a long time mourning for one dead. {3} And thou shalt go in unto the king, & shalt speak to him these manner of words. And Joab put the words in her mouth. {4} Therefore when the woman of Thecua was gone in to the king, she fell before him upon the ground and adored, & said: Save me, o king. {5} And the king said to her: What matter hast thou? Who answered: Alas, I am a widow woman: for my husband is dead. {6} And thy handmaid had two sons: who fell at words against each other in the field, & there was none to stay them: & the one struck the other, & slew him. {7} And behold the whole kindred rising against thy handmaid, saith: Deliver him that hath stricken his brother, that we may kill him for the life of his brother, whom he hath slain, & may clean destroy the heir: and they seek to extinguish my sparkle, which is left, that there may no name remain to my husband, nor reliques upon the earth. {8} And the king said to the woman: Go into thy house, and I will give commandment for thee. {9} And the woman of Thecua said to the king: Upon me, my lord, be the iniquity, and upon the house of my father: but be the king & his throne innocent. {10} And the king said: He that shall gainsay thee bring him to me, and he shall add no more to touch thee. {11} Who said: Let the king remember our Lord his God, that the next of blood be not multiplied to revenge, and that they kill not my son. Who said: Our Lord liveth, there shall not fall of the hairs of thy son upon the earth. {12} The woman therefore said: Let thy handmaid speak to my lord the king a word. And he said: Speak. {13} And the woman said: Why hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God, and why hath the king spoken this word, that he would sin, and not bring again his banished one? {14} We do all die, and as waters that return not, we fall down on the earth: neither will God have a soul to perish, but revoketh, meaning that he perish not altogether that is cast off. {15} Now therefore I come, that I may speak to my lord the king this word, the people being present. And thy handmaid said: I will speak to the king, if by any means the king may do the word of his handmaid. {16} And the king hath heard, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of all, that would destroy me out of the inheritance of our Lord, and my son together. {17} Let thy handmaid therefore say, that the word of my lord the king be made as a sacrifice. For even as an Angel of God, so is my lord the king, that he is moved neither with blessing nor cursing: Wherefore our Lord also thy God is with thee. {18} And the king answering, said to the woman: Hide not from me the thing that I ask thee. And the woman said to him: Speak my lord king. {19} And the king said: Is the hand of Joab with thee in all these things? The woman answered, & said: By the health of thy soul, my lord king, it is neither on the left hand, nor on the right of all these things, which my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab, he commanded me, and he put all these words into the mouth of thy handmaid. {20} That I should change the form of this speech, thy servant Joab commanded this: and thou my lord king, art wise, as an Angel of God hath wisdom, that thou understandest all things upon the earth. {21} And the king said to Joab: Behold I being pacified have done thy word: Go therefore, & call again the boy Absalom. {22} And Joab falling upon his face unto the earth, adored, and blessed the king; and Joab said: This day thy servant hath understood, that I have found grace in thy sight my lord king for thou hast done the word of thy servant. {23} Joab therefore arose and went into Gessur, and brought Absalom into Jerusalem. {24} But the king said: Let him return into his house, and not see my face. Absalom therefore returned into his house, & the king's face he saw not. {25} Moreover like as Absalom, there was not a man in all Israel so beautiful, & exceeding comely: from the sole of the foot to the crown there was no blemish in him. {26} And when he polled his hair (once a year he was polled, because his bush did burden him) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred sicles, of the common weight. {27} And there were born to Absalom three sons: and one daughter, named Thamar, of a goodly beauty. {28} And Absalom abode in Jerusalem two years, and saw not the king's face. {29} He therefore sent to Joab, to send him to the king: who would not come to him. And when he had sent the second time, and he would not come to him, {30} he said to his servants: You know the field of Joab beside my field, that hath barley harvest: go therefore and burn it with fire. The servants therefore of Absalom burnt the corn with fire. And Joab's servants coming, renting their garments, said: The servants of Absalom have burnt part of the field with fire. {31} And Joab arose, & came to Absalom in his house, & said: Why have thy servants burnt my corn with fire? {32} And Absalom answered Joab: I sent to thee beseeching thee that thou wouldest come unto me, & I might send thee to the king, & thou shouldst say to him: Wherefore came I out of Gessur? It was better for me to be there: I beseech thee therefore that I may see the face of the king: & if he be mindful of mine iniquity, let him kill me. {33} Joab therefore entering in to the king, told him all things: and Absalom was called, and he entered in to the king: and adored upon the face of the earth before him: and the king kissed Absalom.

Absalom getteth favour of the people, 7. and conspireth in Hebron against his father. 14. Who flying, 19. with difficulty permitteth Ethhai a stranger to go with him. 24. But sendeth Sadoc, and other Priests and levites with the ark back into the city. 31. Sendeth Chusai to defeat Achitophel's counsel.

{1} THEREFORE after these things Absalom made him self chariots, and horsemen, and fifty men, that should go before him. {2} And Absalom rising early, stood beside the entrance of the gate, and every man that had business to the king's judgment, did Absalom call to him, and said: Of what city are thou? Who answering said: Of such a tribe of Israel am I, thy servant. {3} And Absalom answered him: Thy words seem unto me good and just. But there is none to hear thee appointed of the king. And Absalom said: {4} Oh who would appoint me judge over the land, that all might come to me which have business, and I might judge justly!

{5} Yea and when a man came unto him to salute him, he put forth his hand, and taking him, kissed him. {6} And this did he to all Israel coming for judgment, to be heard of the king, and he incited the hearts of the men of Israel. {7} And after forty years, Absalom said to king David: Let me go, and pay my vows which I have vowed to our Lord in Hebron. {8} For thy servant vowing did vow, when he was in Gessur of Syria, saying: If our Lord will bring me again into Jerusalem, I will sacrifice to our Lord. {9} And king David said to him: Go in peace. And he arose, and went into Hebron. {10} And Absalom sent spies into all the tribes of Israel, saying: forthwith as you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, say ye: Absalom reigneth in Hebron. {11} Moreover with Absalom there went two hundred men out of Jerusalem being called, going with a simple heart, and utterly ignorant of the cause. {12} Absalom also sent for Achitophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, from his city Gilo. And when he immolated victims, there was made a strong conspiracy, & the people running together increased with Absalom. {13} A messenger therefore came to David, saying: All Israel with all their heart followeth Absalom. {14} And David said to his servants, that were with him in Jerusalem: Arise let us fly: for there will be no escape for us from the face of Absalom: make haste to go out, lest coming perhaps he overtake us, and force ruin upon us, and strike the city in the edge of the sword. {15} And the king's servants said to him: all things whatsoever our lord the king shall command, we thy servants will gladly execute. {16} The king therefore went forth, and all his house on foot: & the king left ten women his concubines to keep the house. {17} And the king going forth & all Israel on their feet, stood far from the house: {18} and all his servants walked by him, and the legions Cerethi and Phelethi, and all the Gethites, valiant warriors, six hundred men which had followed him from Geth, footmen, went before the king. {19} And the king said to Ethai the Gethite: Why comest thou with us? Return and dwell with the king, because thou art a stranger, and art come forth out of thy place. {20} Yesterday thou camest, and to day shalt thou be forced to go forth with us? But I will go whither I shall go: return, and lead back thy brethren with thee, and our Lord will do with thee mercy and verity, because thou hast shewed grace and fidelity. {21} And Ethai answered the king, saying: The Lord liveth, and my lord the king liveth: for that in what place soever thou shalt be, my lord king, either in death, or in life, there will thy servant be. {22} And David said to Ethai: Come, and pass. And Ethai the Gethite passed, and all the men that were with him, and the rest of the multitude. {23} And they all wept with a loud voice, and all the people passed: the king also went over the Torrent Cedron, and all the people marched against the way, that looketh to the desert. {24} And Sadoc also the Priest came, and all the Levites with him carrying the ark of the covenant of God, and they set down the ark of God: & Abiathar ascended, till all the people was fully passed, which was come forth of the city. {25} And the king said to Sadoc: Carry back the Ark of God into the city: if I shall find grace in the sight of my Lord, he will bring me again, and will shew me it, and his tabernacle. {26} But if he shall say to me: Thou pleasest me not: I am ready, let him do that which is good before him. {27} And the king said to Sadoc the Priest: O seer return into the city in peace: and Achimaas thy son, and Jonathas the son of Abiathar, your two sons let them be with you. {28} Behold I will be hid in the champion of the desert, till there come word from you advertising me. {29} Sadoc therefore and Abiathar carried back the Ark of God into Jerusalem: and they tarried there. {30} Moreover David went up mount Olivet, climbing & weeping, going bare foot, & his head covered, yea & all the people which was with him, there head covered went up weeping. {31} And it was told David that Achitophel also was in the conspiracy with Absalom, & David said: Infatuate, O Lord I beseech thee, the counsel of Achitophel. {32} And when David went up to the top of the mount, wherein he would adore our Lord, behold there met him Chusai the Arachite, his garment rent & his head full of earth. {33} And David said to him: If thou come with me, thou shalt be a burden to me: {34} but if thou return into the city, and wilt say to Absalom: I am thy servant, o king: as I have been thy father's servant, so I will be thy servant: thou shalt defeat the counsel of Achitophel. {35} And thou hast with thee Sadoc and Abiathar the Priests, and every word whatsoever thou shalt hear from out of the king's house, thou shalt tell Sadoc and Abiathar the Priests. {36} And there are with them their two sons Achimaas the son of Sadoc, and Jonathas the son of Abiathar: and you shall send by them unto me every word whatsoever you shall hear. {37} Chusai therefore the friend of David coming into the city, Absalom also entered into Jerusalem.

Siba bringing victuals obtaineth (by false suggestion) his master Miphiboseth's inheritance. 5. Semei curseth, and throweth stones at the king, who nevertheless forbiddeth to kill him. 15. Absalom entereth into Hierusalem, 16. entertaineth Chusai, 20. and by Achitophel's advise lieth with his father's concubines.

{1} AND when David had passed a little the top of the Mount, Siba the servant of Miphiboseth appeared coming to meet him, with two asses, which were loaden with two hundred loaves, and an hundred bunches of raisins, an hundred masses of figs, & a bottle of wine. {2} And the king said to Siba: What mean these things? And Siba answered: The asses are for the king's household to sit on: and the loaves and the figs to eat for thy servants, and the wine to drink if any man shall faint in the desert. {3} And the king said: Where is thy master's son? And Siba answered the king: He hath remained in Jerusalem, saying: This day will the house of Israel restore me the kingdom of my father: {4} And the king said to Siba: Let all things be thine that were Miphiboseths. And Siba said: I beseech thee let me find grace before thee, my lord king. {5} King David therefore came as far as Bahurim: & behold there came forth thence a man of the kindred of the house of Saul named Semei, the son of Gera, & he proceeded going forth, & cursed. {6} And he threw stones against David, & against all the servants of king David: & the whole people & all the warriors went on the right, & the left side of the king. {7} And thus spake Semei when he cursed the king: Come forth, come forth thou man of blood, & man of Belial. {8} Our Lord hath repaid thee all the blood of the house of Saul: because thou hast invaded the Kingdom for him, and our Lord hath given the Kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son: and behold thine evils press thee, because thou art a man of blood. {9} And Abisai the son of Sarvia said to the king: Why curseth, this dead dog, my lord thy king? I will go, and strike off his head. {10} And the king said: What is it to me and you, ye sons of Sarvia? Let him alone that he may curse: for our Lord hath commanded him to curse David: and who is he that dare say, why hath he so done? {11} And the king said to Abisai, and to all his servants: Behold my son, that came out of my womb, seeketh my life: how much more the son of Jemini? Let him alone that he may curse according to the precept of our Lord: {12} if perhaps our Lord may respect mine affliction, and our Lord may render me good for this day's cursing. {13} David therefore walked and his company in the way with him. And Semei by the bank on the hill's side, went over-against him, cursing, and casting stones against him, and sprinkling earth. {14} The king therefore came, and all the people with him weary, and they were refreshed there. {15} But Absalom and all his people entered into Jerusalem, yea and Achitophel with him. {16} And when Chusai the Arachite David's friend was come to Absalom, he said to him: God save thee, o king, God save thee, o king. {17} To whom Absalom, is this, quoth he, thy kindness toward thy friend? Why wentest thou not with thy friend? {18} And Chusai answered Absalom: Not so: because I will be his, whom our Lord hath chosen, and all this people, and all Israel, and with him will tarry. {19} Yea that I may add this also, whom shall I serve? Not the king's son? As I have served thy father, so will I serve thee also. {20} And Absalom said to Achitophel:

Consult what we ought to do. {21} And Achitophel said to Absalom: Go into the concubines of thy father, which he hath left to keep the house: that when all Israel shall hear that thou hast defiled thy father, their hands may be strengthened with thee. {22} They pitched therefore a tent for Absalom in the house top, and he went in to his father's concubines before all Israel. {23} And the counsel of Achitophel, which he gave in those days, as if a man should consult God: so was all the counsel of Achitophel, both when he was with David, and when he was with Absalom.

Achitophel counselleth Absalom presently to assault his father with forces, 7. Chusai persuadeth contrary, 15. and secretly advertiseth the king thereof, 23. Achitophel hangeth himself, 25. Absalom appointeth Amasa General of his army, 27. Other friends bring victuals to the king's camp.

{1} ACHITOPHEL therefore said to Absalom: I will choose me twelve thousand men; & rising I will pursue David this night. {2} And falling upon him (for as much as he is weary, & of weakened hands) I will strike him: and when all the people is fled, that is with him, I shall strike the king being desolate. {3} And I shall reduce all the people, as one man is wont to return: for thou seekest one man: & all the people shall be in peace. {4} And his saying pleased Absalom, & all the ancients of Israel. {5} But Absalom said: Call Chusai the Arachite, & let us hear what he also saith. {6} And when Chusai was come to Absalom, Absalom said to him: This manner of speech spake Achitophel; shall we do it or not? What counsel givest thou? {7} And Chusai said to Absalom It is not good counsel, that Achitophel hath given this time. {8} And again Chusai inferred: Thou knowest thy father, and the men that are with him, to be very valiant, and of fell courage, as if a bear in the wood her whelps being taken away should rage: yea and thy father is a man of war, neither will he abide with the people. {9} Perhaps he lieth now hid secretly in caves, or in some one place where he list: and when any one shall fall in the beginning, there shall one hear whosoever shall hear it, and say: There is made a slaughter in the people that followed Absalom. {10} And every one of the most valiant whose heart is as it were a lion's, shall faint for fear: for all the people of Israel know thy father to be a valiant man, and that all be strong which are with him. {11} But this seemeth unto me to be good counsel: Let all Israel be gathered to thee, from Dan to Bersabee, as the sand of the sea innumerable: and thou shalt be in the midst of them. {12} And we shall set upon them in what place soever they shall be found: and we shall cover them, as dew is wont to fall upon the earth: and we shall not leave of the men, that are with him, not so much as one. {13} And if he shall enter into any city, all Israel shall cast ropes upon that city round about, and we will draw it into the torrent, that there be not found thereof not so much as a little stone. {14} And Absalom said, and all the children of Israel: The council of Chusai the Arachite is better than the counsel of Achitophel: and by the will of our Lord was the profitable counsel of Achitophel defeated, that our Lord might bring in evil upon Absalom. {15} And Chusai said to Sadoc and Abiathar the Priests: In this and this manner gave Achitophel counsel to Absalom, and to the Ancients of Israel: and I gave such and such counsel. {16} Now therefore send quickly, and tell David, saying: Tarry not this night in the champion of the desert, but without delay pass over: lest perhaps the king be swallowed up, and all the people that is with him. {17} And Jonathas and Achimaas stood by the Fountain Rogel: there went a maid and told them: and they went forward, to report the message to king David: for they could not be seen, nor enter into the city. {18} And a certain boy saw them, and told Absalom: but they making haste entered into the house of a certain man in Bahurim, who had a well in his court, and they went down into it. {19} And a woman took and spread a covering over the mouth of the well, as it were drying sod barley: and so the thing was not known. {20} And when Absalom's servants were come into the house, they said to the woman: Where is Achimas and Jonathas? And the woman answered them: They passed in haste, having tasted a little water. But they that sought, when they had not found, returned into Jerusalem. {21} And when these were gone, they went up out of the well, and going on told king David, and said: Arise ye, and pass quickly the river: because this manner of counsel hath Achitophel given against you. {22} David therefore arose, and all the people that was with him, and they passed over Jordan, until it waxed light, and not one at all was remaining, which did not pass the river. {23} Moreover Achitophel seeing that his counsel was not executed, saddled his ass, and rose and went into his house, and into his city: and taking order with his house hanged himself, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father. {24} But David came into the Camp, and Absalom passed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him. {25} But Absalom appointed Amasa for Joab over the army: and Amasa was the son of a man, which was called Jethra of Jezrael, who went in to Abigail the daughter of Naas, the sister of Sarvia which was the mother of Joab. {26} And Israel camped with Absalom in the Land of Galaad. {27} And when David was come into the Camp, Sobi the son of Naas of Rabbath the sons of Ammon, and Machir the Son of Ammiel of Lodabar, and Berzellai the Galaadite of Rogelim, {28} presented unto him, hangings, and tapestry, and earthen vessels, wheat, and barley, and meal, and potent, and beans, and rice, and fried peas, {29} and honey, and butter, sheep, and fat calves, and they gave to David & the people that was with him, to eat: for they suspected that the people with hunger and thirst was faint in the desert.

King David disposeth his army in three parts, giving special charge to save Absalom alive, 9. Whom nevertheless (hanging by the hairs of his head in an oak) Joab killeth: 16. and saveth the common people, 19. Which David understanding greatly bewaileth Absalom.

{1} DAVID therefore having viewed his people, appointed over them tribunes & centurions, {2} and gave the third part of the people under the hand of Joab, and the third part under the hand of Abisai the son of Sarvia the brother of Joab, and the third part under the hand of Ethai, who was of Geth: & the king said to the people: I also will go forth with you. {3} And the people answered: Thou shalt not go forth: for whether we shall fly, it will be no great importance to them of us: or whether the half part of us shall fall, they will not greatly care: because thou alone art accounted for ten thousands: it is better therefore that thou be in the city to aid us. {4} To whom the king said: What seemeth good to you, that will I do. The king therefore stood beside the gate: and all the people went forth by their troops, by hundreds and by thousands. {5} And the king commanded Joab, & Abisai, and Ethai, saying: Save me the child Absalom. And all the people heard the king commanding all the Princes for Absalom. {6} The people therefore went out into the field against Israel, & the battle was fought in the forest of Ephraim. {7} And the people of Israel was slain there of David's army, and there was made a great slaughter in that day, of twenty thousand. {8} And the battle there was dispersed upon the face of all the earth, and there were many more, whom the forest had consumed of the people, than they whom the sword devoured in that day. {9} And it chanced that Absalom met the servants of David, sitting on a mule: and when the mule was gone in under a thick oak and a great, his head struck to the oak: & he hanging between heaven & earth, the mule that he rode upon passed through. {10} And one saw this & told Joab: saying: I saw Absalom hang upon an oak. {11} And Joab said to the man that told him: If thou sawest him, why didst thou not nail him to the earth, & I had given thee ten sicles of silver, and one belt? {12} Who said to Joab: If thou wouldest pay down in my hands a thousand pieces of silver, I would not lay my hands upon the king's son: for in our hearing the king commanded thee, & Abisai, and Ethai, saying: Keep me the child Absalom. {13} Yea and if I had done against my life boldly, this could not have been hid from the king, and thou wouldest have stand against it? {14} And Joab said: Not as thou wilt, but I will set upon him before thee. He took therefore three lances in his hand, and thrust them in the heart of Absalom: and when as yet he panted for life sticking on the oak. {15} There ran ten young men the squires of Joab, and striking they killed him. {16} And Joab sounded the trumpet, and stayed the people, that they should not pursue Israel flying, willing to spare the multitude. {17} And they took Absalom, and cast him in the forest into a great pit, and they heaped upon him an exceeding great heap of stones: but all Israel fled into their tabernacles. {18} Moreover Absalom had erected to himself, whiles he yet lived, a title which is in the king's Valley: for he said: I have no son, and this shall be a monument of my name. And he called the title by his name, and it is called The hand of Absalom, until this present day. {19} And Achimaas the son of Sadoc said: I will run, and tell the king, that our Lord hath done him judgment of the hand of his enemies. {20} To whom Joab said: Thou shalt not be messenger this day, but thou shalt carry the message an other day: to day I will not have thee carry the message, for the king's son is dead. {21} And Joab said to Chusai: Go, and tell the king what thou hast seen. Chusai adored Joab, and ran. {22} And again Achimaas the son of Sadoc said to Joab: What letteeth if I also run after Chusai? And Joab said to him: Why wilt thou run my son? Thou shalt not be carrier of good tidings. {23} Who answered: But what if I run? And he said to him: Run. Achimaas therefore running a near way, out went Chusai. {24} And David sat between the two gates: and the watchmen that was in the top of the gate upon the wall, lifting up his eyes, saw a man running alone. {25} And crying out he told the king: and the king said: If he be alone, there are good tidings in his mouth. And he making haste, and coming nearer, {26} the watchman saw an other man running, and crying aloud in the top, he said: There appeareth unto me an other man running alone. And the king said: And this is a good messenger. {27} And the watchman, I behold, said he, the running of the former, as it were the running of Achimaas the son of Sadoc. And the king said: he is a good man, & cometh bringing good news. {28} And Achimaas crying, said to the king: God save thee, o king. And adoring the king before him flat to the earth, he said: Blessed be our Lord thy God, who hath shut up the men that have lifted up their hands against my lord the king. {29} And the king said: Is the child Absalom safe? And Achimaas said I saw a great tumult, when thy servant Joab sent, o king, me thy servant: other thing I know not. {30} To whom the king: Pass, said he, & stand here. And when he had passed, & stood, {31} Chusai appeared, and coming he said: I bring good tidings my lord king: for our Lord hath judged for thee this day of the hand of all that have risen against thee. {32} And the king said to Chusai: Is the child Absalom safe? To whom Chusai answering, said: Let the enemies of my lord the king become as the child, and all that rise against him unto evil. {33} The king therefore being made sorry, went up into the high chamber of the gate, and wept. And thus he spake, going: My son Absalom, Absalom my son: who would grant me that I might die for thee, Absalom my son, my son Absalom?

David moved by Joab's admonition 8. ceaseth mourning for Absalom, and reconcileth the rebels. 19. Semei is pardoned. 24. Miphiboseth cleareth himself of his servant's false accusation, yet recovereth not his whole right. 32. Berzillai is courteously entreated. 40. The other tribes contend with Juda for their affection to the king.

{1} AND it was told Joab, that the king wept, and mourned for his son: victory was turned into mourning that day {2} And the to all the people: for the people heard it said in that day: The king sorroweth upon his son. {3} And the people shunned that day to enter into the city, as a people turned, & flying out of battle is wont to shrink aside. {4} Moreover the king covered his head, and cried with a loud voice: O my son Absalom, o Absalom my son, o my son. {5} Joab therefore entering in to the king, into his house, said: Thou hast confounded this day the countenances of all thy servants, that have saved thy life, and the life of thy sons, and thy daughters, and the life of thy wives, and the life of thy concubines. {6} Thou lovest them that hate thee, and thou hatest them that love thee: and thou hast shewed this day that thou carest not for thy nobles, and for thy servants: and indeed I know now, that if Absalom lived, and all we had been slain, then it would please thee. {7} Now therefore arise, and come forth, and speaking unto them satisfy thy servants: for I swear to thee by our Lord, that if thou wilt not go forth, not one verily will remain with thee this night: and this shall be worse for thee, than all the evils which have come upon thee from thy youth until this present. {8} The king therefore arose and sat in the gate: and it was told all the people that the king sat in the gate: and all the multitude came forth before the king, but Israel fled into their tabernacles. {9} All the people also strove in all the tribes of Israel, saying: The king hath delivered us out of the hand of our enemies, he hath saved us from the 'head' of the Philistians: and now he fled out of the land for Absalom. {10} But Absalom whom he anointed over us, is dead in the battle: how long are you still, and reduce not the king? {11} But king David sent to Sadoc and Abiathar the Priests, saying: speak to the Ancients of Juda, saying: Why come you last to bring back the king into his house? (And the saying of all Israel was come to the king in his house.) {12} You are my brethren, you my bone, and my flesh, why do you last bring back the king? {13} And say ye to Amasa: Art not thou my bone, and my flesh? These things do God to me, and these add he, if thou be not the chief captain of warfare before me always for Joab. {14} And he inclined the heart of all the men of Juda, as it were of one man: and they sent to the king, saying: Return thou, and all thy servants. {15} And the king returned, and came as far as Jordan, and all Juda came as far as Galgal to meet the king, and to bring him over Jordan. {16} And Semei the son of Gera the son of Jemini of Bahurim made haste, and went down with the men of Juda to meet king David, {17} with a thousand men of Benjamin, and Siba the servant of the house of Saul: and his fifteen sons, & twenty servants were with him; & rushing into Jordan, {18} passed the fords before the king, that they might help over the king's household, and do according to his commandment. And Semei the son of Gera prostrate before the king, when he had now passed Jordan, {19} said to him: Impute not to me my lord the iniquity, nor remember the injuries of thy servant in the day that thou my lord king wentest out of Jerusalem, nor put it in thy heart o king. {20} For I thy servant acknowledge my sin: and therefore this day I am first come of all the house of Joseph, and am descended to meet my lord the king. {21} But Abisaï the son of Sarvia answering, said: What, shall Semei for these words not be slain, because he reviled the anointed of our Lord? {22} And David said: What is to me and you ye sons of Sarvia? Why are you made this day as satan to me? Shall there a man be killed in Israel to day? Do I not know that this day I am made king over Israel? {23} And the king said to Semei: Thou shalt not die. And he sware to him. {24} Miphiboseth also the son of Saul came down to meet the king, his feet unwashed, and his beard not polled: and he had not washed his garments from the day that the king went forth, until the day of his return in peace. {25} And when he had met the king at Jerusalem, the king said to him: Why camest thou not with me Miphiboseth? {26} And he answering, said: My lord king, my servant contemned me: and I thy servant spake to him that he should saddle me an ass, that getting on I might go with the king: for I thy servant am lame. {27} Moreover he hath also accused me thy servant to thee my lord king: but thou my lord king art as an Angel of God, do what pleaseth thee. {28} For neither was my father's house ought else, but guilty of death to my lord king: and thou hast put me thy servant among the guests of thy table? What just complaint therefore have I? Or what can I further cry out to the king? {29} The king therefore said to him: What speakest thou any more? That is determined which I have spoken: Thou and Siba divide the possessions. {30} And Miphiboseth answered the king: Yea let him take all, for so much as my lord king is returned peaceably into his house. {31} Berzellai also the Galaadite, coming down from Rogelim, brought the king over Jordan, being ready also to attend on him beyond the river. {32} And Berzellai the Galaadite was very old, that is to say, of four score years, and he gave the king victuals, when he abode in the field: for he was an exceeding rich man. {33} The king therefore said to Berzellai: Come with me, that thou mayest rest secure with me in Jerusalem. {34} And Berzellai said to the king: How many are the days of the years of my life, that I should go up with the king into Jerusalem? {35} I am this day four score years old, are my senses quick to discern sweet or sour? Or can meat or drink delight thy servant? Or can I hear more the voice of singing men and singing women? Why should thy servant be a burden to my lord the king? {36} I thy servant will go forward a little from Jordan with thee: I need not this recompense, {37} but I beseech thee that I thy servant may return, and die in my city, and be buried by the sepulchre of my father, and my mother. But there is thy servant Chamaam, let him go with thee, my lord king, and do to him whatsoever seemeth good to thee. {38} The king therefore said to him: Let Chamaam pass on with me, and I will do for him whatsoever shall please thee, and all that thou shalt ask of me, thou shalt obtain. {39} And when all the people and the king had passed Jordan, the king kissed Berzellai, and blessed him: and he returned into his place. {40} The king therefore passed into Galgal, and Chamaam with him, and all the people of Juda had brought over the king, and the half part only of the people of Israel were present. {41} Therefore all the men of Israel concurring to the king, said to him: why have our brethren the men of Juda stolen thee, and brought the king and his household over Jordan, and all the men of David with him? {42} And every man of Juda answered the men of Israel: Because the king is nearer to me: why art thou angry for this matter? Have we eaten any thing of the king's, or were there gifts given us? {43} And a certain man of Israel answered the men of Juda, and said: I am greater by ten parts with the king, and to me pertaineth David more than to thee: Why hast thou done me wrong, and it was not told me first, that I might bring back my king? And the men of Juda answered more sharply than the men of Israel.

Seba raiseth rebellion, is pursued by Joab. (10. Who in the way treacherously killeth Amasa.) 13. Abela is besieged, because Seba saveth himself there. 20. But his head being cut off and cast over the wall to Joab, the army departeth. 23. Chief men in office are mentioned.

{1} IT chanced also that there was there a man of Belial, named Seba, the son of Bochri, a man of Jemini: and he sounded the trumpet, and said: We have no part in David, nor inheritance in the son of Isai: Return into thy tabernacles Israel. {2} And all Israel was separated from David, and followed Seba the son of Bochri: but the men of Juda struck to their king from Jordan unto Jerusalem. {3} And when the king was come into his house to Jerusalem, he took the ten women his concubines, which he had left to keep the house, and he delivered them into custody, allowing them victuals: and he went not in unto them, but they were shut up until the day of their death living in widowhood. And the king said to Amasa: {4} Call me together all the men of Juda against the third day, and be thou present. {5} Amasa therefore went to call together Juda, and tarried beyond the time appointed which the king had assigned him. {6} And David said to Abisai: Now will Seba the son of Bochri more afflict us, than Absalom: take therefore the servants of thy lord, and pursue him, lest perhaps he find fenced cities, and escape us. {7} There went forth therefore with him Joab's men, Cerethi also and Phelethi: and all the strong men issued forth of Jerusalem to pursue Seba the son of Bochri. {8} And when they were beside the great stone, which is in Gabaon, Amasa coming met them. Moreover Joab was clothed with a strait coat according to the measure of his stature, and upon it girded with a sword hanging down to the flank, in a scabbard, which being made for the purpose could with light moving come forth and strike. {9} Joab therefore said to Amasa: God save thee my brother. And he held, with his right hand the chin of Amasa, as it were kissing him. {10} But Amasa marked not the sword, which Joab had, who struck him in the side, & poured out his bowels on the ground, neither added he the second wound, and he died. And Joab, and Abisai his brother pursued Seba the son of Bochri. {11} In the mean time certain men, when they stood by the carcass of Amasa, of Joab's company, said: Lo he that would have been for Joab the companion of David. {12} And Amasa imbrued with blood, lay in the midst of the way. A certain man saw this, that all the people, stayed to see him, and he removed Amasa out of the way into the field, and covered him with a garment, that they which passed might not stay because of him. {13} He therefore being removed out of the way, every man passed following Joab to pursue Seba the son of Bochri. {14} Moreover he had passed through all the tribes of Israel unto Abela, & Bethmaacha: and all the chosen men were gathered together unto him. {15} They therefore came, and assaulted him in Abela, and in Bethmaaca, & they compassed the city with munitions, & the city was besieged: and all the multitude, that was with Joab, laboured to destroy the walls. {16} And a wise woman cried out from the city: Hear ye, hear ye, tell Joab: Approach hither, and I will speak with thee. {17} Who when he was come to her, she said to him: Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am. To whom she spake thus: Hear the words of thy handmaid. Who answered: I do hear. {18} And she again said: A saying was used in the old proverbs: They that ask, let them ask in Abela: and so they prospered. {19} Am not I she that answer truth in Israel, and thou seekest to subvert the city, and to overthrow a mother city in Israel? Why throwest thou down headlong the inheritance of our Lord? {20} And Joab answering, said: God forbid, God forbid that I should, I do not throw down, nor destroy. {21} The matter is not so, but a man of mount Ephraim, Seba the son of Bochri by name, hath lifted up his hand against king David: Deliver him only, and we will depart from the city. And the woman said to Joab: Behold his head shall be thrown to thee off the wall. {22} She therefore went to all the people, and spake to them wisely: who threw the head of Seba the son of Bochri being cut off, to Joab. And he sounded the trumpet, and they departed from the city, every one into their tabernacles: and Joab returned to Jerusalem unto the king. {23} Joab therefore was over all the army of Israel: and Banaias the son of Joiada over the Cerethites and Phelethites. {24} But Aduram over the tributes: moreover Josaphat the son of Ahilud, was register. {25} And Siva, a scribe: and Sadoc and Abiathar, priests. {26} And Ira the Jairite was the priest of David.

Famine oppressing Israel three years, for the sin of Saul against the Gabaonites. 6. seven of Saul's race (7. Miphiboseth saved) are crucified. 12. Their bones with Saul's and Jonathas are buried in the Land of Benjamin. 15. David hath four great battles and victories against the Philistines.

{1} AND there came a famine in the days of David three years continually: and David consulted the oracle of our Lord. And our Lord said: For Saul, and his bloody house, because he slew the Gabaonites. {2} The king therefore calling the Gabaonites, said to them. (Moreover the Gabaonites were not of the children of Israel, but the relics of the Amorrhites: For the children of Israel had sworn to them, and Saul would strike them of zeal, as it were for the children of Israel & Juda.) {3} David therefore said to the Gabaonites: What shall I do for you? And what shall be the expiation for you, that you may bless the inheritance of our Lord? {4} And the Gabaonites said to him: We have no question upon silver and gold, but against Saul, and against his house: neither will we that a man be slain of Israel. To whom the king said: What will you then that I do for you? {5} Who said to the king? The man, that hath wasted us and oppressed us unjustly, we must so destroy, that there be not so much as one left of his stock in all the coasts of Israel. {6} Let there be given us seven men of his children, that we may crucify them to our Lord in Gabaa of Saul, once the chosen of our Lord. And the king said: I will give them. {7} And the king spared Miphiboseth the son of Jonathas the son of Saul, for the oath of our Lord, that had been between David, and between Jonathas the son of Saul. {8} The king therefore took the two sons of Respha the daughter of Aia, whom she bare to Saul, Armoni, and Miphiboseth: and the five sons of Michol the daughter of Saul, which she bare to Hadriel the son of Berzellai, that was of Molathi, {327} {9} and gave them into the hands of the Gabaonites: who crucified them on a hill before our Lord: and these seven died together in the first days of harvest, when the reaping of barley began. {10} And Respha the daughter of Aia taking a hair-cloth, spread it under her upon the rock from the beginning of harvest, till water dropped upon them from heaven: and she suffered not the birds to tear them by day, nor the beasts by night. {11} And the things were told David, which Respha had done, the daughter of Aia, the concubine of Saul. {12} And David went, and took the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathas his son from the men of Jabel Galad, who had stolen them out of the street of Bethsan, in the which the Philistines hanged them when they had killed Saul in Gelboe. {13} And he carried thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathas his son: and gathering the bones of them that were crucified, {14} they buried them with the bones of Saul and of Jonathas his son in the Land of Benjamin, in the side, in the sepulchre of Cis his father: and they did all things that the king had commanded, and God was made propitious again to the land after these things. {15} And there was a battle made again of the Philistians against Israel, and David went down, and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines. And David fainting, {16} Jesbabenob, which was of the kindred of Arapha, the iron of whose spear weighed three hundred ounces, & he was girded with a new sword, assayed to strike David. {17} And Abisai the son of Sarvia rescued him, and striking the Philistine killed him. Then swore David's men, saying: Thou shalt no more go forth with us into battle, lest thou put out the lamp of Israel. {18} There was also a second battle in Gob against the Philistians: then struck Sobochai of Husathi, Saph of the stock of Arapha of the kindred of the giants. {19} There was also a third battle in Gob against the philistians, in the which Adeodatus the son of the Forest a broiderer the Bethlehemite struck Goliath the Gethite, the shaft of whose spear was as it were a weaver's beam. {20} The fourth battle was in Geth: in the which was a tall man, that had six fingers and six toes on each hand and foot, that is four and twenty, and he was of the race of Arapha. {21} And he blasphemed Israel: and Jonathan the son of Samaa the brother of David struck him. {22} These four were born of Arapha in Geth, and they fell by the hand of David, and of his servants.

King David's Canticle of thanksgiving, for his delivery from all enemies: 44. With a Prophecy of the rejection of the Jews, and vocation of the Gentiles.

{1} AND David spake to our Lord the words of this song, in the day that our Lord delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul. {2} And he said: Our Lord is my rock, and my strength, and my Saviour. {3} God is my strong one, I will hope in him: my shield, and the horn of my salvation: my lifter up, and my refuge: my Saviour, from iniquity thou wilt deliver me. {4} Our Lord praise-worthy will I invoke: and from mine enemies I shall be save. {5} Because the pangs of death have compassed me: the streams of Belial have terrified me. {6} The ropes of hell have compassed me: the snares of death have prevented me. {7} In my tribulation I will invoke our Lord, & I will cry to my God: and he will hear my voice out of his holy temple, and my cry shall come to his ears. {8} The earth quaked and trembled, the foundations of the mountains were stricken, and shaken, because he was angry with them. {9} A smoke arose out of his nostrils, and a fire from his mouth shall devour: coals were kindled from him. {10} And he bowed the heavens, and descended: and mist under his feet. {11} And he ascended upon the Cherubins, and flew: and slid over the wings of the wind. {12} He put darkness round about him a cover: stilling waters out of the clouds of heaven. {13} By the shining in his presence: the coals of fire were kindled. {14} Our Lord will thunder from heaven: and the high one will give his voice. {15} He shot his arrows and dispersed them: lightning, and consumed them. {16} And the overflowings of the sea appeared, and the foundations of the world were discovered at the rebuking of our Lord, at the breathing of the spirit of his fury. {17} He sent from high heaven, and took me, and drew me out of many waters. {18} He delivered me from my most mighty enemy, and from them that hated me: because they were stronger than I. {19} He prevented me in the day of my affliction, and our Lord became my stay. {20} And he brought me forth into latitude, he delivered me, because I well pleased him. {21} Our Lord will reward me according to my justice: and according to the cleanness of my hands will he render to me. {22} Because I have kept the ways of our Lord, and have not done impiously, from my God. {23} For all his judgments are in my sight: and his precepts I have not removed from me. {24} And I shall be perfect with him; and shall keep my self from mine iniquity. {25} And our Lord will restore unto me according to my justice: and according to the cleanness of my hands in the sight of his eyes. {26} With the holy one thou shalt be holy: and with the strong perfect. {27} With the elect thou shalt be elect: and with the perverse thou shalt be perverted. {28} And the poor people thou wilt save: and the haughty in thine eyes thou wilt humble. {29} Because thou art my lamp, o Lord: and thou wilt illuminate my darkness. {30} For in thee I will run girded: in my God I will leap over the wall. {31} God, his way immaculate, the word of our Lord is examined by fire: he is the shield of all that trust in him. {32} Who is God beside our Lord: and who is strong beside our God? {33} God who hath girded me with strength: and made even my perfect way. {34} Making my feet equal with the Harts, and setting me upon my high places. {35} Teaching my hands unto battle: and framing mine arms as it were a brazen bow. {36} Thou hast given me the shield of thy salvation: and thy mildness hath multiplied me. {37} Thou shalt enlarge my steps under me: and mine ankles shall not fail. {38} I will pursue mine enemies, and bruise them: and will not return till I consume them. {39} I will consume and break them, that they rise not: they shall fall under my feet. {40} Thou hast girded me with strength to battle: thou hast bowed under me them that resist me. {41} Mine enemies thou hast made to turn to me the back: them that hated me, and I shall destroy them. {42} They shall cry, and there shall not be to save, to our Lord, and he will not hear them. {43} I will destroy them as the dust of the earth: as the mire of the streets will I bruise and break them. {44} Thou wilt save me from the contradictions of my people: thou wilt keep me to be the head of the Gentiles: the people which I know not, will serve me. {45} The children aliens will resist me, with the hearing of the ear they will obey me. {46} The children aliens are fallen away, and shall be straitened in their distresses. {47} Our Lord liveth, and my God is blessed: and the strong God of my salvation shall be exalted. {48} God which givest me revenges, and throwest down peoples under me. {49} Which bringest me out from mine enemies, and from them that resist me dost lift me up: from the wicked man thou shalt deliver me. {50} Therefore will I confess unto thee, o Lord, among the Gentiles, and will sing to thy name. {51} Magnifying the salutations of his king, and doing mercy to his Christ David, and to his seed for ever.

The last words of David concerning reward of the good 6. and punishment of the bad. 8. A Catalogue of David's valiant men.

{1} AND these are David's last words. David the son of Isai said: The man said, to whom it was appointed concerning the Christ of the God of Jacob, the excellent Psalmist of Israel: {2} The Spirit of our Lord hath spoken by me, and his words by my tongue. {3} The God of Israel said to me, the Strong one of Israel hath spoken, the Dominatour of men, the just ruler in the fear of God. {4} As the light of the morning when the sun riseth, {329} early without clouds glistereth, and as by rain grass springeth out of the earth. {5} Neither is my house so great with God, that he should enter with me an eternal covenant firm in all things & assured. For all my salvation, & all my will: neither is there ought thereof that springeth not. {6} And transgressors shall be plucked up as thorns every one: which are not taken with hands. {7} And if a man will touch them, he shall be armed with iron and a lanced staff, and kindled with fire they shall be burnt unto nothing. {8} These be the names of the valiants of David. Sitting in his chair the wisest Prince amongst three, he is as it were the most tender little worm of the wood, which killed eight hundred at one brunt. {9} After him, Eleazar the son of his uncle the Ahohite among the three valiants, that were with David when they defied the Philisthiims, and were gathered thither into battle. {10} And when the men of Israel were gone up, he stood and struck the philistians till his hand fainted, and waxed stiff with the sword: and our Lord made a great victory that day: and the people that was fled, returned to take away of the spoils of them that were slain. {11} And after him Semma the son of Age of Arari. And the Philisthiims were gathered together in their ward: for there was there a field full of rice. And when the people was fled from the face of the Philisthiims, {12} he stood in the midst of the field, and defended it, and struck the Philisthians: and our Lord gave great salvation. {13} Moreover also before there went down three, which were Princes among thirty, & came to David in the harvest time into the cave of Odollam: and the camp of the Philistians was placed in the Vale of the giants. {14} And David was in a hold: moreover the ward of the Philisthians was then in Bethlehem. {15} David therefore desired, & said: O that some man would give me drink of the water of the cistern, that is in Bethlehem beside the gate. {16} Three valiants therefore brake into the camp of the Philistians, and drew water out of the cistern of Bethlehem, that was beside the gate, and brought it to David: but he would not drink, but offered it to our Lord, {17} saying: Our Lord be merciful to me, that I do not this thing: shall I drink the blood of these men that went, & the peril of their lives? Therefore he would not drink. These things did the three strongest. {18} Abisai also the brother of Joab the son of Sarvia, was Prince of three, it is he that lifted up his spear against three hundred, whom he slew, renowned among three, {19} and the noblest of three, and he was the chief of them, but to the three first he caught not. {20} And Banaias the son of Joiada the most valiant man, of great works, of Cabseel: he struck the two lions of Moab, and he went down, and struck the lion in the midst of the cistern in the days of snow. {21} He also struck the Aegyptian, a man worthy to be a spectacle, having in his hand a spear: therefore when he came down to him with a rod, by force he wrested the spear out of the hand of the Aegyptian, and slew him with his own spear. {22} These things did Banaias the son of Joiada. {23} And he renowned among the three valiants, which were the nobler among thirty: but unto the three he caught not: and David made him of his secret counsel. {24} Asael the brother of Joab among the thirty, Elahanan the son of his uncle of Bethlehem. {25} Semma of Harodi, Elica of Harori, {26} Heles of Phalti, Hira the son of Acces of Thecua, {27} Abiezer of Anathoth, Mobonnai of Husati, {28} Selmon the Ahohite, Maherai the Netophathite, {29}

Heled the son of Baana, he also a Netophathite, Ithai the son of Ribai of Gabaath of the children of Benjamin, {30} Banaia the Pharathonite, Heddai of the Torrent Gaas, {31} Abialbon the Arbatite, Azmaveth of Beromi, {32} Eliaba of Salaboni: The sons of Jassen, Jonathan, {33} Semma of Orori, Ahiam the son of Sarar the Ararite, {34} Eliphelet the son of Aasbai the son of Machati, Eliam the son of Achitophel the Gelonite, {35} Hesrai of Carmel, Pharai of Arbi, {36} Igaal the son of Nathan of Soba, Bonni of Gadi, {37} Selec of Ammoni, Naharai the Berothite the squire of Joab the son of Sarvia, {38} Ira the Jethrite, Gareb he also a Jethrite, {39} Urias the Hethite. All thirty seven.

For David's sin in numbering the people, 11. three sorts of punishments are proposed to his election: 14. of which he chooseth the plague, and seventy thousand die in three days. 16. God sheweth mercy. 17. David prayeth, 18. buildeth an altar, 25. and the plague ceaseth.

{1} AND the fury of our Lord added to be angry against Israel, & stirred up David among them saying: Go, number Israel and Juda. {2} And the king said to Joab the General of his army: Walk through all the tribes of Israel from Dan to Bersabee, and number ye the people, that I may know the number thereof. {3} And Joab said to the king: Our Lord thy God increase thy people, as much more as now it is, and again multiply it an hundred fold in the sight of my lord the king: but what meaneth my lord the king by this kind of thing? {4} Howbeit the king's word more prevailed than the words of Joab, and of the chief of the army: and Joab went forth, and the captains of the soldiers from the face of the king, to number the people of Israel. {5} And when they had passed Jordan, they came into Aroer to the right hand of the city, which is in the Vale of Gad. {6} And by Jazer they passed into Galaad, and into the lower country of Hodsi, and they came into the woody country of Dan. And going about near Sidon, {7} they passed nigh to the walls of Tyre, and all the land of the Hevite, and the Chananite, and they came to the south of Juda into Bersabee: {8} and having viewed the whole land, after nine months and twenty days, they were come to Jerusalem. {9} Joab therefore gave the number of the description of the people to the king, and there were found of Israel eight hundred thousand strong men, that could draw sword: and of Juda five hundred thousand fighting men. {10} But David's heart struck him, after the people was numbered: and David said to our Lord: I have sinned very much in this fact: but I pray the Lord to transfer the iniquity of thy servant, because I have done exceeding foolishly. {11} David therefore arose in the morning, and the word of our Lord was made to Gad the Prophet and Seer of David, saying: {12} Go, and speak to David: Thus saith our Lord: Choice is given thee of three things, choose one of them which thou wilt, that I may do it to thee. {13} And when Gad was come to David, he told him, saying: Either famine shall come to thee seven years in thy land: or three months thou shalt fly thy adversaries, and they shall pursue thee: or certes three days the pestilence shall be in thy land. Now therefore deliberate, and see what word I shall answer to him that sent me. {14} And David said to Gad: I am distressed exceedingly: but it is better that I fall into the hands of our Lord (for his mercies be many) than into the hands of men. {15} And our Lord sent the pestilence in Israel, from morning unto the time appointed, and there died of the people from Dan to Bersabee seventy thousand men. {16} And when the Angel of our Lord had stretched forth his hand over Jerusalem to destroy it, our Lord had pity upon the affliction, and said to the Angel that struck the people: It is sufficient: now hold thy hand: and the Angel of our Lord was beside the floor of Areuna the Jebusite. {17} And David said to our Lord when he saw the Angel striking the people: I am he that have sinned, I have done wickedly: these that are the sheep, what have they done? Let thy hand, I beseech thee, be turned against my father's house. {18} And Gad came to David in that day, and said to him: Go up, and build an altar to our Lord in the floor of Areuna the Jebusite. {19} And David went up according to the word of Gad, which our Lord had commanded him. {20} And Areuna looking, perceived the king and his servants to come towards him. {21} And going forth he adored the king with his face bowing to the earth, and said: What is the cause that my lord the king cometh to his servant? To whom David said: That I may buy of thee the floor, and build an altar to our Lord, & the slaughter may cease which rageth among the people. {22} And Areuna said to David: Let my lord the king take, and offer, as it pleaseth him: thou hast the oxen for holocaust, and the wain, and the yokes of the oxen for provision of wood. {23} Areuna gave all things to the king: and Areuna said to the king: The Lord thy God receive thy vow. {24} To whom the king answering, said: Not so as thou wilt, but I will buy it of thee at a price, and I will not offer to our Lord my God holocausts given gratis. David therefore bought the floor, and the oxen, for fifty sicles of silver: {25} and David built there an altar to our Lord, and offered holocausts and pacifics: and our Lord became merciful to the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

THE THIRD BOOK OF KINGS

King David waxing old, Abisag a Sunamite is brought to him. 5. Adonias pretending to reign, 11. Nathan and Bethsabee obtain 28. that Salomon is declared and anointed king. 41. Whereupon Adonias (his followers parting to their houses) 50. flyeth to the altar in the tabernacle: but upon promise of safety doth homage to Salomon.

{1} AND king David was old, and had many days of age: & when he was covered with cloths, he was not warmed. {2} His servants therefore said to him: Let us seek for our lord the king a young woman a virgin, and let her stand before the king, and cherish him, and sleep in his bosom, and warm our lord the king. {3} They sought therefore a beautiful young woman in all the coasts of Israel, and they found Abisag a Sunamite, & brought her to the king. {4} And the damsel was exceeding beautiful, and she slept with the king, and served him, but the king did not know her. {5} And Adonias the son of Haggith was elevated, saying: I will reign. And he made himself chariots & horsemen, & fifty men, that should run before him. {6} Neither did his father control him at any time, saying: Why didst thou this? And he also was very beautiful, the second born after Absalom. {7} And he had talk with Joab the son of Sarvia, and with Abiathar the priest, who furthered Adonias' side. {8} But Sadoc the Priest, and Banaias the son of Joiada, and Nathan the Prophet, and Semei, and Rei, and the strength of David's army was not with Adonias. {9} Adonias therefore having immolated rams and calves, and all fat beasts beside the Stone Zoheloth, which was nigh to the Fountain Rogel, called all his brethren the sons of the king, and all the men of Juda the servants of the king: {10} But Nathan the Prophet, and Banaias, and all the strong ones, and Salomon his brother he called not. {11} Nathan therefore said to Bethsabee the mother of Salomon: Hast thou not heard that Adonias the son of Haggith hath reigned, & our lord David is ignorant thereof? {12} Now therefore come, take counsel of me, & save thy life, & thy son Salomon's. {13} Go, & enter into king David, & say to him: Didst not thou my lord king swear to me thy handmaid, saying: Salomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit in my throne? Why then reigneth Adonias? {14} And whilst thou art yet speaking there with the king, I will come after thee, & make up thy words. {15} Bethsabee therefore went in to the king in the chamber: and the king was exceeding old, and Abisag the Sunamite ministered to him. {16} Bethsabee bowed herself, and adored the king. To whom the king said: What is thy will? Quoth he. {17} Who answering said: My lord, thou didst swear to thy handmaid by our Lord thy God, That Salomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit in my throne. {18} And behold now Adonias reigneth, thou my lord the king not knowing thereof.

{19} He hath killed oxen, and all fat things, and many rams, and called all the king's sons. Abiathar also the Priest, and Joab the General of the warfare: but Salomon thy servant he called not. {20} Notwithstanding my lord king, the eyes of all Israel look upon thee, that thou wouldest shew them, who shall sit in thy throne my lord king after thee. {21} And it shall be when my lord king sleepeth with his fathers, I & my son Salomon shall be sinners. {22} As she was yet spaking with the king, {33} Nathan the Prophet came. {23} And they told the king, saying: Nathan the Prophet is here. And when he was gone in to the king, and had adored bowing to the earth, {24} Nathan said: My lord king, didst thou say: Let Adonias reign after me, and let him sit upon my throne? {25} Because he is gone down to day, and hath immolated oxen, and fatlings, and many rams, and called all the king's sons, and the captains of the army, Abiathar also the Priest: and they eating and drinking before him, and saying: God save the king Adonias: {26} me thy servant, and Sadoc the Priest, and Banaias the son of Joiada, and Salomon thy servant he called not. {27} Is this word proceeding from my lord the king, and hast thou not told me thy servant who should sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him? {28} And king David answered, saying: Call unto me Bethsabee. Who when she was entered in to the king, and stood before him, {29} the king sware, and said: Our Lord liveth, which hath delivered my soul from all distress, {30} that as I swear to thee by our Lord the God of Israel, saying: Salomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne for me, so will I do this day. {31} And Bethsabee bowing her countenance unto the earth adored the king, saying: God save my lord for ever. {32} King David also said: Call me Sadoc the priest, and Nathan the prophet, & Banaias the son of Joiada. Who when they were entered in before the king, {33} he said to them: Take with you the servants of your lord, and set Salomon my son upon my mule: and bring him into Gihon. {34} And let Sadoc the priest anoint him there, and Nathan the prophet to be king over Israel: and you shall sound the trumpet, and shall say: God save king Salomon. {35} And you shall go up after him, and he shall come, and shall sit upon my throne, and he shall reign for me: and I will ordain him that he be Prince over Israel, and over Juda. {36} And Banaias the son of Joiada answered the king, saying: Amen: so speak our Lord the God of my lord the king. {37} As our Lord hath been with my lord the king, so be he with Salomon, and make his throne higher than the throne of my lord, king David. {38} Sadoc therefore the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet went down, and Banaias the son of Joiada, and Cerethi, and Phelethi: and they set Salomon upon the mule of king David, and brought him into Gihon. {39} And Sadoc the priest took a horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Salomon: and they sounded the trumpet, and all the people said: God save king Salomon. {40} And all the multitude went up after him, and the people singing on shalms, and rejoicing with great gladness, and the earth sounded of their cry. {41} And Adonias heard, and all that were invited of him, and the feast was ended: yea & Joab hearing the voice of the trumpet, said: What meaneth the cry of the city making a tumult? {42} As he yet spake, came Jonathas the son of Abiathar the Priest: to whom Adonias said: Come in, because thou art a stout man, and bringest good news. {43} And Jonathas answered Adonias: Not so: for our lord king David hath appointed Salomon king, {44} and hath sent with him Sadoc the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Banaias the son of Joiada, and Cerethi, and Pherethi, and they have set him upon the king's mule. {45} And Sadoc the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet have anointed him king in Gihon: & they are gone up thence rejoicing, and the city sounded: this is the voice that you heard. {46} Yea and Salomon sitteth upon the throne of the Kingdom. {47} And the king's servants entering in, have blessed our lord, king David, saying: God amplify the name of Salomon above thy name, and magnify his throne above thy throne. And the king adored in his bed: {48} and he hath thus spoken: Blessed be our Lord the God of Israel, who hath given this day one sitting in my throne, mine eyes seeing it. {49} They therefore were terrified, and they all arose, that had been invited of Adonias, and every man went his way. {50} And Adonias fearing Salomon arose, & went, & held the horn of the altar. {51} And they told Salomon, saying: Behold Adonias fearing king Salomon, hath taken hold of the horn of the altar, saying: Let king Salomon swear to me this day, that he will not kill his servant with the sword. {52} And Salomon said: If he be a good man, there shall not so much as one hair of his, fall upon the ground: but if evil shall be found in him, he shall die. {53} King Salomon therefore sent, and brought him out from the altar: and going in he adored king Salomon: and Salomon said to him: Go to thy house.

David giveth godly precepts to Salomon. 5. Willeth him to punish certain offenders: {10}, and dieth. 12. Salomon reigneth 13. Adonias, by intercession of Bethsabee requesteth to have Abisag to wife: 22. but is put to death for demanding her. 26. Abiathar the Priest is banished, and deposed, for conspiring with Adonias. 28. Joab also for the same cause, and former crimes is slain. 35. Semei is confined in Jerusalem, 40. & for transgressing his limits, together with old faults is likewise slain.

{1} AND the days of David approached that he should die, and he commanded his son Salomon, saying: {2} I enter into the way of all flesh: take courage, and play the man. {3} And observe the watches of our Lord thy God, that thou walk in his ways, and keep his ceremonies, and his precepts & judgments, and testimonies as is written in the law of Moyses: that thou mayst understand all things which thou doest, and whithersoever thou shalt turn thy self: {4} that our Lord may confirm his words, which he hath spoken of me, saying: If thy children shall keep their ways, and shall walk before me in truth, in all their heart, and in all their soul, there shall not altogether be taken from thee a man out of the throne of Israel. {5} Thou knowest also what Joab the son of Sarvia hath done to me, what he did to the two Princes of the army of Israel, to Abner the son of Ner, & Amasa the son of Jether: whom he slew, & shed the blood of war in peace, and put the blood of battle in his belt, which was about his loins, and in his shoe, which was on his feet. {6} Thou shalt do therefore according to thy wisdom, and shalt not bring his hoar head peaceably unto hell. {7} But to the sons also of Berzellai the Galaadite thou shalt render kindness, and they shall eat on thy table: for they met me when I fled from the face of Absalom thy brother. {8} Thou shalt also with thee Semei the son of Gera the son of Jemini of Bahurim, who cursed me with a wicked curse, when I went to the Camp; but because he came down to meet me when I passed Jordan, and I swear to him by our Lord, saying: I will not kill thee with the sword; {9} do not thou suffer him to be guiltless. But thou art a wise man, so that thou knowest what thou shalt do to him, and thou shalt bring his hoar hair with blood unto hell. {10} David therefore slept with his fathers, & was buried in the city of David. {11} And the days that David reigned in Israel, are forty years: in Hebron he reigned seven years, in Jerusalem thirty three. {12} And Salomon sat upon the throne of David his father, & his Kingdom was confirmed exceedingly. {13} And Adonias the son of Haggith entered in to Bethsabee the mother of Salomon. Who said to him: Is thy coming peaceable? Who answered: Peaceable. {14} And he added: I have a word to speak with thee. To whom she said: Speak. And he: {15} Thou knowest, quoth he, that the kingdom was mine, & all Israel had purposed to make me over them to be their king: but the kingdom is transposed, & is made my brother's: for it was appointed him of our Lord. {16} Now therefore I desire one petition of thee; Confound not my face. Who said to him: Speak. {17} And he said: I pray, speak to Salomon the king (for he can not deny thee any thing) that he give me Abisag the Sunamite to wife. {18} And Bethsabee said: Well, I will speak for thee to the king. {19} Bethsabee therefore came to king Salomon, to speake unto him for Adonias: & the king arose to meet her, & adored her, & sat down upon his throne: & a throne was set for the king's mother, who sat on his right hand. {20} And she said to him: One little petition I desire of thee, confound not my face. And the king said to her: My mother ask: for it behoveth not that I turn away thy face. {21} Who said: Let Abisag the Sunamite be given to Adonias thy brother to wife. {22} And king Salomon answered, and said to his mother: Why doest thou ask Abisag the Sunamite for Adonias? Ask for him also the Kingdom: for he is my brother elder than I, & hath Abiathar the priest, & Joab the son of Sarvia. {23} Therefore king Salomon sware by our Lord, saying: These things do God to me, & these add he, because Adonias hath spoken this word against his life. {24} And now, our Lord liveth which hath established me, & placed me upon the throne of David my father, and which hath made me a house, as he spake, this day shall Adonias be slain. {25} And king Salomon sent by the hand of Banaias the son of Joiada, who slew him, & he died. {26} To Abiathar also the priest the king said: Go into Anathoth to thy field, and thou indeed art a man of death: but to day I will not kill thee, because thou didst carry the ark of our Lord God before David my father, & hast sustained labour in all things, wherein my father laboured. {27} Salomon therefore cast out Abiathar, that he should not be the priest of our Lord, that the word of our Lord might be fulfilled, which he spake concerning the house of Heli in Silo. {28} And then a messenger came to Joab, for that Joab had turned after Adonias, and after Salomon had not turned: Joab therefore fled into the tabernacle of our Lord, & caught the horn of the altar. {29} And it was told king Salomon, that Joab was fled into the tabernacle of our Lord, and was beside the altar: and Salomon sent Banaias the son of Joiada, saying: Go, kill him {30} And Banaias came to the tabernacle of our Lord, and said to him: Thus saith the king: Come forth. Who said: I will not come forth, but here will I die. Banaias reported his word to the king, saying: Thus spake Joab, and thus he answered me. {31} And the king said to him: Do as he hath spoken: and kill him, and bury him, and thou shalt remove the innocent blood, which hath been shed of Joab, from me, and from the house of my father. {32} And our Lord shall render his blood upon his head, because he murdered two just men, and better than himself: and slew them with his sword, my father David not knowing, Abner the son of Ner, general of the warfare of Israel, and Amasa the son of Jether general of the army of Juda: {33} and their blood shall return upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his seed for ever. But to David & his seed & his house, & to his throne be peace for ever from our Lord. {34} Banaias therefore the son of Joiada went up, and setting upon him slew him: and he was buried in his house in the desert. {35} And the king appointed Banaias the son of Joiada for him over the army, and Sadoc the priest he placed for Abiathar. {36} The king also sent, and called Semei, and said to him: Build thee a house in Jerusalem, and dwell there: and thou shalt not go out thence hither and thither. {37} But what day soever thou shalt go out, and shalt pass the Torrent Cedron, know that thou art to be slain: thy blood shall be upon thy head. {38} And Semei said to the king: The saying is good: as my lord the king hath spoken, so will thy servant do. Semei therefore dwelt in Jerusalem many days. {39} And it came to pass after three years, that the servants of Semei fled to Achis the son of Maacha the king of Geth: and it was told Semei that his servants were gone into Geth. {40} And Semei arose, and saddled his ass, & went to Achis into Geth to require his servants, & he brought them out of Geth. {41} And it was told Salomon that Semei went into Geth out of Jerusalem, & was returned. {42} And sending he called him, & said to him: Did I not testify to thee by our Lord, & told thee before: What day soever thou going out shalt pass hither and thither, know that thou shalt die? And thou didst answer me: The saying is good, which I have heard. {43} Why then hast thou not kept the oath of our Lord, and the precept that I commanded thee? {44} And the king said to Semei: Thou knowest all the evil, whereof thy heart is privy to thy self, which thou didst to David my father: our Lord hath rendered thy malice upon thy head. {45} And king Salomon be blessed, and the throne of David shall be stable before our Lord for ever. {46} The king therefore commanded Banaias the son of Joiada: who going out, struck him, and he died.

King Salomon marrieth Pharao's sister. Offereth victims in high places. 5. Admonished by God in his sleep to demand what he will, he asketh wisdom to govern his people. 10. Which God granteth him with much riches also and glory. 16. He decideth a controversy between two women contending about a living child and a dead.

{1} THE kingdom therefore was established in the hand of Salomon, and he was joined in affinity to Pharao the king of Aegypt: for he took his daughter, and brought her into the city of David, until he accomplished building his own house, and the house of our Lord, and the wall of Jerusalem round about. {2} But yet the people immolated in the excelses: for there was no temple built to the name of our Lord until that day. {3} And Salomon loved our Lord, walking in the precepts of David his father, saving that he immolated in the excelses, and burnt incense. {4} He went therefore into Gabaon, to immolate there: for that was a very great excelse: a thousand hosts for holocaust did Salomon offer upon that altar in Gabaon. {5} And our Lord appeared to Salomon in a dream by night, saying: Ask what thou wilt that I may give it thee. {6} And Salomon said: Thou hast done great mercy with thy servant David my father, even as he walked in thy sight in truth, and justice, and a right heart with thee: for thou hast kept thy great mercy, and hast given him a son sitting upon his throne, as it is this day. {7} And now Lord God, thou hast made thy servant to reign for David my father, but I am a little child, and ignorant of my going out and coming in. {8} And thy servant is in the midst of the people, which thou hast chosen, a people infinite, which can not be numbered and counted for the multitude. {9} Thou shalt therefore give to thy servant a docible heart, that he may judge the people, and discern between good & evil. For who shall be able to judge this people, this thy people great in number? {10} The word therefore was liked before our Lord, that Salomon had asked such a thing. {11} And our Lord said to Salomon: Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not desired for thy self many days, nor riches, nor the lives of thine enemies, but hast desired wisdom for thy self to discern judgment: {12} behold I have done unto thee according to thy words, and have given thee a wise heart and intelligent, in so much that none before thee hath been like thee, nor shall arise after thee. {13} Yea and these things, which thou didst not ask, I have given thee; to wit, riches, and glory, so that none hath been like thee among the kings all days heretofore. {14} And if thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my precepts, & my commandments, as thy father walked, I will make thy days long. {15} Therefore Salomon awaked, and perceived that it was a dream: and when he was come to Jerusalem, he stood before the ark of covenant of our Lord, and offered holocausts, and made pacific victims, and a great feast to all his servants. {16} Then came there two women harlots, to the king, and stood before him: {17} of which one said: I beseech thee, my lord, I and this woman dwelt in one house, and I was delivered of a child beside her in the chamber. {18} And the third day, after that I was delivered, she also was delivered, and we were together, and no other person with us in the house, except we two. {19} And this woman's child died in the night. For sleeping she oppressed him. {20} And rising in the dead time of the night, she took my child from the side of me, thy handmaid being asleep, and laid it in her bosom: and her child that was dead, she put in my bosom. {21} And when I was risen in the morning to give my child milk, he appeared dead: whom more diligently beholding when it was clear day, I found that it was not mine which I bare. {22} And the other woman answered: It is not so as thou sayst, but thy child is dead, and mine liveth. On the contrary part she said: Thou liest: for my child liveth, and thy child is dead. And in this manner they strove before the king. {23} Then said the king: This woman saith: My child liveth, and thy child is dead. And this hath answered, No, but thy child is dead, and mine liveth. {24} The king therefore said: Bring me a sword. And when they had brought a sword before the king, {25} Divide, quoth he, the living child into two parts, and give the half part to one, and half to the other. {26} But the woman, whose child was alive, said to the king (for her bowels were moved upon her child) I beseech thee my lord, give her the child alive, and kill it not. On the contrary part she said: be it neither mine, nor thine, but let it be divided. {27} The king answered, and said: Give unto this woman the infant alive, and let it not be killed, for this is the mother thereof. {28} All Israel therefore heard the judgment that the king had judged, and they feared the king, seeing the wisdom of God to be in him to do judgment.

Chief men of Salomon's Kingdom are recited by their names, and offices. 22. likewise the provision of victuals for his house, 26. and number of his horses. 29. His wisdom excelleth all others. 32. He writ many parables and verses, and learnedly discoursed of all things.

{1} AND king Salomon was reigning over all Israel: he had: Azarias the son of Sadoc the {2} and these were the princes which priest: {3} Elihoreph, and Ahia the sons of Sisa Scribes: Josaphat the son of Ahilud, register: {4} Banaias the son of Joiada, over the army: and Sadoc, and Abiathar priests. {5} Azarias the son of Nathan, over them that assisted the king: Zabud the son of Nathan priest, the king's friend: {6} and Ahizar governor of the house: and Adoniram the son of Abda over the tributes. {7} And Salomon had twelve governors over all Israel, which served out victuals for the king and for his house: for every one ministered necessities, each man his month in the year. {8} And these are their names: Benhur in mount Ephraim. {9} Bendecar, in Macces, and in Salebim, and in Bethsames, and in Elon, and in Bethhanan. {10} Benhesed in Aruboth: his was Socho, and all the land Epher. {11} Benabinadab, whose was all Nepha Dor, had Tapheth the daughter of Salomon to wife. {12} Bana the son of Ahilud governed Thanach and Mageddo, and all Bethsan, which is beside Sarthana under Jezrahel, from Bethsan unto Abelmehula over against Jecmaan. {13} Bengaber in Ramoth Galaad: had Avothjair the son of Manasses in Galaad, he was chief in all the country of Argob, which is in Basan, three score cities great and walled, which had brazen locks. {14} Ahinadab the son of Addo was chief in Manaim. {15} Achimaas in Nephthali: yea he also had Basemath the daughter of Salomon in marriage. {16} Baana the son of Husi, in Aser, and in Baloth. {17} Josaphat the son of Pharue, in Issachar. {18} Semei the son of Ela, in Benjamin. {19} Gaber the son of Uri, in the land of Galaad in the land of Sehon the king of the Amorrhite, & of Og the king of Basan, over all things that were in that Land. {20} Juda and Israel innumerable, as the sand of the sea in multitude: eating, and drinking, and rejoicing. {21} And Salomon was in his dominion, having all the Kingdoms with him from the river of the land of the Philisthiims unto the border of Aegypt: of them that offered him presents, & served him all the days of his life. {22} And the provision of Salomon was every day thirty measures of flour, & threescore measures of meal, {23} ten fat oxen and twenty pasture-fed, & a hundred rams, beside the venison of harts, roes, and buffles, and fatted fowl. {24} For he possessed all the country, which was beyond the river, from Thapsa unto Gaza, and all the kings of those countries: and he had peace on every side round about. {25} And Juda and Israel dwelt without any fear, every one under his vine, and under his fig tree, from Dan unto Bersabee all the days of Salomon. {26} And Salomon had forty thousand stalls of chariot-horses, and twelve thousand for the saddle. {27} And the foresaid governors of the king fed them: yea and the necessaries of king Salomon's table they gave forth with great care in their time. {28} Barley also and straw for the horses, and beasts, they brought to the place, where the king was, according as it was appointed them. {29} God also gave wisdom to Salomon and prudence exceeding much, and latitude of heart as the sand that is in the sea shore. {30} And the wisdom of Salomon passed the wisdom of all them in the east, and of the Aegyptians, {31} and he was wiser than all men: wiser than Ethan the Ezralite, and Heman, and Chalcol, & Dorda the sons of Mahol, and he was renowned in all nations round about. {32} Salomon also spake three thousand parables: and his songs were a thousand & five. {33} And he disputed of trees from the cedar that is in Libanus, unto the hyssop which cometh out of the wall: & he discoursed of beasts, and fowls, and creeping worms, and fishes. {34} And there came from all people to hear the wisdom of Salomon, and from all the kings of the earth, which heard his wisdom.

Hiram king of Tyre granteth timber and workmen for building the Temple: Salomon allowing victuals, and paying wages. 13. the number of work men and overseers.

{1} HIRAM also the king of Tyre sent his servants to Salomon: for he heard that they had anointed him king for his father: because Hiram had been David's friend at all time. {2} And Salomon sent to Hiram, saying: {3} Thou knowest the will of David my father, and that he could not build a house to the name of our Lord his God, because of wars imminent round about, until our Lord put them under the sole of his feet. {4} But now our Lord my God hath given me rest round about: and there is no satan, nor ill encounter. {5} Wherefore I purpose to build a temple to the name of our Lord my God, as our Lord hath spoken to David my father, saying: Thy son, whom I will give for thee upon thy throne, he shall build a house to my name. {6} Command therefore that thy servants cut me down cedars out of Libanus, and let my servants be with thy servants: and I will give thee the hire of thy servants whatsoever thou wilt ask, for thou knowest how there is not in my people a man that hath skill to hew wood as the Sidonians. {7} When Hiram therefore had heard the words of Salomon, he rejoiced exceedingly, and said: Blessed be the Lord God this day, who hath given unto David a son most wise over this people so great in number. {8} And Hiram sent to Salomon, saying: I have heard whatsoever thou hast willed me: I will do all thy will in cedar trees, and fir trees. {9} My servants shall bring them down from Libanus to the sea: and I will put them in boats in the sea, unto the place which thou shalt signify to me; & will land them there, and thou shalt take them: and thou shalt allow me necessaries, that there be meat given for my house. {10} Therefore Hiram gave Salomon cedar trees, and fir trees, according to all his will. {11} And Salomon allowed Hiram twenty thousand cores of wheat, for provision for his house, and twenty cores of most pure oil: these things did Salomon give to Hiram every year. {12} Our Lord also gave wisdom to Salomon, as he spake to him: & there was peace between Hiram & Salomon, and both made a league. {13} And king Salomon chose workmen out of all Israel, and the taxed number was of thirty thousand men. {14} And he sent them into Libanus, ten thousand every month by course, so that two months they were in their houses: and Adoniram was over this taxing. {15} And Salomon had seventy thousand of them that carried burdens, and eighty thousand hewers of stones in the mountains: {16} besides the overseers which were over every work, in number three thousand, and three hundred that commanded the people, & them that did the work. {17} And the king commanded, that they should take great stones, chosen stones for the foundation of the temple, and should square them: {18} which the masons of Salomon, and masons of Hiram hewed: moreover the Gibilians prepared timber and stones, to build the house.

In the year four hundred and four score, after the Israelites came from Aegypt, Salomon, the fourth year of his reign, beginneth to build the Temple. 2. The principal parts with the greatness, form, and ornaments thereof are described. 38. It is in building seven years.

{1} AND it came to pass in the four hundred and four score year of the coming forth of the children of Israel out of the Land of Aegypt, in the fourth year, the month Zio (that is the second month) of the reign of Salomon over Israel, he began to build a house to our Lord. {2} And the house, which king Salomon built to our Lord, had three score cubits in length, & twenty cubits in breadth, and thirty cubits in height. {3} And there was a porch before the temple of twenty cubits of length, according to the measure of the breadth of the temple: and it had ten cubits of breadth before the face of the temple. {4} And he made in the temple oblique windows. {5} And he built upon the wall of the temple lofts round about, in the walls of the house round about the temple and the oracle, and he made sides round about. {6} The loft that was underneath, had five cubits of breadth, & the middle loft was of six cubits in breadth, and the third loft had seven cubits of breadth. And he put beams in the house round about on the outside, that they might not cleave to the walls of the temple. {7} And the house when it was built, was built of stones hewed and perfected: and hammer, and hatchet, and all the tool of iron were not heard in the house when it was built. {8} The door of the middle side was in the wall of the house on the right hand: and by winding stairs they went up into the middle room, and from the middle into the third. {9} And he built the house, and finished it: he covered also the house with ceilings of cedar trees. {10} And he built a loft over all the house five cubits of height, and he covered the house with cedar timber. {11} And the word of our Lord came to Salomon, saying: {12} This house, which thou buildest, if thou wilt walk in my precepts, and to my judgments, and keep all my commandments, going in them, I will establish my word to thee, which I spake to David thy father. {13} And I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel. {14} Salomon therefore built the house, and finished it. {15} And he built the walls of the house on the inside, with cedar lofts, from the pavement of the house to the top of the walls, and to the roofs, he covered it with cedar trees on the inside: and he covered the floor of the house with boards of fir. {16} And he built lofts of cedar timber of twenty cubits at the hinder part of the temple, from the pavement to the higher parts: and he made the inner house of the oracle to be Sanctum Sanctorum. {17} Moreover the temple it self was forty cubits before the doors of the oracle. {18} And all the house was covered within with cedar, having roundels, and the joints thereof cunningly wrought, and the engravings standing out: all things were covered with boards: neither could there a stone appear in the wall at all. {19} And he made the oracle in the midst of the house, in the inner part, that he might put the ark of covenant of our Lord there. {20} Moreover the oracle had twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits of breadth, and twenty cubits in height. And he covered and sealed it with most pure gold. And the altar also he decked with cedar. {21} The house also before the oracle he covered with most pure gold, and fastened on plates with nails of gold. {22} And there was nothing in the temple that was not covered with gold: yea and all the altar of the oracle he covered with gold. {23} And he made in the oracle two Cherubs of olive trees, of ten cubits in height. {24} One wing of a cherub of five cubits, and the other wing of a cherub five cubits: that is, having ten cubits, from the end of one wing unto the end of the other wing. {25} Of ten cubits also was the second cherub: in like measure, and the work was one in both cherubs, {26} that is to say, one cherub had the height of ten cubits, and in like manner the second cherub. {27} And he put the cherubs in the midst of the inner temple: and the cherubs extended their wings, and the one wing touched the wall, and the wing of the second cherub touched the other wall: and the other wings in the middle part of the temple touched each other. {28} He covered also the cherubs with gold. {29} And all the walls of the temple round about he graved with diverse engravings and carving: & he made in them cherubs, and palm trees, and diverse pictures, as it were standing out of the wall, and coming forth. {30} Yea the pavement also of the house he covered with gold within and without. {31} And in the entrance of the oracle he made little doors of the timber of olivetrees, and five corner posts. {32} And two doors of olivetimber: and he graved in them pictures of Cherubs, and figures of Palm trees, and graven works standing out very much; and he covered them with gold: and he covered as well the Cherubs and the palmtrees, and the other things with gold. {33} And he made in the entrance of the temple posts of olivetimber four square: {34} and two doors of fir trees, one against an other: and either door was double, & so opened with folding leaves. {35} And he graved Cherubs, and palmtrees, and engravings appearing very much: and he covered all with golden plates in square work by rule. {36} And he built the inner court with three rows of stones polished, & one row of cedar timber. {37} In the fourth year was the house of our Lord founded, in the month of Zio: {38} and in the eleventh year in the month Bul (that is the eighth month) the house was perfected in all the works thereof, and in all the implements thereof: and he was building it seven years.

Salomon's palace, 2. his house in the forest, 8. and the Queen's house is built. 13. Two great brazen pillars: 23. a sea (or laver) 27. ten brazen feet: 38. ten less lavatories, and other vessels, and implements pertaining to the Temple, adorned with images of Angels, and other creatures, are further described.

{1} AND his own house Salomon built in thirteen years, and brought it to perfection. {2} He built also the house of the forest of Libanus of an hundred cubits in length, & fifty cubits in breadth, and thirty cubits in height: and four score galleries between pillars of cedar: for he had cut cedar trees into pillars. {3} And he decked the whole vault with boards of cedar, which was held up with five & forty pillars, And one order had fifteen pillars, {4} set one against another, {5} and looked one over against another, with equal space between the pillars, & over the pillars square beams in all equal. {6} And the porch of the pillars he made of fifty cubits in length, and thirty cubits in breadth: and an other porch before the greater porch: and pillars, and tops upon the pillars. {7} He made also the porch of the throne, wherein the seat of judgment is; and covered it with cedar wood from the pavement unto the top. {8} And the little house, where they sat in judgment, was in the midst of the porch of like work. He made also a house for the daughter of Pharao (which Salomon had taken to wife) of such work, as also this porch. {9} All of chosen stones, which were sawed by a certain rule and measure both within and without: from the foundation to the top of the walls, and without unto the greater court. {10} And the foundations of chosen stones, great stones of ten or eight cubits. {11} And above there were hewed chosen stones of equal measure, and in like manner of cedar. {12} And the greater court round with three rews of hewed stones, and one rew of planed cedar, moreover also in the inner court of the house of our Lord, and in the porch of the house. {13} King Salomon also sent, and took Hiram from Tyre, {14} the son of a widow woman of the tribe of Nephthali, his father, a Tyrian, an artificer in brass, and full of wisdom, and intelligence, and skill to make all work of brass. Who when he was come to king Salomon, made all his work. {15} And he cast two brazen pillars, of eighteen cubits in height one pillar: and a line of twelve cubits compassed both pillars. {16} He made also two little heads, which should be put upon the heads of the pillars, cast of brass: five cubits high one little head, and five cubits the other little head: {17} and as it were in manner of a net, & of chains knit one to the other with marvelous work. Both little heads of the pillars were cast: seven rews of little nets in one little head, & seven little nets in the other little head. {18} And finished the pillars, and two rews round about every net, that they might cover the little heads, which were over the top of the pomegranates: in like manner did he also to the second little head. {19} And the little heads, that were upon the heads of the pillars, were made as it were with lily work, in the porch, of four cubits. {20} And again other little heads in the top of the pillars above, according to the measure of the pillar against the little nets: and of the pomegranates were two hundred rews round about the second little head. {21} And he set two pillars in the porch of the temple: & when he had erected the pillar on the right hand, he called the name thereof Jachin: in like manner he erected the second pillar, & called the name thereof Booz. {22} And upon the heads of the pillars he put a work in manner of a lily: and the work of the pillars was perfected. {23} He made also a sea of founder's work, of ten cubits from brim to brim, round in compass, the height thereof was of five cubits, and a cord of thirty cubits did compass it round about. {24} And the graving under the brim compassed it, ten cubits going about the lavatory: there were two rews of chamfered furrowed gravings cast. {25} And it stood upon twelve oxen, of which three looked to the North, and three to the West, and three to the South, and three to the East, and the sea was over them: whose hinder parts were all hid inward. {26} And the thickness of the lavatory was of three ounces: and the brim thereof as it were the brim of a chalice, and the leaf of crisped lily: it contained two thousand bates. {27} And he made ten brazen feet, of four cubits in length every foot, and four cubits in breadth, and three cubits in height. {28} And the very work it self of the feet, was entergraven: and entergravings between the jointures. {29} And between the little crowns and the plaits, lions, and oxen, and Cherubs: and in the jointures likewise above: and under the lions & oxen as it were bands of brass hanging down. {30} And four wheels at every foot, and axletrees of brass: and at four sides as it were little shoulders under the lavatory cast, looking one against an other. {31} The mouth also of the lavatory was inward in the top of the head: and that which appeared outward, was of one cubit all round, and together it had one cubit and a half: and in the corners of the pillars were diverse engravings: and the middle enterpillars, square not round. {32} The four wheels also which were at the four corners of a foot, joined one to an other under the foot: one wheel had in height a cubit and a half. {33} And they were such wheels as are accustomed to be made in a chariot: and their axletrees and spokes, and strakes, and naves, all cast. {34} For those four little shoulders also at every corner of one foot, were cast out of the foot and joined together. {35} And in the top of the foot was a certain roundness of half a cubit, so wrought, that the lavatory might be put thereon, having the engravings thereof, and diverse carvings of it-self. {36} He graved also in those ceilings, which were of brass, and in the corners, cherubs, and lions, and palmrees, as it were in the similitude of a man standing, that they seemed not to be engraven, but put to round about. {37} After this manner made he ten feet, of one casting and measure, and like graving. {38} He made also ten lavatories of brass: one lavatory contained forty bates, and it was of four cubits: also at every foot, that is ten, he put so many lavatories. {39} And he set the ten feet, five on the right side of the temple, and five on the left: and the sea he put on the right side of the temple against the East toward the South. {40} Hiram therefore made cauldrons, and shovels, & little pots, and perfected all the work of king Salomon in the temple of our Lord. {41} Two pillars, and two cords of the little heads upon the little heads of the pillars: and two little nets, to cover the two cords, that were over the heads of the pillars. {42} And four hundred pomegranates in the two nets: two rews of pomegranates in every net, to cover the cords of the little heads, which were upon the heads of the pillars. {43} And ten feet, and ten lavatories upon the feet. {44} And one sea, and twelve oxen under the sea. {45} And cauldrons, & shovels, and little pots. All the vessels that Hiram made to king Salomon in the house of our Lord, were of bright latten. {46} In the champion country of Jordan did the king cast those things in a clay ground, between Sacoth & Sarthan. {47} And Salomon placed all the vessels: but for the exceeding great multitude the brass could not be weighed. {48} And Salomon made all the vessels in the house of our Lord: an altar of gold, and a table, whereupon the loaves of proposition should be put, of gold: {49} and candlesticks of gold, five on the right hand, and five on the left against the oracle, of pure gold: and as it were little flowers, and lamps about of gold: and golden snuffers, {50} and water pots, and fleshhooks, and phials, and mortars, and censers, of most pure gold: and the hinges of doors of the inner Sanctum Sanctorum, and of the doors of the house of the temple, were of gold. {51} And Salomon perfected all the work that he did in the house of our Lord, and brought in the things that David his father had sanctified, silver and gold, and the vessels, and laid them in the treasures of the house of our Lord.

The ark is brought in, and the temple dedicated. 10. A glorious cloud replenisheth it. 14. Salomon prayeth long to God, 55. blesseth the people, 62. and many victims are offered in this solemn festivity.

{1} THEN were gathered together all the ancients of Israel with the princes of the tribes, and the heads of the families of the children of Israel to king Salomon into Jerusalem: that they might carry the Ark of the covenant of our Lord out of the city of David, that is, out of Sion. {2} And all Israel assembled to king Salomon in the month of Ethanim, on a solemn day, that is the seventh month. {3} And all the ancients of Israel came, and the Priests took the ark, {4} and carried the ark of our Lord, and the tabernacle of covenant, and all the vessels of the Sanctuary, that were in the tabernacle: and the Priests and the Levites carried them. {5} And King Salomon, and all the multitude of Israel which was assembled unto him, went with him before the ark, and they immolated sheep and oxen without estimation and number. {6} And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of our Lord into his place, into the oracle of the temple, into Sanctum Sanctorum under the wings of the Cherubs. {7} For the Cherubs spread their wings over the place of the ark, and covered the ark, and the bars thereof above. {8} And whereas the bars stood out, and the ends of them appeared without in the Sanctuary before the oracle, they appeared no farther outward, which also were there until this present day. {9} And in the ark there was nothing else but two tables of stone, which Moyses put in it in Horeb, when our Lord made the covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the Land of Aegypt. {10} And it came to pass, when the Priests were gone out of the Sanctuary, a cloud filled the house of our Lord, {11} and the Priests could not stand and minister for the cloud: for the glory of our Lord had filled the house of our Lord. {12} Then said Salomon: Our Lord said that he would dwell in a cloud. {13} Building I have built a house for thy habitation, thy most firm throne for ever. {14} And the king turned his face, and blessed all the Church of Israel: for all the Church of Israel stood. {15} And Salomon said: Bless be our Lord the God of Israel, who spake by his mouth to David my father, & in his own hands hath perfected it, saying: {16} Since the day that I brought my people Israel out of Aegypt, I chose no city of all the tribes of Israel, that a house might be built, and my name might be there: but I chose David to be over my people Israel. {17} And David my father would have built a house to the name of our Lord the God of Israel: {18} and our Lord said to David my father: In that thou hast thought in thy heart to build a house to my name, thou hast done well, casting this same thing in thy mind. {19} Nevertheless thou shalt not build me a house, but thy son, that shall come forth of thy reins, he shall build a house to my name. {20} Our Lord hath confirmed his word, which he spake: & I stand for David my father, & sit upon the throne of Israel, as our Lord hath spoken: and I have built a house to the name of our Lord the God of Israel. {21} And I have appointed there a place for the ark, wherein the covenant of our Lord is, which he made with our fathers, when they came out of the Land of Aegypt. {22} And Salomon stood before the altar of our Lord in the sight of the assembly of Israel, and extended his hands toward heaven, {23} and said: Lord God of Israel, there is no God like to thee in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: which keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants, that walk before thee in all their heart. {24} Which hast kept to thy servant David my father, the things that thou hast spoken to him: by mouth thou didst speak, and with thy hands thou hast accomplished, as this day proveth. {25} Now therefore Lord God of Israel, keep unto thy servant David my father the things which thou hast spoken to him, saying: There shall not be taken away of thee a man before me, which sitteth upon the throne of Israel: yet so if thy children shall keep their way, that they walk before me as thou hast walked in my sight. {26} And now Lord God of Israel, let thy words be established, which thou hast spoken to thy servant David my father. {27} Is it then to be thought that indeed God dwelleth upon the earth? For if heaven, and the heavens of heavens can not contain thee, how much more this house, which I have built? {28} But look toward the prayer of thy servant, & to his petitions, o Lord my God: hear the hymn and the prayer, which thy servant prayeth before thee this day: {29} that thy eyes be opened upon this house night and day: upon the house, whereof thou saidst: My name shall be there: that thou hear the prayer, which thy servant prayeth in this place to thee. {30} That thou hear the request of thy servant & of thy people Israel, whatsoever they shall pray for in this place, & thou shalt hear in the place of thy habitation in heaven: and when thou hast heard, thou shalt be merciful, {31} If a man shall sin against his neighbour, & shall have any oath, wherewith he is held fast bound: & shall come because of the oath before thine altar into thy house, {32} thou shalt hear in heaven: and shalt do, and judge thy servants, condemning the impious, and rendering his way upon his head, and justifying the just, and rewarding him according to his justice. {33} If thy people Israel shall fly their enemies (because they will sin against thee) & doing penance and confessing to thy name, shall come, and pray, & beseech thee in this house; {34} hear in heaven, & forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and thou shalt reduce them unto the land, which thou gavest to their fathers. {35} If the heaven shall be shut, and it rain not, because of their sins, and praying in this place, they do penance to thy name, and shall be converted from their sins through their affliction: {36} hear them in heaven, and forgive the sins of thy servants, and of thy people Israel: and shew them a good way wherein they may walk, and give rain upon thy land, which thou has given to thy people in possession. {37} If famine arise in the land, or pestilence, or corrupt air, or blasting, or locust, or rust, and their enemy afflict them besieging the gates, all plague, all infirmity, {38} all cursing, and banning, that shall chance to any man of thy people Israel: if any man shall know the wound of his heart, and shall spread forth his hands in this house, {39} thou shalt hear in heaven, in the place of thy habitation, and shalt be merciful again, and shalt so do that thou give to every one according to his ways, as thou shalt see his heart (for thou only knowest the heart of all the children of men) {40} that they fear thee all the days, which they live upon the face of the land, which thou hast given our fathers. {41} Moreover also the stranger, which is not of thy people Israel, when he shall come from a far country for thy name (for thy great name shall be heard of, and thy strong hand, {42} and thy stretched out arm every where) when therefore he shall come, and shall pray in this place, {43} thou shalt hear in heaven, in the firmament of thy habitation, & thou shalt do all things, for the which the stranger shall invocate thee: that all the peoples of the earth may learn to fear thy name, as thy people Israel, and may prove that thy name is invoked upon this house, which I have built. {44} If thy people shall go forth to war against their enemies, by the way, whithersoever thou shalt send them, they shall pray to thee against the way of the city, which thou hast chosen, and against the house, which I have built to thy name, {45} and thou shall hear in heaven their prayers, and their petitions, and shall do judgment for them. {46} But if they shall sin to thee (for there is no man which sinneth not) and thou being wrath shalt deliver them to their enemies, and they shall be led captive into the land of their enemies far or near, {47} and shall do penance in their heart in the place of captivity, and converted shall beseech thee in their captivity, saying: We have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have dealt impiously: {48} and shall return to thee in all their heart, and all their soul, in the land of their enemies, to the which they shall be led captive: and shall pray to thee against the way of their land, which thou gavest to their fathers, & of the city which thou hast chosen, & of the temple which I have built to thy name: {49} thou shalt hear in heaven, in the firmament of thy throne their prayers, and their petitions, and shall do their judgment for them: {50} and shalt be merciful to thy people, which sinned to thee, and to all their iniquities wherewith they have transgressed against thee: & thou shalt give mercy before them that shall have them captives, that they may have compassion on them. {51} For they are thy people, and thine inheritance, whom thou hast brought out of the Land of Aegypt, from the midst of the iron furnace. {52} That thy eyes be open to the petition of thy servant, & of thy people Israel, and thou hear them in all things for which they shall invoke thee. {53} For thou hast separated them to thee for an inheritance from all the peoples of the earth, as thou hast spoken by Moyses thy servant, when thou didst bring our fathers out of Aegypt, Lord God. {54} And it came to pass, when Salomon had accomplished praying to our Lord all this prayer and petition, he rose from the sight of the altar of our Lord: for he had fastened both knees on the ground, and had spread his hands toward heaven. {55} He stood therefore and blessed all the assembly of Israel with a loud voice, saying: {56} Blessed be our Lord, which hath given rest to his people Israel, according to all things that he hath spoken: there hath not failed so much as one word of all the good things, that he spake by Moyses his servant. {57} Be our Lord God with us, as he hath been with our fathers, not forsaking, nor rejecting us. {58} But incline he our hearts to him, that we may walk in all his ways, and keep his commandments, and his ceremonies, and judgments whatsoever he commanded our fathers. {59} And be these my words, wherewith I have prayed before our Lord, approaching to our Lord God day and night, that he may do judgment for his servant, and for his people Israel day by day: {60} that all the people of the earth may know, that our Lord he is God, and there is none other besides him. {61} Let our heart also be perfect with our Lord God, that we walk in his decrees, and keep his commandments, as also this day. {62} Therefore the king, and all Israel with him, did immolate victims before our Lord. {63} And Salomon killed pacific hosts, which he immolated to our Lord, of oxen two and twenty thousand, and of sheep an hundred twenty thousand: and they dedicated the temple of our Lord, the king, and the children of Israel. {64} In that day the king sanctified the midst of the court, that was before the house of our Lord: for he made the holocaust there, and sacrifice, and fat of the pacifics: because the brazen altar, that was before our Lord, was too little, and could not take the holocaust, and sacrifice, and fat of the pacifics. {65} Salomon therefore made in the time a solemn festivity, and all Israel with him, a great multitude from the entrance of Emath unto the River of Aegypt, before our Lord God, seven days and seven days, that is, fourteen days. {66} And in the eight day he dismissed the people: Who blessing the king, went into their tabernacles rejoicing, and with a joyful heart for all the good things, that our Lord had done to David his servant, and to Israel his people.

Our Lord appearing again to Salomon. 4. admonisheth him and his people to keep the precepts. 6. threatening punishment if they do not. 10. The king of Tyre receiveth twenty cities of Salomon, but liketh them not. 14. Salomon buildeth more cities and towns. 20. Maketh diverse nations tributary. 24. The Queen repaireth to her house. 25. The king offereth victims thrice every year. 26. And fetcheth gold from Ophir.

{1} AND it came to pass when Salomon had perfected the building of the house of our Lord, & the king's house, and all that he wished & would have done, {2} our Lord appeared to him the second time, as he had appeared to him in Gabaon. {3} And our Lord said to him: I have heard thy prayer & thy petition which thou hast prayed before me: I have sanctified this house, which thou hast built, that I might put my name there for ever, and mine eyes and my heart shall be there always. {4} Thou also if thou wilt walk before me, as thy father walked, in simplicity of heart, and in equity, and wilt do all things, which I have commanded thee, and wilt keep my ordinances and my judgments: {5} I will set the throne of thy Kingdom over Israel for ever, as I have spoken to David thy father, saying: There shall not be taken away a man of thy stock from the throne of Israel. {6} But if by revolting you and your children shall turn away, not following me, nor keeping my commandments, and my ceremonies, which I have proposed to you, but shall go and worship strange gods, and adore them: {7} I will take away Israel from the face of the land, which I have given them, and the temple which I have sanctified to my name, I will cast away from my sight, and Israel shall be for a proverb, and for a fable to all peoples. {8} And this house shall be for an example: every one that shall pass by it, shall wonder, and hiss, and say: Why hath the Lord done thus to this land, and to this house? {9} And they shall answer: Because they have forsaken the Lord their God, which brought their fathers out of the Land of Aegypt, and have followed strange gods, and adored them, and worshipped them: therefore hath the Lord brought upon them all this evil. {10} And twenty years being complete, after that Salomon had built the two houses, that is, the house of our Lord, and the house of the king, {11} (Hiram the king of Tyre ministering to Salomon cedar trees & fir trees, and gold according to all that he had need) then Salomon gave to Hiram twenty towns in the Land of Galilee. {12} And Hiram went from Tyre, to see the towns which Salomon had given him, and they pleased him not, {13} and he said: Are these the cities, which thou hast given me, brother? And he called them the land Chabul, until this day. {14} Hiram also sent to king Salomon an hundred and twenty talents of gold. {15} This is the sum of the expenses, which king Salomon offered to build the house of our Lord, and his own house, and Mello, and the wall of Jerusalem, and Heser, and Mageddo, and Gazer. {16} Pharao the king of Aegypt came up and took Gazer, and burnt it with fire: And the Chananite, that dwelt in the city, he slew, and gave it for a dowry to his daughter the wife of Salomon. {17} Salomon therefore built Gazer, and Bethhoron the lower, {18} and Balaath, and Palmira in the Land of the wilderness. {19} And all the villages, that pertained to him, and were without wall, he fenced, and the cities of the chariots, and the cities of the horsemen, and whatsoever pleased him to build in Jerusalem, and in Libanus, and in all the land of his dominion. {20} All the people, that was remaining of the Amorrhites, and Hethites, and Pherezites, and Hevites, and Jebusites, that are not of the children of Israel: {21} their children, that were remaining in the land, to wit, those whom the children of Israel could not abolish: Salomon made tributaries, until this day. {22} But of the children of Israel Salomon appointed not any man to serve, but they were men of war, and his servants, and Princes, and captains, and overseers of the chariots and horses. {23} And there were Princes over all the works of Salomon, made overseers, five hundred fifty, which had the people subject, and commanded over their appointed works. {24} And the daughter of Pharao went up out of the city of David into her house, which Salomon had built her: then did he build Mello. {25} Salomon also offered three times every year holocausts, and pacific victims upon the altar, which he had built to our Lord, and he burnt incense before our Lord: and the temple was perfected. {26} King Salomon also made a navy in Asiongaber, which is beside Ailath in the shore of the Redsea in the Land of Idumea. {27} And Hiram sent in that navy his men, that were mariners & skilful of the sea, with the servants of Salomon. {28} Who when they were come into Ophir, the gold taken thence of four hundred and twenty talents, they brought to king Salomon.

The Queen of Saba coming to king Salomon, admireth his wisdom, magnificence, and order of government. 10. She giveth and receiveth gifts. 14. Salomon receiveth much gold diverse ways: 16. maketh golden targets, 18. a magnificent throne, 21. and many golden vessels. 25. Many bring him presents. 26. He hath many chariots, horsemen, 27. abundance of silver. 28. Merchants of diverse Kingdoms sell him horses.

{1} BUT the queen of Saba also having heard the fame of Salomon, in the name of our Lord came to prove him in hard propositions. {2} And entering into Jerusalem with a great train, and riches, and camels carrying spices, and gold exceeding infinite, and precious stones, she came to king Salomon, and spake him to all things that she had in her heart. {3} And Salomon interpreted to her all the words, that she proposed: there was not a word, that the king could be ignorant of, and could not answer her. {4} And the queen of Saba seeing all the wisdom of Salomon, and the house which he had built, {5} and the meats of his table, and the habitations of his servants, and the orders of them that served, and their garments, cup-bearers, and the holocausts which he offered in the house of our Lord: she had no longer spirit, {6} and she said to the king: The report is true, which I have heard in my country, {7} concerning thy words, and concerning thy wisdom, and I did not believe them that told me, till my self came, and saw with mine eyes, & have proved that the half hath not been told me: greater is thy wisdom, and thy works, than the rumour, which I have heard. {8} Blessed are thy men, and blessed are thy servants, which stand before thee always, and hear thy wisdom. {9} Be the Lord thy God blessed, whom thou hast pleased, and that hath set thee upon the throne of Israel, for that the Lord hath loved Israel for ever, and hath appointed thee king, to do judgment and justice. {10} She therefore gave to the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices exceeding much, and precious stones: There was no more brought so much spice, as that which the queen of Saba gave to king Salomon. {11} (But the navy also of Hiram, which carried gold out of Ophir, brought from Ophir thyne trees exceeding many, and precious stones. {12} And the king made of the thyne trees the porches of the house of our Lord, and of the king's house, and harps & vials for the singers: there were not such thyne trees brought, nor seen until this present day. {13} And king Salomon gave to the queen of Saba all that she would, and asked of him: beside those things, which of himself he offered her for a royal gift. Who returned, and went into her country with her servants. {14} And the weight of the gold, that was brought to Salomon every year, was of six hundred sixty six talents of gold: {347} {15} beside that, which the men brought, that were over the tributes, and merchants, and all that sold light wares, and all the kings of Arabia, and the Dukes of the land. {16} Salomon also made two hundred shields of most pure gold, six hundred sicles of gold did he allow for the plates of one shield. {17} And three hundred targets of tried gold: and three hundred pounds of gold garnished one target: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Libanus. {18} King Salomon also made a great throne of ivory: and covered it with gold exceeding yellow, {19} which had six steps: and the top of the throne was round in the hinder part: and two hands on either side holding the seat: and two lions stood at every hand. {20} And twelve little lions standing upon the six steps on either side: there was not such a work made in all Kingdoms. {21} Yea and all the vessels, out of the which king Salomon drunk, were of gold: and all the furniture of the house of the forest of Libanus of most pure gold: there was no silver, neither was it thought of any price in the days of Salomon, {22} because the king's navy, once in three years, went with the navy of Hiram on the sea into Tharsis, bringing thence gold, & silver, & the teeth of elephants, and apes, & peacocks. {23} King Salomon therefore was magnified above all the kings of the earth in riches, & wisdom. {24} And all the earth desired to see Salomon's face, that they might hear his wisdom, which God had given in his heart. {25} And every one presented him gifts, vessels of silver and gold, garments, and instruments for war, spices also, and horses, and mules every year. {26} And Salomon gathered together the chariots and horsemen, and there amounted to him a thousand four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen: and he disposed them in fenced cities, and with the king in Jerusalem. {27} And he made that there was as great abundance of silver in Jerusalem, as of stones: and of cedar trees he caused such a multitude, as if it were sycamore trees, which grow in the plains. {28} And there were horses brought for Salomon out of Aegypt, and Coa, for the king's merchants bought them out of Coa, and brought them at a set price. {29} And a chariot of four horses came out of Aegypt, for six hundred sicles of silver, and one horse for an hundred and fifty. And after this manner did all the kings of the Hethites and of Syria sell horses.

Salomon loving and marrying many women of diverse nations, is drawn by them to idolatry. 9. God therefore offended suffereth Adad an Idumean, 23. Razon king of Damascus. 26. and Hieroboom his own servant to make war against him. 29. Ahias the Prophet foretelleth Hieroboom, that he shall reign over ten tribes, leaving but two to Salomon's heirs, 38. with promise to prosper, if he serve God. 42. Salomon dieth.

{1} AND king Salomon loved many women strangers, the daughter also of Pharao, and Moabites, & Ammonites, Idumeians, and Sidonians, & Hethieans: {2} of the nations, whereof our Lord said to the children of Israel: You shall not go in unto them, neither shall any of them come in unto yours: for they will most certainly turn away your hearts to follow their gods. To these therefore was Salomon coupled in most fervent love. {3} And he had wives as it were queens seven hundred, and concubines three hundred: and the women turned away his heart. {4} And when he was now old, his heart was depraved by women, that he followed strange gods: neither was his heart perfect with our Lord his God, as the heart of David his father. {5} But Salomon worshipped Astarthee the goddess of the Sidonians, and Moloch the idol of the Ammonites. {6} And Salomon did that which was not liked before our Lord, and he accomplished not to follow our Lord, as David his father. {7} Then built Salomon a temple to Chamos the idol of Moab, in the mount that is against Jerusalem, and to Moloch the idol of the children of Ammon. {8} And in this manner did he to all his wives that were strangers, which burnt frankincense, & immolated to their gods. {9} Therefore our Lord was wrath with Salomon, because his mind was turned away from our Lord the God of Israel, who had appeared unto him the second time, {10} and had commanded him concerning this word, that he should not follow strange gods, & he kept not the things which our Lord commanded him. {11} Our Lord therefore said to Salomon: Because thou hast done this, and hast not kept my covenant, and my precepts, which I have commanded thee, breaking I will rent asunder thy Kingdom, and will give it to thy servant. {12} Nevertheless in thy days I will not do it because of David thy father: out of the hand of thy son I will rent it, {13} neither will I take away the whole Kingdom, but one tribe I will give to thy son for David my servant, and Jerusalem, which I have chosen. {14} And our Lord raised up an adversary to Salomon, Adad an Idumite of the king's seed, who was in Edom. {15} For when David was in Idumea, and Joab the general of the warfare was gone up to bury them that were slain, and had slain all male kind in Idumea, {16} for Joab tarried there six months, and all Israel, till he slew all male kind in Idumea. {17} Adad himself fled, & the men of Idumea of his father's servants with him, to go into Aegypt: and Adad was a little boy. {18} And when they rose out of Madian, they came into Pharan, and they took with them men of Pharan, and entered into Aegypt to Pharao the king of Aegypt: who gave him a house, and appointed him meats, and assigned him land. {19} And Adad found grace before Pharaoh exceedingly, in so much that he gave him to wife the german sister of his wife Taphnes the queen. {20} And the sister of Taphnes bare him a son Genubath, and Taphnes brought him up in the house of Pharaoh: & Genubath was dwelling at Pharaoh's house with his children. {21} And when Adad in Aegypt had heard, that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab the general of the warfare was dead, he said to Pharaoh: Dismiss me, that I may go into my country. {22} And Pharaoh said to him: For what lackest thou with me: that thou seekest to go into thine own country? But he answered: Nothing: yet I beseech thee that thou dismiss me. {23} God also raised up to him an adversary, Razon the son of Eliada, who had fled Adarezer the king of Soba his Lord: {24} and he gathered men against him, and he became the captain of thieves, when David killed them: and they went to Damascus, and dwelt there, and they made him king in Damascus, {25} and he was an adversary to Israel all the days of Solomon: and this is the evil of Adad, and hatred against Israel, and he reigned in Syria. {26} Jeroboam also the son of Nabath, an Ephrathite of Sareda, the servant of Solomon, whose mother was called Serva, a woman widow, lifted up his hand against the king. {27} And this is the cause of his rebellion against him, because Solomon built Melo, and filled up the breach of the city of David his father. {28} And Jeroboam was a strong man and mighty: and Solomon seeing the young man of a good wit and industrious, had made him chief over the tributes of all the house of Joseph. {29} It came to pass therefore at that time, that Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, and the Prophet Ahias the Silonite found him in the way, covered with a new cloak: and they two only were in the field. {30} And Ahias taking his new cloak, wherewith he was covered, cut it into twelve parts. {31} And he said to Jeroboam: Take unto thee ten pieces: for thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Behold I will rent the Kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give thee ten tribes. {32} But one tribe shall remain to him for my servant David, and Jerusalem the city, which I have chosen of all the tribes of Israel: {33} because he hath forsaken me, and hath adored Astarthee the goddess of the Sidonians, and Chamos the god of Moab, and Moloch the god of the children of Ammon: and hath not walked in my ways, to do justice before me, and my precepts, and judgments, as David his father. {34} Neither will I take away all the Kingdom out of his hand, but I will make him Prince all the days of his life, for David my servant, whom I chose, who kept my commandments & my precepts. {35} But I will take away the Kingdom out of his son's hand, and will give thee ten tribes: {36} and to his son I will give one tribe, that there may remain a lamp to David my servant at all times before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen, that my name might be there. {37} And thee will I take, and thou shalt reign over all things, that thy soul desireth, and thou shalt be king over Israel. {38} If therefore thou wilt hear all things, that I shall command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that which is right before me, keeping my commandments and my precepts, as David my servant did: I will be with thee, and will build thee a faithful house, as I built a house to David, and I will deliver Israel to thee: {39} and I will afflict the seed of David upon this, but yet not always. {40} Solomon therefore would have killed Jeroboam: who arose, and fled into Aegypt to Sesac the king of Aegypt, and was in Aegypt until the death of Solomon. {41} And the rest of the words of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom: behold they are all written in the Book of the words of the days of Solomon. {42} And the days that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel, are forty years. {43} And Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father, & Roboam his son reigned for him.

{1} AND Roboam came into Sichem: for thither was all Israel gathered together to make him king. {2} But Jeroboam the son of Nabat, when he was yet in Aegypt fugitive from the face of king Salomon, hearing of his death; returned out of Aegypt. {3} And they sent and called him: Jeroboam therefore came, and all the multitude of Israel, and they spake to Roboam, saying. {4} Thy father laid a most hard yoke upon us: thou therefore diminish now a little of thy father's most hard empire, and of the most heavy yoke, that he laid upon us, and we will serve thee. {5} Who said to them: Go until the third day, and return to me. And when the people was gone, {6} King Roboam took counsel with the ancients, that assisted before Salomon his father, whiles he yet lived, and he said: What counsel do you give me, that I may answer this people? {7} Who said to him: If this day thou wilt yield to this people, and condescend to them, and grant to their petition, & wilt speak to them gentle words, they will be thy servants always. {8} Who left the counsel of the ancients, which they had given him, and admitted youngmen, that had been brought up with him, & waited on him, {9} and he said to them: What counsel give you me, that I may answer this people, which have said to me: Make the yoke lighter which thy father hath put upon us? {10} And the youngmen that had been brought up with him, said: Thus speak to this people, which have spoken to thee, saying: Thy father aggravated our yoke, do thou ease it. Thus shalt thou speak to them: My least finger is grosser than the back of my father. {11} And now my father laid upon you a heavy yoke, but I will add upon your yoke: my father beat you with scourges, but I will beat you with scorpions. {12} Jeroboam therefore came, and all the people to Roboam the third day, as the king had spoken, saying: Return to me the third day. {13} And the king answered the people rough words, leaving the counsel of the ancients, which they had given him, {14} and he spake to them according to the counsel of the youngmen, saying: My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to your yoke: my father beat you with whips, but I will beat you with scorpions. {15} And the king condescended not to the people: because our Lord was turned away from him, that he might raise up his word, which he had spoken in the hand of Ahias the Silonite, to Jeroboam the son of Nabat. {16} The people therefore seeing that the king would not hear them, answered him, saying: What part have we in David? Or what inheritance in the son of Isai? Go into thy tabernacles Israel, now see to thy house David. And Israel went into their tabernacles. {17} But over the children of Israel, whosoever dwelt in the cities of Juda, Roboam reigned. {18} King Roboam therefore sent Aduram, who was over the tributes: and all Israel stoned him, and he died, moreover king Roboam in haste went up into his chariot, and fled into Jerusalem: {19} and Israel revolted from the house of David, until this present day. {20} And it came to pass when all Israel had heard, that Jeroboam was returned, they sent, and called him, an assembly being gathered, and they made him king over all Israel, neither did any man follow the house of David beside the tribe of Juda only. {21} And Roboam came to Jerusalem, and gathered together all the house of Juda, and the tribe of Benjamin, an hundred fourscore thousand chosen men warriors, to fight against the house of Israel, and to reduce the kingdom to Roboam the son of Salomon. {22} But the word of our Lord came to Semeias the man of God, saying: {23} Speak to Roboam the son of Salomon, the king of Juda, and to all the house of Juda, and Benjamin, and the rest of the people, saying: {24} Thus saith our Lord: You shall not go up, neither shall you fight against your brethren the children of Israel: let every man return into his house, for this word is done by me. They heard the word of our Lord, & returned from their journey as our Lord had commanded them. {25} And Jeroboam built Sichem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt there: and departing thence he built Phanuel. {26} And Jeroboam said in his heart: Now will the Kingdom return to the house of David, {27} if this people shall go up to make sacrifices in the house of our Lord into Jerusalem: and the heart of this people will be turned to their lord Roboam the king of Juda, and they will kill me, and return to him. {28} And finding out a devise he made two golden calves, and said to them: Go up no more into Jerusalem: Behold thy gods Israel, which brought thee out of the Land of Aegypt. {29} And he put one in Bethel, and the other in Dan: {30} and this thing was an occasion of sin: for the people went to adore the calf, as far as Dan. {31} And he made temples in the excelses, and Priests of the abjects of the people, which were not of the children of Levi. {32} And he appointed a solemn day in the eighth month, the fifteenth day of the month, after the similitude of the solemnity, that was celebrated in Juda. And going up he made in like manner an altar in Bethel, to immolate to the calves, which he had framed: and he ordained in Bethel priests of the excelses, which he had made. {33} And he went upon the altar, which he had built in Bethel, the fifteenth day of the eighth month, which he had forged out of his own heart: and he made a solemnity to the children of Israel, and went up upon the altar, to burn incense.

A Prophet sent from Juda to Bethel foretelleth the birth of Josias, and destruction of Jeroboam's altar, 4. whose hand being suddenly withered, 6. is restored by the Prophet's prayer. 11. The same Prophet is deceived by an other Prophet, and slain by a lion. 33. Jeroboam proceedeth in impiety.

{1} AND behold a man of God came out of Juda, in the word of our Lord into Bethel, Jeroboam standing upon the altar, and censing. {2} And he cried out against the altar in the word of our Lord, and said: Altar, altar, thus saith our Lord: Behold a child shall be born to the house of David, named Josias, and he shall immolate upon thee priests of the excelses, which now do burn frankincense on thee, and he shall burn men's bones upon thee. {3} And he gave a sign in that day, saying: This shall be the sign, that our Lord hath spoken: Behold the altar shall be cloven, and the ashes on it shall be poured out. {4} And when the king had heard the word of the man of God, which he cried out against the altar in Bethel, he stretched forth his hand from the altar, saying: Take him. And his hand withered, which he stretched forth against him: neither was he able to draw it back upon him. {5} The altar also was cloven, and the ashes were poured out of the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had told before in the word of our Lord. {6} And the king said to the man of God: Beseech the face of our Lord thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me. And the man of God besought the face of our Lord, and the king's hand was restored to him, and it became as it was before. {7} And the king spake to the man of God: Come home with me, that thou mayst dine, and I will give thee gifts. {8} And the man of God answered the king: If thou wouldest give me the half part of thy house, I will not come with thee, nor eat bread, nor drink water in this place: {9} for so was it enjoined in the word of our Lord commanding: Thou shalt not eat bread, nor drink water, nor return by the way that thou camest. {10} He departed therefore by an other way, and returned not by the way, that he came into Bethel. {11} And a certain Prophet being old dwelt in Bethel, to whom his sons came and told him all the works, that the man of God had done that day in Bethel: and the words which he had spoken to the king, they told their father. {12} And their father said to them: What way went he? His sons shewed him the way, by which the man of God was gone, which came out of Juda. {13} And he said to his sons: Saddle me an ass. Who when they had saddled it, he got up, {14} and went after the man of God, and found him sitting under a terebinth: and he said to him: Art thou the man of God that camest out of Juda? He answered: I am he. {15} And he said to him: Come home with me, that thou mayst eat bread. {16} Who said: I can not return, nor come with thee, neither will I eat bread, nor drink water in this place: {17} because our Lord spake to me in the word of our Lord, saying: Thou shalt not eat bread, and thou shalt not drink water there, nor return by the way thou wentest. {18} Who said to him: I also am a Prophet like to thee: and an Angel hath spoken to me in the word of our Lord, saying: Bring him back with thee into thy house, that he may eat bread, and drink water. He deceived him, {19} and brought him back with him: he did eat therefore bread in his house, and drunk water. {20} And when they sat at the table, the word of our Lord came to the Prophet, that brought him back. {21} And he cried out to the man of God, which came out of Juda, saying: Thus saith our Lord: Because thou hast not been obedient to the mouth of our Lord, and hast not kept the commandment which our Lord thy God commanded thee, {22} and hast returned, and eaten bread, and drunk water in the place wherein he commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat bread, nor drink water, thy dead body shall not be brought into the sepulchre of thy fathers. {23} And when he had eaten and drunk, he saddled his ass for the Prophet, whom he brought back. {24} Who when he was gone, a lion found him in the way, and killed him, and his body was cast forth in the way: and the ass stood by him, and the lion stood by the dead body. {25} And behold, men passing by saw the dead body cast in the way, and the lion standing beside the body. And they came and divulged it in the city, wherein that old Prophet dwelt. {26} Which when that Prophet heard, which had brought him back out of the way, he said: It is the man of God, that was disobedient to the mouth of our Lord, and our Lord hath delivered him to the lion, & he hath torn him, and killed him according to the word of our Lord, that he spake to him. {27} And he said to his sons: Saddle me an ass. Who when they had saddled, {28} and he was gone, he found his dead body cast forth in the way, and the ass and the lion standing by the corpse: the lion did not eat of the dead body, nor hurt the ass. {29} The Prophet therefore took the corpse of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and returning brought it into the city of the old Prophet, that they might mourn for him. {30} And he laid his corpse in his own sepulchre: and they mourned for him: Alas, alas my brother. {31} And when they had mourned for him, he said to his sons: When I shall be dead, bury me in the sepulchre, wherein the man of God is buried: beside his bones lay my bones. {32} For assuredly the word shall come to pass, which he hath foretold in the word of our Lord against the altar that is in Bethel: and against all the temples of the excelses, that are in the cities of Samaria. {33} After these words Jeroboam returned not from his wicked way, but on the contrary part he made of the most abject of the people Priests of the excelses: Whosoever would, he filled his hand, and he was made a Priest of the excelses. {34} And for this cause did the house of Jeroboam sin, and was overthrown, and destroyed from the face of the earth.

Ahias the Prophet foresheweth the ruin of Hieroboam's family: 12. namely the death of his son, for whom being sick, the mother consulteth the Prophet. 20. Hieroboam dieth, and his son Nadab reigneth. 21. Some also of the people of Juda committing idolatry and other sins. 25. the king of Aegypt invadeth and sacketh Hierusalem. 31. Roboam dieth and his son Abias reigneth.

{1} AT that time Abia the son of Jeroboam was sick. Arise, and change thy habit, that thou be {2} And Jeroboam said to his wife: not known to be the wife of Jeroboam, & go into Silo, where Ahias the Prophet is, which spake to me, that I should reign over this people. {3} Take also in thy hand ten loaves, & cracknels, & a vessel of honey, & go to him: for he will shew thee what shall happen to this child. {4} The wife of Jeroboam did as he had spoken: and rising up went into Silo, and came into the house of Ahias: but he could not see, because his eyes were dim for age. {5} And our Lord said to Ahias: Behold the wife of Jeroboam cometh in, to consult thee concerning her son that is sick: thus and thus shalt thou speak to her. When she therefore entered in, and dissembled to be that she was, {6} Ahias heard the sound of her feet entering in at the door, and said: Come in Jeroboam's wife: Why doest thou feign thy self to be an other woman? But I am sent to thee a heavy messenger. {7} Go, and tell Jeroboam: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Because I have exalted thee out of the midst of the people, and made thee Prince over my people Israel, {8} and have rent the Kingdom of the house of David, and given it to thee, and thou hast not been as my servant David, who kept my commandments; and followed me in all his heart, doing that which was well liked in my sight: {9} but has wrought evil above all, that have been before thee, and hast made thee strange and molten gods, that thou mightest provoke me to anger, and hast rejected me behind thy back: {10} therefore behold I will bring in evils upon the house of Jeroboam, and will strike of Jeroboam him that pisseth to the wall, and the inclosed, and the vilest in Israel: and I will cleanse the remains of the house of Jeroboam, as dung is wont to be cleansed till all be pure. {11} They that shall die of Jeroboam in the city, them the dogs shall eat: and they that shall die in the field, them the fowls of the air shall devour: because our Lord hath spoken. {12} Thou therefore arise, and go into thy house: and in the very entrance of thy feet into the city, the child shall die, {13} & all Israel shall mourn for him, and shall bury him: for this only of Jeroboam shall be brought into the sepulchre, because upon him hath been found a good word from our Lord the God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam. {14} And our Lord will appoint to himself a king over Israel, that shall strike the house of Jeroboam in this day, and in this time: {15} and our Lord the God of Israel shall strike it, as a reed is wont to be moved in the water: and he shall pluck out Israel from this good country, which he gave to their fathers, and shall scatter them over the River: because they have made to themselves groves, to provoke our Lord. {16} And our Lord shall deliver Israel for the sins of Jeroboam, who hath sinned, and made Israel to sin. {17} The wife therefore of Jeroboam arose, and departed, and came into Thersa: and when she entered the threshold of the house, the child died, {18} and they buried him. And all Israel mourned for him according to the word of our Lord, which he spake in the hand of his servant Ahias the Prophet. {19} But the rest of the words of Jeroboam, how he fought, and how he reigned, behold they are written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel. {20} And the days, that Jeroboam reigned, are two and twenty years: and he slept with his fathers: and Nadab his son reigned for him. {21} Moreover Roboam the son of Salomon reigned in Juda: one and forty years old was Roboam when he began to reign: seventeen years reigned he in Jerusalem the city, which our Lord chose to put his name there, of all the tribes of Israel. And his mother's name was Naama an Ammonite. {22} And Judas did evil before our Lord, and provoked him above all things, that their fathers had done, in their sins which they sinned. {23} For they also built them altars, & statues, & groves upon every high hill, and under every tree full of green leaves: {24} yea and effeminate were in the land, and they did all the abominations of the gentiles, which our Lord destroyed before the face of the children of Israel. {25} And in the fifth year of the reign of Roboam, Sesac the king of Aegypt came up into Jerusalem, {26} and took the treasures of the house of our Lord, and the king's treasures, and all things he spoiled: the shields also of gold, which Salomon had made: {27} for the which Roboam made brazen shields, and delivered them into the hand of the captains of shield-bearers, and of them that kept watch before the door of the king's house. {28} And when the king went into the house of our Lord, they that had the office to go before, carried them: and afterward they recarried them to the armoury of the shield-bearers. {29} And the rest of the words of Roboam, and all that he did, behold they are written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda. {30} And there was war between Roboam and Jeroboam always. {31} And Roboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of David: and his mother's name was Naama an Ammonite: and Abias his son reigned for him.

Abias reigneth wickedly in Juda three years. 8. After him his son Asa succeeding destroyeth idolatry, reigning forty one years. 16. Who having wars with the king of Israel, maketh league with the king of Syria. 24. Asa dying Josaphat succeedeth. 25. Nadab reigneth wickedly two years in Israel, is then slain by Baasa of the tribe of Issachar, 29. and his whole family is destroyed. 33. Baasa also reigneth wickedly twenty four years.

{1} THEREFORE in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam the son of Nabat, Abias reigned over Juda. {2} Three years reigned he in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Maacha the daughter of Abessalom. {3} And he walked in all the sins of his father, which he had done before him: neither was his heart perfect with our Lord his God, as the heart of David his father. {4} But for David's sake our Lord his God gave him a lamp in Jerusalem, that he might raise up his son after him, and establish Jerusalem: {5} because David had done right in the eyes of our Lord, & had not declined from all things, which he commanded him, all the days of his life, except the matter of Urias the Hethite. {6} But there was war between Roboam and Jeroboam all the time of his life. {7} And the rest of the words of Abias, and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the words of the kings of Juda? And there was war between Abias and Jeroboam. {8} And Abias slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: and Asa his son reigned for him. {9} In the twentieth year therefore of Jeroboam the king of Israel reigned Asa the king of Juda. {10} And he reigned one and forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Maacha, the daughter of Abessalom. {11} And Asa did right before the sight of our Lord, as David his father: {12} and he took away the effeminate out of the land, and he purged all the filth of the idols, which his fathers had made. {13} Moreover he removed also Maacha his mother, that she should not be Princess in the sacrifice of Priapus, and in the grove which she had consecrated: and he destroyed her den, and brake the most filthy idol, and burnt it in the torrent cedron: {14} but the excelses he did not take away. Otherwise the heart of Asa was perfect with our Lord all his days: {15} and he carried in those things, which his father had sanctified & vowed, into the house of our Lord, silver and gold, and vessels. {16} And there was war between Asa and Baasa the king of Israel all their days. {17} Baasa also the king of Israel went up into Juda, and built Rama, that no man might go out or come in of Asa's side the king of Juda. {18} Asa therefore taking all the silver and gold that remained in the treasures of the house of our Lord, and in the treasures of the king's house, gave it into the hands of his servants: and he sent to Benadad the son of Tabremon the son of Hezion, the king of Syria, which dwelt in Damascus, saying: {19} There is a league between me and thee, and betwixt my father and thy father: therefore I have sent thee gifts, silver and gold: and I desire thee that thou come, and make void the league, that thou hast with Baasa the king of Israel, and he may retire from me. {20} Benadad agreeing to king Asa, sent the Princes of his army into the cities of Israel, and they struck Ahion, & Dan, & Abeldomum of Maacha, & all Cenneroth, to wit, all the Land of Nephthali. {21} Which when Baasa had heard, he intermitted to build Rama, & returned into Thersa. {22} But king Asa sent word into all Juda, saying: Let no man be excused, and they took stones from Rama, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasa had built, & Asa of it built Gabaa Benjamin and Maspera. {23} But the rest of all the words of Asa, & all his forces, & all that he did, & the cities that he built, are not these written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? Howbeit in the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet. {24} And he slept with his fathers, & was buried with them in the city of David his father. And Josaphat his son reigned for him. {25} But Nadab the son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel the second year of Asa the King of Juda: and he reigned over Israel two years. {26} And he did that which is evil in the sight of our Lord, & walked in the ways of his father, and in his sins, wherewith he made Israel to sin. {27} And Baasa the son of Ahias of the house of Issachar, lay in wait against him, & struck him in Gebbethon, which is a city of the Philisthiims: for Nadab & all Israel besieged Gebbethon. {28} Baasa therefore slew him in the third year of Asa the King of Juda, and reigned for him. {29} And when he reigned, he struck all the house of Jeroboam: he left not so much as one soul of his seed, till he destroyed him according to the word of our Lord, which he had spoken in the hand of Ahias the Silonite, {30} for the sins of Jeroboam, which he had sinned, & wherewith he had caused Israel to sin, and for the offence, wherewith he provoked our Lord the God of Israel. {31} But the rest of the words of Nadab, and all that he wrought, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {32} And there was war between Asa and Baasa the King of Israel all their days. {33} In the third year of Asa the King of Juda, reigned Baasa the son of Ahias over all Israel in Thersa four & twenty years. {34} And he did evil before our Lord, and walked in the ways of Jeroboam, and in his sins, wherewith he made Israel to sin.

Part of the people choosing Amri (Prince of the army) their king. 18. Zambri desperately burneth himself and the king's palace. 21. An other part follow Thebni as king till his death. 23. Amri reigneth twelve years wickedly. 29. His son Achab succeedeth, marrieth Jezabel, and serveth Baal. 34. In the mean time Hiel repaireth Jericho.

{1} AND the word of our Lord came to Jehu the son of Hanani against Baasa, saying: {2} For so much as I have exalted thee out of the dust, and set thee duke over my people Israel, but thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, that thou mightest anger me with their sins: {3} behold, I will cut down the posterity of Baasa, and the posterity of his house, and I will make thy house as the house of Jeroboam the son of Nabat. {4} Whosoever of Baasa shall die in the city, him shall the dogs eat: and whosoever of his shall die in the country, him shall the fowls of the air devour. {5} But the rest of the words of Baasa, and whatsoever he did, and his battles, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {6} Baasa therefore slept with his fathers, and was buried in Thersa: and Ela his son reigned for him. {7} And when the word of our Lord came in the hand of Jehu the son of Hanani the Prophet against Baasa, and against his house, & against all the evil, that he had done before our Lord, to anger him in the works of his hands, that it should be made as the house of Jeroboam: for this cause he slew him, that is to say, Jehu the son of Hanani, the Prophet. {8} In the six and twentieth year of Asa the King of Juda, reigned Ela the son of Baasa over Israel in Thersa two years. {9} And his servant Zambri rebelled against him, the captain of the half part of the horsemen: and Ela was in Thersa drinking, and drunken in the house of Arsa the governor of Thersa. {10} Zambri therefore rushing in, struck and slew him in the seven & twentieth year of Asa the King of Juda, and he reigned for him. {11} And when he reigned, and sat upon his throne, he struck all the house of Baasa, and he left not of it one that could piss against a wall, and his kinsfolk and friends. {12} And Zambri destroyed all the house of Baasa, according to the word of our Lord, that he had spoken to Baasa in the hand of Jehu the Prophet, {13} for all the sins of Baasa, and the sins of Ela his son, who sinned, and made Israel to sin, provoking our Lord the God of Israel in their vanities. {14} But the rest of the words of Ela, and all that he did, are not these written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {15} In the seven and twentieth year of Asa the king of Juda, reigned Zambri seven days in Thersa: moreover the army besieged Gebbethon a city of the Philisthiims. {16} And when they heard that Zambri had rebelled, and slain the king, all Israel made Amri their king, who was General of the warfare over Israel that day, in the camp. {17} Amri therefore went up, and all Israel with him from Gebbethon, and they besieged Thersa. {18} And Zambri seeing that the city should be taken, he went into the palace, & burnt himself with the king's house: and he died {19} in his sins, which he had sinned doing evil before our Lord, and walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin, wherewith he made Israel to sin. {20} But the rest of the words of Zambri, and of his treason, and tyranny, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {21} Then was the people of Israel divided into two parts: the half part of the people followed Thebni the son of Gineth, to make him king: & the half part Amri. {22} But the people that was with Amri, prevailed over the people that followed Thebni the son of Gineth: and Thebni died, and Amri reigned. {23} In the one and thirtieth year of Asa the king of Juda Amri reigned over Israel, twelve years: in Thersa he reigned six years. {24} And he bought the mount of Samaria of Somer for two talents of silver: & he built it, and he called the city which he had built by the name of Semer the lord of the mount of Samaria. {25} And Amri did evil in the sight of our Lord, & wrought wickedly above all, that were before him. {26} And he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, and in his sins wherewith he made Israel to sin: that they might anger our Lord the God of Israel in their vanities. {27} But the rest of the words of Amri, and the battles he made, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {28} And Amri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, and Achab his son reigned for him. {29} But Achab the son of Amri reigned over Israel the eight & thirtieth year of Asa the king of Juda. And Achab the son of Amri reigned over Israel in Samaria two and twenty years. {30} And Achab the son of Amri did evil in the sight of our Lord above all that were before him. {31} Neither did it suffice him that he walked in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat: besides he took to wife Jezabel the daughter of Ethbaul the king of the Sidonians. And he went, and served Baal, and adored him. {32} And he set an altar to Baal in the temple of Baal, which he had built in Samaria, {33} and he planted a grove: and Achab added in his work, provoking our Lord the God of Israel above all the kings of Israel, that were before him. {34} In his days Hiel of Bethel built Jericho: in Abiram his first born he founded it, and in Segub his last he set up the gates thereof: according to the word of our Lord, which he spake in the hand of Josue the son of Nun.

Elias by his prayer shutteth the heaven from raining. 2. Is fed by a crow, 8. and by a widow of Sarepta. 13. Whose pot of meal, and barrel of oil diminisheth not. 17. Her son dieth, and is raised to life.

{1} AND Elias the Thesbite of the inhabitants of Galaad said to Achab: Our Lord liveth the God of Israel, in whose sight I stand, if there shall be these years dew and rain, but according to the words of my mouth. {2} And the word of our Lord came to him, saying: {3} Depart from hence, and go against the East, and be hid in the Torrent Carith, which is against Jordan, {4} and there thou shalt drink of the torrent: and I have commanded the ravens that they feed thee there. {5} He therefore went, and did according to the word of our Lord: and when he was gone, he sat in the Torrent Carith, which is against Jordan. {6} The ravens also brought him bread and flesh in the morning, in like manner bread and flesh in the evening, and he drank of the torrent. {7} But after certain days the torrent was dried: for it had not rained upon the earth. {8} Therefore the word of our Lord came to him, saying: {9} Arise, and go into Sarepta of the Sidonians, and thou shalt tarry there: for I have commanded a widow woman there to feed thee. {10} He arose and went into Sarepta. And when he was come to the gate of the city, the widow woman appeared to him gathering sticks, and he called her, and said to her: Give me a little water in a vessel, that I may drink. {11} And when she went to fetch it, he cried after her saying: Bring me also, I beseech thee, a morsel of bread in thy hand. {12} who answered: Our Lord thy God liveth, I have no bread, but so much meal in a pot as a hand can hold, and a little oil in a vessel: behold I gather two sticks, that I may go in, and dress it for me & my son, that we may eat, and die. {13} To whom Elias said: fear not, but go, and do as thou hast said: but first make for me of the same meal a little hearth cake, & bring it to me: & for thy self & thy son thou shalt make afterward. {14} For thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: The pot of meal shall not fail, nor the vessel of oil be diminished until the day, wherein our Lord will give rain upon the face of the earth. {15} Who went and did according to the word of Elias: and he did eat, and she, and her house: and from that day {16} the pot of meal failed not, and the vessel of oil was not diminished, according to the word of our Lord, which he spake in the hand of Elias. {17} And it came to pass after these things, the son of the woman, the good wife of the house, fell sick, & the sickness was very vehement, so that there remained no breath in him, {18} She therefore said to Elias: what is to me and thee thou man of God? Comest thou unto me, that mine iniquities might be remembered, and thou mightest kill my son? {19} And Elias said to her: Give me thy son. And he took him from her bosom, and carried him into the upper chamber where himself abode, and laid him upon his bed. {20} And he cried to our Lord, and said: O Lord my God, what, the widow also with whom I am after a sort sustained, hast thou afflicted, that thou wouldest kill her son? {21} And he stretched forth, and measured himself upon the child three times, and he cried to our Lord, and said: O Lord my God, let the soul of this child, I beseech thee, return into his body. {22} And our Lord heard the voice of Elias: and the soul of the child returned into him, and he revived. {23} And Elias took the child, and brought him down from the upper chamber into the lower house, and delivered him to his mother, and said to her: Behold thy son liveth. {24} And the woman said to Elias: Now, in this I have known that thou art a man of God, and the word of our Lord in thy mouth is true.

The third year of famine, Elias meeting the chief governor of Achab's house, hardly persuadeth him to tell Achab, that he is present. 17. Achab blameth Elias; but Elias freely avoucheth that not he, but Achab troubleth Israel. 19. By a miracle four hundred and fifty false prophets are convinced. 40. and are slain. 41. Elias prayeth and it raineth.

{1} AFTER many days the word of our Lord came to Elias, the third year, saying: Go, and shew thy self to Achab, that I may give rain upon the face of the earth. {2} Elias therefore went to shew himself to Achab: and there was sore famine in Samaria. {3} And Achab called Abdias the governor of his house: And Abdias did fear our Lord very much. {4} For when Jezabel killed the Prophets, of our Lord, he took an hundred Prophets, and hid them by fifty and fifty in caves, and fed them with bread and water. {5} Achab therefore said to Abdias: Go into the land to all the fountains of waters, and into all valleys, if perhaps we may find grass, and save the horses and mules, and the beasts may not utterly perish. {6} And they divided the countries between them, that they might go circuit about them: Achab went one way, and Abdias an other way severally. {7} And when Abdias was in the way, Elias met him: who when he knew him, fell on his face, and said: My lord, art not thou Elias? {8} To whom he answered: I am. Go, and tell thy lord: Elias is here. {9} And he said: What have I sinned, that thou deliverest me thy servant into the hand of Achab, that he may kill me? {10} Our Lord thy God liveth, there is no nation or Kingdom, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee; and all answering: He is not here; he adjured all kingdoms and nations, for that thou wast not found. {11} And now thou sayest to me: Go, and tell thy lord, Elias is here. {12} And when I am departed from thee, the Spirit of our Lord will carry thee into a place, that I know not: and I entering in shall tell Achab, and not finding thee, he will kill me: and thy servant feareth our Lord from his infancy. {13} Hath it not been told thee my lord, what I did when Jezabel killed the Prophets of our Lord, that I hid of the Prophets of our Lord an hundred men, by fifty and fifty in caves, and fed them with bread and water? {14} And now thou sayst: Go, and tell thy lord: Elias is here: that he may kill me? {15} And Elias said: The Lord of hosts liveth, before whose face I stand, this day will I appear to him. {16} Abdias therefore went to meet Achab, and told him: and Achab came to meet Elias. {17} And when he had seen him, he said: Art thou he that doest trouble Israel? {18} And he said: not I have troubled Israel, but thou, and the house of thy father, who have forsaken the commandments of our Lord, & have followed Baalim. {19} Nevertheless send now, and gather unto me all Israel in the mount of Carmel, and the Prophets of Baal four hundred fifty, and the Prophets of the groves four hundred, which eat of Jezabel's table. {20} Achab sent to all the children of Israel, and gathered together the Prophets in the mount of Carmel. {21} And Elias coming to all the people, said: How long halt you on two sides? If our Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, follow him. And the people did not answer him a word. {22} And Elias said again to the people: I only remain a Prophet of our Lord: and the Prophets of Baal are four hundred and fifty men. {23} Let two oxen be given us, and let them choose to themselves one oxe, and cutting it into pieces let them lay it upon wood, but put no fire under: and I will dress the other oxe, and will lay it upon wood, and put no fire under. {24} Invoke ye the names of your gods, & I will invoke the name of my Lord: and the God that shall hear by fire, let the same be God. And all the people answering said, A very good proposition. {25} Elias therefore said to the Prophets of Baal: Choose you one oxe, and make it first, because you are many: and invoke the names of your gods, and put no fire under. {26} Who when they had taken the oxe, which he gave them, they dressed it: and they invoked the name of Baal from morning until midday, saying: Baal hear us. And there was no voice, nor any that answered: and they leaped over the altar, that they had made. {27} And when it was now midday, Elias jested at them, saying: Cry with a louder voice: for he is God, and perhaps he speaketh, or is in his inn, or in the way, or at the least he sleepeth, that he must be waked. {28} They cried therefore with a loud voice, and cut themselves after their rite with knives and lancets, till they were all imbrued with blood. {29} And after the midday was past, and whilst they prophesied, the time was come, when they used to offer sacrifice, neither voice was heard, nor any did answer, nor attend them praying: {30} Elias said to all the people: Come unto me. And the people coming to him, he repaired the altar of our Lord, that was destroyed. {31} And he took twelve stones according to the number of the tribes of the children of Jacob, to whom the word of our Lord came, saying: Israel shall be thy name. {32} And he built of the stones an altar in the name of our Lord: and he made a water gutter, as it were by two furrows round about the altar, {33} And he laid the wood in order, and divided the oxe in joints, and laid it upon the wood, {34} and said: Fill four buckets with water, and pour upon the holocaust, and upon the wood. And again he said: Do it also the second time. Who having done it the second time, he said: The third time also do the same. And they did so the third time, {35} and the waters ran about the altar, and the trough of the conduit was filled. {36} And when it was now time that the holocaust should be offered, Elias the Prophet coming said: Lord God of Abraham, and Isaac, and Israel, shew this day that thou art the God of Israel, and I thy servant, and that according to thy commandment I have done all these things. {37} Hear me Lord, hear me that this people may learn, that thou art our Lord God, and thou hast converted their heart again. {38} And the fire of our Lord fell, and devoured the holocaust, and the wood, and the stones, licking also the dust, and the water, that was in the water gutter. {39} Which when all the people had seen, they fell on their face, and said: Our Lord he is God, our Lord he is God. {40} And Elias said to them: Apprehend the Prophets of Baal, and let not one escape of them. Whom when they had taken, Elias brought them to the Torrent Cison, and killed them there. {41} And Elias said to Achab: Go up, eat and drink:

because there is sound of much rain. {42} Achab went up to eat and drink: and Elias went up into the top of Carmel, and flat on the earth put his face between his knees, {43} and he said to his servant: Go up, and look toward the sea. Who when he was gone up, and had looked, he said: There is nothing. And again he said to him: Return seven times {44} And in the seventh time: Behold a little cloud as it were a man's foot came up from the sea. Who said: Go up and say to Achab: Yoke thy chariot and go down, lest the rain prevent thee. {45} And when he turned himself hither and thither, behold the heavens were darkened, and clouds, and wind, and there fell great rain. Achab therefore going up went into Jezrahel: {46} and the hand of our Lord was made upon Elias, and his loins girded he ran before Achab, until he came into Jezrahel.

Elias flying Jezabel, in the desert eateth a hearth cake and drinketh water, brought by an Angel, and so goeth forty days and nights unto mount Horeb. 9. Lamenting that he alone is left of the Prophets of God. 15. God commandeth him to return to Damascus, and anoint Hazael king of Syria, Jehu king of Israel, and Eliseus a Prophet: 18. and telleth him, there remain seven thousand in Israel, which have not bowed to Baal.

{1} AND Achab told Jezabel all things that Elias had done, and how he had killed all the prophets with the sword. {2} And Jezabel sent a message to Elias, saying: These things do the gods to me, and these add they, if this hour to morrow I make not thy soul as the soul of one of them. {3} Elias therefore was afraid, and rising he went whither soever his will carried him: and he came into Bersabee of Juda, and left his servant there, {4} and went forward into the desert, one day's journey. And when he was come, and sat unto a juniper tree, he desired for his soul to die, and said: It sufficeth me Lord, take my soul: for I am not better than my fathers. {5} And he cast himself down, & slept in the shadow of the juniper tree: & behold an Angel of our Lord touched him, and said to him: Arise, and eat. {6} He looked, and behold at his head hearth-baked bread, and a vessel of water: he therefore did eat, & drink, & he slept again. {7} And the Angel of our lord returned the second time, & touched him, & said to him: Arise, eat: for thou hast yet a great way to go. {8} Who when he was risen, did eat & drink, and walked in the strength of that meat forty days, & forty nights, unto the mount of God, Horeb. {9} And when he was come thither, he tarried in a cave, and behold the word of our Lord unto him, and he said to him: What doest thou here Elias? {10} But he answered: With zeal have I been zealous for our Lord the God of hosts, because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant: thy altars have they destroyed, and thy Prophets they have slain with the sword, and I alone am left, and they seek my life to take it away. {11} And he said to him: Come forth, and stand in the mount before our Lord: and behold our Lord passeth, and a great wind and strong, overthrowing mountains and breaking rocks before our Lord: not in the wind is our Lord, and after the wind an earth quake: not in the earth quake is our Lord, {12} and after the earth quake fire: not in the fire is our Lord, & after the fire a whistling of a gentle wind. {13} Which when Elias had heard, he covered his face with his mantle, and coming forth stood in the door of the cave, and behold a voice unto him, saying: What doest thou here Elias? {14} And he answered: With zeal have I been zealous for our Lord the God of hosts: because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant: thine altars they have destroyed, and thy Prophets they have slain with the sword, and I alone am left, and they seek my life to take it away. {15} And our Lord said to him: Go, and return into thy way by the desert of Damascus: and when thou art come thither thou shalt anoint Hazael king over Syria, {16} and Jehu the son of Namsi thou shalt anoint king over Israel: and Eliseus the son of Saphat, which is of Abelmeula, thou shalt anoint prophet for thee. {17} And it shall be, whosoever shall escape the sword of Hazael, him Jehu shall kill: and whosoever shall escape the sword of Jehu, him shall Eliseus kill. {18} And I will leave me in Israel seven thousand men, whose knees have not been bowed before Baal, and every mouth, that hath not adored him kissing his hands. {19} Elias therefore departing thence, found Eliseus the son of Saphat, ploughing with twelve yoke of oxen, and he was one of them that ploughed with twelve yoke of oxen: and when Elias came to him, he cast his mantle upon him. {20} Who forthwith leaving the oxen ran after Elias, and said: Let me kiss, I pray thee, my father, and my mother, and so I will follow thee. And he said to him: Go, and return: for that which was my part, I have done to thee. {21} And returning from him, he took a yoke of oxen, and killed them, and sod the flesh with the plough of the oxen, and gave to the people, and they did eat: and rising up he departed, and followed Elias, and ministered to him.

The Syrians threatening and besieging Samaria, 13. God signifieth by a Prophet to Achab, that he shall have the victory, 20. which he obtaineth: 23. Also the second year fighting in the champion. 31. But saving the king of Syrian's life, and making league with him, 35. one of the children of the Prophets being slain, for not striking when he was so commanded, 37. an other denounceth revenge to Achab; for not killing the Syrian king.

{1} MOREOVER Benadad the king of Syria, gathered together all his host, and two and thirty kings with him, & horses, & chariots: & going up fought against Samaria, and besieged it. {2} And sending messengers to Achab the king of Israel into the city, {3} he said: Thus saith Benadad: Thy silver, and thy gold is mine: and thy wives, and thy principal children be mine. {4} And the king of Israel answered: According to thy word my lord king, I am thine, and all that is mine. {5} And the messengers returning, said: Thus saith Benadad, which sent us unto thee: Thy silver, and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children thou shalt give me. {6} To morrow therefore this very hour I will send my servants to thee, and they shall search thy house, and the house of thy servants: and all that pleases them, they shall put in their hands, and take away. {7} And the king of Israel called all the ancients of the land, and said: Mark, and see that he seeketh to intrap us. For he sent to me for my wives, and children, and for the silver and gold: and I said not nay. {8} And all the ancients, and all the people said to him: Hear not, neither agree unto him. {9} He therefore answered the messengers of Benadad: Tell my lord the king: All things for the which thou didst send to me thy servant in the beginning I will do: but this thing I can not do. {10} And the messengers returning made report unto him, who sent again, and said: These things do the gods to me, and these add they, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice for the handfuls of all the people, that followeth me. {11} And the king of Israel answering, said: Tell him Let not the girded glory as the ungirded. {12} And it came to pass, when Benadad had heard this word, himself & the kings drank in pavilions, and he said to his servants: Beset the city, and they did beset it. {13} And behold a Prophet coming to Achab the king of Israel, said to him: Thus saith our Lord, Hast thou in deed seen all this exceeding great multitude? Behold, I will deliver them into thy hand this day: that thou mayst know, that I am the Lord. {14} And Achab said: By whom? And he said to him: Thus saith our Lord: By the servants of the princes of the provinces. And he said: Who shall begin to fight? And he said: Thou. {15} He therefore mustered the servants of the Princes of the provinces, and he found the number of two hundred thirty two: and he mustered after them the people, all the children of Israel, seven thousand. {16} And they went forth at noon. But Benadad drank all drunken in his tent. And two and thirty kings with him, which were come to aid him. {17} The servants thereof of the Princes of the provinces issued forth in the forefront. Benadad therefore sent. Who told him, saying: Men are come forth out of Samaria. {18} And he said: Whether they come for peace, take them alive: or else to fight, alive take ye them. {19} The servants therefore of the Princes of the provinces issued forth, and the rest of the army followed: {20} and every one struck the man that came against him: and the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them. Benadad also the king of Syria fled on horseback with his horsemen. {21} Moreover the king of Israel issuing forth struck the horses and chariots, & he struck Syria with a great slaughter. {22} (And a Prophet coming to the king of Israel, said to him: Go, & take courage, & know, & see what thou doest: for the year following the king of Syria will come up against thee.) {23} But the servants of the king of Syria said to him: The gods of the mountains be their gods, therefore have they overcome us: but it is better that we fight against them in the champion, and we shall overcome them. {24} Thou therefore do this word: Remove all the kings from thine army, and put captains for them: {25} and repair the number of soldiers, that are slain of thine, and horses according to the old horses, & chariots according to the chariots, which thou hadst before: and we will fight against them in the champion, and thou shalt see that we shall overcome them. He believed their counsel, and did so. {26} Therefore after a year was passed, Benadad mustered the Syrians, and went up into Aphec, to fight against Israel. {27} Moreover the children of Israel were mustered, and taking victuals they went forth on the contrary side, and camped against them, as it were two little flocks of goats: but the Syrians filled the land. {28} (And a man of God coming, said to the king of Israel: Thus saith our Lord: Because the Syrians have said: The Lord is God of the mountains, and is not God of the Valleys, I will give all this great multitude into thy hand, and you shall know that I am the Lord.) {29} And seven days did these, and they direct their armies one against the other, and in the seventh day was the battle fought, and the children of Israel struck of the Syrians an hundred thousand footmen in one day. {30} And they that remained in Aphec, fled into the city: and the wall fell upon seven and twenty thousand men, that were left. Moreover Benadad flying entered the city, into a chamber that was within a chamber, {31} and his servants said to him: Behold, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful: Let us therefore put sackcloths on our loins, and cords on our heads, and go forth to the king of Israel: perhaps he will save our lives {32} They girded their loins with sackcloths, and put cords on their heads, and came to the king of Israel, and said to him: Thy servant Benadad saith: Let my soul live, I beseech thee. And he said: If he be yet alive, he is my brother. {33} Which the men took for good luck: and in haste caught the word of his mouth, and said: Thy brother Benadad. And he said to them: Go and bring him to me. Benadad therefore came out to him, and he lifted him up into his chariot. {34} Who said to him: The cities which my father took from thy father, I will render: do thou make thee streets in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria, and I confederate will depart from thee. He therefore made a league, and dismissed him. {35} Then a certain man of the children of the Prophets said to his fellow in the word of our Lord: Strike me. But he would not strike. {36} To whom he said: Because thou wouldest not hear the word of our Lord, behold thou shalt depart from me, and a lion shall strike thee. And when he was departed a little from him, a lion found him, and slew him. {37} But finding also an other man, he said to him: Strike me. Who struck him, and wounded him. {38} The Prophet therefore went, and met the king in the way, and with sprinkling of dust changed his face and his eyes. {39} And when the king passed by, he cried to the king, and said: Thy servant went forth to fight hand strokes: and when a certain man was fled, one brought him to me, and said: Keep this man: who if he shall slip away, thy life shall be for his life, or thou shalt pay a talent of silver. {40} And whilst I being troubled turned hither and thither, suddenly he appeared not. And the king of Israel said to him: This is thy judgment, which thy self hast decreed. {41} But he forthwith wiped off the dust from his face, and the king of Israel knew him, that he was of the prophets. {42} Who said to him: Thus saith our Lord Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man worthy to die, thy life shall be for his life, and thy people for his people. {43} The king of Israel therefore returned into his house, contemning to hear, & raging came into Samaria.

Naboth for denying his vineyard to king Achab, is by queen Jezabel's commandment falsely accused, and stoned to death. 10. Achab hastening to possess the vineyard, Elias the Prophet threateneth him many evils, 23, and no less to Jezabel: both being obstinate in sin. 27. Yet Achab for fear of punishment, doth external works of penance, and thereby escapeth part of the temporal plagues.

{1} AND after these words, at that time Naboth the Jezrahelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezrahel, beside the palace of Achab the king of Samaria. {2} Achab therefore spake to Naboth, saying: Give me thy vineyard, that I may make me a garden of herbs, because it is nigh, and joining to my house, and I will give thee for it a better vineyard: or if thou think it more commodious for thee, the price of silver, so much as it is worth. {3} To whom Naboth answered: Our Lord be merciful to me, that I give not the inheritance of my fathers to thee. {4} Achab therefore came into his house with indignation and fretting upon the word that Naboth the Jezrahelite had spoken to him, saying: I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers. And casting himself upon his bed, he turned away his face to the wall, and did not eat bread. {5} And Jezabel his wife went in unto him, and said to him: What is this matter, whereupon thy soul is grieved? And why eatest thou not bread? {6} Who answered her: I speake to Naboth the Jezrahelite, and said to him: Give me thy vineyard, taking money for it: or if it please thee, I will give thee a better vineyard for it. And he said: I will not give thee my vineyard. {7} Jezabel therefore his wife said to him: Thou art of great authority, and doest well govern the Kingdom of Israel: Arise, and eat bread, and be of good cheer, I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite. {8} She therefore wrote letters in the name of Achab, and signed them with his ring, and sent to the ancients, and the chief men that were in his city, and dwelt with Naboth. {9} And this was the tenor of the letters: Proclaim a fast, and make Naboth sit among the chief of the people, {10} and suborn two men the children of Belial against him, and let them bear false testimony: that he hath blessed God and the king: and bring him forth, and stone him, and so let him die. {11} His citizens therefore the ancients and chief men, that dwelt with him in the city, did as Jezabel had commanded them, and as it was written in the letters which she sent to them: {12} they proclaimed a fast, and made Naboth sit among the chief of the people. {13} And two men the children of the devil being brought forth, they made them sit against him: but they, as devilish men, gave testimony against him before the multitude: Naboth hath blessed God and the king: for the which thing they brought him forth without the city, and killed him with stones. {14} And they sent to Jezabel, saying: Naboth is stoned, and is dead. {15} And it came to pass, when Jezabel had heard that Naboth was stoned, and dead, she spake to Achab: Arise, and possess the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite, who would not agree unto thee, and give it taking money: for Naboth liveth not, but is dead. {16} Which when Achab had heard, to wit, that Naboth was dead, he arose, and went down into the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite, to possess it. {17} The word of our Lord therefore came to Elias the Thesbite, saying: {18} Arise, and go down to meet Achab the king of Israel, who is in Samaria: behold he goeth down to the vineyard of Naboth, to possess it: {19} and thou shalt speak to him, saying: Thus saith our Lord: Thou hast slain, moreover also thou hast possessed. And after these words thou shalt add: Thus saith our Lord: In this place, wherein the dogs have licked the blood of Naboth, they shall lick thy blood also. {20} And Achab said to Elias: Hast thou found me thine enemy? Who said: I have found thee, for that thou art sold, to do evil in the sight of our Lord. {21} Behold I will bring evil upon thee, and will cut down thy posterity, and will kill of Achab him that pisseth against the wall, and the inclosed, and the last in Israel. {22} And I will make thy house, as the house of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, and as the house of Baasa the son of Ahias: because thou hast done to provoke me to anger, and hast made Israel to sin. {23} But of Jezabel also our Lord spake, saying: The dogs shall eat Jezabel in the field of Jezrahel. {24} If Achab die in the city, the dogs shall eat him: but if he die in the field, the fowls of the air shall eat him. {25} Therefore there was not such an other as Achab, who was sold to do evil in the sight of our Lord: for his wife Jezabel set him on, {26} and he became abominable, in so much that he followed the idols, which the Amorrites had made, whom our Lord consumed before the face of the children of Israel. {27} Therefore when Achab had heard these words, he rent his garments, and covered his flesh with haircloth, and fasted, and slept in sackcloth, and walked casting down his head. {28} And the word of our lord came to Elias the Thesbite, saying: {29} Hast thou not seen Achab humbled before me? Therefore, because he hath humbled himself for my sake, I will not bring in the evil in his days, but in his son's days will I bring the evil upon his house.

Achab king of Israel consulting and believing false Prophets rather than Micheas a true Prophet, accompanied with Josaphat king of Juda, resolveth to fight against the Syrians for Ramoth Galaad. 26. Committeeth Micheas to prison, 29. proceedeth to the war, 34. is slain, and Ochozias succeedeth. 41. Josaphat refuseth to traffic longer with Ochozias, dieth, & his son Joram reigneth. 52. Ochozias followeth the evil steps of his parent.

{1} THERE passed therefore three years without war between Syria and Israel. third year, Josaphat the king of Juda went {2} And in the down to the king of Israel. {3} (And the king of Israel said to his servants: are you ignorant that Ramoth Galaad is ours, and we neglect to take it out of the hand of the king of Syria?) {4} And he said to Josaphat: Wilt thou come with me to fight into Ramoth Galaad? {5} And Josaphat said to the king of Israel: As I am, so thou also: my people and thy people are one: and my horsemen thy horsemen. And Josaphat said to the king of Israel: Ask, I beseech thee, this day the word of our Lord. {6} The king of Israel therefore assembled the prophets, about four hundred men, and he said to them: Shall I go into Ramoth Galaad to fight, or sit still? Who answered: Go up, and our Lord will give it into the king's hand. {7} And Josaphat said: Is there not here some prophet of our Lord, that we may ask by him? {8} And the king of Israel said to Josaphat: There is one man left, by whom we may ask our Lord: but I hate him, because he doeth not prophesy unto me good, but evil, Micheas the son of Jemla. To whom Josaphat said: Speak not so, o king. {9} The king of Israel therefore called a certain eunuch, and said to him: Make haste, and bring hither Micheas the son of Jemla. {10} And the king of Israel, and Josaphat the king of Juda sat each in his throne clothed with royal attire, in a court beside the door of the gate of Samaria, & all the Prophets prophesied before them. {11} And Sedecias the son of Chanaana made himself horns of iron, and said: Thus saith our Lord: With these shalt thou strike Syria, till thou destroy it. {12} And all the prophets in like manner prophesied, saying: Ascend into Ramoth Galaad, and go prosperously, & our Lord will deliver into the king's hands. {13} But the messenger, that went to call Micheas, spake to him, saying: Behold the words of the prophets with one mouth preach good things to the king: let thy word therefore be like to theirs, and speak good things. {14} To whom Micheas said: Our Lord liveth, whatsoever our Lord shall tell me, that will I speak. {15} He therefore came to the king, and the king, said to him: Micheas, shall we go into Ramoth Galaad to fight, or sit still? To whom he answered: Ascend, and go prosperously, and our Lord will deliver it into the king's hands. {16} But the king said to him: I adjure thee again and again, that thou speak not to me but that which is true in the name of our Lord. {17} And he said: I saw all Israel dispersed in the mountains, as sheep not having a shepherd, and our Lord said: These have no master, let every man return into his house in peace. {18} (Therefore the king of Israel said to Josaphat: Did I not tell thee, that he doth not Prophesy me good, but always evil?) {19} But he adding, said: Therefore hear the word of our Lord: I saw our Lord sitting upon his throne, and all the host of heaven assisting him on the right hand and on the left: {20} and our Lord said: Who shall deceive Achab the king of Israel, that he may go up, and fall in Ramoth Galaad? And one saith these manner of words, and an other otherwise. {21} And there came forth a spirit, and stood before our Lord, and said: I will deceive him. To whom our Lord spake: Wherein? {22} And he said: I will go forth, and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And our Lord said: Thou shalt deceive, and shalt prevail: go forth, and do so. {23} Now therefore behold our Lord hath given the spirit of lying in the mouth of all thy prophets, that are here, and our Lord hath spoken evil against thee. {24} And Sedecias the son of Chanaana came, and smote Micheas on the cheek, and said: Hath the Spirit of our Lord left me, and hath it spoken to thee? {25} And Micheas said: Thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt enter into thy chamber, within the chamber to be hid. {26} And the king of Israel said: Take Micheas, & let him tarry with Amon the governor of the city, and with Joab the son of Amelech, {27} and tell them: Thus saith the king: Cast this man into prison, and feed him with bread of tribulation, and water of distress, till I return in peace. {28} And Micheas said: If thou return in peace, our Lord hath not spoken in me. And he said: Hear all ye peoples. {29} Therefore the king of Israel went up, and Josaphat the king of Juda into Ramoth Galaad. {30} The king of Israel therefore said to Josaphat: Take armour, and go into the battle, and put on thine own garments. Moreover the king of Israel changed his habit, and went into the battle. {31} And the king of Syria had commanded the princes of his chariots thirty and two, saying: You shall not fight against any lesser, or greater, but against the king of Israel only. {32} When therefore the Princes of the chariots had seen Josaphat, they suspected that he was the king of Israel, & making a violent assault they fought against him: and Josaphat cried out. {33} And the Princes of the chariots perceived that he was not the king of Israel, and they ceased from him. {34} And a certain man bent his bow; directing the arrow at all adventure, and by chance he struck the king of Israel between the lungs and the stomach. But he said to his cochere: Turn thy hand, and carry me out of the army, because I am grievously wounded. {35} The battle therefore was fought that day, and the king of Israel stood in his chariot against the Syrians, and he died in the evening: and the blood of the wound ran into the midst of the chariot, {36} and the herald sounded in all the army before the sun set, saying: Every man return into his city, and into his country. {37} And the king died, and was carried into Samaria: and they buried the king in Samaria, {38} & washed his chariot in the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked his blood, and they washed the reins of the bridle, according to the word of our Lord which he had spoken. {39} But the rest of the words of Achab, and all that he did, and the house of ivory that he built, and of all the cities that he built, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {40} Achab therefore slept with his fathers, and Ochozias his son reigned for him. {41} But Josaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Juda the fourth year of Achab the king of Israel. {42} Five and thirty years old was he when he began to reign, and five and twenty years he reigned in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Azuba the daughter of Salai. {43} And he walked in all the way of Asa his father, and he declined not from it: and he did that which was right in the sight of our Lord. {44} But yet he took not away the excelses: for as yet the people did sacrifice, and burnt incense in the excelses. {45} And Josaphat had peace with the king of Israel. {46} But the rest of the words of Josaphat, and his works, which he did, and his battles, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {47} Yea and the remnant of the effeminate, which remained in the days of Asa his father, he took out of the land. {48} Neither was there then a king appointed in Edom. {49} But king Josaphat had made navies on the sea, which should sail into Ophir gold: and they could not go, because they were broken in Asiongaber. {50} Then said Ochozias the son of Achab to Josaphat: Let my servants go with thy servants in the ships. And Josaphat would not. {51} And Josaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the City of David his father: and Joram his son reigned for him. {52} And Ochozias the son of Achab began to reign over Israel in Samaria, in the seventeenth year of Josaphat the king of Juda, and he reigned over Israel two years. {53} And he did evil in the sight of our Lord, and walked in the way of his father and his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin. {54} He served also Baal, and adored him, and provoked our Lord the God of Israel, according to all things which his father had done.

THE FOURTH BOOK OF KINGS

Ochozias king of Israel consulting Beelzebub for his sickness, is blamed by Elias, and foretold, that he shall die. 9. Fire from heaven devoureth two Captains with each of them fifty men. 13. The third by his more modesty escapeth the like danger: 15. with him Elias cometh to the king. 17. The same king dieth, and his brother Joram succeedeth.

{1} AND Moab moved war against Israel, after that Achab was dead. through the stanchions of his upper {2} And Ochozias fell chamber which he had in Samaria, and was sick: and he sent messengers, saying to them: Go, consult Beelzebub the god of Accaron, whether I may live of this my infirmity. {3} And an Angel of our Lord spake to Elias the Thesbite, saying: Arise, and go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and thou shalt say to them: What, is there not a God in Israel, that ye go to consult Beelzebub the god of Accaron? {4} Wherefore thus saith our Lord: From the bed on which thou art ascended, thou shalt not go down, but dying thou shalt die. And Elias went away. {5} And the messengers returned to Ochozias. Who said to them: Why are you returned? {6} But they answered him: A man met us, and said to us: Go, and return to the king that sent you, and you shall say to him: Thus saith our Lord: Dost thou therefore send to consult Beelzebub the god of Accaron, because there was no God in Israel? Therefore from the bed, which thou art upon, thou shalt not go down, but dying thou shalt die. {7} Who said to them: What shape and habit had that man, which met you, and spake these words? {8} But they said: A hairy man, and girded about his reins with a girdle of leather: Who said: It is Elias the Thesbite. {9} And he sent unto him a captain of fifty men, and the fifty that were under him. Who went up and said to him sitting in the top of the mount: Man of God; the king hath commanded that thou come down. {10} And Elias answering, said to the captain of fifty men: If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and devour thee, and thy fifty. Fire therefore came down from heaven, and devoured him and the fifty men that were with him. {11} And he sent again unto him an other captain of fifty men, and his fifty with him. Who spake to him: Man of God, thus saith the king: Make haste, come down. {12} Elias answering said: If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and devour thee, and thy fifty. Fire therefore came down from heaven, & devoured him, & his fifty. {13} Again he sent a third captain of fifty men, and the fifty that were with him. Who when he was come, bowed his knees toward Elias, and prayed him and said: Man of God despise not my life and the lives of thy servants that are with me. {14} Behold fire came down from heaven, and hath devoured the two first captains of fifty men, and the fifties, that were with them: but now I beseech thee that thou have mercy on my life. {15} And an Angel of our Lord spake to Elias, saying: Go down with him, fear not. He therefore arose, and went down with him to the king, {16} and spake to him: Thus saith our Lord: Because thou hast sent messengers to consult Beelzebub the god of Accaron, as though there were not a God in Israel, of whom thou mightest ask the word, therefore from the bed which thou art ascended upon, thou shalt not descend, but dying thou shalt die. {17} He died therefore according to the word of our Lord which Elias spake, and Joram his brother reigned for him, in the second year of Joram the son of Josaphat the king of Juda: for he had no son. {18} But the rest of the words of Ochozias, which he wrought, are not these written in the Book of the words of the kings of Israel?

Eliseus will not part from Elias. 7. Fifty disciples follow them to Jordan. 8. The water is divided by Elias' cloak, and they two pass the dry channel. 9. Elias is assumed in a fiery chariot, and his double spirit is given to Eliseus. 13. who returning by like miraculous means over Jordan, the disciples receive and honour him as their religious Superior. 16. They seek Elias, but find him not. 19. Eliseus amendeth the waters by casting in salt. 23. Boys are turn by bears for mocking Eliseus.

{1} AND it came to pass, when our Lord would take up Elias by a hurl wind into heaven, Elias and Eliseus went from Galgal. {2} And Elias said to Eliseus: Sit here, because our Lord hath sent me as far as Bethel. To whom Eliseus said: Our Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And when he was come down to Bethel, {3} the children of the prophets, that were in Bethel, went forth to Eliseus, and said to him: Doest thou know, that this day our Lord will take thy master from thee? Who answered: I also know it: hold your peace. {4} And Elias said to Eliseus: Sit here, because our Lord hath sent me into Jericho. And he said: Our Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And when they were come to Jericho, {5} the children of the Prophets, that were in Jericho, came to Eliseus, and said to him: Doest thou know that this day our Lord will take away thy master from thee? And he said: I also know it, hold your peace. {6} And Elias said to him: Sit here, because our Lord hath sent me as far as Jordan. Who said: Our Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee: They went therefore both together, {7} and fifty men of the children of the Prophets followed them, who also stood over against them, far off: but they two stood upon Jordan. {8} And Elias took his mantle, and folded it together, and smote the waters, which were divided into two parts, and they both passed over by the dry land. {9} And when they were over, Elias said to Eliseus: Ask what thou wilt have me do for thee, before I be taken from thee. And Eliseus said: I beseech thee that in me may be thy double spirit. {10} Who answered: Thou hast asked a hard thing: Nevertheless if thou see me when I shall be taken from thee, thou shalt have that thou hast asked: but if thou see me not, thou shalt not have it. {11} And when they went forward, and going talked together, behold a fiery chariot, and fiery horses parted them two asunder: and Elias ascended by a hurl wind into heaven. {12} And Eliseus saw him, and cried: My father, my father, the chariot of Israel and the guider thereof. And he saw him no more: and he took his garments, and rent them in two pieces. {13} And he took up the mantle of Elias, that was fallen to him: and returning he stood upon the bank of Jordan, {14} and with the mantle of Elias, that fell down to him, he smote the waters, and they were not divided. And he said: Where is the God of Elias, now also? And he smote the waters, and they were divided this way and that way, and Eliseus passed over. {15} And the children of the prophets, that were in Jericho, over against him seeing him, said: The spirit of Elias hath rested upon Eliseus. And coming to meet him, adored him flat to the ground, {16} and they said to him: Behold, there are with thy servants fifty strong men, that can go, and seek thy master, lest perhaps the spirit of our Lord hath taken him, and cast him upon one of the mountains, or into one of the valleys. Who said: Send not. {17} And they forced him, till he agreed, and said: Send. And they sent fifty men. Who when they had sought three days, found not. {18} And they returned to him: but he dwelt in Jericho, & he said to them: Did I not say to you: Send not? {19} The men also of the city said to Eliseus: Behold the habitation of this city is very good, as thy self my lord perceivest: but the waters are very ill, and the ground barren. {20} But he said: Fetch me a new vessel, and put salt into

it. Which when they had brought, {21} going out to the fountain of the waters, he cast salt into it, and said: Thus saith our Lord: I have amended these waters, and death shall no more be in them, nor barrenness. {22} The waters therefore were amended until this day, according to the word of Eliseus, which he spake. {23} And from thence he went up into Bethel: & when he went up by the way, little lads came forth out of the city, and mocked him, saying: Come up baldhead, come up baldhead. {24} Who when he had looked back, he saw them, and cursed them in the name of our Lord: and two bears came forth out of the forest, and tore of them two & forty boys. {25} And from thence he went into the mount of Carmel, and from thence he turned into Samaria.

Joram king of Israel accompanied with the kings of Juda & Edom, fighteth against the king of Moab, for not paying tribute according to their league. 9. Wanting waters 16. Eliseus procureth sufficient without rain: and prophesieth victory. 21. The king of Moab deceived by a vision is overthrown in the field. 26. Then being besieged immolateth his first begotten son: and the Israelites leave the siege.

{1} AND Joram the son of Achab reigned over Israel in Samaria the eighteenth year of Josaphat the king of Juda. And he reigned twelve years. {2} And he did evil before our Lord, but not as his father and mother: for he took away the statutes of Baal, which his father had made. {3} Nevertheless in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin, he struck fast, and departed not from them. {4} Moreover Mesa the king of Moab, nourished many sheep, & he payed to the king of Israel an hundred thousand lambs, and an hundred thousand rams with their fleeces. {5} And when Achab was dead, he brake the league, which he had made with the king of Israel. {6} Therefore king Joram went forth that day out of Samaria, and mustered all Israel. {7} And he sent to Josaphat the king of Juda. Saying: The king of Moab is revolted from me, come with me against him to battle. Who answered: I will come up: he that is mine is thine: my people, thy people, & my horses thy horses. {8} And he said: What way shall we go up? But he answered: By the desert of Idumea. {9} Therefore the king of Israel, and the king of Juda, and the king of Edom went forward, and compassed seven days' journey, neither was there water for the army, and the beasts that followed them. {10} And the king of Israel said: Alas alas alas, our Lord hath gathered us three kings together, that he might deliver us into the hands of Moab. {11} And Josaphat said: Is there not here a prophet of our Lord, that we may beseech our Lord by him? And one of the servants of the king of Israel answered: Here is Eliseus the son of Saphat, which poured water upon the hands of Elias. {12} And Josaphat said: The word of our Lord is with him. And the king of Israel went down to him, and Josaphat the king of Juda, and the king of Edom. {13} And Eliseus said to the king of Israel: What is to me and thee? Go to the prophets of thy father, and thy mother. And the king of Israel said to him: Why hath our Lord gathered together these three kings, that he might deliver them into the hands of Moab? {14} And Eliseus said to him: The Lord of hosts liveth, in whose sight I stand, If I did not reverence the face of Josaphat the king of Juda, I would not certes have harkened to thee. Nor looked on thee. {15} But now bring me hither a player on instruments. And when the player sang, the hand of our Lord came upon him, & he said: {16} Thus saith our Lord: Make the channel of this torrent ditches and ditches. {17} For thus saith our Lord: You shall not see wind, nor rain: and this channel shall be filled with waters, & you shall drink, and your families, & your beasts. {18} And this is a small thing in the sight of our Lord: Moreover he will deliver also Moab into your hands. {19} And you shall strike every fenced city, and every principal city, and shall cut down all fruitful trees, and shall stop up all fountains of waters, and every goodly field you shall cover with stones. {20} It came to pass therefore in the morning, when they used to offer the sacrifice, and behold, water came by the way of Edom, and the ground was filled with waters. {21} But all the Moabites hearing that the kings were come up to fight against them, they called together all that were girded with a belt upon them, and they stood in the borders. {22} And rising early in the morning, and the sun being now risen over-against the waters, the Moabites saw the waters over against them red, as it were blood, {23} and said: It is the blood of the swords: the kings have fought among themselves, and are slain one of an other: now go on forward to the prey, Moab. {24} And they went forward into the camp of Israel: Moreover Israel rising up, struck Moab: but they fled before them. They therefore that had overcome, came and struck Moab, {25} and destroyed the cities: and every principal field they filled every man casting stones: and they stopt up all the fountains of waters: and cut down all trees that bare fruit, so that there remained only brick walls: and the city was beset of the slingers, and for a great part thereof was stricken. {26} Which when the king of Moab had seen, to wit, that the enemies had prevailed, he took with him seven hundred men that drew sword, to break in upon the king of Edom: & they could not. {27} And taking his first begotten son, that should have reigned for him, he offered him an holocaust upon the wall: and there was great indignation in Israel, and forthwith they retired from him, and returned into their country.

Eliseus so multiplieth a poor widow's oil, that she payeth her debts, and liveth of the rest. 8. By his prayers a Sunamite woman hath a son. 18. Which dying he raiseth to life. 38. He taketh away the bitterness of coloquintida, which by chance was put in the pot. 42. and feedeth many with few loaves.

{1} AND a certain woman of the wives of the prophets cried to Eliseus, saying: Thy servant my husband is dead, and thou knowest that thy servant was one that feared God, and behold the creditor is come to take away my two sons to serve him. {2} To whom Eliseus said: What wilt thou that I do for thee? Tell me, what hast thou in thy house? But she answered: I thy handmaid have nothing in my house, but a little oil, to anoint me withal. {3} To whom he said: Go, borrow of all thy neighbours empty vessels not a few. {4} And go in, and shut thy door, when thou art within, thou and thy sons: and pour thereof into all these vessels: and when they shall be full, thou shalt take them away. {5} The woman therefore went, and shut the door upon her, and upon her sons: they brought her vessels, and she poured in. {6} And when the vessels were full, she said to her son: Bring me yet a vessel. And he answered: I have none. And the oil stood. {7} And she came, and told the man of God. And he said: Go, sell the oil, and pay thy creditor: and thou and thy sons live of the rest: {8} And there came a certain day, and Eliseus passed by Sunam: and there was there a great woman, which held him to eat bread: and when he passed often that way, he turned in to her to eat bread. {9} Who said to her husband: I perceive that this is a holy man of God, which passeth by us often. {10} Let us therefore make him a little chamber, and set him a little bed in it, and a table, and a stool, and a candlestick, that when he cometh to us he may tarry there. {11} There came therefore a certain day, and coming he turned in to the chamber, and rested there. {12} And he said to Giezi his servant: Call this Sunamite. Who when he had called her, and she stood before him, {13} he said to his servant: Speak to her: Behold thou hast diligently ministered to us in all things, what wilt thou that I do for thee? Hast thou any business, and wilt thou that I speak to the king, or the general of the warfare? Who answered: I dwell in the midst of mine own people. {14} And he said: What will she then that I do for her? And Giezi said: Ask not: for she hath no son, & her husband is old. {15} He therefore commanded him to call her: who when she was called, and stood before the door, {16} he said to her: At this time, this self same hour, if life accompany, thou shalt have a son in thy womb. But she answered: Do not I beseech thee my lord, man of God, do not lie to thy handmaid. {17} And the woman conceived, and brought forth a son in that time, and in the self-same hour, that Eliseus had said. {18} And the child grew.

And upon a certain day, when going forth he went to his father, unto the reapers, {19} he said to his father: My head acheth, my head acheth. But he said to his servant, take him, and bring him to his mother, {20} who when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, she set him upon her knees until noon, and he died. {21} And she went up, and laid him upon the bed of the man of God, and shut the door: and going forth. {22} called her husband, and said: Send with me, I beseech thee, one of the servants, & an ass, that I may run to the man of God, and return. {23} Who said to her: For what cause doest thou go to him? The Calends be not to day, nor the Sabbath. Who answered: I will go. {24} And she saddled the ass, and commanded her servant: drive, and make haste, make no stay in going. And do that which I command thee. {25} She therefore went forward, and came to the man of God into mount Carmel: and when the man of God saw her over against him, he said to Giezi his servant: Behold that Sunamite. {26} Go therefore to meet her, & say to her: Is all well about thee & about thy husband, and about thy son? Who answered: Well. {27} And when she was come to the man of God into the mount, she caught his feet: and Giezi came to remove her. And the man of God said: Let her alone, for her soul is in anguish, and our Lord hath hid it from me, & hath not told me. {28} Who said to him: Did I ask a son of my Lord? Did I not say to thee: Mock me not? {29} And he said to Giezi: Gird thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, & go. If a man meet thee, salute him not: and if any man salute thee, answer him not: and thou shalt put my staff upon the face of the child. {30} Moreover the mother of the child said: Our Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. He arose therefore, and followed her. {31} But Giezi was gone before them, and had put the staff upon the face of the child, and there was not voice, nor sense: and he returned to meet him, and told him, saying: The child is not risen. {32} Eliseus therefore went into the house, and behold the child lay dead on his bed: {33} and going in he shut the door upon him, and upon the child, and prayed to our Lord. {34} And he went up, and lay upon the child, and he put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, & his hands upon his hands: and he bowed himself over him, and the child's flesh was warmed. {35} But he returning, walked up and down in the house, once hither and thither: and he went up, and lay upon him: and the child gaped seven times, and opened his eyes. {36} And he called Giezi, and said to him: Call this Sunamite. Who being called, went in unto him: Who said: Take thy son. {37} She came and fell at his feet, and adored upon the ground: and took her son, and went out, {38} and Eliseus returned into Galgal. And there was a famine in the land, and the children of the Prophets dwelt before him; and he said to one of his servants: Set on a great pot, and seethe broth for the children of the Prophets. {39} And one went out into the field to gather wild herbs: and he found as it were a wild vine, and gathered of it the colocynthis of the field, and filled his mantle, and returning cut it into the pot of broth, for he knew not what it was. {40} They therefore poured it to their fellows, to eat: and when they had tasted of the broth, they cried, saying: Death is in the pot, man of God. And they could not eat. {41} But he said: Bring meal, and when they had brought it, he cast it into the pot, and said: pour in for the multitude, that they may eat. And there was no more any bitterness in the pot. {42} And a certain man came from Baalsalisa bringing to the man of God loaves of the first fruits, twenty barley loaves, and new wheat in his scrip. But he said: Give to the people, that they may eat. {43} And his servant answered him: How much is this, that I should set it before an hundred men? Again he said: Give to the people, that they may eat: for thus saith our Lord: They shall eat, and there shall be left. {44} He therefore set it before them: who did eat, and there was left according to the word of our Lord.

Naaman the general captain of Syria is cleansed of leprosy, by washing himself as Eliseus appointeth him seven times in Jordan: 15. professeth his belief in one God promising to serve him. 20. Giezi taketh gifts of Naaman, 25. and is stricken with leprosy.

{1} NAAMAN the General of the warfare of the king of Syria, was a great man with his lord, & honourable: for by him our Lord gave health to Syria: and he was a valiant man and rich, but a leper. {2} Moreover out of Syria there were come forth robbers, and had led away captive out of the Land of Israel a little girl, which waited upon the wife of Naaman. {3} Who said to her mistress: I would my lord had been with the prophet, that is in Samaria: surely he would have cured him from the leprosy, which he hath. {4} Naaman therefore went in to his lord, and told him saying: Thus and thus hath the wench of the Land of Israel spoken. {5} And the king of Syria said to him: Go, & I will send letters to the king of Israel. Who when he was set forward, & had taken with him ten talents of silver, & six thousand pieces of gold, & ten change of raiment, {6} he brought the letters to the king of Israel, in these words: When thou shalt receive this letter, know that I have sent to thee Naaman my servant, that thou mayest cure him of his leprosy. {7} And when the king of Israel had read the letters, he rent his garments, & said: Am I God, that I can kill, and give life, because this man hath sent to me, that I should cure a man of his leprosy? Mark, and see that he seeketh occasions against me. {8} Which when Eliseus the man of God had heard, to wit, that the king of Israel had rent his garments, he sent to him, saying: Why hast thou rent thy garments? Let him come to me, & let him know that there is a prophet in Israel {9} Naaman therefore came with horses & chariots: & stood at the door of the house of Eliseus: {10} and Eliseus sent a messenger to him, saying: Go & be washed seven times in Jordan, and thy flesh shall receive health, & thou shalt be clean. {11} Naaman being angry departed, saying: I thought he would come out to me, and standing would invocate the name of the Lord his God, and touch with his hand the place of the leprosy, and cure me. {12} What, are not Abana and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel, that I may be washed in them, and be made clean? Therefore when he had returned himself, & went away with indignation, {13} his servants came unto him, & spake to him: Father, & if the Prophet had said a great thing to thee, certes, thou shouldest have done it: how much more whereas now he said unto thee: Be washed, and thou shalt be clean? {14} He went down, and washed in Jordan seven times according to the word of the man of God, and his flesh was restored, as the flesh of a little child, and he was made clean. {15} And returning to the man of God with all his train, he came, and stood before him, & said: In very deed I know that there is no other God in all the earth, but only in Israel. I beseech thee therefore to take a benediction of thy servant. {16} But he answered: Our Lord liveth, before whom I stand, I will not take it. And when he would have forced him, he did in no wise agree. {17} And Naaman said: As thou wilt, but I beseech thee: grant unto me thy servant, that I may take of the earth the burden of two mules: for thy servant will no more make holocaust or victim to strange gods, but to the Lord. {18} But this only is it, for which thou shalt beseech the Lord for thy servant: when my master shall go into the temple of Remmon, to adore, and he leaning upon my hand, if I shall adore in the temple of Remmon, he adoring in the same place, that the Lord pardon me thy servant for this thing. {19} Who said to him: Go in peace. He therefore went from him in the spring time of the earth. {20} And Giezi the servant of the man of God said: My master hath spared Naaman this Syrian, that he took not of him the things which he brought: Our Lord liveth, I will run after him, and will take some thing of him. {21} And Giezi followed at the back of Naaman: whom when he saw running toward him, he lept down from his chariot to meet him, and said: Are all things well? {22} And he said: Well. My master hath sent me to thee, saying: Even now there are come to me two young men from mount Ephraim, of the children of the Prophets: give them a talent of silver, and two change of raiment. {23} And Naaman said: It is better that thou take two talents. And he forced him, and bound the two talents of silver in two bags, and the double raiment, and laid it upon two of his servants, who also carried it before him. {24} And when he was come now in the evening, he took it out of their hand, and laid it up in the house, and dismissed the men, and they departed. {25} And himself going in stood before his master. And Eliseus said: From whence comest thou Giezi? Who answered: Thy servant hath not gone any whither. {26} But he said: Was not my heart present, when the man returned out of his chariot to meet thee? Now therefore thou hast received silver, and taken raiment, to buy olivets, and vineyards, and sheep, and oxen, and servants, and handmaids. {27} But the leprosy also of Naama shall cleave to thee, and to thy seed, for ever. And he went out from him a leper as it were snow.

Eliseus maketh iron to swim upon the water: 8. leadeth the king of Syria his men (sent to apprehend him) blindly into Samaria. 20. Where their eyes being opened, they are courteously entertained, and freely dismissed. 24. The Syrians besiege Samaria. 26. For extreme famine a mother eateth her child. 31. And the king commandeth to kill Eliseus.

{1} AND the children of the Prophets said to Eliseus: Behold the place, wherein we dwell before thee is strait for us. {2} Let us go as far as Jordan, and take out of the wood every man some timber, that we may build there a place to dwell in. Who said: Go. {3} And one of them said: Come therefore thou also with thy servants. He answered: I will come. {4} And he went with them. And when they were come to Jordan they cut wood. {5} And it chanced, that when one had cut down timber, the head of the axe fell into the water: and he cried out, and said: Alas alas alas my Lord, this same also I did borrow. {6} And the man of God said: where fell it? And he shewed him the place: he therefore cut off a piece of wood, and cast it thither: and the iron did swim, {7} and he said: Take it up. Who stretched forth his hand, & took it. {8} And the king of Syria fought against Israel, & took counsel with his servants, saying: In that and that place let us lay embusments. {9} Therefore the man of God sent to the king of Israel, saying: Beware thou pass not into such a place: because the Syrians are there in embusments. {10} The king of Israel therefore sent to the place, which the man of God had told him, and prevented him, and looked well to himself there not once or twice. {11} And the heart of the king of Syria was troubled for this thing. And calling together his servants, he said: Why do you not tell me who is the betrayer of me to the king of Israel? {12} And one of his servants said: Not so my lord king, but Eliseus the prophet, which is in Israel, telleth the king of Israel all words, whatsoever thou shalt speak in thy privy chamber. {13} And he said to them: Go, and see where he is: that I may send, and take him. And they told him, saying: Behold in Dothan. {14} He therefore sent thither horses and chariots, and the force of his army: who when they were come in the night, they beset the city. {15} And the servant of the man of God rising early, went out, and saw an army round about the city, and horses and chariots: & he told him, saying: Alas alas alas my lord, what shall we do. {16} But he answered: Fear not: for there are more with us than with them. {17} And when Eliseus had prayed, he said: Lord open the eyes of this man, that he may see. And our Lord opened the eyes of the servant, and he beheld: and lo the mountain full of horses, and of fiery chariots round about Eliseus. {18} But the enemies went down to him: moreover Eliseus prayed to our Lord, saying: Strike, I beseech thee, this people with blindness. And our Lord smote them, that they saw not, according to the word of Eliseus. {19} And Eliseus said to them: This is not the way, neither is this the city: follow me, and I will shew you the man, whom you seek. He therefore led them into Samaria: {20} and when they were entered into Samaria, Eliseus said: Lord open the eyes of these men, that they may see. And our Lord opened their eyes, and they saw themselves to be in the midst of Samaria. {21} And the king of Israel said to Eliseus, when he had seen them: Shall I strike them, my father? {22} And he said: Thou shalt not strike them: for thou didst not take them with thy sword, and thy bow, that thou mayst strike them: but set bread & water before them, that they may eat & drink, and go to their master. {23} And a great preparation of meats was set before them, and they did eat and drink, and he dismissed them, and they went away to their master, & the robbers of Syria came no more into the Land of Israel. {24} And it came to pass after these things, Benadad the king of Syria gathered together all his army, & went up, and besieged Samaria. {25} And there was a great famine in Samaria: and so long it was besieged, till the head of an ass was sold for four score silver pieces, & the fourth part of a cabe of pigeon's dung, for five silver pieces. {26} And when the king of Israel passed by the wall, a certain woman cried out to him, saying: Save me my lord king. {27} Who said: No, our Lord save thee: how can I save thee? Of the floor, or of the press? And the king said to her: What aileth thee? Who answered: {28} This woman said to me: Give thy son, that we may eat him to day, and my son we will eat to morrow: {29} We therefore boiled my son, and did eat him. And I said to her the next day: Give thy son, that we may eat him. Who hath hid her son. {30} Which when the king had heard, he rent his garments, and passed by the wall. And all the people saw the hair-cloth, which he wore next upon his flesh. {31} And the king said: These things do God to me, and these add he, if the head of Eliseus the son of Saphat shall stand upon him this day. {32} But Eliseus sat in his house, & the ancients sat with him. He therefore sent a man before: & before that messenger came, he said to the ancients: Do you know that this murderer's son hath sent to cut off my head? See therefore, when the messenger shall come, shut the door, and suffer him not to enter in: for behold the sound of his master's feet is behind him. {33} Whilst he was yet speaking to them, the messenger appeared, which came to him. And he said: Behold, this so great evil is of our Lord: what shall I look for more of our Lord?

Eliseus Prophesieth plenty of corn the next day, and death to a chief man that will not believe it. 3. Four Lepers going to yield themselves to the Syrians, 6. who by God's providence are frightened and fled away, 9. bring news thereof to Samaria, 12. which by trial is found truth. 16. And so there is plenty of corn, and the incredulous nobleman is trod to death with press of multitude in the gate, as the Prophet foretold.

{1} AND Eliseus said: Hear ye the word of our Lord: Thus saith our Lord: At this time to morrow a bushel of flour shall be at one stater, and two bushels of barley at one stater, in the gate of Samaria. {2} One of the Dukes, upon whose hand the king leaned, answering the man of God, said: If our Lord shall make floodgates in heaven, can that possibly be which thou speakest? Who said: Thou shalt see it with thine eyes, and shalt not eat thereof. {3} There were therefore four men lepers, beside the entrance of the gate: who said one to an other: What mean we to be here till we die? {4} Whether we enter into the city, we shall die for famine: or whether we tarry here, die we must: come therefore, & let us run away to the camp of Syria. If they spare us, we shall live: but if they will kill us, we shall die nevertheless. {5} They arose therefore in the evening, to come to the camp of Syria. And when they were come to the beginning of the camp of Syria, they found no man there. {6} For our Lord had made them in the camp of Syria to hear the sound of chariots, & horses, & of a very great army: & they said one to an other: Behold the king of Israel hath for wages hired against us the kings of the Hethites, & of the Aegyptians, & they are come upon us. {7} They arose therefore, & fled in the dark, & left their tents, and their horses and asses in the camp, and fled desirous to save their lives only. {8} Therefore when these lepers were come to the beginning of the camp, they entered into one tabernacle, and did eat and drink: and they took thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went, and hid it: again they returned to another tabernacle, and from thence likewise taking away they hid it. {9} And they said one to an other: We do not well: for this is a day of good tidings. If we shall hold our peace, and will not tell until morning, we shall be blamed of a heinous offence: Come, let us go, and make report in the king's court. {10} And when they were come to the gate of the city, they told them saying: We went to the camp of Syria, and found no man there, but horses, and asses tied, and the tents pitched. {11} The porters therefore went, and told it to the king within his palace. {12} Who arose in the night, and said to his servants: I tell you what the Syrians have done to us: They know that we suffer great famine, and therefore they are gone out of the camp and lie hid in the fields, saying: When they shall come forth out of the city, we will take them alive, and then we may enter into the city. {13} But one of his servants answered: Let us take five horses that are remaining in the city (because they only are in the whole multitude of Israel for the other are consumed) and sending, we may try. {14} They brought therefore two horses, and the king sent into the camp of the Syrians, saying, Go ye, and see. {15} Who went after them as far as Jordan: and behold all the way was full of raiment, and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away, when they were amazed, and the messengers returning told the king. {16} And the people going forth spoiled the camp of Syria: & a bushel of floor became at one stater, and two bushels of barley at one stater, according to the word of our Lord. {17} Moreover the king appointed that Duke on whose hand he leaned, to stand at the gate: whom the multitude trod in the entrance of the gate, and he died, according as the man of God had spoken, when the king came down to him. {18} And it came to pass according to the word of the man of God, which he spake to the king, when he said: Two bushels of barley shall be at one stater, and a bushel of floor at one stater, this very time to morrow in the gate of Samaria: {19} When that Duke answered the man of God, and said: Although our Lord would make floodgates in the heaven, can this be done which thou speakest? And he said to him: Thou shalt see with thine eyes, and shalt not eat thereof. {20} It chanced therefore to him as it was foretold, and the people trod him in the gate, and he died.

After seven years famine foretold by Eliseus, the Sunamite woman returning home, recovereth her lands and revenues. 7. Eliseus foresheweth the death of Benadad king of Syria, and cruel reign of Hazael. 16. Joram reigning in Juda, the Idumeans revolt from him: also Lobna. 23. He dieth, and his son Ochozias succeedeth.

{1} AND Eliseus spake to the woman, whose son he restored to life, saying: Arise, go thou and thy house, and sojourn wheresoever thou shalt find: for our Lord hath called a famine, and it shall come upon the land seven years. {2} Who arose, and did according to the word of the man of God: and going with her household, she sojourned in the land of the Philisthiims many days. {3} And when the seven years were ended, the woman returned out of the Land of the Philisthiims: and she went forth to speak to the king for her house, and for her lands. {4} And the king spake with Giezi the servant of the man of God, saying: Tell me all the marvelous things that Eliseus hath done. {5} And when he had told the king how he had raised a dead man, the woman appeared, whose son he had revived, crying to the king for her house and her lands. And Giezi said: My lord king, this is the woman, and this is her son, whom Eliseus raised. {6} And the king asked the woman: who told him. And the king gave her an eunuch, saying: Restore her all things that are hers, and all the revenues of the lands, from the day that she left the land until this present. {7} Eliseus also came to Damascus, & Benadad the king of Syria was sick: & they told him, saying: The man of God cometh hither. {8} And the king said to Hazael: Take with thee presents, & go to meet the man of God, & consult the Lord by him, saying: Can I escape of this mine infirmity? {9} Hazael therefore went to meet him, having with him presents, & all good things of Damascus, the loads of forty camels. And when he stood before him, he said: Thy son Benadad the king of Syria hath sent me to thee, saying: Can I recover of this mine infirmity? {10} And Eliseus said to him: Go, tell him: Thou shalt be healed: but our Lord hath shewed me that dying he shall die. {11} And he stood with him, and was troubled so far that he blushed: and the man of God wept. {12} To whom Hazael said: Why doeth my lord weep? But he said: Because I know what evils thou wilt do to the children of Israel. Their fenced cities thou wilt burn with fire, and their young men thou wilt kill with the sword, & their little ones thou wilt dash in pieces, and women with child thou wilt divide. {13} And Hazael said: What am I thy servant a dog, that I should do this great thing? And Eliseus said: Our Lord hath shewed me that thou shalt be king of Syria. {14} Who when he was departed from Eliseus, came to his master, who said to him: What said Eliseus to thee? But he answered: He told me: Thou shalt recover health. {15} And when the next day was come, he took a coverlet, and poured water thereon, and spread it upon his face: who being dead, Hazael reigned for him. {16} In the fifth year of Joram the son of Achab the king of Israel, and of Josaphat the king of Juda, reigned Joram the son of Josaphat the king of Juda. {17} He was two and thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. {18} And he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, as the house of Achab had walked: for the daughter of Achab was his wife: and he did that which is evil in the sight of our Lord. {19} But our Lord would not destroy Juda, for David his servant, as he had promised him, to give him a lamp to him, & to his children always. {20} In his days revolted Edom, from being under Juda, and made to it-self a king. {21} And Joram came to Seira, and all the chariots with him: and he arose in the night, and struck the Idumeans, that had beset him, and the captains of the chariots, and the people fled into their tabernacles. {22} Edom therefore revolted from being under Juda, until this day. Then Lobna also revolted at that time. {23} But the rest of the words of Joram, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the kings of Juda? {24} And Joram slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of David, and Ochozias his son reigned for him. {25} In the twelfth year of Joram the son of Achab the king of Israel, reigned Ochozias the son of Joram the king of Juda. {26} Two and twenty years old was Ochozias when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Athalia the daughter of Amri the king of Israel {27} And he walked in the ways of the house of Achab: & he did that which is evil before our Lord, as the house of Achab: for he was the son in law of the house of Achab. {28} He went also with Joram the son of Achab, to fight against Hazael the king of Syria in Ramoth Galaad, and the Syrians wounded Joram. {29} Who returned to be cured in Jezrael: because the Syrians wounded him in Ramoth fighting against Hazael the king of Syria. Moreover Ochozias the son of Joram the king of Juda went down to visit Joram the son of Achab into Jezrael, because he was sick there.

Jehu is anointed king of Israel, 7. to destroy the house of Achab and Jezabel. 14. He presently killeth Joram king of Israel. 27. Likewise Ochozias king of Juda. 30. Also Jezabel, who is eaten by dogs.

{1} AND Eliseus the Prophet called one of the children of the Prophets, and said to him: Gird thy loins, and take this little box of oil in thy hand, and go into Ramoth Galaad. {2} And when thou shalt come thither, thou shalt see Jehu the son of Josaphat the son of Namsi: and going in thou shalt raise him out of the midst of his brethren, and shalt bring him into an inner chamber. {3} And holding the little box of oil, thou shalt pour upon his head, and shalt say: Thus saith our Lord: I have anointed thee king over Israel. And thou shalt open the door, and fly, and shalt not stay there. {4} The young man therefore the child of a Prophet went into Ramoth Galaad, {5} and entered in thither: and behold the captains of the army sat, and he said: I have a word to thee o prince: And Jehu said: to whom of us all? But he said: To thee o prince. {6} And he arose, and went into the chamber: but he poured oil upon his head, and said: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: I have anointed thee king over the people of the Lord of, Israel, {7} and thou shalt strike the house of Achab thy master, and I will revenge the blood of my servants the Prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the Lord of the hand of Jezabel. {8} And I will destroy all the house of Achab, and kill of Achab him that pisseth against a wall, and the shut up, and the meanest in Israel. {9} And I will make the house of Achab as the house of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, and as the house of Baasa the son of Ahias. {10} Jezabel also the dogs shall eat in the field of Jezrahel, neither shall there be any to bury her. And he opened the door, & fled. {11} And Jehu went forth to his master's servants. Who said to him: Are all things well? Why came this mad man to thee? Who said to them: You know the man, and what he speake. {12} But they answered: It is false, but rather do thou tell us. Who said to them: Thus and thus he spake to me: and he said: Thus saith our Lord, I have anointed thee king over Israel. {13} They therefore made haste, and every man taking his mantle laid it under his feet after the similitude of a judgment seat, and they sounded the trumpet, & said: Jehu hath the Kingdom. {14} Jehu therefore the son of Josaphat the son of Namsi conspired against Joram: Moreover Joram had besieged Ramoth Galaad, he and all Israel against Hazael the king of Syria: {15} and was returned to be cured in Jezrael of the wounds, for the Syrians had wounded him, fighting against Hazael the king of Syria. And Jehu said: If it please you, let no man go forth fugitive out of the city, lest he go, and tell in Jezrahel. {16} And he mounted, and went into Jezrahel: for Joram was sick there, and Ochozias the king of Juda was come down to visit Joram. {17} The watchman therefore, that stood upon the tower of Jezrahel, saw the troop of Jehu coming, & said: I see a troop. And Joram said: Take a Chariot, and send to meet them, and let him that goeth say: Are all things well? {18} He went therefore, that was gotten up into the chariot, to meet him, and said: Thus saith the king: Are all things peaceable? And Jehu said: What hast thou to do with peace? Pass, and follow me. The watchman also told, saying: The messenger came to them, & returneth not. {19} He sent also the second chariot of horses: and he came to them, & said: Thus saith the king: Is there peace? And Jehu said: What hast thou to do with peace? Pass, & follow me. {20} And the watchman told, saying: He is come as far as they, & returneth not: and it is the pace as it were the pace of Jehu the son of Namsi, for he goeth amain. {21} And Joram said: Make ready the chariot. And they made ready his chariot, and Joram the king of Israel went forth, and Ochozias the king of Juda, each in their chariots, and they went forth to meet Jehu, and found him in the field of Naboth the Jezrahelite. {22} And when Joram had seen Jehu, he said: Is there peace Jehu? But he answered: What peace? The fornications of Jezabel thy mother, and her many sorceries are in their vigour. {23} And Joram turned his hand, and flying said to Ochozias: Treason Ochozias. {24} Moreover Jehu bent his bow with his hand, and struck Joram between the shoulders: and the arrow went out through his heart, & immedately he fell in his chariot. {25} And Jehu said to captain Badacer: Take him, throw him forth in the field of Naboth the Jezrahelite: for I remember when I and thou sitting in a chariot did follow Achab this man's father, that our Lord lifted up this burden upon him, saying: {26} If not for the blood of Naboth, and for the blood of his children, which I saw yesterday, saith our Lord, I requite thee not in this field saith our Lord. Now therefore take him, & throw him into the field according to the word of our Lord. {27} But Ochozias the king of Juda seeing this, fled by the way of the house of the garden: & Jehu pursued him, and said: This man also strike ye in his chariot. And they struck him in the going up of Gaver, which is beside Jeblaam: who fled into Mageddo, and died there. {28} And his servants laid him upon his chariot, and carried him into Jerusalem: and they buried him there in his sepulchre with his fathers in the City of David. {29} In the eleventh year of Joram the son of Achab, reigned Ochozias over Juda, {30} and Jehu came into Jezrahel. Moreover Jezabel hearing of his entrance, painted her face with stibic stone, and decked her head, & beheld through the window {31} Jehu coming at the gate, and said: Can there be peace to Zambri, that killed his master? {32} And Jehu lifted up his face to the window, and said: What is she? And two or three eunuchs bowed themselves to him. {33} But he said to them: Cast her down headlong, and they threw her down and the wall was sprinkled with the blood, and the hoofs of the horses trod her. {34} And when he was entered in to eat and to drink, he said: Go, and see that cursed woman, and bury her: because she is a king's daughter. {35} And when they went to bury her, they found nothing but the skull, and the feet, and the extreme parts of the hands. {36} And returning they told him. And Jehu said: It is the word of our Lord, which he spake by his servant Elias the Thesbite, saying: In the field of Jezrahel shall the dogs eat the flesh of Jezabel. {37} and the flesh of Jezabel shall be as dung upon the face of the earth in the field of Jezrahel, so that they which pass by shall say: Is this that same Jezabel?

The Samaritans fearing the force of Jehu, choose no other king, but offer him their service: 6. and by his commandment kill the late king's seventy sons. 12. Forty two brothers of Ochozias late king of Juda are slain. 15. Jehu making league with Jonadab, utterly destroyeth Achab's house. 18. By a stratagem killeth all the worshippers of Baal, 26. burneth his statua, & turneth his temple into a jakes: 28. but maintaineath Jeroboam's golden calves. 31. The Assyrians afflict Israel. 34. Jehu dieth, and his son Joachaz reigneth.

{1} AND Achab had seventy sons in Samaria: Jehu therefore wrote letters, and sent into Samaria to the chief of the city, and to the ancients, & to them that brought up Achab's children, saying: {2} As soon as you shall receive these letters, ye that have your master's sons, & chariots, & horses, & fenced cities, & armour, {3} choose the better, & him that shall please you of your master's sons, & set him upon his father's throne, & fight for the house of your lord. {4} They were sore afraid, and said: Behold two kings could not stand before him, & how shall we be able to resist? {5} The overseers therefore of the house, and the rulers of the city, & the ancients, & the tutors sent to Jehu, saying: We are thy servants, whatsoever thou shalt command we will do, neither will we make us a king: Do thou whatsoever pleaseth thee. {6} And he wrote letters to them again the second time, saying: If you be mine, and obey me, take the heads of your master's sons, and come to me this very hour to morrow into Jezrahel. Moreover the king's sons, seventy men were brought up with the chief of the city. {7} And when the letters were come to them, they took the king's sons, and slew seventy men, and put their heads in baskets, and sent them to him into Jezrahel. {8} And a messenger came, and told him, saying: They have brought the heads of the king's sons. Who answered: Lay them in two heaps by the entrance of the gate until morning. {9} And when it was light he went forth, and standing said to all the people: You are just: If I have conspired against my master, and have slain him, who hath stricken all these? {10} See therefore now there hath not fallen of the words of our Lord on the ground, which our Lord spake upon the house of Achab, and our Lord hath done that which he spake in the hand of his servant Elias. {11} Jehu therefore smote all that were left of the house of Achab in Jezrahel, and all his nobles, and familiars, and Priests, till there remained no relics of him. {12} And he arose, and came into Samaria: and when he was come to the cabin of the shepherds in the way, {13} he found the brethren of Ochozias the king of Juda, and he said to them: What are you? Who answered: We are the brethren of Ochozias, and are come down to salute the king's sons, & the queen's sons. {14} Who said: Take them alive. Whom when they had taken alive, they killed them in the cistern beside the cabin, two and forty men, & he left not any of them. {15} And when he was gone thence, he found Jonadab the son of Rechab coming to meet him, and he blessed him. And he said to him: Is thy heart right as my heart with thy heart? And Jonadab said: It is. If it be so, quoth he, give me thy hand. Who gave him his hand. But he lifted him up to him into the chariot, {16} and said to him: Come with me, and see my zeal for our Lord. And being set in his chariot, {17} he brought him into Samaria. And he struck all that were left of Achab in Samaria, till there was not one, according to the word of our Lord, which he spake by Elias. {18} Jehu therefore assembled all the people, & said to them: Achab worshipped Baal a little, but I will worship him more. {19} Now therefore call to me all the Prophets of Baal, and all his servants, and all his Priests: let there be none but that he come, for I have a great sacrifice to Baal: He that shall be wanting shall not live. Moreover Jehu did this craftily, that he might destroy the worshippers of Baal. {20} And he said: Sanctify a solemn day to Baal. And he called {21} and sent into all the borders of Israel, and all the servants of Baal came: there was left not one that came not. And they entered into the temple of Baal: and the house of Baal was filled, from one end to the other. {22} And he said to them that were over the garments: Bring forth garments for all the servants of Baal. And they brought them forth garments. {23} And Jehu going in, and Jonadab the son of Rechab into the temple of Baal, said to the worshippers of Baal: Search, and see lest perhaps there be any with you of the servants of the Lord, but that there be the servants of Baal only. {24} They therefore went in to make victims and holocausts: but Jehu had prepared him without fourscore men, and said to them: Whosoever shall escape of these men, whom I will bring into your hands, his life shall be for the life of him. {25} And it came to pass, when the holocaust was ended, Jehu commanded his soldiers and captains: Go in and strike them, let none escape. And the soldiers and captains struck them in the edge of the sword, and cast them forth: and they went into the city of the temple of Baal, {26} and brought forth the statue out of Baal's temple, and burnt it, {27} and brake it in pieces. They destroyed also the temple of Baal, & made a jakes for it until this day. {28} Jehu therefore destroyed Baal out of Israel: {29} but yet from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin, he departed not, neither forsook he the golden calves, that were in Bethel, and Dan. {30} And our Lord said to Jehu: Because thou hast diligently done that which was right, and that pleased in mine eyes, and hast done all things that were in my heart, against the house of Achab: thy children shall sit upon the throne of Israel to the fourth generation. {31} Moreover Jehu observed not to walk in the law of our Lord the God of Israel in all his heart: for he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, who had made Israel to sin. {32} In those days our Lord began to be weary of Israel: and Hazael smote them in all the coasts of Israel, {33} from Jordan against the East quarter, all the land of Galaad, & Gad, & Ruben, & Manasses, from Aroer, which is upon the Torrent Arnon, and Galaad, and Basan. {34} But the rest of the words of Jehu, and all that he did, and his strength, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {35} And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria: and Joachaz his son reigned for him. {36} And the days which Jehu reigned over Israel be eight and twenty years, in Samaria.

Athalia killing all the kings progeny (except Joas, who is saved by his aunt) usurpeth the Kingdom. 4. But the seventh year Joiada the high Priest crowneth Joas king. 13. causeth Athalia to be slain. 17. and makeith covenant between God, the king, and the people.

{1} BUT Athalia the mother of Ochozias seeing her son dead, arose, and slew all the king's seed. {2} But Josaba king Joram's daughter, the sister of Ochozias, taking Joas the son of Ochozias, stole him out of the midst of the king's children, that were slain, and his nurse out of the bed chamber: and hid him from the face of Athalia, that he should not be slain. {3} And he was with her six years secretly in the house of our Lord. Moreover Athalia reigned over the land. {4} And in the seventh year Joiada sent and taking the centurions and the soldiers brought them in to him into the temple of our Lord, and made a covenant with them: and adjuring them in the house of our Lord, shewed them the king's son: {5} and commanded them, saying: This is the thing, which you must do. {6} Let the third part of you go in on the Sabbath, and keep the watch of the king's house. And let a third part be at the gate Sur: and let a third part be at the gate behind the dwelling of the shieldbearers: and you shall keep the watch of the house of Messa. {7} But let two parts of you all that go forth on the Sabbath, keep the watch of the house of our Lord about the king. {8} And you shall guard him round about, having weapons in your hands: and if any man shall enter the precinct of the temple, let him be slain: and you shall be with the king coming in and going out. {9} And the centurions did according to all things, that Joiada the Priest had commanded them: and every one taking their men, that went in on the Sabbath, with them that went out in the Sabbath, came to Joiada the Priest. {10} Who gave them the spears, and the weapons of king David, which were in the house of our Lord. {11} And they stood every one having their weapons in their hand, on the right side of the temple, unto the left side of the altar, and of the temple, about the king. {12} And he brought forth the king's son, and put upon him the diadem, and the covenant: and they made him king, and anointed him: and clapping with the hand, said: God save the king. {13} And Athalia heard the voice of people running: and she going into the multitudes into the temple of our Lord, {14} saw the king standing upon the tribunal seat according to the manner, and the singers, and trumpets near him, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and sounding the trumpets: and she rent her garments, and cried: A conspiracy, a conspiracy. {15} But Joiada commanded the centurions, that were over the army, and said to them: Lead her forth without the precinct of the temple, and whosoever shall follow her, let him be stricken with the sword. For the Priest had said: Let her not be slain in the temple of our Lord. {16} And they laid hands on her: and threw her by the way of the entrance of the horses, beside the palace, and she was slain there. {17} Joiada therefore made a covenant between our Lord, and the king, and between the people, that it should be the people of our Lord, and between the king and the people. {18} And all the people of the land entered into the temple of Baal, and destroyed his altars, and his images they brake in pieces stoutly: Mathan also the priest of Baal they slew before the altar. And the priest set guards in the house of our Lord. {19} And he took the centurions, and the legions of Cerethi and Phelethi, and all the people of the land, and they brought the king from the house of our Lord: and they came by the way of the gate of the shieldbearers into the palace, and he sat upon the throne of the kings. {20} And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet: but Athalia was slain with the sword in the king's house. {21} And Joas was seven years old, when he began to reign.

Joas willeth the Priests to repair what needeth in the temple, receiving all the money offered there. 6. Which they not performing, the high Priest provideth that all is amended. 16. the Priests receiving only the money due to themselves. 17. Hazael king of Syria taking Geth, and threatening Jerusalem is pacified with money. 19. Joas is traitorously slain by his servants, and his son Amasias reigneth.

{1} IN the seventh year of Jehu reigned Joas: and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. The name of his mother was Sebia of Bersabee. {2} And Joas did right before our Lord all the days, that Joiada the Priest taught him. {3} But yet the excelses he took not away: for the people immolated and burnt incense in the excelses. {4} And Joas said to the Priests: All the money of the sanctified things, which is brought into the temple of our Lord by the passengers, which is offered for the price of a soul, and which of their own accord, and of their own free heart they bring into the temple of our Lord: {5} Let the Priests take it according to their order, and maintain reparations of the house, if they shall see any thing that needeth reparation. {6} Therefore until the three and twentieth year of king Joas, the Priests did not make reparations of the temple. {7} And king Joas called Joiada the high Priest and the Priests, saying to them: Why make you not the reparations of the temple? Take you therefore money no more according to your order, but render it to the reparation of the temple. {8} And the Priests were prohibited to take money any more of the people, and to make the reparations of the temple. {9} And Joiada, the high Priest took a treasury, and opened a hole in the top, & set it by the altar at the right hand of them that go into the house of our Lord, and the Priests that kept the doors did cast into it all the money, that was brought to the temple of our Lord. {10} And when they saw that there was very much money in the treasury, the king's scribe, and the high priest went up, and poured it out, and counted the money, that was found in the house of our Lord: {11} and they gave it according to number and measure into their hand, which did oversee the masons of the house of our Lord: who bestowed it on carpenters, and on masons, such as wrought in the house of our Lord, {12} and made reparations: and on them that hewed stones, and that they should buy trees, and stones, that were hewed, so that the reparation of the house of our Lord was accomplished in all things, which had need of cost to up hold the house. {13} But yet there were not made of the same money the water pots of the temple of our Lord, and the fleshhooks, and censers, and trumpets, and every vessel of gold and silver, of the money that was brought into the temple of our Lord. {14} For it was given them that did the work, that the temple of our Lord might be repaired: {15} and there was no account made with those men that received the money to distribute it to the crafts men, but upon their fidelity they bestowed it. {16} But the money for offence, & the money for sins, they brought not into the temple of our Lord, because it was the Priests. {17} Then Hazael the king of Syria went up, & fought against Geth, and took it: and directed his face to go up to Jerusalem. {18} For which cause Joas the king of Juda took all the sanctified things, which Josaphat, and Joram, and Ochozias his fathers the kings of Juda had consecrated, and which himself had offered: and all the silver, that could be found in the treasures of the temple of our Lord, and in the king's palace: and sent it to Hazael the king of Syria, and he retired from Jerusalem. {19} But the rest of the words of Joas, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {20} And his servants arose, & conspired among themselves, and struck Joas in the house of Mello in the descent of Sella. {21} For Josachar the son of Semaath, and Jozabad the son of Somer his servants, struck him, and he died: and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and Amasias his son reigned for him.

Joachaz king of Israel is afflicted by the Syrians, 4. and delivered. 6. Yet destroyeth not idolatry: 8. dieth, and his son Joas followeth his evil steps. 14. Eliseus being sick willeth the king to shoot, 18. and to strike the earth: who striking thrice, is told that he shall thrice strike the Syrians. 20. Eliseus dieth, and a dead man is revived touching his bones. 22. Joas recovereth that which the Syrians had taken from Israel.

{1} IN the three and twentieth year of Joas the son of Ochozias the king of Juda, reigned Joachaz the son of Jehu over Israel in Samaria, seventeen years. {2} And he did evil before our Lord, and followed the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin, and declined not from them. {3} And the fury of our Lord was wrath against Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael the king of Syria, and into the hand of Benadad the son of Hazael, always. {4} But Joachaz besought the face of our Lord, and our Lord heard him: for he saw the distress of Israel, that the king of Syria had broken them: {5} and our Lord gave a saviour to Israel, and they were delivered out of the hand of the king of Syria:

and the children of Israel dwelt in their tabernacles as yesterday and the day before. {6} But yet they departed not from the sins of Jeroboam who made Israel to sin, but they walked in them: for the grove also remained in Samaria. {7} And there were left to Joachaz of the people but fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen: for the king of Syria had slain them, and had brought them as dust by threshing in the barn floor. {8} But the rest of the words of Joachaz, & all that he did, & his strength, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {9} And Joachaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria: and Joas his son reigned for him. {10} In the seven and thirtieth year of Joas the king of Juda, reigned Joas the son of Joachaz over Israel in Samaria sixteen years, {11} and he did that which is evil in the sight of our Lord, he declined not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin, but he walked in them. {12} But the rest of the words of Joas, and all that he did, and his strength, how he fought against Amasias the king of Juda, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {13} And Joas slept with his fathers: but Jeroboam sat upon his throne. Moreover Joas was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel. {14} And Eliseus was sick of an infirmity, whereof also he died: and Joas the king of Israel went down to him, and wept before him, and said: My father, my father, the chariot of Israel and the garder thereof. {15} And Eliseus said to him: fetch a bow and arrows. And when he had brought him a bow and arrows. {16} he said to the king of Israel: Put thy hand upon the bow. And when he had put his hand, Eliseus put his hands over the king's hands, {17} and said: Open the east window. And when he had opened it, Eliseus said: Shoot an arrow. And he shot. And Eliseus said: The arrow of the salvation of our Lord, and the arrow of salvation against Syria: and thou shalt strike Syria in Aphec, till thou consume it. {18} And he said: Take up the arrows. Who when he had taken them again, he said to him: Strike the earth with a javelin. And when he had stricken tree times, and stood still, {19} the man of God was angry with him, & said: If thou hadst stricken five or six or seven times, thou hadst stricken Syria even to destruction: but now three times shalt thou strike it. {20} Eliseus therefore died, and they buried him. And the rovers of Moab came into the land the same year. {21} And certain persons burying a man, saw the rovers, & threw the body in the sepulchre of Eliseus. Which when it had touched the bones of Eliseus, the man revived & stood upon his feet. {22} Hazael therefore the king of Syria afflicted Israel all the days of Joachaz: {23} and our Lord had mercy on them, and returned to them for his covenant, which he had with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob: and he would not destroy them, nor utterly cast them away, until this present time. {24} And Hazael the king of Syria died, and Benadad his son reigned for him. {25} Moreover Joas the son of Joachaz, took the cities out of the hand of Benadad the son of Hazael, which he had taken out of the hand of Joachaz his father by the right of war, three times did Joas strike him, and he delivered the cities to Israel.

Amasias king of Juda killeth those that had slain his father, 7. and striketh Edom. 8. Provoking Joas king of Israel to war, receiveth a contemptible answer: 11. provoking again is beaten in battle, and Jerusalem is ransacked. 15. Joas dieth, and his son Jeroboam followeth the bad steps of the first Jeroboam; yet recovereth many places lost before, and dying his son Zacharias reigneth.

{1} IN the second year of Joas the son of Joachaz the king of Israel reigned Amasias the son of Joas the king of Juda. {2} Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign: and nine & twenty years he reigned in Jerusalem, the name of his mother was Joadan of Jerusalem. {3} And he did right before our Lord, but yet not as David his father. He did according to all things, which Joas his father did: {4} but this only that he took not away the excelses: for yet the people immolated, and burnt incense in the excelses. {5} And when he obtained the Kingdom, he smote his servants, which had slain the king his father: {6} but their children that killed him, he did not put to death, according to that which is written in the book of the law of Moyses, as our Lord commanded, saying: The fathers shall not die for the children, neither shall the children die for the fathers: but every one shall die in his own sin. {7} He smote Edom in the Vale of Salt pits ten thousand, and took the rock in battle, & called the name thereof, Jectehel, until this present day. {8} Then Amasias sent messengers to Joas the son of Joachas, the son of Jehu the king of Israel, saying: Come let us see one an other. {9} And Joas the king of Israel sent again to Amasias the king of Juda saying: A thistle of Libanus sent to a cedar tree, which is in Libanus, saying: Give thy daughter to my son to wife. And the beasts of the forest, that are in Libanus, passed & trod the thistle. {10} Thou striking hast prevailed over Edom, and thy heart hath puffed thee up: be content with the glory, and sit in thy house: Why provokest thou evil, that thou mayst fall & Juda with thee? {11} And Amasias agreed not. And Joas the king of Israel went up, and they saw each other, he & Amasias the king of Juda in Bethsames a town of Juda. {12} And Juda was stricken before Israel, & every man fled into their tabernacles. {13} But Joas the king of Israel did take Amasias the king of Juda the son of Joas, the son of Ochozias, in Bethsames, & brought him into Jerusalem: and he brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the gate of the corner, four hundred cubits. {14} And he took all the gold, and silver, and all the vessels, that were found in the house of our Lord, and in the king's treasures, and hostages, and returned into Samaria. {15} But the rest of the words of Joas which he did, and his strength, wherewith he fought against Amasias the king of Juda, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {16} And Joas slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel: and Jeroboam his son reigned for him. {17} And Amasias the son of Joas the king of Juda lived, after that Joas the son of Joachaz the king of Israel was dead, fifteen years. {18} But the rest of the words of Amasias, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {19} And there was a conspiracy made against him in Jerusalem: But he fled into Lachis. And they sent after him into Lachis, and killed him there. {20} And they carried him away upon horses, and he was buried in Jerusalem with his fathers in the City of David. {21} And all the people of Juda took Azarias sixteen years old, and made him king for his father Amasias. {22} He built Aelath, and restored it to Juda, after that, the king slept with his fathers. {23} In the fifteenth year of Amasias the son of Joas the king of Juda, reigned Jeroboam the son of Joas the king of Israel in Samaria, one and forty years: {24} and he did that which is evil before our Lord. He departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin. {25} He restored the borders of Israel from the entrance of Emath, unto the Sea of the wilderness, according to the word of our Lord the God of Israel, which he spake by his servant Jonas the son of Amathi, the Prophet, who was of Geth, which is in Opher. {26} For our Lord saw the affliction of Israel exceeding bitter, & that they were consumed unto the imprisoned & meanest persons, and that there was none to help Israel. {27} Neither did our Lord determine that he would destroy the name of Israel from under heaven, but he saved them in the hand of Jeroboam the son of Joas. {28} But the rest of the words of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his strength, wherewith he fought, and how he restored Damascus, and Emath to Juda in Israel, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {29} And Jeroboam slept with his fathers the kings of Israel, and Zacharias his son reigned for him.

Azarias beginneth well, 4. afterward (for offering incense on the altar, 2. Paralip. {26.}) is stricken with leprosy, cast out of the temple, and from conversation with the people, his son Joathan ruling the Kingdom. 8. Sellum killeth Zacharias king of Israel and reigneth in his place. 14. After one month Manahem killeth Sellum and reigneth also wickedly. 19. Maketh league with the Syrians, 22. dieth, and his son Phaceia reigneth. 25. Phacee killeth him, and reigneth. 29. The Assirians spoil the country, and carry away many captives. 30. Osee killeth Phacee and reigneth. 32. In the mean time Joathan reigning in Juda is infested with enemies, 38. dieth, and his son Achaz reigneth.

{1} IN the seven and twentieth year of Jeroboam the king of Israel reigned Azarias the son of Amasias the king of Juda. {2} He was sixteen years old, when he began to reign, and two and fifty years he reigned in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Jechelia of Jerusalem. {3} And he did that which was liked before our Lord, according to all things that his father Amasias did {4} But the excuses he destroyed not: as yet the people sacrificed, & burnt incense in the excuses. {5} And our Lord struck the king, and he was a leper until the day of his death, & he dwelt in a free house apart: but Joathan the king's son governed the palace, and judged the people of the land. {6} But the rest of the words of Azarias, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {7} And Azarias slept with his fathers: and they buried him with his ancestors in the city of David, & Joathan his son reigned for him. {8} In the eight and thirtieth year of Azarias the king of Juda, reigned Zacharias the son of Jeroboam over Israel in Samaria six months: {9} and he did that which is evil before our Lord, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin. {10} And Sellum the son of Jabel conspired against him: and smote him openly, killed him, and reigned for him. {11} but the rest of the words of Zacharias, are not these written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {12} This is the word of our Lord, which he spake to Jehu, saying: Thy children shall sit unto the fourth generation upon the throne of Israel. And so it came to pass. {13} Sellum the son of Jabel reigned the nine and thirtieth year of Azarias the King of Juda: and reigned one month in Samaria. {14} And Manahem the son of Gadi went up from Thersa: and he came into Samaria, and smote Sellum the son of Jabel in Samaria, and slew him, and reigned for him. {15} But the rest of the words of Sellum, and his conspiracy, wherewith he wrought treason, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {16} Then Manahem struck Thapsa and all that were in it and the borders thereof from Thersa, for they would not open unto him: and he slew all women thereof that were with child, and ripped them. {17} In the nine and thirtieth year of Azarias the king of Juda, reigned Manahem the son of Gadi over Israel ten years in Samaria. {18} And he did that which was evil before our Lord: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin all his days. {19} Phul also the king of the Assyrians came into the land, and Manahem gave to Phul a thousand talents of silver, that he should aid him, and establish his Kingdom. {20} And Manahem put a tax of silver upon Israel, on them that were mighty and rich to give the king of the Assyrians, fifty sicles of silver every man: and the king of the Assyrians returned, and tarried not in the land. {21} But the rest of the words of Manahem, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {22} And Manahem slept with his fathers: and Phaceia his son reigned for him. {23} In the fiftieth year of Azarias the king of Juda reigned Phaceia the son of Manahem over Israel in Samaria two years: {24} and he did that which was evil before our Lord: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin. {25} And Phacee the son of Romelia, his captain conspired against him, and struck him in Samaria, in the tower of the king's house beside Argob and beside Arie, and with him fifty men of the children of Galaadites, and he slew him, and reigned for him. {26} But the rest of the words of Phaceia and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel. {27} In the two and fiftieth year of Azarias the king of Juda reigned Phacee the son of Romelia over Israel in Samaria twenty years. {28} And he did that which was evil before our Lord: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, who made Israel to sin. {29} In the days of Phacee the king of Israel came Theglathphasar the king of Assur, and took Aion, and Abel, the house of Maachat & Janoe, and Cedes, and Asor, and Galaad, and Galilee, and all the land of Nephthali: and transported them unto the Assyrians. {30} And Osee the son of Ela conspired, and lay in wait against Phacee the son of Romelia, and struck him, and slew him: and he reigned for him the twentieth year of Joatham the son of Ozias {31} But the rest of the words of Phacee, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Israel? {32} In the second year of Phacee the son of Romelia the king of Israel, reigned Joatham the son of Ozias the king of Juda. {33} Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign, and sixteen years he reigned in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Jerusa, the daughter of Sadoc. {34} And he did that which was liked before our Lord: according to all things, which Ozias his father had done, did he work. {35} Howbeit the excelses he took not away: as yet the people immolated, and burnt incense in the excelses: he built the highest gate of the house of our Lord. {36} But the rest of the words of Joatham, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {37} In those days our Lord began to send into Juda, Rasin the king of Syria, and Phacee the son of Romelia. {38} And Joatham slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of David his father, and Achaz his son reigned for him.

Achaz king of Juda besides other idolatry, sacrificeth his own son to idols. 5. The kings of Israel and Syria besieging Jerusalem, the Assyrians are hired to relieve it. 10. Achaz causeth Urias to make an altar like to one in Damascus, 14. in place of God's altar: 17. removeth diverse other things pertaining to divine service, 19. dieth, and his son Ezechias reigneth.

{1} IN the seventeenth year of Phacee the son of Romelia reigned Achaz the son of Joatham king of Juda. {2} Twenty years old was Achaz when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem: he did not that which was pleasing in the sight of our Lord his God, as David his father. {3} But he walked in the way of the kings of Israel: moreover also he consecrated his son, making him pass through fire according to the idols of the Gentiles: which our Lord destroyed before the children of Israel. {4} He immolated also victims, and burnt incense in the excelses, and on the hills, and under every tree full of green leaves. {5} Then went up Rasin the king of Syria, & Phacee the son of Romelia the king of Israel into Jerusalem to fight: and when they besieged Achaz, they were not able to overcome him. {6} At that time Rasin the king of Syria restored Aila to Syria, and threw out the Jews out of Aila: and the Idumeians came into Aila, and dwelt there unto this day. {7} And Achaz sent messengers to Theglathphasar the king of the Assyrians, saying: I am thy servant, and thy son: come up, and save me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and from the hand of the king of Israel, which are risen together against me. {8} And when he had gathered together the silver and gold, that could be found in the house of our Lord, & in the king's treasures, he sent gifts to the king of the Assyrians. {9} Who also agreed to his will: for the King of the Assyrians went up into Damascus, and wasted it: and he transferred the inhabitants thereof to Cyrene, but Rasin he slew. {10} And king Achaz went forth to meet Theglathphasar the king of the Assyrians into Damascus, and when he had seen the altar of Damascus, king Achaz sent to Urias the Priest a pattern of it, and a similitude according to all the work thereof, {11} And Urias the Priest built an altar, according to all things, which king Achaz had commanded, from Damascus, so did the Priest Urias, whilst king Achaz came from Damascus. {12} And when the king was come from Damascus, he saw the altar and worshipped it: and went up and immolated holocausts, and his sacrifice, {13} & offered libaments, & poured the blood of the pacifics, which he had offered upon the altar. {14} Moreover the altar of brass that was before our Lord, he removed from the face of the temple, and from the place of the altar, and from the place of the temple of our Lord: and he set it at the side of the altar toward the North. {15} King Achaz also commanded Urias the Priest, saying: Upon the greater altar offer the morning holocaust, and the evening sacrifice, and the king's holocaust, and his sacrifice, and the holocaust of the whole people of the land, and their sacrifices, and their libaments: and all the blood of the holocaust, and all the blood of the victim thou shalt pour out upon it: but the altar of brass shall be prepared ready at my pleasure. {16} Urias therefore the Priest did according to all things, which king Achaz had commanded him. {17} And king Achaz took the engraven feet, and the lavatory that was upon them: and he took down the sea from the oxen of brass, that held it up, and put it upon the pavement paved with stone. {18} The Musach also of the Sabbath, which he had built in the temple: and the entry of the king outward he turned into the temple of our Lord, because of the king of the Assyrians. {19} But the rest of the words of Achaz, which he did, are not these written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {20} And Achaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of David, and Ezechias his son reigned for him.

Salmanazar king of the Assyrians maketh Osee king of Israel tributary, and perceiving his endeavour to be delivered thereof, imprisoneth him; after three years siege taketh Samaria, and carrieth the people captive into Assyria. 7. All which God permitteth for diverse great sins here recited. 25. The new inhabitants of the country not knowing God, are devoured by lions. Whereupon a true Priest is sent to instruct them: 29. but they leaving the rites of true religion do mix the same with idolatry.

{1} IN the twelfth year of Achaz king of Juda, reigned Osee the son of Ela in Samaria over Israel nine years. {2} And he did evil before our Lord: but not as the kings of Israel, that had been before him. {3} Against him came up Salmanasar king of the Assyrians, and Osee was made servant to him, and paid him tributes. {4} And when the king of the Assyrians had found, that Osee endeavouring to rebel had sent messengers to Sua the king of Aegypt, that he might not pay tributes to the king of the Assyrians, as every year he was accustomed, he besieged him, and cast him bound into prison. {5} And he ranged through all the land: and going up to Samaria, he besieged it three years. {6} And in the ninth year of Osee, the king of Assyrians took Samaria, and transferred Israel unto the Assyrians: and he put them in Hala, & in Habor beside the river of Gozan, in the cities of the Medes. {7} For it came to pass, when the children of Israel had sinned to our Lord their God, which brought them out of the land of Aegypt, & out of the hand of Pharao the king of Aegypt, they worshipped strange gods. {8} And they walked according to the rite of the Gentiles, which our Lord had consumed in the sight of the children of Israel, & of the kings of Israel: because they had done in like manner. {9} And the children of Israel offended our Lord their God with words not right: & built them excelses in all their cities from the Tower of watchmen unto the fenced city. {10} And they made them statues & groves on every high hill, & under every thick woody tree: {11} & burnt there incense upon the altars after the manner of the Gentiles, which our Lord removed from their face: & they did wicked things, provoking our Lord. {12} And they worshipped the filths, whereof our Lord commanded them that they should not do this thing. {13} And our Lord testified in Israel and in Juda by the hand of all the Prophets & Seers, saying: Return from your most wicked ways, and keep my precepts and ceremonies, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers: and as I have sent to you in the hand of my servants the Prophets. {14} Who heard not, but hardened their neck according to the neck of their fathers, who would not obey our Lord their God. {15} And they cast away his ordinances, and the covenant that he made with their fathers, and the testifications, wherewith he contested them: and they followed vanities, and did vainly: and they followed the Gentiles, that were round about them, concerning which our Lord had commanded them, that they should not do as they did. {16} And they forsook all the precepts of our Lord their God: and made to themselves two molten calves, and groves, and adored all the host of heaven: and they served Baal, {17} and consecrated their sons, and their daughters through fire: and they gave themselves to divinations, and soothsayings: and they delivered up themselves to do evil before our Lord, that they might provoke him. {18} And our Lord was wrath with Israel vehemently, and took them away from his sight, and there remained but the tribe of Juda only. {19} But neither Juda it self kept the commandments of our Lord their God: but walked in the errors of Israel, which it had wrought. {20} And our Lord rejected all the seed of Israel, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of the spoilers, till he threw them away from his face: {21} even now from that time, when Israel was rent from the house of David, and made Jeroboam the son of Nabat their king: for Jeroboam separated Israel from our Lord, and made them sin a great sin. {22} And the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam, which he had done: and they departed not from them, {23} until our Lord took away Israel from his face, as he had spoken in the hand of all his servants the Prophets: and Israel was transported out of their land unto the Assyrians, until this day. {24} And the king of the Assyrians brought from Babylon, and from Cutha, and from Avah, and from Emath, and from Sepharvaim: and placed them in the cities of Samaria for the children of Israel: who possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. {25} And when they began to dwell there, they feared not our Lord: and our Lord sent lions upon them, which killed them. {26} And it was told the king of the Assyrians, and said: The nations, which thou hast transferred, and made to dwell in the cities of Samaria, know not the ordinances of the God of the land: and the Lord hath sent lions upon them: and behold they kill them, for that they know not the rite of the God of the land. {27} And the king of the Assyrians commanded, saying: Bring thither one of the Priests, which you brought thence captive, and let him go, and dwell with them: and let him teach them the ordinances of the God of the land. {28} Therefore when one of those Priests, which were led captive from Samaria, was come, he dwelt in Bethel, and taught them how they should worship our Lord. {29} And every Nation framed their own God, and put them in the high temples, which the Samaritans had made, Nation and Nation in their cities, where they dwelt. {30} For the men of Babylon made Socothbenoth: and the Cuthites made Nergel: and the men of Emath made Asima. {31} Moreover the Hevites made Nebahaz and Tharthac. And they that were of Sepharvaim burnt their children in fire, to Adramelech, and Anamelech the gods of Sepharvaim, {32} and nevertheless they worshipped our Lord. And they made to themselves of the vilest persons Priests of the excelses, and they placed them in the high temples. {33} And when they worshipped our Lord, they served also their own gods according to the custom of the Nations out of the which they were transported to Samaria: {34} until this present day they follow the old manner: they fear not our Lord, neither keep they his ceremonies, and judgments, and law, and the commandment, which our Lord commanded the children of Jacob, whom he surnamed Israel: {35} and he had made a covenant with them, and had commanded them, saying: Fear not strange gods, and adore them not, neither worship them, and immolate not to them. {36} But the Lord your God, which brought you out of the Land of Aegypt in great strength, and a stretched out arm, him fear ye, and him adore, and to him do ye immolate. {37} The ceremonies also, and judgments, and law, and the commandment, that he wrote you, keep ye, that you may do them always: and fear not strange gods. {38} And the covenant, that he made with you, forget not: neither do ye worship strange gods, {39} but fear our Lord your God, and he will deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies. {40} But they heard not, but did according to their old custom. {41} These Nations therefore were fearing our Lord, but nevertheless serving their idols also: for both their children and nephews, as their fathers did, so do they until this present day.

Ezechias destroyeth all place of idolatry in Juda, breaking also the brazen serpent, made by Moyses, because the people offered incense to it. 9. The captivity of the ten tribes is repeated. 13. Ezechias not able to resist the Assyrians payeth much money to them. 17. They nevertheless send forces against Jerusalem, reproach the king, blaspheme God, and terrify the people.

{1} IN the third year of Osee the son of Ela king of Israel, reigned Ezechias the son of Achaz king of Juda. {2} Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign: and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Abi the daughter of Zacharias. {3} And he did that which was good before our Lord, according to all things which David his father had done. {4} He destroyed the excelses, and brake the statues in pieces, and cut down the groves, and brake the brazen serpent, which Moyses had made: for until that time the children of Israel burnt incense to it: and he called the name thereof Nohestan. {5} He trusted in our Lord the God of Israel: Therefore after him there was not the like to him in all the kings of Juda, yea neither among them that were before him: {6} and he cleaved to our Lord, and departed not from his steps, and he did his commandments, which our Lord commanded Moyses. {7} Wherefore our Lord also was with him, and in all things, to the which he proceeded, he behaved himself wisely. He rebelled also against the king of the Assyrians, and served him not. {8} He struck the Philistines as far as Gaza, and all the borders, from the Tower of watchmen unto the fenced city. {9} In the fourth year of king Ezechias, which was the seventh year of Osee the son of Ela the king of Israel, came up Salmanasar the king of the Assyrians into Samaria, and assaulted it, {10} and took it. For after three years, in the sixth year of Ezechias, that is, the ninth year of Osee the king of Israel, Samaria was taken: {11} and the king of the Assyrians transported Israel unto the Assyrians, and placed them in Hala, and in Habor, rivers of Gozan in the cities of the Medes: {12} because they heard not the voice of our Lord their God, but transgressed his covenant: all things, that Moyses the servant of our Lord commanded, they heard not, neither did they it. {13} In the fourteenth year of king Ezechias, came up Sennacherib the king of Assyrians to all the fenced cities of Juda: and took them. {14} Then sent Ezechias the king of Juda messengers to the king of the Assyrians into Lachis, saying: I have sinned, retire from me: and all that thou shalt put upon me, I will bear. Therefore the king of the Assyrians put a tax upon Ezechias the king of Juda, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold. {15} And Ezechias gave all the silver that was found in the house of our Lord, and in the king's treasures. {16} At that time Ezechias brake the doors of the temple of our Lord, and the plates of gold, which he had fastened on them, and gave them to the king of the Assyrians. {17} But the king of the Assyrians sent Tharthan, and Rabsaris, and Rabsaces from Lachis to king Ezechias, with a strong power to Jerusalem: who when they were come up they came to Jerusalem, and stood beside the conduit of the upper pool, which is in the way of the fuller's field. {18} And they called the king: and there went out to them Eliacim the son of Helcias governor of the house and Soba the Scribe and Joahe the son of Asaph, the register. {19} And Rabsaces said to them: Speak to Ezechias: Thus saith the great king, the king of Assyrians: What is this confidence, that thou doest stay upon? {20} Perhaps thou hast taken counsel to prepare thy self to battle. Wherein hast thou confidence, that thou darest to rebel? {21} Dost thou hope in Aegypt, a staff of reed & broken, upon which if a man lean, broken into splinters it will enter into his hand, & pierce it? So is Pharao the king of Aegypt, to all that have confidence in him. {22} But if you will say to me: We have confidence in our Lord God: is not this he, whose excelses and altars Ezechias hath taken away: & he commanded Juda and Jerusalem: Before this altar shall you adore in Jerusalem? {23} Now therefore pass to my lord the king of the Assyrians, & I will give you two thousand horses, and see whether you be able to have riders for them. {24} And how can you resist before one prince of the least servants of my lord? Hast thou confidence in Aegypt for the chariots and horsemen? {25} Why, am I come up without the will of the Lord to destroy it? The Lord said to me: Go up to this land, and destroy it. {26} And Eliacim the son of Helcias, and Sobna, and Joahe said to Rabsaces: We pray thee that thou speak to us thy servants in Syriac: for we understand this tongue: and speak not to us in the Jews' language, the people hearing it, which is upon the wall. {27} And Rabsaces answered them, saying: What, did my lord send me to thee, that I should speak these words, & not rather to the men that sit upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their urine with you? {28} Rabsaces therefore stood, and cried out with a loud voice in the Jews' language, & said: Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of the Assyrians. {29} Thus saith the king: Let not Ezechias seduce you: for he shall not be able to deliver you out of my hand. {30} Neither let him give you confidence upon the Lord, saying: Our Lord delivering will deliver us, and this city shall not be given into the hand of the king of the Assyrians. {31} Do not hear Ezechias. For thus saith the king of the Assyrians: Do with me that which is profitable for you, and come forth to me: & every man shall eat of his vineyard, & of his fig tree: and you shall drink waters of your own cisterns, {32} till I come, & transport you into a land, that is like to your land, into a fruitful land, and plentiful of wine, a land of bread and of vineyards, a land of olivets & of oil and honey, and you shall live, and shall not die. Hear not Ezechias, who deceiveth you, saying: Our Lord will deliver us. {33} Did the gods of Nations deliver their land from the hand of the king of Assyrians? {34} Where is the god of Emath & Arphad? Where is the god of Sepharvaim, of Ana, and Ava? Did they deliver Samaria out of my hand? {35} What are they among all the gods of nations, which have delivered their country out of my hand, that the Lord can deliver Jerusalem out of my hand? {36} The people therefore held their peace, and did not answer him any thing: for they had received the king's commandment that they should not answer him. {37} And Eliacim the son of Helcias, governor of the house, and Sobna the scribe, and Joahe the son of Asaph register came to Ezechias, their garments rent, and told him the words of Rabsaces.

Ezechias in affliction requesteth the prayers of Isaia the Prophet. 6. Who assureth him of God's help. 8. The king of the Assyrians still threateneth and blasphemeth. 15. Ezechias prayeth. 20. and God hearing the prayers of the one, and blasphemies of the other, 28. promiseth to protect Jerusalem. 35. An Angel in one night killeth an hundred four score and five thousand of the Assyrian's camp, their king returneth to Nineve, is there slain by two of his sons, and an other son reigneth in his place.

{1} WHICH things when Ezechias the king had heard, he rent his garments, and was covered with sackcloth, and entered into the house of our Lord. {2} And he sent Eliacim the governor of the house, and Sobna the scribe, & the ancients of the Priests covered with sackcloths, to Isaia the Prophet the son of Amos. {3} Who said to him: Thus saith Ezechias: This day is a day of tribulation, and rebuke, and of blasphemy: the children are come to the birth, and the woman in travail hath not strength. {4} If perhaps our Lord thy God will hear all the words of Rabsaces, whom the king of the Assyrians his master hath sent to upbraid the living God, and reprove with words, which our Lord thy God hath heard: and make thou prayer for the remnants that are found. {5} The servants thereof of king Ezechias came to Isaia. {6} And Isaie said to them: Thus shall you say to your master: Thus saith our Lord: Fear not for the words, which thou hast heard, with which the servants of the king of the Assyrians have blasphemed me. {7} Behold I will send into him a spirit, and he shall hear a message, and shall return into his country, and I will overthrow him with the sword in his country. {8} Rabsaces therefore returned, and found the king of Assyrians expugning Lobna: for he heard that he was departed from Lachis. {9} And when he had heard of Tharaca the king of Aethiopia, saying: Behold, he is come forth to fight against thee: and went against him, he sent messengers to Ezechias, saying: {10} Say this to Ezechias the king of Juda: Let not thy God seduce thee, in whom thou hast confidence: neither say thou: Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hands of the king of the Assyrians. {11} For thou thy self hast heard what the kings of the Assyrians have done to all the countries, how they have spoiled them, canst thou therefore only be delivered? {12} Why, have the gods of the Nations delivered all those, whom my fathers have destroyed, to wit, Gozan and Haran, and Reseph, and the children of Eden, which were in Thelassar? {13} Where is the king of Emath, and the king of Arphad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Ana and Ava? {14} Therefore when Ezechias had received the letters of the hand of messengers, and had read them, he went up into the house of our Lord, and laid them open before our Lord, {15} and prayed in his sight, saying: Lord God of Israel, which sittest upon the cherubins, thou art the only God of all the kings of the earth: thou madest heaven and earth: {16} Incline thine ear, and hear: open Lord thine eyes, and see: and hear all the words of Sennacherib, who hath sent to upbraid unto us the living God. {17} In very deed Lord, the kings of the Assyrians have destroyed Nations, and the countries of all. {18} And they have cast their gods into fire: for they were not gods, but the works of men's hands of wood and stone, and they destroyed them. {19} Now therefore, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, that all the Kingdoms of the earth may know, that thou art the Lord the only God. {20} And Isaie the son of Amos sent to Ezechias, saying: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: That which thou hast besought me concerning Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians, I have heard. {21} This is the word that our Lord hath spoken of him: The virgin daughter of Sion hath despised thee, & scorned thee: Behind thy back hath the daughter of Jerusalem wagged her head. {22} Whom hast thou upbraided, & whom hast thou blasphemed? Against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes in high? Against the holy one of Israel. {23} By the hand of thy servants thou hast upbraided our Lord, and hast said: In the multitude of my chariots have I climbed the height of mountains, in the top of Libanus, and have cut down high cedars thereof, and the chosen fir-trees of it. And I have entered into the borders thereof, & the forest of the Carmel thereof {24} have I cut down. And I have drunk strange waters, and have dried up with the steps of my feet all the waters inclosed. {25} Why, hast thou not heard what I have done from the beginning? From ancient days I have made that thing, and now I have brought it to effect: and fenced cities shall be into ruin of little hills bickering together. {26} And they that sit in them, weak of hand, they have trembled & are confounded, they became as the grass of the field, and the green herb of the roofs of houses, which withered before it came to ripeness. {27} Thy habitation, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy way I have known before, and thy fury against me. {28} Thou hast been mad against me, and thy pride hath ascended into mine ears: I therefore will put a ring in thy nostrils, and a bit in thy lips, and will bring thee back into the way, by the which thou camest. {29} And to thee Ezechias this shall be a sign: Eat this year what thou shalt find: and in the second year, the things that grow of themselves: moreover in the third year sow ye and reap: plant ye vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. {30} And whatsoever shall be left of the house of Juda, shall take root downward, and bear fruit upward. {31} For out of Jerusalem there shall remnants go forth, and that which is to be saved from the mount of Sion: the zeal of the Lord of hosts shall do this. {32} Wherefore thus saith our Lord, of the king of the Assyrians: He shall not enter into this city, nor shoot arrow into it, neither shall shield occupy it, nor munition compass it. {33} By the way, that he came, he shall return: and into this city he shall not enter, saith our Lord. {34} And I will protect this city, and will save it for my self, and for David my servant. {35} It came to pass therefore in that night, an Angel of our Lord came, and struck in the camp of the Assyrians an hundred eighty five thousand. And when he was risen early, he saw all the bodies of the dead, {36} and Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians departing went away, and tarried in Ninive. {37} And when he adored in the temple of Nesroch his god, Adramelech and Sarasar his sons struck him with the sword, and they fled into the land of the Armenians, and Asarhaddon his son reigned for him.

Ezechias being sick is told by Isaia that he shall die: but praying to God obtaineth fifteen years longer life. 8. and in confirmation thereof receiveth a sign in Achaz dial, returning back ten lines. 12. To the Assyrians bringing him presents, he sheweth all his treasures. 16. Which Isaia reprobating Prophesieth the captivity of Juda. 20. Ezechias dieth, and his son Manasses reigneth.

{1} IN those days Ezechias was sick even to death: & Isaie the son of Amos the prophet came and said to him: Thus saith our Lord God: Take order with thy house, for thou shalt die, and shalt not live. {2} Who turned his face to the wall, and prayed our Lord, saying: {3} I beseech thee Lord, remember I pray thee how I have walked before thee in truth, and in a perfect heart, and have done that which is liked before thee. Ezechias therefore wept with great weeping. {4} And before Isaie was gone out of the midst of the court, the word of our Lord came to him, saying: {5} Return, and tell Ezechias the Prince of my people: Thus saith our Lord the God of David thy father: I have heard thy prayer, and seen thy tears: and behold I have healed thee, the third day thou shalt go up to the temple of the Lord. {6} And I will add to thy days fifteen years: yea & out of the hand of the king of Assyrians I will deliver thee, and this city, and I will protect this city for my sake, and for David my servant. {7} And Isaie said: Fetch me a bunch of figs. Which when they had brought, and had laid it upon his sore, he was cured. {8} And Ezechias had said to Isaie: What sign shall there be, that our Lord will heal me, and that I shall go up the third day to the temple of our Lord? {9} To whom Isaie said: This shall be the sign from our Lord, that our Lord will do the word, which he hath spoken: Wilt thou that the shadow go forward ten times, or that it go back so many degrees. {10} And Ezechias said: It is an easy matter for the shadow to go forward ten times, neither will I that this be done, but that it return back ten degrees. {11} Isaie therefore the Prophet invoked our Lord, & brought back the shadow by the lines, by the which it was now gone down in the dial of Achaz, backward ten degrees. {12} In that time Berodach Baladan, the son of Baladan, the king of the Babylonians sent letters & gifts to Ezechias: for he had heard that Ezechias had been sick. {13} And Ezechias rejoiced in their coming, and he shewed them the house of aromatical spices, and gold and silver, and diverse precious odours, ointments also, and the house of his vessels, and all that he had in his treasures. There was not any thing which Ezechias shewed them not in his house, and in all his power. {14} And Isaie the Prophet came to king Ezechias, and said to him: What said these men? Or from whence came they to thee? To whom Ezechias said: From a far country they came to me out of Babylon. {15} But he answered: What saw they in thy house? Ezechias said: They saw all things whatsoever are in my house: there is nothing that I have not shewed them in my treasures. {16} Isaie therefore said to Ezechias, hear the word of our Lord: {17} Behold the days shall come, and all things shall be taken away, that are in thy house, and that thy fathers have laid up until this day, into Babylon: there shall not any thing remain, saith our Lord. {18} Yea of the children also that come forth of thee, whom thou shalt beget shall be taken away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon. {19} Ezechias said to Isaie: The word of our Lord which thou hast spoken is good: be there peace and truth in my days. {20} But the rest of the words of Ezechias, and all his strength, and how he made a pool, & a conduit, & brought waters into the city, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {21} And Ezechias slept with his

For the enormous impiety of Manasses, 10. God threateneth destruction of the Kingdom. 16. He spilleth innocent blood. 18. dieth, and his son Amon reigneth also wickedly, 23. is slain by his servants, and his son Josias reigneth.

{1} TWELVE years old was Manasses, when he began to reign, & he reigned five and fifty years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Haphsiba. {2} And he did evil in the sight of our Lord, according to the idols of the Nations, which our Lord destroyed from the face of the children of Israel: {3} And he was turned, and built the excelles, which Ezechias his father had destroyed: and he set up altars to Baal, and made groves, as Achab the king of Israel had done: and he adored all the host of heaven, and worshipped it. {4} And he built altars in the house of our Lord, of the which our Lord said: In Jerusalem I will put my name. {5} And he built altars to all the host of heaven in the two courts of the temple of our Lord. {6} And he made his son pass through fire: and he used soothsaying, and observed divinations, and made pythons, and multiplied inchancers, to do evil before our Lord, & to provoke him. {7} He set also the idol of the grove, which he had made in the temple of our Lord: concerning the which our Lord spake to David, and to Salomon his son: In this temple, & in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put my name for ever. {8} And I will no more make the foot of Israel to be moved out of the land, which I gave to their fathers: yet so if in work they shall keep all things that I have commanded them, & all the law which my servant Moyses commanded them. {9} But they heard not: but were seduced by Manasses, to do evil above the Nations, which our Lord destroyed before the face of the children of Israel {10} And our Lord spake in the hand of his servants the Prophets, saying: {11} Because Manasses the king of Juda hath done these most wicked abominations, passing all things that the Amorrites did before him, and hath made Juda also to sin in his filths: {12} therefore thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Behold I will bring in evils upon Jerusalem and Juda: that whosoever shall hear it, both his ears shall tingle. {13} And I will stretch out upon Jerusalem the cord of Samaria, and the weight of the house of Achab: and I will wipe out Jerusalem, as tables are wont to be wiped out, and wiping out I will turn it, and draw often the pencil upon the face thereof. {14} But I will leave remnants of mine inheritance, and will deliver them into the hands of their enemies: and they shall be unto waste, and unto spoil to all their adversaries: {15} because they have done evil before me, and have continued provoking me, from the day that their fathers came out of Aegypt, until this day. {16} Moreover Manasses shed also innocent blood exceeding much, till he filled Jerusalem even to the mouth: beside his sins, wherein he made Juda to sin, to do evil before our Lord. {17} But the rest of the words of Manasses, and all that he did, and his sin, which he sinned, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {18} And Manasses slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his house, in the garden of Oza: and Amon his son reigned for him. {19} Two and twenty years old was Amon when he began to reign: two years also he reigned in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Messalemeth the daughter of Jeteba. {20} And he did evil in the sight of our Lord, as Manasses his father had done. {21} And he walked in all the way, by the which his father had walked: and he served the filths, which his father had served, and he adored them, {22} and forsook our Lord the God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of our Lord. {23} And his servants lay in wait against him, and slew the king in his house. {24} But the people of the land struck all them, that had conspired against king Amon: and made Josias his son their king for him. {25} But the rest of the words of Amon which he did, are not these written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {26} And they buried him in his sepulchre, in the garden of Oza: and Josias his son reigned for him.

Josias repaireth the temple, and Divine service. 8. The book of law is found, 11. whereupon they consult our Lord, 15. and are foretold that much evil shall fall upon them, 18. but the good king shall die in peace.

{1} EIGHT years old was Josias when he began to reign, he reigned one & thirty years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Idida, the daughter of Hadaia of Besecath. {2} And he did that which was liked before our Lord, and walked in all the ways of David his father: he declined not to the right hand, or to the left. {3} And in the eighteenth year of king Josias, the king sent Saphan the son of Aslia, the son of Messulam, the scribe of the temple of our Lord, saying to him: {4} Go to Helcias the high Priest, that the money may be gathered into a sum, which hath been brought into the temple of our Lord, which the porters of the temple have gathered of the people, {5} and let it be given to the workmen by the overseers of the house of our Lord, who also shall distribute it to them that work in the temple of our Lord, to make the reparations of the temple: {6} that is, to the carpenters and masons, and to them that mend broken places: and that timber may be bought, and stones out of the quarries, to repair the temple of our Lord. {7} Yet let not the money which they receive be accounted to them, but let them have it in their power, and upon their fidelity. {8} And Helcias the high Priest said to Saphan the scribe: I have found the Book of the law in the house of our Lord: and Helcias gave the volume to Saphan, who also did read it. {9} Saphan also the scribe came to the king, and reported unto him that which he had commanded, and said: Thy servants have gathered into a sum the money, which is found in the house of our Lord: and they have given it to be distributed to the workmen, by the overseers of the works of the temple of our Lord. {10} Saphan also the scribe told the king, saying: Helcias the priest hath given me a Book. Which when Saphan had read before the king, {11} and the king had heard the words of the law of our Lord, he rent his garments. {12} And he willed Helcias the Priest, and Ahicam the son of Saphan, and Achobor the son of Micha, and Saphan the Scribe, and Asaia the king's servant, saying: {13} Go and consult our Lord for me, and for the people, and for all Juda, concerning the words of this volume, which is found: for the great wrath of our Lord is kindled against us: because our fathers have not heard the words of this Book, to do all that is written for us. {14} Helcias therefore the Priest, and Ahicam, and Achobor, and Saphan, and Asaia went to Holda a prophetess, the wife of Sellum, the son of Thecua, the son of Araas keeper of the garments, who dwelt in Jerusalem in the second: and they spake to her. {15} And she answered them: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Tell the man, that sent you to me: {16} Thus saith our Lord: Behold, I will bring evils upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, all the words of the law which the king of Juda hath read: {17} because they have forsaken me, and have sacrificed to strange gods, provoking me in all the works of their hands: and my indignation shall be kindled in this place, and shall not be quenched. {18} But to the king of Juda, that sent you to consult our Lord, thus you shall say: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: For that thou hast heard the words of the volume, {19} and thy heart is stricken with fear, and thou art humbled before the Lord, hearing the words against this place, and the inhabitants thereof, to wit, that they should become a wonder and a curse: and hast rent thy garments, and wept before me, and I have heard it, saith our Lord: {20} therefore I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered to thy sepulchre in peace, that thy eyes may not see all the evils, which I will bring in upon this place.

Josias reading the law before the people, they all promise to serve God. 4. All things belonging to Idolatry are cast forth of the temple, 8. and other places of Juda. 15. He also destroyeth the altar in Bethel (not removing the bones of a Prophet) 19. and other altars in Samaria: killeth the false Priests. 21. And maketh a notorious great Pasch. 26. Yet God threateneth the captivity of Juda for their sins. 29. Josias is slain in battle by the king of Aegypt: and his son Joachaz reigneth. Who after three months is deposed by the king of Aegypt, and his brother Eliacim, henceforth called Joakin, made king.

{1} AND they reported to the king that which she had said. Who sent: and all the ancients of Juda and Jerusalem were assembled to him. {2} And the king went up to the temple of our Lord, & all the men of Juda, and all that dwelt in Jerusalem with him Priests and Prophets, and all the people from little to great: and in hearing of all he read all the words of the Book of the covenant, which was found in the house of our Lord. {3} And the king stood upon the step: and made a covenant with our Lord, to walk after our Lord, and keep his precepts, and testimonies, and ceremonies, with all their heart, and with all their soul, and to perform the words of this covenant, which were written in that Book: and the people agreed to the covenant: {4} And the king willed Helcias the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and all the porters that they should cast out of the temple of our Lord all the vessels that had been made to Baal, and in the grove, and to all the host of heaven: & he burnt them without Jerusalem in the Valley cedron, and carried the dust of them into Bethel. {5} And he destroyed the Soothsayers, which the kings of Juda had appointed to sacrifice in the excelses in the cities of Juda, and round about Jerusalem: and them that burnt incense to Baal, and to the Sun, and to the Moon, and to the twelve signs, and to all the host of heaven. {6} And he caused the grove to be carried forth out of the house of our Lord without Jerusalem in the Valley cedron, and he burnt it there, and brought it into dust, and threw it upon the sepulchres of the common people. {7} He destroyed also the little houses of the effeminate, which were in the house of our Lord, for the which the women wove as it were little houses of the grove. {8} And he gathered together all the priests of the cities of Juda: and he contaminated the excelses, where the priests did sacrifice from Gabaa unto Bersabee: and he destroyed the altars of the gates in the entrance of the door of Josue chief of the city, which was on the left hand of the gate of the city. {9} Howbeit the priests of the excelses went not up to the altar of our Lord in Jerusalem: but only they did eat azymes in the midst of their brethren. {10} He contaminated also Topheth, which is in the Valley of the son of Ennom: that no man should consecrate his son or daughter by fire to Moloch. {11} He took away also the horses, which the kings of Juda had given to the sun, in the entrance of the temple of our Lord, beside the chamber of Nathannelech the eunuch, who was in Pharurim: and the chariots of the sun he burnt with fire. {12} The altars also that were upon the roofs of the upper chamber of Achaz, which the kings of Juda had made, and the altars which Manasses had made in the two courts of the temple of our Lord, the king destroyed: and he ran from thence, and sprinkled the ashes of them into the Torrent cedron. {13} The excelses also that were in Jerusalem, on the right side of the Mount of offence, which Salomon the king of Israel had built to Astaroth the idol of the Sidonians, and to Chamos the scandal of Moab, and to Melchom the abomination of the children of Ammon, the king destroyed. {14} And he brake in pieces the statues, and cut down the groves: and he filled their places with the bones of dead men. {15} Moreover the altar also, that was in Bethel, and the excelse, which Jeroboam the son of Nabat had made, who made Israel to sin: and that altar, and excelse he destroyed, and burnt, and brake into powder, and the grove also he burnt. {16} And Josias turning, saw there sepulchres, that were in the mount: and he sent & took the bones out of the sepulchres, and burnt them upon the altar, & polluted it according to the word of our Lord, which the man of God spake, who had foretold these things. {17} And he said: What title is that, which I see? And the citizens of that city answered: It is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came from Juda, and foretold these things which thou hast done upon the altar of Bethel.

{18} And he said: Let him alone, let no man move his bones. And his bones remained untouched with the bones of the Prophet, that came out of Samaria. {19} Moreover all the temples of the excelses, which were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to provoke our Lord, Josias took away: and he did to them according to all the works, which he had done in Bethel. {20} And he slew all the Priests of the excelses, that were there upon the altars: and he burnt men's bones upon them: and turned into Jerusalem. {21} And he commanded all the people, saying: Make a Phase to our Lord your God, according as it is written in the Book of this covenant. {22} For there was not such a Phase made from the days of the Judges, which judged Israel, and of all the days of the kings of Israel, and of the kings of Juda. {23} as in the eighteenth year of king Josias this Phase was made to our Lord in Jerusalem. {24} Yea and the Pythons, and Soothsayers, and the images of idols, and the filths, and the abominations, that had been in the land of Juda and Jerusalem, Josias took away: that he might establish the words of the law, that were written in the Book, which Helcias the Priest found in the temple of our Lord. {25} There was no king before him like to him, that turned to our Lord in all his heart, and in all his soul, and in all his power according to all the law of Mosyes: neither after him did there arise the like to him. {26} But yet our Lord was not averted from the wrath of his great fury, wherewith his fury was wrath against Juda for the provocations, wherewith Manasses had provoked him. {27} Our Lord therefore said: Juda also will I take away from my face, as I have taken away Israel: and I will relict this city, which I chose, Jerusalem, and the house whereof I said: My name shall be there. {28} But the rest of the words of Josias, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? {29} In his days came up Pharao Necho the king of Aegypt, against the king of Assyrians to the river Euphrates: and Josias the king went to meet him: and was slain in Mageddo, when he had seen him. {30} And his servants carried him dead from Mageddo: & they brought him into Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre. And the people of the land took Joachaz the son of Josias: and they anointed him, and made him king for his father. {31} Three and twenty years old was Joachaz when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Amital, the daughter of Jeremie of Lobna. {32} And he did evil before our Lord, according to all things which his fathers had done. {33} And Pharao Necho bound him in Rebla, which is in the land Emath, that he should not reign in Jerusalem: and he set a penalty upon the land, an hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. {34} And Pharao Necho made Eliacim king, the son of Josias, for Josias his father: and turned his name Joakim. Moreover he took Joachaz and brought him into Aegypt, and he died there. {35} And Joakim gave the silver and the gold to Pharao, when he had taxed the land upon every man, that it might be paid according to the precept of Pharao: and he exacted of every man according to his ability, as well silver as gold of the people of the land: to give unto Pharao Necho. {36} Five and twenty years old was Joakim, when he began to reign: and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Zebida the daughter of Phadaia of Ruma. {37} And he did evil before our Lord according to all things, which his fathers had done.

Joakin serveth the king of Babylon three years. 2. Many rovers infest his country. 5. He dieth, and his son Joachin reigneth. 10. The king of Babylon carrieth king Joachin, and all the chief persons and treasures into Babylon. 17. appointing Matthania, whom he nameth Sedecias, king of Juda. 20. Who revolteth from the king of Babylon.

{1} IN his days came up Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, and Joakim was made his servant three years: and he rebelled against him again. {2} And our Lord sent in upon him the rovers of the Chaldees, and the rovers of Syria, and the rovers of Moab, and the rovers of the children of Ammon: and he sent them into

Juda, to destroy it, according to the word of our Lord, which he had spoken by his servants the Prophets. {3} And this by the word of our Lord was done against Juda, to take it away before him for all the sins of Manasses which he did, {4} and for the innocent blood, that he had shed, and filled Jerusalem with the blood of innocents: and for this thing God would not be made propitious. {5} But the rest of the words of Joakim, and all that he did, are not these things written in the Book of the words of the days of the kings of Juda? And Joakim slept with his fathers. {6} And Joachin his son reigned for him. {7} And the king of Aegypt added no more to come out of his country: for the king of Babylon had taken all that had been the king's of Aegypt, from the river of Aegypt, unto the river Euphrates. {8} Eighteen years old was Joachin when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Nohesta the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. {9} And he did evil before our Lord, according to all things which his father had done. {10} And that time came up the servants of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon into Jerusalem, & the city was compassed with forts. {11} And Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon came to the city with his servants to assault it. {12} And Joachin the king of Juda went forth to the king of Babylon, he and his mother, and his servants, and his nobles, and his eunuchs: and the king of Babylon received him the eighth year of his reign. {13} And he brought forth from thence all the treasures of the house of our Lord, and the treasures of the king's house: & he cut in pieces all the golden vessels, which Salomon the king of Israel had made in the temple of our Lord, according to the word of our Lord. {14} And he transported all Jerusalem, & all the Princes, and all the strong men of the army, ten thousand into captivity and every artificer & incloser: and nothing was left, saving the poor sort of the people of the land. {15} He transported also Joachin into Babylon, and the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his eunuchs: and the judges of the land he led into captivity from Jerusalem into Babylon. {16} And all the strong men, seven thousand, and the artificers, and inclosers a thousand, all valiant men and warriors: and the king of Babylon led them captives into Babylon. {17} And he appointed Matthania his uncle for him: and called his name Sedecias. {18} One and twenty years old was Sedecias when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Amital, the daughter of Jeremie of Lobna. {19} And he did evil before our Lord, according to all things which Joakim had done. {20} For our Lord was wrath against Jerusalem and against Juda, till he cast them away from his face: and Sedecias revolted from the king of Babylon.

Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon besieging Jerusalem two years, the soldiers pressed with famine fly away. King Sedecias also flyeth. 5. is taken and brought before Nabuchodonosor. 7. All his sons are slain in his sight: his eyes are put out, and he is carried into Babylon: the temple, the king's palace, and other houses burned; the wall destroyed, the people carried captive 12, except poor husbandmen. 13. All vessels of brass, silver, and gold, broken and transported. 18. Saraias high Priest, and other principal men are slain. 22. Godolias made governor. 25. is slain by Ismael. 27. Joachin is delivered from prison, and exalted by a new king of Babylon.

{1} AND it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, came Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, himself and all his army unto Jerusalem, and they beset it: and built rampires round about it. {2} And the city was shut up & trenched about until the eleventh year of king Sedecias, {3} the ninth day of the month: and there was a sore famine in the city, neither was there bread for the people of the land. {4} And a breach was made into the city: and all the men of war fled in the night by the way of the gate, which is between the double wall toward the king's garden (moreover the Chaldees besieged the city round about.) Sedecias therefore fled by the way, that leadeth to the champion of the wilderness. {5} And the army of the Chaldees pursued the king, and overtook him in the plain of Jericho: and all the warriors, that were with him, were dispersed, and forsook him. {6} They therefore having taken the king, brought him to the king of Babylon into Reblatha, who spake judgment with him. {7} And he slew the sons of Sedecias before his face, and he put out his eyes, and bound him with chains, and brought him into Babylon. {8} The fifth month, the seventh day of the month, that is, the nineteenth year of the king of Babylon, came Nabuzardan the General of the army, the servant of the king of Babylon into Jerusalem. {9} And he burnt the house of our Lord, the king's house, and the houses of Jerusalem, and every house he burnt with fire. {10} And all the army of the Chaldees, which was with the General of the soldiers, destroyed the walls of Jerusalem round about. {11} And Nabuzardan the General of the army, transported the remnant of the people that remained in the city, and the fugitives, that were fled to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the common people. {12} And of the poor of the land he left dressers of vineyards and husbandmen. {13} And the brazen pillars, that were in the temple of our Lord, and the feet, and the sea of brass, which was in the house of our Lord, the Chaldees brake, and transported all the brass into Babylon. {14} The pots also of brass, and mazers, and forks with three teeth, and cups, and little mortars, and all the vessels of brass, in the which they ministered, they took away. {15} Moreover also the censers, and phials: those that were of gold: and that were of silver, the General of the warfare took, {16} that is, two pillars, one sea, and the feet which Salomon had made in the temple of our Lord: there was no weight of the brass of all the vessels. {17} One pillar had eighteen cubits in height: and the little head of brass upon it was three cubits in height: and the net, and the pomegranates upon the little head of the pillar, all of brass: the second also had the like adorning. {18} Also the general of the army took Saraias the chief Priest, and Sophonias the second Priest, and three porters. {19} And of the city one Eunuch, which was captain over the men of war: and five men of them that waited before the king, whom he found in the city, and Sopher the captain of the army, who proved the young soldiers of the people of the land: and threescore men of the common people, which were found in the city. {20} Whom Nabuzardan the General of the army taking, brought them to the king of Babylon into Reblatha. {21} And the king of Babylon struck them, and slew them in Reblatha in the land of Emath: and Juda was transported out of their land. {22} And he made Godolias the son of Ahicam the son of Saphan Governor over the people, that was left in the land of Juda, which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had left. {23} Which when all the captains of the soldiers had heard, they and the men that were with them, to wit, that the king of Babylon had appointed Godolias, there came to Godolias into Maspha Ismael the son of Nathaniyas, and Johanan the son of Caree, and Saraias the son of Thanehumeth a Netophatite, and Jezonias the son of Maachathi, they and their fellows. {24} And Godolias sware to them and to their companions, saying: Be not afraid to serve the Chaldees: tarry in the country, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you. {25} But it came to pass in the seventh month, there came Ismahel the son of Nathaniyas, the son of Elisama of the king's seed, and ten men with him: and struck Godolias, who also died: yea the Jews also and the Chaldees, that were with him in Maspha. {26} And all the people rising up from little to great, and the captains of the soldiers, came into Aegypt fearing the Chaldees. {27} But it came to pass in the seven & thirtieth year of the Transmigration of Joachin the king of Juda, in the twelfth month, the seven and twentieth day of the month: Evilmerodach the king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, lifted up the head of Joachin the king of Juda out of prison. {28} And he spake unto him courteously: and he set his throne above the throne of the kings, that were with him in Babylon. {29} And he changed his garments, which he had in the prison, and he did eat bread always in his sight, all the days of his life. {30} A certain provision also he appointed for him without intermission, which was also given him of the king day by day, all the days of his life.

Other genealogies of Juda, 24. and of Simeon, 29. by whom the progeny of Cham, 42. and relics of Amalecites are subdued.

{1} THE sons of Juda: Phares, Hesron, and Charmi, and Hur, and Sobal. the son of Sobal begat Jahath, of whom {2} But Raia were born Ahumai, and Laad. These be the kindreds of Sarathi. {3} This also is the stock of Etam: Jezrahel, and Jesema, and Jedebos. And the name of their sister Asalephuni. {4} And Phanuel the father of Gedor, and Ezar the father of Hosa, these are the sons of Hur the first begotten of Ephratha the father of Bethlehem. {5} But Assur the father of Thecuia had two wives, Halaa, and Naara. {6} And Naara bare him Oozam, and Hepher, and Themani, & Ahasthari. These are the sons of Naara. {7} Moreover the sons of Halaa, Sereth, Isaar, and Ethan, {8} And Cos begat Anob, and Soboba, and the kindred of Aharehel the son of Arum. {9} And Jabes was honorable above his brethren, and his mother called his name Jabes, saying: Because I bare him in sorrow. {10} But Jabes invoked the God of Israel, saying: If blessing thou wilt bless me, and wilt enlarge my borders, and thy hand be with me, and thou wilt make that I be not oppressed by malice. And God granted the things that he prayed for. {11} And Caleb the brother of Sua begat Mahir, who was the father of Esthon. {12} Moreover Esthon begat Bethrapha, and Phesse, and Tehinna the father of the city of Naas: these are the men of Recha. {13} And the sons of Cenez, Othoniel, and Saraia. Moreover the sons of Othoniel, Hathath, and Maonathi. {14} Maonathi begat Ophra, and Saraia begat Joab the father of the Vale of Artificers: for there were artificers. {15} And the sons of Caleb the son of Jephone, Hir, & Ela, and Naham. The sons also of Ela: Cenez. {16} The sons also of Jaleleel: Ziph, and Zipha, Thiria, and Asrael. {17} And the sons of Esra, Jether, and Mered, and Epher, and Jalon, and he begat Mariam, and Sammai, and Jesba the father of Esthamo. {18} Also his wife Judaia, bare Jared the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Socho, and Icuthiel the father of Zanoe. And these are the sons of Bethia the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered took. {19} And the sons of the wife of Odaia the sister of Naham the father of Ceila, Garmi, and Esthamo, which was of Macathi. {20} The sons also Simon, Amnon, and Rinna the son of Hanan, and Thilon. And the sons of Jesi, Zoheth, and Benzoheth. {21} The sons of Sela the son of Juda: Her the father of Lecha, and Laada the father of Maresa, and the kindreds of their house that work silk in the House of oath. {22} And he that made the Sun to stand, and the men of Lying, and Secure, and Burning, which were Princes in Moab, & which returned into Lahem. And these are old words. {23} These are potters, dwelling in Plantings, and in Hedges, with the king in his works, and they abode there. {24} The sons of Simeon: Namuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zara, Saul: {25} Sellum his son, Mapsam his son, Masma his son. {26} The sons of Masma: Hamuel his son, Zachur his son, Semei his son. {27} The sons of Semei sixteen, and six daughters: but his brethren had not many sons, and the whole kindred could not reach to the sum of the children of Juda. {28} And they dwelt in Bersabee, and Molada, and Hasarsuhal, {29} and in Bala, and in Asom, and in Tholad, {30} and in Bathuel, and in Hormi, and in Siceleg, {31} and in Bethmarcaboth, and in Hasarsusim, and in Bethberai, and in Saarim. These were their cities until king David. {32} Their towns also: Etam, & Aen, Rhemmon, and Thochen, and Asan, five cities. {33} And all their villages round about these cities unto Baal. This is their habitation, and the distribution of their dwellings. {34} Mosabab also and Jemlech, and Josa the son of Amasias, {35} and Joel, & Jehu the son of Josabia, the son of Saraia, the son of Asiel. {36} And Elionai, & Jacoba, & Isuhaia, & Asaia, & Adiel, and Ismiel, & Banaia, {37} Ziza also the son of Zephei the son of Allon the son of Adaia, the son of Semri the son of Samaia. {38} These renowned Princes in their kindreds, and in the house of their affinities they were multiplied exceedingly. {39} And they went forth to enter into Gador as far as the East side of the valley, and to seek pastures for their flocks. {40} And they found fat pastures, and very good, and a country very large and quiet and fruitful, in the which before had dwelt the stock of Cham. {41} These therefore, whom before we described by name, came in the days of Ezechias the king of Juda: and they struck their tabernacles, and the inhabitants that were found there, & clean destroyed them until this present day: and they dwelt for them, because they found there most fat pastures. {42} Also of the children of Simeon there went into mount Seir five hundred men, having their Princes Phaltias and Naaria and Raphaia and Oziel the sons of Jesi: {43} and they struck the remnant of the Amalecites, which were able to escape, and they dwelt there for them until this day.

Genealogies of Ruben, whose birth-right, concerning double portion, is translated to Joseph, the principality of Juda, with their special acts. 11. Also of Gad, 18. who with Ruben, and the half tribe of Manasses, subdue the Agarenes: 25. but for their sins are led captive into Assyria.

{1} ALSO the sons of Ruben the first-begotten of Israel (for he was his first-begotten: but when he had violated his father's bed, his first-birth-right was given to the sons of Joseph the son of Israel, and he was not reputed for the first-begotten. {2} Moreover Judas, which was the strongest among his brethren, of his stock sprang the Princes: but the first-birth-right was reputed to Joseph.) {3} The sons then of Ruben the first-begotten of Israel: Enoch, and Phallu, Esron, and Charmi. {4} The sons of Joel: Samia his son, Gog his son, Semei his son. {5} Micha his son, Reia his son, Baal his son, {6} Beera his son, whom Theglaiphahnasar the king of the Assyrians led away captive, and he was Prince in the tribe of Ruben. {7} And his brethren, and all his kindred, when they were numbered by their families, had these Princes Jehiel, and Zacharias. {8} Moreover Bala the son of Azaz, the son of Samma, the son of Joel, he dwelt in Aroer as far as Nebo, and Beelmeon. {9} Against the east quarter also he dwelt unto the entrance of the desert, and the river Euphrates. For they possessed a great number of cattle in the land of Galaad. {10} And in the days of Saul they fought against the Agarenes, and slew them, and dwelt for them in their tabernacles, in all the quarter, that looketh to the East of Galaad. {11} But the children of Gad dwelt over-against them in the land of Basan, as far as Selcha: {12} Johel the head, and Sapham the second: and Janai, & Saphat in Basan. {13} And their brethren according to the houses of their kindreds, Michael, and Mosollam, and Sebe, and Jorai, and Jacan, and Zie, & Heber, seven. {14} These are the sons of Abihail, the son of Huri, the son of Jara, the son of Galaad, the son of Michael, the son of Jesesi, the son of Jeddo, the son of Buz. {15} Also the brethren of the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, prince of the house in their families. {16} And they dwelt in Galaad, and in Basan, and in the towns thereof, and in all the suburbs of Saron, unto the borders. {17} All these were numbered in the days of Joathan the king of Juda, and in the days of Jeroboam the king of Israel. {18} The children of Ruben, and of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses, men of war, carrying shields, and swords, and bending the bow, and taught to battles, four and forty thousand and seven hundred threescore going forth to fight. {19} They fought against the Agarenes, but the Itureians, and Naphis, and Nodab {20} gave them aid. And the Agarenes were delivered into their hands, and all that were with them, because they called upon God when they fought: and he heard them, because they believed in him. {21} And they took all that they possessed, Camels fifty thousand, and sheep two hundred fifty thousand, and asses two thousand and of men an hundred thousand souls. {22} And many fell down wounded: for it was the battle of our Lord. And they dwelt for them until the transmigration. {23} Also the children of the half tribe of Manasses possessed the land, from the coasts of Basan unto Baal, Hermon, and Sanir, & mount Hermon, for the number was great. {24} And these were the Princes of the house of their kindred, Epher, & Jesi, and Eliel, & Esriel, and Jeremia, and Odoia, and Jediel, most valiant men and mighty, & renowned Princes in their families. {25} But they forsook the God of their fathers, and fornicated after the gods of the peoples of the land, whom God took away before them. {26} And the God of Israel raised up the spirit of Phul king of the Assyrians, and the spirit of Thelgathphalnasar king of Assur: and he transported Ruben, and Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses, and brought them into Lahela, and into Habor, and to Ara, and to the river of Gozan, until this day.

All these the sons of Asel. {39} And the sons of Esec his brother, Ulam the first-begotten, and Jehus the second, and Eliphaleth the third. {40} And the sons of Ulam were most strong men, and archers of great force: and having many sons and nephews, unto an hundred fifty. All these the children of Benjamin.

Who of Israel (after the captivity) first inhabited Jerusalem. 10. Who exercised the offices of Priests. 14. and Levites. 35. with repetition of part of Saul's progeny.

{1} ALL Israel therefore was numbered: and the sum of them was written in the Book of the kings of Israel & Juda and they were transported into Babylon for their sin. {2} And they that dwelt first in their possessions and in their cities: Israel, and the Priests, and the Levites, and the Nathineans. {3} There dwelt in Jerusalem of the children of Juda, and of the children of Benjamin, also of the children of Ephraim, and Manasses. {4} Othei the son of Ammiud, the son of Amri, the son of Omrai, the son of Bonni, of the sons of Phares the son of Juda. {5} And of Siloni Asaia the first-begotten, and his sons. {6} And of the sons of Zara: Jehuel, and their brethren, six hundred ninety. {7} Moreover of the sons of Benjamin: Salo the son of Mosollam, the son of Oduia the son of Asana: {8} and Jobania the son of Jeroham: and Ela the son of Ozi the son of Mochori: and Mosollam the son of Saphatias, the son of Rahuel, the son of Jebania, {9} and their brethren by their families, nine hundred fifty six. All these Princes of their kindreds by the houses of their fathers. {10} And of the Priests: Jedaia, Joarib, and Jachin: {11} Azarias also the son of Helcias, the son of Mosollam, the son of Sadoc, the son of Maraioth, the son of Achitob, high Priest of the house of God. {12} Moreover Adaias the son of Jeroham, the son of Phassur, the son of Melchias: and Maasai the son of Adiel, the son of Jezra, the son of Mosollam, the son of Mosollamith, the son of Emmer. {13} their brethren also Princes by their families a thousand seven hundred three score, most able men of strength to the work of the ministry in the house of God. {14} And of the Levites: Semeia the son of Hassub the son of Ezricam, the son of Hasebia of the sons of Merari. {15} Bacbacar also a carpenter, and Galal, and Mathania the son of Micha, the son of Zechri the son of Asaph: {16} and Obdia the son of Semei, the son of Galal, the son of Idithun: and Barachia the son of Asa, the son of Elcana, who dwelt in the courts of Netophati. {17} And the porters: Sellum, and Accub, and Telmon, and Ahimam: and their brother Sellum the Prince, {18} until that time, in the king's gate toward the east, waited by their courses of the children of Levi. {19} But Sellum the son of Core the son of Abiasaph, the son of Core, with his brethren, and his father's house, these are the Corites over the works of the ministry, keepers of the entrances of the tabernacle: and their families in course keeping the entrance of the camp of our Lord. {20} And Phinees the son of Eleasar, was their Prince before our Lord. {21} Moreover Zacharias the son of Mosollamia, porter of the gate of the tabernacle of testimony. {22} All these chosen men for porters, at every gate, two hundred twelve: and appointed out in their proper towns: Whom David and Samuel the seer appointed, upon their fidelity. {23} as well them as their sons, in the doors of the house of our Lord, and in the tabernacle by their courses. {24} By the four winds were the porters: that is to say, toward the East, and toward the West, & toward the North, & toward the South. {25} And their brethren dwelt in villages, & came upon their Sabbaths from time to time. {26} To these four Levites was committed all the number of porters, & they were over the chambers, and treasures of the house of our Lord. {27} Also round about the temple of our Lord they abode in their watches: that when it was time, they in the morning might open the doors. {28} Of these men's stock there were also over the vessels of the ministry: for by number the vessels were both brought in and carried out. {29} Of them also they that had the implements of the sanctuary committed unto them, did oversee the flour, and wine, and oil, and frankincense, and spices. {30} And the sons of Priests made ointments of the spices. {31} And Matthathias a Levite the first-begotten of Sellum the Corite, was overseer of those things, which were fried in the frying pan. {32} Moreover of the children of Caath their brethren, there were over the loaves of proposition, to prepare always new every Sabbath. {33} These are the chief of the singing men by the families of the Levites, which abode in the chambers, that they might day and night continually serve in their ministry. {34} The heads of the Levites, Princes in their families, tarried in Jerusalem. {35} And in Gabaon abode Jehiel the father of Gabaon, and the name of his wife Maacha. {36} His first-begotten son Abdon, and Sur, and Cis, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab. {37} Gedor also, and Ahio, and Zacharias, and Macelloth. {38} Moreover Macelloth begat Samaan, these dwelt over against their brethren in Jerusalem, with their brethren. {39} And Ner begat Cis: and Cis begat Saul: and Saul begat Jonathas, and Melchisua, and Abinadab, and Esbaal. {40} And the son of Jonathas, Meribbaal: & Meribbaal begat Micha.

King Saul with his three sons are slain by the Philistians, 8. who spoils the army and carry away Saul's head. 11. The men of Jabel Galaad bury his body and his sons, fasting for them seven days. And the Kingdom is translated to David.

{1} AND the Philisthiims fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled from the Palestines, and they fell wounded in mount Gelboe. {2} And when the Philistians were come near pursuing Saul and his sons, they struck Jonathas, and Abinadab, and Melchisua the sons of Saul. {3} And the battle grew sore against Saul, and the archers found him, and wounded him with arrows. {4} And Saul said to his esquire: Draw thy sword, and kill me: lest perhaps these uncircumcised come, and deride me. But his harness-bearer would not, being frightened with fear: Saul therefore caught his sword, and fell upon it. {5} Which when his harness-bearer had seen, to wit, that Saul was dead, himself also fell upon his sword, and died. {6} Saul therefore died, and his three sons, and all his house fell together. {7} Which when the men of Israel had seen that dwelt in the champion, they fled: and Saul and his sons being dead, they forsook their cities, and were dispersed hither and thither: and the Philisthiims came, and dwelt in them. {8} The next day therefore the Philisthiims taking away the spoils of them that were slain, found Saul and his sons lying on mount Gelboe. {9} And when they had spoiled him, and cut off his head, and stripped him of his armour, they sent into their land, that it should be carried about, & should be shewed in the temples of the idols, and to the people: {10} & his armour they dedicated in the temple of their god, and the head they nailed up in the temple of Dagon. {11} When the men of Jabel Galaad had heard this, to wit, all things that the Philisthiims had done upon Saul, {12} every one of the valiant men arose, and took the bodies of Saul and of his sons, and brought them into Jabel, & buried their bones under an oak, that was in Jabel, and they fasted seven days. {13} Saul therefore died for his iniquities, for that he transgressed the commandment of our Lord which he had commanded, and kept it not: yea and besides also consulted the Pythoness, {14} and trusted not in our Lord: for the which he slew him, and transferred his Kingdom to David the son of Isai.

David is elected and anointed king. 5. He overthroweth the Jebuseites taking the tower of Sion in Jerusalem, and prospereth. 10. His valiant men, and their heroical acts are recited. 17. He desiring water from the cistern of Bethleem, will not drink it, but offereth it in sacrifice, because it is brought with danger of his valiant men's lives. 20. Other valiant men of the second order, are likewise recited.

{1} ALL Israel therefore was gathered together to David in Hebron, saying: We are thy bone, and thy flesh. {2} Yesterday also, and the day before, when Saul as yet reigned, thou wast he that didst lead out and lead in Israel: for to thee our Lord thy God said: Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be Prince over it. {3} All the ancients therefore of Israel came to the king into Hebron, and David entered into a league with them before our Lord: and they anointed him king over Israel, according to the word of our Lord, which he spake in the hand of Samuel. {4} David also went, and all Israel into Jerusalem. This is Jebus, where the Jebusites were the inhabitants of the land. {5} And they that dwelt in Jebus, said to David: Thou shalt not come in here. Moreover David took the tower of Sion, which is the City of David, {6} & he said: Every one that shall among the first strike the Jebusite, shall be the Prince & chief captain. Joab therefore the son of Sarvia went up first, and was made the Prince. {7} And David dwelt in the tower, and therefore it was called the City of David. {8} And he built the City round about from Mello unto a round compass, and Joab built the rest of the city. {9} And David prospered going and increasing, and the Lord of hosts was with him. {10} These are the Princes of the valiant men of David, which help him to be made king over all Israel according to the word of our Lord, which he spake to Israel {11} And this is the number of David's strong ones: Jesbaam the son of Hachamoni Prince among thirty: this man lifted up his spear upon three hundred, wounded at one time. {12} And after him Eleazar his uncle's son an Ahohite, who was among the three mighty. {13} This was with David in Phesdomim, when the Philisthiims were gathered to that place into battle: and the field of that country was full of barley, and the people was fled from the face of the Philisthiims. {14} These stood in the midst of the field, and defended him: and when they had stricken the Philistheans, our Lord gave great health to his people. {15} And there went down three of the thirty Princes to a rock, wherein David was, to the cave of Odollam, when the Philisthiims had camped in the Vale Raphaim. {16} Moreover David was in a hold, and the ward of the Philisthimes in Bethlehem. {17} David therefore desired and said: O that some man would give me water of the cistern of Bethlehem, which is in the gate. {18} These three therefore went forward through the midst of the camp of the Philisthiims, and drew water of the cistern of Bethlehem, which was in the gate, & brought it to David to drink: who would not, but rather offered it to our Lord, {19} saying: God forbid that in the sight of my God I should do this, and should drink the blood of these men: because in the peril of their lives they have brought me the water. And for this cause he would not drink. These things did the three most valiants. {20} Abisai also the brother of Joab, he was Prince of three, and he lifted up his spear against three hundred, wounded, and he was among three most renowned, {21} and among the second three he the noble one, and Prince of them: but yet unto the three first he caught not. {22} Banaias the son of Joiada a most valiant man, of Cabseel: who had done many facts, he struck the two ariel of Moab: & he went down, and slew the lion in the midst of the cistern in the time of snow. {23} And he struck the Aegyptian, whose stature was of five cubits, and which had a spear as the weaver's beam: he therefore went down to him with a rod, and by force took away the spear that he held in his hand, and slew him with his own spear. {24} These things did Banaias the son of Joiada, who was among the three valiants most renowned, {25} the first among thirty, but yet the three he caught not: and David made him of his counsel. {26} Moreover the most valiant men in the army, Asahel the brother of Joab, and Elchanan the son of his uncle of Bethlehem, {27} Sammoth an Arorite, Helles a Phalonite, {28} Ira the son of Acces a Thecaite, Abiezer an Anathothite, {29} Sobbochai an Husathite, Ilai an Ahohite, {30} Maharai a Netophathite, Heled the son of Baana a Netophathite. {31} Ethai the son of Ribai of Gabaath the children of Benjamin, Banaia a Pharatonite {32} Hurai of the Torrent Gaas, Abiel an Arbathite, Azmoth a Bauramite, Eliaba a Salabonite. {33} The sons of Assem a Gezonite, Jonathan the son of Sage an Ararite, {34} Ahiam the son of Sachar an Ararite, {35} Eliphal the son of Ur, {36} Hepher a Mecherathite, Ahia Phelonite, {37} Hesro a Carmelite, Naarai the son of Azbai, {38} Joel the brother of Nathan, Mibahar the son of Agrai. {39} Selet an Ammonite, Naharai a Berothite the armour-bearer of Joab the son of Sarvia, {40} Ira a Jethreite, Gareb a Jethreite, {41} Urias the Hethite, Zabad the son of Oholi, {42} Adina the son of Siza a Rubenite the Prince of the Rubenites, and with him thirty: {43} Hanan the son of Maacha, and Josaphat a Mathanite. {44} Ozia an Astarothite, Samma, and Jehiel the sons of Hotham an Arorite, {45} Jedihel the son of Zamri, and Joha his brother a Thosaita, {46} Eliel a Mahumite, and Jeribai, and Josaia the sons of Elnaim, and Jethma a Moabite, Eliel, and Obed, and

Who followed David when he fled from Saul. 23. And who came into Hebron to make him king.

{1} THESE also came to David into Siceleg, when as yet he fled from Saul the son of Cis, the which were most valiant and excellent warriors, {2} drawing the bow & hurling with both hands stones in slings, & shooting arrows directly: of the brethren of Saul of Benjamin. {3} The Prince Ahiezer, and Joas the sons of Samaa a Gabaathite, and Jaziel, and Phallet the sons of Azmoth, and Beracha, and Jehu an Anothothite. {4} Samaias also a Gabaonite the most valiant amongst the thirty and above the thirty. Jeremias, and Jeheziel, and Johanan, & Jezabad a Gaderothite. {5} And Eluzai, and Jerimuth, and Baalia, & Samaria, and Saphatia an Haruphite. {6} Elcana, and Jesia, and Azareel, and Joezer, and Jesbaam of Carehim: {7} Joela also, and Zabadia the sons of Jeroham of Gedor. {8} Yea and of Gaddi also there fled to David, when he lay hid in the desert most valiant men, & the best warriors, holding shield and spear: their faces as the faces of a lion, & swift as the roe-bucks on the mountains: {9} Ezer the Prince, Obdias the second, Eliab the third, {10} Masmana the fourth, Jeremias the fifth, {11} Ethi the sixth, Eliel the seventh, {12} Johanan the eight, Elzebad the ninth, {13} Jeremias the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh, {14} these of the children of Gad were the Princes of his army. The meanest was captain over an hundred soldiers, & the greatest, over a thousand. {15} These are they which passed Jordan the first month, when it used to flow over his banks: & they chased away all that dwelt in the valleys toward the east quarter and the west. {16} And there came also of Benjamin, & of Juda to the hold, wherein David abode. {17} And David went out to meet them, & said: If you be come peaceably to me for to help me, my heart be joined to you, but if you lie in wait against me for my adversaries, whereas I have no iniquity in my hands, the God of our fathers see, and judge. {18} But the spirit came on Amasai the Prince among thirty, & he said: We are thine, o David, & with thee, o son of Isai: peace, peace be to thee, and peace to thy helpers, for thy God helpeth thee. David therefore received them, and appointed them Princes of the band. {19} Moreover of Manasses there fled to David, when he came with the Philisthiims against Saul to fight, and he fought not with them: because the Princes of the Philisthiims taking counsel sent him back, saying: with the peril of our head will he return to his Lord Saul. {20} Therefore when he returned into Siceleg, there fled to him of Manasses, Ednas, and Jozabab, and Jedihel, and Michael, and Ednas, & Jozabab, and Eliu, and Salathi, the Princes of a thousand in Manasses. {21} These did aid David against the rovers: for they were all most valiant men, & were made commanders in the army. {22} Yea & there came every day to David to help him, till it became a great number, as it were the army of God. {23} This also is the number of the commanders of the army, which came to David, when he was in Hebron, to transfer the kingdom of Saul to him, according to the word of our Lord. {24} The children of Juda bearing shield and spear, six thousand eight hundred well appointed to battle. {25} Of the children of Simeon valiant men to fight, seven thousand one hundred. {26} Of the children of Levi, four thousand six hundred. {27} Joiada also Prince of the stock of Aaron, and with him three thousand seven hundred. {28} Sadoc also a young man of goodly towardness, and the house of his father, Princes twenty two. {29} And of the children of Benjamin the brethren of Saul, three thousand: for a great part of them as yet followed the house of Saul. {30} Moreover of the children of Ephraim twenty thousand eight hundred valiant of strength, men renowned in their kindreds. {31} And of the half tribe of Manasses, eighteen thousand, every one by their names, came to make David king. {32} Also of the children of Issachar men of understanding, that knew all times to command what Israel should do, Princes two hundred: and all the rest of the tribe did follow their counsel. {33} Moreover of Zabulon such as went forth to battle, and stood in array well appointed with armour of war, there came fifty thousand to aid, not in a double heart. {34} And of Nephthali, commanders a thousand & with them furnished with shield & spear, seven & thirty thousand. {35} Of Dan also prepared to battle, twenty eight thousand six hundred. {36} And of Aser going forth to fight, & provoking in battle, forty thousand. {37} And beyond Jordan of the children of Ruben & of Gad, & the half part of the tribe of Manasses, furnished with armour of war, an hundred twenty thousand. {38} All these men of war well appointed to fight, with perfect heart came into Hebron, to make David king over all Israel: yea & all the rest of Israel were of one heart, that David should be made king. {39} And they were there with David three days eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them. {40} Yea and they that were near them as far as Issachar, and Zabulon, and Nephthali, brought loaves on Asses, and on camels, and on mules, and upon oxen, to eat: meal, figs, raisins, wine, oil, beeves, muttons, in all abundance, for there was joy in Israel.

The Ark is brought from Abinadab's house, 8. David and others dancing before it. 9. Oza for touching it is stricken dead. 13. Whereupon David fearing to bring it to Jerusalem, it remaineth three months in the house of Obededom.

{1} AND David took counsel with the tribunes, and centurions, and all the commanders, {2} and he said to all the assembly of Israel: If it please you, & if the word which I speak proceed from our Lord God, let us send to the rest of our brethren into all the countries of Israel, & to the Priests, & Levites, that dwell in the suburbs of the cities, that they may be gathered together unto us, {3} and we may bring again unto us the Ark of our God: for we sought it not in the days of Saul. {4} And the whole multitude answered that it should be so done: for the word had pleased all the people. {5} David therefore assembled all Israel from Sihor of Aegypt, till thou enter into Emath, to bring the Ark of God from Cariathiarim. {6} And David went up, and every man of Israel to the hill of Cariathiarim which is in Juda, to fetch thence the Ark of our God sitting upon the Cherubim, where his name is invoked. {7} And they laid the Ark of God upon a new wain, out of the house of Abinadab. And Oza and his brother did drive the wain. {8} Moreover David, & all Israel played before our Lord with all their might in songs, and on harps, and psalteries, and timbrels, and cymbals, and trumpets. {9} And when they were come to the Floor of Chidon, Oza stretched forth his hand, to hold up the Ark: for the oxe being wanton had made it lean a little a-side. {10} Our Lord therefore was angry against Oza, & struck him, for that he had touched the Ark: and he died there before our Lord. {11} And David was stricken sad, because our Lord had divided Oza: and he called that place, the Division of Oza until this present day. {12} And he feared God at that time, saying: How may I bring in the Ark of God unto me? {13} And for this cause he brought it not unto himself, that is, into the city of David, but turned it away into the house of Obededom the Gethite. {14} Therefore the Ark of God remained in the house of Obededom three months: & our Lord blessed his house, and all things that he had

King David provideth timber, and work men to build his own house: 3. marrieth more wives, and hath many children, 8. overthreath the Philistians, 13. twice.

{1} HIRAM also the king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and cedar trees, and artificers for walls, and timber, to build him a house. {2} And David knew that our Lord had established him to be king over Israel, and that his Kingdom was exalted over his people Israel. {3} David also took other wives in Jerusalem: and he begat sons, and daughters. {4} And these be their names, that were born to him in Jerusalem: Samua, and Sobab, Nathan, and Salomon. {5} Jebahar, and Elisua, and Eliphaleet, {6} Noga also, and Napheg, and Japhia, {7} Elisama, and Baalaida, and Eliphaleet. {8} And the Philisthiims hearing that David was anointed for king over all Israel, they went up all to seek him: which when David had heard, he went out to meet them. {9} Moreover the Philisthiims coming, were spread abroad in the Vale Raphaim. {10} And David consulted our Lord, saying: Shall I go up to the Philistians, and wilt thou deliver them into my hand? And our Lord said to him: Go up and I will deliver them into thy hand. {11} And when they were come up into Baalpharasim, David struck them there, and said: God hath divided mine enemies by my hand, as waters are divided: and therefore the name of that place was called Baal Pharasim. {12} And they left there their gods, which David commanded to be burnt. {13} And other time also the Philisthiims invaded, and were dispersed in the Vale. {14} And David consulted God again, and God said to him: Go not up after them, retire from them, & thou shalt come against them over against the pear-trees. {15} And when thou shalt hear the sound of one going in the top of the pear-trees, then shalt thou issue forth to battle. For God is gone forth before thee, to strike the camp of the Philisthiims. {16} David therefore did as God had commanded him, & struck the camp of the Philisthians from Gabaon unto Gazer. {17} And the name of David was bruited in all countries, and our Lord gave the dread of him over all nations.

With solemnity the Ark is brought into Jerusalem, carried by the Priests and Levites, 16. with music of diverse sorts, 26. Sacrifice of thanksgiving is offered. 29. Michol derideth David's devotion.

{1} HE made also houses for himself in the city of David: and built a place for the Ark of God, and pitcht a tabernacle for it. {2} Then said David: It is unlawful that the Ark of God be carried of any man, but of the Levites: whom our Lord chose to carry it, and to minister unto himself for ever. {3} And he gathered together all Israel into Jerusalem, that the Ark of God might be brought into his place, which he had prepared for it. {4} Moreover also the sons of Aaron, and the Levites. {5} Of the children of Caath, Uriel was the Prince, and his brethren an hundred twenty. {6} Of the sons of Merari, Asaia the Prince: and his brethren two hundred twenty. {7} Of the sons of Gersom, Joel the Prince: and his brethren an hundred thirty. {8} Of the sons of Elisaphan, Semeias the Prince: and his brethren two hundred. {9} Of the sons of Hebron, Eliel the Prince: and his brethren eighty. {10} Of the sons of Oziel, Aminadab the Prince: and his brethren an hundred twelve. {11} And David called Sadoc and Abiathar the Priests, and the Levites, Uriel, Asaia, Joel, Semeia, Eliel, and Aminadab: {12} and he said to them: You that are the Princes of the Levitical families, be sanctified with your brethren, and fetch the Ark of our Lord the God of Israel to the place, which is prepared for it: {13} lest as from the beginning, because you were not present, our Lord struck us: so now also it come to pass, we doing some unlawful thing. {14} The Priests therefore, and the Levites were sanctified, to carry the Ark of our Lord the God of Israel. {15} And the sons of Levi took the Ark of God, as Moyses had commanded, according to the word of our Lord, upon their shoulders, on bars. {16} And David said to the Princes of the Levites, that they should appoint of their brethren singing men on musical instruments, to wit, on nables, and harps, and cymbals, that the sound of joy might resound on high. {17} And they appointed Levites: Heman the son of Joel, and of his brethren Asaph the son of Barachias: and of the children of Merari, their brethren: Ethan the son of Casaia. {18} And with them their brethren: in the second order, Zacharias, & Ben, & Jaziel, and Semiramoth, and Jahiel, and Ani, Eliab, and Banaias, and Maasias, and Mathathias, and Eliphalu, and Macenias, and Obededom, and Jehiel, porters. {19} Moreover them that sang, Heman, Asaph and Ethan: sounding on brazen cymbals. {20} And Zacharias, and Oziel, and Semiramoth, and Jahiel, and Ani, and Eliab, and Maasias, and Banaias upon nables sang mysteries. {21} Moreover Mathathias, and Eliphalu, and Macenias, and Obededom, and Jehiel, and Ozaziu, upon harps for the octave sang a triumphant song. {22} And Chonenias the Prince of the Levites, was chief over Prophecy, to begin the melody: for he was very cunning. {23} And Barachias, and Elcana: door keepers of the Ark. {24} Moreover Sebenias, and Josaphat, and Nathanael, and Amasai, and Zacharias, and Banaias, and Eliezer Priests, sounded with trumpets, before the Ark of God: and Obededom, and Jehias kept the door of the Ark. {25} Therefore David and all the ancients of Israel, and the tribunes, went to fetch the Ark of the covenant of our Lord, out of the house of Obededom with joy. {26} And when God had holpen, the Levites, which carried the Ark of the covenant of our Lord, there were immolated seven oxen, and seven rams. {27} Moreover David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, & all the Levites that carried the Ark, and the singing men, and Chonenias the Prince of prophecy among the singers: and David also was clothed with an Ephod of linen. {28} And all Israel brought the Ark of the covenant of our Lord in jubilee, and sounding with the sound of shalm, and with trumpets, and cymbals, and nables, and harps. {29} And when the Ark of the covenant of our Lord was come unto the city of David, Michol the daughter of Saul looking forth through a window, saw David the king dancing and playing, and she despised him in her heart.

The Ark is place in a tabernacle. Sacrifice is offered. David blesseth the people, 4. disposeseth the offices of Levites, 8. and maketh a Psalm of praise to God.

{1} THEY therefore brought the Ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tabernacle, which David had pitched for it: and they offered holocausts, and pacifics before God. {2} And when David had finished offering holocausts, and pacifics, he blessed the people in the name of our Lord. {3} And he divided to all throughout every one, from man unto woman, a loaf of bread, and a piece of roasted beef, and flour fried with oil. {4} And he appointed before the Ark of our Lord of the Levites, that should minister, and should remember his works, and glorify, and praise our Lord the God of Israel: {5} Asaph the Prince, and the second after him Zacharias: moreover Jahiel, and Semiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mathathias, and Eliab, and Banaias, and Obededom: and Jehiel over the instruments of psaltery, and the harps: and Asaph to sound upon the cymbals: {6} but Banaias, and Jaziel Priests, to sound the trumpet continually before the Ark of the covenant of our Lord. {7} In that day David made Asaph, prince to confess to our Lord and his brethren. {8} Confess ye to our Lord, and invoke his name: make his inventions known among the peoples. {9} Chant to him, and sing to him: & tell ye all his marvelous things. {10} Praise ye his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek our Lord. {11} Seek ye our Lord, and his power: seek ye his face always. {12} Remember his marvelous things which he hath done: his signs, and the judgements of his mouth. {13} The seed of Israel his servant: the children of Jacob his elect. {14} He is the Lord our God: in all the earth are his judgements. {15} Remember for ever his covenant: the word, which he commanded unto a thousand generations. {16} Which he covenanted with Abraham: and his oath with Isaac. {17} And he appointed it to Jacob for a precept: and to Israel for an everlasting covenant: {18} Saying: To thee will I give the Land of Chanaan: the cord of your inheritance. {19} When they were few in number: small and sojourners thereof. {20} And they passed from nation into nation: and from Kingdom to an other people. {21} He suffered not any man to calumniate them: but rebuked kings for their sake. {22} Touch not my anointed: and unto my Prophets be not malicious. {23} Sing ye to our Lord all the earth: shew forth from day to day his salvation. {24} Tell his glory among the gentiles: among all peoples his marvelous works. {25} Because our Lord is great, and laudable exceedingly: and terrible over all gods. {26} For all the gods of the peoples, be idols: but our Lord made the heavens. {27} Confession and magnificence before him: strength and joy in his place. {28} Bring to our Lord ye families of peoples: bring to our Lord glory and empire. {29} Give our Lord glory, to his name, elevate sacrifice, and come ye in his sight: and adore our Lord in holy honour. {30} Let all the earth be moved before his face: for he founded the world unmovable. {31} Let the heavens be glad, and the earth rejoice: and let them say among nations, Our Lord hath reigned. {32} Let the sea thunder, and the fullness thereof: let the fields rejoice, and all things that are in them. {33} Then shall the trees of the forest praise before our Lord: because he is come to judge the earth. {34} Confess ye to our Lord, because he is good: because his mercy is for ever. {35} And say ye: Save us o God our Saviour: and gather us together, and deliver us out of the nations, that we may confess to thy holy name, and may rejoice in thy songs. {36} Blessed be our Lord the God of Israel from eternity unto eternity: and let all the people say: Amen, and hymn to God. {37} He therefore left Asaph there before the Ark of the covenant of our Lord, and his brethren to minister in the presence of the Ark continually day by day, & in their courses. {38} Moreover Obededom, and his brethren sixty eight: and Obededom the son of Idithun, and Hosa he appointed for porters. {39} And Sadoc the Priest, and his brethren Priests, before the tabernacle of our Lord in the excelse, which was in Gabaon, {40} that they should offer holocausts to our Lord upon the altar of holocaust continually, morning and evening, according to all things that are written in the law of our Lord, which he commanded Israel. {41} And after him Heman, and Idithun, and the rest of the chosen men, every one by his name to confess unto our Lord: because his mercy is for ever. {42} Heman also and Idithun sounding the trumpet, and quavering on the cymbals, and all musical instruments to sing unto God: and the sons of Idithun he made porters. {43} And all the people returned into their house: and David, to bless also his house.

David determining to build a Temple, {11}, is admonished by Nathan the Prophet, that not he, but his son, shall build it; and be established in the Kingdom. 16. David extolleth God's benignity towards him and the people.

{1} AND when David dwelt in his house, he said to Nathan the Prophet: Behold I dwell in a house of cedar: and the Ark of the covenant of our Lord is under skins. {2} And Nathan said to David: All things, that are in thy heart do: for God is with thee. {3} Therefore that night the word of God came to Nathan, saying: {4} Go, and speak to David my servant: Thus saith our Lord: Thou shalt not build me a house to dwell in. {5} For neither have I remained in house from the time, that I brought out Israel, until this day: but I have been always changing places of tabernacle, & in tent, {6} abiding with all Israel. Did I speak to one, at the least, of all the judges of Israel whom I commanded to feed my people, and did I say: Why have you not built me a house of cedar? {7} Now therefore so shalt thou speak to my servant David: Thus saith the Lord of hosts: I took thee, when in the pasture thou didst follow the flock, that thou shouldest be Prince of my people Israel. {8} And I have been with thee whither soever thou wentest: and I have slain all thine enemies before thee, and have made thee a name as of one of the great ones, that are renowned in the earth. {9} And I have given a place to my people Israel: it shall be planted, and shall dwell therein, and shall be moved no more, neither shall the children of iniquity consume them, as from the beginning, {10} since the days that I gave judges to my people Israel, & humbled all thine enemies. I therefore tell thee, that our Lord will build thee a house. {11} And when thou shalt have accomplished thy days to go to thy fathers, I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy children: and I will establish his Kingdom. {12} He shall build me a house, and I will confirm his throne for ever. {13} I will be to him for a father, and he shall be to me for a son: and my mercy I will not take from him, as I took from him, that was before thee. {14} And I will establish him in my house, and in my Kingdom for ever: and his throne shall be most firm for ever. {15} According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so spake Nathan to David. {16} And when king David came, and sat before our Lord, he said: Who am I Lord God, and what is my house, that thou shouldest give me such things? {17} But this also hath seemed little in thy sight, and therefore thou hast spoken concerning the house of thy servant for time to come also: and hast made me renowned above all men Lord God. {18} What can David add farther, whereas thou hast so glorified thy servant, and known him? {19} Lord for thy servant according to thy heart thou hast done all this magnificence, and would have all thy great wonders to be known. {20} Lord, there is not the like to thee: and there is none other beside thee, of all whom we have heard with our ears. {21} For what other is there, as thy people Israel, one nation in the earth, to the which God went, to deliver it and make it his people, and with his greatness & terrors cast out the nations before the face of it, which he delivered out of Aegypt? {22} And thou hast made thy people Israel to be thy people for ever, and thou Lord art made the God thereof. {23} Now therefore Lord, the word, which thou hast spoken to thy servant, and concerning his house, be it confirmed for ever, and do as thou hast spoken. {24} And let thy name remain and be magnified for ever: and let it be said: The Lord of hosts is God of Israel, & the house of David his servant permanent before him. {25} For thou Lord my God hast revealed the ear of thy servant, to build him a house: and therefore thy servant hath found confidence, to pray before thee. {26} Now therefore Lord thou art God: & thou hast spoken to thy servant so great benefits. {27} And thou hast begun to bless the house of thy servant, that it be always before thee: for thee o Lord blessing it, it shall be blessed for ever.

{1} AND it came to pass after these things, that David struck the Philisthiims, and humbled them, and took away Geth, and her daughters out of the hand of the Philisthiims, {2} and struck Moab; and the Moabites were made David's servants, offering him gifts. {3} At that time David struck Adarezer also the king of Soba of the country of Hemath, when he went on to dilate his empire as far as the river Euphrates. {4} David therefore took a thousand chariots of his, & seven thousand horsemen, & twenty thousand footmen, & he houghsinewed all the chariot horses, saving an hundred chariots, which he reserved to himself. {5} And the Syrian also of Damascus came moreover, to give aid to Adarezer the king of Soba, but David struck also of his, two & twenty thousand men. {6} And he put soldiers in Damascus, that Syria also should serve him, & bring gifts. And our Lord holp him in all things, to the which he went. {7} David also took the golden quivers, which the servants of Adarezer had, and he brought them into Jerusalem. {8} Moreover of Thebath, and Chun, the cities of Adarezer, very much brass, of which Salomon made the brazen Sea, and Pillars, and brazen vessels. {9} Which when Tou the king of Hemath had heard, to wit, that David had stricken all the army of Adarezer the king of Soba, {10} he sent Adoram his son to king David, to desire peace of him, and to congratulate him that he had stricken, and had overthrown Adarezer: for Tou was adversary to Adarezer. {11} But all the vessel also of gold, and silver, and brass, king David consecrated to our Lord, with the silver and gold, which he had taken out of all the nations, as well of Idumea, and Moab, and the children of Ammon, as of the Philisthiims &

Amalec. {12} And Abisai the son of Sarvia struck Edom in the Vale of salt pits, eighteen thousand: {13} and he appointed a garrison in Edom, that Idumea should serve David, and our Lord saved David in all things to which he went. {14} David therefore reigned over all Israel, & did judgement and justice to all his people. {15} Moreover Joab the son of Sarvia was over the army, and Josaphat the son of Ahilud commenter. {16} And Sadoc the son of Achitob, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, Priests: and Susa, Scribe. {17} Banaias also the son of Joiada over the legions Cerethi, and Phelethi: moreover the sons of David the chief at the king's hands.

The king of Ammon evil entreating king David's men, whom he had courteously sent to condole the death of his father, is overthrown in battle, 16. with the Assyrians his hired confederates.

{1} AND it chanced that Naas the king of the children of Ammon died, and his son reigned for him. {2} And David said: I will do mercy with Hanon the son of Naas: for his father hath done me pleasure. And David sent messengers to comfort him upon the death of his father. Who when they were come into the land of the children of Ammon, to comfort Hanon, {3} the Princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanon: Thou thinkest perhaps, that David for honour sake toward thy father hath sent some that should comfort thee; neither markest thou, that his servants are come to thee to espy, and seek out, and search thy land. {4} Therefore Hanon made the servants of David bald, and shaved them, and cut away their coats from the buttocks to the feet, and sent them away. {5} Who when they were gone, and had sent word to David, he sent to meet them (for they had sustained great reproach) and commanded them to tarry in Jericho, till their beard grew, and then they should return. {6} And the children of Ammon seeing, that they had done injury to David, as well Hanon as the rest of the people, they sent a thousand talents of silver, to hire them chariots and horsemen out of Mesopotamia, and from Syria Maacha, and from Soba. {7} And they hired two and thirty thousand chariots, & king Maacha with his people. Who when they were come, camped over against Medaba. The children of Ammon also being gathered together out of their cities, came to the battle. {8} Which when David had heard, he sent Joab, and all the host of valiant men: {9} and the children of Ammon issuing forth, put their army in array beside the gate of the city: and the kings, that were come to aid him, stood apart in the field. {10} Joab therefore understanding that battle was made against him before and behind, chose the most valiant men of all Israel, and marched on against the Syrian. {11} And the rest of the people he gave under the hand of Abisai his brother: and they went forth against the children of Ammon. {12} And he said: If the Syrian shall overcome me, thou shalt aid me: and if the children of Ammon shall overcome thee, I will aid thee. {13} Take courage, and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God: and our Lord will do that which is good in his sight. {14} Joab therefore marched on, and the people that were with him, against the Syrian to battle: and he put them to flight. {15} Moreover the children of Ammon seeing that the Syrian was fled, themselves also fled from Abisai his brother, and went into the city: and Joab also returned into Jerusalem. {16} But the Syrian seeing that he was fallen before Israel, sent messengers, and brought the Syrian, that was beyond the river: and Sophach the General of Adarezer's war, was their captain. {17} Which when it was told David, he gathered together all Israel, and passed Jordan, and fell upon them, & directed his army against him, they fighting on the contrary part. {18} And the Syrian fled from Israel: and David slew of the Syrians seven thousand chariots, and forty thousand footmen, and Sophach General of the army. {19} And the servants of Adarezer seeing themselves to be overcome of Israel, fled to David, and served him: and Syria would no more give aid to the children of Ammon.

King David prospereth in war against the Ammonites, 4. and Philistines, 6. among whom Jonathan David's nephew by his brother, killeth a monstrous giant, which had twelve fingers and twelve toes.

{1} AND it came to pass after the compass of a year, at such time when kings are wont to go forth to battle, Joab gathered together the army and force of war, and spoiled the land of the children of Ammon: and went on and besieged Rabba. Moreover David tarried in Jerusalem, when Joab struck Rabba, and destroyed it. {2} And David took the crown of Melchom from his head, and found in it a talent weight of gold, and most precious pearls, and he made himself thereof a diadem: he took also the spoils of the city very much. {3} And the people that was therein, he brought forth: and he made harrows, and sleds, and chariots shod with Iron to pass over them, so that they were cut asunder, and broken in pieces: so did David to all the cities of the children of Ammon: and he returned with all his people into Jerusalem. {4} After these things there was war begun in Gazer against the Philistians: in which Sobochai the Husathite struck Saphai of the kindred of Raphaim, and humbled them. {5} An other battle also was fought against the Philistians, wherein Adeodatus the son of Saltus a Bethlehemite struck the brother of Goliath the Gethite, the staff of whose spear was as it were a weaver's beam. {6} But an other battle also happened in Geth, wherein there was a very long man, having fingers and toes by six & six, that is, together four & twenty: who also was born of the stock of Rapha. {7} This man blasphemed Israel: and Jonathan the son of Samaa the brother of David struck him. These be the children of Rapha in Geth, which fell by the hand of David and of his servants.

J David sinneth in numbering his people, 8. repenteith, and prayeth, yet is punished, many dying of the plague, 15. till God shewing mercy spareth the rest. 16. David accusing himself and excusing the people is commanded by the Angel to offer sacrifice, which he (22. buying ground for an altar) 26. performeth.

{1} BUT Satan rose against Israel: and moved David to number Israel, to Joab, and to the Princes of the people: {2} And David said Go, and number Israel from Bersabee unto Dan, and bring me the number that I may know. {3} And Joab, answered: Our Lord increase his people an hundred fold more than they are: are they not, my lord king, all thy servants? Why doth my lord seek this, which may be reputed for a sin to Israel? {4} But the king's word prevailed more: and Joab went forth, and went about all Israel: and returned to Jerusalem. {5} And he gave David the number of them, whom he had surveyed: and all the number of Israel was found a thousand thousand & an hundred thousand men that drew sword: and of Juda four hundred seventy thousand men of war. {6} For Levi and Benjamin he numbered not: because Joab unwillingly executed the king's commandment. {7} And that which was commanded displeased God: and he struck Israel. {8} And David said to God: I have sinned exceedingly in that I would do this: I beseech thee take away the iniquity of thy servant, because I have done foolishly. {9} And our Lord spake to Gad the Seer of David, saying: {10} Go, & speak to David, & tell him: Thus saith our Lord: I give thee the choice of three things, choose one which thou wilst, & I will do it to thee. {11} And when Gad was come to David, he said to him: Thus saith our Lord: Choose which thou wilst: {12} either three years famine: or three months to fly from thine enemies, and not to be able to escape their sword: or three days the sword of our Lord, and pestilence to be in the land, & the Angel of our Lord to kill in all the coasts of Israel: now therefore see what I shall answer him, that sent me. {13} And David said to Gad: I am on every side in great distress: but it is better, that I fall into the hands of our Lord, because his mercies be many, than into the hands of men. {14} Our Lord therefore sent the pestilence in Israel:

and there fell of Israel seventy thousand men. {15} He sent also an Angel into Jerusalem, to strike it: and when it was stricken, our Lord saw, and had compassion upon the greatness of the evil, and commanded the Angel, that smote: It is sufficient, now let thy hand cease. Moreover the Angel of our Lord stood beside the floor of Ornan the Jebusite. {16} And David lifting up his eyes, saw the Angel of our Lord standing between heaven & earth, and a sword drawn in his hand, turned against Jerusalem: and they fell as well he as the ancients clothed in hair cloths, flat on the earth. {17} And David said to God: Am not I he, that commanded the people to be numbered? It is I that have sinned: it is I that have done the evil: this flock, what hath it deserved? Lord my God let thy hand be turned I beseech thee upon me, and upon my father's house: and let not thy people be stricken. {18} And the Angel of our Lord commanded Gad to tell David, that he should go up, and build an altar to our Lord God in the floor of Ornan the Jebusite. {19} David therefore went up according to the word of Gad, which he had spoken to him in the name of our Lord. {20} Moreover Ornan when he had looked up, and seen the Angel, and his four sons with him, they hid themselves. For at that time he threshed wheat in the floor. {21} Therefore when David came to Ornan, Ornan beheld him, and went forth to meet him out of the floor, and adored him flat on the ground. {22} And David said to him: Give me the place of thy floor, that I may build therein an altar to our Lord: so that thou take as much silver as it is worth, and the plague may cease from the people. {23} And Ornan said to David: Take it, and let my lord the king do whatsoever pleaseth him: yea the oxen also I give for holocaust, and the drays for wood, and wheat for sacrifice: I will give all things willingly. {24} And king David said to him: It shall not be so, but I will give thee silver as much as it is worth: for I may not take it from thee, and so offer to our Lord holocausts given gratis. {25} David therefore gave Ornan for the place, six hundred sicles of gold of most just weight. {26} And he built there an altar to our Lord: and he offered holocausts, and pacifics, and he invocated our Lord, and he heard him in fire from heaven upon the altar of holocaust. {27} And our Lord commanded the Angel: & he turned his sword into the scabbard. {28} David therefore forthwith seeing that our Lord had heard him in the floor of Ornan the Jebusite, immolated victims there. {29} But the tabernacle of our Lord, which Moyses made in the desert, and the altar of holocausts, was at that time in the excelse of Gabaon. {30} And David could not go to the altar to pray God there: for he had been frightened with exceeding fear, seeing the sword of the Angel of our Lord.

Workmen and all necessaries being prepared, 6. David commandeth Salomon to build the Temple, for so God hath appointed. 13. Exhorteth him to serve God, 17. and other principal men to assist him.

{1} AND David said: This is the house of God, and this is an altar for holocaust to Israel. {2} And he commanded that the proselytes of the land of Israel should be gathered together, and he appointed of them masons to hew stones and polish them, that the house of God might be built. {3} David prepared also very much iron for the nails of the gates, and for the joinings and jointures: & of brass an innumerable weight. {4} The cedar-trees also could not be esteemed, which the Sidonians and Tyrians brought down to David. {5} And David said: Salomon my son is yet a little child and delicate, and the house which I would have to be builded to our Lord, must be such as may be renowned in all countries: I therefore will prepare him necessaries. And for this cause before his death he prepared all the expenses. {6} And he called Salomon his son: and commanded him that he should build a house to our Lord the God of Israel. {7} And David said to Salomon: My son, it was my will to have built a house to the name of our Lord my God. {8} But the word of our Lord was made to me, saying: Thou hast shed much blood, and fought very many battles, thou canst not build a house to my name, so much blood being shed before me: {9} the son, which shall be born to thee, shall be a most quiet man: for I will make him rest from all his enemies round about: and for this cause, he shall be called Peaceable: and I will give peace and quietness in Israel all his days. {10} He shall build a house to my name, and he shall be to me for a son, and I will be to him for a father: and I will establish the throne of his Kingdom over Israel for ever. {11} Now therefore my son, Our Lord be with thee, and do thou prosper, and build the house of our Lord thy God, as he hath spoken of thee. {12} Our Lord also give thee wisdom and understanding, that thou mayst be able to rule Israel, and to keep the law of our Lord thy God. {13} For then thou shalt be able to prosper, if thou shalt keep the commandments, and judgments, which our Lord commanded Moyses to teach Israel: take courage and play the man, fear not, neither be dismayed. {14} Behold I in my poverty have prepared the charges of the house of our Lord, of gold an hundred thousand talents, and of silver a thousand thousand talents, but of brass, & of iron there is no weight, for the number is surpassed with the greatness: timber & stones I have prepared to all the charges. {15} Thou hast also very many artificers, hewers of stones, and masons, and carpenters, and of all occupations most skilful to make work {16} in gold and silver and brass and iron, whereof there is no number. Rise therefore, and do it, and our Lord will be with thee. {17} David also commanded all the Princes of Israel, that they should help Salomon his son. {18} You see, quoth he, that our Lord your God is with you, and hath given you rest round about, and hath delivered all your enemies into your hands, and the land is subdued before our Lord, and before his people. {19} Give therefore your heart and your souls, to seek our Lord your God: and arise, and build a sanctuary to our Lord God, that the Ark of the covenant of our Lord, and the vessels consecrated to our Lord, may be brought into the house, which is built to the name of our Lord.

King David being old constituteth Salomon king, 3. disposeth the offices of Levites, 7. to wit, the families of Gerson, 12. of Caath, 21. and of Merari: (26. ceasing to carry the tabernacle) 27. to serve in the temple.

{1} DAVID therefore being old and full of days, made Salomon his son king over Israel {2} And he gathered all the Princes of Israel, and the Priests and Levites. {3} And the Levites were numbered from thirty years and upward: and there were found thirty eight thousand men. {4} Of these were chosen, and distributed into the ministry of the house of our Lord four and twenty thousand: and of the overseers and judges, six thousand. {5} Moreover four thousand porters: and as many singing to our Lord on instruments, which he had made to sing on. {6} And David distributed them by the courses of the children of Levi, to wit, of Gerson, and Caath, and Merari. {7} The sons of Gerson: Leedan, and Semei. {8} The sons of Leedan: the Prince Jahiel, and Zethan, and Joel, three. {9} The sons of Semei: Salomith, and Hosiel, and Aram, three: these be the Princes of the families of Leedan. {10} Moreover the sons of Semei: Leheth, and Ziza, and Jaus, and Baria: these be the sons of Semei, four. {11} And Leheth was the first, Ziza the second: moreover Jaus and Baria had not many children, and therefore they were counted in one family, and in one house. {12} The children of Caath: Amram, and Isaar, Hebron, and Oziel, four. {13} The sons of Amram, Aaron, and Moyses. And Aaron was separated to minister in Sancta Sanctorum, he and his sons for ever, and to burn incense to our Lord according to his rite, and to bless his name for ever. {14} The sons of Moyses also the man of God were numbered in the tribe of Levi. {15} The sons of Moyses: Gersom and Eliezer: {16} the sons of Gersom: Subuel the first. {17} And the sons of Eliezer were: Rohobia the first: and Eliezer had no more sons. Moreover the children of Rohobia were multiplied exceedingly. {18} The sons of Isaar: Salomith the first.

{19} The sons of Hebron: Jeriau the first, Amarias the second, Jahaziel the third, Jecmaan the fourth. {20} The sons of Oziel: Micha the first, Jesia the second. {21} The sons of Merari: Moholi, and Musi. The sons of Moholi: Eleazar and Cis. {22} And Eleazar died, and had no sons but daughters, and the sons of Cis their brethren took them. {23} The sons of Musi: Moholi, and Eder, and Jerimoth, three. {24} These be the children of Levi in their kindreds and families, Princes by courses, and number of every head, that did the works of ministry of the house of our Lord from twenty years, and upward. {25} For David said: Our Lord the God of Israel hath given rest to his people, and the habitation of Jerusalem for ever. {26} Neither shall it be the office of the Levites to carry any more the tabernacle, and all the vessels thereof to minister. {27} According to the last precepts also of David the number of the children of Levi shall be numbered from twenty years & upward. {28} And they shall be under the hand of the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of our Lord, in the entrances, and in the chambers, and in the place of purification, and in the Sanctuary, and in all the works of the ministry of the temple of our Lord. {29} And the Priests over the loaves of proposition, and for the sacrifice of flour, and for cakes and azymes, and the frying pan and to roast, and over all weight and measure. {30} But the Levites to stand in the morning to confess, and sing to our Lord: and in like manner at evening, {31} as well in the oblation of the holocausts of our Lord, as in the Sabbaths and Calends, and the rest of the solemnities, according to the number, and ceremonies of every thing, continually before our Lord. {32} And let them keep the observations of the tabernacle of covenant, and the rite of the Sanctuary, and the observance of the children of Aaron their brethren, that they minister in the house of our Lord.

King David disposes sixteen families of Eleazar, and eight of Ithamar, 7. by lots, 19. to serve in the Temple, according to their Priestly function, 20. likewise principal Levites in their offices.

{1} MOREOVER to the sons of Aaron these were the partitions: The sons of Aaron: Nadab, and Abiu, and Eleazar, and Ithamar. {2} But Nadab and Abiu died before their father without children: and Eleazar and Ithamar did the function of priesthood. {3} And David divided them, that is, Sadoc of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their courses and ministry. {4} And there were found many more children of Eleazar among the principal men, than children of Ithamar. And he divided to them, that is, to the children of Eleazar, Princes by their families sixteen: and to the children of Ithamar by their families and houses eight. {5} Moreover he divided both families between themselves by lots: for there were Princes of the Sanctuary, and Princes of God, as well of the children of Eleazar, as of the children of Ithamar. {6} And Semeias wrote them, the son of Nathanael the Scribe a Levite, before the king and Princes, and Sadoc the Priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, the Princes also of the Priestly and Levitical families: one house, which was over the rest, Eleazar's, and an other house, which had the rest under it, Ithamar's. {7} And the first lot came forth to Joarib, the second to Jedei, {8} the third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim, {9} the fifth to Melchia, the sixth to Maiman, {10} the seventh to Accos, the eighth to Abia, {11} the ninth to Jesua, the tenth to Sechenia, {12} the eleventh to Eliasib, the twelfth to Jacim, {13} the thirteenth to Hoppah, the fourteenth to Isbaab, {14} the fifteenth to Belga, the sixteenth to Emmer, {15} the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Aphses, {16} the nineteenth to Pheteia, the twentieth to Hezechiel, {17} the one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul, {18} the three and twentieth to Dalaiau, the four and twentieth to Maaziau. {19} These be their courses according to their ministries, to enter into the house of our Lord, and according to their rite under the hand of Aaron their father: as our Lord the God of Israel had commanded. {20} Moreover of the children of Levi, which were remaining, there was Subael of the children of Amram: and of the children of Subael, Jehedeia. {21} Also of the children of Rohobia the Prince of Jesias. {22} And the son of Isaari Salemoth, & the son of Salemoth Jahath: {23} and his son Jeriau the first, Amarias the second, Jahaziel the third, Jecmaan the fourth. {24} The son of Oziel, Micha: the son of Micha, Samir. {25} The brother of Micha, Jesia: and the son of Jesia, Zacharias. {26} The sons of Merari: Moholi and Musi. The son of Oziau: Benno. {27} The son also of Merari: Oziau, and Soam, and Zacchur, and Hebri. {28} Moreover the son of Moholi: Eleazar, who had no children. {29} And the son of Cis, Jeramael. {30} The sons of Musi: Moholi, Eder, and Jerimoth. These be the sons of Levi according to the houses of their families. {31} And they also did cast lots against their brethren the sons of Aaron before David the king, and Sadoc, and Ahimelech, and the Princes of the Priestly and Levitical families, as well the elder as the younger. Lot divided all equally.

Four sons of Asaph, six of Idithun, and fourteen of Heman, chief musicians, 7. with their brethren in all two hundred and fourscore, 8. are distributed by Lots, in four and twenty companies, to serve in the temple.

{1} THEREFORE David, and the officers of the host separated for the ministry the sons of Asaph, and Heman, and Idithun: which should prophesy on harps, and psalteries, and cymbals, according to their number serving the office dedicated to them. {2} Of the sons of Asaph: Zacchur, and Joseph, and Nathania, and Asarela, the sons of Asaph: under the hand of Asaph prophesying near the king. {3} Moreover Idithun: the sons of Idithun, Godolias, Sori, Jeseias, and Hasabias, and Mathathias, six, under the hand of their father Idithun, who prophesied on harp over them that confessed and praised our Lord. {4} Of Heman also: the sons of Heman Bocciau, Mathaniau, Oziel, Subuel, and Jerimoth, Hananias, Hanani, Eliatha, Geddelthi, and Romemthiezer, & Jesbacassa, Mellothi, Othir, Mahazioth: {5} all these the sons of Heman the Seer of the king in the words of God, that he might exalt the horn: & God gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters. {6} All under their fathers were distributed to sing in the temple of our Lord, on cymbals, & psalteries, and harps, for the ministries of the house of our Lord near the king: to wit, Asaph, and Idithun, and Heman. {7} And the number of them with their brethren, that taught the song of our Lord, all the teachers two hundred eighty eight. {8} And they did cast lots by their courses, equally as well the elder as the younger, the learned and the unlearned together. {9} And the first lot came forth to Joseph, which was of Asaph. The second to Godolias, to him and his sons, and his brethren twelve. {10} The third to Zachur, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {11} The fourth to Isari, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {12} The fifth to Nathania, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {13} The sixth to Bocciau, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {14} The seventh to Isreela, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {15} The eighth to Jesaia, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {16} The ninth to Mathania, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {17} The tenth to Semeias, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {18} The eleventh to Azareel, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {19} The twelfth to Hasabia, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {20} The thirteenth to Subael, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {21} The fourteenth to Mathathias, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {22} The fifteenth to Jerimoth, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {23} The sixteenth to Hananias, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {24} The seventeenth to Jesbacassa, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {25} The eighteenth to Hanani, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {26} The nineteenth to Mellothi, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {27} The twentieth to Eliatha, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {28} The one and twentieth to Othir, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {29} The two & twentieth to Geddelthi, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {30} The three and twentieth to Mahazioth, to his sons and his brethren twelve. {31} The four and twentieth to Romemthiezer, to his sons and his brethren twelve.

Porters are designed by lots to watch at four gates of the temple: 20. others made keepers of the holy treasure, & vessels, 30. Officers also appointed in the two tribes and half over Jordan, for God's service and the king's.

{1} AND the divisions of the porters: of the Corites Meselemia, the son of Core, of the sons of Asaph. {2} The sons of Meselemia: Zacharias the first-begotten, Jadihel the second, Zabadias the third, Jathanael the fourth, {3} Aelam the fifth, Johanan the sixth, Elionai the seventh. {4} And the sons of Obededom Semeias the first-begotten, Jozabad the second, Joah the third, Sachar the fourth, Nathanael the fifth, {5} Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Phollathi the eight: because our Lord blessed him. {6} And to Semei his son were born sons, the chief of their families: for they were most valiant men. {7} The sons then of Semeias: Othni, and Raphael, and Obed, Elizabad, and his brethren most valiant men: Eliu also, and Samachias. {8} All these of the sons of Obededom: they, & their sons, & their brethren most able to minister, sixty two of Obededom. {9} Moreover the sons of Meselemia, and their brethren most strong, eighteen. {10} And of Hosa, that is, of the sons of Merari: Semri the Prince (for he had not a first-begotten, and therefore his father made him chief) {11} Helcias the second, Tabelias the third, Zacharias, the fourth: all these the sons, {424} and brethren of Hosa, thirteen. {12} These were divided into porters, that the Princes also of the watches, even as their brethren, might minister in the house of our Lord. {13} Lots therefore were cast equally, both to little, and great, by their families, for every one of the gates. {14} The lot then of the East fell to Selemia. Moreover to Zacharias his son, a most wise man, and skilful, the North quarter chanced by lot. {15} But to Obededom and his sons, toward the South: in which part of the house was the Council of the ancients. {16} Sephim, and Hosa toward the West, by the gate which leadeth to the way of ascent: watch against watch. {17} And toward the East six Levites: and toward the North four a day: and toward the South likewise in a day four: and where the Council was, two and two. {18} In the cells also of the porters toward the West four in the way: and two at every cell. {19} These be the divisions of the porters of the sons of Core, and of Merari {20} Moreover Achias was over the treasures of the house of God, and the vessels of the holy places. {21} The sons also of Leden, the sons of Gersonni: of Leden princes of the families, Leden, and Gersonni, Jehieli. {22} The sons of Jehieli: Zathan, and Joel, his brethren over the treasures of the house of our Lord, {23} to the Amramites, and Isaarites, and Hebronites, and Ozielites. {24} And Subael the son of Gersom, the son of Moyses, chief over the treasures. {25} His brethren also Eliezer, whose son Rahabia, and his son Isaias, and his son Joram, his son also Zechri, and his son Selemith. {26} Selemith himself, and his brethren over the treasures of the sanctified holy things, which David the king sanctified, and the Princes of families, and the centurions, and the captains of the host {27} of the wars, and of the spoils of the battles, which they had consecrated to the maintenance and furniture of the temple of our Lord. {28} And all these things did Samuel the Seer sanctify, and Saul the son of Cis, and Abner the son of Ner, and Joab the son of Sarvia: and all that had sanctified them by the hand of Selemith, and of his brethren. {29} But the chief over the Isaarites was Chonenias, and his sons, to the works abroad over Israel, to teach and judge them. {30} Moreover the Hebronites Hasabias, and his brethren most able men, a thousand seven hundred were chief over Israel beyond Jordan against the West, in all the works of our Lord, & for the ministry of the king. {31} And the Prince of the Hebronites was Jeria according to their families and kindreds. In the fortieth year of king David they were numbered, and there were found most valiant men in Jazer Galaad, {32} and his brethren of stronger age, two thousand seven hundred Princes of families. And David the king made them overseers over the Rubenites and the Gaddites, and the half tribe of Manasses, for all the ministry of God, and the king.

Twelve military tribunes, with four and twenty thousand under every one, by course of months serve about the king, 16. Other twelve tribunes of the people govern in several tribes, 25. Prefects also are made over the king's treasures, cattles, and other commodities in the court, camp, and country.

{1} AND the children of Israel according to their number, the Princes of families, tribunes, and centurions, and overseers, that ministered to the king according to their companies, coming in and going out every month in the year, every one was chief over four and twenty thousand. {2} Over the first company the first month Jesbaom was chief the son of Zabdiel, and under him four & twenty thousand. {3} Of the sons of Phares, the Prince of all the Princes in the host the first month. {4} The company of the second month had Dudia an Ahohite, & after him an other named Macelloth, which governed part of four and twenty thousand. {5} Captain also of the third company in the third month, was Banaias the son of Joiada the Priest: and in his division four and twenty thousand. {6} The same is Banaias the most valiant among thirty, and above the thirty, and over his company Amizabad his son was chief. {7} The fourth, in the fourth month, Asahel the brother of Joab, and Zabadias his son after him: and in his company four and twenty thousand. {8} The fifth, in the fifth month, Prince Samaoth, a Jezerite: and his company four and twenty thousand. {9} The sixth, in the sixth month, Hira the son of Acces a Thecuite: and in his company four and twenty thousand. {10} The seventh, in the seventh month, Helles a Phallonite of the children of Ephraim: and in his company four and twenty thousand. {11} The eight, in the eighth month, Sobochai an Husathite of the stock of Sarahi: and in his company four and twenty thousand. {12} The ninth, in the ninth month, Abiezer an Anathothite of the children of Jemini: and in his company four and twenty thousand. {13} The tenth, in the tenth month, Marai, & he a Netophathite of the stock of Zarahi: & in his company four and twenty thousand. {14} The eleventh in the eleventh month, Banaias, a Pharathonite of the children of Ephraim: & in his company four & twenty thousand. {15} The twelfth, in the twelfth month, Holdai a Netophathite, of the stock of Gethoniel: and in his company four and twenty thousand. {16} Furthermore there were chief over the tribes of Israel, over the Rubenites, Duke Eliezer the son of Zechri: over the Simeonites, Duke Saphatias the son of Maacha: {17} over the Levites, Hasabias the son of Samuel: over the Aaronsites, Sadoc: {18} over Juda, Eliu the brother of David: over Issachar, Amri the son of Michael: {19} over the Zabulonites, Jesmaias the son of Abdias: over the Nephthalites, Jerimoth the son of Ozriel: {20} over the children of Ephraim, Osee the son of Ozariu: over the half tribe of Manasses, Joel the son of Phadaia: {21} and over the half tribe of Manasses in Galaad, Jaddo the son of Zacharias: and over Benjamin, Jasiel the son of Abner. {22} But over Dan, Ezrihel the son of Jeroham: these be the Princes of the children of Israel. {23} And David would not number them from twenty years downward: because our Lord had said that he would multiply Israel as the stars of heaven. {24} Joab the son of Sarvia began to number, and finished not: because upon this there fell wrath upon Israel: and therefore the number of them that were numbered, was not registered in the chronicles of king David. {25} And over the king's treasures was Azmoth the son of Adiel, and over those treasures, which were in the cities, and in the towns, and in the towers, Jonathan the son of Ozias was president. {26} And over husbandry, and the husbandmen, which tilled the ground, Ezri the son of Chelub was overseer: {27} and over the dressers of vineyards, Semeias a Romathite: and over the wine cellars, Zabdias an Aphonite. {28} For over the Olivets and the fig grooves, which were in the champion, was Balanam a Gederite:

and over the oil cellars, Joas. {29} Furthermore over the herds that fed in Saron, the overseer was Setrai a Saronite: and over the oxen in the valleys, Saphat the son of Adli: {30} but over the camels, Ubil an Ismaelite: and over the asses, Jadias a Meronathite: {31} over the sheep also Jaziz an Agarene all these, Princes of the substance of king David. {32} And Jonathan David's uncle, a counsellor, a man wise and learned: He and Jahiel the son of Hachamoni were with the king's sons. {33} Achitophel also the king's counsellor, and Chusai an Arachite the king's friend. {34} After Achitophel was Joiada the son of Banaias, and Abiathar. And the Prince of the king's army was Joab.

Again king David calling all his states together, with commemoration of God's singular favour in electing him, and Salomon, 8. exhorte them all, and namely his son to serve God sincerely: 10. and to build the temple, describing in what form to make it.

{1} DAVID therefore called together all the Princes of Israel, the Dukes of the tribes, and the heads of the companies, which ministered to the king: the tribunes also and the centurions, and them that were chief over the substance and possessions of the king, and his sons with the eunuchs, and the mighty, and all the most valiant in the host of Jerusalem. {2} And when the king had risen up, and stood, he said: Hear me my brethren, and my people: I meant to have built a house, wherein the Ark of our Lord might rest, and the foot stool of the feet of our God: and to build it I prepared all things. {3} But God said to me: Thou shalt not build a house to my name: because thou art a man of war, and hast shed blood {4} Howbeit our Lord the God of Israel chose me of all the house of my father, to be king over Israel for ever: for of Juda he chose the Princes: moreover of the house of Juda, my father's house: and of the sons of my father, it pleased him to choose me king over all Israel. {5} Yea and of my sons (for our Lord hath given me many sons) he hath chosen Salomon my son, to sit in the throne of the Kingdom of our Lord over Israel, {6} and he said to me: Salomon thy son shall build my house, and my courts: for him have I chosen to me for a son, and I will be to him for a father. {7} And I will confirm his Kingdom for ever, if he shall persevere to do my precepts, and my judgments, as at this day. {8} Now then before all the assembly of Israel in the hearing of our God, keep ye, and search all the commandments of our Lord God: that you may possess the good land, & may leave it to your children after you for ever. {9} And thou Salomon my son, know the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart, and a voluntary mind: for our Lord searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all cogitations of minds. If thou seek him, thou shalt find: but if thou forsake him he will reject thee for ever. {10} Now therefore because our Lord hath chosen thee to build the house of the Sanctuary, take courage, and perfit it. {11} And David gave to Salomon his son a description of the porch, and of the temple and of the cellars, and of the upper loft, and of the chambers in the inner rooms, and of the house of the propitiation, {12} moreover also of all the courts, which he had thought upon, and of the chambers round about, for the treasures of the house of our Lord, and for the treasures of the holy things, {13} and of the divisions of the Priests and the Levites, for all the works of the house of our Lord, and for all the vessels of the ministry of the temple of our Lord. {14} Gold in weight for every vessel of the ministry. A weight of silver also according to the diversity of the vessels and works. {15} And for golden candlesticks also, and their lamps, gold according to the measure of every candlestick, and of the lamps. In like manner also for the silver candlesticks, and for their lamps, according to the diversity of the measure, he delivered a weight of silver. {16} He gave also gold for tables of proposition, according to the diversity of the tables: in like manner also silver for other silver tables. {17} For flesh-hooks also, and phials, and censers of most pure gold, and for little lions of gold, according to the quality of the measure he distributed a weight, for lion and lion. In like manner also for lions of silver he separated a diverse weight of silver. {18} And for the Altar whereupon incense is burnt, he gave most pure gold: that of it might be made a similitude of the chariot of the Cherubs spreading their wings, and covering the Ark of the covenant of our Lord. {19} All things, quoth he, came written with the hand of our Lord unto me: that I might understand all the works of the pattern. {20} David also said to Salomon his son: Deal manfully, and take courage, and do it: fear not, and be not dismayed: for our Lord my God will be with thee, and will not leave thee, nor forsake thee, till thou perfitt all the work of the ministry of the house of our Lord. {21} Behold the divisions of the Priests and the Levites, for every ministry of the house of our Lord, assist thee, and are ready, and as well the Princes know, as the people, to do all thy precepts.

King David once more by word, and example of his own bountifulness, inviteth others to assist in building the temple, 6. whereto the Princes and people contribute much. 10. So after praises, 18. prayers, 21. and sacrifices offered to God. 22. Salomon is anointed king. 26. And king David dieth blessedly, having reigned forty years.

{1} AND David the king spake to all the assembly: Salomon my son alone hath God chosen, as yet a child and a little tender one: for the work is great, neither is the habitation prepared for man, but for God. {2} And I with all my ability have prepared the expenses of the house of my God. Gold for vessels of gold, and silver for them of silver, brass for them of brass, iron for them of iron, wood for them of wood: and onyx stones, and as it were stibians, and of diverse colours, and every precious stone, and marble of Paros most abundantly: {3} and above these things, which I have offered into the house of my God, I give of mine own peculiar goods, gold & silver unto the temple of my God, beside those things, which I have prepared for the holy house: {4} Three thousand talents of gold of the gold of Ophir: and seven thousand talents of most approved silver, to guilt the walls of the temple. {5} And wheresoever there needeth gold, of gold: and wheresoever there needeth silver, of silver: let the works be made by the hands of the artificers: and if any man offer voluntarily, let him fill his hand to day, and offer what he will to our Lord. {6} The Princes therefore of the families promised, and the nobles of the tribes of Israel, the tribunes also and the centurions, and the Princes of the king's possessions. {7} And they gave unto the works of the house of our Lord, of gold, five thousand talents, and ten thousand solidos: of silver ten thousand talents, and of brass eighteen thousand talents: of iron also an hundred thousand talents. {8} And with whomsoever were found stones, they gave them into the treasures of the house of our Lord, by the hand of Jahiel the Gersonite. {9} And the people rejoiced, when they promised vows of their own accord: because they did offer them to our Lord with all their heart: yea and David the king rejoiced with great joy. {10} And he blessed our Lord before all the multitude, and he said: Blessed art thou, o Lord the God of Israel, our father, from eternity unto eternity. {11} Thine o Lord is the magnificence, and might, and glory, and victory: and to thee is the praise: for all things that be in heaven, and in the earth, are thine: thine o Lord is the Kingdom, & thou art over all Princes. {12} Thine are riches and thine is glory: thou hast dominion over all, in thy hand is power and might: in thy hand greatness, and the empire of all things. {13} Now therefore our God we confess to thee, and we praise thy glorious name. {14} Who am I, and what is my people, that we can promise thee all these things? All are thine: and things that we received of thy hand, we have given thee. {15} For we are pilgrims before thee, and strangers, as all our fathers. Our days are as a shadow upon the earth, and there is no abiding. {16} Lord our God, all this plenty, which we have prepared that a house might be built to thy holy name, is of thy hand, and all things are thine. {17} I know my God that thou provest the hearts, and lovest simplicity, wherefore I also in the simplicity of my heart, gladly have offered all these things:

and thy people, which is here found, I have seen with great joy offer thee donaries. {18} Lord God of Abraham, and Isaac, and Israel our fathers, keep for ever this will of their heart, and let this mind remain always to the honour of thee. {19} To Salomon also my son give a perfect heart, that he keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy ceremonies, and do all things: and build the house, the expenses whereof I have prepared. {20} And David commanded the whole assembly: Bless ye our Lord God. And all the assembly blessed our Lord the God of their fathers: and they bowed themselves, & adored God, and then the king. {21} And they immolated victim to our Lord: and they offered holocausts the day following, oxen a thousand, rams a thousand, lambs a thousand with their libaments, and with all rite most abundantly for all Israel. {22} And they did eat, and drink before our Lord in that day with great joy. And they anointed the second time Salomon the son of David. And they anointed him to our Lord for the Prince, and Sadoc for the high Priest. {23} And Salomon sat upon the throne of our Lord as king for David his father, and he please all: and all Israel obeyed him. {24} Yea and all the princes, {428} and men of might, and all the sons of king David gave their hand, and were subject to Salomon the king. {25} Our Lord therefore magnified Salomon over all Israel: & gave him the glory of a Kingdom, such as no king of Israel had before him. {26} David therefore the son of Isai reigned over all Israel. {27} And the days that he reigned over Israel, were forty years: in Hebron he reigned seven years, and in Jerusalem three & thirty years. {28} And he died in a good old age, full of days, and riches, & glory. And Salomon his son reigned for him. {29} But the acts of king David the first and the last are written in the Book of Samuel the Seer, and in the Book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the Volume of Gad the Seer: {30} and of all his Kingdom, and strength, and of the times, that passed under him, either in Israel, or in all the Kingdoms of the earth.

THE SECOND BOOK OF PARALIPOMENON

Salomon established in the throne, offereth a thousand hosts of sacrifice, 7. asking wisdom, 12. it is given him; with riches, and temporal glory, which he asked not. 14. He provideth many chariots and horsemen.

{1} SALOMON therefore the son of David was strengthened in his Kingdom, and our Lord was with him, and magnified him on high. {2} And Salomon commanded all Israel, the tribunes, and the centurions, & the dukes, and judges of all Israel, and the Princes of the families: {3} and he went with all the multitude into the Excelse of Gabaon, where was the tabernacle of the covenant of our Lord, which Moyses the servant of God made, in the wilderness. {4} For David had brought the Ark of God from Cariathiarim into the place, which he had prepared for it, & where he had pitcht a tabernacle for it, that is, in Jerusalem: {5} The altar also of brass, which Beseleel the son of Uri the son of Hur had made, was there before the tabernacle of our Lord: which also Salomon sought, and all the assembly. {6} And Salomon went up to the altar of brass, before the tabernacle of the covenant of our Lord, and offered on it a thousand hosts. {7} And behold in that very night God appeared to him, saying: Ask what thou wilt that I may give it thee. {8} And Salomon said to God: Thou hast done great mercy with my father David: and hast made me king for him. {9} Now therefore Lord God be thy word fulfilled, which thou hast promised to David my father: for thou hast made me king over thy people great in number, which is so innumerable as the dust of the earth. {10} Give me wisdom and intelligence, that I may come in and go out before thy people: for who can worthily judge this thy people, which is so great? {11} And God said to Salomon:

Because this rather hath pleased thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, and substance, and glory, nor their lives that hate thee, nor many days of life: but hast desired wisdom and knowledge, that thou mayst be able to judge my people, over which I have made thee king: {12} Wisdom and knowledge are given thee: and riches, and substance, and glory I will give thee, so that none among the kings neither before thee, nor after thee shall be like thee. {13} Salomon therefore came from the Excelse of Gabaon into Jerusalem before the tabernacle of covenant, and reigned over Israel. {14} And he gathered to him chariots and horsemen, and there amounted to him a thousand four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen: and he caused them to be in the cities of the chariots, and with the king in Jerusalem. {15} And the king gave silver and gold in Jerusalem as stones, and cedar-trees as sycamores, which grow in the champion in great multitude. {16} And there were horses brought him from Aegypt, and from Coa by the king's merchants, which went, and bought by a price, {17} a chariot of four horses for six hundred pieces of silver, & an horse for an hundred fifty: in like manner of all the kingdoms of the Hethites, and of the kings of Syria market was made.

Other workmen being provided to build the Temple, 7. Salomon procureth a cunning artificer from the king of Tyre, and special timber, 16. to be cut, and sent from thence.

{1} AND Salomon determined to build a house to the name of our Lord, and a palace for himself. {2} And he numbered seventy thousand men that carried on their shoulders, and eighty thousand that should hew stones in the mountains, and overseers of them three thousand six hundred. {3} He sent also to Hiram the king of Tyre, saying: As thou didst with David my father, and didst send him cedar-trees, to build him a house, wherein also he dwelt: {4} so do with me that I may build a house to the name of our Lord my God, that I may consecrate it to burn incense before him, and to perfume with aromatical spices, and to the everlasting proposition of loaves, and for holocausts, morning and evening, on the sabbaths also, and the new moons, and the solemnities of our Lord God for ever, which are commanded Israel. {5} For the house which I desire to build, is great: for our God is great above all gods. {6} Who then can be able to build him a worthy house? If heaven, and the heavens of heavens can not contain him: how great am I, that I may build him a house? But to this end only, that incense may be burnt before him. {7} Send me therefore a cunning man, that hath skill to work in gold, and silver, brass, & iron, purple, scarlet, and hyacinth, and that knoweth to make engraved works with these artificers, which I have with me in Jewry, and Jerusalem, whom David my father prepared. {8} But send me also cedar-trees, fir-trees, and pine trees from Libanus: for I know that thy servants have skill to hew the timber of Libanus, and my servants shall be with thy servants, {9} that many trees may be prepared for me. For the house which I desire to build, is exceeding great, and glorious. {10} Moreover to the workmen, that shall hew the trees, thy servants, I will give for victuals of wheat twenty thousand cores, and of barley as many cores, & of wine twenty thousand, metretes, of oil also twenty thousand sates {11} And Hiram the king of Tyre by letters, which he sent to Salomon, said: Because the Lord loved his people, therefore hath he made thee to reign over it, {12} And he added, saying: Blessed be the Lord the God of Israel, that made heaven & earth, who hath given to David the king a son wise and learned, and of understanding, and prudent, to build a house to the Lord, and a palace for himself. {13} I therefore have sent thee a man wise and most skilful, Hiram my father, {14} the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, whose father was a Tyrian, who knoweth to work in gold, and silver, brass, and iron, and marble, and in timber, in purple also, and in hyacinth, and silk, and scarlet: and that knoweth to grave all engraving, and to devise wisely whatsoever in the work is necessary with thy artificers, & with the artificers of my lord David thy father. {15} The wheat therefore, & barley, & oil, and wine, which thou my lord hast promised, send to thy servants. {16} And we will cut down the trees out of Libanus, as many as shall be necessary for thee, and will convey them in boats by the sea unto Joppe: and it shall be thy part to transport them into Jerusalem. {17} Salomon therefore numbered all the men, that were proselytes in the land of Israel, after the numbering which David his father numbered, and they were found an hundred fifty three thousand & six hundred. {18} And he made of them seventy thousand, that should carry burdens on their shoulders, and eighty thousand, that should cut stones out of the mountains: & three thousand and six hundred overseers of the work of the people.

The Temple is begun to be built in mount Moria, the fourth year of Salomon's reign: 3. the form whereof is described, and the precious matter, 8. especially of Sancta Sanctorum: 14. with a costly veil, 15. and two excellent pillars before the gate.

{1} AND Salomon began to build the house of our Lord in Jerusalem, in mount Moria, which had been shewed to David his father, in the place, which David had prepared in the floor of Orman the Jebusite. {2} And he began to build in the second month, in the fourth year of his Kingdom. {3} And these be the foundations, which Salomon laid, to build the house of God, of length in the first measure sixty cubits, of breadth twenty cubits. {4} But the porch before the front, which was extended in length according to the measure of the breadth of the house, of twenty cubits: moreover the height was of an hundred twenty cubits: and he did gild it on the inside with most pure gold. {5} Also the greater house he covered with wooden boards of fir tree, & he fastened on plates of fine gold throughout: and he graved in it palm-trees, and as it were little chains embracing one an other. {6} He paved also the floor of the Temple with most precious marble, in much beauty. {7} Moreover it was most tried gold, of the plates whereof he covered the house, and the beams thereof, and the posts, and the walls, and the doors: and he graved Cherubs in the walls. {8} He made also the house of Sanctum Sanctorum: the length according to the breadth of the house, of twenty cubits: and the breadth likewise of it twenty cubits: and he covered it with plates of gold, as it were six hundred talents. {9} Yea and he made nails of gold, so that every nail weighed fifty sicles a piece: the upper chambers also he covered with gold. {10} He made also in the house of Sanctum Sanctorum two Cherubs of statuary work: and he covered them with gold. {11} The wings of the Cherubs were extended twenty cubits, so that one wing had five cubits, and touched the wall of the house: and the other having five cubits, touched the wing of the other Cherub. {12} In like manner the wing of the other Cherub, had five cubits, and touched the wall: and his other wing of five cubits, touched the wing of the other Cherub. {13} Therefore the wings of both the Cherubs were spread forth, and were extended twenty cubits: and they stood upright on their feet, and their faces were turned to the utter house. {14} He made also a veil of hyacinth, purple, scarlet, and silk: & wove in it Cherubs. {15} Before the doors also of the temple two pillars, which had five and thirty cubits in height: moreover their heads, of five cubits. {16} Moreover also as it were little chains in the oracle, and he put them to the heads of the pillars: pomegranates also an hundred, which he put between the little chains. {17} The pillars also themselves he put in the entrance of the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left: that, which was on the right hand, he called Jachin: and that on the left hand, Boz.

The forms of the brazen altar, 2. of the lavatory (or Sea) with figures of twelve oxen, 6. of other ten small lavatories, 7. ten candlesticks, 8. ten tables, and an hundred basins, a great hall for the Priests, 10. and other vessels, and ornaments of the Temple are described.

{1} HE made also an altar of brass of twenty cubits in length, and of twenty cubits in breadth, and of ten cubits in height. {2} A Sea also cast, ten cubits from brim to brim, round in compass: it had five cubits in height, and a cord of thirty cubits did compass it round about. {3} There was also under it the similitude of oxen, and certain engravings of ten cubits on the outside, compassed the belly of the Sea, as it were with two rews. {4} And the oxen were cast: and the Sea it-self was set upon the twelve oxen, of the which three looked toward the North, and other three to the West: moreover other three to the South, and the three that remained, to the East, having the Sea put upon them: and the hinder parts of the oxen were inward under the sea. {5} Moreover the thickness thereof had the measure of a palm, and the brim thereof was as it were the brim of a chalice, or of a crisped lily: and it held three thousand metretes. {6} He made also ten lavatories: and set five on the right hand, and five on the left, that they might wash in them all things, that they would offer for holocaust: moreover in the Sea the Priests were washed. {7} And he made also ten golden candlesticks, according to the fashion which they were commanded to be made by: and he set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left. {8} Moreover also ten tables: and he set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left. Phials also of gold an hundred. {9} He made also the court of the Priests, and a great hall: and doors in the hall, which he covered with brass. {10} Moreover he set the Sea on the right side against the East toward the South. {11} And Hiram made cauldrons, and flesh-hooks, and phials: and accomplished all the king's work in the house of God: {12} that is to say, two pillars, and the chapters and the heads, and as it were certain little nets, which should cover the heads over the chapters. {13} Pomegranates also four hundred, and two little nets, so that two rews of the pomegranates were joined to each little net, which covered the pommels, and the heads of the pillars. {14} He made feet also, and lavatories, which he put upon the feet: {15} one sea, also twelve oxen under the sea. {16} And the cauldrons, and flesh-hooks, and phials. All the vessels did Hiram his father make for Salomon in the house of our Lord of most pure brass. {17} In the country of Jordan did the king cast them, in a clay ground between Socot and Saredatha. {18} And the multitude of vessels was innumerable, so that the weight of the brass was not known. {19} And Salomon made all the vessels of the house of God, and the golden altar, and the tables, and upon them the loaves of proposition, {20} the candlesticks also with their lamps to give light before the oracle, according to the rite, of most pure gold: {21} and certain flourishing things, and lamps, and golden tongs all were made of most fine gold. {22} The vessels also of perfume and censers, and phials, and little mortars, of most pure gold. And he graved the doors of the inner temple, that is, in Sancta Sanctorum: and the doors of the temple without, of gold. And so all the work was finished which Salomon made in the house of our Lord.

Many gifts are offered. 4. The Ark is brought with great solemnity into the Temple. 6. Innumerable hosts are offered, [11], with excellent music, and the Temple is replenished with the glory of God.

{1} SALOMON therefore brought in all the things, that David his father had vowed, the silver, & gold, & all the vessels he put in the treasures of the house of God. {2} After which things he gathered together all the ancients of Israel, and all the Princes of the tribes, and the heads of families, of the children of Israel into Jerusalem, to bring the Ark of the covenant of our Lord from the City of David, which is Sion. {3} There came therefore unto the king all the men of Israel in the solemn day of the seventh month. {4} And when all the ancients of Israel were come, the Levites carried the Ark, {5} and brought it in, and all the furniture of the tabernacle. Moreover the Priests with the Levites did carry the vessels of the Sanctuary, which were in the tabernacle. {6} And king Salomon, and all the assembly of Israel, and all that were gathered before the Ark, immolated rams, and oxen without any number: for so great was the multitude of victims. {7} And the Priests brought in the Ark of the covenant of our Lord into his place, that is, to the oracle of the temple, into Sancta Sanctorum under the wings of the cherubs: {8} so that the cherubs spread their wings over the place wherein the Ark was set, and covered the Ark it self with his bars. {9} And the heads of the bars, wherewith the Ark was carried, because they were a little longer, appeared before the oracle: but if a man had been a little outward, he could not see them. The Ark therefore was there until this present day. {10} And there was nothing in the Ark, but the two tables, which Moyses had put in Horeb, when our Lord gave the law to the children of Israel coming out of Aegypt. {11} And the Priests being gone out of the Sanctuary (for all the Priests that could be found there, were sanctified, neither as yet at that time were the courses & order of the ministries divided among them) {12} as well the Levites as the singing men, that is, both they which were under Asaph, and they which were under Heman, and they which were under Idithun, their sons, and brethren revested with fine linen cloths, sounding cymbals, and psalteries, and harps, standing at the East side of the Altar, and with them Priests an hundred twenty, sounding with trumpets. {13} Therefore all sounding together, both with trumpets, and voice, and cymbals, and organs, and with diverse kind of musical instruments, and lifting up their voice on high: the sound was heard far off, so that when they began to praise our Lord, and to say: Confess to our Lord, because he is good, because his mercy is for ever: the house of God was filled with a cloud, {14} that the Priests could not stand and minister for the darkness. For the glory of our Lord had filled the house of God.

Salomon blesseth the people, 4. prayeth to God, giving thanks for benefits received, 16. and requesting continual protection, and that God will hear the prayers of the people, 32. yea also of strangers that pray in the Temple.

{1} THEN Salomon said: Our Lord promised that he would dwell in darkness: {2} and I have built a house to his name, that he might dwell there for ever. {3} And the king turned his face, and blessed all the multitude of Israel (for all the multitude stood attent) and said: {4} Blessed be our Lord the God of Israel, who in work hath accomplished that, which he spake to David my father, saying: {5} From the day, that I brought my people out of the Land of Aegypt, I chose not a city of all the tribes of Israel, that a house might be built in it to my name: neither did I choose any other man, to be Duke in my people Israel. {6} but I chose Jerusalem, that my name may be in it: and I chose David, that I might appoint him over my people Israel. {7} And whereas David my father had meant to build a house to the name of our Lord the God of Israel, {8} our Lord said to him: Because thy will was this, that thou wouldest build a house to my name, thou hast done well certes to have such a will: {9} howbeit thou shalt not build the house, but thy son, which shall come out of thy loins, he shall build a house to my name. {10} Our Lord therefore hath accomplished his word, which he spake: and I am risen for David my father, and sit upon the throne of Israel, as our Lord hath spoken: and have built a house to the name of our Lord the God of Israel. {11} And I have put in it the Ark, wherein is the covenant of our Lord, which he made with the children of Israel: {12} He therefore stood before the Altar of our Lord, over against all the multitude of Israel, and stretched forth his hands. {13} For Salomon had made an eminent place of brass, and had put it in the midst of the temple, having five cubits of length, and breadth, & three of height: & he stood upon it: and afterward kneeling over against all the multitude of Israel, and his hands lifted up toward heaven, {14} he said: Lord God of Israel, there is not the like God to thee in heaven and in earth: which keapest covenant and mercy with thy servants, that walk before thee in all their heart: {15} which hast performed to thy servant David my father what things soever thou hadst spoken to him: and the things that by mouth thou hadst promised, in work thou hast accomplished, as also the present time proverth. {16} Now therefore Lord God of Israel, fulfill to thy servant my father David, what soever thou didst speak to him, saying: There shall not fail of thee a man before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel: yet so if thy children keep their ways, and walk in my law, as thou also hast walked before me. {17} And now Lord God of Israel, be thy word confirmed, which thou hast spoken to thy servant David. {18} Is it credible then that God should dwell with men upon the earth? If heaven & the heavens of heavens do not take thee, how much more this house, which I have built? {19} But to this end only it is made, that thou shouldest respect the prayer of thy servant, & his supplication Lord my God: and mayst hear the prayers, which thy servant poureth out before thee: {20} that thou open thine eyes upon this house days and nights, upon the place, wherein thou hast promised that thy name should be invocated, {21} and wouldest hear the prayer, which thy servant prayeth in it: and mayst hear the prayers of thy servant, and of thy people Israel. Whosoever shall pray in this place, hear out of thy habitation, that is, from the heavens, & be propitious. {22} If any man shall sin against his neighbour, and come ready to swear against him, and bind himself with a curse before the altar in this house: {23} thou shalt hear from heaven, and shalt do the judgment of thy servant, so that thou render to the unjust his way upon his own head, and revenge the just, rewarding him according to his justice. {24} If thy people Israel shall be overcome of their enemies (for they will sin to thee) & converted shall do penance, and beseech thy name, and pray in this place, {25} thou shalt hear from heaven, and be thou propitious to the sin of thy people Israel, and reduce them into the land, which thou gavest them, and their fathers. {26} If the heaven being shut, there fall no rain for the sins of the people, and they shall beseech thee in this place, and shall confess to thy name, & shall be converted from their sins, when thou shalt afflict them, {27} hear from heaven o Lord, and forgive the sins of thy servants and of thy people Israel, and teach them the good way, by the which they may go: and give rain to thy land, which thou hast given thy people to possess. {28} If famine shall arise in the land, and pestilence, rust, and blast, and locust, & bruch, and the enemies, wasting the countries, shall besiege the gates of the city, and all plague and infirmity shall press them: {29} if any of thy people Israel shall pray, knowing their plague and infirmity, and shall spread forth their hands in this house, {30} thou shalt hear from heaven, to wit, out of thy high habitation, & be thou propitious, & render to every one according to his ways which thou knowest him to have in his heart: (for thou only knowest the hearts of the children of men:) {31} that they may fear thee, & walk in thy ways all the days, that they live upon the face of the land, which thou hast given to our fathers. {32} The Foreigner also, which is not of thy people Israel, if he come from a far country, for thy strong hand, & thy stretched out arm, and adore in this place: {33} thou shalt hear from heaven thy most firm habitation, and shalt do all things, for the which that pilgrim shall invoke thee: that all the peoples of the earth may know thy name, and may fear thee, as thy people Israel, and may know, that thy name is invocated upon this house, which I have built. {34} If thy people shall go forth to war against their adversaries, by the way that thou shalt send them. Shall adore thee against the way wherein is this city, which thou hast chosen, & the house, which I have built to thy name: {35} thou shalt from heaven hear their prayers, and petition, and do thou revenge. {36} And if they shall sin to thee (for there is no man that sinneth not) & thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemies, and they lead them captive into a far country, or which is near at the least, {37} and being converted in their heart in the land, to the which they were led captive, shall do penance, and shall beseech thee in the land of their captivity, saying: We have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have dealt unjustly: {38} and shall return to thee in all their heart, and in all their soul, in the land of their captivity, to the which they were led, shall adore thee against the way of their land, which thou gavest their fathers, & of the city, which thou hast chosen, & of the house, which I have built to thy name: {39} thou shall hear from heaven, that is, from thy firm habitation their prayers, and do thou judgment, and forgive thy people, although sinful: {40} for thou art my God: let thine eyes, I beseech thee, be opened, and let thine ears be attent to the prayer, that is made in this place. {41} Now therefore arise Lord God in thy rest, thou and the Ark of thy strength: Let thy Priests Lord God put on salvation, and thy Saints rejoice in good things. {42} Lord God turn not away from the face of thy Christ: remember the mercies of David thy servant.

Fire from heaven devoureth the holocausts, and glory replenisheth the Temple. 5. More sacrifices are offered. 8. and the Temple is dedicated, with seven days solemnity, the eighth day collection is made. 12. God signifieth that he hath heard Salomon's prayer. 17. conditionally (as it was made if they serve him. 19. otherwise he will punish them.

{1} AND when Salomon had finished to pour out his prayers, fire descended from heaven, and devoured the holocausts & victims: and the majesty of our Lord filled the house. {2} Neither could the Priests enter into the Temple of our Lord, because the majesty of our Lord had filled the temple of our Lord. {3} Yea and all the children of Israel saw the fire descending, and the glory of our Lord upon the house: and falling flat on the earth upon the pavement paved with stone, they adored, and praised our Lord: Because he is good, because his mercy is for ever. {4} And the king and all the people immolated victims before our Lord. {5} King Salomon therefore killed hosts, of oxen twenty two thousand, of rams an hundred twenty thousand: and the king and all the people dedicated the house of God. {6} And the Priests stood in their offices: and the Levites with the instruments of the songs of our Lord, which David the king made to praise our Lord: Because his mercy is for ever, singing the hymns of David by their hands: moreover the Priests sounded with trumpets before them, and all Israel stood. {7} Salomon also sanctified the midst of the court before the temple of our Lord: for he had offered there the holocausts, & the fat of the pacifics: because the brazen altar, which he had made, could not sustain the holocausts and the sacrifices and the fat. {8} Salomon therefore made a solemnity at that time seven days, and all Israel with him, an assembly very great, from the entrance of Emath to the Torrent of Aegypt. {9} And he made in the eighth day an assembly, because he had dedicated the altar seven days, and had celebrated the solemnity seven days. {10} Therefore in the three and twentieth day of the seventh month, he dismissest the people to their tabernacles, rejoicing and being glad for the good, that our Lord had done to David, and Salomon, and Israel his people. {11} And Salomon accomplished the house of our Lord, and the house of the king, and all that he had disposed in his heart to do, in the house of our Lord, and in his own house, and he prospered. {12} And our Lord appeared to him by night, and said: I have heard thy prayer, and have chosen this place to me for a house of sacrifice. {13} If I shall shut heaven, and rain fall not, and shall bid and command the locust to devour the land, and shall send pestilence into my people: {14} and my people being converted upon whom my name is invocated, shall beseech me, and seek out my face, and shall do penance from their most wicked ways: I also will hear from heaven, and will be propitious to their sins, and will save their land. {15} Mine eyes also shall be opened, and mine ears erected to his prayer, that shall pray in this place. {16} For I have chosen, and have sanctified this place, that my name may be there for ever, and mine eyes and my heart may remain there all days. {17} Thou also if thou walk before me, as David thy father walked, & shalt do according to all things, which I have commanded thee, and shalt keep my justices and judgments: {18} I will raise up the throne of thy Kingdom, as I promised to David thy father, saying: There shall not be taken away of thy stock a man, that shall be Prince in Israel. {19} But if you shall be turned away, and shall forsake my justices, and my precepts, which I have proposed to you, and going shall serve strange gods, and adore them, {20} I will pluck you out of my land, which I have given you: and this house, which I have sanctified to my name, I will cast away from my face, and will deliver it for a parable, and an example to all peoples. {21} And this house shall be for a proverb to all passengers, and they shall say being astonished: Why hath the Lord done so to this land, and to this house? {22} And they shall answer: Because they forsook the Lord the God of their fathers, who brought them out of the Land of Aegypt, and took hold of strange gods, and adored them, and worshipped them: therefore are all these evils come upon them.

Salomon buildeth diverse cities, 7. maketh the residue of the Chananites tributary, 12. offereth the ordinary hosts of sacrifices in the solemn feasts, 14. disposes the Priests and Levites in their offices, as David had ordained: 17. and sendeth ships to fetch gold from Ophir.

{1} AND twenty years being complete after that Salomon built the house of our Lord, and his own house: {2} he built the cities, which Hiram had given to Salomon, and made the children of Israel dwell there. {3} He went also into Emath Suba, and obtained it. {4} And he built Palmira in the desert, and he built other cities very well fenced in Emath. {5} And he built Beth horon the upper, and Beth horon the nether, walled cities having gates and barrigates and locks. {6} Balaath also and all the strongest cities that were Salomon's, and all the cities of the chariots, and the cities of the horsemen. All things whatsoever Salomon would, and disposed, he built in Jerusalem, and in Libanus, and in all the land of his dominion. {7} All the people that was left of the Hethites, & Amorrhites, & Pherezites, and Hevites, & Jebusites, which were not of the stock of Israel, {8} of their children, & of the posterity, which the children of Israel had not slain, Salomon subdued to be tributaries, until this day. {9} Moreover of the children of Israel he set not to serve the king's works: for they were men of war, and the chief Captains, and Princes of his chariots, and horsemen. {10} And all the Princes of king Salomon's army were two hundred fifty, which taught the people. {11} But the daughter of Pharao he removed from the city of David, into the house which he had built for her. For the king said: My wife shall not dwell in the house of David the king of Israel because it is sanctified: because the Ark of our Lord is entered into it. {12} Then Salomon offered holocausts to our Lord upon the altar of our Lord, which he had built before the porch, {13} that every day there might be offering on it, according to the precept of Moyses in the Sabbaths, and in the Calends, and in the festival days thrice a year, that is to say, in the Solemnity of Azymes, and in the Solemnity of weeks, and in the Solemnity of tabernacles. {14} And he appointed according to the disposition of David his father the offices of the Priests in their ministries: and the Levites, in their order, that they should praise, and minister before the Priests according to the rite of every day: and the porters in their divisions by gate and gate: for so David the man of God had commanded. {15} Neither did they transgress of the king's commandments as well the Priests as the Levites, touching all things, that he had commanded, and in the custodies of the treasures. {16} Salomon had all expenses prepared, from the day that he founded the house of our Lord, until the day wherein he perfited it. {17} Then went Salomon into Asiongaber, and into Ailath to the coast of the Red sea, which is in the Land of Edom. {18} And Hiram sent unto him by the hands of his servants, ships, and cunning mariners, and they went with Salomon's servants into Ophir, and they took from thence four hundred fifty talents of gold, and brought it to king Salomon.

The queen of Saba admireth Salomon's wisdom, 9. giveth and receiveth presents. 13. Of the great store of treasure which is yearly brought in, 13. King Salomon maketh precious armour, 17. a throne, 20. and plate. 24. Other kings send him gifts, so he aboundeth in glory, and riches. 29. After forty years reign he dieth, and his son Roboam succeedeth.

{1} THE queen of Saba also, when she had heard the fame of Salomon, came to prove him in hard propositions in Jerusalem,{437} with great riches, and camels, which carried spices, and very much gold, and precious stones. And when she was come to Salomon, she spake to him what things soever were in her heart. {2} And Salomon expounded to her all things that she propounded: neither was there any thing, that he made not plain unto her. {3} Who after she saw, to wit, the wisdom of Salomon, and the house which he had built, {4} moreover also the meats of his table, and the habitations of his servants, and the offices of his ministers, and their garments, the cup-bearers also, and their garments, and the victims, which he immolated in the house of our Lord: there was no spirit in her any longer, she was so astonished. {5} And she said to the king: The word is true, which I heard in my country of thy virtues and wisdom. {6} I did not believe them that told it, until my self was come, and mine eyes had seen, and I had proved scarce the half part of thy wisdom to have been told me: thou hast passed the fame with thy virtues. {7} Blessed are thy men, and blessed are thy servants, which assist before thee at all time, and hear thy wisdom. {8} Be the Lord thy God blessed, who would ordain thee over his throne, king of the Lord thy God. Because God loveth Israel, & will preserve it for ever: therefore hath he set thee king over it, to do judgments and justice. {9} And she gave to the king an hundred twenty talents of gold, and spices exceeding much, and most precious stones: there were not such spices, as these, which the queen of Saba gave to king Salomon. {10} But the servants of Hiram also with the servants of Salomon brought gold from Ophir, & Thym-trees, & most precious stones: {11} whereof the king made, to wit, of the Thym-trees, stairs in the house of our Lord, and in the king's house, harps also and psalteries for the singing men: never were there seen such trees in the Land of Juda. {12} And king Salomon gave to the queen of Saba all things that she would, and that she asked, and many more things than she brought to him: who returning, went into her country with her servants. {13} And the weight of the gold, that was brought to Salomon every year was six hundred sixty six talents of gold: {14} beside that sum, which the legates of diverse nations, and the merchants were accustomed to bring, and all the kings of Arabia, and the Dukes of the lands, which brought gold and silver to Salomon. {15} King Salomon therefore made two hundred golden spears, of the sum of six hundred pieces of gold, which were spent in every spear: {16} also three hundred golden shields of three hundred pieces of gold, with which every shield was covered: and the king put them in the armoury, which was beset with a wood. {17} The king also made a great throne of ivory, and covered it with most fine gold. {18} six steps also, wherewith the going up was to the throne, and a foot-stool of gold, and two little arms on either side, and two lions standing by the little arms, {19} yea and other twelve little lions standing upon the steps on both sides: there was not such a throne in all kingdoms. {20} All the vessels also of the king's table were of gold, and the vessels of the house of the forest of Libanus of most pure gold. For silver in those days was reputed for nothing. {21} For the king's ships went into Tharsis with the servants of Hiram, once in three years: and they brought from thence gold and silver, and ivory, and apes, and peacocks. {22} Salomon therefore was magnified above all the kings of the earth for riches and glory. {23} And all the kings of the earth desired to see Salomon's face, that they might hear the wisdom, which God had given in his heart. {24} And they brought him gifts, vessels of silver, and gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses, and mules, every year. {25} Salomon also had forty thousand horses in the stables, and of chariots, and horsemen twelve thousand, and he placed them in the cities of the chariots, and where the king was in Jerusalem. {26} He exercised also authority over all the kings from the river Euphrates unto the land of the Philistians, and unto the borders of Aegypt. {27} And he made so great plenty of silver in Jerusalem as it were of stones: and of cedars so great a multitude as of sycamores, which grow in the champion. {28} And horses were brought him out of Aegypt, & all countries. {29} But the rest of the works of Salomon the first and the last are written in the words of Nathan the Prophet, and in the Books of Ahias the Silonite, in the Vision also of Addo the Seer, against Jeroboam the son of Nabat. {30} And Salomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years. {31} And he slept with his fathers: and they buried him in the city of David: and Roboam his son reigned for him.

Roboam requested by Jeroboam and the people to lighten their yoke of service. 6. leaving the counsel of the ancient, and following young counsellors, threateneth to press the people: 16. whereupon many revolt from him.

{1} AND Roboam went forth into Sichem: for thither all Israel was assembled, to make him king. {2} Which when Jeroboam the son of Nabat heard, who was in Aegypt (for he was fled thither from Salomon) forthwith he returned. {3} And they called him, and he came with all Israel & spake to Roboam, saying: {4} Thy father pressed us with a most hard yoke, do thou command lighter things than thy father, who laid upon us a heavy servitude, and ease thou a little of the burden, that we may serve thee. {5} Who said: After three days return ye to me. And when the people was gone, {6} he took counsel with the Ancients, which stood before his father Salomon, whiles he yet lived, saying: What counsel give you, that I may answer the people? {7} Who said to him: If thou wilt please this people, and pacify them with words of clemency, they will serve thee at all times. {8} But he forsook the counsel of the Ancients, and began to treat with young men, that had been brought up with him, and were in his train. {9} And he said to them: What seemeth to you? Or what shall I answer this people, which hath said to me: Ease the yoke which my father laid upon us? {10} But they answered as youngmen, & brought up with him in delicateness, and said: Thus shalt thou speak to the people, that said to thee: Thy father aggravated our yoke, do thou ease it: and thus shalt thou answer them: My least finger is thicker than the loins of my father. {11} My father laid upon you an heavy yoke, and I will add a greater weight: my father beat you with scourges, but I will beat you with scorpions. {12} Jeroboam therefore came, and all the people to Roboam the third day, as he had commanded them. {13} And the king answered rough words, leaving the counsel of the Ancients: {14} And he spake according to the youngmen's will: My father laid upon you a heavy yoke, which I will make heavier: my father beat you with scourges, but I will beat you with scorpions. {15} And he condescended not to the people's requests: for it was the will of God, that his word should be accomplished, which he had spoken by the hand of Ahias the Silonite to Jeroboam the son of Nabat. {16} And all the people when the king spake rough words, said thus unto him: We have no part in David, nor inheritance in the son of Isai. Return into thy tabernacles o Israel, and do thou feed thy house David. And Israel went into their tabernacles. {17} But over the children of Israel, that dwelt in the cities of Juda Roboam reigned. {18} And king Roboam sent Aduram, who was over the tributes, and the children of Israel stoned him, and he died: moreover king Roboam made haste to get up into his chariot, and fled into Jerusalem. {19} And Israel revolted from the house of David until this day.

Roboam intending by force to reduce all Israel to his subjection, is warned by a Prophet to cease from that enterprise. 5. He maketh walls about diverse cities, 11. furnished them with victuals, and munition. 13. Priests, Levites, and many others repair to Jerusalem, because Jeroboam maketh a new religion, and new Priests. 18. Roboam taketh many wives, and concubines. 22. preferreth Abias above all his other sons.

{1} AND Roboam came into Jerusalem, and called together all the house of Juda and Benjamin, an hundred fourscore thousand chosen men and warriors, to fight against Israel, and to convert his Kingdom unto him. {2} And the word of our Lord came to Semeias the man of God, saying: {3} Speak to Roboam the son of Salomon the king of Juda, and to all Israel, that is in Juda and Benjamin: {4} Thus saith our Lord: You shall not go up, neither shall you fight against your brethren: let every man return into his house, because this thing is done by my will. Who when they had heard the word of our Lord, returned, neither went they forward against Jeroboam. {5} And Roboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built walled cities in Juda. {6} And he built Bethlehem, and Etam, and Thecue, {7} Bethsur also, and Socho, and Odollam, {8} moreover also Geth, and Maresa, and Ziph, {9} yea and Aduram, and Lachis, and Azeca, {10} Saraa also, and Aialon, and Hebron, which were in Juda and Benjamin, most fenced cities. {11} And when he had inclosed them with walls, he put in them Princes, and store houses of victuals, that is, of oil and wine. {12} Yea and in every city he made armouries of shields and spears, and he strengthened them with great diligence, and reigned over Juda and Benjamin. {13} And the Priests and Levites, that were in all Israel, came to him out of all their seats, {14} leaving their suburbs, and their possessions, and passing to Juda, and Jerusalem, because Jeroboam had cast them off, and their posterity: that they should not execute the priesthood of our Lord. {15} Who made unto himself Priests of the excelses, and of devils, and of the calves which he had made. {16} Yea and of all the tribes of Israel, whosoever had given their heart to seek our Lord the God of Israel, came into Jerusalem to immolate their victims before our Lord the God of their fathers. {17} And they strengthened the Kingdom of Juda, and established Roboam the son of Salomon for three years: for they walked in the ways of David and Salomon, only three years. {18} And Roboam took to wife Mahalath, the daughter of Jerimoth the son of David: Abihail also the daughter of Eliab the son of Isai, {19} who bare him sons, Jehus, & Somorias, and Zoom. {20} After this woman also he took Maacha the daughter of Absalom, who bare him Abia, and Ethai, and Ziza, & Salomith. {21} And Roboam loved Maacha the daughter of Absalom above all his wives and concubines: for he had married eighteen wives, and threescore concubines: and he begat eight and twenty sons, and threescore daughters. {22} But he appointed for head Abias the son of Maacha duke over all his brethren: for he meant to make him king, {23} because he was wiser, and mightier above all his sons, and in all the coasts of Juda, and of Benjamin, and in all the walled cities: and he gave them much meat, and he desired many wives.

For the sins of Roboam and the people, many strong cities, also Jerusalem, are taken and spoiled by the king of Aegypt. 8. They repent, and the Aegyptians depart, [9] but carry away the treasures. 13. Roboam dieth, and his son Abias reigneth.

{1} AND when the kingdom of Roboam was strengthened and fortified, he forsook the law of our Lord, and all Israel with him. {2} And in the fifth year of the kingdom of Roboam came up Sesac the king of Aegypt into Jerusalem (because they had sinned to our Lord) {3} with a thousand two hundred chariots, and threescore thousand horsemen: neither was any number of the common people, that came with him out of Aegypt, to wit, Lybians, and Troglodites, and Aethiopians. {4} And he took the most fenced cities in Juda, and came over unto Jerusalem. {5} And Semeias the Prophet went to Roboam, and to the Princes of Juda, that were gathered together in Jerusalem, flying from Sesac, and he said to them: Thus saith our Lord: You have left me, and I have left you in the hand of Sesac. {6} And the Princes of Israel, and the king, being astonished, said: Our Lord is just. {7} And when our Lord had seen that they were humbled, the word of our Lord came to Semeias, saying: Because they are humbled, I will not destroy them, and I will give them a little aid, & my fury shall not drop upon Jerusalem by the hand of Sesac. {8} But yet they shall serve him, that they may know the distance of my service, and of the service of the Kingdom of the earth. {9} Therefore Sesac the king of Aegypt retired from Jerusalem, taking away the treasures of the house of our Lord, and of the king's house, & he took all things with him, and the golden shields that Salomon had made, {10} for the which the king made brazen ones, and delivered them to the Princes of the shield-bearers, which kept the entrance of the palace. {11} And when the king entered into the house of our Lord, the shield-bearers came, and took them, and brought them back again to their armoury. {12} But yet because they were humbled, the wrath of our Lord was turned away from them, neither were they utterly destroyed: for in Juda there were found good works. {13} King Roboam therefore was strengthened in Jerusalem, and reigned: one & forty years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which our Lord chose, to confirm his name there, out of all the tribes of Israel: and the name of his mother was Naama an Ammonite. {14} And he did evil, and prepared not his heart to seek our Lord. {15} But the works of Roboam the first and the last are written in the Books of Semeias the Prophet, and of Addo the Seer, and diligently expounded: and Roboam and Jeroboam fought one against the other all their days. {16} And Roboam slept with his father, and was buried in the city of David. And Abias his son reigned for him.

Abias maketh war against Jeroboam, 4. exhorteth the people of Israel for justice and religions sake to return to him. 13. In the mean time Jeroboam environeth him with forces, but by God's assistance Abias prevaleth, 21. and reigneth securely.

{1} IN the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam, reigned Abias over Juda, reigned he in Jerusalem, and his mother's {2} Three years name was Michaia, the daughter of Uriel of Gabaa: there was war between Abias & Jeroboam. {3} And when Abias had begun battle, and had most warlike men, and of chosen ones four hundred thousand: Jeroboam put his army in array on the contrary side, eight hundred thousand men, who themselves also were chosen men, & most valiant to battles. {4} Abias therefore stood upon mount Semeron, which was in Ephraim, and said: Hear Jeroboam, & all Israel: {5} Are you ignorant that our Lord the God of Israel gave the kingdom to David over Israel for ever, to him & his children as a covenant of salt? {6} And there rose up Jeroboam the son of Nabat, the servant of Salomon the son of David: and rebelled against his Lord. {7} And there were gathered to him all the most vain men, and the children of Belial: and they prevailed against Roboam the son of Salomon: moreover Roboam was rude, and of a fearful heart, and could not resist them. {8} Now therefore you say that you are able to resist the Kingdom of our Lord, which he possesseth by the children of David, and you have a great multitude of people, and golden calves, which Jeroboam hath made you for gods. {9} And you have cast out the Priests of our Lord, the children of Aaron, & the Levites: and you have made you Priests, as all the peoples of the earth: who soever shall come and consecrate his hand in a bullock of oxen, and in seven rams, is made the Priest of them that are not gods. {10} But our Lord is God, whom we forsake not, and the Priests do minister to our Lord of the children of Aaron, and the Levites are in their order. {11} Holocausts also they do offer to our Lord, every day morning and evening, and incense made according to the precepts of the law, and the loaves are set forth on a most clean table, and there is with us the golden candlestick, and the lamps thereof, that they may be lighted always at evening: for we keep the precepts of the Lord our God, whom you have forsaken. {12} Therefore in our host, God is the Prince, & his Priests, which sound with trumpets, and resound against you: children of Israel fight not against our Lord the God of your fathers, because it is not expedient for you. {13} He speaking these things, Jeroboam endeavoured to entrap him behind. And when he stood over against the enemies, he compassed Juda unwitting with his army. {14} And Judas looking back, saw the battle at hand before and behind, and cried to our Lord: and the Priests began to sound with trumpets. {15} And all the men of Juda made a shout: and behold they crying, God terrified Jeroboam, and all Israel that stood against Abias and Juda. {16} And the children of Israel fled from Juda, and our Lord delivered them into their hand. {17} Abias therefore and his people struck them with a great slaughter, and there fell wounded of Israel five hundred thousand valiant men. {18} And the children of Israel were humbled at that time, and the children of Juda exceedingly encouraged, because they had trusted in our Lord the God of their fathers. {19} And Abias pursued Jeroboam flying, and he took his cities, Bethel and her daughters, & Jesana with her daughters, Ephron also and her daughters. {20} Neither was Jeroboam able to resist any more, in the days of Abias: whom our Lord struck, and he died. {21} Therefore Abias, his empire being strengthened, took fourteen wives: and he begat two and twenty sons, & sixteen daughters. {22} But the rest of the words of Abias, and of his ways and words, are written diligently in the Book of Addo the Prophet.

Abias dieth, and his son Asa reigneth, destroyeth idolatry, 6. fortifieth his cities, 9. and overcometh, by God's special help, the Aethiopian's army of a million of men.

{1} AND Abias slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the City of David: & Asa his son reigned for him, in whose days the land was quiet ten years. {2} And Asa did that which was good and pleasing in the sight of his God, & he overthrew the altars of strange service, and the excelses, {3} and brake the statues, and cut down the groves. {4} And he commanded Juda that they should seek our Lord the God of their fathers, and should do the law, and all the commandments. {5} And he took away out of all the cities of Juda the altars, & temples, and reigned in peace. {6} He built also fenced cities in Juda, because he was quiet, and there had no battles risen in his time, our Lord giving peace. {7} And he said to Juda: let us build these cities, and compass them with walls, and strengthen them with towers, and gates, & locks, whilst things are quiet from battles, because we have sought our Lord the God of our fathers, and he hath given us peace round about. They therefore did build, and there was no impediment in building. {8} And Asa had in his army of them that carried shields and spears, of Juda three hundred thousand: and of Benjamin shield-bearers and archers, two hundred eighty thousand, all these were most valiant men. {9} And Zara the Aethiopian with his army issued forth against them, ten hundred thousand, and with three hundred chariots: and he came as far as Maresa. {10} Moreover Asa went on to meet him, and set his army in array to battle in the vale Sephata, which is near Maresa. {11} And he invoked our Lord God, and said: Lord there is no difference with thee, whether thou help in few, or in many: help us o Lord our God: for having confidence in thee, & in thy name we are come against this multitude. Lord, thou art our God, let not man prevail against thee. {12} Our Lord therefore terrified the Aethiopians before Asa and Juda: & the Aethiopians fled. {13} And Asa pursued them, & the people that was with him, unto Gerara: & the Aethiopians fell to utter destruction because our Lord killing them, and his army fighting, they were destroyed. They took therefore many spoils, {14} and they struck all the cities round about Gerara: for great terror had invaded all men: and they spoiled the cities, and carried away much prey. {15} Yea and destroying the sheepcotes of sheep, they took an infinite multitude of cattle, and of camels: and returned into Jerusalem.

Azarias prophesieth that Israel shall lack the true God, Priests, and the law, a long time. 8. Which king Asa hearing most seriously destroyeth idolatry. 12. maketh covenant and oath to serve God. 16. And deposeth his mother for offering sacrifice to Priapus.

{1} AND Azarias the son of Oded, the Spirit of God coming upon him, meet Asa, and said to him: Hear ye me {2} went out to Asa, and all Juda and Benjamin: Our Lord is with you, because you have been with him. If you will seek him, you shall find: but if you forsake him, he will forsake you. {3} And many days shall pass in Israel without the true God, and without Priest a teacher, and without the Law. {4} And when they shall return in their distress to our Lord the God of Israel, and shall seek him, they shall find him. {5} At that time there shall not be peace to him that goeth out and cometh in, but terrors on every side in the inhabitants of the earth. {6} For nation shall fight against nation, and city against city, because our Lord will trouble them with all distress. {7} You therefore take courage, and let not your hands be dissolved: for there shall be reward to your work. {8} Which when Asa had heard, to wit, the words, and the prophecy of Azarias the son of Oded the Prophet, he took courage, and took away the idols out of all the land of Juda, and out of Benjamin, and out of the cities, which he had taken, of mount Ephraim, and he dedicated the altar of our Lord, which was before the porch of our Lord. {9} And he gathered together all Juda and Benjamin, & the strangers with them of Ephraim, and of Manasses, and of Simeon: for many were fled to him of Israel, seeing that our Lord his God was with him. {10} And when they were come into Jerusalem the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa, {11} they immolated to our Lord in that day of the spoils and the prey that they had brought, oxen seven hundred, and rams seven thousand. {12} And he went in after the manner to establish the covenant, that they should seek our Lord the God of their fathers in all their heart, and in all their soul. {13} And if any man, quoth he, shall not seek our Lord the God of Israel, let him die, from the least to the greatest, from man unto woman. {14} And they swore to our Lord with a loud voice in jubilation, and in noise of trumpet, and sound of shalms, {15} all that were in Juda, with execration: for in all their heart did they swear, & with all their will did they seek him, & found him, & our Lord gave them rest round about. {16} Yea & Maacha the mother of king Asa he deposed from the royal empire, because she had made in a grove the idol of Priapus: which he wholly destroyed, and breaking into pieces, burnt it in the Torrent cedron. {17} But the Excelses were left in Israel: nevertheless the heart of Asa was perfect all his days. {18} And those things which his father had vowed, and himself, he brought into the house of our Lord, gold and silver, and of vessels diverse furniture. {19} And there was no war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa.

Against the king of Israel, king Asa procureth help of the Assyrians. 7. which a Prophet reproofing is put in fitters. 11. Asa dieth, with disease of his feet, and is buried with pump.

{1} AND in the six and thirtieth year of his reign, came up Baasa the king of Israel into Juda, and with a wall compassed Rama, that none could safely go out and come in of the Kingdom of Asa. {2} Asa therefore brought forth silver and gold, out of the treasure house of our Lord, and of the king's treasures, and he sent to Benadad the king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying: {3} There is league between me and thee, my father also & thy father had concord, wherefore I have sent thee silver and gold that breaking the league, which thou hast with Baasa the king of Israel, thou make him retire from me. {4} Which being known, Benadad sent the Princes of his hosts to the cities of Israel: who struck Ahion, and Dan, and Abelmaim, and all the walled cities of Nephthali. {5} Which when Baasa had heard, he ceased to build

Rama, & intermitted his work. {6} Moreover Asa the king took all Juda, and carried away the stones out of Rama, and the timber that Baasa had prepared for the building: & he built of them Gabaa, & Maspha. {7} At that time came Hanani the Prophet to Asa the king of Juda, & said to him: Because thou hast had confidence in the king of Syria, and not in our Lord thy God, therefore hath the army of the king of Syria escaped out of thy hand. {8} Were not the Aethiopians, and Lybians, many more in chariots and horsemen, and a multitude exceeding great: whom, when thou didst believe in our Lord, he delivered into thy hand? {9} For the eyes of our Lord behold all the earth, and give strength to them, that with perfect heart believe in him. Thou therefore hast done foolishly, and for this cause from his present time shall battles arise against thee. {10} And Asa being angry against the Seer, commanded him to be cast into fetters: for he took indignation exceedingly upon this thing: & he slew of the people at that time very many. {11} But the works of Asa the first & the last are written in the Book of the kings of Juda and Israel. {12} Asa also fell sick in the nine and thirtieth year of his reign, of a most vehement pain of his feet, and neither in his infirmity did he seek our Lord, but rather trusted in the art of Physicians. {13} And he slept with his fathers: and he died the one and fortieth year of his reign. {14} And they buried him in his sepulchre, which he had digged for himself in the City of David: and they laid him upon his bed full of spices and odoriferous ointments, which were made by the art of apothecaries, and they burnt over him with exceeding ambition.

Josaphat succeeding in the Kingdom prevailth in battle against the King of Israel. 6. destroyeth Idolaters, and sendeth Priests and Levites to instruct the people 11. The Philistines and Arabians send presents to king Josaphat. 13. The leaders of the army and soldiers are numbered.

{1} AND Josaphat his son reigned for him, and grew strong against Israel. appointed numbers of soldiers in all the {2} And he cities of Juda, that were compassed with walls. And he placed garrisons in the land of Juda, & in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken. {3} And our Lord was with Josaphat, because he walked in the first ways of David his father: and he trusted not in Baalim, {4} but in the God of his father, & went forward in his precepts, and not according to the sins of Israel. {5} And our Lord confirmed the Kingdom in his hand, and all Juda gave gifts to Josaphat: and there grew to him infinite riches, and much glory. {6} And when his heart had taken courage for the ways of our Lord, he took away also the Excelses and groves out of Juda. {7} And in the third year of his Kingdom, he sent of his Princes Benhail, and Abdias, and Zacharias, and Nathanael, and Micheas, that they should teach in the cities of Juda: {8} and with them Levites, Semeias, & Nathania, and Zabadias, Asael also, and Semiramoth, and Jonathan, and Adonias, and Tobias, and Thobadonias Levites, and with them Elisama, and Joram Priests. {9} And they taught the people in Juda, having the book of the law of our Lord: and they went about all the cities of Juda, and instructed the people. {10} Therefore the dread of our Lord came upon all the Kingdoms of the lands, that were round about Juda, neither durst they make battle against Josaphat. {11} Yet and the Philistines brought gifts to Josaphat, and tribute of silver, the Arabians also brought cattle, of rams seven thousand seven hundred, and buck goats as many. {12} Josaphat therefore grew, & was magnified on high: and he built in Juda houses like to towers, and walled cities. {13} And he prepared many works in the cities of Juda: there were also men of war, and valiant in Jerusalem. {14} of whom this is the number by the houses and families of every one: In Juda Princes of the army, Ednas duke, and with him most valiant men three hundred thousand. {15} After him Johanan the Prince, and with him two hundred eighty thousand. {16} After him also Amasias the son of Zechri, consecrated to our Lord, and with him two hundred thousand of valiant men. {17} Him followed Eliada valiant to battles, and with him of them that held bow and shield two hundred thousand. {18} After this man also Jozabad, and with him an hundred eighty thousand ready soldiers. {19} All these were at the hand of the king, beside others, whom he had put in walled cities, in all Juda.

Josaphat joined in affinity with wicked Achab king of Israel, goeth with him against Ramoth Galaad, four hundred false Prophets promising victory. 14. Micheas prophesying the contrary, 28. is put in prison. 28. Achab (notwithstanding he changeth his attire, and leaveth Josaphat in danger) 33. is slain.

{1} JOSAPHAT therefore was rich and very glorious, & was joined in affinity to Achab. {2} And he went down to him after certain years into Samaria: at whose coming Achab killed muttons and oxen very many for him and the people that came with him: & he persuaded him to go up into Ramoth Galaad {3} And Achab the king of Israel said to Josaphat the king of Juda: Come with me into Ramoth Galaad. To whom he answered: As I am, thou also: as thy people, so my people also: and we will be with thee in battle. {4} Josaphat said to the king of Israel: Consult I beseech thee presently the word of our Lord. {5} Therefore the king of Israel gathered together of the Prophets four hundred men, & said to them: Shall we go into Ramoth Galaad to fight, or sit still? But they said: Go up, say they, & God will deliver it into thy hand. {6} And Josaphat said: Is there not here a Prophet of our Lord, that we may enquire also of him? {7} And the king of Israel said to Josaphat: There is one man, of whom we may ask the will of our Lord: but I hate him, because he doth not prophesy me good, but evil at all times: and it is Micheas the son of Jemla. And Josaphat said: Speak not in this manner, o king. {8} The king of Israel therefore called one of the Eunuchs, and said to him: Call quickly Micheas the son of Jemla. {9} Moreover the king of Israel, and Josaphat the king of Juda, both sat in their thrones, clothed with kingly attire, and they sat in the court beside the gate of Samaria, and all the Prophets prophesied before them. {10} But Sedecias the son of Chanaana made him horns of iron, and said: Thus saith our Lord: With these shalt thou strike Syria, till thou destroy it. {11} And all the Prophets in like manner prophesied, and said: Go up into Ramoth Galaad, and thou shalt prosper, and our Lord will deliver them into the king's hand. {12} And the messenger that went to call Micheas, said to him: Behold the words of all the Prophets with one mouth tell the king good things: I beseech thee therefore that thy word also dissent not from them, and that thou speak prosperous things. {13} To whom Micheas answered: Our Lord liveth, whatsoever my God shall say to me, that will I speak. {14} He therefore came to the king. To whom the king said: Micheas, shall we go into Ramoth Galaad to fight, or sit still? To whom he answered Go ye up: for all things shall fall out prosperous, and the enemies shall be delivered into your hands. {15} And the king said: Again and again I adjure thee, that thou speak not to me, but that which is true in the name of our Lord. {16} But he said: I saw all Israel disperst in the mountains, as sheep without a shepherd: & our Lord said: These have no masters: let every man return into his house in peace. {17} And the king of Israel said to Josaphat: did I not tell thee that this man did not prophesy me any good, but those things that be evil? {18} But he said: Hear ye therefore the word of our Lord: I saw our Lord sitting in his throne, and all the host of heaven assisting him on the right hand and on the left. {19} And our Lord said: who shall deceive Achab the king of Israel, that he may go up and fall in Ramoth Galaad? And when one said in this manner, and an other otherwise: {20} there came forth a spirit, and stood before our Lord, & said: I will deceive him. To whom our Lord said: wherein wilt thou deceive him {21} But he answered: I will go forth, and will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his Prophets. And our Lord said: Thou shalt deceive, and shalt prevail: go forth, and do so. {22} Now therefore, behold our Lord hath given the spirit of lying in the mouth of all thy Prophets, and our Lord hath spoken of thee evil things. {23} And Sedecias the son of Chanaana came, and struck the cheek of Micheas, and said: Which way passed the spirit of our Lord from me, that it should speak to thee. {24} And Micheas said: Thou thy self shalt see in that day, when thou shalt enter into chamber out of chamber, to be hid. {25} And the king of Israel commanded, saying: Take Micheas, and lead him to Amon the governor of the city, and to Joab the son of Amelech. {26} And you shall say: Thus saith the king: Cast this fellow into prison, and give him a little bread, and a little water, till I return in peace. {27} And Micheas said: If thou return in peace, our Lord hath not spoken in me, and he said: Hear all ye peoples. {28} Therefore the king of Israel, & Josaphat the king of Juda, went up into Ramoth Galaad. {29} And the king of Israel said to Josaphat: I will change my habit, and so I will go to the fight, but be thou clothed with thine own garments. And the king of Israel changing his habit came to the battle. {30} And the king of Syria had commanded the captains of his horsemen saying: Fight not against the least, or against the greatest, but against the king of Israel only. {31} Therefore when the Princes of the horsemen saw Josaphat, they said: This is the king of Israel. And they compassed him fighting: but he cried to our Lord, and he holp him, and turned them away from him. {32} For when the captains of the horsemen saw, that is was not the king of Israel, they left him. {33} And it chanced that one of the people shot an arrow at adventure, and struck the king of Israel between the neck & the shoulders, & he said to his cochere: Turn thy hand, & carry me out of the battle, because I am wounded. {34} And the fight was ended in that day: moreover the king of Israel stood in his chariot against the Syrians until evening, and died at the sun set.

Josaphat being reproved by a Prophet for yielding help to Achab, 5. appointeth Judges in several cities, admonishing them to do justice: 8. exhorteth Priests and Levites to execute their functions carefully. 11. Amarias High Priest directing and ruling in things belonging to God, Zabedias general captain governeth the king's affairs.

{1} AND Josaphat the king of Juda returned into his house peaceably, into Jerusalem. {2} Whom Jehu the son of Hanani the Seer met, and said to him: To the impious man thou givest aid, and to them that hate our Lord thou art joined in friendship, and therefore thou didst deserve indeed the wrath of our Lord: {3} but good works are found in thee, for that thou hast taken away the groves out of the land of Juda, and hast prepared thy heart to seek our Lord the God of thy fathers. {4} Josaphat therefore dwelt in Jerusalem: and he went forth to the people again from Bersabee unto mount Ephraim, and recalled them to our Lord the God of their fathers. {5} And he appointed judges of the land in all the fenced cities of Juda, in every place, {6} and commanding the judges, he said: Take heed what you do: for you exercise not judgment of man, but of our Lord: and whatsoever you shall judge, it shall redound to you. {7} Let the fear of our Lord be with you, and with diligence do all things: for there is no iniquity with the Lord our God, nor acceptance of persons, nor desire of gifts. {8} In Jerusalem also Josaphat appointed Levites, and Priests, and Princes of families of Israel, that they should judge the judgement and cause of our Lord to the inhabitants thereof. {9} And he commanded them, saying: Thus shall you do in the fear of our Lord faithfully, & with a perfect heart. {10} Every cause, that shall come to you of your brethren, that dwell in their cities, between kindred and kindred, wheresoever there is question of the law, of the commandment, of ceremonies, of justifications: shew it them, that they sin not against our Lord, and lest there come wrath upon you and your brethren: so doing therefore you shall not sin. {11} And Amarias the Priest and your Bishop shall be chief in these things, which pertain to God: moreover Zabedias the son of Ismael, who is the Prince in the house of Juda, shall be over those works, which pertain to the king's office: and you have masters the Levites before you, take courage, and do diligently, and our Lord will be with the good.

The Ammonites, Moabites, and Syrians, joining forces against Josaphat, 3. he seeketh God's help by public prayer and fasting. 14. A Prophet foretelleth that God will fight for them: 20. so they singing praises to God, the enemies kill each other. 24. Josaphat with his men gather very great spoils. 30. reigneth in peace, 35. but his navy perished, for his society with wicked Ochozias.

{1} AFTER these things were the children of Moab gathered together, and the children of Ammon, & with them of the Ammonites, to fight against Josaphat. {2} And there came messengers, and told Josaphat, saying: There cometh against thee a great multitude from those places, which are beyond the sea, & out of Syria, & behold they stay in Asasonthamar, which is Engaddi. {3} And Josaphat being frightened with fear, he took him wholly to beseech our Lord, and he proclaimed a fast to all Juda. {4} And Judas was gathered together to pray to our Lord: yea and all came out of their cities to beseech him. {5} And when Josaphat stood in the midst of the assembly of Juda, and Jerusalem in the house of our Lord before the new court, {6} he said: Lord God of our fathers, thou art God in heaven, and rulest over all the Kingdoms of Nations, in thy hand is strength and might, neither can any man resist thee. {7} Didst not thou our God kill all the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and gavest it to the seed of Abraham thy friend for ever? {8} And they dwelt in it, and built in it a Sanctuary to thy name, saying: {9} If evils fall upon us, the sword of judgment, pestilence, and famine, we will stand before this house in thy sight, wherein thy name is invoked: and we will cry to thee in our tribulations, and thou shalt hear, and save us. {10} Now therefore behold the children of Ammon, and mount Seir, by whom thou didst not grant Israel to pass, they came out of Aegypt, but they declined from them, and slew them not: {11} do the contrary, and endeavour to cast us out of the possession, which thou hast delivered to us. {12} Our God, wilt not thou therefore judge them? In us in deed there is not so great strength, that we can resist this multitude, which cometh violently upon us. But whereas we are ignorant what we ought to do, this only we have left, that we direct our eyes to thee. {13} And all Juda stood before our Lord with their little ones, and wives, and their children. {14} And there was Jahziel the son of Zacharias, the son of Banaias, the son of Jehiel, the son of Mathanias, a Levite of the children of Asaph, upon whom the spirit of our Lord came in the midst of the multitude, {15} and he said: Attend ye all Juda, and you that dwell in Jerusalem, and thou king Josaphat: thus saith our Lord to you: Fear not, neither dread ye this multitude: for it is not your battle, but God's. {16} To morrow you shall go down against them: for they will come up by the steep named Sis, and you shall find them in the utmost part of the torrent, which is against the wilderness of Jeruel. {17} It shall not be you that shall fight, but only stand confidently, & you shall see the help of our Lord over you, O Juda, and Jerusalem: fear not, neither dread ye: to morrow you shall go out against them, & our Lord will be with you. {18} Josaphat therefore, and Juda, & all the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell flat on the earth before our Lord & adored him. {19} Moreover the Levites of the children of Caath, & of the children of Core praised our Lord the God of Israel with a loud voice, on high. {20} And when they had risen early in the morning, they went forth by the desert of Thecua: and they being gone forth, Josaphat standing in the midst of them, said: Hear me ye men of Juda, & all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: believe in the Lord your God, & you shall be secure: believe his Prophets, & all things shall fall our prosperous. {21} He gave counsel also to the people, & appointed the singing men of our Lord, that they should praise him in their companies, & should go before the host, & with agreeable voice should say: Confess to our Lord, because his mercy is for ever. {22} And when they began to sing praises, our Lord turned their embusments upon themselves, to wit, of the children of Ammon, & of Moab, & of mount Seir, who were gone forth to fight against Juda, & were strucken. {23} For the children of Ammon, & of Moab, rose together against the inhabitants of mount Seir, to kill & destroy them: & when they had in work achieved this, being turned also against themselves, they fell wounded one of an other. {24} Moreover Juda when they were come to the watch place, that looketh to the desert, saw a far off all the country abroad full of dead bodies, and that none remained alive that could escape death. {25} Josaphat therefore came, & all the people with him to take away the spoils of the dead, & they found among the dead bodies, diverse stuff, garments also, & most precious vessels: & they spoiled it, so that they could not carry all things, nor in three days take away the spoils for the greatness of the prey. {26} And in the fourth day they were assembled in the Vale of blessing: for because there they had blessed our Lord, they called that place the Vale of blessing until this present day. {27} And every man of Juda returned, & the inhabitants of Jerusalem, & Josaphat before them into Jerusalem with great joy, because our Lord had given them joy of their enemies. {28} And they entered into Jerusalem with psalteries, and harps, and trumpets into the house of our Lord. {29} And the dread of our Lord fell upon all the Kingdoms of the lands when they heard that our Lord had fought against the enemies of Israel. {30} And the Kingdom of Josaphat was quiet, and God gave him peace round about. {31} Josaphat therefore reigned over Juda, and he was five and thirty years old when he began to reign: and he reigned five & twenty years in Jerusalem: & the name of his mother was Azuba the daughter of Selahi. {32} And he walked in the way of his father Asa, neither declined he from it, doing the things that were pleasing before our Lord. {33} But yet the excuses he took not away, & as yet the people had not directed their heart to our Lord the God of their fathers. {34} But the rest of the acts of Josaphat, the first & the last are written in the words of Jehu the son of Hanani which he disposed into the Books of the kings of Israel. {35} After these things Josaphat the king of Juda entered friendship with Ochozias the king of Israel, whose works were most impious. {36} And he was partaker to make ships, which should go into Tharsis: and they made a navy in Asiongaber. {37} And Eliezer the son of Dodau of Maresa prophesied to Josaphat, saying: Because thou hast had a league with Ochozias, our Lord hath stricken thy works, & the ships are broken, neither could they go into Tharsis.

Josaphat dieth, and Joram succeeding killeth his own brethren, and some other chief men: 6. reigneth wickedly. 8. Edom, and Lobna revolt from him. 12. Elias by letters sore warneth him of plagues, 15. which falling upon him he dieth after two years of a languishing and horrible disease.

{1} AND Josaphat slept with his fathers, & was buried with them in the City of David: and Joram his son reigned for him. {2} Who had brethren the sons of Josaphat, Azarias, and Jahiel, {448} and Zacharias, & Azarias, & Michael, and Saphatias. All these were the sons of Josaphat the king of Juda. {3} And their father gave them many gifts of silver, and of gold, and pensions, with the most fenced cities in Juda: But the Kingdom he delivered to Joram, because he was the first begotten. {4} And Joram rose over the Kingdom of his father: and when he had established himself, he slew all his brethren with the sword, and certain of the Princes of Israel. {5} Two and thirty years old was Joram when he began to reign: and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. {6} And he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, as the house of Achab had done: for Achab's daughter was his wife, and he did evil in the sight of our Lord. {7} But our Lord would not destroy the house of David for the covenant which he had made with him: and because he had promised that he would give him a lamp, and to his sons for ever. {8} In those days Edom rebelled, from being subject to Juda, and made themselves a king {9} And when Joram had passed with his Princes, and all the horsemen, that were with him, he rose in the night, and struck Edom, which had compassed him, and all the captains of his horsemen. {10} But yet Edom rebelled, from being under the dominion of Juda until this day: at that time Lobna also revolted, from being under his hand. For he had forsaken our Lord the God of their fathers: {11} moreover he built also excelses in the cities of Juda, and he made the inhabitants of Jerusalem to fornicate, and Juda to transgress. {12} And there were letters brought him from Elias the Prophet, in which was Written: Thus saith our Lord the God of David thy father: Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Josaphat thy father, and in the ways of Asa the king of Juda, {13} but hast gone by the ways of the kings of Israel, and hast made Juda to fornicate, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, having imitated the fornication of the house of Achab, moreover also hast killed thy brethren, the house of thy father, better men than thou: {14} behold our Lord will strike thee with a great plague with all thy people, and children, and thy wives, and all thy substance. {15} And thou shalt be sick of a very sore disease of thy belly, till thy vital parts come forth by little and little every day. {16} Our Lord therefore raised up against Joram the spirit of the Philistians, and of the Arabians, which are borderers to the Aethiopians. {17} and they went up into the Land of Juda, and wasted it, and they spoiled all the substance, that was found in the king's house, moreover also his sons, and wives: neither was there a son left him but Joachaz, who was the youngest. {18} And beside all these things our Lord struck him with an incurable disease of the belly. {19} And when day succeeded day, and the spaces of times passed about, the circuit of two years was complete: and so being wasted with a long consumption, so that he voided even his very bowels, he was rid of the disease, and of his life together. And he died in an exceeding vile infirmity, and the people made him not exequies according to the manner of burning, as they had done to his ancestors. {20} He was two and thirty years old, when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. And he walked not rightly, and they buried him in the City of David: but yet not in the sepulchre of the kings.

Ochozias reigning one year, 3. is slain together with Joram king of Israel, by King Jehu. 10. Athalia killeth the king's children (only Joas being saved by his aunt) and usurpeth the kingdom six years.

{1} AND the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ochozias his least son king for him: for all the elders, that had been before him, the rovers of the Arabians had slain, which invaded the camp: and Ochozias the son of Joram the king of Juda reigned. {2} Two & forty years old was Ochozias when he began to reign, & he reigned one year in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Athalia the daughter of Amri. {3} But he also went by the ways of the house of Achab: for his mother forced him to do impiously. {4} He therefore did evil in the sight of our Lord, as the house of Achab: for they were his counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction. {5} And he walked in their counsels. And he went forth with Joram the son of Achab king of Israel, into battle against Hazael king of Syria, into Ramoth Galaa: and the Syrians wounded Joram. {6} Who returned to be cured into Jezrael: for he had taken many wounds in the foresaid battle. Therefore Ochozias the son of Joram king of Juda, went down to visit Joram the son of Achab in Jezrael being sick. {7} For it was the will of God against Ochozias, that he should come to Joram: and when he was come he should go out also against Jehu the son of Namsi, whom our Lord anointed to destroy the house of Achab. {8} When Jehu therefore overthrew the house of Achab, he found the Princes of Juda, and the son of the brethren of Ochozias, which served him, and he slew them. {9} Searching also for Ochozias himself, he took him lying hid in Samaria: and being brought unto him, he killed him, and they buried him: because he was the son of Josaphat, who had sought our Lord in all his heart neither was there any more hope that any should reign of the stock of Ochozias. {10} For Athalia his mother, seeing that her son was dead, arose, & slew all the king's stock of the house of Joram. {11} Saving that Josabeth the king's daughter took Joas the son of Ochozias, and stole him out of the midst of the king's sons, when they were slain, and she hid him with his nurse in the bed chamber: and Josabeth that hid him, was the daughter of king Joram, the wife of Joiada the high Priest, the sister of Ochozias, and therefore Athalia did not kill him. {12} He therefore was with them in the house of God six years, in the which Athalia reigned over the Land.

Joiada the High Priest anointeth and crowneth Joas king, 12. causeth Athalia to be slain, 16. idolatry to be destroyed, 18. and God's service advanced.

{1} AND in the seventh year Joiada taking courage, took the centurions, to wit, Azarias the son of Jeroham, and Ismael the son of Johanan, Azarias also the son of Obed, and Maasias the son of Adaia, and Elisaphat the son of Zechri: and made a covenant with them. {2} Who going about Juda, gathered together the Levites out of all the cities of Juda, and the princes of the families of Israel, and they came into Jerusalem. {3} Therefore all the multitude made a covenant with the king in the house of God: and Joiada said to them: Behold the king's son shall reign, as our Lord hath spoken, upon the sons of David. {4} This therefore is the thing which you shall do. {5} The third part of you that come to the Sabbath of the Priests, and of Levites, and of porters, shall be in the gates: and a third part at the king's house: and a third at the gate, which is called of the Foundation: but all the rest of the common people be in the courts of the house of our Lord. {6} Neither let any other enter into the house of our Lord, but the Priests, and they that minister of the Levites: let them only go in, because they are sanctified, and let all the rest of the multitude observe the watches of our Lord. {7} And let the Levites environ the king, having every one their weapons: (and if any other shall enter into the temple, let him be slain) and let them be with the king both coming in, and going out. {8} The Levites therefore, and all Juda did according to all things, which Joiada the high Priest had commanded, and they took every one the men that were under them, and came by the order of the Sabbath, with them that had fulfilled the Sabbath, and were to go forth. For Joiada the high Priest permitted not the companies to depart, which were accustomed to succeed one an other every week. {9} And Joiada the Priest gave to the centurions the spears, and the shields, and targets of king David, which he had consecrated in the house of our Lord. {10} And he appointed all the people of them that held weapons on the right side of the temple, unto the left side of the temple, before the altar, and the temple, round about the king. {11} And they brought forth the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and the testimony, and gave the law to be in his hand, and they made him king: Joiada also the high Priest, and his sons anointed him: and they wished him well, and said: God save the king. {12} Which thing when Athalia had heard, to wit, the voice of them that ran and praised the king, she went in unto the people, into the temple of our Lord. {13} And when she had seen the king standing upon the step in the entrance, and the Princes, and the companies about him, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and sounding with trumpets, and playing on instruments of diverse kind, & the voice of them that praised, she rent her garments, and said: Treason, treason. {14} And Joiada the high Priest going forth to the centurions, and captains of the army, said to them: Bring her forth without the precinct of the temple, and let her be killed with the sword without. And the Priest commanded that she should not be killed in the house of our Lord. {15} And they laid hands upon her neck: and when she was entered within the gate of the horses of the king's house, they killed her there. {16} And Joiada made a covenant between himself, and all the people, and the king, that they would be the people of our Lord. {17} All the people therefore entered into the house of Baal, and destroyed it: and they brake his altars and his images: Mathan also the Priest of Baal they slew before the altars. {18} And Joiada appointed overseers in the house of our Lord, under the hands of the Priests, and the Levites, which David distributed in the house of our Lord: that they should offer holocausts to our Lord, as it is written in the law of Moyses, in joy and songs, according to the disposition of David. {19} He appointed also porters in the gates of the house of our Lord, that the unclean in any thing should not enter in. {20} And he took the centurions, and the most valiant men and Princes of the people, and all the common people of the land, and they made the king to go down from the house of our Lord, and to enter by the midst of the upper gate into the king's house, and placed him in the royal throne. {21} And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet: moreover Athalia was slain with the sword.

Joas reigning piously, so long as Joiada liveth, causeth the Temple to be repaired. 14. and new sacred vessels to be made. 15. Joiada an hundred thirty years old dieth. 17. Joas falleth to idolatry: 20. causeth Zacharias to be slain in the court of the Temple. 23. A few Syrians kill the chief men about the king, and carry away great preys. 25. Joas is slain by his own men, and his son Amasias reigneth.

{1} SEVEN years old was Joas when he began to reign: and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem, the name of his mother was Sebia of Bersabee. {2} And he did that which is good before our Lord all the days of Joiada the Priest. {3} And Joiada took for him two wives, of whom he begat sons & daughters. {4} After which things it pleased Joas to repair the house of our Lord. {5} And he assembled the priests, & the Levites & said to them: Go ye forth to the cities of Juda, & gather of all Israel money for the reparation of the temple of your God, year by year, and do this in haste: moreover the Levites did negligently. {6} And the king called Joiada the Prince, and said to him: why hast thou had no care to constrain the Levites to bring in out of Juda and Jerusalem the money, that was appointed of Moyses the servant of our Lord, that all the multitude of Israel should bring it in into the tabernacle of testimony? {7} For the most impious Athalia, & her children have destroyed the house of God, and of all things that had been sanctified in the temple of our Lord, they adorned the temple of Baalim. {8} The king therefore commanded and they made a chest: and set it by the gate of our Lord on the out side. {9} And it was proclaimed in Juda and Jerusalem, that every man should bring the price to our Lord, which Moyses the servant of God appointed over all Israel, in the desert. {10} And all the Princes rejoiced, and all the people: and going in they contributed into the chest of our Lord, and cast in so that it was filled. {11} And when it was time that they should bring the chest before the king by the hands of Levites (for they saw much money) the king's Scribe went in, and he whom the high Priest had appointed: & they poured out the money that was in the chest, and recarried it to his place: and so did they from day to day, and there was gathered infinite money. {12} Which the king and Joiada gave to them, that oversaw the works of the house of our Lord: but they hired with it hewers of stones, and artificers of all works, to repair the house of our Lord: smiths also of iron and brass, that that which began to fall might be uphelden. {13} And they that wrought did industriously, and the breach of the walls was closed by their hands, and they raised the house of our Lord into the old state, and made it stand firmly. {14} And when they had accomplished all the works, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Joiada: of the which were made vessels of the temple to the ministry, and for holocausts, phials also, and other vessels of gold and silver, and holocausts were offered in the house of our Lord continually all the days of Joiada. {15} But Joiada became old being full of days, and died when he was an hundred and thirty years old. {16} And they buried him in the city of David with the kings, because he had done good with Israel, and with his house. {17} And after that Joiada was dead, the Princes of Juda went in, and adored the king, who being altered by their serviceableness, agreed to them. {18} And they forsook the temple of our Lord the God of their fathers, and served groves, and sculptiles, & there came wrath against Juda, and Jerusalem for this sin. {19} And he sent them Prophets, that they should return to our Lord, whom, protesting, they would not hear. {20} The spirit of God therefore invested Zacharias the son of Joiada the Priest, and he stood in the sight of the people, and said to them: Thus saith our Lord God: Why transgress you the precept of our Lord, which thing shall not profit you, and have forsaken our Lord, that he should forsake you? {21} Who being gathered against him, they threw stones according to the king's commandment, in the court of the house of our Lord. {22} And Joas the king did not remember the mercy, that Joiada his father had done with him, but he killed his son. Who when he died, said: Our Lord see, and require it. {23} And when a year was come about, the army of Syria came up against him: and it came into Juda and Jerusalem, & slew all the Princes of the people, and all the prey they sent to the king into Damascus. {24} And whereas there was come a very small number of the Syrians, our Lord delivered into their hands an infinite multitude, for that they had forsaken our Lord the God of their fathers: on Joas also they exercised ignominious judgments. {25} And departing they left him in great disease: and his servants rose against him, for revenge of the blood of the son of Joiada the Priest, and they slew him in his bed, & he died: and they buried him in the City of David, but not in the king's sepulchres. {26} And there conspired against him Zabad the son of Semmaath an Ammonitess, and Jozabad the son of Semarith a Moabitess. {27} Moreover his children, and the sum of money, which was gathered under him, and the repairing of the house of God are written more diligently in the Book of kings: and Amasias his son reigned for him.

Amasias killeth those that slew his father. 5. Besides his own people, hireth soldiers of Israel, but by advise of a Prophet dismisseth them, 11. and with his own overthroweth the Idumeans, whose idols taken in battle (13. the dismissed soldiers in the mean time spoiling his country) he adoreth. 15. contemning admonition, 17. and provoking the king of Israel to war, 22. is taken in battle and spoiled. 27. Fearing treason in Jerusalem flyeth, and is slain in Lachis.

{1} FIVE and twenty years old was Amasias when he began to reign, and he reigned nine & twenty years in Jerusalem, the name of his mother was Joaden of Jerusalem. {2} And he did good in the sight of our Lord: but yet not in a perfect heart. {3} And when he saw his Kingdom strengthened, he put to death the servants, that had slain the king his father, {4} but their children he slew not, as it is written in the Book of the law of Moyses, where our Lord commanded, saying: The fathers shall not be slain for the children, nor the children for their fathers, but every one shall die in his own sin. {5} Amasias therefore gathered together Juda, and appointed them by families, and tribunes, and centurions, in all Juda, & Benjamin, and he numbered from twenty years upward, & found three hundred thousand of young men that went forth to battle, and held spear and shield. {6} He hired also for wages of Israel an hundred thousand strong men, for an hundred talents of silver. {7} But a man of God came to him, and said: O king, let not the host of Israel go forth with thee, for our Lord is not with Israel, and all the children of Ephraim: {8} and if thou think that battles consist in the force of an army, God will make thee to be overcome of the enemies: for it pertaineth to God both to help, and to put to flight. {9} And Amasias said to the man of God: What shall become then of the hundred talents, which I have given the soldiers of Israel? And the man of God answered him: Our Lord hath whereby he is able to give thee much more than this. {10} Amasias therefore separated the host, that came to him out of Ephraim, that they should return into their place: but they being wrath exceedingly against Juda, returned into their country. {11} Moreover Amasias brought forth his people confidently, and went into the Vale of salt pits, and struck the children of Seir, ten thousand. {12} And other ten thousand men did the children of Juda take, and bring to the steep of a certain rock, and cast them down headlong from the top, who burst in sunder every one. {13} But that army which Amasias had sent back, from going with him to battle, was spread in the cities of Juda, from Samaria unto Bethhoron, and killing three thousand took away a great prey. {14} But Amasias after the slaughter of the Idumeans, set up the gods of the children of Seir, which he had brought thence, for his gods, & adored them, and burnt incense to them. {15} For which thing our Lord being angry against Amasias, sent a Prophet unto him, which should say to him: Why hast thou adored gods, that have not delivered their own people out of thy hand? {16} And when he spake these things, he answered him: Art thou the king's counsellor? Be quiet, lest I kill thee. And the Prophet departing, said: I know that God is minded to kill thee, because thou hast done this evil, & besides hast not agreed to my counsel. {17} Therefore Amasias the king of Juda taking very ill counsel, sent to Joas the son of Joachaz the son of Jehu, the king of Israel, saying: Come, let us see one an other. {18} But he sent back the messengers, saying: A thistle that is in Libanus sent to a cedar of Libanus, saying: Give thy daughter to my son to wife: & behold the beasts that were in the wood of Libanus passed, and trod down the thistle. {19} Thou hast said: I have stricken Edom, and therefore thy heart is exalted into pride, sit in thy house, why dost thou provoke evil against thee, that both thou mayest fall, and Juda with thee. {20} Amasias would not hear, because it was our Lord's will, that he should be delivered into the hands of the enemies for the gods of Edom. {21} Joas therefore the king of Israel went up, and they gave themselves one the sight of the other: and Amasias the king of Juda was in Bethsames of Juda: {22} and Juda fell before Israel, and fled into their tabernacles. {23} Moreover Joas the king of Israel in Bethsames took Amasias the king of Juda, the son of Joas, the son of Joachas, and brought him into Jerusalem: and destroyed the wall thereof from the gate of Ephraim, to the gate of the corner, four hundred cubites. {24} All the gold also, and silver, and all the vessels, that he found in the house of God, and which Obededom in the treasures also of the king's house, moreover he brought back the sons of the hostages into Samaria. {25} And Amasias the son of Joas the king of Juda lived, after that Joas died the son of Joachaz the king of Israel fifteen years. {26} But the rest of the words of Amasias the first and the last are written in the Book of the kings of Juda and Israel. {27} Who after he revolted from our Lord, they lay in wait against him in Jerusalem. And when he had fled into Lachis, they sent, and slew him there. {28} And carrying him back upon horses, buried him with his fathers in the City of David.

Ozias serving God, 6. prevaleth in battle against the Philistians, Arabians, and Ammonites: 9. prospereth in honour and wealth. 16. Then waxing proud offereth incense on the altar, is strucken with leprosy, expelled out of the Temple, and city. 20. and his son Joathan ruleth the Kingdom.

{1} AND all the people of Juda made his son Ozias sixteen years old, king for Amasias his father. {2} He built Ailath, & restored it to the dominion of Juda, after that, the king slept with his fathers. {3} Sixteen years old was Ozias when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem, the name of his mother was Jechelia of Jerusalem. {4} And he did that which was right in the eyes of our Lord, according to all things, which Amasias his father had done. {5} And he sought our Lord in the days of Zacharias that understood and saw God: and when he sought our Lord, he directed him in all things. {6} Moreover he went forth, and fought against the Philistines, and destroyed the wall of Geth, and the wall of Jabinia, and the wall of Azotus: he built also towns in Azotus, and among the Philistines. {7} And God did help him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians, that dwelt in Gurbaal, & against the Ammonites. {8} And the Ammonites gave gifts to Ozias: and his name was renowned unto the entrance of Aegypt for his often victories. {9} And Ozias built towers in Jerusalem over the gate of the corner, and over the gate of the valley, and the rest, in the same side of the wall, and strengthened them. {10} He built towers also in the wilderness, and digged many cisterns, because he had much cattle as well in the champion, as in the vasty of the desert: he had also vineyards and dressers of vines in the mountains, and in Carmel: for he was a man given to husbandry. {11} And the host of his warriors, which went forth to battles, was under the hand of Jehiel the scribe, and Maasics the doctor, and under the hand of Hananias, who was of the king's dukes. {12} And all the number of the Princes by families of valiant men, was two thousand six hundred. {13} And under them all the host of three hundred and seven thousand five hundred: which were apt to battles, and fought for the king against the adversaries. {14} Ozias also prepared for them, that is to say, for all the army, shields, and spears, and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows, and slings to cast stones. {15} And he made in Jerusalem engines of diverse kind, which he placed in the towers, and in the corners of the walls, to shoot arrows, & great stones: and his name went forth far, for that our Lord did aid him, and had strengthened him. {16} But when he was strengthened, his heart was elevated to his destruction, and he neglected our Lord his God: and entering into the temple of our Lord, he would burn incense upon the altar of incense. {17} And incontinent Azarias the Priest going in after him, and with him the Priests of our Lord eighty, most valiant men, {18} they resisted the king, and said: It is not thy office Ozias, to burn incense to our Lord, but of the Priests, that is, of the children of Aaron, which are consecrated to this kind of ministry: go out of the Sanctuary, contemn not: because this thing shall not be reputed to thee for glory of our Lord God. {19} And Ozias being angry, and holding in his hand the censer to burn incense, threatened the Priests. And forthwith there rose a leprosy in his forehead before the Priests, in the house of our Lord upon the altar of incense. {20} And when Azarias the high Priest had beheld him, and all the rest of the Priests, they saw the leprosy in his forehead, and in haste they thrust him out. Yea and himself being sore afraid, made haste to go out, because he felt by and by the plague of our Lord. {21} Ozias therefore the king was a leper until the day of his death, and he dwelt in a house apart full of the leprosy, for the which he had been cast out of the house of our Lord. Moreover Joathan his son governed the king's house, and judged the people of the land. {22} But the rest of the words of Ozias the first and the last wrote Isaias the son of Amos, the Prophet. {23} And Ozias slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the kings' sepulchres' field, because he was a leper: and Joathan his son reigned for him.

Joathan a godly king, 5. prevaleth in battle against the Ammonites: 7. dieth, and his son Achaz succeedeth.

{1} FIVE and twenty years old was Joathan when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Jerusa the daughter of Sadoc. {2} And he did that which was right before our Lord, according to all things, which Ozias his father had done, saving that he entered not in the temple of our Lord, and as yet the people did sin. {3} He built the high gate of the house of our Lord, and in the wall of Ophel he built many things. {4} Cities also he built in the mountains of Juda, and castles, and towers in the forests. {5} He fought against the king of the children of Ammon, and overcame them, and the children of Ammon gave him at that time an hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand cores of wheat, and as many cores of barley: the children of Ammon gave him these things in the second and third year. {6} And Joathan was strengthened, because he had directed his ways before our Lord his God. {7} But the rest of the words of Joathan, and all his battles, and works, are written in the Book of the kings of Israel and Juda. {8} He was five & twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. {9} And Joathan slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the City of David: And Achaz his son reigned for him.

For his great wickedness Achaz is taken in battle, his country spoiled, and many slain by the kings of Syria, and Israel: 9. yet God suffereth not the Kingdom to be subdued. 16. Then requiring help of the Assyrians, 17. is spoiled by the Idumeans, Philistians, and Assyrians. 22. After all which plagues he committeth more idolatry. 26. dieth, and his son Ezechias reigneth.

{1} TWENTY years old was Achaz when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem: he did not right in the sight of our Lord as David his father, {2} but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, moreover also, he did cast statues to Baalim. {3} He it is that burnt incense to the Valebenennom, and he consecrated his sons in fire according to the rite of the nations, which our Lord slew in the coming of the children of Israel. {4} He sacrificed also, & burnt incense in the excelses, and on hills, and under every tree full of green leaves. {5} And our Lord his God delivered him into the hands of the king of Syria, who struck him, and took a great prey out of his Kingdom, and brought into Damascus: to the hands also of the king of Israel was delivered, & stricken with a great plague. {6} And Phacee the son of Romelia slew of Juda an hundred twenty thousand in one day, all men of war: for that they had forsaken our Lord the God of their fathers. {7} At that time Zechri a mighty man of Ephraim, slew Maasias the king's son, and Ezricam the governor of his house, Elcana also second from the king. {8} And the children of Israel took of their brethren two hundred thousand of women, of boys, and of wenches, and an infinite prey: & they brought it into Samaria. {9} At that time there was a Prophet of our Lord, named Oded: who going forth to meet the army coming into Samaria, said to them: Behold our Lord the God of your fathers being angry against Juda, hath delivered them into your hands, and you have slain them cruelly, so that your cruelty did reach to heaven. {10} Moreover the children of Juda and Jerusalem you will subdue unto you for bondmen and bond women, which needeth not to be done: for you have sinned hereupon to our Lord your God. {11} But hear ye my counsel, and carry back the captives, that you have brought of your brethren, because the great fury of our Lord hangeth over you. {12} There stood therefore Princes of the children of Ephraim, Azarias the son of Johanan, Barachias the son of Mosollomoth, Ezechias the son of Sellum, and Amasa the son of Hadali, against them that came out of the battle, {13} and they said to them: You shall not bring in the captives hither, lest we sin to our Lord. Why will you add upon our sins, and heap up old offences? For it is a great sin, and the anger of the fury of our Lord hangeth over Israel. {14} And the men of war dismist the prey, and all the things that they had taken, before the Princes and all the multitude. {15} And the men, whom we mentioned above, stood, and taking the captives, and all that were naked they clothed and shod them with the spoils: and when they had clothed and refreshed them with meat and drink, & anointed them because of their labour, and had looked carefully to them: as many as could not walk, and were of a weak body, they set on beasts, and brought them to Jericho the City of palm trees to their brethren, and themselves returned into Samaria. {16} At that time king Achaz sent to the king of the Assyrians asking help. {17} And the Idumeans came and struck many of Juda, and took a great prey. {18} The Philisthiims also were spread abroad by the cities of the champion, and toward the South of Juda: and they took Bethsames, and Aialon, and Gaderoth, Socho also, and Thamnan, and Gamzo, with their villages, and dwelt in them. {19} For our Lord had humbled Juda because of Achaz the king of Juda, for that he had made it naked of help, and had contemned our Lord. {20} And he brought against him Theglathphalnasar the king of the Assyrians, who also afflicted him, and spoiled him no man resisting. {21} Therefore Achaz spoiling the house of our Lord, and the house of the kings, and of the Princes gave gifts to the king of the Assyrians, and yet it did nothing profit him. {22} Moreover also in the time of his distress he increased contempt against our Lord, king Achaz himself by himself, {23} immolated victims to the gods of Damascus that struck him, and said: The gods of the kings of Syria do help them, whom I will pacify with hosts, and they will aid me, whereas on the contrary part they were his ruin, and all Israel's. {24} Achaz therefore having spoiled all the vessels of the house of God, and broken them, shut the gates of the temple of God, and made him altars in all the corners of Jerusalem. {25} In all the cities also of Juda he built altars to burn frankincense, and he provoked to wrath our Lord the God of his fathers. {26} But the rest of his words, & all his works the first and the last are written in the Book of the kings of Juda and Israel. {27} And Achaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the City of Jerusalem: for they received him not into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel. And Ezechias his son reigned for him.

Ezechias repaireth the Temple, and divine service. 5. Zealously exhortheth offenders to repentance: 12. the Temple is purified in sixteen days. 18. The king and nobles offer hosts, which the Priests immolate, 25. with solemn music (ordained by king David) and great joy of all the people.

{1} THEREFORE Ezechias began to reign, when he was five and twenty years old, & he reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem: the name of his mother was Abia, the daughter of Zacharias. {2} And he did that which was pleasing in the sight of our Lord, according to all things that David his father had done. {3} He in the first year & month of his reign opened the doors of the house of our Lord, and repaired them. {4} And he brought the Priests and the Levites, & {456} assembled them in the East street. {5} And he said to them: Hear me ye Levites, and be sanctified, clean the house of our Lord the God of your fathers, and take away all uncleanness out of the Sanctuary. {6} Our fathers have sinned and done evil in the sight of our Lord God, forsaking him: they have turned away their faces from the tabernacle of our Lord, & given the back. {7} They have shut the doors, that were in the porch, and put out the lamps, and have not burnt incense, and have not offered holocausts in the Sanctuary of the God of Israel. {8} Therefore was the fury of our Lord stirred up upon Juda and Jerusalem, and he hath delivered them into commotion, and into destruction, and to be hissed at, as your selves see with your eyes. {9} Behold, our fathers have fallen by the swords, our sons, and our daughters, and wives are led captive for this wickedness. {10} Now therefore it pleaseth me that we make a covenant with our Lord the God of Israel, and he will turn away the fury of his wrath from us. {11} My children be not negligent: our Lord hath chosen you to stand before him, and to minister to him, and to worship him, and to burn incense to him. {12} The Levites therefore arose: Mahath the son of Amasai, and Joel the son of Azarias, of the children of Caath: moreover the children of Merari, Cis the son of Abdi, and Azarias the son of Jalaleel. And of the children of Gerson, Joah the son of Zemma, and Eden the son of Joah. {13} But of the children of Elisaphan, Samri, and Jahiel. Also of the children of Asaph, Zacharias, and Mathanias. {14} Moreover also of the children of Heman, Jahiel and Semei: yea and of the children of Idithun, Semeias, and Oziel. {15} And they gathered together their brethren, and were sanctified, and went in according to the commandment of the king and the precept of our Lord, to purge the house of God. {16} The Priests also going into the Temple of our Lord to sanctify it, brought out all uncleanness, which they found within the entrance of the house of our Lord, which the Levites took, and carried to the Torrent cedron without. {17} And they began to cleanse it in the first day of the first month, and in the eighth day of the same month they entered into the porch of the temple of our Lord, and they purged the temple in eight days, and in the sixteenth day of the same month, they accomplished that which they began.

{18} They entered in also to Ezechias the king, and said to him: We have sanctified all the house of our Lord, and the altar of holocaust, and the vessels thereof, moreover also the table of proposition with all the vessels thereof, {19} and all the furniture of the temple, which king Achaz in his reign had polluted, after that he transgressed; and behold all things are set forth before the altar of our Lord. {20} And Ezechias the king rising early, assembled all the Princes of the city, & went up into the house of our Lord: {21} and they offered together seven oxen, and seven rams, seven lambs, and seven buckgoats for sin, for the Kingdom, for the sanctuary, for Juda, and he said to the Priests the children of Aaron, that they should offer them upon the altar of our Lord. {22} They killed therefore the oxen, & the Priests took the blood, and poured it upon the altar, they killed also the rams, and their blood they poured also upon the altar, and they immolated the lambs, and poured the blood upon the altar. {23} They brought the buckgoats for sin before the king, & the whole multitude, & they put their hands upon them: {24} & the Priests immolated them, & sprinkled their blood on the altar for an expiation of all Israel: for the king had commanded for all Israel, that holocaust should be made, & for sin. {25} He appointed also the Levites in the house of our Lord with cymbals, and psalteries, and harps according to the disposition of David the king, and of Gad the Seer, and of Nathan the Prophet: for it was the precept of our Lord by the hand of his Prophets. {26} And the Levites stood, holding the instruments of David, and the Priests, trumpets. {27} And Ezechias commanded that they should offer holocausts upon the altar: and when holocausts were offered, they began to sing praises to our Lord, and to sound with trumpets, and on diverse instruments, which David the king of Israel had prepared for to sound. {28} And all the multitude adoring, the singing men, and they that held the trumpets, were in their office, whiles the holocaust was accomplished. {29} And when the oblation was ended, the king bowed, and all that were with him, and adored. {30} And Ezechias, and the Princes commanded the Levites, that they should praise our Lord in the words of David, and Asaph the Seer: who praised him with great joy, and bowing the knee adored. {31} But Ezechias added these words also: You have filled your hands to our Lord, come, and offer victims, and praises in the house of our Lord. All the multitude therefore offered hosts, and praises, and holocausts with a devout mind. {32} Moreover the number of the holocausts, which the multitude offered, was this, oxen seventy, rams an hundred, lambs two hundred. {33} And they sanctified to our Lord oxen six hundred, and sheep three thousand. {34} But the Priests were few, neither could they suffice to draw off the skins of the holocausts: wherefore the Levites also their brethren help them, till the work was accomplished, and the Priests were sanctified, for the Levites are sanctified with an easier rite than the Priests. {35} There were holocausts therefore very many, the fat of pacifics, and the libaments of the holocausts, and the service of the house of our Lord was accomplished. {36} And Ezechias rejoiced, and all the people, because the ministry of our Lord was accomplished. For it pleased them that the things should be done of a sudden.

Ezechias by messengers and letters exhorted the people both of Juda & Israel, to make Pasch in Jerusalem: 11. which some of Israel, and all Juda perform, 18. the fourteenth day of the second month, though all could not be purified according to the law. 23. They make an other feast of Azymes seven days more, the king and Princes giving hosts to the people.

{1} EZECHIAS also sent to all Israel and Juda: and he wrote letters to Ephraim & Manasses, that they should come to the house of our Lord in Jerusalem, and should make a Phase to our Lord the God of Israel. {2} Counsel therefore being taken of the king and the Princes, and of all the assembly of Jerusalem, they decreed to make the Phase the second month. {3} For they could not make it in his time, because the Priests that might suffice, had not been sanctified, and the people had not as yet been gathered into Jerusalem. {4} And the word pleased the king, and all the multitude. {5} And they decreed to send messengers into all Israel from Bersabee unto Dan, that they should come, and make the Phase to our Lord the God of Israel in Jerusalem: for many had not made it as is prescribed by the law. {6} And the posts went forth with letters of commandment from the king and his Princes, into all Israel and Juda, according to the which the king had commanded, proclaiming: Children of Israel return ye to our Lord the God of Abraham, and Isaac, and Israel: and he will return to the remnant, that hath escaped the hand of the king of the Assyrians. {7} Become not as your fathers, and brethren, which have revolted from our Lord the God of their fathers, who hath delivered them into destruction, as your selves see. {8} Harden not your necks, as your fathers: give hands to our Lord, and come to his Sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: serve our Lord the God of your fathers, & the wrath of his fury shall be turned away from you. {9} For if you shall return to our Lord, your brethren, and children shall have mercy before their lords, that have led them captive, and they shall return into this land. For our Lord your God is merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if you shall return to him. {10} Therefore the posts went forward speedily from city to city, through the land of Ephraim, & of Manasses, as far as Zabulon, they mocking and scorning them. {11} Nevertheless certain men of Aser, and Manasses, and Zabulon, condescending to the counsel came to Jerusalem. {12} But the hand of God was in Juda, to give them one heart to do the word of our Lord, according to the precept of the king and of the Princes {13} And much people was gathered into Jerusalem to make the solemnity of Azymes in the second month: {14} And rising they destroyed the altars that were in Jerusalem, and overthrowing all things wherein incense was burnt to idols, they threw it into the Torrent cedron. {15} And they immolated the Phase the fourteenth day of the second month. The Priests also and the Levites at length being sanctified offered holocausts in the house of our Lord. {16} And they stood in their order according to the disposition and Law of Moyses the man of God: but the Priests received the blood to be poured out of the hands of the Levites, {17} because a great multitude was not sanctified: and therefore the Levites immolated the Phase for them that came not in time to be sanctified to our Lord. {18} For a great part of the people of Ephraim, and Manasses, and Issachar, and Zabulon, that had not been sanctified, did eat the Phase, not according to that which is written: and Ezechias prayed for them, saying: Our good Lord will be merciful {19} to all them that in all their heart seek our Lord the God of their fathers: & will not impute it to them that they are not sanctified. {20} Whom our Lord heard, and was pacified to the people. {21} And the children of Israel, that were found in Jerusalem, made the solemnity of Azymes seven days in great joy, praying our Lord every day. The Levites also and the Priests by instruments, that agreed to their office. {22} And Ezechias spake to the heart of all the Levites, that had good understanding concerning our Lord: & they did eat during the seven days of the solemnity, immolating victims of pacifics, and praising our Lord the God of their fathers. {23} And it pleased the whole multitude to celebrate it other seven days. Which also they did with great joy. {24} For Ezechias the king of Juda had given the multitude a thousand oxen, and seven thousand sheep: but the Princes had given the people oxen a thousand, and sheep ten thousand: there was sanctified therefore a very great multitude of Priests. {25} And all the multitude of Juda was full of mirth, as well of the Priests and Levites, as of all the assembly, that came out of Israel, of the proselytes also of the land of Israel, and them that dwelt in Juda. {26} And there was made a great solemnity in Jerusalem, such as had not been in that city from the days of Salomon the son of David the king of Israel. {27} And the Priests and the Levites rose up blessing the people: and their voice was heard: and their prayer came into the holy habitation of heaven.

Idols being destroyed in all Juda and part of Israel. Priests and Levites freely execute their functions. 4. Tithes and first fruits are payed in such abundance, 15. that they are put in store houses, and distributed by officers.

{1} AND when these things had been ritely celebrated, all Israel that was found in the cities of Juda, went forth, and they brake the idols, & cut down the groves, overthrew the excelles, and destroyed the altars, not only out of all Juda and Benjamin, but out of Ephraim also and Manasses, till they utterly destroyed them: and all the children of Israel returned into their possessions and cities. {2} And Ezechias appointed companies of Priests, and of Levites, by their divisions, every man in his own office, to wit, as well of the Priests, as of the Levites, for the holocausts, and pacifics, that they should minister, and confess, and sing in the gates of the camp of our Lord. {3} And the king's part was, that of his proper substance, holocaust should be offered, morning always and evening, in the Sabbaths also, and the Calends, and in other solemnities, as it is written in the law of Moyses. {4} He commanded also the people that dwelt in Jerusalem, to give portions to the Priests, and the Levites, that they might attend the law of our Lord. {5} Which when it was noised in the ears of the multitude, the children of Israel offered very many first fruits of corn, of wine, and of oil, of honey also: and of all things, which the ground bringeth forth, they offered tithes. {6} Yea and the children of Israel and Juda, that dwelt in the cities of Juda, offered tithes of oxen, and sheep, and tithes of sanctified things, which they had vowed to our Lord their God: and carrying them all, made many heaps. {7} The third month they began to lay the foundations of the heaps, and in the seventh month they finished them. {8} And when Ezechias and his Princes came in, they saw the heaps, and blessed our Lord, and the people of Israel. {9} And Ezechias asked the Priests and the Levites, why the heaps lay so: {10} Azarias the high Priest of the stock of Sadoc answered him, saying: Since first fruits began to be offered in the house of our Lord, we have eaten, and have been full, and very much hath remained, because our Lord hath blessed his people: and of the remains this is the abundance, which thou seest. {11} Ezechias therefore commanded that storehouses should be prepared in the house of our Lord. Which when they had done, {12} they brought in as well the first fruits, as the tithes, and whatsoever they had vowed, faithfully. And the overseer of them was Chonenias a Levite, & Semei his brother the second, {13} after whom Jahiel, and Azarias, and Nahath, and Asael, and Jerimoth, Josabad also, and Eliel, and Jesmachias, and Mahath, and Banaias, overseers under the hand of Chonenias, and Semei his brother, by the commandment of Ezechias the king, and Azarias the high Priest of the house of God, to whom all things appertained. {14} But Core the son of Jemna a Levite, and porter of the east gate, was overseer of those things, which were voluntarily offered to our Lord, and of the first fruits and the things consecrated for Sancta sanctorum. {15} And under his charge Eden, and Benjamin, Jesue, and Semeias, Amarias also, and Sechenias, in the cities of the Priests, that they should faithfully distribute to their brethren portions, to the lesser and greater: {16} saving the men children from three years and above, to all that entered into the temple of our Lord, and whatsoever day by day was profitable in the ministry, and the observances according to their divisions, {17} to the Priests by families, and to the Levites from the twentieth year and upward, by the orders and companies, {18} and to all the multitude, as well their wives, as their children of both sex, meats were given faithfully of these things, that had been sanctified. {19} Yea and of the children of Aaron by the fields and the suburbs of every city, there were men ordained, that should distribute portions, to all the male sex, of the Priests and the Levites. {20} Ezechias therefore did all things which we have said in all Juda: and wrought good and right, and truth before our Lord his God, {21} in all the service of the ministry of the house of our Lord, according to the law and the ceremonies, willing to seek his God in all his heart, and he did it and prospered.

Sennacherib king of Assyria invading Juda, king Ezechias encourageth the people, and provideth to defend the country. 9. The Assyrians threaten the people, and blasphem God. 20. Ezechias and Isaia pray. 21. An Angel destroyeth the Assyrian's army, so their king retiring home, is slain in his idol's temple by his own sons. 22. Ezechias reigneth in peace. 24. falleth into deadly sickness, but miraculously recovereth, offended in pride, and repented: 27. is exceeding rich, which he imprudently sheweth to strangers: 32. dieth, and Manasses succeedeth.

{1} AFTER which things, and this manner of truth, came Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians, and entering into Juda, besieged the fenced cities, desirous to take them. {2} Which when Ezechias had seen, to wit, that Sennacherib was come, and the whole force of the battle to be turned against Jerusalem, {3} taking counsel with the Princes, and the most valiant men, to stop up the heads of the fountains, that were without the city: and the sentence of them all decreeing this, {4} he gathered a very great multitude, & they stopped up all the fountains, and the river that ran in the midst of the land, saying: {460} Lest the kings of the Assyrians come, and find abundance of waters. {5} He built also doing industriously every wall that had been destroyed, and built towers upon them, & an other wall without: and he repaired Mello in the city of David, and made armour and shields of all sorts: {6} And he appointed Princes of warriors in the army: and he called them all together in the street of the gate of the city, and spake to their heart, saying: {7} Do manfully, & take courage: fear not, neither dread ye the king of the Assyrians, and all the multitude, that is with him: for there are many more with us, than with him. {8} For with him is an army of flesh: with us the Lord our God, which is our helper, and fighteth for us. And the people was encouraged with these manner of words of Ezechias the king of Juda. {9} Which things after they were done, Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians sent his servants to Jerusalem (for himself with all his army besieged Lachis) to Ezechias the king of Juda, and to all the people, that was in the city, saying: {10} Thus saith Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians: In whom having affiance, do you sit besieged in Jerusalem? {11} Hath Ezechias deceived you, to deliver you to death in hunger and thirst, affirming that the Lord your God can deliver you from the hand of the king of the Assyrians? {12} Why, is not this Ezechias, that hath destroyed his excelles, and altars, and hath commanded Juda and Jerusalem, saying: Before one altar you shall adore, and on it you shall burn incense? {13} Are you ignorant what things I have done, and my fathers to all the peoples of the lands? Have the gods of nations, and of all lands been able to deliver their country out of my hand? {14} Who is there of all the gods of the nations, which my fathers wasted, that could deliver his people out of my hand, that your God also can deliver you out of this hand? {15} Let not therefore Ezechias deceive you, nor delude you with vain persuasion, neither believe ye him. For if no god of all nations & Kingdoms could deliver his people out of my hand, and out of the hand of my fathers, consequently neither shall your God be able to deliver you out of my hand. {16} Yea & many other things did his servants speak against our Lord God, and against Ezechias his servant. {17} Letters also he wrote full of blasphemy against our Lord the God of Israel, and he spake against him: as the gods of their nations could not deliver their people out of my hand, so the God also of Ezechias can not deliver his people out of this hand. {18} Moreover also with a loud cry, in the Jew's tongue, he sounded against the people that sat on the walls of Jerusalem, that he might terrify them, and take the city. {19} And he spake against the God of Jerusalem, as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the works of men's hands. {20} Ezechias therefore the king, and Isaia the Prophet the son of Amos, prayed against this blasphemy, and cried out even to heaven. {21} And our Lord sent an Angel, which struck every strong man, and warrior, and Princes of the army of the king of the Assyrians: and he returned with ignominy into his country. And when he was entered into the house of his god, his sons that were come forth of his womb, slew him with the sword. {22} And our Lord saved Ezechias and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of the hand of Sennacherib the king of the Assyrians, and out of the hand of all, and gave them rest round about. {23} Many also brought hosts, and sacrifices to our Lord into Jerusalem, and gifts to Ezechias the king of Juda: who was exalted after these things before all nations. {24} In those days Ezechias was sick even to death, and he prayed our Lord: and he heard him, and gave him a sign. {25} But not according to the benefits which he received, did he recompense, because his heart was elevated: & wrath came against him, and against Juda and Jerusalem. {26} And he was humbled afterward, because his heart had been exalted, both he & the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and therefore the wrath of our Lord came not upon them in the days of Ezechias {27} And Ezechias was rich & glorious exceedingly, & gathered to himself great treasures of silver and of gold, and of precious stone, of spices, & of armour of all kind, and of vessels of great price. {28} Storehouses also of corn, of wine, and of oil, and stalls of all beasts, and folds of cattle, {29} and six cities he built to himself: for he had flocks of sheep, & of herds innumerable, because our Lord had given him substance exceeding much. {30} The same is Ezechias, that stopped the upper fountain of the waters of Gihon, and turned them away underneath toward the West of the City of David: in all his works he did prosperously what he would. {31} But yet in the embassy of the Princes of Babylon, that were sent to him, to ask of the wonder, that had chanced upon the earth, God left him that he might be tempted, and all things might be made known, that were in his heart. {32} But the rest of the words of Ezechias, and of his mercies, are written in the vision of Isaiahs the son of Amos the Prophet, and in the book of the kings of Juda and Israel. {33} And Ezechias slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the chief sepulchres of the children of David: and all Juda celebrated his funerals, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and Manasses his son reigned for him.

Manasses for his manifold wickedness is led captive into Babylon: 12. repenteith in prison, is restored to his kingdom, and destroyeth idolatry: 18. dieth. 21. and Amon succeeding, 24. is slain by his servants, and Josias reigneth.

{1} TWELVE years old was Manasses when he began to reign, & he reigned fifty five years in Jerusalem. {2} And he did evil before our Lord, according to all the abominations of the nations, which our Lord overthrew before the children of Israel: {3} and being turned, he re-edified the excelses which Ezechias his father had destroyed: and he built altars to Baalim, and made groves, and he adored all the host of heaven, & worshipped it. {4} He built also altars in the house of our Lord, whereof our Lord had said: In Jerusalem shall my name be for ever. {5} And he built them to all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of our Lord: {6} And he made his sons to pass through fire, to the Valebennom: he observed dreams, followed soothsayings, gave himself to magic arts, he had with him magicians, and enchanters: and he wrought many evils before our Lord, to provoke him. {7} Also a graven and a molten sign he put in the house of God, whereof our Lord spake to David, and to Salomon his son, saying: In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever, {8} And I will not make the foot of Israel to move out of the land, which I have delivered to their fathers: yet so if they shall observe to do that I have commanded them, and all the law, and the ceremonies, and judgements by the hand of Moyses. {9} Manasses therefore seduced Juda, & the inhabitants of Jerusalem, that they did evil above all the nations, which our Lord had overthrown before the face of the children of Israel. {10} And our Lord spake to him, and to his people, and they would not attend. {11} Therefore he brought upon them the Princes of the host of the king of the Assyrians: and they took Manasses, and led him bound with chains, and fetters into Babylon. {12} Who after that he was in distress, prayed our Lord his God: and did penance exceedingly before the God of his fathers. {13} And he desired him, and besought him earnestly: and he heard his prayer, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his Kingdom, and Manasses knew that our Lord he was God. {14} After these things he built a wall without the city of David, on the west of Gihon in the valley, from the entrance of the fish gate round about unto Ophel, and raised it exceedingly: and he appointed Princes of the host in all the fenced cities of Juda: {15} and he took away strange gods, and the idol out of the house of our Lord: the altars also which he had made in the mount of the house of our Lord, and in Jerusalem, and he threw all without the city. {16} Moreover he re-edified the altar of our Lord, and immolated upon it victims, and pacifics, and praise: and he commanded Juda to serve our Lord the God of Israel. {17} Nevertheless as yet the people immolated in the excelses to our Lord their God. {18} But the rest of the acts of Manasses: and his obsecration to his God: the words also of the Seers, that spake to him in the name of our Lord the God of Israel, are contained in the words of the kings of Israel. {19} His prayer also, and his obtaining, and all his sins, and contempt, the places also wherein he built excelses, and made groves, and statues before he did penance, are written in the words of Hozai. {20} Manasses therefore slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his house: and his son Amon reigned for him. {21} Amon was two & twenty years old when he began to reign, & he reigned two years in Jerusalem. {22} And he did evil in the sight of our Lord, as Manasses his father had done: & he immolated to all the idols, which Manasses his father had made, and served them. {23} And he did not reverence the face of our Lord, as Manasses his father did reverence it, and he committed far greater sins. {24} And when his servants had conspired against him, they slew him in his own house. {25} Moreover the rest of the multitude of the people, having slain them that struck Amon, made Josias his son king for him.

Josias destroyeth idolatry. 8. repaireth the Temple. 14. The Book of the law found in the Temple is read before him. 19. Whereby understanding the sins of the people, 23. a Prophet foreseweth their punishment, 26. but not in his days. 29. He reneweth the covenant between God and the people.

{1} EIGHT years old was Josias when he began to reign and he reigned thirty and one years in Jerusalem. {2} And he did that which was right in the sight of our Lord, and walked in the ways of David his father: he declined not neither to the right hand, nor to the left. {3} And in the eighth year of his reign, when he was yet a child, he began to seek the God of his father David: & the twelfth year after he began to reign, he cleansed Juda and Jerusalem from excelses, and groves, and idols, and sculptiles. {4} And they destroyed before him the altars of Baalim, & the idols that had been set upon them, they destroyed: the groves also and sculptiles he cut down and brake in pieces: and over their tombs, that were accustomed to immolate unto them, he strawed the fragments. {5} Moreover the bones of the Priests he burnt on the altars of the idols, and he cleansed Juda and Jerusalem. {6} Yea and in the cities of Manasses, and of Ephraim, and of Simeon, unto Nephtali he overthrew all. {7} And when he had destroyed the altars, and the groves, and had broken the idols into pieces, and had overthrown all profane temples out of all the land of Israel, he returned into Jerusalem. {8} Therefore in the eighteenth year of his reign, the land now cleansed, and the temple of our Lord, he sent Saphan the son of Eselias, and Maasics the governor of the city, and Joha the son of Joachaz Commenter, that they should repair the house of our Lord his God. {9} Who came to Helcias the high Priest: and taking of him the money, which had been brought into the house of our Lord, and which the Levites and porters had gathered together of Manasses, and Ephraim, and of all the remnant of Israel, of all Juda also, and Benjamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. {10} they delivered in their hands, that oversaw the workmen in the house of our Lord, that they should repair the temple, and mend all weak parts. {11} But they gave it to the artificers, and to the masons, that they should buy stones out of the quarries, and timber for the jointures of the building, and for making the roof of the houses, which the kings of Juda had destroyed. {12} Who did all things faithfully. And the overseers of the workmen were Jahath and Abdias of the children of Merari, Zacharias and Mosollam of the children of Caath, which urged the work: all Levites skilful to sing on instruments. {13} But over them, that carried burdens to diverse uses, were scribes, & masters of the Levites, & porters. {14} And when they carried forth the money, that had been brought into the temple of our Lord, Helcias the Priest found the Book of the law of our Lord by the hand of Moyses. {15} And he said to Saphan the Scribe: I have found the Book of the law in the house of our Lord: and delivered it to him. {16} But he brought in the volume to the king, and told him, saying: All things, which thou gavest into the hand of thy servants, lo are accomplished. {17} The silver that was found in the house of our Lord they have gathered into a mass: and it was given to the overseers of the artificers, and of them that make diverse works. {18} Moreover Helcias the priest delivered me this Book. Which when he had read in the king's presence, {19} and he had heard the words of the law, he rent his garments: {20} and he commanded Helcias, and Ahicam the son of Saphan, and Abdon the son of Micha, Saphan also the scribe, and Asaa the king's servant, saying: {21} Go, and pray our Lord for me, and for the remnant of Israel, and Juda, concerning all the words of this Book, which is found: for the great fury of our Lord hath distilled upon us, for that our fathers have not kept the words of our Lord, to do all things that are written in this volume. {22} Helcias therefore went, and they that were sent together by the king, to Olda a Prophetess, the wife of Sellum the son of Thecuath, the son of Hasra keeper of the garments: who dwelt in Jerusalem in the second part: and they spake to her the words, which we have above mentioned. {23} But she answered them: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Tell the man, that sent you to me: {24} Thus saith our Lord: Behold I will bring evils upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, and all the curses, that are written in this Book, which they read before the king of Juda. {25} Because they have forsaken me, and have sacrificed to strange gods, that they might provoke me to wrath in all the works of their hands, therefore shall my fury drop upon this place, and shall not be extinguished. {26} But to the king of Juda that sent you to beseech our Lord, thus speak ye: Thus saith our Lord the God of Israel: Because thou hast heard the words of this volume, {27} and thy heart is mollified, & thou art humbled in the sight of our Lord for these things, which are spoken against this place, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and reverencing my face hast rent thy garments, and wept before me: I also have heard thee, saith our Lord. {28} For now will I gather thee to thy fathers, & thou shalt be brought into thy grave in peace: neither shall thine eyes see all the evil that I will bring in upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof. They therefore reported to the king all things that she had said. {29} But he calling together all the ancients of Juda and Jerusalem, {30} went up into the house of our Lord, and all the men of Juda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Priests and Levites, and all the people from the least to the greatest. In whose hearing in the house of our Lord, the king read all the words of the volume. {31} And standing on his tribunal seat, he made a covenant before our Lord, that he would walk after him, and keep his precepts, and testimonies, and justifications in all his heart, and in all his soul, and would do the things that were written in that volume, which he had read. {32} He adjured also upon this, all that were found in Jerusalem, and Benjamin: and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of our Lord the God of their fathers. {33} Josias therefore took away all abominations of all the countries of the children of Israel: and made all, that were left in Israel, to serve our Lord their God. All his days they revolted not from our Lord the God of their fathers.

Josias celebrateth a most Solemn Pasch. 20. Is slain by the king of Aegypt, all Juda lamenting him, 25. most specially Jeremias.

{1} AND Josias made in Jerusalem a Phase to our Lord, which was immolated the fourteenth day of the first month. {2} And he appointed the Priests in their offices, & exhorted them that they would minister in the house of our Lord. {3} To the Levites also, at whose instruction all Israel was sanctified to our Lord, he spake: Put the Ark in the Sanctuary of the temple, which Salomon built, the son of David the king of Israel, for you shall carry it no more: but now minister to our Lord your God, & to his people Israel. {4} And prepare your selves by your houses & kindreds in the divisions of every one, as David the king of Israel commanded, & Salomon his son described. {5} And minister ye in the Sanctuary by families and Levitical companies, {6} and being sanctified immolate the Phase, prepare also your brethren, that they may do according to the words, which our Lord spake in the hand of Moyses. {7} Moreover Josias gave to all the people, that was found there in the solemnity of the Phase, lambs and kids of the flocks, and of the rest of the cattle thirty thousand, of oxen also three thousand, all these things of the king's substance. {8} His dukes also voluntarily offered that which they vowed, as well to the people, as to the Priests and the Levites. Moreover Helcias, and Zacharias, and Jaihel, Princes of the house of our Lord, gave to the Priests to make the Phase, cattle, one with an other two thousand six hundred, and oxen three hundred. {9} And Chonenias, & Semeias, also Nathanael, his brethren, moreover Hasabias, & Jehiel, and Jozabad Princes of the Levites, gave to the rest of the Levites to celebrate the Phase five thousand sheep, and oxen five hundred. {10} And the ministry was prepared, and the Priests stood in their office: the Levites also in companies, according to the king's commandment. {11} And the Phase was immolated: and Priests sprinkled the blood with their hand, and the Levites drew of the skins of the holocausts: {12} and they separated them to give them by the houses and families of every one, and to be offered to our Lord, as it is written in the Book of Moyses, of oxen also they did in like manner. {13} And they roasted the Phase upon fire, according to that which is written in the law: but the pacific hosts they boiled in cauldrons, and kettles, and pots, & in haste they distributed it to all the people. {14} And for themselves and for the Priests they prepared afterward: for in oblation of holocausts and of fat the Priests were occupied until night: wherefore the Levites prepared for themselves, and for the Priests the children of Aaron last. {15} Moreover the singing men the children of Asaph stood in their order, according to the precept of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Idithun the Prophets of the king: and the porters watched at every gate, so that they departed not a moment from the ministry. For the which cause also their brethren the Levites prepared meats for them. {16} Therefore all the service of our Lord was ritely accomplished that day, so that they made the Phase, and offered holocausts upon the altar of our Lord, according to the precept of king Josias. {17} And the children of Israel that were found there, made the Phase at that time, and the solemnity of Azymes seven days. {18} There was not a Phase like to this in Israel, from the days of Samuel the Prophet: neither did any of all the kings of Israel make a Phase as Josias, to the Priests, and the Levites, and to all Juda, and Israel, that was found, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. {19} In the eighteenth year of the Kingdom of Josias was this Phase celebrated. {20} After that Josias had repaired the temple, came up Necho the king of Aegypt to fight in Charamis beside Euphrates: and Josias went forth to meet him. {21} But he sending messengers unto him, said: What have I to do with thee king of Juda? I come not against thee this day, but I fight against an other house, to the which God hath commanded me to go in haste. Leave to do against God, who is with me, lest he kill thee. {22} Josias would not return, but prepared battle against him, neither did he agree to the words of Necho from the mouth of God, but went forward to fight in the field of Mageddo. {23} And there being wounded of the Archers, he said to his servants: Carry me out of the battle, because I am sore wounded. {24} Who removed him from one chariot into an other chariot that followed him after the manner of kings, and they carried him away into Jerusalem, & he died, & was buried in the monument of his fathers, and all Juda & Jerusalem mourned for him. {25} Jeremy most of all: whose lamentations all the singing men and singing women repeat until this present day upon Josias, & it is grown as it were a law in Israel: Behold it is said to be written in the lamentations. {26} But the rest of the words of Josias and of his mercies: which are commanded by the law of our Lord: {27} his works also the first and the last, are written in the Book of the kings of Juda and Israel.

Joachaz reigneth three months. 4. His brother Eliakim (named Joakim) eleven years, 9. his son Joachin three months, 11. his uncle Sedecias eleven years. 14. Most Priests and people contemning the admonitions of Prophets, 17. many are slain by the Chaldees, the temple and Jerusalem spoiled and burnt. 20. The said kings successively and people are carried captive into Babylon. 22. After seventy years Cyrus king of Persia, releaseth the captivity, and giveth leave to re-edify the Temple.

{1} THE people therefore of the land took Joachaz the son of Josias, and made him king for his father in Jerusalem. {2} Three and twenty years old was Joachaz, when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. {3} And the king of Aegypt when he came into Jerusalem, deposed him, and condemned the land in an hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold. {4} And he made Eliakim his brother king for him, over Juda and Jerusalem: and he turned his name Joakim: but he took Joachaz himself with him, and carried him away into Aegypt. {5} Five and twenty years old was Joakim when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: and he did evil before our Lord his God. {6} Against him came up Nabuchodonosor the king of the Chaldees, and brought him bound in chains into Babylon. {7} Whither he transported also the vessels of our Lord, and put them in his temple. {8} But the rest of the words of Joakim, and of his abominations which he wrought, and the things that were found in him, are contained in the Book of the kings of Juda and Israel. And Joachin his son reigned for him. {9} Eight years old was Joachin when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem, and he did evil in the sight of our Lord. {10} And when the compass of a year was come about, Nabuchodonosor the king sent some, that brought him into Babylon, the most precious vessels of the house of our Lord being carried away withal: But he made Sedecias his uncle king over Juda and Jerusalem. {11} One and twenty years old was Sedecias when he began to reign: and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. {12} And he did evil in the eyes of our Lord his God, neither did he reverence the face of Jeremy the Prophet speaking to him from the mouth of our Lord. {13} He revolted also from king Nabuchodonosor, who had adjured him by God: & he hardened his neck & his heart, that he would not return to our Lord the God of Israel. {14} Yea and all the chief of the Priests, and the people transgressed unlawfully according to all the abominations of the Gentiles: and they polluted the house of our Lord, which he had sanctified to him in Jerusalem. {15} And our Lord the God of their fathers sent to them by the hand of his messengers rising by night, and daily admonishing them: for that he spared his people and his habitation. {16} But they mocked the messengers of God, and little esteemed his words, and scorned the Prophets, until the fury of our Lord ascended upon his people, and there was no amendment. {17} For he brought upon them the king of the Chaldees, & slew their young men with the sword in the house of his sanctuary, he pitied not young man, and virgin, and old man, no neither him that stooped for age, but he delivered all into his hands. {18} And all the vessels of the house of our Lord, as well greater as lesser, and the treasures of the temple, and of the king, and the Princes, he transported into Babylon {19} The enemies set fire on the house of God, & destroyed the wall of Jerusalem, all the towers they burnt, and whatsoever was precious, they destroyed. {20} If any man escaped the sword, being led into Babylon he served the king and his sons, till the king of the Persians reigned. {21} That the word of our Lord by the mouth of Jeremy might be accomplished, and the land might celebrate their Sabbaths: for all the days of the desolation she kept a Sabbath, till the seventy years were expired. {22} But in the first year of Cyrus king of the Persians, to fulfill the word of our Lord, which he had spoken by the mouth of Jeremy, our Lord raised up the spirit of Cyrus king of the Persians: who commanded to be proclaimed in all his Kingdom, yea by writing, saying: {23} Thus saith Cyrus king of the Persians: All Kingdoms of the earth hath the Lord the God of heaven given me, and he hath commanded me that I should build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Jewry: who of you is there in all his people? The Lord his God be with him, and let him go up.

THE FIRST BOOK OF ESDRAS

Cyrus king of Persia moved by divine inspiration, releaseth God's people from captivity, with license to return and build the Temple in Jerusalem: 7. restoring the holy vessels, which Nabuchodonosor had taken from thence.

{1} IN the first year of Cyrus king of the Persians, that the word of our Lord by the mouth of Jeremy might be accomplished, our Lord raised up the spirit of Cyrus king of the Persians: & he made proclamation in all his Kingdom, yea by writing, saying: {2} Thus saith Cyrus king of the Persians: All the Kingdoms of the earth hath the Lord the God of heaven given me, and he hath commanded me that I should build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Jewry. {3} Who is there among you of all his people? His God be with him. Let him go up into Jerusalem, which is in Jewry, and build the house of the Lord the God of Israel, he is the God that is in Jerusalem. {4} And let all the rest in all places wheresoever they dwell, let every man of his place help him, with silver and gold, and substance, and cattle, besides that which they offer voluntarily to the temple of God, which is in Jerusalem. {5} And there rose up the Princes of the fathers of Juda and Benjamin, and the Priests, and Levites, and every one, whose spirit God raised up, to go up to build the temple of our Lord, which was in Jerusalem. {6} And all that were round about, did help their hands in vessels of silver & of gold, in substance, and beasts, in furniture, besides those things which they had offered voluntarily. {7} King Cyrus also brought forth the vessels of the temple of our Lord, which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of Jerusalem, & had put them in the temple of his God. {8} But Cyrus the king of Persians brought them forth by the hand of Mithridates the son of Gazabar, & numbered them to Sassabas the Prince of Juda. {9} And this is the number of them: Phials of gold thirty, Phials of silver a thousand, knives twenty nine, goblets of gold thirty, {10} goblets of silver of the second order, four hundred ten: other vessels a thousand. {11} All the vessels of gold & silver, five thousand four hundred: Sassabas took all, with them that went up from the transmigration of Babylon into Jerusalem.

And they could not shew the house of their fathers and their seed, whether they were of Israel. {60} The children of Dalaia, the children of Tobia, the children of Necoda, six hundred fifty two. {61} And of the children of the Priests: The children of Hobia, the children of Accos, the children of Berzellai, who took a wife of the daughters of Berzellai the Galaadite, and was called by their name: {62} these sought the writing of their genealogy, and found it not, and they were cast out of the Priesthood. {63} And Athersatha said to them, that they should not eat of the Holy of holies, till there rose a Priest learned and perfect. {64} All the multitude as it were one man, forty two thousand three hundred sixty: {65} beside their men servants, and women servants, which were seven thousand three hundred thirty seven: & among them singing men, & singing women two hundred, {66} Their horses seven hundred thirty six, their mules two hundred forty five, {67} their camels, four hundred thirty five, their asses six thousand seven hundred twenty. {68} And of the Princes of the fathers, when they entered into the temple of our Lord, which is in Jerusalem, they offered voluntarily unto the house of our Lord to build it in his place. {69} According to their abilities, they gave the expenses of the work, of gold sixty one thousand solids, of silver five thousand pounds, & garments for the Priests an hundred. {70} The Priests therefore and the Levites, and they of the people, and the singing men, and the porters, and the Nathinites dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

An Altar is built for sacrifice: 4. The feast of Tabernacles solemnly celebrated. 8. And in the second year (after their return) the Temple is founded with great joy of the people, and mourning of some.

{1} AND now the seventh month was come, and the children of Israel were in their cities: the people therefore was gathered together as it were one man into Jerusalem. {2} And Josue the son of Josedec rose up, and his brethren the Priests, and Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and his brethren, and they built the altar of the God of Israel, that they might offer on it holocausts, as it is written in the law of Moyses the man of God. {3} And they placed the altar of God upon his feet, the people of the lands round about putting them in fear, and they offered upon it holocaust to our Lord morning and evening. {4} And they made the solemnity of tabernacles, as it is written, and holocaust every day by order according to the precept, the work of the day in his day. {5} And after these things the continual holocaust, as well in the Calends, as in all the solemnities of our Lord, that were consecrated, and in all wherein there was offered voluntarily a gift to our Lord. {6} From the first day of the seventh month they began to offer holocaust to our Lord: moreover the temple of God was not yet founded. {7} And they gave money to hewers of stones and to masons: meat also and drink, and oil to the Sidonians & Tyrians, that they should bring cedar trees from Libanus to the sea unto Joppe, according to that which Cyrus the king of the Persians had commanded them. {8} And in the second year of their coming to the temple of God in Jerusalem, the second month, began Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Josue the son of Josedec, and the rest of their brethren the Priests, and the Levites, and all that were come from the captivity into Jerusalem, & they appointed Levites from twenty years and upward, that they should hasten forward the work of our Lord. {9} And Josue stood and his sons, and his brethren, Cedmiel, and his sons, and the children of Juda, as it were one man, that they might be instant upon them, that did the work in the temple of God: the sons of Henadad, and their sons, & their brethren Levites. {10} The temple therefore of our Lord being founded by the masons, the priests stood in their attire with trumpets: and the Levites the children of Asaph in cymbals, to praise God by the hands of David the king of Israel. {11} And they sang together in hymns, and confession to our Lord: Because he is good, because his mercy is for ever upon Israel. All the people also made a shout with a loud cry in praising our Lord, because the temple of our Lord was founded. {12} Very many also of the Priests and the Levites, and the Princes of the fathers, and the ancients, that had seen the former temple, when they saw this temple founded, they wept with a loud voice: and many shouting in joy, lifted up their voice. {13} Neither could any man discern the voice of the cry of them that rejoiced, and the voice of the weeping of the people: for one with another the people shouted with a loud cry, and the voice was heard far off.

The schismatical Samaritans, because they are not admitted to communicate with the Jews, endeavour to hinder the building of the Temple. 5. Which nevertheless proceedeth all the days of king Cyrus: 7. but is hindered by Artaxerxes, till the second year of Darius.

{1} BUT the enemies of Juda and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity built a temple to our Lord the God of Israel. {2} And coming to Zorobabel, & the Princes of the fathers, they said to them: Let us build with you, because even as you, so do we seek your God: Behold we have immolated victims from the days of Asor Haddan the king of Assur, which brought us hither. {3} And Zorobabel said to them, and Josue, and the rest of the Princes of the fathers of Israel: It is not for you and us to build a house to our God, but we ourselves alone will build to the Lord our God, as Cyrus the king of the Persians hath commanded us. {4} It came to pass therefore that the people of the land hindered the hands of the people of Juda, & troubled them in building. {5} And they hired counsellors against them, to destroy their counsel all the days of Cyrus the king of the Persians, and until the reign of Darius the king of the Persians. {6} And in the reign of Assuerus, in the beginning of his reign, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of Juda and Jerusalem. {7} And in the days of Artaxerxes, Beselam, Mithridates, & Thabeel, and the rest that were in their counsel writ to Artaxerxes king of the Persians: and the epistle of the accusation was written in Syriac, and was read in the Syrian language. {8} Reum Beelteem, and Samsai scribe wrote one epistle from Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king, of this tenure: {9} Reum Beelteem, and Samsai scribe, and the rest of their counsellors, the Dineites, and the Apharsathacites, the Terphalites, the Apharsaites, the Erchuites, the Babylonians, the Susanechites, the Dievites, and the Aelamites, {10} and the rest of the Gentiles, which Asenaphar the great and glorious transported: and made them dwell in the cities of Samaria, and in the rest of the countries beyond the River in peace {11} (this is the copy of the epistle, which they sent to him:) To Artaxerxes the king, thy servants, the men that are beyond the River, send greeting. {12} Be it known to the king, that the Jews, which came up from thee to us, are come into Jerusalem, a rebellious & naughty city, which they build, making the repairs thereof, & repairing the walls. {13} Now therefore be it known to the king, that if that city shall be built, & the walls thereof repaired, they will not give tribute, and toll, and yearly rents, and this damage will come even to the kings. {14} But we, mindful of the salt that we have eaten in the palace, and because we count it heinous to see the king's harms, therefore we have sent and certified the king, {15} that thou recount in the Books of the histories of thy fathers, and thou shalt find written in the commentaries, and shalt know that that city is a rebellious city, and hurtful to the kings, and provinces, and battles are raised in it of old time: for the which cause also the city it-self was destroyed. {16} We certify the king, that if that city shall be built, and the walls thereof repaired, thou shalt have no possession beyond the River. {17} The king sent word to Reum Beelteem, and Samsai scribe, and to the rest that were in their counsel inhabitants of Samaria, and to the rest beyond the River, sending greeting and peace. {18} The accusation, which you have sent to us, was openly read before me. {19} and I gave commandment: and they recounted, and have found, that that city of old time rebellith against the kings, & seditions and battles are raised in it. {20} For there have been also most valiant, kings in Jerusalem, which also had dominion over all the country that is beyond the River. They took also tribute, & toll and rents. {21} Now therefore hear the sentence: Prohibit ye those men, that that city be not built, till it perhaps shall be commanded by me. {22} See that you do not negligently accomplish this thing, and by little there grow evil against the kings. {23} Therefore the copy of the edict of Artaxerxes the king was read before Reum Beelteem, and Samsai the scribe, and their counsellors: and they went in haste into Jerusalem to the Jews, and prohibited them with arm and strength. {24} Then was the work of the house of our Lord in Jerusalem intermitted, and was not done until the second year of the reign of Darius the king of the Persians.

By the exhortation of Aggaeus, and Zacharias, the people proceed in building the Temple. 3. Which their enemies striving to hinder, for decision of the cause, both parties write to king Darius.

{1} AND there prophesied Aggaeus the Prophet, and Zacharias the son of Addo, prophesying to the Jews, that were in Jewry and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel. {2} Then rose up Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Josue the son of Josedec, and began to build the temple of God in Jerusalem, and with them the Prophets of God helping them. {3} But at the same time there came to them Thathanai, who was Prince beyond the River, and Stharbzana, and their counsellors: and said thus to them: Who hath given you counsel to build this house, and to repair the walls? {4} Whereto we answered them, what the names were of the men that were authors of that building. {5} And the eye of their God was set upon the ancients of the Jews, and they could not inhibit them. And it pleased them that the matter should be referred to Darius, and then they would satisfy against that accusation. {6} The copy of the epistle, which Thathanai Prince of the country beyond the River sent, and Stharbzana, and his counsellors the Arphasacheites, which were beyond the River, to Darius the king. {7} The word, which they sent him, was written thus: To Darius the king all peace. {8} Be it known to the king, that we went to Jury, the province, to the house of the great God, which is in building with stone unpolished, and timber is put in the walls: and that work is in building diligently, and groweth in their hands. {9} We therefore demanded of those ancients, and thus we said to them: Who hath given you authority to build this house, and to repair these walls? {10} Yea and their names we asked of them, that we might certify thee: and we writ the names of those men, that are the chief amongst them. {11} And they answered us these words, saying: We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we do build a temple, that was built these many years before, and which a great king of Israel built and set up. {12} But after that our fathers provoked the God of heaven to wrath, he delivered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon the Chaldee: this house also he destroyed, and his people he transported into Babylon. {13} But in the first year of Cyrus the king of Babylon, Cyrus the king put forth an edict, that this house of God should be built. {14} For the vessels also of the temple of God, of gold and of silver, which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and had carried them into the temple of Babylon, Cyrus the king brought forth out of the temple of Babylon, and they were given to Sassabas, so called, whom also he appointed the chief, {15} and said to him: Take these vessels, and go, and put them in the temple, that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be built in his place. {16} Then therefore came this Sassabasar, and laid the foundations of the temple of God in Jerusalem, & from that time until now it is in building, & is not yet finished. {17} Now therefore if it seem good to the king, let him search in the king's library, which is in Babylon, whether it hath been commanded by Cyrus the king, that the house of God in Jerusalem should be built, and let him send the king's pleasure concerning this thing unto us.

Darius finding in the register, that Cyrus gave license to build the Temple, commandeth that none hinder it: {472} 8. giveth also money towards the charges, and hosts for sacrifice.

{1} THEN Darius the king commanded, and they searched in the library of the Books, that were laid up in Babylon, {2} and there was found in Ecbatanis, which is a castle in the province Medena, one volume, & there was such a commentary written therein: {3} In the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king decreed, that the house of God should be built, which is in Jerusalem, in the place where they immolate hosts, & that they lay the foundations supporting the height of threescore cubits, & the breadth of threescore cubits, {4} three ews of stones unpolished, and so ews of new timber: and the costs shall be given out of the king's house. {5} Yea and the vessels of the temple of God, of gold and of silver, which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of the Temple of Jerusalem, and had brought them into Babylon, let them be restored, and brought back into the temple of Jerusalem unto their place, which also were put in the temple of God. {6} Now therefore Thathanai Prince of the country, that is beyond the River, Stharbzana, and your counsellors the Apharsachites, which are beyond the River, depart far from them, {7} and suffer that temple of God to be made of the Duke of the Jews, and of their ancients, that they may build that house of God in his place. {8} Also there is commandment given from me what must be done of those ancients of the Jews, that the house of God may be built, to wit, that of the king's coffer, that is, of the tributes that are given out of the country beyond the River, the charges be diligently given to those men, lest the work be hindered. {9} And if it shall be necessary, calves also, and lambs, and kids, for holocaust to the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the rite of the Priests that are in Jerusalem, let there be given them day by day, that there be no complain in any thing. {10} And let them offer oblations to the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his children. {11} By me therefore there is a decree made: That every man, which shall alter this commandment, there be a beam taken of his house, and set up, and he be fast hanged upon it, and his house be confiscate. {12} And the God, that hath made his name to dwell there, destroy all Kingdoms, and the people that shall extend their hand to resist, and to destroy the house of God, that is in Jerusalem. I, Darius have made the decree, which I will to be diligently accomplished. {13} Therefore Thathanai the Prince of the country beyond the River, and Stharbzana, and his counsellors, according to that which Darius the king had commanded, so did execute it diligently. {14} And the ancients of the Jews built, and prospered according to the prophecy of Aggeus the Prophet, and of Zacharias the son of Addo: and they built & set up, the God of Israel commanding, and Cyrus commanding, and Darius, and Artaxerxes the kings of the Persians. {15} And they were finishing this house of God, until the third day of the month of Adar, which is the sixth year of Darius the king. {16} And the children of Israel, the Priests and the Levites, and the rest of the transmigration, made the dedication of the house of God in joy. {17} And they offered in the dedication of the house of God, calves an hundred, rams two hundred, lambs four hundred, buck-goats for the sin of all Israel twelve, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. {18} And they set the Priests in their orders, and the Levites in their courses over the works of God in Jerusalem, as it is written in the Book of Moyses. {19} And the children of Israel of the transmigration made the Phase, the fourteenth day of the first month. {20} For all the Priests and the Levites were purified as it were one man: all clean to immolate the Phase for all the children of the transmigration, and for their brethren the Priests, and themselves. {21} And the children of Israel that were returned from the transmigration, did eat, and all that had separated themselves from the coinquination of the Gentiles of the earth unto them, to seek our Lord the God of Israel. {22} And they made the solemnity of Azymes seven days in joy, because our Lord had made them joyful. {473} and had turned the heart of the king of Assur to them, that he should help their hands in the work of the house of our Lord the God of Israel.

Esdras, with many other Priests and Levites, ascendeth to Jerusalem to teach, and assist the people: 11. bringing Artaxerxes' Edict, declareth it to the people, 27. and giveth thanks to God.

{1} AND after these things in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persians, Esdras, the son of Saraias, the son of Azarias, the son of Helcias, {2} the son of Sellum, the son of Sadoc, the son of Achitob, {3} the son of Amarias, the son of Azarias, the son of Maraioth, {4} the son of Zarahias, the son of Ozi, the son of Bocci, {5} the son of Abisue, the son of Phinees, the son of Eleazer, the son of Aaron the Priest from the beginning: {6} The same Esdras came up from Babylon, and he was a quick scribe in the law of Moyses, which our Lord God gave to Israel: and the king gave him according to the hand of our Lord his God upon him all his petition. {7} And there came up of the children of Israel, and of the children of the Priests, and of the children of the Levites, and of the singing men, and of the porters, and of the Nathineites into Jerusalem in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. {8} And they came into Jerusalem the fifth month, that is the seventh year of the king. {9} For in the first day of the first month he began to go up from Babylon, and in the first day of the fifth month he came into Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him. {10} For Esdras prepared his heart to search the law of our God, & to do and to teach in Israel precept & judgment, {11} And this is the copy of the epistle of the edict, which king Artaxerxes gave to Esdras the Priest, the learned scribe, in the words and precepts of our Lord, & his ceremonies in Israel. {12} Artaxerxes the king of kings to Esdras the Priest, the most learned scribe of the law of God of heaven, greeting. {13} It is decreed by me that whomsoever it shall please in my Kingdom, of the people of Israel, and of the Priests and Levites, to go into Jerusalem, let him go with thee. {14} For thou art sent from the face of the king, & of his seven counsellors, that thou mayst visit Jewry & Jerusalem in the law of thy God, which is in thy hand. {15} And that thou mayst carry the silver & gold, which the king & his counsellors have voluntarily offered to the God of Israel, whose tabernacle is in Jerusalem. {16} And all the silver & gold whatsoever thou shalt find in all the Province of Babylon, & the people will offer, & of the Priests that shall voluntarily offer to the house of their God which is in Jerusalem, {17} Take freely, and buy diligently of this money calves, rams, lambs, and the sacrifices and libaments of them, and offer them upon the altar of the temple of your God, that is in Jerusalem. {18} Yea and if it shall please thee, and thy brethren to do any thing with the rest of the silver and gold, do ye according to the will of your God. {19} The vessels also, which are given thee for the ministry of the house of thy God, deliver thou in the sight of God in Jerusalem. {20} Yea and other things whereof need shall be for the house of thy God, how much soever is necessary for thee to spend, thou shalt give it out of the treasure and exchequer of the king, and from me. {21} I, Artaxerxes the king have appointed and decreed to all the keepers of the Common coffer, that are beyond the River, that whatsoever Esdras the Priest, the scribe of the law of God of heaven, shall ask of you, you give it without delay, {22} unto an hundred talents of silver, and unto an hundred cores of wheat, and unto an hundred bates of wine, and unto an hundred bates of oil, but salt without measure. {23} All that pertaineth to the rite of the God of heaven let it be given diligently in the house of the God of heaven: lest perhaps he be angry against the kingdom of the king, and of his sons. {24} We do you also to understand concerning all the Priests, & Levites, and the singers, and the porters, the Nathineites, and ministers of the house of this God, that you have no authority to put toll and tribute and yearly rents upon them. {25} And thou Esdras according to the wisdom of thy God, which is in thy hand, appoint judges and presidents, that they may judge for all the people, that is beyond the River, that is for them which know the law of thy God, yea and the ignorant teach ye freely. {26} And every one that shall not do the law of thy God, and the law of thy king diligently, there shall be judgement of him, either unto death, or into banishment, or to the confiscation of his substance, or at the least into prison. {27} Blessed be our Lord the God of our fathers, which hath put this in the king's heart, that he would glorify the house of our Lord, which is in Jerusalem, {28} and hath inclined his mercy toward me before the king and his counsellors, and all the mighty princes of the king: and I taking courage by the hand of our Lord my God, which was on me, gathered together out of Israel princes that should go up with me.

Esdras reciteth those that came with him from Babylon, 21. the fast which he appointed, 33. and how they brought the holy vessels into the Temple.

{1} THESE therefore are the Princes of the families, and the genealogy of them, that came up with me in the reign of Artaxerxes the king out of Babylon. {2} Of the children of Phinees, Gersom. Of the children of Ithamar, Daniel. Of the children of David, Hattus. {3} Of the children of Sechenias, the children of Pharos, Zacharias: and with him were numbered an hundred fifty men. {4} Of the children of Phahath Moab, Eleoenai the son of Zareha, and with him two hundred men. {5} Of the children of Sechenias, the son of Ezechiel, and with him three hundred men. {6} Of the children of Adan, Abed the son of Jonathan, and with him fifty men. {7} Of the children of Alam, Isaias the son of Athalia, and with him seventy men. {8} Of the children of Saphatia, Zebedia the son of Michael, and with him eighty men. {9} Of the children of Joab, Obedia the son of Jahiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen men. {10} Of the children of Selomith, the son of Josphia, and with him an hundred sixty men. {11} Of the children of Bebai, Zacharias the son of Bebai: and with him twenty eight men. {12} Of the children of Azgad, Joanan the son of Eccetan, and with him an hundred and ten men. {13} Of the children of Adonicam, which were the last: and these are their names: Elipheleth, and Jehiel, and Samaias, and with them sixty men. {14} Of the children of Begui, Uthai and Zachur, and with them seventy men. {15} And I gathered them to the river, which runneth down to Ahava, and we tarried there three days: and I sought among the people and among the Priests for the children of Levi, and found none there. {16} Therefore I sent Eliezer, and Ariel, and Semeias, and Elnathan, & Jarib, and another Elnathan, and Nathan, and Zacharias, and Mosollam Princes: and Joiarib, and Elnathan, wise men. {17} And I sent them to Eddo, which is chief in the place of Chaspia, and I did put in their mouth the words that they should speak to Eddo, and his brethren the Nathineites in the place of Chaspia, that they should bring us ministers of the house of our God. {18} And they brought us by the good hand of our God upon us a most learned man of the children of Mocholi the son of Levi the son of Israel, and Sarabias and his sons, and his brethren eighteen, {19} and Hasabias, and with him Isaias of the children of Merari, and his brethren, and his sons twenty. {20} And all the Nathineites, which David gave, and the Princes for the ministries of the Levites, Nathineites two hundred twenty: all these were called by their names. {21} And I proclaimed there a fast beside the River of Ahava, that we might be afflicted before the Lord our God, and might desire of him a right way for us and our children, and all our substance. {22} For I was ashamed to ask the king aid and horsemen, that might defend us from the enemy in the way: because we had said to the king: The hand of our God is upon all them, that seek him in goodness: and his empire and strength, and fury upon all them that forsake him. {23} And we fasted, and besought our God hereby: and it fell out prosperously unto us. {24} And I separated twelve of the chief Priests, Sarabias, and Hasabias, and with them ten of their brethren. {25} And I weighed unto them the silver and gold, and the consecrated vessels of the house of our God, which the king had offered and his counsellors, and his Princes, and all Israel of them that were found: {26} and I weighed in their hands of silver six hundred fifty talents, and vessels of silver an hundred, of gold an hundred talents: {27} and cups of gold twenty, which had a thousand solids, and two vessels of the best shining brass, fair as gold. {28} And I said to them: You are the holy of our Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and gold, that is voluntarily offered to our Lord the God of our fathers: {29} Watch & keep it, until you deliver it by weight before the Princes of the Priests, and of the Levites, & the Princes of the families of Israel in Jerusalem, into the treasure of the house of our Lord. {30} And the Priests and the Levites received the weight of the silver and gold, and of the vessels, to carry it to Jerusalem into the house of our God. {31} We therefore did set forward from the river of Ahava the twelfth day of the first month to go on to Jerusalem: and the hand of our God was upon us, & delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and the lier in wait by the way. {32} And we came to Jerusalem, and we tarried there three days. {33} And in the fourth day the silver was weighed, and the gold, and the vessels in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth the son of Urias the Priest, and with him Eleazar the son of Phinees, and with them Jozabed the son of Josue, and Noadaia the son of Bennoi, Levites, {34} according to the number and weight of all: and all the weight was described at that time. {35} Yea & the children of the transmigration that were come from the captivity, offered holocausts to the God of Israel, calves twelve for all the people of Israel, rams ninety six, lambs seventy seven, buck-goats for sin twelve: all for holocaust to our Lord. {36} And they gave the king's edicts to the Princes, that were overseers for the king, and the dukes beyond the River, and they advanced the people and the house of God.

For marriages and other association which the Jews had with Gentiles. Esdras lamenteth, 5. and confessing the people's iniquity, prayeth God to conserve them from utter destruction.

{1} AND after these things were accomplished, the Princes came to me, saying: The people of Israel, and the Priests and Levites are not separated from the people of the lands, and from the abominations of them, to wit, of the Chananeite, and Hettheite, and Pherezeite, and Jebuseite, and of the Ammonites, and Moabites, and the Aegyptians, and Amorrheites. {2} For they have taken of their daughters to them and to their sons, and have mingled the holy seed with the people of the lands. The hand also of the Princes and magistrates hath been first in this transgression. {3} And when I had heard this word, I rent my cloak and my coat, and plucked off the hairs of my head and beard, and sat mourning. {4} And there assembled to me all that feared the God of Israel, for the transgression of them that were come from the captivity, and I sat sorrowful, until the evening sacrifice. {5} And at the evening sacrifice I rose out of my affliction, and my cloak and coat being rent I fell upon my knees, and spread forth my hands to our Lord my God, {6} and said: My God I am confounded and ashamed to lift up my face to thee: because our iniquities are multiplied over our head, and our sins have grown even unto heaven. {7} from the days of our fathers: yea and we our selves also have sinned grievously unto this day, and in our iniquities have we been delivered, our selves, and our kings, and our Priests, into the hand of the kings of the lands, and into the sword, and into captivity, and into spoil, and into confusion of countenance, as also at this day. {8} And now as it were a little, and for a moment was our prayer made before the Lord our God, that a remnant might be left us, and a nail might be given us in his holy place, and that our God would illuminate our eyes, and would give us a little life in our bondage. {9} Because we are bondmen, and in our bondage our God did not forsake us, but he inclined mercy upon us before the king of the Persians, to give us life, & to advance the house of our God, & to build the desolations thereof, & to give us a hedge in Juda & Jerusalem. {10} And now what shall we say, o our God, after these things? Because we have forsaken thy commandments, {11} which thou hast commanded in the hand of thy servants the Prophets, saying: The land, to the which you enter to possess it, is an unclean land, according to the uncleanness of peoples, and of other lands, by the abominations of them that have filled it from mouth unto mouth in their coquination. {12} Now therefore give not your daughters to their sons, and their daughters take not for your sons, and do ye not seek their peace, and their prosperity for ever: that you may be strengthened, and may eat the goods that are of the land, and may have your children heirs for ever. {13} And after all things that come upon us in our most wicked works, and our most great sin, because thou our God hast delivered us from our iniquity, and hast given us health as it is at this day, {14} that we shall not turn away, & make frustrate thy commandments, neither should join matrimonies with the peoples of these abominations. Why art thou angry with us unto utter destruction, not to leave us a remnant unto salvation? {15} Lord God of Israel thou art just: because we are left, which should be saved as at this day. Behold we are before thee in our sin, for there can be no standing before thee upon this.

Esdras calling the people together commandeth them to dismiss the strange women, which they have married: 14. appointing officers to see it executed. 18. and reciteth those which had married such women.

{1} ESDRAS therefore thus praying, and beseeching, and weeping, and lying before the temple of God, there was gathered to him of Israel an exceeding great company of men and women and children, and the people wept with much lamentation. {2} And Sechenias the son of Jehiel of the children of Aelam answered, and said to Esdras: We have transgressed against our God, and have taken to wives strange women of the peoples of the land: and now if there be penance in Israel upon this, {3} let us make a covenant with the Lord our God, to put away all the wives, and them that are born of them, according to the will of our Lord, and of them that fear the precept of the Lord our God: be it done according to the law. {4} Arise, it is thy part to discern, and we will be with thee: take courage, and do it. {5} Esdras therefore rose up, and adjured the Princes of the Priests and of the Levites, & all Israel, that they should do according to this word, and they sware. {6} And Esdras rose up before the house of God, & went to the chamber of Johanan the son of Eliasib, and entered into it: he did eat no bread & drank no water: for he mourned for the transgression of them that were come out of the captivity. {7} And there was a proclamation sent in Juda and Jerusalem to all the children of the transgression, that they should assemble together into Jerusalem. {8} And every one that shall not come within three days, according to the counsel of the Princes & ancients, all his substance shall be taken away and himself shall be cast out of the company of the transmigration. {9} There assembled therefore all the men of Juda, and Benjamin into Jerusalem within three days, that is the ninth month, the twentieth day of the month: and all the people sat in the street of the house of God, trembling for the sin, and the rain. {10} And Esdras the Priest arose, and said to them: You have transgressed, and taken strange women to wife, to add upon the sin of Israel. {11} And now give confession to our Lord the God of your fathers, and do his pleasure, and be separated from the peoples of the land, and from your wives the strangers. {12} And all the multitude answered, and said with a loud voice: According to thy word unto us, so be it done. {13} Nevertheless because there is much people, and a time of rain, and we can not abide to stand without, and it is not a work of one day or two (for we have exceedingly sinned in this thing), {14} let there be Princes appointed in all the multitude: & let all in our cities that have taken strangers to wife, come at set times, and with them the ancients by city and city, and the judges thereof, until the wrath of our God be turned away from us for this sin. {15} Therefore Jonathan the son of Azahel, and Jazaria the son of Thecua were appointed over this, and Mosollam and Sebethai Levites did help them: {16} and the children of the transmigration did so. And Esdras the Priest, and the men, Princes of the families, went into the houses of their fathers, & all by their names, and they sat in the first day of the tenth month to search out the matter. {17} And all the men were fully counted that had taken strangers to wife, unto the first day of the first month. {18} And there were found of the sons of the Priests that had taken strangers to wife. Of the children of Josue the son of Josedec, and his brethren, Maasia, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Godolia. {19} And they gave their hands to put away their wives, & to offer for their offence a ram of the flock. {20} And of the children of Emmer, Hanani, and Zebedia. {21} And of the children of Harim, Maasia, and Elia, and Semeia, and Jehiel, and Ozias. {22} And of the children of Pheshur, Elionai, Maasia, Ismael, Nathanael, Jozabed, and Elasa. {23} And of the children of the Levites, Jozabed, and Semei, and Celaia, the same is Calita, Phataia, Juda, & Eliezer. {24} And of the singing men Eliasib: and of the porters, Sellum, and Thelem, and Uri. {25} And of Israel, of the children of Pharos, Remeia, and Jezia, and Melchia, and Miamin, and Eliezer, and Melchia, and Banea. {26} And of the children of Aelam, Mathania, Zacharias, and Jehiel, and Abdi, and Jerimoth, and Elia. {27} And of the children of Zethua, Elioenai, Eliasib, Mathania, Jerimuth, and Zabad, and Aziza. {28} And of the children of Bebai, Johanan, Hanamia, Zabbai, Athalai. {29} And of the children of Bani, Mosollam, and Melluch, and Adaia, Jasub, and Saal, and Ramoth. {30} And of the children of Phahath Moab, Edna & Chalal, Banalias, and Maasias, Mathanias, Beseleel, Bennui, and Manasse. {31} And of the children of Herem, Eliezer, Josue, Melchias, Semeias, Simeon, {32} Benjamin, Maloch, Samarias {33} And of the children of Hasom, Mathanai, Mathatha, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jermai, Manasse, Semei. {34} Of the children of Bani, Maaddi, Amram, and Vel, {35} Baneas, and Badaias, Chelaius, {36} Vania, Marimuth, and Eliasib, {37} Mathanias, and Mathanai, and Jasi, {38} and Bani, and Bennui, Semei, {39} and Salmias, and Nathan, & Adaias, {40} and Mechnedebai, Sisai, Sarai. {41} Ezrel, and Selemiau, Semeria, {42} Sellum, Amaria, Joseph. {43} Of the children of Nebo, Jehiel, Mathathias, Zabad, Zabina, Jeddu, and Joel, and Banaia. {44} All these had taken strangers to wife, and there were of them that had born children.

THE SECOND BOOK OF ESDRAS

Nehemias hearing the miserable state of his country-men in Jury, 4. lamenteth, fasteth, and prayeth God for their relief.

{1} THE words of Nehemias the son of Helchias. And it came to pass in the month of Casleu, the twentieth year, and I was in Susis the castle. {2} And Hanani one of my brethren came, himself and men of Juda, and I asked them of the Jews, that remained, and were left alive of the captivity, and of Jerusalem. {3} And they said to me: They that remained, and are left of the captivity there in the province, are in great affliction, and in reproach: and the wall of Jerusalem is broken down, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire. {4} And when I had heard these manner of words, I sat, and wept, and mourned many days: and fasted, and prayed before the face of the God of heaven. {5} And I said: I beseech thee Lord God of heaven, strong, great, and terrible, which keepest covenant and mercy with them that love thee, and keep thy commandments: {6} let thine ears be harkening, and thine eyes open, to hear the prayer of thy servant, which I pray before thee this day, night and day for the children of Israel thy servants: and I confess for the sins of the children of Israel, in which they have sinned to thee: I and my father's house have sinned, {7} we have been seduced with vanity, & have not kept the commandments & ceremonies & judgment, which thou hast commanded to Moyses thy servant. {8} Remember the word, that thou didst command unto Moyses thy servant, saying: When you shall transgress, I will disperse you into peoples: {9} and if you return to me, and keep my precepts, and do them, although you shall be led away to the uttermost parts of heaven, thence will I gather you, and bring you back into the place, which I have chosen that my name should dwell there. {10} And they are thy servants, and thy people: whom thou hast redeemed in thy great strength, and in thy mighty hand. {11} I beseech thee Lord, let thine ear be attent to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, which will fear thy name: and direct thy servant this day, and give him mercy before this man. For I was the king's cup-bearer.

Nehemias obtaining commission from king Artaxerxes cometh to Jerusalem: 11. secretly vieweth the broken walls and ruins of the city. 17. and exhorteth all the Jews to the re-edifying thereof.

{1} AND it came to pass in the month of Nisan, the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king: and there was wine before him, and I lifted up the wine, and gave to the king: and I was as it were languishing before his face. {2} And the king said to me: Why is thy countenance sad, whereas I do not see thee sick? This is not without cause, but some evil I know not what, is in thy heart. And I was very much & exceedingly afraid: {3} and I said to the king: O king for ever mayst thou live: why should not my countenance be heavy, because the city of the house of the sepulchres of my fathers is desolate, & the gates thereof are burnt with fire? {4} And the king said to me: For what thing makest thou request? And I prayed the God of heaven, {5} and I said to the king: If it seem good to the king, and if thy servant do please before thy face, that thou send me into Jewry to the city of the sepulchre of my father, & I will build it. {6} And the king said to me, & the queen that sat by him: Unto what time will thy journey be, and when wilt thou return? And it pleased before the king, and he sent me: and I appointed him a time. {7} And I said to the king: If it seem good to the king, let him give me letters to the governors of the country beyond the River, that they conduct me, till I come into Jewry: {8} and a letter to Asaph the keeper of the king's forest, to give me timber that I may cover the gates of the tower of the house, and the walls of the city, and the house that I shall enter into. And the king gave according to the good hand of my God with me. {9} And I came to the dukes of the country beyond the River, and gave them the king's letters. And the king had sent with me captains of soldiers, and horsemen. {10} And Sanaballat an Horonite, and Tobias a servant an Ammanite heard it, and were grieved with great affliction, that a man was come, which sought the prosperity of the children of Israel. {11} And I came to Jerusalem and was there three days. {12} And I arose in the night, I and a few men with me, and I told not any man what God had put in my heart to do in Jerusalem, and there was no beast with me, but the beast whereon I sat. {13} And I went out by the gate of the valley by night, and before the fountain of the dragon, and to the gate of the dung, and I viewed the wall of Jerusalem broken down, and the gates thereof consumed with fire. {14} And I passed to the gate of the fountain, and to the king's conduit, and there was no place for the beast whereon I sat, to pass. {15} And I went up by the torrent in the night, and viewed the wall, and going back I came to the gate of the valley, and returned. {16} But the magistrates knew not whither I went, or what I did: yea and to the Jews, and the Priests, and the nobles, and the magistrates, and the rest that did the work, until then I had shewed nothing. {17} And I said to them: You know the affliction wherein we are, because Jerusalem is made desolate, and the gates thereof are consumed with fire: Come, and let us build the walls of Jerusalem, and let us be no longer a reproach. {18} And I shewed them the hand of my God, that it was good with me, and the king's words, which he had spoken to me, and I said: Let us rise, and let us build. And their hands were encouraged in good. {19} But Sanaballat the Horonite, and Tobias the servant an Ammanite, and Gosem an Arabian heard of it, and they scorned us, and despised us, and said: What is this thing that you do? Why do you rebel against the king? {20} And I answered them, and said to them: The God of heaven he helpeth us, and we are his servants: let us rise and build: but you have no part, nor justice, nor memory in Jerusalem.

The High Priest and others begin to repair Jerusalem strengthening it with an uttermost, 19. middle, 28. and innermost wall, with towers and gates.

{1} AND Eliasib the high Priest arose, and his brethren the Priests: and they built the gate of the flock: they sanctified it, and set the doors thereof, and unto the tower of an hundred cubits they sanctified it, unto the tower of Hananeel. {2} And besides him did the men of Jericho build, and besides him built Zachur the son of Amri. {3} But the fish-gate the children of Asnaa did build: they covered it, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and bars. And besides them built Marimuth the son of Urias the son of Accas. {4} And besides him built Mosollam the son of Bazachias, the son of Merezel, & besides them built Sadoc the son of Baana. {5} And beside them builded the Thecunes: but their great men did not put under their necks in the work of their Lord. {6} And Joiada the son of Phasea, and Mosollam the son of Besodia built the old-gate, covered it, & set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and bars. {7} And beside them built Meltias a Gabaomite, & Jadon a Meronathite, men of Gabaon, & Maspha, for the duke that was in the country beyond the River. {8} And beside him built Eziel the son of Araia a goldsmith: and beside him built Ananias the son of a Pigmentary: and they left Jerusalem unto the wall of the broader street. {9} And beside him built Raphaia the son of Hur, Prince of the street of Jerusalem. {10} And beside them Jedaia the son of Haromaph against his house: and beside him built Hattus the son of Hasebomia. {11} The half part of the street built Melchias the son of Herem, and Hasub the son of Phahath Moab, and the tower of the furnaces. {12} And beside him built Sellum the son of Alohes Prince of the half part of the street of Jerusalem, he and his daughters. {13} And the gate of the valley built Hanun, and the inhabitants of Zanoe: they built it, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and bars, and a thousand cubits in the wall unto the gate of the dunghill. {14} And the gate of the dunghill built Melchias the son of Rechab, the Prince of the street of Bethacaram: he built it, & set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and bars. {15} And the gate of the fountain Sellum builded the son of Colhoza, Prince of the village of Maspha: he built it, and covered it, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks, and bars, and the walls of the pool of Siloe unto the king's garden, and unto the steps that go down from the city of David. {16} After him built Nehemias the son of Azboc

Prince of the half part of the street of Bethsur, as far as over against the sepulchre of David, and unto the pool, that is built with great work, and unto the house of the valiants. {17} After him the Levites builded, Rehum the son of Benni. After him built Hasebias Prince of the half part of the street of Ceila in his street. {18} After him built their brethren, Bavai the son of Enadad, Prince of the half part of Ceila. {19} And beside him built Azer the son of Josue, the Prince of Maspha the second measure, against the visiting of the most sure corner. {20} After him in the mount built Baruch the son of Zachai the second measure, from the corner unto the gate of the house of Eliasib the high Priest. {21} After him built Merimuth the son of Urias the son of Haccus, the second measure, from the gate of the house of Eliasib, as far as the house of Eliasib extended. {22} And after him built the Priests, men of the champion of Jordan. {23} After him built Benjamin and Hasub against their house: and after him built Azarias the son of Maasias the son of Ananias against his house. {24} After him built Bennui the son of Hanadad the second measure, from the house of Azarias unto the bending, and unto the corner. {25} Phalel the son of Ozi against the bending and the tower, which appeareth from out of the king's high house, that is, in the court of the prison: after him Phadaia the son of Pharos. {26} And the Nathineites dwelt in Ophel, as far as over against the gate of waters toward the East, and the tower that stood out. {27} After him the Thecunes builded the second measure over against, from the great and eminent tower unto the wall of the temple. {28} And upward to the gate of horses the Priests built, every man against his house. {29} After them build Sadoc the son of Emmer against his house. And after him built Semaia the son of Sechenias, keeper of the East gate. {30} After him built Hanania the son of Selemia, and Hanun the son of Seleph the sixth, the second measure: after him built Mosollam the son of Barachias, against his treasury. After him Melchias a gold-smith son unto the house of the Nathineites, and of them that sold old stuff against the judgment gate, and unto the upper chamber of the corner. {31} And within the upper chamber of the corner in the gate of the flock, the goldsmiths and merchants builded.

Notwithstanding the enemies' rage and oppose against the building of the walls, 4. the Jews build with one hand, & hold their swords in the other. Nehemias encourageth them, and the work proceedeth.

{1} AND it came to pass, when Sanaballat had heard that we builded the wall, he was very angry: and being moved exceedingly he scorned the Jews, {2} and said before his brethren, and the multitude of the Samaritans: What do the silly Jews? Will the gentiles let them alone? Shall they sacrifice and accomplish in one day? Why, are they able to build up the stones out of the heaps of dust, that are burnt? {3} Yea Tobias also the Ammanite his neighbour said: Let them build: if a fox come up, he shall leap over their stone wall. {4} Hear our God, because we are had in despise: turn the reproach upon their head, and give them into despise in a Land of captivity. {5} Cover not their iniquity, and let not their sin be put out before thy face, because they have mocked thy builders. {6} Therefore we built the wall, and joined together the whole unto the half part: and the heart of the people was provoked to work. {7} And it came to pass when Sanaballat had heard, and Tobias, and the Arabians, and the Ammanites, and the Azotians, that the breach of the wall of Jerusalem was closed up, and the gates began to be stopped, they were wrath exceedingly. {8} And they were all assembled together to come, and to fight against Jerusalem, and to prepare ambushments. {9} And we prayed our God, and set watchmen upon the wall day and night against them. {10} And Judas said: The strength of him that carrieth is weakened, and the mortar is very much, and we shall not be able to build the wall. {11} And our enemies said: Let them not know, and let them be ignorant, till we come into the midst of them, and kill them, and make their work to cease. {12} And it came to pass, the Jews that dwelt beside them, coming and telling us ten times, out of all places from whence they came to us, {13} I set the people in a place behind the wall round about in order, with their swords, and spears, and bows. {14} And I looked and rose up: and I said to the Princes and magistrates, and to the rest of the common people: Be not afraid at their face: Remember our Lord great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, and your wives, and your houses. {15} And it came to pass, when our enemies had heard that it was told us, God defeated their counsel. And we returned all to the walls, every man to his work. {16} And it came to pass from that day, the half part of their young men did the work, and half was ready to battle, and spears, and shields, and bows, and coats of mail, and the Princes behind them in all the house of Juda. {17} of them that built in the wall, and that carried burdens, and that laden them: with one of his hands he did the work, and with the other he held a sword: {18} for every one of the builders was girded with a sword about his reins. And they builded, and sounded with the trumpet near me. {19} And I said to the Princes, & to the magistrates, & to the rest of the common people: The work is great and broad, and we are separated in the wall one far from an other: {20} in what place soever you shall hear the sound of the trumpet, thither run together unto us: our God will fight for us. {21} And let us our selves do the work: and let the half part of us hold spears from the rising of the morning, till the stars appear. {22} At that time also I said to the people: Let every man with his servant tarry in the midst of Jerusalem, and let there be courses among us by day and night to work. {23} And I and my brethren, & my servants, and the watchmen that were behind me, did not put off our cloths: every man was made bare only to washing.

Nehemias blameth richmen, for oppressing the poor: 14. himself giveth largely of his own to the needy.

{1} AND there was a great cry of the people, and of their wives against their brethren the Jews. {2} And there were that said: Our sons and daughters are very many: let us take corn for the price of them, and let us eat, & live. {3} And there were that said: Let us pledge our fields, & vineyards, and our houses, and let us take corn in famine. {4} And others said: Let us borrow money for the king's tributes, and let us give our fields and vineyards, {5} and now as the flesh of our brethren, so is our flesh: and as their children so also our children. Behold we subdue our sons, and our daughters into bondage, and our daughters there are bond women, neither have we wherewith they may be redeemed, and our fields and our vineyards other men do possess. {6} And I was exceeding angry, when I had heard their cry according to these words. {7} And my heart thought with my self: and I rebuked the Princes and magistrates, and said to them: Do you every one exact usuries of your brethren? And I gathered against them a great assembly. {8} and I said to them: We as you know, have redeemed our brethren the Jews, that were sold to the gentiles, according to our ability: & will you therefore sell your brethren, and shall we redeem them? And they held their peace, neither did they find what to answer. {9} And I said to them: The thing is not good, which you do: why walk you not in the fear of our God, lest we be upbraided with all the gentiles our enemies? {10} I also & my brethren, and my servants, have lent money and corn to very many: let us not ask this again in common, let us remit them the debt, that is due to us. {11} Restore ye to them their fields this day, and their vineyards, & their olivets, and their houses: yea the hundredth part also of money, corn, wine, and oil, which you were wont to exact of them, give it rather for them. {12} And they said: We will restore, and we will seek nothing of them: and we will do so as thou speakest. And I called the Priests, and adjured them to do according to that which I had said. {13} Moreover I shook my bosom, and said: God so shake every man, that shall not accomplish this word, out of his house, and out of his labours, so be he shaken out, and made empty. And all the multitude said: Amen. And they praised God. And the people did as it was said. {14} And from that day, wherein the king commended me to the Duke in the land of Juda, from the twentieth year till the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes the king, for twelve years, I and my brethren did not eat the yearly allowance, that was due to the Dukes. {15} But the former Dukes, that had been before me, burdened the people, & took of them in bread, & wine, and money, every day forty sicles: yea & their officers oppressed the people. But I did not so for the fear of God. {16} Yea I builded rather in the work of the wall, and field I bought not, and all my servants were gathered together to the work. {17} The Jews also & the magistrates an hundred fifty men, and they that came to us out of the nations, that were round about us, were at the table. {18} And there was prepared for me day by day one oxe, six chosen rams, beside fowls, and within ten days diverse wines, and many other things did I give. Moreover also the yearly allowance of my dukedom I sought not, for the people was very much impoverished. {19} Remember me my God to good, according to all things which I have done to this people.

The enemies guilefully offer to make league with the Jews. 3. But Nehemias proceedeth in building the walls: 16. and all bordering nations fear them.

{1} AND it came to pass, when Sanaballat had heard, and Tobias, and Gossem the Arabian, and the rest of our enemies, that I did build the wall, and there was no breach remaining in it (howbeit at that time I had not put the doors in the gates) {2} Sanaballat and Gossem sent to me, saying: Come, and let us make a league together in the villages, in the field of Ono: But they thought to do me evil. {3} I sent therefore messengers to them, saying: I am doing a great work, and I can not go down, lest perhaps it be neglected when I shall come and descend to you. {4} But they sent to me according to this word, four times: and I answered them according to the former word. {5} And Sanaballat sent his servant to me the fifth time according to the former word, and he had a letter in his hand written in this manner: {6} Among the Gentiles it is heard, and Gossem hath said, that thou and the Jews mean to rebel, and therefore thou buildest the wall, and will advance thy self king over them: for which cause, {483} {7} thou hast set up Prophets also, which should preach of thee in Jerusalem, saying: There is a king in Jury: The king will hear of these things: therefore come now, that we may take counsel together. {8} And I sent to them, saying: It is not done according to these words, which thou speakest: for thou framest these things of thine own heart. {9} For all these terrified us, thinking that our hands would cease from the work, and we would leave off. For which cause I did the more strengthen my hand: {10} and I entered into the house of Samaia the son of Dalai the son of Metabeel secretly, who said: Let us consult with our selves in the house of God in the midst of the temple: and Let us shut the doors of the temple, because they will come to kill thee, and in the night they will come to slay thee. {11} And I said. Doth any man that is like unto me fly? And who being as I am, will go into the temple, and live? I will not go in. {12} And I understood that God had not sent him, but as it were prophesying he had spoken to me, and Tobias, and Sanaballat had hired him. {13} For he had taken a price, that I being terrified should do it, and sin, and they might have some evil to upbraid me withal. {14} Remember me Lord for Tobias and Sanaballat, according to such their works. Yea and Noadias the Prophet, and the rest of the Prophets that terrified me. {15} But the wall was finished the five and twentieth day of the month of Elul, in two and fifty days. {16} It came to pass therefore when all our enemies had heard it, that all nations which were round about us, feared, and were dismayed within themselves, and knew that this work was done of God. {17} But in those days also many letters of the principal Jews were sent to Tobias, and from Tobias there came to them. {18} For there were many in Jury sworn unto him, because he was the son in law of Sechenias the son of Area, and Johanan his son had taken the daughter of Mosollam the son of Barachias. {19} Yea and they praised him before me, and they reported my words unto him: and Tobias sent letters to terrify me.

Nehemias appointeth watchmen in Jerusalem, 5. and calling the people together reciteth the number of those, which came first from Babylon. 68. Likewise of their cattle, 70. and the gifts of certain chief men towards the reparations.

{1} AND after the wall was built, and I had put on the doors, and numbered the porters, and singing men, and Levites: {2} I commanded Hanani my brother, and Hanania Prince of the house of Jerusalem (for he seemed as it were a true man, & one that feared God above the rest) {3} and I said to them: Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until the heat of the sun. And when they yet stood by, the gates were shut, and barred: and I set watchmen of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one by their courses, and every man against his house. {4} And the city was exceeding large and great, and the people few in the midst thereof, and there were no houses built. {5} But God gave me in my heart, and I assembled the Princes and magistrates, and common people, that I might number them: and I found a Book of the number of them that came up first, and there was found written in it: {6} These are the children of the province, which came up from the captivity of them that were transported, whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon had transported, and returned into Jury, every one into his own city. {7} They that came with Zorobabel, Josue, Nehemias, Azarias, Rahamias, Nahamani, Mardochaeus, Belsam, Mespharath, Begoai, Nahum, Baana. The number of the men of the people of Israel. {8} The children of Pharos, two thousand an hundred seventy two. {9} The children of Saphatia, three hundred seventy two. {10} The children of Area, six hundred fifty two. {11} The children of Phahathmoab of the children of Josue and Joab, two thousand eight hundred eighteen. {12} The children of Aelam, a thousand two hundred fifty four. {13} The children of Zethua, eight hundred forty five. {14} The children of Zachai, seven hundred sixty. {15} The children of Bannui, six hundred forty eight. {16} The children of Bebai, six hundred twenty eight. {17} The children of Azgad, two thousand three hundred twenty two. {18} The children of Adonicam, six hundred sixty seven. {19} The children of Beguai, two thousand sixty seven. {20} The children of Adin, six hundred fifty five. {21} The children of Ater, children of Hezecias, ninety eight. {22} The children of Hasem, three hundred twenty eight. {23} The children of Besai, three hundred twenty four. {24} The children of Hareph, an hundred twelve. {25} The children of Gabaon, ninety five. {26} The children of Bethlehem, and Netupha, an hundred eighty eight. {27} The men of Anathoth, an hundred twenty eight. {28} The men of Bethazmoth, forty two. {29} The men of Cariathiarim, Cephira, and Beroth, seven hundred forty three. {30} The men of Rama and Geba, six hundred twenty one. {31} The men of Machmas, an hundred twenty two. {32} The men of Bethel and Hai, an hundred twenty three. {33} The men of an other Nebo, fifty two. {34} The men of an other Aelam, a thousand two hundred fifty four. {35} The children of Harem, three hundred twenty. {36} The children of Jericho, three hundred forty five. {37} The children of Lod Hadid and Ono, seven hundred twenty one. {38} The children of Senaa, three thousand nine hundred thirty. {39} The Priests: The children of Idia in the house of Josue, nine hundred three. {40} The children of Emmer, a thousand fifty two. {41} The children of Phashur, a thousand two hundred forty seven. {42} The children of Arem, a thousand seventeen. The Levites: {43} The children of Josue and Cedmihel the children {44} of Oduia, seventy four: The singing men: {45} the children of Asaph, an hundred forty eight. {46} The porters: The children of Sellum, the children of Ater, the children of Telmon, the children of Accub, the children of Hatita, the children of Sobai: an hundred thirty eight. {47} The Nathineites: The children of Soha, the children of Hasupha, the children of Tebaath, {48} the children of Ceros, the children of Siaa, the children of Phadon, the children of Lebana, the children of Hagaba, the children of Selmai, {49} the children of Hanan, the children of Geddel, the children of Gaher, {50} the children of Raaia, the children of Rasin, the children of Necoda, {51} the children of Gesem, the children of Aza, the children of Phasea, {52} the children of Besai, the children of Munim, the children of Nephussim, {53} the children of Bacbuc, the children of Hacupha, the children of Harhur, {54} the children of Besloth, the children of Mahida, the children of Harsa, {55} the children of Bercos, the children of Sisara, the children of Thema, {56} the children of Nasia, the children of Hatipha, {57} the children of the servants of Salomon, the children of Sotai, the children of Sophereth, the children of Pharida, {58} the children of Jahala, the children of Darcon, the children of Jeddel, {59} the children of Saphatia, the children of Hatil, the children of Phochereth, who was born unto Sabaim, the son of Amon. {60} All Nathineites, and the children of the servants of Salomon, three hundred ninety two. {61} But these be they, which came up from Thelmela, Thelharsa, Cherub, Addon, and Emmer: and could not shew the house of their fathers, and their seed, whether they were of Israel. {62} The children of Dalaya, the children of Tobia, the children of Necoda, six hundred forty two. {63} And of the Priests, the children of Habia, the children of Accos, the children of Berzellai, who took a wife of the daughters of Berzellai a Galaadite, and he was called by their name. {64} These sought their writing in the register, & found it not: & they were cast out of the Priesthood. {65} And Athersatha said to them, that they should not eat of the Holies of holies, until there stood up a Priest learned and cunning. {66} All the multitude as it were one man, forty two thousand three hundred sixty, {67} beside their men-servants and women-servants, which were seven thousand three hundred thirty seven: and among them singing men, and singing women, two hundred forty five. {68} Their horses, two hundred forty six, their mules two hundred forty five, {69} their camels, four hundred thirty five, asses six thousand seven hundred twenty. {70} And certain of the Princes of families gave unto the work. Athersatha gave into the treasure of gold a thousand drachmas, phials fifty, tunics for Priests five hundred thirty. {71} And of the Princes of families there gave into the treasure of the work of gold, twenty thousand drachmas, and of silver two thousand two hundred pound. {72} And that which the rest of the people gave, of gold twenty thousand drachmas, and of silver two thousand pound, and tunics for Priests sixty seven. {73} And the Priests, and Levites, and porters, and singing men, and the rest of the common people, and the Nathineites, and all Israel dwelt in their cities. And the seventh month was come: and the children of Israel were in their cities.

Esdras readeth the law before the people. 9. Nehemias comforteth them. 13. They celebrate the feast of tabernacles seven days: 13. and of collection the eighth day.

{1} AND all the people was gathered together as it were one man to the street, which is before the water, & they said to Esdras the scribe, that he should bring the book of the law of Moyses, which our Lord had commanded Israel. {2} Esdras therefore the Priest brought the law before the multitude of men and women, and all that could understand, in the first day of the seventh month. {3} And he read it plainly in the street that was before the water gate, from morning until midday, in the presence of the men, and women, & of those that understood: & the ears of all the people were attent to the book. {4} And Esdras the scribe stood upon a step of wood, which he made to speak upon: & there stood by him Mathathias, & Semeia, & Ania, and Uria, & Helcia, and Maasia, on his right hand: and on the left: Phadaia, Misael, and Melchia, and Hasum, and Hasbadana, Zacharia, and Mosollam. {5} And Esdras opened the Book before all the people: for he appeared above all the people: and when he had opened it, all the people stood. {6} And Esdras blessed our Lord the great God: and all the people answered: Amen, amen: lifting up their hands, and they bowed, and adored God flat on the earth. {7} Moreover Josue, and Bani, and Serebia, Jamin, Accub, Septhai, Odia, Maasia, Celita, Azarias, Jozabed, Hanan, Phalaia, Levites, made silence in the people to hear the law: and the people stood in their degree. {8} And they read in the Book of the law of God distinctly and plainly, for to understand: and they understood when it was read. {9} And Nehemias said (the same is Athersatha) and Esdras the Priest and scribe, and the Levites interpreting to all the people: It is a day sanctified to the Lord our God, mourn ye not, and weep not. For all the people wept, when they heard the words of the law. {10} And he said to them: Go, eat fat things, and drink the sweet wine, and send portions to them, that have not prepared for themselves, because it is the holy day of our Lord, and be not sad: for the joy of our Lord is our strength. {11} And the Levites made silence in all the people, saying: Hold your peace, because the day is holy, & be not sorrowful. {12} Therefore all the people went to eat and drink, and to send portions, and to make great joy: because they understood the words, that he had taught them. {13} And in the second day were gathered the Princes of the families of all the people, the Priests and Levites to Esdras the scribe, that he should interpret unto them the words of the law. {14} And they found written in the law, that our Lord commanded in the hand of Moyses, that the children of Israel should dwell in tabernacles, on the solemn day, the seventh month: {15} and that they should proclaim and publish a voice in all their cities, and in Jerusalem, saying: Go ye forth into the mount, and fetch branches of the olive tree, and branches of the most fair tree, branches of the myrtle tree, & boughs of the palm trees, and branches of the thick leaved tree, that tabernacles may be made, as it is written. {16} And the people went forth, and brought. And they made themselves tabernacles every man in his house top, and in his courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the street of the water gate, and in the street of the gate of Ephraim. {17} Therefore all the Church of them that were returned from the captivity, made tabernacles, and dwelt in tabernacles. For from the days of Josue the son of Nun the children of Israel had not done it in such sort, until that day: and there was exceeding great joy. {18} And he read in the book of the law of God day by day, from the first day till the last, and they made the solemnity seven days, & in the eighth day a collect according to the rite.

The people repenting in fasting and sackcloth, put away their wives of strange nations. 5. Esdras confesseth God's benefits, and the people's ingratitude. 32. Prayeth for them, and maketh league with God.

{1} AND in the four and twentieth day of the month the children of Israel came together in fasting and sackcloths, and earth upon them. {2} And the seed of the children of Israel was separated from every strange child: and they stood, and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers. {3} And they rose up to stand: and they read in the volume of the law of our Lord their God four times in a day, and four times they confessed, and adored our Lord their God. {4} And there arose upon the step of the Levites Josue, and Bani, Cedmihel, Sabania, Bonni, Sarebias, Bani, and Chanani: and they cried with a loud voice to our Lord their God. {5} And the Levites Josue and Cedmihel, Bonni, Hasebnia, Serebia, Odaia, Sebnia, and Phathahia, said: Arise, Bless our Lord your God from eternity to eternity: and let them bless the high name of thy glory in all blessing and praise. {6} Thou the same, o Lord, alone thou hast made heaven, and all the host thereof: the earth and all things that are in it: the seas and all things that are therein: and thou dost give life to all these things, and the host of heaven adoreth thee. {7} Thou the same o Lord God, which didst choose Abram, and broughtest him out of the fire of the Chaldees, and gavest him the name Abraham. {8} And thou didst find his heart faithful before thee: and thou madest a covenant with him, that thou wouldest give him the land of the Chananeite, of the Hethite, and of the Amorrheite, and of the Pherezeite, and of the Jebuseite, and of the Gergeseite, to give unto his seed: and thou hast fulfilled thy words, because thou art just. {9} And thou sawest the affliction of our fathers in Aegypt: and their cry thou didst hear upon the Red sea. {10} And thou gavest signs and wonders in Pharao, and in all his servants, and in all the people of his land: for thou didst know that they had done proudly against them: and thou madest thy self a name, as also at this day. {11} And thou didst divide the sea before them, and they passed through the midst of the sea in dry land: but their persecutors thou threwest into the depth, as a stone into the rough waters. {12} And in a pillar of a cloud thou wast their leader by day, and in a pillar of fire by night, that the way might appear to them, by the which they went. {13} To mount Sinai also thou didst descend, and spakest with them from heaven, and thou gavest them right judgments, and the law of truth, ceremonies, and good precepts. {14} Thy sanctified Sabbath thou didst shew them, and the commandments, and ceremonies, and the law thou didst command them in the hand of Moyses thy servant. {15} Bread also from heaven thou gavest them in their hunger, and water out of the rock thou didst bring forth to them thirsting, and thou saidest to them that they should enter in and possess the land, upon which thou didst lift up thy hand to deliver it them. {16} But they and our fathers did proudly, and hardened their necks, and heard not thy commandments. {17} And they would not hear, and they remembered not thy marvelous works which thou hast done to them. And they hardened their necks, and gave the head to return to their servitude, as it were by contention. But thou a propitious God, & gracious, and merciful, long suffering and of much compassion, didst not forsake them. {18} Yea and when they had made to themselves a molten calf, and had said: This is thy God, which brought thee out of Aegypt: and they did great blasphemies. {19} But thou in thy many mercies didst not leave them in the desert: the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to lead them into the way, and the pillar of fire by night to shew them the way by which they should go. {20} And thou gavest them thy good spirit, which should teach them, and thy Manna thou didst not withhold from their mouth, and thou gavest them water in thirst. {21} Forty years didst thou feed them in the desert, and nothing was wanting to them, their garments waxed not old, & their feet were not worn. {22} And thou gavest them Kingdoms, & peoples, and didst part lots unto them: and they possessed the land of Sehon, and the land of the king Hesebon, an the land of Og the king of Basan. {23} And thou didst multiply their children as the stars of heaven, and brought them to the land whereof thou hadst said to their fathers, that they should enter and possess it. {24} And the children came, and possessed the land, and thou didst humble before them the inhabitants of the land the Chananeites, and gavest them into their hand, & their kings, & the peoples of the land, that they might do to them as it pleased them. {25} They therefore took the fenced cities, and fat ground, and possessed houses full of all goods; cisterns made by others, vineyards, and olivets, and many trees that bare fruit: and they did eat, and were filled, and became fat, and abounded with delicious things in thy great goodness. {26} But they provoked thee to wrath, and departed from thee, and threw the law behind their backs: and they killed thy Prophets, which admonished them earnestly to return to thee: and they did great blasphemies. {27} And thou gavest them into the hands of their enemies, and they afflicted them. And in the time of their tribulation they cried to thee, and thou from heaven didst hear, and according to thy many compassions gavest them saviours, that should save them from the hand of their enemies. {28} And when they had rested, they returned to do evil in thy sight: and thou didst leave them in the hand of their enemies, and they possessed them. And they returned, and cried to thee: and thou hearest from heaven, and deliveredst them in thy mercies many times. {29} And thou didst admonish them that they should return to thy law. But they did proudly, and heard not thy commandments, and sinned in thy judgments, which a man should do, and shall live in them, and they gave the revolting shoulder, & hardened their neck, neither did they hear. {30} And thou didst prolong many years over them, and didst testify to charge them in thy spirit by the hand of thy Prophets: and they heard not, & thou didst deliver them into the hand of the peoples of the nations. {31} But in thy very many mercies thou madest them not into consumption, neither didst thou forsake them: because a God of compassions and gracious art thou. {32} Now therefore o our God, great, strong, and terrible, keeping covenant and mercy, turn not away from thy face all the labour which hath found us, our kings, & our Princes, and our Priests, and our Prophets, and our fathers, and all the people from the days of the king of Assur, until this day. {33} And thou art just in all things, that have come upon us: because thou hast done truth, but we have done wickedly. {34} Our kings, our Princes, our Priests, and our fathers have not done thy law, and have not attended thy commandments, and thy testimonies which thou hast testified among them. {35} And they in their reigns, and in thy manifold goodness, which thou gavest them, and in the land most large and fat, which thou didst deliver in their sight, served not thee, nor returned from their most wicked devices. {36} Behold we our selves this day are bondmen: and the land, which thou gavest our fathers, that they should eat the bread thereof, and the good things that are thereof, and our selves are servants in it. {37} And the fruits thereof are multiplied to the kings, whom thou hast set over us for our sins, and they have dominion over our bodies, and over our beasts, according to their will, and we are in great tribulation. {38} Therefore upon all these things we our selves make a covenant, and write, and our Princes, our Levites, and our Priests sign it.

Many, in name of all, subscribe to the covenant made with God. 30. Namely not to marry with strangers, 31. to keep the Sabbath day, and the seventh year. 32. To pay oblations, 37. First fruits, 38. and Tithes.

{1} AND the subscribers were Nehemias, Athersatha the son of Hachelai, and Sedecias, {2} Saraias, Azarias, Jeremias, {3} Pheshur, Amarias, Melchias, {4} Hattus, Sebenia, Melluch, {5} Harem, Merimuth, Obdias, {6} Daniel, Genthon, Baruch, {7} Mosollam, Abia, Miamin, {8} Maazia, Belgai, Semeia: these were Priests. {9} Moreover Levites, Josue the son of Azanias, Bennui of the children of Henadad, Cedmihel, {10} And their brethren, Sebenia, Odaia, Celita, Phalaia, Hanan, {11} Micha, Rohob, Hasebia, {12} Zachur, Serebia, Sabania, {13} Odaia, Bani, Baninu. {14} The heads of the people, Pharos, Phahathmoab, Aelam, Zathu, Bani, {15} Bonni, Azgad, Bebai, {16} Adonia, Begoai, Adin, {17} Ater, Hezecia, Azur, {18} Odaia, Hasum, Besai, {19} Hareph, Anathoth, Nebai, {20} Megphias, Mosollam, Hazir, {21} Mesizabel, Sadoc, Jedua. {22} Pheltia, Hanan, Anai, {23} Osee, Hanania, Hasub, {24} Alohes, Phalea, Sobec, {25} Rehum, Hasebna, Maasia, {26} Echaia, Hanan, Anan, {27} Melluch, Haran, Baana: {28} And the rest of the people, Priests, Levites, Porters, and singing men, Nathineites, and all that separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters. {29} All that could understand, promising for their brethren, their Princes, and they that came to promise, and swear that they would walk in the law of God, which he gave in the hand of Moyses the servant of God, that they would do and keep all the commandments of the Lord our God, and his judgments and his ceremonies. {30} And that we would not give our daughters to the people of the land, and their daughters we would not take to our sons. {31} The peoples of the land, which bring in things to sell, & all things to be used, to sell them on the Sabbath day, we will not take it of them in the Sabbath, & in the sanctified day. And we will let pass the seventh year, & the exaction of every hand. {32} And we will ordain precepts upon our selves, to give the third part of a sicle every year to the work of the house of our God. {33} to the loaves of proposition, and to the continual sacrifice, & for a continual holocaust in the Sabbaths, in the Calends, in the Solemnities, and in the sanctified, and for sin: that propitiation may be made for Israel, and unto all use of the house of our God. {34} We therefore did cast lots concerning the oblation of wood between the Priests, and the Levites, and the people, that it should be brought into the house of our God by the houses of our fathers at set times, from year to year: that it might burn upon the altar of the Lord our God as it is written in the law of Moyses: {35} And that we would bring the first born of our land, and the first fruits of all the fruit of every tree, from year to year, in the house of our Lord. {36} and the first fruits of our sons, and of our cattle, as it is written in the law, and the first fruits of our oxen, and of our sheep, that they might be offered in the house of our God, to the Priests which minister in the house of our God. {37} And the first fruit of our meats, and of our libaments, & the fruits of every tree, of vintage also and of oil we will bring to the Priests, unto the treasury of our God, and the tenth part of our land to the Levites. The Levites themselves shall receive the tithes out of all the cities, of our works. {38} And the Priest the son of Aaron shall be with the Levites in the tithes of the Levites, and the Levites shall offer the tenth part of their tithe in the house of our God, to the treasury in the treasure-house. {39} For the children of Israel and the children of Levi shall carry to the treasury the first fruits of corn, of wine, and of oil: and the sanctified vessels shall be there, and the Priests, and singing men, and porters, and ministers, and we will not leave the house of our God.

New inhabitants of Jerusalem are recited. 20. Likewise who dwelt in other cities of Juda.

{1} AND the Princes of the people dwelt in Jerusalem: but the rest of the people cast lots, to take one part of ten that should dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts in the cities. {2} And the people blessed all the men that had voluntarily offered themselves to dwell in Jerusalem. {3} These therefore are the Princes of the Province, which dwelt in Jerusalem, and in the cities of Juda. Of the children of Asaph, the singing men in the ministry of the house of God. {23} For the king's commandment was upon them, and an order among the singing men day by day. {24} And Phathahia the son of Mesezabel of the children of Zara the son of Juda in the hand of the king, according to every word of the people, {25} and in the houses through all their countries. Of the children of Juda there dwelt in Cariatharbe, and in her daughters: and in Dibon, and in her daughters, and in Cabseel, and in the villages thereof, {26} and in Jesue, and in Molada, and in Bethphaleth, {27} and in Hasersual, and in Bersabee, and in her daughters, {28} and in Siceleg, and in Mochona, and in her daughters, {29} and in Remmon, and in Saraa, and in Jerimuth, {30} Zanoa, Odollam, and in their towns, Lachis and in her countries, Azeca, and in her daughters. And they abode in Bersabee unto the vale of Ennom. {31} And the children of Benjamin, of Geba, Mecmas, {490} and Hai, and Bethel, and her daughters, {32} in Ananoth, Nob, Anania, {33} Asor, Rama, Gethaim, {34} Hadid, Seboim, and Neballat, Lod, {35} and Ono the valley of artificers. {36} And of the Levites were portions of Juda, and Benjamin.

The names and offices of Priests, and Levites, which came with Zorobabel and Josue to Jerusalem 27. with great solemnity of thanks-giving. 31. Watchmen are appointed on the new walls, 45. and Keepers of the holy treasure.

{1} AND these are the Priests and Levites, that came up with Zorobabel the son of Salathiel, and Josue: Saraia, Jeremias, Esdras, {2} Amaria, Melluch, Hattus. {3} Sebenias, Rheum, Merimuth, {4} Addo, Genthon, Abia, {5} Miamin, Madia, Belga, {6} Semeia, and Joarib, Idaia, Sellum, Amoc, Helcias, {7} Idaia. These are the Princes of the Priests, & their brethren in the days of Josue. {8} Moreover the Levites, Jesua, Bennui, Cedmihel, Sarebia, Juda, Mathanias, over the hymns, they & their brethren: {9} And Beccacia, and Hannia and their brethren every one in his office. {10} And Josue begat Joacim, and Joacim begat Eliasib, and Eliasib begat Joiaida, {11} and Joiaida begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jeddoa. {12} And in the days of Joacim the Priests and Princes of the families were: Of Saraia, Maraia: Of Jeremias, Hanania: {13} Of Esdras, Mosollam: Of Amaria, Johanan: {14} Of Milicho, Jonathan: Of Sebenia, Joseph: {15} Of Haram, Edna: Of Maraioth, Helci: {16} Of Adaia, Zacharia: Of Genthon, Mosollam: {17} Of Abia, Zechri: Of Miamin and Moadia, Phelti: {18} Of Belga, Sammuia: Of Semaia, Jonathan: {19} Of Joarib, Mathanai: Of Jodaia, Azzi: {20} Of Sellai, Celai: Of Amoc, Heber: {21} Of Helcias, Hasebia: Of Idaia, Nathanael. {22} The Levites in the days of Eliasib, and Joiada, and Johanan, and Jeddoa, written Princes of the families, and the Priests in the reign of Darius the Persian. {23} The children of Levi, Princes of the families, written in the book of Chronicles of days, and unto the days of Jonathan the son of Eliasib. {24} And the Princes of the Levites, Hasebia, Serebia, and Josue the son of Cedmihel: and their brethren by their courses, to praise and confess according to the precept of David the man of God, and to wait equally in order. {25} Mathania, and Bebecia, Obedia, and Mosollam, Telmon, Accub, keepers of the gates and of the entrances before the gates. {26} These were in the days of Joacim the son of Josue, the son Josedec, and in the days of Nehemias the duke, and of Esdras the Priest, and Scribe. {27} And in the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought Levites out of all other places, to bring them into Jerusalem, and to make the dedication and joy in giving of thanks, and song, and in cymbals, psalteries and harps. {28} And the children of the singing men were gathered together out of the champion about Jerusalem, and out of the towns Nethuphati, {29} and from the house of Galgal, and from the countries of Geba and Azmaveth: because the singing men did build themselves villages round about Jerusalem. {30} And the Priests and Levites were cleansed, and they cleansed the people, and the gates, & the wall. {31} And I made the Princes of Juda go up upon the wall, and I set two great choirs of them that should praise. And they went on the right hand upon the wall to the gate of the dunghill. {32} And after them went Osaias, & the half part of the Princes of Juda, {33} and Azarias, Esdras, & Mosollam, Judas, & Benjamin, & Semeia, & Jeremias. {34} And of the children of the Priests with trumpets, Zacharias the son of Jonathan, the son of Semeia, the son of Mathania, the son of Michaia, the son Zechur, the son Asaph, {35} and his brethren Semeia, and Azareel, Malalai, Galalai, Maai, Nathanael, and Judas, and Hanani, with the instruments of the song of David the man of God: and Esdras the scribe before them in the gate of the fountain. {36} And against them there went up in the stairs of the city of David, in the rising of the wall above the house of David, and unto the gate of waters toward the East. {37} And the second choir of thanks-givers went on the contrary side, and I after it, & the half part of the people upon the wall, & above the tower of the furnaces, and unto the broadest wall, {38} and above the gate of Ephraim, and above the old gate, and above the gate of fishes and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Emath, and unto the gate of the flock: and they stood in the gate of the watch, {39} and there stood two choirs of them that praised in the house of God, and I, and the half part of the magistrates with me. {40} And the Priests, Eliachim, Maasia, Miamin, Michea, Elieoenai, Zacharia, Hanania with trumpets, {41} and Maasia, & Semeia, & Eleazar, & Azzi, & Johanan, and Melchia, and Aelam, and Ezer. And the singing men sang aloud, and Jezraia the overseer: {42} and they immolated in that day great victims, and rejoiced: for God had made them joyful with great joy: yea their wives also & children rejoiced, & the joy of Jerusalem was heard far off. {43} They numbered also in that day men over the storehouses of the treasure, for the libaments, and for the first fruits, & for the tithes, that the Princes of the city might bring in by them in the honour of thanks-giving, Priests and Levites: because Juda was made joyful in the Priests and Levites standing by. {44} And they kept the watch of their God, and the observance of expiation, and the singing men, and the porters, according to the precept of David, and of Salomon his son, {45} because in the days of David and Asaph from the beginning there were Princes appointed of the singing men in song praising and confessing to God. {46} And all Israel, in the days of Zorobabel, and in the days of Nehemias gave portions to the singing men, and to the porters day by day, and they sanctified the Levites, and the Levites sanctified the children of Aaron.

The law is read. 3. strange women are dismissed. 5. Faults in distribution of the treasure are amended, 10. and due portions given to the Levites. 15. Breakers of the Sabbath are corrected, 23. and those which married women of strange nations.

{1} AND in that day there was read in the volume of Moyses the people hearing it: and there was found written in it, that the Ammonites and the Moabites should not enter into the Church of God for ever: {2} for that they met not the children of Israel with bread and water: and they hired against them Balaam to curse them: and our God turned the cursing into blessing. {3} And it came to pass, when they had heard the law, they separated every stranger from Israel. {4} And over this thing was Eliasib the Priest, who had been made overseer in the treasury of the house of our God, and near a-kin to Tobias. {5} He therefore made to himself a great treasury, and they were there before him laying up gifts, and frankincense, and vessels, and the tithe of corn, of wine, and of oil, the portions of the Levites, and of the singing men, and of the porters, and the first fruits of the Priests. {6} But in all these things I was not in Jerusalem, because in the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes the king of Babylon I came to the king, and in the end of certain days I desired the king. {7} And I came to Jerusalem, and I understood the evil that Eliasib had done to Tobias, to make him a treasure in the entrances of the house of God. {8} And it seemed to me exceeding evil. And I threw forth the vessels of the house of Tobias out of the treasury: {9} and I commanded and they cleansed the treasury: and I brought thither again the vessels of the house of God, the sacrifice, and the frankincense. {10} And I knew that the portions of the Levites had not been given: and that every man was fled into his country of the Levites, and the singing men, and of them that ministered: {11} and I pleaded the matter against the magistrates, and said: Why have we forsaken the house of God? And I assembled them, and I made them to stand in their standings. {12} And all Juda carried the tithe of the corn, wine, and oil into the store-houses: {13} And we appointed over the store-houses Selemias Priest, and Sadoc scribe, and Phadaia of the Levites, and next to them Hanan the son of Zachur, the son of Mathania: because they were approved faithful, and to them were committed the portions of the brethren. {14} Remember me my God for this thing, and wipe not out my mercies, which I have done in the house of my God, and in his ceremonies. {15} In those days I saw them in Juda treading the presses on the Sabbath, carrying heaps, and loading upon asses wine, and grapes, and figs, and all manner of burthen, and bringing it into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. And I charged them, that they should sell on a day that it was lawful to sell in. {16} And the Tyrians dwelt in it, bringing fishes, and all things to sell: and they sold on the Sabbaths to the children of Juda in Jerusalem. {17} And I rebuked the Princes of Juda, and said to them: What is this evil thing, that you do, and profane the day of the Sabbath? {18} Why, did not our fathers these things, and our God brought upon us all this evil, and upon this city? And you add wrath upon Israel in violating the Sabbath. {19} And it came to pass, when the gates of Jerusalem had rested on the Sabbath day, I spake: and they shut the gates, and I commanded them that they should not open them till after the Sabbath: and of my servants I appointed over the gates, that none should bring in burdens in the Sabbath day. {20} And the merchants, and they that sold all merchandise, tarried without Jerusalem once and again. {21} And I charged them, and I said to them: Why tarry you over-against the wall? If you shall do so the second time, I will lay my hand upon you. Therefore from that time they came not on the Sabbath. {22} I spake also to the Levites that they should be cleansed, and should come to keep the gates, and to sanctify the day of the Sabbath: therefore for this also remember me my God, and spare me according to the multitude of thy mercies. {23} But in those days also I saw the Jews marrying wives women of Azotus, and of Ammon, and of Moab. {24} And their children spake, the half part the Azotian tongue, and they could not speak the Jew's language, and they spake according to the language of the people and people. {25} And I rebuked them, and cursed them. And I beat of them some men, & shaved them bald, & adjured them by God, that they should not give their daughters to their sons, nor take their daughters for their sons, and for themselves, saying: {26} Did not Salomon the king of Israel sin in this kind of thing? And surely in many nations, there was not a king like to him, and he was beloved of his God, and God set him king over all Israel: him therefore also foreign women brought to sin. {27} And shall we also being disobedient persons do all this great evil, to transgress against our God, and to marry foreign women? {28} And Sanaballat the Horonite was son in law to one of the sons of Joiada, the son of Eliasib the high Priest, whom I drove from me. {29} Remember o Lord my God against them, that pollute the Priesthood, and the right of Priests and Levites. {30} Therefore I separated from them all strangers, & I appointed the courses of the Priests and Levites, every man in his ministry: {31} and in the oblation of wood at times appointed, and in the first fruits: Remember me my God unto good. Amen.

THE BOOK OF TOBIAS

Tobias of the tribe of Nephthali, never communicateth in Jeroboam's schism. 9. Teacheth his son to fear God, and fly sin. 11. Being in captivity eateth not forbidden meats, as others do. 13. Amongst other works of mercy, he lendeth ten talents of silver to Gabelus. 21. Is persecuted and spoiled. 24. Shortly the king being slain, he recovereth liberty and his goods.

{1} TOBIAS of the tribe and city of Nephthali (which is in the upper parts of Galilee above Naasson, beyond the way that leadeth to the west, having on the right hand the city Sephet) {2} when he was captive in the days of Salmanasar the king of the Assyrians, yet being in captivity, he forsook not the way of truth, {3} so that he imparted all things that he could make daily to his brethren captives with him, which were of his kindred. {4} And whereas he was younger than all the tribe of Nephthali, yet did he no childish thing in his work. {5} Finally, when all went to the golden calves, which Jeroboam the king of Israel had made, he alone fled the companies of all, {6} and went into Jerusalem to the temple of our Lord, and there adored our Lord God of Israel, offering faithfully all his first fruits, and his tithes, {7} so that in the third year he ministered all the tithing to the proselytes and strangers. {8} These things and the like to these did he observe being a child according to the law of God. {9} But when he was a man, he took to wife Anna of his own tribe, and he begat a son of her, giving him his own name. {10} Whom from his infancy he taught to fear God, and to abstain from all sin. {11} Therefore when by the captivity he was come with his wife and son into the city of Ninive, with all his tribe, {12} (When all did eat of the meats of the Gentiles) he kept his soul, and never was contaminated in their meats. {13} And because he was mindful of our Lord in all his heart, God gave him grace in the sight of Salmanasar the king, {14} and he gave him leave to go whithersoever he would, having liberty to do what things soever he would. {15} He therefore went to all that were in the captivity, and gave them wholesome admonitions. {16} And when he was come into Rages a city of the Medes, and had ten talents of silver of these wherewith he had been honoured of the king: {17} and when in a great multitude of his kindred, he saw Gabelus stand in need, who was of his tribe, under a bill of his hand he gave him the said weight of silver. {18} But after much time, Salmanasar the king being dead, when Sennacherib his son reigned for him, & esteemed the children of Israel odious in his sight: {19} Tobias daily went through all his kindred, and comforted them, and divided to every one, as he was able, of his goods: {20} the hungry he nourished, and to the naked he gave cloths, and the dead, and them that were slain, he buried carefully. {21} Finally when king Sennacherib was returned flying from Jewry the slaughter, that God had made about him for his blasphemy, & being angry slew many of the children of Israel, Tobias buried their bodies. {22} But when it was told the king, he commanded him to be slain, and took all his substance. {23} But Tobias flying with his son and with his wife, nakedly lay hid, because many loved him. {24} But after forty five days the king was slain of his own sons, {25} and Tobias returned into his house, and all his substance was restored to him.

Tobias to bury an Israelite that is slain in the street, leaveth his dinner and guests. 10. Is made blind by God's permission, for manifestation of his patience. 19. His wife getteth her living by work. 22. and for a scrupulous word, reproacheth his sincerity.

{1} BUT after these things, when there was a festival day of our Lord, and a good dinner was made in Tobias' house, {2} he said to his son: Go, and bring some of our tribe that fear God, to make merry with us. {3} And when he had gone, returning he told him, that one of the children of Israel lay slain in the street. And he forthwith leaping up from his place at the table, leaving his dinner, came fasting to the body: {4} and taking it up carried it to his house secretly, that when the sun should be down, he might warily bury him. {5} And when he had hid the body, he eat bread with mourning & trembling. {6} remembering that word which our Lord said by Amos the Prophet: Your festival days shall be turned into lamentation & mourning. {7} But when the sun was down, he went and buried him. {8} And all his neighbours rebuked him, saying: Even now thou wast commanded to be slain because of this matter, and thou didst scarce escape the commandment of death, and doest thou bury the dead again? {9} But Tobias more fearing God than the king, in haste took the bodies of them that were slain, and hid them in his house, & at midnight buried them. {10} And it happened that on a certain day, being wearied with burying, coming into his house he had cast himself down by the wall, and slept, {11} and as he was sleeping, hot dung out of the swallows nest fell upon his eyes, and he was made blind. {12} And this temptation therefore our Lord permitted to chance unto him, that an example might be given to posterity of his patience, as also of holy Job. {13} For whereas he feared God always from his infancy, and kept his commandments, he grudged not against God for that the plague of blindness had chanced to him, {14} but continued immovable in the fear of God, giving thanks to God all the days of his life. {15} For as the kings insulted against blessed Job, so his parents and cousins derided his life, saying: {16} Where is thy hope, for the which thou didst bestow alms & burials? {17} But Tobias rebuked them, saying: Speak not so: {18} because we are the children of holy ones, and look for that life, which God will give to them, that never change their faith from him. {19} But Anna his wife went daily to weaving work, and she brought the gains of her handy labour, which she could get. {20} Whereby it came to pass, that she receiving a kid of goats had brought it home: {21} the voice whereof bleating, when her husband had heard, he said: Take heed, lest perhaps it be stolen, restore ye it to his owners, because it is not lawful for us either to eat any thing of theft or to touch it. {22} To these words his wife being angry answered: Thy hope is become vain manifestly, and thine alms now have appeared. {23} And with these, and other such like words she upbraided him.

The prayer of Tobias, 7. and Sara, in their several afflictions, 24. are heard by God, and the Angel Raphael is sent to relieve them.

{1} THEN Tobias lamented, and began to pray with tears, and all thy judgments are just, & all thy {2} saying: Thou art just o Lord, ways mercy, & truth & judgment. {3} And now Lord be mindful of me, and take not revenge of my sins, neither remember the sins of me, or of my parents. {4} Because we have not obeyed thy commandments, therefore we are delivered in spoil, and captivity, and death, and into a fable, and into reproach to all nations, in which thou hast dispersed us. {5} And now Lord great are thy judgments, because we have not done according to thy precepts, & have not walked sincerely before thee: {6} and now Lord according to thy will, do with me, and command my spirit to be received in peace: for it is expedient for me to die, rather than to live. {7} The very same day therefore it chanced that Sara the daughter of Raguel in Rages a city of the Medes, she also heard reproach of one of her father's hand maids, {8} because she had been delivered to seven husbands, and the devil named Asmodeus had killed them forthwith as they were entered in unto her. {9} Therefore when she rebuked the wench for her fault, she answered her, saying: Let us no more see son of thee, or daughter upon the earth, thou murderer of thy husbands. {10} What, wilt thou kill me also, as thou hast now killed seven husbands? At this voice she went into an higher chamber of her house: and three days and three nights did not eat, nor drink: {11} but continuing in prayer with tears besought God, that he would deliver her from this reproach. {12} And it came to pass the third day, whiles she accomplished her prayer, blessing our Lord, {13} she said: Blessed is thy name o God of our fathers: who when thou hast been angry, wilt do mercy, and in the time of tribulation forgivest them their sins, that invocate thee. {14} To thee o Lord I turn my face, to thee I direct mine eyes. {15} I desire Lord that thou loose me from the bond of this reproach, or else take me away from the earth. {16} Thou knowest Lord that I never coveted a husband, & have kept my soul clean from all concupiscence. {17} Never have I companied my self with sporters: neither have I made my self partaker with them that walk in lightness. {18} But a husband I consented to take, with thy fear, not with my lust. {19} And either I was unworthy of them, or they perhaps were not worthy for me: because perhaps thou hast kept me for an other man. {20} For thy counsel is not in man's power. {21} But this hath every one for certain, that worshippeth thee, that his life, if it be in probation, shall be crowned: and if it be in tribulation, it shall be delivered: and if it be in correction, it shall be lawful to come to thy mercy. {22} For thou art not delighted in our perditions: because after a tempest thou makest a calm, and after tears and weeping thou pourest in joyfulness. {23} Be thy name God of Israel blessed for ever. {24} At that time the prayers of both were heard in the sight of the glory of the high God: {25} and the holy Angel of our Lord Raphael was sent to cure them both, whose prayers at one time were recited in the sight of our Lord.

Tobias thinking he shall die, giveth his son godly admonitions: 7. especially exhorteth him to give alms diligently, 13. to fly all fornication, pride, and fraud. 21. And telleth him of money lent to a friend.

{1} THEREFORE when Tobias thought his prayer to be heard that he might have died, he called to him Tobias his son, {2} and said to him: Hear my son the words of my mouth, and lay them as a foundation in thy heart. {3} When God shall take my soul, bury my body: & thou shalt do honour to thy mother all the days of her life: {4} for thou must be mindful what perils, and how great she suffered for thee in her womb. {5} And when she also shall have accomplished the time of her life, bury her beside me. {6} And all the days of thy life have God in thy mind: and beware thou consent not to sin at any time, and pretermit the precepts of our Lord God. {7} Of thy substance give alms, & turn not away thy face from any poor person: for so it shall come to pass that neither the face of our Lord shall be turned from thee. {8} As thou shalt be able, so be merciful. {9} If thou have much, give abundantly: if thou have little, study to impart also a little willingly. {10} For thou doest treasure up to thy self a good reward in the day of necessity. {11} Because alms delivereth from all sin, and from death, and will not suffer the soul to go into darkness. {12} Great confidence before

God most high shall alms be to all them that do it. {13} Take heed to thy self my son of all fornication, and beside thy wife never abide to know crime, {14} Never permit pride to rule in thy word: for in it all perdition took his beginning. {15} Whosoever hath wrought any thing for thee, pay him his hire immediately, and let not the hire of thy hired servant remain with thee at all. {16} That which thou hatest to be done to thee by an other, see thou do it not to an other at any time. {17} Eat thy bread with the hungry & needy, and of thy garments cover the naked. {18} Set thy bread, and thy wine upon the burial of a just man, and do not eat and drink thereof with sinners. {19} Seek counsel always of a wise man. {20} At all time bless God: and desire of him, that he direct thy ways, and that all thy counsels remain in him. {21} I tell thee also my son that I gave ten talents of silver, whiles thou wast yet a child, to Gabelus, in Rages a city of the Medes, & I have a bill of his hand with me: {22} and therefore enquire how thou mayst come to him, and receive of him the foresaid weight of silver, and restore him the bill of his hand. {23} Fear not my son: we lead indeed a poor life, but we shall have many good things if we fear God, and depart from all sin, and do well.

Young Tobias seeking a guide for his journey, Raphael the Angel in shape of a man presenteth himself, and undertaketh this office. 23. The mother lamenteth the absence and danger of her son.

{1} THEN Tobias answered his father, and said: I will do all things, father, whatsoever thou hast commanded me. {2} But how I shall require this money, I can not tell, he knoweth not me, and I know not him: what token shall I give him? Yea neither the way which leadeth thither did I ever know. {3} Then his father answered him, & said: I have the bill of his hand with me, which when thou shalt shew him he will forthwith restore it. {4} But go now, and seek thee out some faithful man, that may go with thee, being sure of his hire: that thou mayst receive it, whilst I yet live. {5} Then Tobias going forth, found a goodly young man, standing girded, and as it were ready to walk. {6} And not knowing that it was an Angel of God, he saluted him, and said: From whence have we thee, good young man? {7} But he answered: Of the children of Israel. And Tobias said to him: Knowest thou the way, that leadeth unto the country of the Medes? {8} To whom he answered: I know it: and all the ways thereof I have often walked, and I have tarried with Gabelus our brother, who abideth in Rages a city of the Medes, which is situate in the Mount Ecbatanis. {9} To whom Tobias said: Stay for me I beseech thee, till I tell these same things to my father. {10} Then Tobias going in told all these things to his father. Where upon his father marveling, requested that he would come in unto him. {11} Going in therefore he saluted him, and said: Joy be to thee always. {12} And Tobias said: What manner of joy shall be to me, which sit in darkness, and see not the light of heaven? {13} To whom the young man said: Be of good cheer, it is very near that thou mayst be cured of God. {14} Tobias therefore said to him: Canst thou bring my son to Gabelus into Rages a city of the Medes? And when thou shalt return, I will pay thee thy hire. {15} And the Angel said to him: I will conduct him, and bring him to thee again. {16} To whom Tobias answered: I pray thee tell me, of what house, or what tribe art thou? {17} To whom Raphael the Angel said: Seest thou the kindred of an hired servant, or an hired servant himself, that may go with thy son? {18} But lest perhaps I make thee careful, I am Azarias the son of Ananias the great. {19} And Tobias answered: Thou art of a great kindred. But I pray thee be not angry that I would know thy kindred. {20} And the Angel said to him: I will lead thy son safe, and bring him to thee again safe. {21} And Tobias answering, said: Well may you walk, & God be in your journey, and his Angel accompany you. {22} Then all things being ready that were to be carried in the way, Tobias bid his father and his mother fare well, & they walked both together. {23} And when they were departed,
